IT IS HEREBY AGREED AND STIPULATED by the parties in the above cause, through their attorneys of record, that the testimony of Johnathan McCutcheon, produced, sworn, and examined via Zoom, commencing on October 21, 2022, at 1:00 p.m., before Cris M. Brasuell, CCR, pursuant to the terms and provisions of the Arkansas Rules for use as permitted by the Rules; that the questions and answers so given and propounded shall be transcribed by the reporter.

WHEREUPON, there being no further stipulations, the following proceedings were had and done, to wit:

PROCEEDINGS

THEREUPON, Johnathan McCutcheon was duly sworn to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth and gave the following testimony to wit.

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. GILLISPIE:

Q Hi, Mr. McCutcheon. Your name is -- thank you for being here, by the way.

Your name is Johnathan McCutcheon; right?

A Yes.

Q Okay. And have you ever been deposed before?

A No.

Q No? Okay.

I'm going to ask you a few questions, not that many. Just because the court reporter has to keep a record of it, if you can actually say the words yes or no as opposed to nodding or shaking your head like we commonly do in everyday conversation.

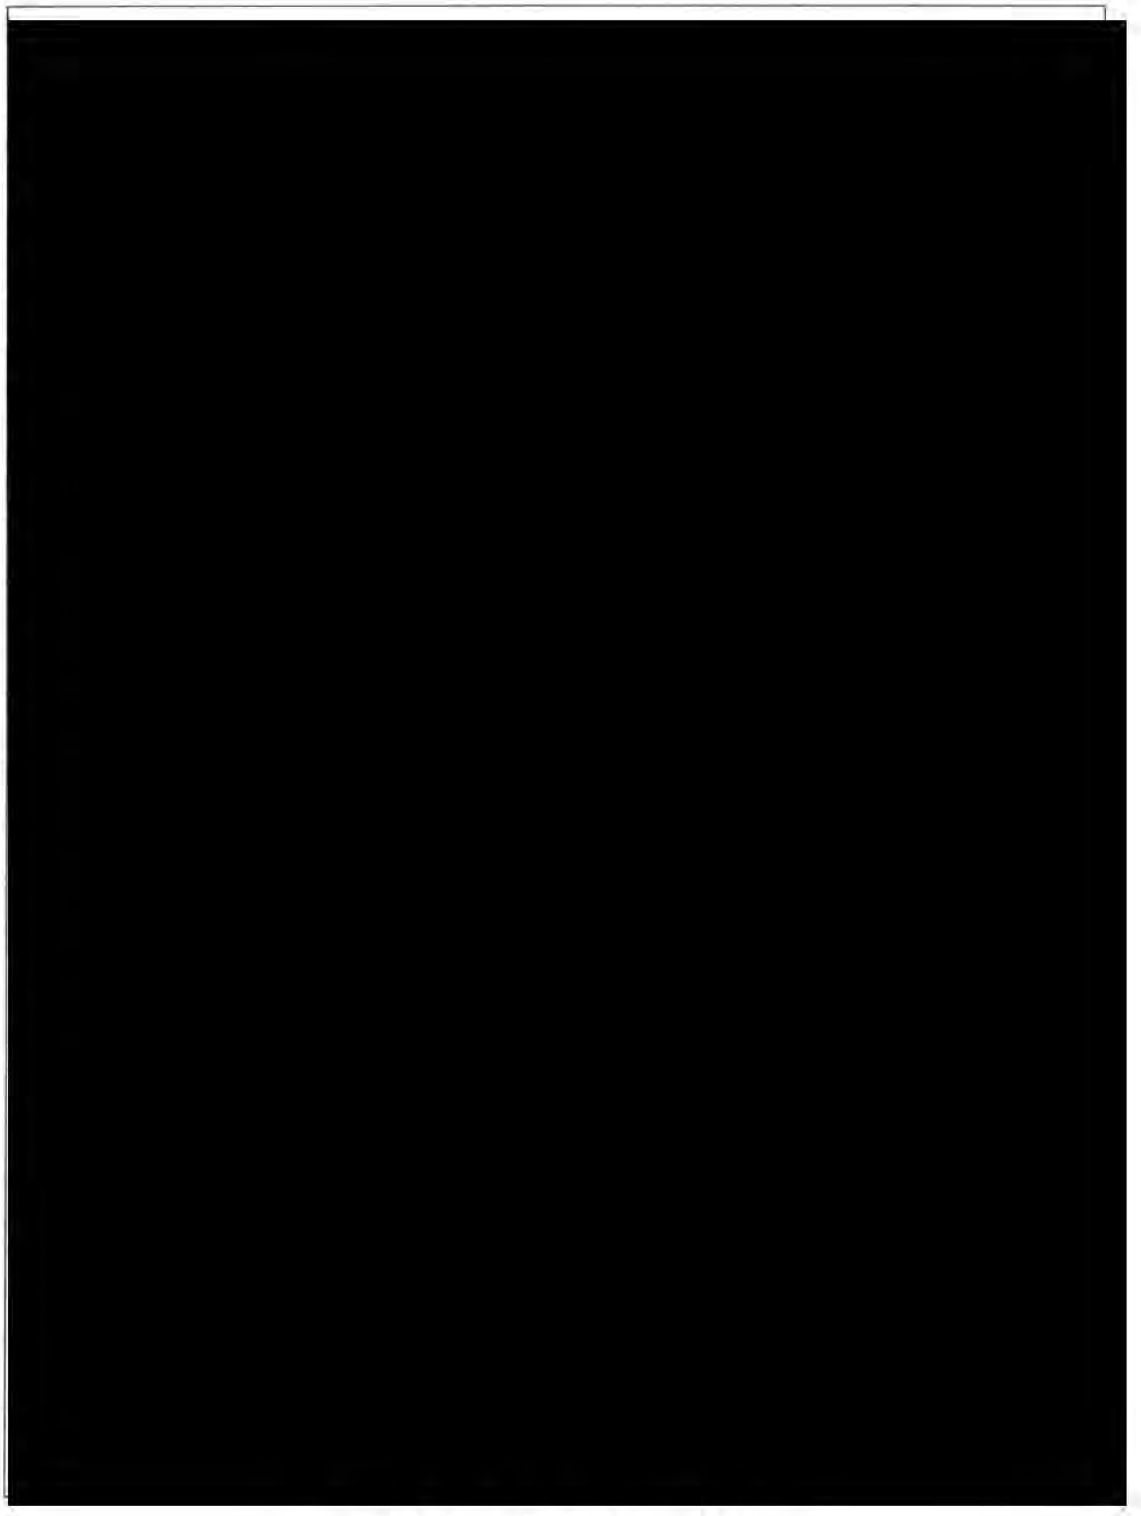
It's hard for me to remember most of the time, but it's kind of the only rule I really have.

If you don't understand a question that I'm asking, ask me to speak up or rephrase it. I'll be happy to.

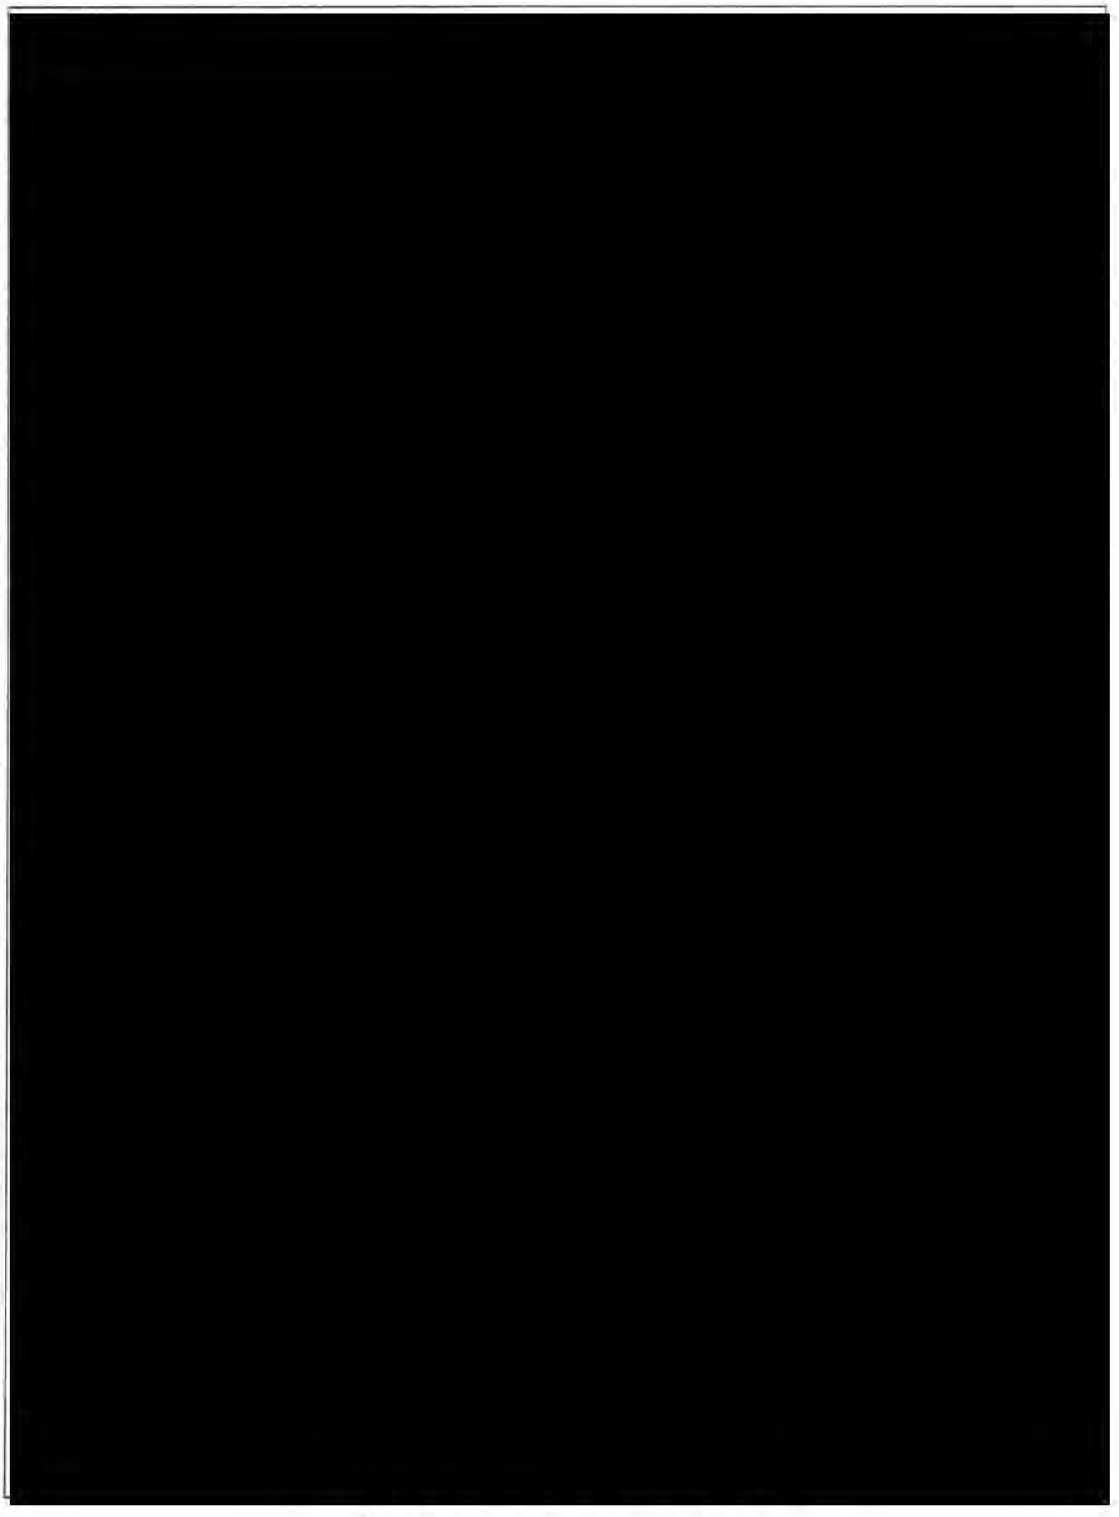
So, without further ado, I'll just jump right into it with you.

Mr. McCutcheon, am I correct that you used to work as a direct care staff member at the Booneville Human Development Center?

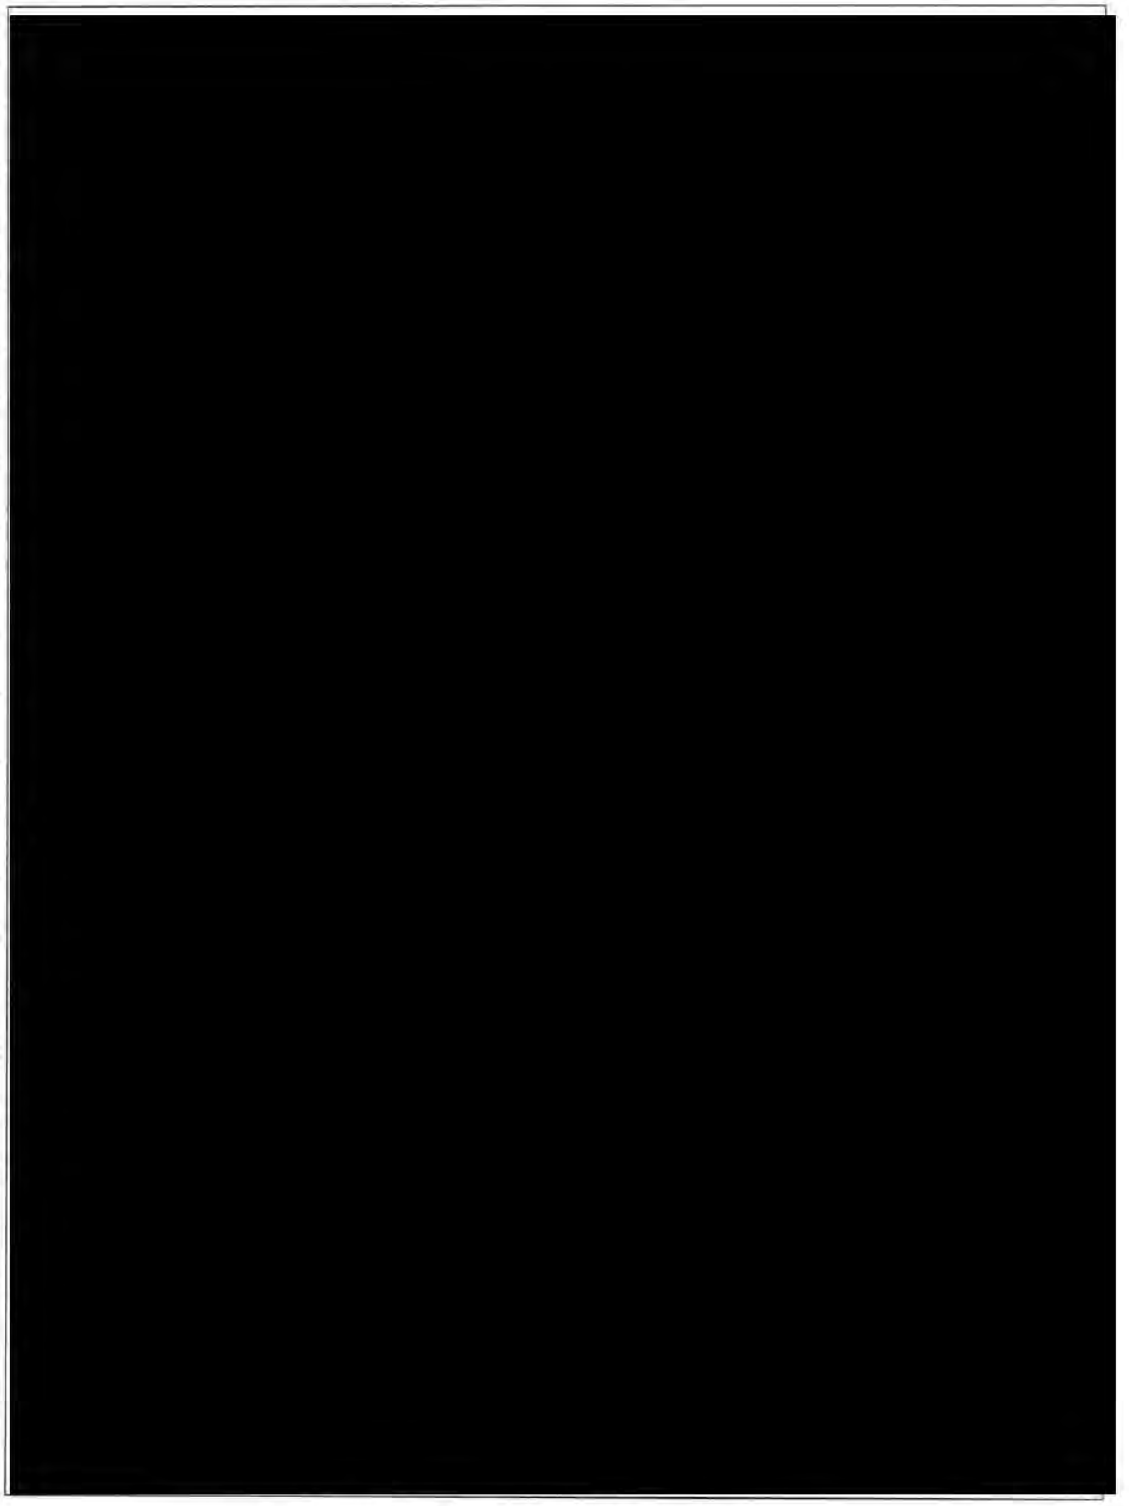
A Yes.



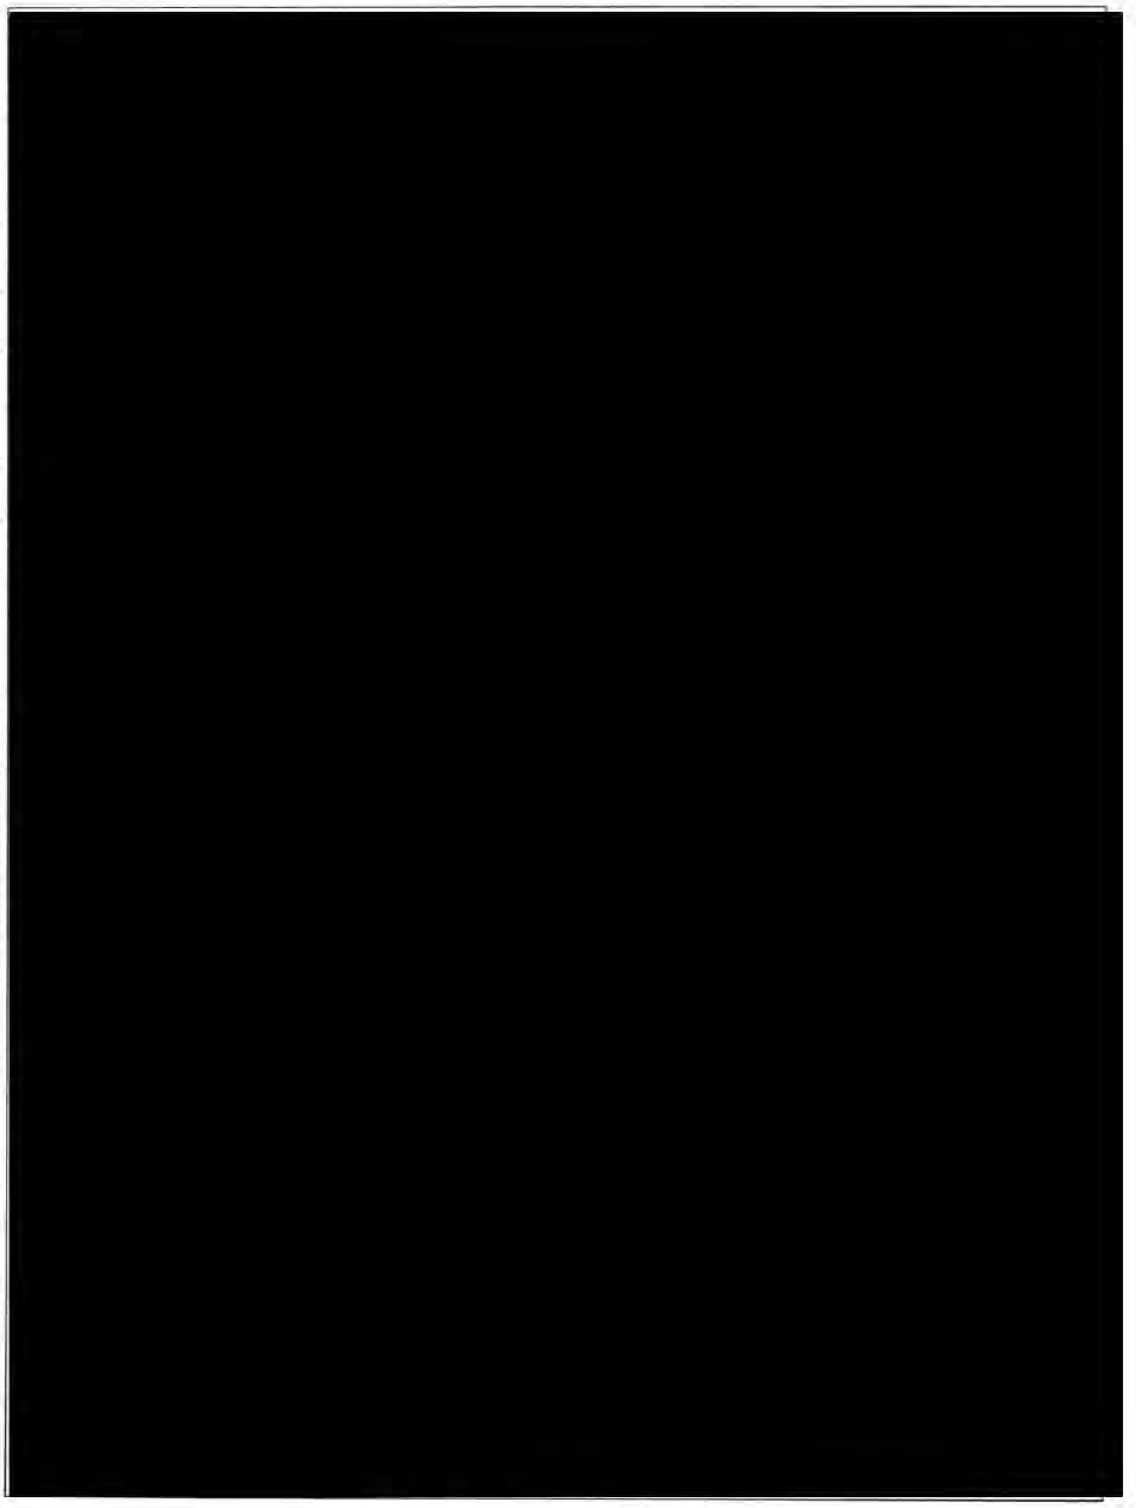
Q Okay. And approximately what years did you work there? What time period did you work there?



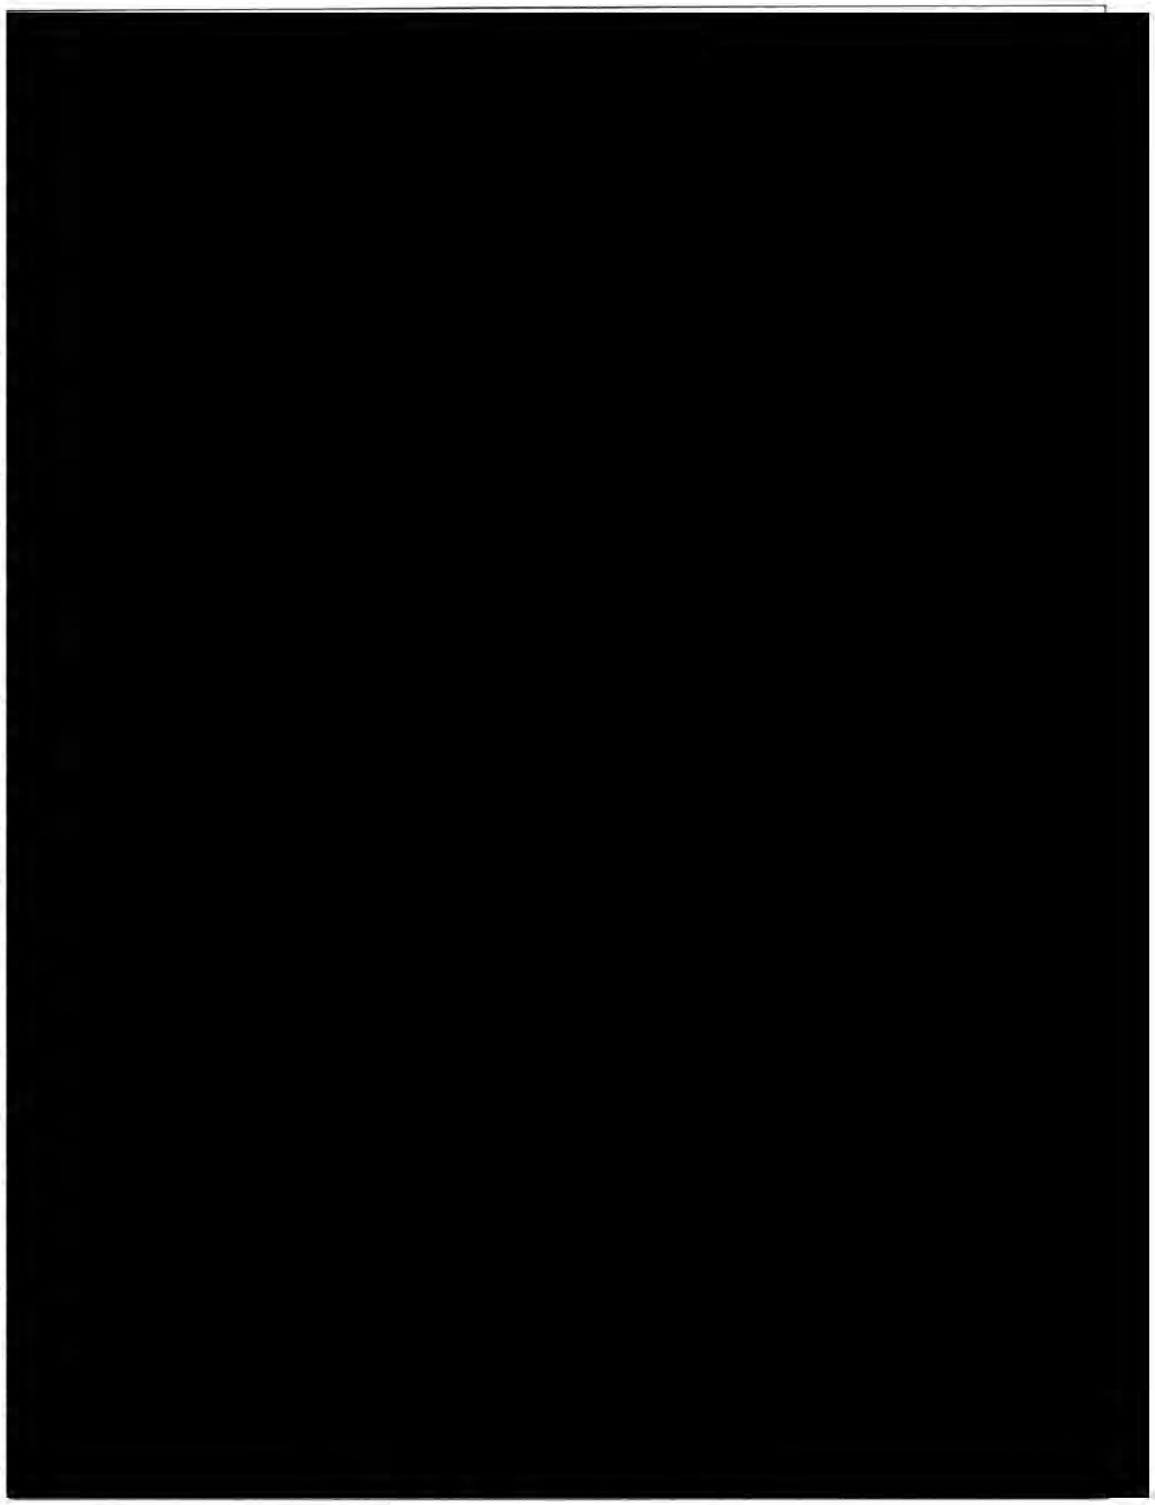
A I'm not for sure exactly the years, but I was there for over eight years, I'm wanting to say.



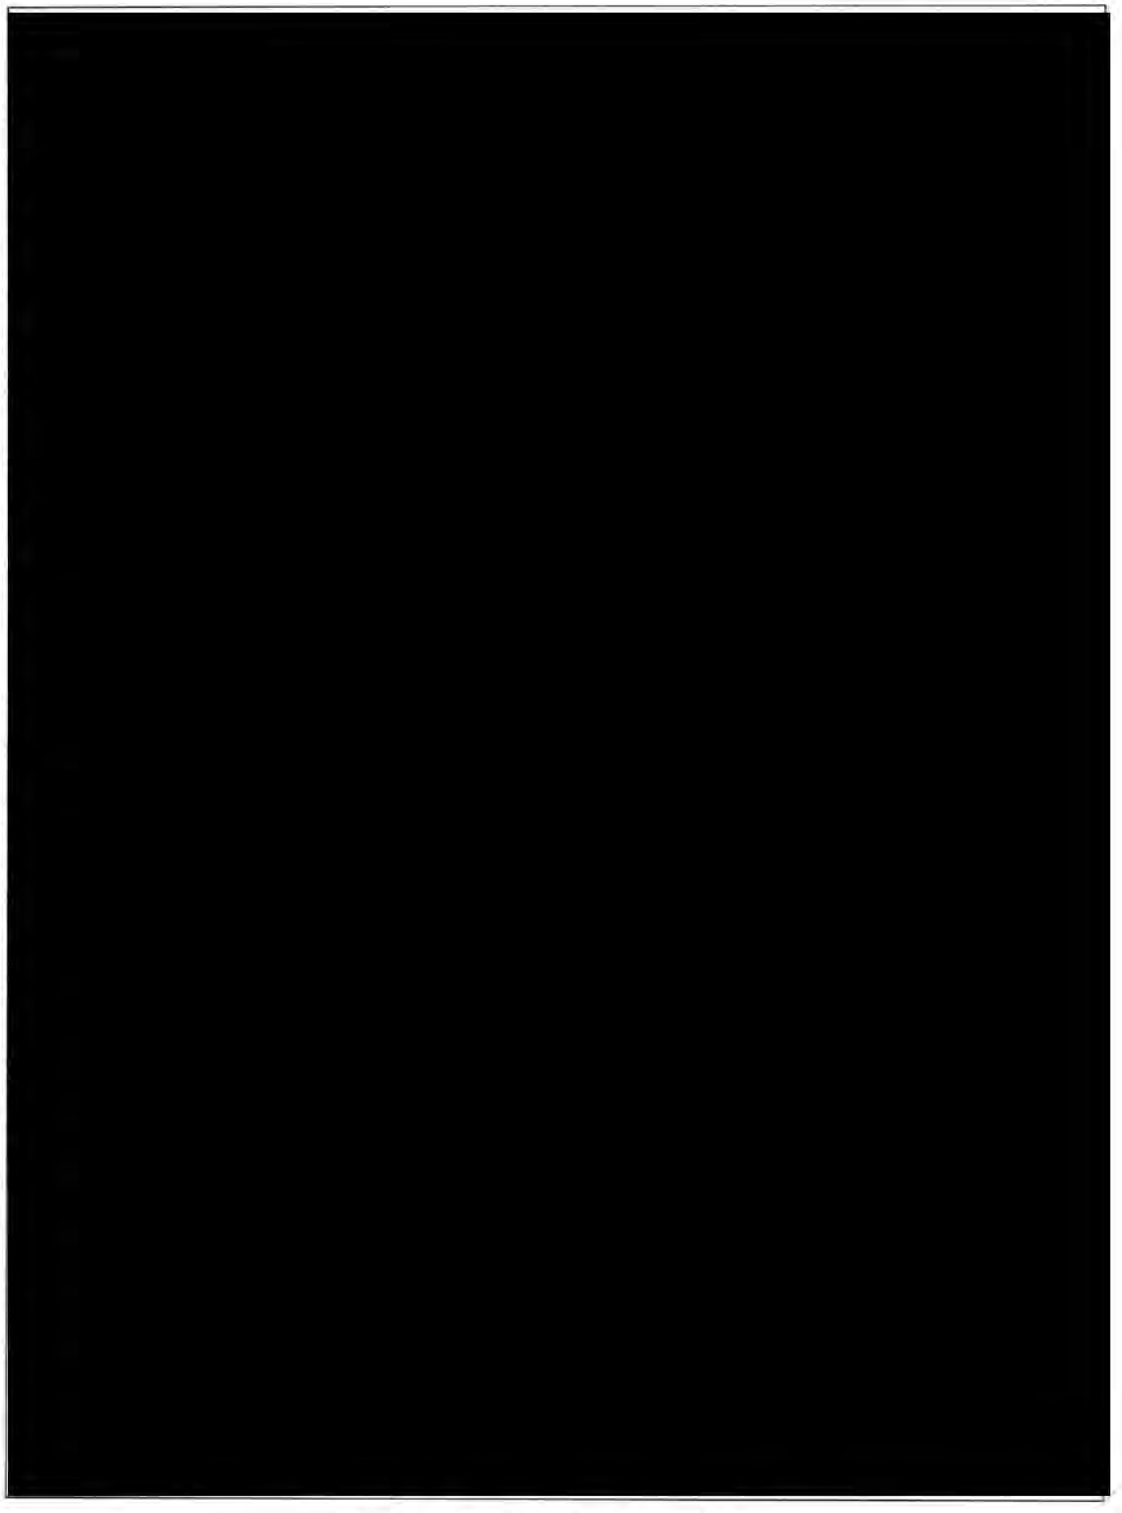
Q Okay. And, during your time there, did you encounter another direct care staff worker named Tyler Mattson?



A Yes.



[redacted]



[redacted]

Q Okay.

And when did you leave? When did you stop working at Booneville? When abouts?

A I'm wanting to say it was last year sometime.

Q Okay.

A (Inaudible) year, I'm wanting to say. But I'm not a hundred percent sure.

Q Okay.

[redacted]

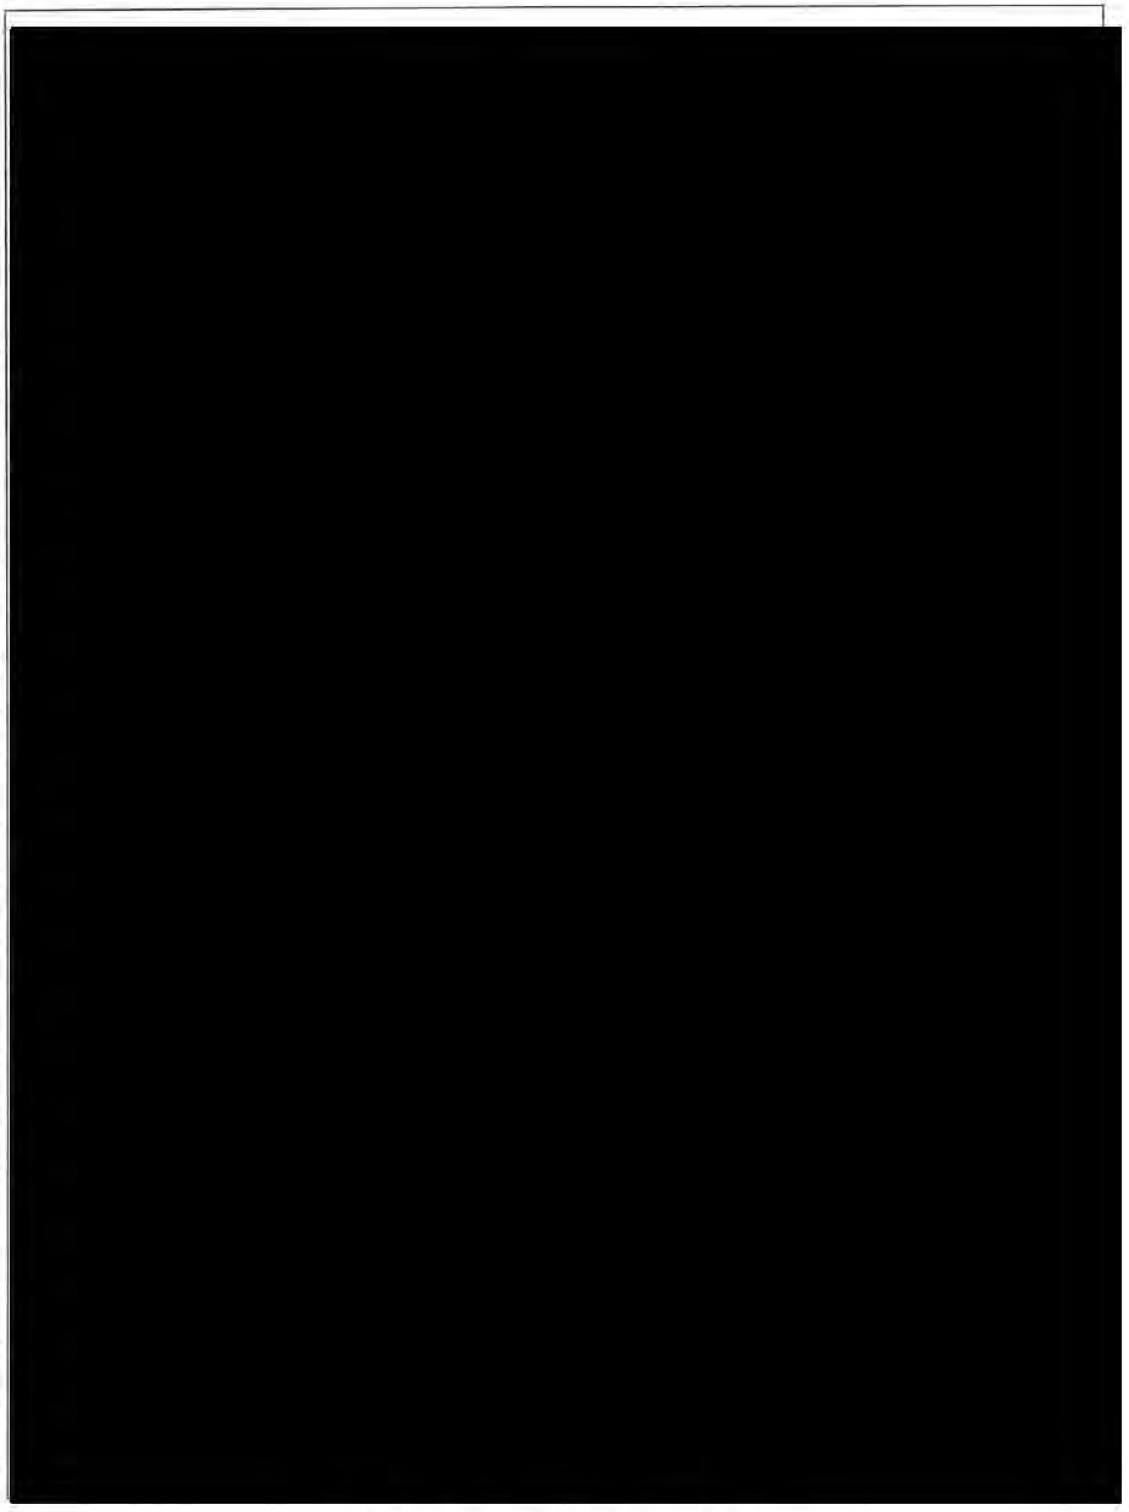
[redacted]

Q Okay.

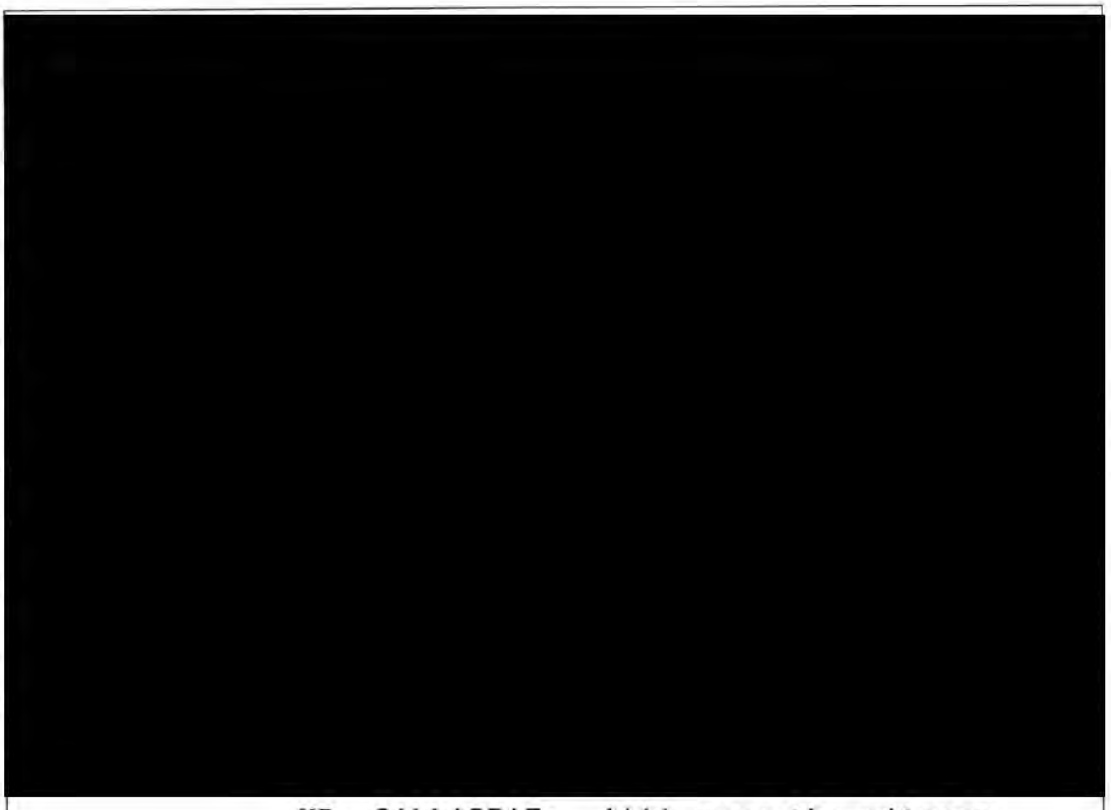
And why did you leave? Why did you stop working at the Booneville facility?

A The higher ups. I didn't really -- it -- they don't know how to run a facility.

Q Okay.



A In my opinion anyways.



Q Okay. Did you quit? Were you -- there's no wrong answer here.

But did you quit? Were you terminated?

A I quit.

[redacted]

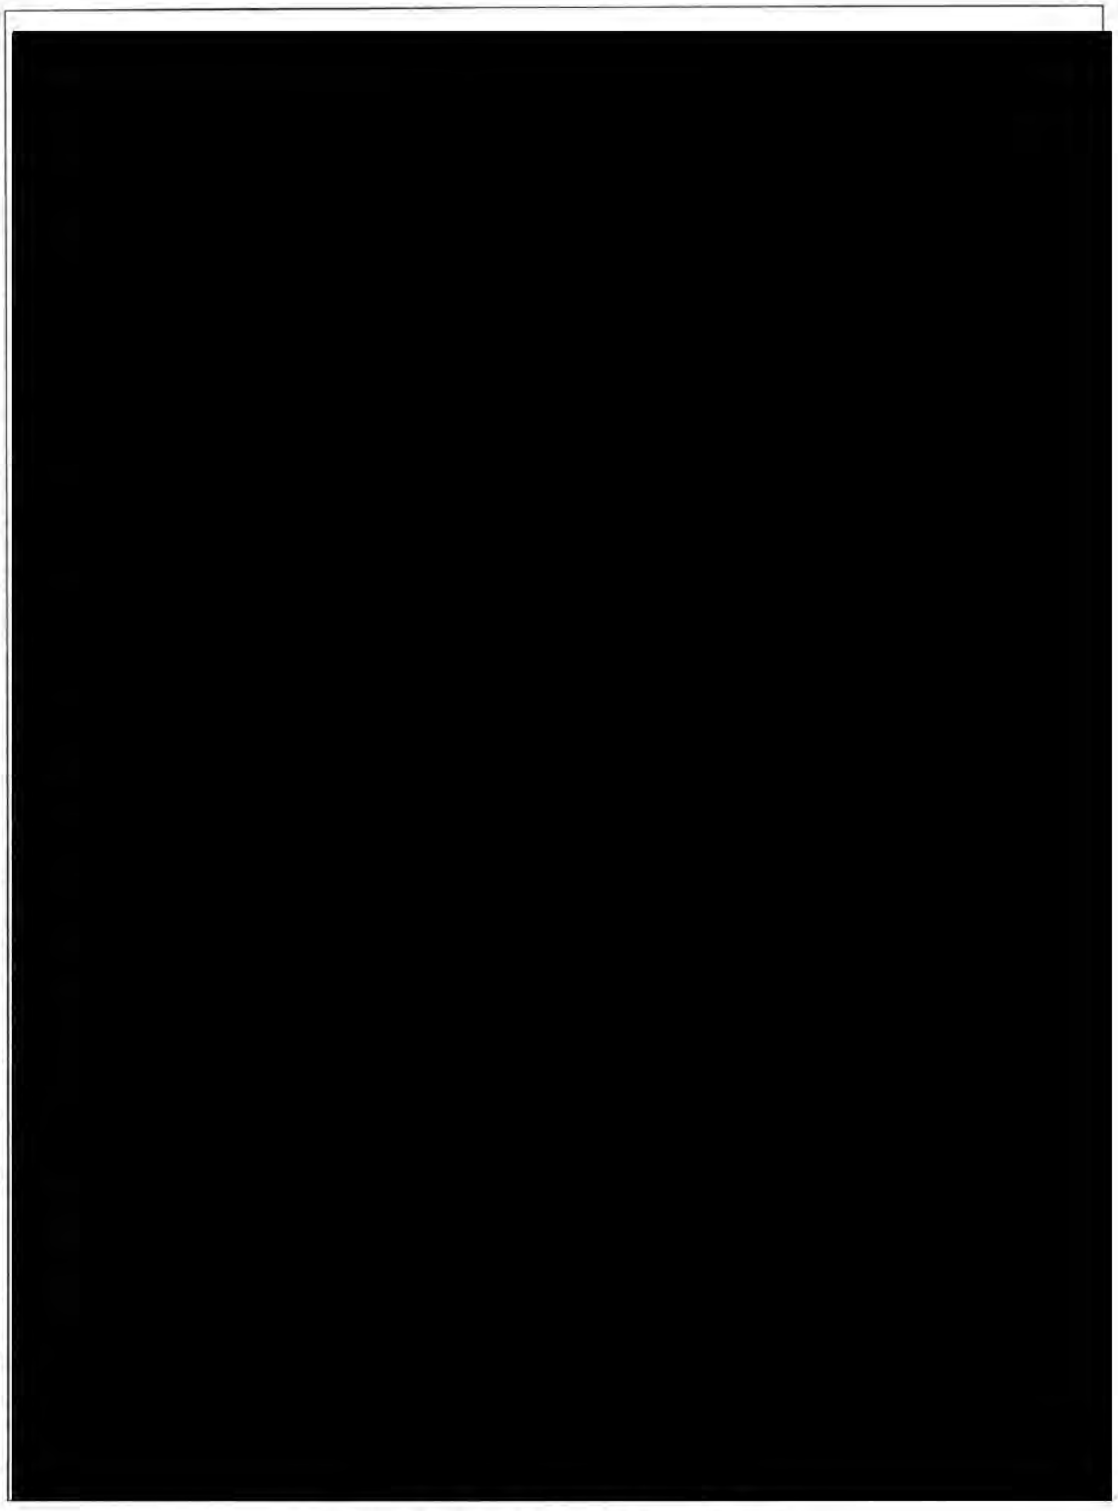
MR. GILLISPIE: I'll pass the witness.
Thank you, Johnathan.

CROSS EXAMINATION

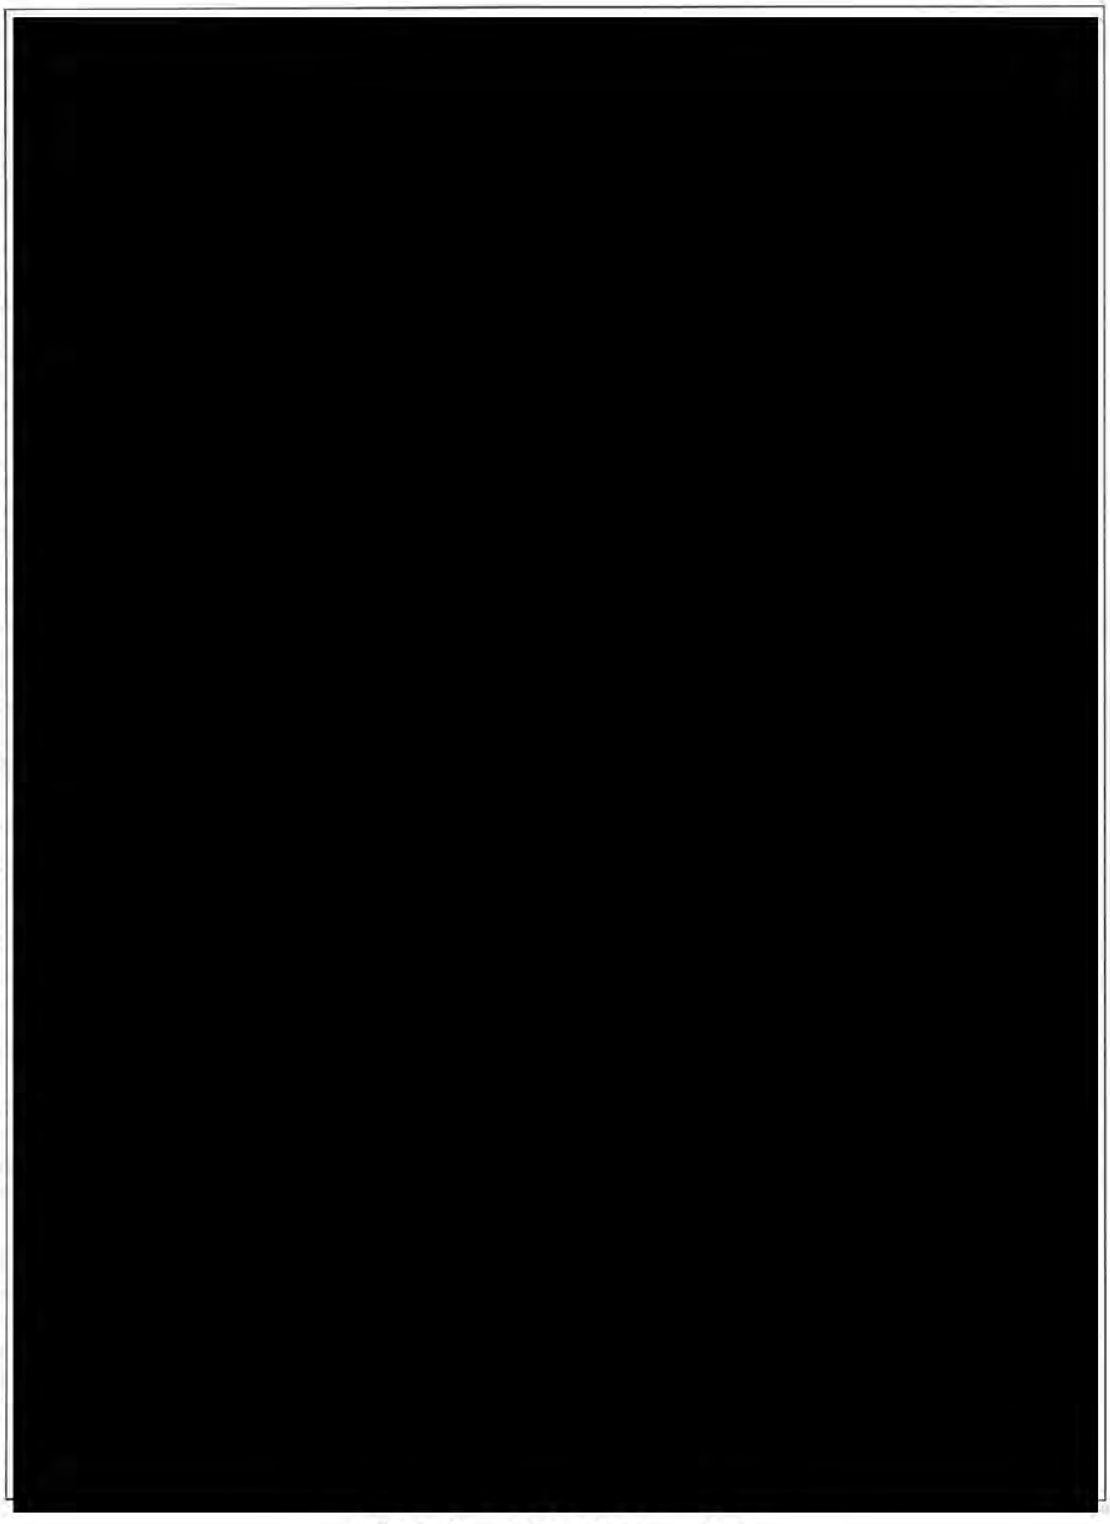
BY MR. ROSEN:

Q Thank you, Mr. McCutcheon.
I'm Rich Rosen. I represent the Department of Human Services. I'm just going to ask you a few questions, some background things, because -- about you.
Are you married?

A No.



Q What is your -- did you graduate high school?



A Yes.

Q Do you have any college?
A No.
Q Are you employed currently?
A Yes.
Q And where are you employed?
A I work at the Tire and Lube at Walmart.
Q Okay. And did you go there, to Walmart, right after you left this job at the Booneville HDC?
A No.
Q Okay. Was there -- did you have employment in between that or was there a period of time you were unemployed?
A I wouldn't really say I was unemployed. I was working with a friend. He owns his own business.
Q Okay. And then you went from -- so is it my understanding, from your testimony, that you quit at the Booneville HDC?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And do you remember exact -- when did you quit? Approximately.
A I'm wanting to say around the middle of the year last year.
Q So mid 20, 2021?
A Yeah.
Q Okay.

A I'm not a hundred percent sure, but I'm wanting to say that's about when.

[redacted]

[redacted]

Q Okay.

MR. GILLISPIE: Form.

BY MR. ROSEN:

Q While you were at the Booneville HDC, did you ever see a resident have a aggressive behavior?

A Yes.

Q In fact, residents with this type of population often would either act out or be aggressive or noncompliant or violent at times; is that right?

A Correct.

Q Okay.

[redacted]

[redacted]

MR. ROSEN: I have no other questions. Thank you.

MR. GILLISPIE: One follow-up, Johnathan.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. GILLISPIE:

[redacted]

[redacted]

Q Thank you, Mr. McCutcheon.

That's all I have.

MR. ROSEN: I have no other questions.

Thank you.

THE WITNESS: Can I ask a question?

MR. ROSEN: No.

MR. GILLISPIE: We can off the record.

MR. ROSEN: We're not -- so we're done, counsel.

MR. GILLISPIE: Hold on.

Hold on just a second, Cris. Let's go off the record for just a second.

(WHEREUPON, the record was suspended momentarily and the proceedings resumed as follows, to wit.)

MR. ROSEN: I object; but at least it has to be on the record.

Go ahead, Mr. McCutcheon, if you want to ask a question.

THE WITNESS: I'm just wondering what [redacted] has to do with any of this.

MR. ROSEN: I don't know what you have to do with this, so this was --

MR. GILLISPIE: I have a follow-up to that, Rich, if you --

MR. ROSEN: This was (inaudible) -- this was not -- I'm here responding and it's Mr. Gillispie -- I didn't call you as a witness.

MR. GILLISPIE: Okay.

I have nothing further, Mr. McCutcheon. Thank you for your time today, sir.

MR. ROSEN: Thank you.

(WHEREUPON, the proceedings were concluded in the matter at 1:24 p.m.)

DC arrived From School via mobile crisis and screaming, TA Rick Libby told me he for no reason stabbed him, I went outside to get him after mobile called saying they needed help, I went outside and asked him to come in to take a shower prior, DC complied, but when we got inside he began screaming and tried to pull the fire alarm, I removed him from that area, when he got into the shower he began screaming more and attempted to smack me. I put him in personals for 1 minute, he seemed to calm down and went to his room. John Mallon DCT TM 5-2 side.

The nurse Kelly King called for DC for meds, DC went down there, soon after he began screaming at the nurse, threatening to throw a thermometer at her. I ran down there as I was in the old shelter because I was the only on the floor. When I got down to her I immediately put him in personals for about 3 minutes, I asked to go to his room to relax, he was calm the rest of the day. TM Eight Math Dec 5/19/20

This is also pursuant to a Subpoena and a Notice of Deposition.

THEREUPON,

KRIS STEWART,

THE WITNESS HEREINBEFORE NAMED, having been first duly cautioned and sworn by me to testify to the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, testified on her oath as follows, to-wit:

EXAMINATION

MR. ROSEN:

Q Ms. Stewart, hi.

A Hi.

Q My name is Rich Rosen, and I'll be asking some questions today, and if you answer the question, I'm going to assume you understood the question. If you just need me to rephrase it, which happens often, I'll be happy to do so. If you need to take a break, as long as there's not a question pending, just let me know and we can take a break. If you have a question and need to talk to your attorney, as long as there's not a question pending, okay?

A Okay.

MR. ROSEN: I'm going to introduce as DHS Exhibit 1 the Notice of Deposition.

Counsel, do you want a copy?

MR. LOWTHER: I'm fine without it.

(WHEREUPON, Respondent's Exhibit 1 was marked for identification and is attached hereto.)

Q (By Mr. Rosen) Please state your name for the record.

A Kristina Stewart.

Q And, Ms. Stewart, are you employed?

A Yes.

Q And where are you employed?

A Disability Rights Arkansas.

Q Is that also known as DRA?

A Yes.

Q And if I refer to it as DRA, you'll know who I'm talking about?

A Yes.

Q What do you do over at DRA?
A I am an advocate.
Q What does that mean?
A I monitor facilities for abuse and neglect.
Q And what is monitor? What do you mean by monitor?
A We physically go out and monitor facilities, speak to clients and staff that work there.
Q How long have you been doing this for DRA?
A For DRA, six years.
Q So, I guess you went there in about 2016 or so?
A Yes.
Q What did you do before you were at DRA?
A I was a case manager at ICF, in our group home.
Q At where?
A It's the Intermediate Care Facilities for people that are developmentally disabled.
Q No, I understood that.
A Yeah.
Q But then you said something at the end I didn't catch. Where was that?
A I was in New Mexico at that time.
Q I see. And how long were you there?
A Six years.
Q And, so, you moved, apparently, to Arkansas somewhere in 2016?

A Yeah.
Q And what's your educational background?
A I have a bachelor's degree in Social Work.
Q From where?
A Southern Illinois University Edwardsville.
Q And what year was that?
A 1995.
Q So, you're an advocate for DRA.
A Yes.
Q So, I know what the word -- what does the word "advocate" mean to you?
A To advocate for someone when your rights are violated.
Q And, so, is there some type of certification or licensure for advocates?
A No.
Q So, anybody could be an advocate.
A I mean, I don't know if that's true.
Q Well, I mean -- so, there's no state board. There's no test or training that you need to be employed as an advocate, is there?
A I can't speak to, you know, any place outside of DRA.
Q Well, let's talk about DRA, then.
A We -- we get training. Yeah. No, there's no board certification or anything, that I'm aware of.

Q So, DRA trains you?
A Sure. Yes.
Q Did they train you before you started working there or train you after you started working?
A There is training that you do the first week that you're there.
Q What's that?
A They have general on-boarding training, and then we had our case management manual that we go through.
Q So, the on-board training, what's included in that is what I'm asking.
A Well, it's been --
Q What subject areas?
A I can't remember exactly everything that they covered, so I don't know if I can answer that, you know, correctly.
Q Well, I mean, I don't want you to answer incorrectly. But, I mean, do you recall any of it? And if you don't know the answer to a question, it's okay to say I don't know.
A I mean, I don't know. I would be -- I would be guessing at this juncture.
Q Do you hold any licenses issued by any state boards?

A No.
Q Do you hold any certifications issued by any agency, company, or state?
A No.
Q Or the federal government?
A No.
Q So, you're not certified by any Arkansas board, commission, or agency of any type?
A No.
Q And, so, not being certified, other than your employer, you're not subject to any regulations in your duties at the DRA, as an advocate.
A I don't understand that question.
Q I'm just trying to see if there's any -- you're only reportable to your superior employer at DRA as opposed to some type of professional organization dealing with advocates.
A Correct.
Q So, there is no regulatory entity over "an advocate," right?
A Correct, that I'm aware of.
Q That you're licensed or certified by.
A Right. Correct.
Q Tell me, have you ever met Christine Cains McAuliffe?

A Met?
Q Yes, in person.
A No.
Q Have you ever spoken to her on the telephone?
A Yes.
Q Have you ever had communications with her through electronic or written communications of any sort?
A Yes.
Q Tell me, when did they -- tell me about those communications. When was the first one?
A I don't know the exact date.
Q Approximately.
A I believe that the intake call came in for him July of 2020, so it would have been shortly thereafter the intake.
Q So, she called you.
A She didn't call me.
Q Who did she call?
A We have an intake department that takes -- Q So, eventually --
A -- our calls.
Q -- it got filtered to you, I take it.
A Yes.
Q And that's when you spoke -- did you then speak to Ms. McAuliffe?

A Yes.
Q And did you have communications with her after that?
A Yeah, I spoke to her more than once. Yeah.
Q And did you speak at all with Charlene Robinson?
A No.
Q Did you have any communications with Charlene Robinson?
A Through Ms. McAuliffe. Through her.
Q What do you mean, "through her"?
A Well, the mom, she was, I think, acting for the family.
Q Well, I'm actually asking, maybe -- I'm asking whether you had any written or verbal communications directly with Charlene Robinson.
A No.
Q Did you have any written or verbal -- do you know Mr. Gillispie? Let me ask you that.
A I have not met him before today.
Q Have you ever spoken or communicated with Mr. Gillispie before today?
A I haven't.
Q Has anybody at DRA, to your knowledge, spoken or communicated with Mr. Gillispie before today?
A I don't know.

Q Has anybody told you that they have?
A No.
Q Is there any -- have you reviewed any written or electronic communications between DRA representatives and Mr. Gillispie?
A I don't think so.
Q What do you mean? You don't recall or you don't --
A I mean, I get a lot of e-mails, so I'm not -- I can't say that -- you know, his name didn't ring any bells for me.
Q Well, let's talk about in context of the David Cains case. Have you had -- does that ring a bell as to whether you communicated with Mr. Gillispie or not?
A I have never communicated with him.
Q Well, what about anything at DRA?
A Anything at DRA?
Q Have anything at DRA indicated to you that there were such communications?
A I mean, because this has come about, yeah.
Q Well, that's what I'm asking you about.
A Okay. Well --
Q So, what communications are you aware of between anybody at DRA and Mr. Gillispie?
A DRA and Mr. Gillispie? When I got the subpoena, our legal director explained to me what this was about, and that Mr. Gillispie was representing the family.

Q So, I'm asking about communications, though. So, do you know whether your legal director had communications with Mr. Gillispie?
A I assume.
Q So, if there were, do you know anything about them?
A No.
Q Have you seen anything that would indicate what they were about?
A No, other than the subpoena.
Q Well, the subpoena was from my office.
A Right. But that's what brought up Mr. Gillispie.
Q Now, did you author a letter to the DDS director dated October 22, 2020, with regard to David Cains?
A Yes.
Q Do you believe that you thoroughly investigated the circumstances of David Cains' death?
A Yes.
Q Well, let me ask you the first question. Did you investigate it?
A Yes.
Q And do you believe it was a thorough investigation?
A Yes.
Q Who from DRA worked on this investigation?
A Reagan Stanford.

Q That's an attorney, right?
A Right.
Q She's an attorney.
A Uh-huh.
Q Is that a yes?
A Yes, sorry. Sorry.
Q And, so, it was just the two of you.
A Yeah. We did the investigation.
Q So, who drafted the October 22, 2020 letter?
A Well, we both did, but she actually is the one that typed it.
Q Well, when you mean "typed it", you mean drafted it?
A That's -- when you say "draft", that's what that means to me.
Q So she wrote it.
A We wrote it together, but she typed it.
Q So, whether it was typed or not, I'm asking you, kind of, who drafted the substance of the letter?
A You don't believe two people can work on a letter together and --
Q Well, no, that's what I'm asking about.
A Yeah, we both did.
Q So, it's a combined effort is what --
A Yes.

Q -- you're saying?
A It's a combined effort.
Q Do you recall which parts you contributed?
A Not specifically.
Q Did anybody else assist in the drafting of that letter?
A No.
Q Did you speak to others at DRA about the letter before it went out?
A Our legal director looked at it before it went out.
Q And what's his or her name?
A Thomas Nichols.
Q And did Mr. Nichols make any changes to the letter?
A Not that I'm aware of.
Q And, so, why was it sent to the legal director of DRA before it went out?
A That's just what we do for something that -- you know, kind of a death investigation. I -- I wouldn't send something out without having his approval.
Q So, he approved it.
A He approved it and it was sent out. Yeah.
Q And did anybody -- I might have asked this a second ago. But did anybody -- or who edited the letter?
A Reagan and I edited the letter several times while we were creating the letter.

Q And did Tom Masseau review the letter?
A Not that I know of.
Q Is it the regular routine for -- and who was Tom Masseau?
A He's the executive director.
Q And is it the practice of DRA that the executive director review position papers or letters that go out?
A I don't think so.
Q You're not aware that he did.
A No. Yeah.
Q Yeah. Did Mr. Masseau play any role, to your knowledge, in this letter?
A No.
Q Did Mr. Masseau play any role in your investigation?
A No.
Q Are you aware of the DRA position with regard to the closure of the Booneville Human Development Center?
A Our position?
Q Yeah. What's your position with regard to whether it should be closed or not?
A My personal?
Q No, your -- well, yeah, your opinion.
A I -- I don't think it should be closed. I don't think any of them need to be closed.

Q Do you know whether DRA had a position with regard to the closure of the Booneville Human Development Center?
A I don't know.
Q Now, when you started your -- who did the actual investigation? Who went to the facility, you or Ms. Stanford?
A We didn't go to the facility. That was at the height of COVID, so we weren't -- I'm pretty sure we weren't even allowed in the facilities at that time.
Q So, you didn't go -- when you issued the letter, were you aware that the Booneville Human Development Center had already investigated the circumstances of David Cains' death before DRA did?
A Yes, from what the family had told us.
Q Were you aware that the state regulatory agency over at ICF/IIDs had also investigated David Cains' death before DRA got involved?
A It was unclear to us if they had or had not. That was, you know --
Q Who is the regulator for ICF/IIDs?
A Office of Long Term Care handles complaints about restraints and things like that.
Q Well, they handle all complaints, because they are the regulatory agency for ICF/IIDs, right?

A Yeah, but DPSQA -- I can't -- I can't -- I remember somehow DPSQA plays a role.
Q Do you know whether OLTC is within the office of DPSQA?
A I'm trying --
Q And that's D --
A Yeah, I can't remember what it stands for. They're separate from my -- Q It's D-P-S-Q-A.
what is your understanding?
A That they're two separate entities. Sometimes one doesn't know what the other is doing, so --
Q So, are you saying they're independent of each other?
A They're a state facility, but I believe they are independent of each other.
Q I'm not sure what you mean by facility -- state facility.
A I mean, they're -- they're all -- it's a state agency, but they're not -- I believe they're two separate entities.
Q Autonomous.
A Yes.
Q So, are you aware that OLTC surveyors are certified and federally trained?

A Yes.
Q And they're federally trained in investigations, right?
A I don't know.
Q So, what are they federally certified and trained in?
A I know that there's a CMS manual that they have to be trained in, in order to monitor the facilities.
Q And they do inspections or, what we call, surveys, right?
A Correct.
Q And OLTC sends these federally trained and certified investigators/surveyors out to determine whether a facility is compliant with the federal and state regulations governing it, correct?
A Correct.
Q And did you call or speak to anybody from the Office of Long Term Care, the state regulators, to determine whether they had already conducted an investigation by their certified and trained investigators?
A Yes, I did.
Q Who did you speak to?
A Cecilia Vinson.
Q And what did she tell you?

A She was not sure if they had completed a death investigation.
Q And did you follow-up on that and determine whether they had or not?
A She was supposed to get back to us and she did, eventually.
Q And what did she say?
A That she -- they had completed one, and we found it to be lacking.
Q Who found it to be lacking?
A We did. DRA. Myself.
Q I got you. So, what was the outcome of the state regulators' survey of the facility into whether there was a failed facility practice regarding David Cains?
A What was the outcome of their --
Q Yes.
A What we received was, I believe, two papers that had some boxes marked. There was no detail as to what they did or did not do, if they even went out and --
Q Well, what was the outcome --
A -- spoke to --
Q I'm sorry.
A The outcome, I'm sure, had no facility -- facility failure.
Q Did you see the paper?

A Yeah. I have --
Q So --
A I have a copy.
Q So, I think they used the word unsubstantiated or unfounded. I can't remember. It's something like that?
A Right.
Q And what does that mean?
A It means they found that there was no fault in their investigation.
Q And did you speak to any of these surveyors -- these long-term care state regulators?
A I spoke to Cecilia. I didn't --
Q What's --
A I did not speak to the person that did the investigation.
Q Cecilia Vinson didn't do the investigation --
A No.
Q -- right?
A No.
Q That's a correct statement, right?
A Correct.

MR. LOWTHER: Let him finish his question before you start your answer. He'll extend the same courtesy to you.

THE WITNESS: Sorry.

Q (By Mr. Rosen) So, the actual surveyor you never spoke to.
A Correct.
Q So you don't know the basis for his or her findings, do you?
A Based on, we received the entire investigation that that person did, and reviewed it.
Q And you're saying that was two pages?
A No. The notes -- we had to go to -- the two pages of the -- that was unfounded was two pages of boxes, but there were surveyor notes that we asked for and we were able to get those.
Q I assume that's what you mean by what they based their decision on.
A Correct.
Q Now, what does an investigation mean to you? Can you define that for me, how you interpret that term?
A Well, I'm going to investigate the matter at hand, which would be, you know, in this specific -- it's different for every kind of investigation that we do.
Q Well, what does the word investigate mean to you is what I'm asking.
A That's such a -- I don't know. Inquire. I don't know.
Q Now, in your letter of October 22, 2020, you identified what was reviewed as part of your "investigation", right?

A Right.
Q And from what I can tell, it was adult maltreatment reports; is that correct? Well, tell me what you reviewed.
A Well, like is in the letter, the adult maltreatment report, all the witness statements that DHS collected, the DPSQA complaint investigation, EMS, hospital, coroner's report.
Q And did DRA or did you interview anyone?
A Yes.
Q Who did you interview?
A I would -- I -- I was in all of the interviews of, like, the coroner. We interviewed the staff from the facility. Also, the EMS people that worked on him that day.
Q And who at Booneville Human Development Center did you talk to?
A We talked to Jeff Gonyea, Sandy Evans, the people involved in the restraint, the staff there.
Q Did you speak to the maltreatment investigator?
A Yes.
Q The Booneville one.
A Sandy Evans is what we -- who we spoke to.

Q And all that's identified in that letter, right?
A Correct.
Q And that is what consisted of a DRA investigation; is that correct?
MR. GILLISPIE: Object to the form.
MR. LOWTHER: You can answer.
A It's not -- it's -- it's not all of the investigation, but yes.
Q (By Mr. Rosen) Tell me what the other part of the investigation that's not identified there was.
A Well, we did go back and review restraint positions and things when we spoke to the person that does the restraint training at the facility, so I went back and, you know, refamiliarized myself with those.
Q With restraint positions?
A Yeah.
Q What does that mean?
A So, they use -- so, because the restraint was, you know, involved in this -- I've been certified in these restraints, but it was a long time ago, so I just went back, you know, online to familiarize myself with them so I knew, when we spoke to the person that does the restraints, you know, that I had a good understanding of --
Q So, what did you review?

A There's online materials and handbooks when you purchase these programs, like Handle With Care or CPI.
Q That's what I'm asking about. So, what did you --
A We have those books in the office.
Q You have NCI books?
A We have -- not an NCI book. The Handle With Care was something that we reviewed.
Q I don't know what that means. That's a business that produces -- what is it? Handle With Care?
A It's their restraint.
Q Whose restraint?
A Whose restraint?
Q I'm not sure why this is funny, but --
A I'm looking to see if here if I -- it's not funny. I'm just -- Handle With Care is a -- it's an example. I'm giving you examples of types of restraints that we deal with. Not specifically here, but we have booklets on different kinds of restraints that different facilities use. So, a lot of times we can pull those and use them for reference.
Q Does the Booneville HDC use the Handle With Care restraint procedures?
A I don't know if they were. We were told that they didn't take anyone to the floor for restraints, so that's what we were looking at.

Q I'm really just -- I understand that you're jumping a little ahead of me, but I'm just asking. You had mentioned that there was a -- Handle With Care, I guess, is a certain type of restraint protocol.
A Uh-huh.
Q Is that yes?
A Yeah.
Q That you reviewed to get familiar with how restraints work.
A I reviewed a lot of different restraints. Not the ones that they did here, but we review a lot of them because of prone positions, to make sure -- to see who's using prone positions and what.
Q And, again, you're getting a little ahead of me. I just want to -- I'm trying to identify what protocols that you reviewed during your investigation. So, we know that it was the -- Handle With Care was one. What else did you review?
A All of it. I looked at CPIs.
Q CPI? Which one, because, as you know, there's --
A Yeah.
Q -- several.
A Yeah, CPI. Just the verbal de-escalation part, I believe.
Q So, verbal de-escalation was the only protocol that you reviewed from CPI.

A Right.
Q You understand that CPI has a whole host of other --
A Yes. They have different -- yeah.
Q Let me finish my question.
MR. LOWTHER: You need --
A I'm sorry.
MR. LOWTHER: You have to let him finish his question --
THE WITNESS: Sorry. Sorry.
MR. LOWTHER: -- before you answer.
Q (By Mr. Rosen) So, they have a host of others that include more -- well, they have a host of different protocols in different situations and how far somebody wants to get involved with the behavior, right?
A Correct.
Q But you just looked at the verbal de-escalation, right?
A Correct.
Q What else?
A I don't know of anything else.
Q So, when you were doing this investigation, did you apply these standards and these protocols to what you were expecting how the Booneville Human Development Center staff would respond?

A No.
Q So, what was the purpose of looking at these different protocols?
A Just to refamiliarize myself with restraints and what's being used out there.
Q And you were previously trained on what type of protocols?
A The Mandt System.
Q Can you spell that?
A M-A-N-D-T.
Q M-A-N-D-T --
A Yeah.
Q -- System. And that's -- I know there are a lot of different ways of handling situations. So, that's what you looked at. That's what you were trained on. So, did you go back and review that one, or you already knew that one?
A No, I didn't go back. That was -- that training was probably ten years ago.
Q So, just to be clear for my understanding, during the course of your investigation into David Cains' death, you looked into Handle With Care and CPI verbal de-escalation protocols, and those were the only policies/rules/guidance that you reviewed during the investigation.

A No. I can't say that those are the only things that we reviewed.
Q So, I have those two. So, what else did you review?
A I don't know. I don't remember.
Q Well, do you remember that you reviewed anything else?
A I'm sure we did.
Q Well, is that speculation or you just -- and there's no right answer here. I'm just trying to find out what you reviewed so I can ask you about it.
A It was two years ago, so -- we put a lot of time into this, so I think it's safe to speculate that we reviewed more than two or three --
Q But you --
A -- restraint methods.
Q But you don't have any recollection sitting here today as to what restraint methods or protocols that you reviewed and applied to this case.
A We reviewed Booneville's.
Q Well, that's what I'm asking you. So, you reviewed Booneville. So, what did you review?
A The restraint system that they use.
Q And is that mentioned in your report?

A I don't know. Let me see. Yeah, the type -- you're talking about the type of restraints?
Q Whatever you reviewed is what I'm asking you. What did you review, and was it mentioned in the report?
A We reviewed the NCI CPI.
Q You've already mentioned that. That's the CPI verbal de-escalation, right?
A Yeah. Uh-huh.
Q Is that yes?
A Yes.
Q And, so, that's what you -- that's it. So, those two things is what I can see and -- or that you mentioned, right?
A The two things that what?
Q Those are the two protocols that you reviewed during the course of this investigation.
A No, we reviewed their -- the things that they use for restraint.
Q Well, that's what I'm asking you --
A Right.
Q -- is --
A I mean, that's what you're asking.
Q Yeah. I'm asking what protocols, what policies, what papers did you review as part of your investigation, and you mentioned Handle With Care, CPI, verbal de-escalation.

A Uh-huh.
Q Now you're saying you reviewed the Booneville HDC policies, but I'm asking you where that's mentioned in here -- in the report.
A Let's see. Well, we do -- on Recommendations Number 4 we mention the 9-1-1 policy.
Q That's not a --
A That's a --
Q That's a policy.
A -- BHDC policy.
Q What else, if anything else?
A I know that -- I don't know the specifics, you know, but we did a record request on the policies --
Q But --
A -- from the facility. I know that the 9-1-1 was a concern. The CPR and --
Q CPR?
A Yeah, CPR protocol.

[redacted]

Q Did DRA review David Cains' 2019 Individualized Program Plan, or IPP?
A Yes.
Q That's not listed in here as one of the documents that you reviewed, is it?
A Where? Here?
Q In the letter.
A In the front page or --
Q Yeah.
A -- in the letter at all?
Q It says what you reviewed, and it doesn't mention that, does it?
A Let's see here. We did review.
Q You have specific recollection even though it's not mentioned here that you reviewed it, or you're just assuming that you did?

A No. I mean, we asked for it. That's just something I would normally ask for and review. That's how I found out about his choking risk. That's where it was first mentioned. And then there's a separate report that the -- I don't know if it's that OT does or the speech pathologist.
Q And, so, when you looked at the IPP, then you became aware of David Cains' behavioral issues, right?
A Correct.
Q Because they're extensively detailed in there, are they not?
A Correct.
Q In fact, the IPP authorized various forms of restraint, did it not?
A Correct.
Q And is DRA on the IPP treatment team?
A No.
Q Do you know who is?
A It would be his interdisciplinary team, like Case Manager, Psychologist --
Q And physician.
A -- Social Worker. I don't -- I mean, I guess.
Q Well, I'm not asking you to guess.

A I don't know. I know that you're going to have a -- I don't know if they have a 24-hour physician there that participates in IPPs.

Q So, you're saying you reviewed the IPP --

A Right.

Q -- but you don't know whether the physician contributed to or was on the treatment team.

A They have nurses that do.

Q But DRA was aware of David Cains' behavioral outbursts and aggression, correct?

A Correct.

Q And violence, correct?

MR. GILLISPIE: Object to the form.

A Violence? I --

MR. GILLISPIE: Object to the form.

MR. LOWTHER: You may answer the question.

THE WITNESS: Answer?

A The only -- I don't know. I mean, I wouldn't categorize him as violent. I don't know.

Q (By Mr. Rosen) Well, if somebody has hit people in the past, would that be violent?

A Yeah, I guess. Yes.

Q If they've thrown fire extinguishers at people, would that be violent?

A Yeah.

Q If they destroyed a television, would that be violent?

A Yeah.

Q Now, if they -- what did the IPP state with regard to the television in David Cains' room?

A I have no idea right now. That was two years ago.

Q It's not mentioned in this report, is it?

A No, it's not.

[redacted]

Q But you didn't talk about his behavior in there, did you?

A No. I mean, we did. Page 2, that first paragraph.
Q Well, you're identifying what was stated in the staff written statements and interviews, correct?
A Yeah.
Q So, you're reciting what the staff told you there. What I'm asking is, you didn't take anything from the IPP and put it into the report about David Cains' behavioral episodes, did you?
A No.
Q And why was that?
A It wasn't relevant. We didn't -- yeah.
COURT REPORTER: Can we take a quick break?
MR. ROSEN: Yes.
(WHEREUPON, after a break was taken, the proceedings resumed as follows, to wit:)
Q (By Mr. Rosen) So, we were talking before the break about David Cain's behavioral episodes and the portions of the IPP dealing with his behavioral management issues and how to deal with that, which would include restraints and a host of other things. None of that's in the report, is it?
A No.
Q And, so, DRA didn't think that was relevant?
A I -- that -- well, if it's not in here, I can't speak to why it's not in here.

Q And, so, I think we've talked, also, about the -- were you aware of any protocols in the IPP regarding David Cain's TV set in his room?
A I don't remember anything about a TV.
Q You don't recall that it had to be behind a plexiglass screen to keep him from destroying it?
A To be fair, all the TVs in those facilities are like that.
Q All of them are?
A Yeah.
Q Now, you don't know anything about the fact that it used to not be that way before David Cains -- well, do you know that David Cains destroyed the TV?
A If it was in his IPP, I read it two years ago, but it's not --
Q None of that --
A -- fresh in my mind.
Q None of that came in to here as being a relevant fact about his behaviors, right?
A No.
Q What about the DVD or CD player in David's room? Anything unusual about that, that you are aware of that happened to it?
A No.

Q Do you know who the EMT -- the emergency technician who responded spoke with when he arrived at the scene on June 13, 2020?
A I don't know off the top of my head. Whoever was on the report, I'm assuming.
Q So, in your report you mentioned, I guess, one of the DRA concerns is that information was not given to the emergency room doctor about the restraint before Mr. Cains vomited.
A Correct.
Q So, what I'm asking then is, do you know -- did you investigate to see who the EMT spoke with to get the information that he relayed to the doctor?
A We did interview the EMT.
Q What did he tell you who he spoke with?
A I can't remember.
Q It's not noted in here, is it?
A I don't know.
Q So, if he spoke to somebody who responded subsequently, and all they knew was that David Cains was on the floor and he had stopped breathing, that's all that can be reported -- and had vomited, obviously, that's all that could be reported, right? Is that yes or no?
A Yes.

Q So, if he spoke to a person who came along later, such as a nurse or someone else who didn't know all the facts that had happened previously, then he could only report what was reported to him by a person who only knew certain facts, correct?

MR. GILLISPIE: Object to the form.

A I suppose. Yes.

Q (By Mr. Rosen) So, if he spoke to the wrong -- if the EMT spoke to the wrong person to find out what happened, he would not get fully updated information, would he?

MR. GILLISPIE: Object to the form.

A No.

MR. GILLISPIE: Calls for speculation.

MR. ROSEN: It doesn't call for speculation.

Q (By Mr. Rosen) Do you know whether the EMT spoke to the right person who could give him all the details or spoke to somebody who only knew part of the details?

A He spoke to the nurse that met -- the nurse -- I guess, the nursing people go to meet the EMT. They were there.

Q So, that nurse, whoever that -- do you know who that nurse was?

A It's -- it's probably in our notes.

Q Well, I mean, who is it?
A I don't know off the top of my head. I don't know the name. It says here on Page 2 that the medical staff are the first call. That's the policy. And there was an LPN that was there, that we refer to her witness statement.
Q So, let's deconstruct that, because you know from your investigation that the LPNs were not present when David Cains was restrained, vomited, or choked, right?
A I don't -- they arrived while that was going on.
Q Did they arrive -- well, why did they arrive, according to your investigation?
A They had to call the nurse.
Q Who called the nurse?
A The staff.
Q Why?
A Well, because he was on the floor unresponsive.
Q Well, that's what I'm asking. So, after he choked and stopped breathing, somebody called the nurse, right?
A Yes.
Q And, so, those nurses responded, correct?
A Yeah.
Q You know that from your investigation --
A Right.
Q -- don't you?

A Yeah.
Q And, so, from what you just told me, the emergency EMT person who responded spoke to one of those nurses, right?
A Yeah, I believe so.
Q That's what your -- well, is that what your investigation uncovered?
A I would have to go back and look at all of my notes and statements. I can't say, without bringing all my stuff in here, without a doubt who they spoke to and which nurse it was. Three or four nurses arrived.
Q But wouldn't that be relevant information to put in an investigative report?
A No.
Q No? So, if the EMT spoke to the nurse and the nurse said he vomited, and he's on the floor, and he's unresponsive and, apparently, he choked, that would be the information that the EMT then would give to the emergency room doctor, right?
A The EMT would give whatever information I'm assuming he was given by whoever. Yeah.
Q And, so, then in this instance I'm sure your investigation revealed that the emergency room, or the hospital then told the coroner what that story was.
A Correct.

Q So, in your investigation, did the emergency room physician or the coroner call the Booneville HDC to get additional facts?
A No, they didn't.
Q And in an emergency situation -- well, have you ever been in an emergency situation?
A Yeah.
Q In an emergency situation when somebody's trying to save somebody's life and somebody else comes along, is it unusual not to have every detail of every fact mentioned?
MR. GILLISPIE: Object to the form.
MR. LOWTHER: Answer, if you can answer the question.
A I don't know where -- ask me --
Q (By Mr. Rosen) Let me reword it. So, would it be reasonable, in your opinion as the advocate in this case, that the nurse spoke to the EMT and relayed information to him based on what she knew and observed, even though it might not have been all the information that happened before she came along?
A Sure.
Q So, when you report in there that -- in your letter of October 22, 2020, when you talk about that the information about the restraint was not relayed to the emergency room physician or the coroner, that could be the reason is that they spoke to the wrong person, correct?

MR. GILLISPIE: Object to the form.

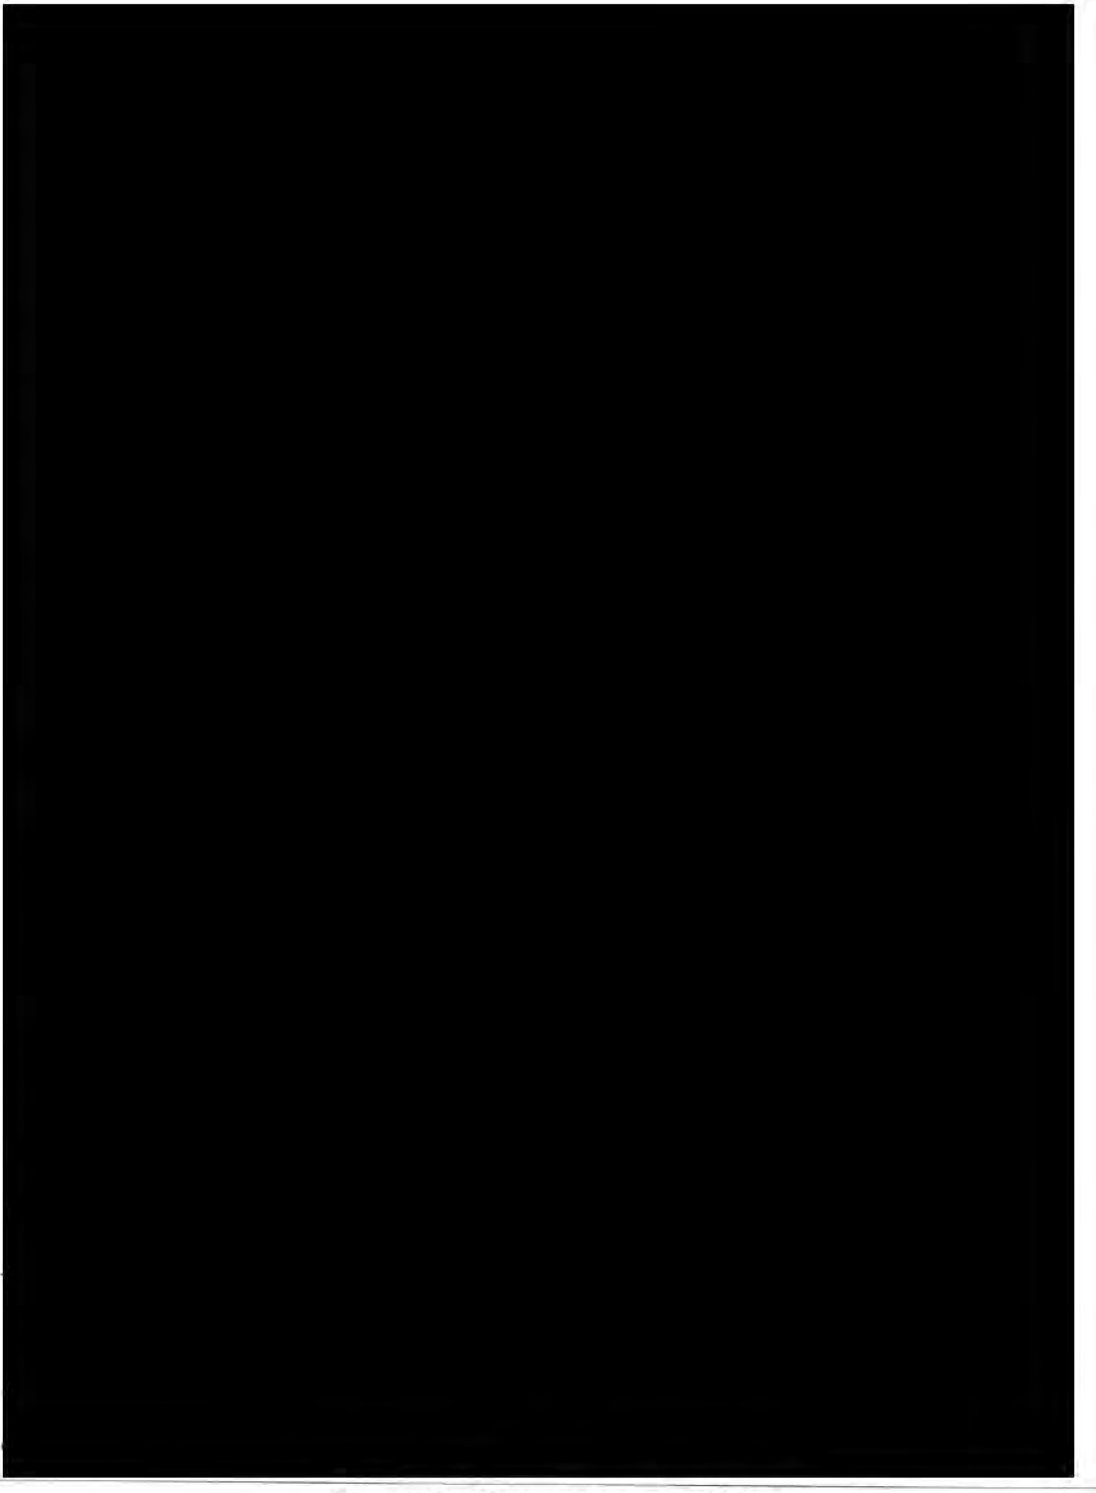
A I suppose. Yeah.

Q (By Mr. Rosen) Well, if they didn't speak to one of the -- well, do you know whether they spoke -- did your investigation uncover whether the EMT spoke to any of the RCTs, the aids who --

A They did not.

Q Now, with regard to -- I think you even note in here that this incident, when you spoke to the -- during your investigation there was mention that this happened at 11:30 in the morning that day, on June 13, 2020; is that correct?

A Yeah.



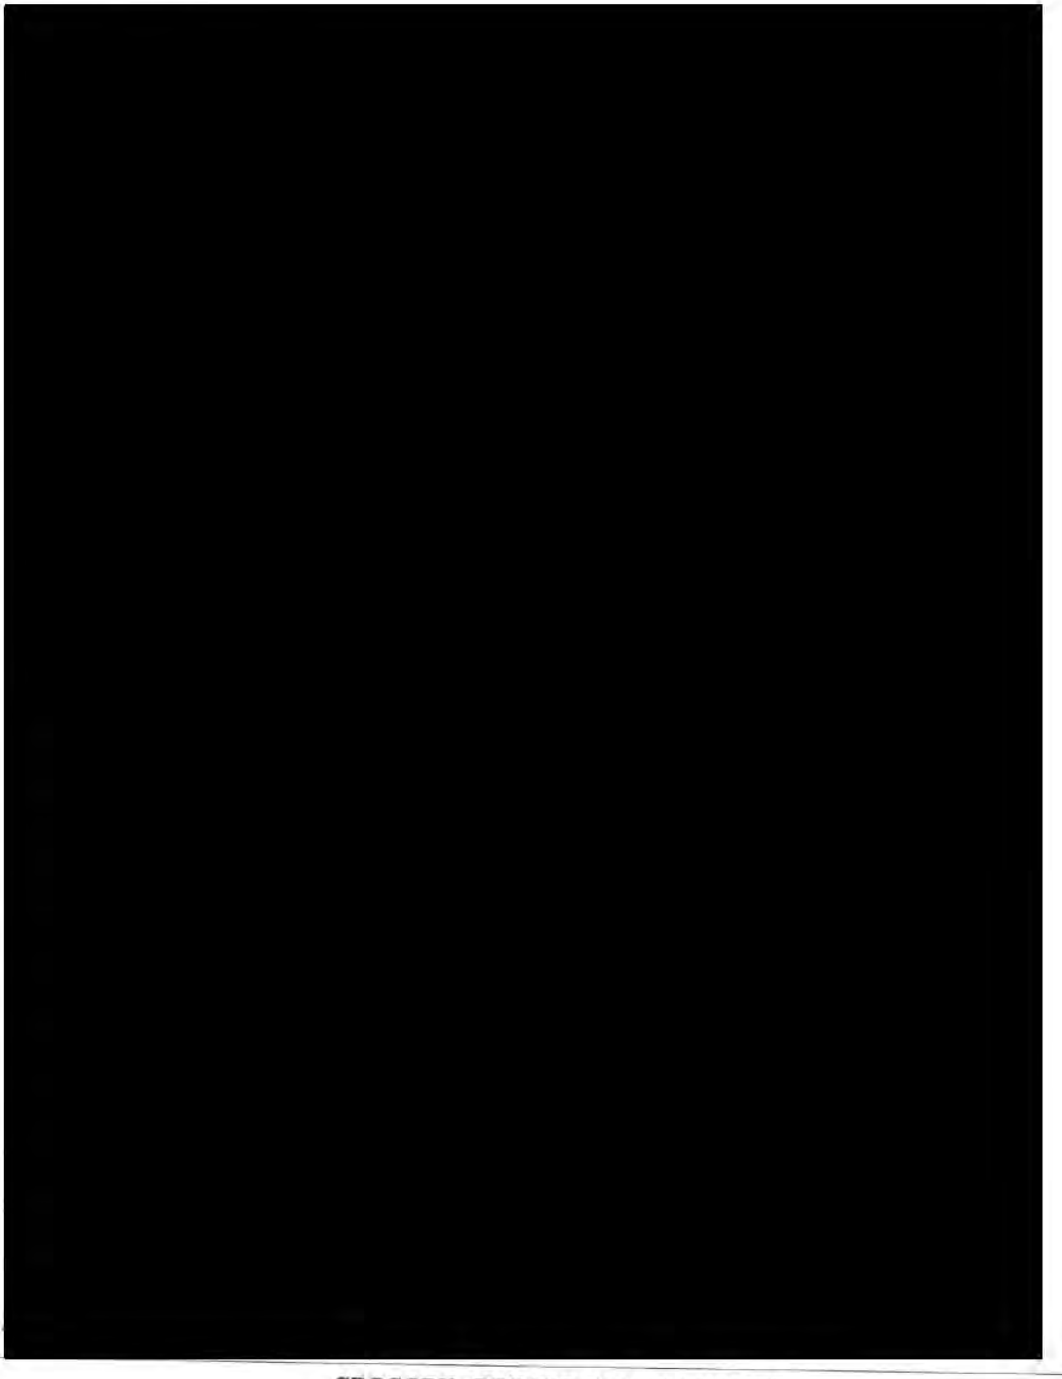
Q And I think you even note in there somewhere that that was just a time estimate from the people asked about what happened, right?

A That we mention 11:30 because that's what one of the RCTs, Tyler, said he thought that that was about the time that it happened.

Q Yes. But you even mention in there, there's no visible clocks --

A Right.

Q -- on the -- let me finish the question.
A Sorry.
Q There were no visible clocks in the commons building lobby, was there?
A That's what staff reported to us. We asked them.
Q And, so, did you ever follow-up as to whether there was or not?
A No.
Q So, do you have any reason to disbelieve staff that there were no clocks in the lobby?
A No.
Q So, when they gave the 11:30 time, I think even it's noted in the report, that's an estimate, right?
A Yeah, he didn't -- he didn't have a watch on.
Q So, we don't -- what does the word "estimate" mean to you?
A About. Close to.
Q Approximation?
A Yeah.
Q It doesn't mean exactly, right?
A Correct.
Q Is there any doubt that was uncovered in your investigation that -- strike that question.
During the course of your investigation, were you able to ascertain whether the RCTs, the aids, and,



Q I see what you're saying. So, what did your investigation uncover?
A What do you mean, what did it uncover?
Q Whether -- well, let me ask it this way. Did your investigation reveal that the appropriate procedures were performed on David in an attempt to save his life?
A I would say -- did our -- I don't believe that we made a statement to that in this letter, right?
Q Wouldn't that be relevant here?
A Where?
Q In your investigative report.
A What do you mean, wouldn't it be relevant?

[redacted]

Q And it was unsuccessful, right?
A Yeah.
Q And, so, when the EMT was called, do you know how long it took them to arrive at the Booneville Human Development Center?
A We have the time of arrival I believe we put in there from the report. Let's see. They got there at 11:50.
Q And the call was at 11:37, right?
A Right.

Q So, it took them 13 minutes to get there, right?

A Yeah.

Q During your investigation, was DRA able to ascertain any de-escalation protocols that were implemented to calm David down?

A No.

Q No, you weren't able to identify or there were none?

A Are you asking if it's in this letter?

Q Yeah.

A On the second page we discuss, you know, what happened when he came out of the bathroom.

Q And what happened?

A Apparently, he started ripping paper off the wall, and the staff told us that he applied a person restraint.

Q So, what happened right before that?
A He was in the bathroom.
Q And when he came out of the bathroom, according to your investigation, did anything else happen?
A No. I mean, he just -- from what the -- he was irritated and immediately began ripping paper off the wall is what --
Q So, he --
A -- the staff said.
Q So, he comes out of the bathroom and, according to your investigation, he's immediately irritated and rips things off the wall and has a behavioral episode.
A Well, I mean, that would be the behavioral episode, ripping things off the wall.
Q Is that the only thing he did, according to your investigation?
A It said he was attempting to hit staff.
Q And are we talking about Tyler Mattson there?
A Yeah.
Q So, he attempted to hit him.
A Uh-huh.
Q Is that a yes?
A Yes.
Q Did he lunge at him?
A I don't have that in my report.

Q Do you know? What did your investigation uncover?
A I know what -- he attempted to hit Tyler. That's the only thing I have in front of me right now.
Q So, if he lunged at Tyler or did anything else -- well, strike that question.
So, during your investigation, were you able to ascertain exactly where this behavioral incident -- where this happened?
A Yeah.
Q And, I mean, in more detail than just in the lobby of the commons building.
A Yeah, I know. I mean, I've been in the building, so I know.
Q So, you're aware that this was on the second floor.
A Right.
Q And on the second floor of that building there's a -- you're aware that there's a staircase in the middle of it, right?
A Yeah.
Q And between the staircase and the walls on either side there's a half-wall with an opening down to the floor below, correct?
A I think so. Yeah.
Q Do you recall or not? If you don't recall --
A I was just out there last month. I can't remember that part. I know, like --

Q So, during the course of your investigation, were you able to pinpoint how close this happened to that half-wall with the drop to the staircase below -- the floor below?
A Well, the bathrooms are further back and, so, there are billboards up closer to the stairs, but if he came out of the bathroom -- I mean, I don't have -- they didn't have cameras or -- you know, so we couldn't get an exact location. So, I don't know how far back from the bathroom, you know, that he came out.
Q But you said he ripped things off the wall. What types of things did he rip off the wall?
A I think it was, like -- there was a billboard that had things up on it, but I'm not 100 percent.
Q And that's closer to the half-wall in the front by the steps, right?
A I know there's one billboard there. I don't know if there's another back by the bathroom.
Q And I just want to -- just to summarize it, your investigation and your recollection that went into this report is that David Cains went into the bathroom, came out and started ripping things up, and tried to hit Tyler Mattson, who is the aid.
A Correct.

Q And nothing happened in between that?
A Not that --
Q I'm just asking.
A Not that I can remember.
Q And David Cains' IPP, in the course of your investigation, do you recall or not recall whether there is anything in there about the use of restraints?
A Yeah, there's stuff in there about restraints.
Q And would trying to hit somebody and ripping things off the wall be an occasion for a restraint?
A I'm not sure if it specifically outlines specific incidents to justify a restraint. I'm not sure.
Q Let me just -- that might be all I have. Hold on. That is all I have. Thank you.

EXAMINATION

BY MR. GILLISPIE:

Q Ms. Stewart, while it's fresh on your mind, I want to go back to the time that you were given as to when this restraint incident that ultimately led to David Cains' death began. The time that was given to you -- am I correct that the time that was given to you by Tyler Mattson was 11:30 a.m.? And what I mean by that is, is that the numbers as they represent time that were spoken to you by Tyler Mattson?
A Correct.

Q Did Tyler Mattson ever say it might have been 11:31?
A I can't remember.
Q Do you recall any other times (11:31, 11:32, 11:33) that were ever given to you by anyone?
A We looked at witness statements, so it's possible they could have had different, you know, times.
Q If there had been other times given to you -- other start times -- and when I say "start time," I'm talking about the beginning of the incident. If there had been other start times given to you, isn't that something that would have been important enough to put in the report?
A Yeah, because of -- because the times were -- we were hitting on the times because the staff are not allowed to call 9-1-1.
Q I understand that.
A They have to go through the nurses.
Q Did Tyler Mattson or any other staff specifically say to you, "This time I'm giving you is an estimate," or is this mentioned in the report that times are estimates as there were no visible clocks, or was that something that you sort of came to on your own? And I can restate that for you if you need.
A Yeah. Can you restate it.

Q Sure. Did you recall Tyler Mattson or any other staff member ever specifically saying, "It was 11:30, but that's an estimate?"
A No.
Q But you do specifically remember, as I think you just said, being given the time of 11:30 a.m.
A Correct.
Q And do you have any reason to believe Tyler Mattson didn't have a cell phone on him?
A Oh gosh. I don't know.
Q But my question is, do you have any reason to believe he didn't have a cell phone on him?
A No.
Q Do you have any reason to believe that any of these staff members weren't carrying around their cell phones, which are also clocks, just like all of us do?
A No.
Q And, again, the only time -- I mean, time as represented in numbers. The only time you specifically recall being given by anybody was 1-1-3-0; is that correct?
A Correct.
Q I want to back up just for a moment here. And I believe you touched on this a little bit with Rich, but could you just, while we have you here, tell me about your experience working in this field.

A I graduated in '95 with a Social Work degree. I worked a total of probably about 12 years in two different HDCs, like Booneville, in Missouri and Tennessee as a case manager.
Q Are you saying you worked as a case manager in a human development center in another state?
A Two of them. Yes.
Q For 12 years.
A Six each. Yeah. So, as a case manager. And during those duties we -- I also did investigations for abuse and neglect on those campuses, as well, and did some incident management roles. And then I --
Q Did you become familiar -- during that time, did you become familiar with NCI, Nonviolent Crisis Intervention?
A Not during that time. That was Mandt training back in the day.
Q I'm sorry to interrupt you.
A And then I worked for Department of Mental Health.
Q In which state?
A St. Louis, Missouri.
Q How long did you do that?
A Six -- six years.
Q What did you do for the Department of Mental Health?

A I was a case manager there. So, we had people that lived in the community that needed case management services to keep them able to maintain --
Q In your role as a case manager at the two HDCs that you worked at in Missouri, what was your job duties as a case manager at those HDCs in Missouri?
A So, write IPPs, assist with, you know, inputting on behavioral support plans. If you worked with staff and clients one-to-one on a daily basis.
Q And even though it wasn't called NCI, there was a form of restraint training that you and the other staff members at these facilities were trained in at the time?
A Correct.
Q And am I correct to assume that Human Development Centers in Missouri are largely identical to human development centers here as far as what they do and who they cater to?
A At that time, yeah. They don't have any now, so --
Q But Missouri --
A Yeah.
Q But at the time, their human development centers were also long-term care facilities for adults with developmental disabilities?
A Uh-huh. Dual diagnosis.

Q And did the great majority of the individuals living at those places you worked in Missouri have behavioral issues and aggression issues, at times?
A Correct. Yeah.
Q And, so, after you left the Department of Mental Health for the State of Missouri in St. Louis, what did you do after that?
A I moved to New Mexico and I worked for Easterseals, and I did the group homes.
Q What does that mean, exactly?
A So, it's the same population as an HDC. They just live in the community in smaller group homes. About 15 people per home.
Q But, again, you were working with adults with developmental disabilities.
A And mental health issues.
Q How long did you do that?
A I was in New Mexico for six years.
Q And did you work for Easterseals the whole time?
A No. For a year I worked for Humana, the insurance company, as a care coordinator.
Q And how about after New Mexico?
A I've been here since '16.
Q Since 2016?
A Yeah.

Q And have you worked for Disability Rights Arkansas since 2016?
A Yes.
Q And is your job title now the same as it was in 2016?
A Yeah, we just say advocate. Yeah, pretty generic.
Q Sure. When you came to work for Disability Rights Arkansas, which we'll call DRA, were you required to undergo any training?
A Yeah.
Q Could you describe that, please.
A We had a week's worth of training that, you know, went through procedures and stuff, case management manual.
Q Did you find that much of your extensive experience working in HDCs and with developmentally disabled individuals in other states translated well to your job with Disability Rights Arkansas?
A Yeah, I did.
Q Were you able to use many of the techniques and knowledge and tools that you learned in those jobs with this job?
A Yes.
Q Did you receive training or -- were you provided any training or guidance of any sort on how to conduct investigations of this sort?

A We have guidelines, yeah, that -- that we follow.
Q And are you able to -- I realize you don't have them in front of you, and I don't expect you to be able to just have everything memorized, but can you kind of generally, maybe, say what that consists of?
A So, you know, where you would first start off would be the records request, and so we have a thing that describes and gives examples of what kind of records you would request. And, so, I did investigations for other places, not just HDCs. So, obviously, there would be, you know, forms that -- or, like, IPPs, you know, DYS doesn't have that, so you adjust it accordingly to wherever you're doing your investigation.
Q So, you investigate private facilities that cater to those individuals with developmental disabilities, as well?
A Any place where a person with a disability lives and works --
Q Regardless of --
A -- we're able.
Q Regardless of whether it's state operated or not?
A Correct.
Q And as far as the guidelines on conducting these investigations, you said you request records. Can you recall any other specifics about what steps -- things that you're always required to do in conducting these investigations?

A Like, with the HDCs, for death you should always have what they call, like, an IRIS report, so those things, and then to interview --

Q And when you say IRIS report, you're talking about the report that, I believe, is generated by OLTC?

A The facility reports to OLTC when somebody dies.

Q Thank you. That's right.

A So, we review those kinds of things. And then, you know, you're going to interview people, witnesses. Things like that.

Q Do you review relevant policies of the facility in question?

A Yes.

Q Do you review policies -- would you have reviewed policies such as DDS policies that would have been applicable to that facility?

A Yes.

Q And you still have a copy of the letter, right?

A Yeah.

Q Turn to the first page for me, please.

A Okay.

Q This third paragraph down, is that a pretty good concise summary of what all steps you took, and work that you and Ms. Reagan Stanford put into this investigation?

A Yeah. Yes.

Q And you described it as an extensive investigation into his death, correct?

A Correct.

Q Am I correct that this states that the investigation involved reviewing the maltreatment investigation report, all witness statements, the DPSQA complaint investigation report, EMS report, hospital records, and the coroner's report?

A Correct.

Q Am I correct that this reflects that you interviewed BHDC, Booneville Human Development Center, staff, including Tyler Mattson, Amy (Mandy) Jones, and Ryann Campos, the individuals who restrained David; as well as Sandy Evans, the adult maltreatment investigator; Jeff Gonyea, the superintendent; and Mark Hines, the NCI instructor?

A Correct.

Q Additionally, am I correct that your office interviewed the Emergency Medical Services provider, so it would be EMT paramedic Samuel Scow, as well as the coroner?

A Yes.
Q Tyler Mattson, as reflected on Page 2 of this document -- am I correct that -- and I'm at the top of Page 2 here. Am I correct that Tyler Mattson told you that -- during your interview with Tyler Mattson, he told you that David Cains began -- came out of the restroom, begun screaming, ripping paper off the wall, and attempting to hit Tyler.
A Correct.
Q Now, do you have any recollection of Tyler ever telling you that, in addition to David attempting to hit him, that David also, sort of, charged at him like a bull and attempted to either wrap his arms around Tyler or push Tyler off of a ledge?
A No.
Q Do you have any recollection whatsoever of Tyler ever mentioning to you that he was in danger of being pushed off of a ledge or falling off of a ledge?
A No.
Q Am I correct to assume that, had that information been relayed to you, it's something significant enough that it would have made it into this report?
A Yeah.
Q Am I correct that Tyler Mattson, in his interview, told you that he applied personals to David, meaning personal restraints to David, by grabbing his arms and that they ended up falling over?

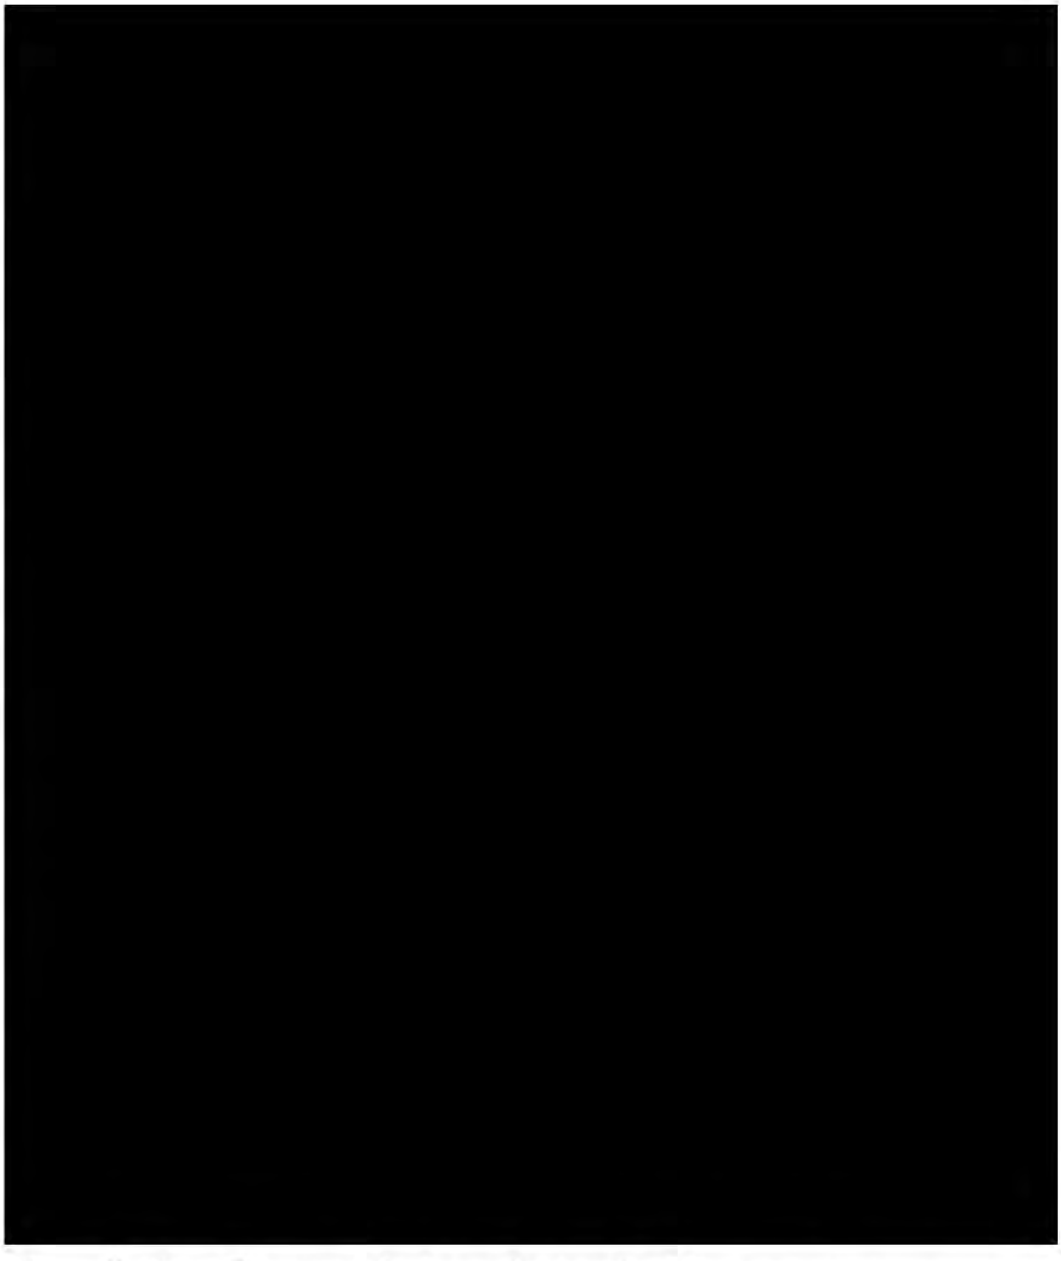
A Yes.

Q And he also told you that David landed on his face; is that correct?

A Correct.



Q And I want to be completely clear about this. There's no doubt in your mind that Tyler Mattson told you that David landed on his face.

A There's no doubt.

Q Am I correct that you also interviewed -- well, you've already said that you did. But you interviewed Samuel Scow, the paramedic. Am I correct that Samuel Scow gave you a specific account of what was communicated to him by Booneville staff?

A Yes.

[redacted]

Q Yeah. The very bottom here of this same page -- not the very, very bottom, but almost. Down here at Footnote 7, this pertains to the 9-1-1 policy. How about I ask a question. Were you told by, I believe, everyone you interviewed that the Booneville Human Development Center had a policy that forbade non-medical staff from calling 9-1-1 during a medical emergency?

A Yes.

Q And am I correct that even Superintendent Gonyea acknowledged that this policy was the policy?

A He did.

Q Did anyone ever explain to you why this was the policy, or where this policy came from, or whose brilliant idea this was?

A I'm not sure where it originated from. It's an actual policy. We have the policy. They were -- Jeff had mentioned that they were worried that people would call 9-1-1 kind of haphazardly, that didn't have training, you know, maybe for things that weren't a 9-1-1 emergency.

Q Did that make sense to you?

A No.

Q In your years of experience -- no offense, but many years of experience in this field, have you ever come across such a policy?

A No.

Q Were you surprised that this was a policy?

MR. ROSEN: Objection; relevance. I mean, that's not a relevant question.

MR. LOWTHER: You can answer.
A Surprised, yes.
Q (By Mr. Gillispie) Did Mr. Gonyea or anybody else give any other explanation other than what you just told me?
A No.
Q And what you recall him saying was that they were worried that -- I'm sorry. Would you say it again.
A That people would call 9-1-1 unneeded, you know, like, for things that weren't 9-1-1.
Q And did he tell you that the harm that could be caused by that outweighed the harm that could be caused in, say, a situation like this?
MR. ROSEN: Objection; form of question.
A No.
Q (By Mr. Gillispie) Next page, Kris, Subparagraph a states here that -- and this subparagraph of your letter concerns the statement provided you by Ms. Ryann Campos, who was one of the three direct care staff involved. Am I correct that Ms. Campos told you that Amy, who goes by Mandy -- Amy (Mandy) Jones was holding David's head during the restraint?
A Yes.
Q And the explanation for that, that she gave you was so that he wouldn't spit?

A Correct.
Q Then down under Subparagraph c, which pertains to Tyler's statements --
MR. ROSEN: I'm going to object, because I don't see anything about Mandy or Tyler in either of those, a or c. Where does it say that?
MR. GILLISPIE: I'm on physical Page 3.
MR. ROSEN: Yes.
MR. GILLISPIE: And little a paragraph, the last sentence, actually, Mandy came.
MR. ROSEN: Can I --
MR. GILLISPIE: Can we go off the record for a second.
(WHEREUPON, after a break was taken, the proceedings resumed as follows, to wit:)
MR. GILLISPIE: Do you now have an unredacted copy?
MR. ROSEN: No.
COURT REPORTER: Are you going to make this an exhibit, also?
MR. GILLISPIE: Yes. This is the exhibit that I'm going to make.
MR. ROSEN: I don't know how you got an unredacted copy but, okay, that's fine.

MR. GILLISPIE: I mean, I know DHS obviously has one.

MR. ROSEN: Is that unredacted? Well, I don't know that. Does it have a Bates stamp on it?

MR. LOWTHER: No.

MR. GILLISPIE: Yes. The unredacted one has a Bates stamp on it. That's how I got it. That's from you. And the reason you have a redacted one is because, that's the only one I could have produced to you, did produce to you, in discovery.

MR. ROSEN: Can you tell me --

MR. GILLISPIE: Because that all I had at the time.

MR. ROSEN: -- real quick what the --

MR. GILLISPIE: Yes.

MR. ROSEN: -- Bates stamp is.

MR. GILLISPIE: Page 1 is 4523.

(WHEREUPON, Claimant's Exhibit 1 was marked for identification and is attached hereto.)

Q (By Mr. Gillispie) Subpart c on this same page, Ms. Stewart, am I correct that, according to your -- that during your investigation and your interview with Mr. Mattson you found that he deviated from his written statement; is that correct?

A Correct.
Q And, specifically, am I correct that the deviation was that, while it's not in his written statement, what he told you in his interview was that Amy (Mandy) Jones was holding David Cains' head on the side?
A Correct.
Q Keeping close to ground but not pushing on it, because David was trying to bite --
A Correct.
Q -- correct? And, so, am I correct that the deviation is that, while he told you about Mandy holding David's head close to the ground in his statement to you, it was not contained in the written statement you'd been provided?
A Correct.
Q And am I correct that while Ryann Campos' explanation for why Ms. Jones was holding David's head was so he wouldn't spit, Tyler's explanation for the same thing was so that David wouldn't bite?
A Correct.
Q And that is, in itself, another discrepancy.
A Right.
Q Moving down to the next section of this same page. Were you provided a written timeline -- during your investigation, was DRA provided a written timeline by Booneville Human Development Center concerning this event?

A Yes.

Q And am I correct that that timeline completely omitted the restraint having occurred?

A Correct.

Q Next page, fourth paragraph. Am I correct that during your investigation you interviewed the coroner, a Mr. Chrisman?

A Yes.

Q And do you recall, was it you and Reagan that first informed him about the restraint having occurred? In other words, the fact that David had been restrained was news to this coroner.

A Correct.

Q Did he make any statements in response to learning about the restraint?

A We asked him if he would have done anything differently knowing that he had been restrained and he said that he would have if he had had --

Q And what would he have done differently?

A -- that information. He said they would have likely requested an autopsy.

Q Did he give any other color to that or was that kind of, mainly, what you remember?

A That's what -- I mean, they would have probably done more investigating than --
Q Did your investigation also uncover information about the type of notification David's mother and family were provided about his death?
A Yes.
Q And did your investigation reveal that, similarly to Mr. Scow, the paramedic, and the coroner, David's mother and guardian were also told that David died after simply choking on his lunch?
A Yes, that's what they were told. Yeah.
Q And did your investigation also uncover that David Cains' family did not even find out that the personal restraint had occurred until June 22nd, which was nine days after David had died and three days after he was buried?
A Correct.
Q Moving on to the next page. The question I'm about to ask now pertains to the third paragraph under Practice of Restraints at BHDC. You learned in your -- or you became aware at some point, anyways, whether in this investigation or by prior dealings with Booneville, that Booneville staff are given -- that the restraint training given to Booneville staff is NCI; is that correct?

A Correct.
Q And at the time that you conducted this investigation and helped draft this report, were you familiar with NCI?
A I don't know if I was familiar with it before this or not.
Q Did you become familiar with NCI during your investigation into this case?
A Yes. We -- we also interviewed the guy that does the NCI training.
Q You talked to Mark Hines
A Yes.
Q And in speaking to Mark Hines, as I have, did you learn that the ground restraint used on David Cains was not a method that NCI approves for use?
A Yes.
Q And it is not, in fact, something even taught or authorized by Booneville, is it? Strike that.
It's not something that's taught or authorized by Mark Hines, who does the training.
A Correct.
Q And it's your understanding that Mark Hines is in charge of providing the restraint training to the direct care staff, such as the ones involved in this restraint, correct?

A Yes.
Q And you were, maybe, about to get into this. But did you also learn during this investigation that, while they formally train staff in NCI, that staff are also regularly using methods of restraint that conflict with NCI training?
A Yeah. Yes, we were told. Direct care staff said they take clients to the floor often in restraints.
Q Is Tyler Mattson one of the persons who told you that?
A Yes.
Q But am I correct that he stopped short of admitting to taking David to the ground in this particular case, but rather --
MR. ROSEN: Objection to that question. There's no evidence of that.
MR. GILLISPIE: Let me finish the question.
Q (By Mr. Gillispie) Am I correct that Tyler Mattson stopped short of admitting that he took --
MR. ROSEN: Objection to "stopped short." I don't know what that means.
Q (By Mr. Gillispie) Stopped short of taking him to the ground and, instead, they --
MR. ROSEN: He either said it or he didn't say it.

MR. GILLISPIE: Objection noted. I'll ask the question.

MR. ROSEN: Well, you're leading the witness to give a particular response, so I object to that. Just ask her what he said. You're characterizing it in such a way.

MR. LOWTHER: He can ask his question. You can object. If you understood his question, go ahead and answer it. He hadn't got through his question.

MR. GILLISPIE: Allow me to get through the question, Rich, then you can say whatever you want to say.

MR. ROSEN: Well, the objection is the same, if it's the same question.

A Could you repeat it.

MR. GILLISPIE: I need to get through the question, though. So, I will on the record here say that your objection is noted and applies to the question I'm about to ask, but I do need to get through the question, please.

Q (By Mr. Gillispie) Ms. Stewart, am I correct that, while Tyler Mattson admitted to you that he and other staff members often take clients to the ground, he did not admit that that is what he did here but, rather, said that they fell over together?

A Correct.
Q Did you come across anything or have any -- scratch that.
Was there any other restraint methods that were told to you were commonly used that conflict with NCI, that you can recall?
A I kind of -- I have a recollection, but I'm just not so sure about the floor -- the floor ones. It wasn't a -- Mark Hines wasn't teaching it, but I think there was someone else that would teach them a different set of restraints if they had to go to the floor, but they didn't have -- they couldn't tell us what the restraint technique was, like was it Mandt or -- Q Could they offer you any documentation concerning any of this?
A I don't know.
Q Do you recall who told you that there was -- who would have told you that?
A No.
Q But is it fair to say that whatever that was that you're kind of remembering would have been among those things you describe in this report as not evidence-based and, when practiced, conflict with NCI?

A That's in -- yeah, it's in our recommendation. That's Number 3, the physical restraint, if you look under that paragraph.

Q And, next, moving on to the findings, these bullet points. I'm just going to go through a few of these -- highlight a few of these, rather. You noted in your -- you determined -- am I correct that you determined in your investigation that Mr. Cains suffered from GERD and was supposed to have remained upright for one hour after eating?

A Correct.

Q And am I also correct that your investigation uncovered that this restraint incident occurred very shortly after his lunch?

A Correct.

Q Am I correct that your investigation revealed that, once David was on the floor, the staff continued to restrain him rather than just releasing him and allowing him to calm down?

A Yes.

Q And did you determine that to be not in keeping with the NCI training and other policies that you reviewed?

A Can you repeat.

Q Scratch the question. Bad question.

Did you determine in your investigation that staff failed to use less intrusive interventions such as NCI/CPI, for which they are trained --

A Yes.

Q -- prior to restraining him on the ground?

A Yes.

Q Did you determine that staff failed to leave him on the floor unrestrained until he was calm, after he was on the ground?

A Yes.

Q And is it fair to say, you determined those things to be in violation of what was supposed to have -- in violation of policy; is that correct?

A I think with that particular bullet point, if he fell to the floor, we weren't sure why he just didn't leave him there and, you know, let him calm down rather than turn into a restraint.

Q Well, you said you reviewed the policies governing this sort of thing. Is one of the policies you reviewed DDS Policy 3011, which dictates that in emergency situations -- while personal restraints can be used in emergency situations, it must be the least restrictive form of intervention --

A Yes.

Q -- that can reasonably --

A The last resort.
Q And the least restrictive --
A Right.
Q -- and for the least amount of time, correct?
A Correct.
Q And was it fair to say, then, that you determined that the least restrictive thing -- scratch that.

Is it fair to say that your investigation determined that continuing to hold him on the ground -- restrain him on the ground after he was already on the ground was in violation of that 3011 policy?
A That's how we interpreted it. Yeah.
Q Thank you. Did you determine in your investigation that this restraint likely, either directly or indirectly, led to David's death?
A Yes.
Q Did you determine that the facility failed to properly communicate the circumstances of this incident to emergency responders?
A Yes.
Q Did you determine that there was no evidence that the Booneville facility properly communicated the circumstances of this incident to the Arkansas State Police, the Logan County Sheriff's Office, or any other law enforcement agency?

A Yes.
Q Did you determine that Booneville Human Development Center's investigation failed to resolve discrepancies in statements from witnesses?
A Yes.
Q Did you determine that NCI/CPI does not endorse or instruct any maneuver that involves physically restraining an individual on the floor?
A Yes.
Q And I believe -- can you recall specifically -- scratch that.
Did you determine that Booneville Human Development Center could not articulate what kind of restraint technique is being taught to staff?
A Yeah, in relation to taking people to the floor.
Q And who did you ask and who failed to be able to articulate that, or was it everybody other than Mark Hines?
A Staff, when we interviewed them, you know, they talked about taking people to the floor. They didn't know what it was -- was called.
Q Did they appear to not even know that it was considered an improper technique?
MR. ROSEN: Objection; relevance.
A I can't say. I don't know.

Q (By Mr. Gillispie) Did you conclude that the conclusion from Superintendent Gonyea failed to find that anyone violated any policy or procedure and inexplicably failed to find that any policy or procedure might need review and modification?
A Correct.
Q And, finally, did you determine in your investigation that Booneville Human Development Center failed to adequately inform David's family of the circumstances surrounding his death?
A Yes.
Q Did you also determine, as it appears to be reflected you did in Paragraph 2 under Recommendations -- did you also determine that all staff at Booneville needed to be retrained because NCI/CPI does not endorse the use of restraint while an individual is lying on the floor, and that the very fact that NCI is touted as the intervention strategy implemented by Booneville, and yet this individual was restrained on the floor long enough to aspirate and die means that NCI was either ignored or forgotten?
A You're asking --
Q Yeah. It's meant to be a yes or no question. Let me --
A Okay.

Q -- rephrase. Did you determine that all staff at Booneville needed to be retrained in NCI?
A Yes.
Q And I'm just calling it NCI because, technically, NCI is a program owned by CPI, which is Crisis Prevention Institute. So, for purposes of today, NCI/CPI, it's all NCI.

So, you determined that all staff needed to be retrained in it. And is part of the reason you made that determination that they needed to be retrained because of the conflict you uncovered between Booneville touting NCI as their go-to intervention strategy -- the conflict between that and the fact that David was restrained on the floor long enough to aspirate and die, and the fact that other staff told you that they commonly take people to the floor?

MR. ROSEN: Objection; relevance.

MR. LOWTHER: You can answer.

A I'm sorry. Can you ask me again.
Q (By Mr. Gillispie) Yes. Is part of the reason you determined that staff needed retraining because of the conflict that you uncovered between Booneville touting NCI as what they use, the conflict there with the fact that they're also restraining people on the ground and taking them to the ground?

A Yes.
Q Why were you at Booneville last month?
MR. ROSEN: Objection; relevance.
MR. LOWTHER: You can answer.
A Our usual monitoring.
Q (By Mr. Gillispie) How long -- what is your usual monitoring?
MR. ROSEN: Objection; relevance.
MR. LOWTHER: You can answer.
A It just depends. We monitor all the HDCs, so we try to hit them all.
Q (By Mr. Gillispie) And does that typically mean personally visit?
A Yes.
Q Have you ever personally been involved in any other investigations into Booneville regarding injuries to the residents caused by restraints?
MR. ROSEN: Objection; relevance.
MR. LOWTHER: You can answer.
A No.
Q (By Mr. Gillispie) Do you know of any other DRA investigations of that sort?
MR. ROSEN: Objection; relevance.
A I think there had been some before my time.
Q (By Mr. Gillispie) The last thing I need to do is have you take a look at a document that we've marked as Claimant's Exhibit 1. Ms. Stewart, you've been looking at this same document for hours now, correct, --

A Right.

Q -- during this deposition? Is the document in front of you that we've been using to question you, is that a true and correct copy of the October 22, 2020, report/letter that you and Reagan drafted and sent to the director of DDS?

A It is.

Q Did you also say that this report was you and Reagan investigated it and drafted it, but Mr. Thomas Nichols reviewed it and approved it?

A Yes.

MR. GILLISPIE: And I'd like to make that our sole exhibit and I'll pass the witness.

FURTHER EXAMINATION

BY MR. ROSEN:

Q I have a few follow-up questions. Tell me, what does the term, as used in this report, "likely" mean to you? What does the word "likely" mean?

A Probably that it happened. Likely, I guess.

Q And, so, are either you or Raegan Stanford a medical doctor?

A No.

Q So, tell me what training either you or Reagan have in determining the likely cause of a person's death.
A Well, I don't know. I haven't been to med school, so I don't know.
Q And that determination that you put in your findings of likely, DRA didn't even say that was the direct cause of death. You have a caveat on there, it likely was, possibly, an indirect cause of death, correct? That's what --
A Correct.
Q -- it says, right?
A Yeah, that's what it says. Yeah.
Q And that's not to a reasonable degree of medical certainty, right?
A No.
Q Now, also on the findings in the exhibit that Counsel introduced it's -- well, let me ask you this. Strike that question.
During the course of your investigation, I think you told me you believe that you looked at the IPP, correct?
A Correct.

[redacted]

[redacted]

Q That's what your investigation uncovered? Simple question.

A I mean, I'm sure. Yes.

Q Now, what does -- in your investigation and after review -- did you review David Cains' IPP?

A Yes.

Q So, then, you know that, despite Counsel's questions to you, that the CPI or NCI restraint procedures are not the only ones allowed at the Booneville HDC, right?

A That's what we were referring to in our --

Q As a matter of fact, from your review of the IPP, other restraint methods are authorized at the Booneville HDC with regard to David Cains; isn't that correct?

A I'm not 100 percent sure, but --

Q Well, you don't recall the IPP and the doctor's orders looking at authorizations for chemical --

A Yeah.

Q -- restraints and mechanical restraints?

A Yeah, he got -- he got plenty of chemical restraints. I do remember that.

Q And he got mechanical restraints, right?

A Right. Yeah.

Q So that would conflict with NCI, right?

A Yeah.
Q So, would that leave you to conclude that NCI is not the sole and only method that is used at the Booneville HDC?
A And we say that in our report.
Q So, you --
A Yes.
Q -- would agree with that statement.
A Yes.
Q So, when Counsel questioned you about the NCI or CPI, I think he referred to it, being the methodology that's taught at the HDC, that's not the only restraint methods being taught at the HDC; isn't that correct?
A They could not clarify for us what the restraint techniques were.
Q I didn't ask you that question.
A Well, that was the point we were trying to make in our report.
Q I understand that's the point you're trying to make. But I'm asking you, what was authorized for David Cains?
A Sitting right here without his IPP and his behavior support plan, I can't tell you specifically.
Q But you would agree that it authorized something more -- what does NCI stand for?

A I don't know. Non-Crisis Intervention, I believe.
Q So, that's just one of several methods of restraint that was authorized for David Cains in his IPP; is that correct?
A They don't take people to the floor in NCI. So, no, that would not have been what was approved for David in this instance.
Q So, let me ask you this. First of all, you told me that they fell over.
A Yeah, they did fall over.
Q So, what does "taken to the ground" or "taken to the floor" mean?
A He's restraining someone on the floor, so the staff still had to get down there to restrain him. They don't -- NCI does not do restraints like that.
Q So, in your investigation into this, "taking to the ground" means restraining on the ground?
A That's what the staff said. That's their words.
Q So, it doesn't mean making him go to the ground. It means restraining him on the ground, according to your --
A No.
Q -- investigation. No, that's not what it means?
A No. Staff say here that they take -- this is their words. They take people to the ground a lot for restraints.

Q So, what does that mean to you as to what that means?
A That means they take a person from a standing position and they get to the floor. However, they get there, I don't know.
Q But in this instance that's not what happened, according to your investigation, right?
A No. I didn't determine that that's what was happening. That's what Tyler says happened -- I'll find it -- I believe, they fell over.
Q But you don't have any evidence that they didn't topple over, right?
A I don't -- I find it hard to believe.
Q Well, I didn't ask you that.
A Yeah, I don't have any evidence. You're right.
Q You're an investigator. You base it on evidence, right? You didn't base --
A Yeah, but, you know, it's -- there's so many inconsistencies in these guys' statements.
Q So, let me ask you about that. As an investigator, would you expect everybody's statement to be identical?
A No.
Q So, the small discrepancies here and there show that it's not rehearsed, right?

A I wouldn't call them --
MR. GILLISPIE: Object to the form.
A -- small discrepancies. If you can't remember whether you're holding someone's head to prevent them from spitting or biting, I mean, those are not small. Times, yeah. Small, no.
Q (By Mr. Rosen) So, time you agree, but the holding --
MR. GILLISPIE: Object --
Q (By Mr. Rosen) -- the head -- so, this all happened pretty quickly, right?
A I don't -- I suppose, yeah.
Q Well, you investigated --
A About ten minutes is what it looks like.
Q Well, you investigated it, right?
A Yeah, we did.
Q So you would know, wouldn't you? If you did a proper, extensive investigation, you would know.
A I don't --
MR. GILLISPIE: Object to the form.
A It depends on what you mean by pretty fast. It started at 10:30. He left the facility by 12:10. So --
Q (By Mr. Rosen) Now, --
A -- yeah. I mean, I guess that's fast.
Q And this isn't being reported as it's happening simultaneously. An emergency -- is that correct? It wasn't --

A I don't understand the question.
Q So, there's not somebody there documenting when who was doing what before -- strike that question.
There was nobody there -- like, in an emergency room there would be, typically, a person recording what the doctor's doing, what time it's happening, who's doing what, to document it all for the medical record. Would you agree with that?
A Yeah. I don't believe they had, like, a person standing in there documenting.
Q So, everybody is -- and, so, these people knew David Cains, right?
A Yes.
Q They cared for him, didn't they?
A I don't know.
Q Well, I mean, they were his caregivers.
A It doesn't mean they cared for him. I can't answer that.
Q I meant --
A Oh. You mean as a title?
Q They were his -- they cared for him. They took care of him.
A Yeah.

Q So, they knew him for a long time, right?
A I don't know how long they knew him.
Q Well, this would be pretty upsetting to even a stranger, let alone somebody who they knew, right?
A It should be. Yeah.
Q Well, you would expect that.
A Yeah.
Q Did you ask them that?
A Yeah.
Q What did they say?
A Tyler seemed upset.
Q Yes. What about the other two, Mandy and Ryann? Did you ask them whether they were upset?
A One -- I can't remember. The two -- I get them -- the two females I get confused. One seemed a little shook-up and the other one just didn't seem bothered at all.
Q Well, did you ask them whether at the time they were upset?
A I don't know. Tyler --
Q No, I asked --
A I don't know. I mean, I know --
Q You don't know whether you asked them.
A No. I don't know, but I know Tyler came across that he was upset.

RECEIVED

Q So, while this is happening it's probably pretty upsetting to them and shocking and they're trying to save somebody's life at the time, right?

MR. GILLISPIE: Object to the form.

A I assume.

Q (By Mr. Rosen) That would be reasonable, would it not?

A Yeah.

Q So, then they're asked to go back and reconstruct and state to you and to others what happened, sometimes even months later, right?

A They were -- their statements were taken that day.

Q Did you not speak to --

A The written statements.

Q Did you not speak to them later?

A Yes, we did.

Q So, it wouldn't be unusual for me to -- just like I'm asking you right now about your investigation. Some of it you remember. Some of it you don't; is that right?

A Yeah. Two years later, yeah.

Q And, so, you expect them -- when did you interview them?

A We got the case in July and we interviewed them, I'd say, probably a couple months after. I don't have a date on here.

Q So, you expect them to remember every detail?
A Well, since it was such a significant event, I think I would remember it. Yeah.
Q Was this investigation a significant event to you or DRA?
A Yeah.
Q So, you would remember every detail.
A I have a file this big full of stuff so, no, I can't remember everything out of that file.
Q So, it's a different standard?
A Well, because they were actively physically trying to save someone's life, I would think it's different than memorizing an IPP.
Q So, did you review your record before you came here today?
A No. I reviewed this letter. That's it.
Q But you didn't see it fit to go back and get more information that supported this, did you?
A I feel like the document speaks for itself.
Q And I don't recall, but correct me if I'm wrong, the document doesn't even mention the IPP, does it?
A It -- there's -- I don't know what the IPP -- what your -- you know, the significance is to you.
Q Well, that's his --

A We read it. We looked at it and we got information out of it that we put in here, so yes.
Q But you don't think the IPP is relevant?
A We did, but you just keep saying it's not mentioned. It is. It's just not mentioned that we got this information from the IPP.
Q Well, you didn't mention in there anything about the NCI training being not the only --
A Yes, we did, back here --
Q Where?
A -- when we discuss --
Q Where is it?
A -- that they couldn't name the restraints when they went -- took them to the floor.
Q Now --
A They couldn't tell me what those were called. We couldn't --
Q Well --
A They couldn't tell us who was trained in it/who was teaching it.
Q Well, that's not my question, though. The question is --
A Well --
Q -- the mere fact that there's -- there's a mechanical restraint allowed. That's not mentioned in here, is it?

A No.
Q And the chemical restraints were authorized for David Cains. That's not mentioned --
A Well --
Q -- in here, is it?
A We should have mentioned it, because they had given him a lot of chemical restraints. That was our bad. We should have mentioned that.
Q And, so, what one would conclude was, as Counsel has asked you, that it would appear that, if you don't follow NCI, you're not doing it right.
A That is not -- you are -- no. Chemical restraints are never the same as physical. They are two different things. He's asking me about physical restraints. He never asked me about a mechanical or a chemical restraint.
Q Now --
A That is why I answered the way I did.
Q So, a mechanical restraint would require the person to be on the ground, would it not?
A No.
Q So, how would it --
A There's different types of mechanical restraints.
Q Tell me what your understanding is -- and in this instance the mechanical restraint used at the Booneville Human Development Center at that time was a papoose board. Do you know what that is?

A It wasn't used for this.
Q I know it wasn't used, but I'm asking you. Do you know what --
A I know what a papoose board is. Yes.
Q And, so, how would one get a person onto a papoose board?
A Quite dangerously. They should be banned.
Q In fact, you recommended that.
A Mechanical restraints, putting people in a papoose board could easily lead to an injury.
Q Yes. And that's not what happened here, right?
A Right. No.
Q And, so, you would have to be taken to the ground to get to a papoose board, would you not?
A Yeah.
Q And, so, in this instance they fell over and -- well, for the record, she's making a face, so I want to ask you. What evidence do you have that they didn't fall over?
A What evidence do I have that they did?
Q Well, you're the investigator. I mean, I assume you go on evidence.

A I feel like my -- so, in investigations you have hunches. You kind of -- right? It's -- it's odd to me. I've been doing investigations about abuse and neglect. It's odd to me that he talks all about taking people to the floor and he -- it's just like he would not ever say that he restrained him -- that they fell and, so, it was -- it was odd. The whole thing seemed odd but --

Q So --

A -- he says he fell, so he did, but my -- you know, we stick with, if he fell, he was already on the floor. Just back away. He wasn't a danger to you anymore if he's on the floor.

Q How do you know that?

A If he's on the floor and you're -- how is he a danger to you?

Q If I fell on the floor right now -- if I was threatening you and I fell on the floor, and hitting you and fell on the floor, could I not get up and hit you again?

A Couldn't you just get up and get away from him?

Q Well --

A That would be the least restrictive measure to take.

Q Now, they fell on the floor. There was a -- they were touching each other. I mean, they were trying to be restrained, according to your investigation.

A He said that they -- let's go back and see exactly what Tyler told me. He applied personals by grabbing his arm. So, Tyler grabs him, okay, and he says they end up falling over. David lands on his face but, then, Tyler is still able to roll him onto his side. So, my point is, if you're able to get up and gain physical whatever over this guy and roll him on his side, you're probably just as able to be able to walk away and give him some space to see if he calms down.
Q What if he didn't calm down?
A Well, he didn't get a chance to.
Q So, was Tyler, when they were on the ground, still attacking -- excuse me, was David Cains --
A No. He was on his face.
Q Well, let me ask you that. That's --
A That's what he says.
Q Did he hit his head?
A He told us that he landed on his face.
Q And during the course of your investigation, did David Cains have any injuries to his face?
A I don't know. There were no photos taken of him.
Q So, you don't know --
A There were no photos taken of him. There were no photos taken of where it happened. There was no report that they --

Q Who would take photos of him?
MR. LOWTHER: Let her finish the question.
Finish your answer.
Q (By Mr. Rosen) Go ahead.
A What?
Q Finish your answer.
A I don't even know where --
A They photograph injuries, right? Like, the HDCs photograph injuries all the time.
Q Wasn't he taken away by ambulance?
A Right.
Q So, who was going to photo him?
A Hospital personnel. The coroner. I don't know.
Q Well, that's what I'm saying. So, that wouldn't be the HDC.
A You're asking me if he had a bruise on his face. I'm telling you, how would I know. I mean --
Q Did you --
A -- they didn't have photos.

[redacted]

Q So, let's change gears a little bit. So, I think you said that you were a case manager in an HDC similar-type situation in Missouri and Tennessee; is that right?

A Yeah.

Q And did any -- what were the names of those facilities?

A Bellefontaine Habilitation Center is in St. Louis and Clover Bottom Developmental Center is in Nashville, or it was.

Q And while you were there, did they allow the use of restraints?

A They did. They didn't use -- they didn't use mechanical restraints.

Q So, they had personal-type restraints --

A Yeah.
Q -- for safety?
A Uh-huh.
Q Is that yes?
A Yes.
Q And, so, you were a case manager developing the IPPs, I think you said, for these people.
A Correct.
Q So, you're familiar with that restraints are used in these types of facilities; is that correct?
A Correct.
Q In fact, you're the ones who came up with the -- developed the IPP that allowed them in those facilities.
A Well, Behavior Analysts had a different --
Q It's a treatment team.
A Right. So, they did that.
Q I didn't mean it was just you.
A Yeah. I -- yeah. I wasn't --
Q And, so, during the course of your employment at these similar-type human development centers in other states, did you ever see a resident restrained?
A Yeah.
Q Were they acting out?
A The only time they were restrained is if they were being physical to hurt someone else or staff --

Q And --
A -- or, like, running into traffic. Something like that.
Q Sure. And were those required for the safety of the resident and others around the resident?
A Sure.
Q So, I think I asked you this before. But you agree that sometimes restraints are necessary in these facilities for --
A Yeah.
Q -- this population.
A Sure.
Q Now, you also said that as a case manager, I think, that you did internal abuse and neglect investigations.
A Yeah.
Q For those facilities?
A Yes.
Q And, so, as an internal investigator for the facility into abuse and neglect of the facility residents, or possible abuse or neglect of facility residents, were you able to conduct the investigation in a fair and an objective way?
A As long as they didn't assign me anyone that was over the cottage I was in, because this was not going to be a good idea --

Q So, if a --
A -- if I work with those people.
Q Yeah. So, if an abuse investigator at the HDC in Booneville wasn't a supervisor of the individuals or work in the cottage with them, they could do it in a -- you wouldn't have any objection to them doing it in a fair and impartial way, would you?
A Yeah, I would. I mean, it depends on how long they'd been there, what roles they'd been.
Q But you did it yourself, so is that not hypocritical?
A I told you, as long as it wasn't people that I had to deal with or work with.
Q Did you investigate into Ms. Sandy Evans as to whether she worked with these people who were --
A She's been there for 20 years, so it seems like, you know, she probably has had a lot of --
Q So, you never worked or knew any of the people in the facilities that --
A No. I knew who they were, but I had a cottage I was responsible for these clients, so if there was anything that happened in my cottage, I wouldn't be the one that would be investigating that.
Q So, to your knowledge during the course of your investigation, was Sandy Evans the investigator at the Booneville Human Development Center assigned to the cottage that David Cains was --

A They -- that's not their total job. I do know that I believe she does some social service things on the side.
Q But she didn't have any supervisory or --
A I don't know.
Q Well, I'm asking. Let me --
A No, I really don't know.
Q -- finish the question. So, you didn't --
A I don't know if she -- what her relations, you know, were with those three people; if she supervised them, per se.
Q You said you mentioned you worked for Easterseals in another state; is that correct?
A Yeah.
Q And did you live in the home with these people?
A No.
Q Now, tell me, Counsel asked you during his examination of you some odd question about being pushed off a ledge. Do you know where that came from?
A That's the first I heard of it.
Q Now, Counsel asked you about calling 9-1-1. And in this instance I think you told me in your earlier testimony that the EMTs were there for at least 20 minutes and they couldn't clear the airways either.

A I don't think I told you that.
Q Well, how long were they there?
A If you look back, it says that the EMTs got there at --
Q Well, it says they got there, according to your report/your investigation --
A -- 11:50.
Q -- at 11:50.
A Right, 11:50. And they left --
Q And they left --
A -- at 12:10.
Q Is that 20 minutes?
A I don't know. Yeah.
Q So, you agree it's 20 minutes.
A Yeah. I mean, yeah.

Q So, if there was a delay in a few minutes in calling 9-1-1, how would that impact the result, or the outcome here?

A Well, I think that if you are not allowed to call 9-1-1 when someone is on the ground and obviously in dire straits -- you know, they're out in Booneville in the middle of nowhere, so I think every minute counts. It takes them a long time to get there, and that was part of our argument.

Q So, it took them at least 13 minutes to get there, and then they were there for 20 minutes, according to your investigation. So, 12 and 20 is 32 minutes. So, if they were called 3 minutes earlier, would that have changed the outcome, based upon your investigation?

MR. GILLISPIE: Object to the form.

A Maybe so.

Q (By Mr. Rosen) Tell me how.

A I would just -- I know that when you're having a medical emergency, as soon as you can get 9-1-1 and EMS there, wouldn't that increase anybody's chances in a heart attack, in a stroke, in any life -- I mean --

[redacted]

Q I only have two more questions. Now, let me ask you. Do you have a cell phone with you?
A Yeah.
Q Where is it?
A It's in my purse.
Q Can you tell me right now without looking in your purse what time it is?
A It's turned off.

Q I just want to know whether you can tell me --
A I'm in a court thing, so it was turned off because that seemed like the right thing to do, so no. If my phone was sitting here, I could tell you.
Q But your phone is not sitting there.
A Right.
Q So, it's --
A In my purse.
Q -- in your purse.
A Right.
Q So, if we had an emergency situation now and you had to respond to something, would you take the time and look in your purse to see what time it was?
A Well, I'd have it in my pocket if I wasn't in here, so I don't know.
Q And you would take -- instead of saving somebody's life, you'd look at the clock, right? Is that what you're telling me?
A That's not what I'm telling you.
Q So, that's what I'm just trying to figure out, because Counsel asked you some questions about, I guess, that Tyler Mattson or the other people trying to save David Cains' life somehow were amiss because they didn't stop to look at their telephone and their watch -- I mean, in their pocket.

A What's your question?
Q So, do you think that they should have stopped their life-saving procedures to look and see what time it was by looking at their cell phone, if it was in their pocket?
A No.
Q Do you even know that they had a cell phone with them on their person at that time?
A No. That's what I answered to him. I don't know.

MR. ROSEN: I have no other questions. Thank you.

MR. GILLISPIE: Thank you, Ms. Stewart.

MR. LOWTHER: You are through. She will read and sign.

VIDEOGRAPHER: You may proceed.

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. GREEN:

Q All right. Good morning, Ms. Weatherton.

I almost had to check to see if it was morning or afternoon. I was in court morning and afternoon yesterday and kept getting it backwards, so forgive me.

My name's Chad Green. I know you're an attorney, so you understand what a deposition is and how that works.

But just a couple of basic things. If you don't understand a question I ask, will you let me know right away?

A I will.

Q And, if you can't hear me, will you let me know right away?

A I will.

Q Okay. And I don't think today will take horribly long. It's certainly not a marathon; so, if you need a break, at any time, please let me know.

I just ask, that if there's a pending question, that you answer it before we take a break. Is that okay with you?

A I understand.

Q All right. So first, Ms. Weatherington --

Weatherton. Sorry. I'll try --
A You're fine.
Q -- not to make that mistake too many times.
MR. GILLISPIE: My fault.
BY MR. GREEN:
Q Where are you employed? And what is your title and position?
A I am employed at the Arkansas Department of Human Services. I'm the division director of developmental disabilities.
Q And how long have you been in that position?
A Seven years.
Q Okay. And what was your position prior to that?
A Deputy director.
Q And before that?
A I was in office of chief counsel.
Q Okay.
What year did you graduate law school?
A 2005.
Q Did you immediately come to work at DHS or did you --
A I did.
Q All right. In your role as director, can you briefly describe what are some of your responsibilities? Especially with respect to the human development centers.

A The division oversees any service that Medicaid pays for, for people with developmental disabilities, intellectual disabilities, or delays.

So we oversee community programs and then we oversee facility-based programs. We administer lots of programs. Early intervention day treatment centers, adult day treatment centers.

We operate two waiver programs, oversee a managed care program called the PASSE.

Q How do you spell that?

A P-A-S-S-E.

Q Okay.

A We oversee occupational therapy, speech therapy, physical therapy, applied behavioral analysis therapy, day habilitation services.

We run two federally-funded grant programs and we operate five intermediate care facilities for people with IDD; and they're called the human development centers.

Q Okay. Where are those five human development centers located?

A Booneville, Jonesboro, Arkadelphia, Conway, and Warren.

Q All right. I'm going to first ask you about the Booneville facility. When was it first established?

A It was established as a tuberculosis center. It's our oldest facility. I don't know the exact date of when it was opened as a tuberculosis center or as the HDC.

Q Okay. Do you know how many -- do you call them clients or patients that stay there and live there?

A We refer to them as clients or residents. There's -- on average, it hovers around a hundred at Booneville.

Q So averages around a hundred total clients that Booneville; is that correct?

A In a given day.

Q All right. Can you give just a general overview of the types of persons that would reside there?

Not any specific individual's information, but just generally, the types of disabilities they may suffer from.

A Uh-uh. So, in order to receive services at any intermediate care facility, you have to meet institutional level of care and be deemed intellectually disabled.

And there's five qualifying diagnoses. Epilepsy seizure disorder, down syndrome, autism, cerebral palsy, and then a generalized intellectual disability prescribed by a physician.

And then you also have to have some deficits in your daily living skills.

Q Okay.

Are you familiar with David Cains?
A I read David Cains' case several years ago.
Q Okay.
A When his death happened.
Q Did you -- had you ever met him in person?
A I had not.
Q Okay. So then everything you know would be from what you've read or heard?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And do you know what his particular disabilities were?
A I do not.
Q Okay. Do you know what particular protocols were in place with respect to his care or other treatment?
A I do not.
Q Okay. So there's about a hundred at Booneville; correct?
A (Witness moves head up and down.)
Q And the other four, what's the total, approximately, in the other four?
A We have, on average, around 900 clients across the five centers any time.
Conway is our largest. It's usually around 425 clients at Conway. The rest are between 90 and a hundred.

Q Okay. And would you agree with me that the individuals, the clients in these facilities, have rights to dignity?
A Yes.
Q Rights to be treated just like any other person with respect toward their life?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And, in fact, that's a goal that you all strive to accomplish; correct?
A With all our clients.
Q Right.
Are you familiar with the restraint methods that are used at some of the different facilities?
A I have some understanding of it, yes.
Q Okay. And I'll -- I think they do vary from place to place, so I'll just ask about Booneville.
What's your knowledge and understanding of the restraint procedures and policies before June 13th of 2020 at Booneville?
A Can you be more specific?
Q Sure. Do you know what types of restraints were allowed? And, again, when I'm asking about these, I'm asking on or before the date that our client died. Not changes that may have occurred.
So do you know what restraints were used or allowed?

A So I don't know the all-encompassing list. I will tell you I know that they were allowed to do physical restraints and chemical restraints and mechanical restraints.

And, at Booneville, they utilized a papoose board. But I do believe they had other types of mechanical restraints.

Q Okay. Do you know what types of physical restraints they were permitted to use?

A Well, a physical restraint is any time you have your hands and you're restraining someone, so I don't really understand that question.

Q All right. Yeah, that's fine. Do you understand that there are certain federal guidelines that regulate the types of care and treatment and restraints that can be used on clients in these facilities?

A Yes. The Center for Medicare and Medicaid sets guidelines.

Q And I know I'm asking questions that seem silly; because I know you know and I --

A You're fine.

Q I have to ask for the record, you understand.

A You're fine.

Q Okay. But you're not intimately familiar with the specific guidelines with respect to the restraints; is that correct?

A That's just a really broad question. So we have policies around restraint usage that are in compliance with federal and state law.
Q Okay. Do you know if restraining -- well, let me back up.
What would be an example of a situation, again, before June of 2020, where a physical restraint would be allowed or permitted?
A We utilize restraints if a resident is being a harm to himself or herself or others and the -- and there's no other de-escalation technique that has work.
Q Okay. So do you require de-escalation techniques to be employed first?
A De-escalation techniques are part of the training that all of our staff go through.
Q Okay. But is that some -- are they trained to try those de-escalation techniques first?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And do you know if they're also trained on specific ways to block individuals that may be more aggressive?
A I have not been through the CPI training --
Q Okay.
A -- so I can't get into detail.

Q That's totally fine. So if they -- tell me if I'm getting this wrong.

But what I heard was if a -- if a client presents a risk of danger to themselves or other, then they're able to be restrained. Is that your understanding?

A For safety.

Q For safety. Okay. And do you know, is there some hierarchy of what level of restraint is supposed to be used?

A No. It's individualized.

Q Okay. So the individual staff member would have flexibility to choose what restraint to use in the moment?

A Well, in accordance with that resident's behavior management plan.

Q Okay. Would you agree though that they're supposed to use the least restrictive means possible?

A I don't think I could answer that without seeing the behavior management plan for that client.

Q Okay. But you don't know if there's a federal policy or regulation that mandates that you are to use -- and when I say you, I don't mean you personally.

A I know.

Q That Booneville is to use the least restrictive method possible when it comes to restraints, you're not aware of any federal rules or regulations to that effect?

A No. I know, federally, we can do restraints based on safety.
Q Okay. But you're not aware of any federal rules or regulations that state an escalation? You're not aware of that?
A Do you have a federal rule you could show me that you're referring to?
Q No. I'm just trying to find out what you have a knowledge of. And, of course, the other attorney can show you anything he needs to.
All right. When did you first learn that there was an incident that occurred in June of 2020 involving Mr. Cains?
A I don't know the date. It was two years ago.
Q Okay. Do you know if it was the same day?
A I don't.
Q Okay. I guess one thing I would ask is, before your deposition today, did you review any documents in preparation?
A I did not.
Q Okay. And I'm not going to be asking you any confidential discussions you may have had that could fall within an attorney-client privilege potentially, but did you discuss the nature of the case, the facts of the case, with anyone else that's not -- that wouldn't have a privilege?

A I did not.

Q Okay.

All right. What is your understanding of what happened with Mr. Cains that day?

A My understanding is Mr. Cains was having lunch and that he went to the restroom and came out agitated and there was a fall and he started to aspirate.

Again, I read the case probably two years ago.

Q I understand. You have access to all of those reports and reports; correct?

A I do. Uh-huh.

Q Okay. Is this any particular reason you didn't take a look at that before today?

A I did not have time.

Q Okay. I understand.

All right. Do you recall that he had been restrained prior to aspirating?

A No.

Q Okay. So you don't have any recollection that he was restrained before he aspirated?

A No.

Q Okay.

I want to ask you about the Arkansas Disability

Rights of Arkansas. Are you familiar with them?
A I am.
Q Okay. Can you tell me what kind of organization they are, what their general purpose is?
A Federally, we're required in Arkansas, when you have a developmental disabilities division, you're required to have a three-pronged organizational structure in your state.

So Disability Rights fills one of those three prongs along with my division and the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville. They are a federal advocacy organization that's been designated by the state to be the advocacy organization here in Arkansas.
Q Okay. So they're -- I want to make sure I get this right.

They're a federally-designated agency that the State of Arkansas has required to be, for lack of a better word, a watchdog over these types of facilities or to at least be involved?

And, if you don't like my word watchdog, you can characterize it however you want.
A Yeah, I think the intent of Disability Rights Arkansas is to advocate for people with intellectual and developmental disabilities.

Your term of watchdog, that's -- I don't think that's the intent of their organization.

Q Fair enough. But they are impowered to conduct investigations when there's alleged maltreatment of someone or there's a death; correct?
A They have certain authorities, federally, to come in, if they meet the requirements.
Q Okay. What requirements do they have to meet?
A Well, there's a lot of requirements, if someone has a guardian, what they can and can not ask for.
Q Okay. Can you explain to me what they can and can not get if there's a guardian?
A I would have to get -- to pull up the federal regs; because I go through them every time we get a request.
Q Okay.
A So, no. If you could just hand them to me, I could read them and paraphrase it.
Q That's all right. If you don't know, you don't know.
All right. But you would agree that they are mandated to be involved, I think you said, in the three, there's you, U of A, and then Disability Rights of Arkansas; correct?
A There's a three-prong requirement under --
Q Three-prong --
A -- the DD Act.

Q Okay. So their involvement, on some level, is required by law?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And would you agree that Disability Rights Arkansas has, as one of its primary missions, to try to protect the rights of those who have disabilities?
A Yeah. I mean, I think that would be -- I think that is probably part of their mission.
Q Okay. And would you agree with me that it's important that they are there to be one of the three prongs of involvement?
A I think it's always important to have conflict-free types of situations where other organizations are looking out for clients.
Q Okay. So Disability Rights Arkansas, they fill that organization of not having a conflict and being able to be involved to advocate? Is that what you're saying?
A I don't know if they have a conflict or not. I'm not saying that. I'm just saying it's important for other people to have their eyes on clients. But I'm not speaking directly to DRA.
Q Well, you had said conflict free when I was --
A Uh-huh.
Q -- questioning them, so I just -- what did you mean when you said conflict free?

A Well, I think it's important to have organizations that are conflict free. I did not say DRA was conflict free.
Q Okay.
A They're federally required to be one of the three prongs. That doesn't mean they're conflict free.
Q Okay. Do you think they have some conflict of interest in coming in and investigating maltreatment?
A I think that they do have some special interest in what they investigate and what they don't.
They're very little -- very small involvement with clients outside of facilities is always concerning to me.
Q Okay. So they're not maybe as involved with clients that are not in a facility that maybe reside at home?
A Which is thousands of clients.
Q Many more in the homes?
A Many more.
Q Right. Okay. They don't ever investigate any of those allegations?
A It's very minimal.
Q Okay. All right.
MR. GREEN: I'm going to mark this document Exhibit 1.
(WHEREUPON, the document was marked for identification as Exhibit No. 1 and is attached hereto.)

BY MR. GREEN:
Q I want to let you take a look at it. And I'm going to provide one to your attorney.
A Thank you.
Q Would you take a -- just look at that document and then let me know once you've had a chance just to kind of look over it and let me know if you recognize it and can identify it.
A I do recognize it. Tom Masseau sent me this, I think, via e-mail. It might have been a different format but the content is the same.
Q Yeah, I think there may be some reductions in this particular company.
But who did you say sent it to you?
A Tom Masseau.
MR. GILLISPIE: Can we take a quick bathroom break?
BY MR. GREEN:
Q Can you spell his name real quick for me though?
A I'll just read it from here. M-a-s-s-e-a-u.
Q Okay. That way the court reporter --
VIDEOGRAPHER: We are off the record at 10:02 a.m.
(WHEREUPON, the record was suspended momentarily and the proceedings resumed as follows, to wit.)

VIDEOGRAPHER: We are back on the record at 10:10 a.m.

BY MR. GREEN:

Q All right. Ms. Weatherton, you understand you're still under oath; correct?

A I do.

Q All right.

I want to go back to Disability Rights of Arkansas because I just want to make sure I understand if you believe they have any conflicts of interest, bias; especially with respect to investigating incidents at human development centers. Particularly, Booneville.

A I do think they have bias.

Q Okay. In what way?

A They have made it very clear that they want to close all of the human development centers. That's been their stands for the last, I would say, at least ten years.

Q All right. And I'll talk about some of the things about that.

Do you know what some of the reasons are that they've stated they want to close the human development center?

A I would say that the director just has a -- fundamentally, does not believe clients should live in a congregate setting and they should be out in the community.

Q Okay. Has he written any publications to that effect that, in general, he doesn't believe in the group settings? Do you know of anything he's ever written, any speeches he's given?

A Yes.

Q Anything like that where --

A Yes.

Q -- he has said --

A He is very open about it.

Q Okay. All right. And was this a publication? Was it a speech?

A I don't know if there's anything that's been published. But he -- he's not scared to say it.

He says it at public events, he says it on phone calls, he says it in group meetings.

Q That he thinks every human development center should be closed?

A Yes.

Q Across the entire country?

A I don't know. Mine are called human development centers, they're called ICFs in other --

Q Correct.

A Right? But I would say, specifically, yes, human development centers in Arkansas.
Q Okay.
Do you think that Disability Rights of Arkansas has something of value to add to your organization?
A Yes.
Q Okay. So, even though there's a bias, you believe, you still do value some of their input; correct?
A I value their role as a, as a protection and advocacy group. I wish it was spread across all of our clients and it wasn't so focused.
I wish there wasn't a bias when they come in to my HDCs. I think, if they advocated and protected all of my clients, I'd have more respect for them.
Q All right. Have you ever addressed that with -- and I'm not going to pronounce his name correctly, probably, but Mr. Masseau? Or how do you pronounce it?
A Masseau.
Q Masseau?
A Yes. I have -- we have had lots of discussions over the years.
Q Okay.
I think you said earlier you have about five to six hundred clients in the human development center; is that right?

A No, it's about 900.
Q Nine hundred? Okay. I misheard.
A That's okay.
Q I don't take a ton of notes because that's what we've got --
A Right?
Q -- a court reporter here for.
And I know it's many, many more, other client and other people you provide services for. Like, for instance, in homes, approximately how many -- and I'm not trying to get you pinned down on a number.
A Yeah.
Q But approximately how many aren't in the human development centers?
A We have approximately -- probably 5,500 that receive services through a 1950-C waiver program that's called community employment supports.
We've got 180 kids who receive services through a waiver called the autism waiver. We've got 70,000 kids that receive OTPT speech, right under a thousand who receive autism services, 32,000 who go to our day treatment programs. Thousands.
Q And that is -- am I correct in assuming that is quite an expensive endeavor for the state?
A Medicaid --

Q For medicaid --
A -- in general, yes. Medicaid, in general, across the nation, it's -- some of their highest spend is for specialty populations. Physically disabled, aging, behavioral health, and intellectual developmental disabilities.
Q Right. And it's -- in Arkansas, at least, there's a larger expense for those that are not in the human development center just because of the sheer numbers? Would I be correct in assuming that?
A I mean, yes. We -- we pay a lot of money for our programs because of the -- more recipients.
Q And Disability Rights of Arkansas, do you know how they're funded?
A You know, I don't.
Q Okay. Do you know if they're funded through the government?
A I assume they're funded through the federal government.
Q Okay. And, with any kind of government, you'd agree with me, there's limited budgets, you're always having to fight to get every extra dollar with the legislature or congress; right?
A Right. Yes.
Q Yeah.

A You're always trying to --
Q That's part of your --
A -- take care of your own.
Q Okay. And do you have any idea how many people are on staff at Disability Rights of Arkansas?
A I don't.
Q Okay.
And correct me if I'm wrong; but, at some point toward the end of 2022, did you or some others from DHS at a hearing in front of the legislature talk about, you know, shortages, not having enough funds to be able to provide all of the things that you would like to be able to do, so that family members would be able and eligible to get certain payments to take care of some of their family members at home with disabilities?
A No.
Q Okay. I may have misread the article.
So are you telling me that DHS, in your division, is fully funded to take care of all of the thousands and thousands that are not in the human development center?
A We are.
Q Okay. All right. Now --
A In fact, what you might have seen was the legislature giving me the funding so I could release more slots so more people could be served under our waiver program.

Q Yeah, I think -- I thought I read something that you could give funds to family members because you didn't have enough staff.
A Oh, so what you were thinking of -- so there's restrictions in federal waivers and you get to decide whether or not family can be employees.
Q Uh-huh.
A And, because of COVID, and we are experiencing staffing shortages across the nation, I went in and unmarked that restriction.

So now a mom or a dad or a legal guardian can be hired by a Pathfinders or a Easter Seals, a Medicaid provider, and they can be trained, drug screened, background checked, and they can be employees of that provider and be paid to provide for their own children or adults. And, before that, was the restriction.

So we actually just did that because we are releasing 3,000 more slots.
Q All right.
A So we're adding on 3,000 clients.
Q And you say employees, they're not actually employees of your agency?
A Private.
Q Correct.

A Private providers.
Q Right. And I think you just said your agency and other agencies across the country have experienced shortages in being able to provide full levels of care; and that's part of the reason for -- A Family.
Q -- this family program?
A Yes.
Q Okay.
So you've told me about their bias, you think Disability Rights of Arkansas would like to shut them all down, all of your human development centers.
But you also said they do provide some value. So can you tell me how they contribute and provide value to your organization?
A I mean, it's a -- because they're so focused on the human development centers, it is contentious at times with that organization.
Q Okay.
A I -- I actually can't think of anything right this second. Maybe come back to it.
Q Okay.
Well, yeah, let's talk a little bit more about restraints. So I know you talked a little bit about that. You don't know all the details about the restraints.

But would you agree with me that it's a goal of your organization to reduce restraints as much as possible?

A Absolutely.

Q And is that because, whenever someone has to be restrained, it increased the risk of danger to that client and to staff and to potentially others?

A Yes.

Q And, in fact, am I correct that y'all have had annual reviews to try to reevaluate restraint policies?

A I wouldn't call them annual reviews.

So we have a committee that meets regularly. Of course, we track restraints. We have groups at each HDC who track restraint usage.

I would say, since COVID, we've renewed our effort on reducing restraint usage. We actually had a meeting yesterday and our restraint usage is down 50 percent at my Arkadelphia Human Development Center. I only know that because the superintendent mentioned it on the phone.

I have not received the percentages from the other HDCs.

Q Okay. And there are different types of restraints; correct?

A Uh-huh.

Q Like there's mechanical?
A (Witness moves head up and down.)
Q Can you explain what a mechanical restraint would be? Give examples?
A I can. So a mechanical restraint is when a device is utilized.
So an example would be the papoose board that we talked about earlier at the Booneville HDC or a wrap device that's wrapped around the client to keep them from harming themselves.
Q Okay. Those are mechanical restraints?
A Those are.
Q Okay. So are there -- what are some of the nonmechanical restraints that are used?
A So nonmechanical, like so there's not -- so --
Q Something that's not in the mechanical category.
A Okay. So there's -- there's physical holds --
Q Uh-huh.
A -- and then chemical restraints.
Q Okay. And does your agency keep statistics as far as how many restraints are used at each facility --
A We do.
Q -- on an ongoing basis?
A We do.
Q Okay. How long have you been keeping those statistics for both the mechanical, and I'm going to say nonmechanical, but the holds and the chemical?

A I would say those were being reported prior to me taking my job.
Q Okay. Was there a period of time after you took your job in 2016 where the agency wasn't tracking the -- again, what I'm going to refer to -- you know what I mean when I say nonmechanical restraints; correct?
A We just don't refer to it as that.
Q What do you refer to it as? I'll use your words.
A Physical restraints, mechanical, or chemical.
Q Okay. So was there a period of time after you became the director in 2016 where only the statistics related to the mechanical restraints were being kept and the others were not being kept up?
A No. So you can go back -- so we have a constitutionally appointed board that oversees the HDCs in addition to me. And chemical and mechanical restraints are reported in board minutes each quarter.
Q Okay. What's the name of that board?
A The Developmental Disability Services Board. It's in the statute.
Q And do you know who all's on the board?
A I do. And I knew you were going to do this. We just got new board members. I can get you a board list.

Suzanne McCommon is the president of the board right now.
Q Okay.
Back to this Disability Rights of Arkansas list that I gave you, I think it's approximately seven pages and it gives an accounting of their findings related to Mr. Cains' death. You had read this before; correct?
A I read it when it was sent back in 2020.
Q Okay.
A I responded to it.
Q And -- yes. And we'll get to that in a minute.
Tom Masseau, is he --
A Masseau.
Q Masseau.
A You're fine.
Q Okay. I'm going to think of it like Nasau.
A That's how I remember it. Yes.
Q Tom Masseau.
A No, I think you're right. I think you said it right that time and I didn't the first time.
Q He's still the executive director; correct?
A He is.
Q Do you know how long he's been the executive director?
A He was there when I took my job.
Q Okay. And, this report, it looks like, at the end, it's also signed off on by Kris Stewart, who apparently is an advocate for Disability Rights of Arkansas, and Reagan Stanford, one of the attorneys at Disability Rights of Arkansas; correct?

A It looks like it.

Q Okay.

All right. I'm going to show you what I'm going to mark as Exhibit No. 2.

(WHEREUPON, the document was marked for identification as Exhibit No. 2 and is attached hereto.)

THE WITNESS: Thank you.

BY MR. GREEN:

Q Will you take a minute to look at that and let me know when you can identify it?

A I do. This is a response that I sent to Tom.

Q Okay. So this would have been your response dated November 13, 2020 to Tom in response to what I put forth as Exhibit No. 1; correct?

A Yes.

Q All right. And, in this letter, I think you point out that you're not responding to argue about the report and that -- I think you mentioned in here, from time to time, y'all have disagreements, but you do tell him that you appreciate his involvement with the behavioral consultation committee; is that right?

A Yes.
Q What's the behavioral consultation committee?
A So that's the committee I was referring to, I think, earlier.
Q The statutory committee?
A It's not a statutory committee.

We -- we were concerned when COVID -- well, COVID -- when COVID first hit in March of 2020, we were very concerned that more clients were going to be placed in institutional settings because of the fear that was going around.

You know, nobody understood how it was spreading at the beginning and there were no vaccines; and so we were receiving more client referrals.

And then there was national articles being published at the time of increased restraint usage nationally. Because, the more clients you have in congregate settings and during COVID -- so we started the committee. And it's made up of clinical staff at the Human Development Centers and then there's outside stakeholders on it, so private Medicaid providers.

And then we asked Disability Rights to be a committee member.

Q Okay. And I'm going to jump back to something I mentioned a minute ago. You agree that the goal is to reduce restraints?

A It is.

Q Would it be to eliminate them if that were ever possible? It may not be, but is that the ultimate goal, ideally, to not have to ever use a restraint?

A Yeah.

Q Okay. And would you agree with me that that's not just your agency's position, that's kind of the general position of most organizations that either take care of people with disabilities or advocate for them across the country, to try to reduce restraints as much as possible?

A That's a common theme.

Q Okay. And certainly Disability Rights of Arkansas believes in that pretty severely; correct?

A They do.

Q All right.

Now, the behavioral consultation committee, was that formed at the beginning of COVID, like beginning of 2020, or was that in existence before COVID?

A It wasn't. It was formed right around the time of this letter, so maybe the end of the summer in 2020 when the -- when we started seeing the articles coming out about increased restraint usage in other countries -- in other states.

Q Okay. And who -- were you in charge of setting up that committee?
A I was.
Q Okay. So did you select the persons to be on the committee?
A I did.
Q Okay. And in your letter -- I'm going to say Tom because I keep --
A That's fine.
Q -- butchering his name. If I say a name and you're not sure what I mean, please let me know.
A I will.
Q If I say Booneville, I mean Booneville Human Development Center.
A Right.
Q But Tom, you tell him that you appreciate the feedback that he gave you, ensuring all recommendations were included in subcommittee projects, and then there's several different goals and things listed throughout the pages.

I'm not going to go over every single word of this. One of the goals, it appears, on page one, is to develop a plan and a timeline of recommendations for collection use of data to inform restraint practices as well as consistent and effective use of that data to restraint.

So is that improved data collection and use of that data to help reduce restraints?

A It is; because, even though, you know, we tell each one of the five centers we'd like you to collect certain data points, inevitably, you know, they hear it a little different and they're tracking things a little differently.

So we're always having a renewed effort on really nailing down those metrics. And that's what that was talking about.

And some of my centers were not collecting personal restraint data. Because, like I said, what we've been reporting to the board has been mechanical and chemical restraints. So trying to get some consistency on how the HDCs that were reporting, each one of those, including personal restraints.

Q Okay. So there's mechanical restraint, you've explained chemical restraint, I'm not going to ask you to explain; I can imagine.

And then you just said personal restraint, is that like --

A Yeah. And I said physical before; and, I'm sorry --

Q Is that like --

A -- I used the wrong word. It's personal.

Q As long as we understand what we're talking about --

A Yeah.
Q -- it's okay. But some of your centers were not reporting the personal restraints?
A At least not on the data that was being put in the board book, booklets.
Q Okay. And that would have been as of the date of this letter in 2020?
A (Witness moves head up and down.)
Q Correct?
A Correct.
Q And you were wanting that to be improved?
A Yeah. I was wanting that to be added as one of the things that we report to the board and -- as well as making sure that we were all using the same terminology and putting restraints in the right category, as well as -- honestly, under chemical, my staff were telling me chemical restraints; and, when you hear that terminology, I -- I think about some sort of sedative. And it came out at the beginning, oftentimes, this is just Benadryl.

So I was -- so we -- you know, just down to that kind of level of what are we -- what are we actually talking about here; right?

What type of medications are we talking about. Just trying to get some consistency across all five. It's a constant work in progress.

Q I guess I'll ask you, since you mentioned a little bit about chemical restraints, what are some of the chemical restraint that are used?

You said medications that can include Benadryl, what are some of the other chemical restraints that you're aware of?

A I can not even guess at the names of those pharmaceuticals. But it's all prescribed by the doctor or the APRN or the psychiatrist that we have on staff.

Q Is there -- and I'm not asking for this question about the time of my client's death or before.

I'm just asking if, even today, is there a uniform policy for all of the Human Development Centers as far as what type of chemical restraints to use and what dosages and what criteria?

A Not that I'm aware of.

Q Okay. Do you know any reason why there's not?

A Because drugs interact with people's bodies differently and they're all unique and they're all on different types of medication usually for their intellectual disabilities and their behavioral needs.

So I can't imagine you can have any kind of uniform policy on dosage and types that, you know, that would mix with the medicines they're already on.

Q Is there even a standardized list of approved medications that can be used for restraints?

A Not to my knowledge. I mean, they're only prescribed by physicians, so we -- you know, they go to school for that.
Q Well, I know there's lots -- and I'm not telling you something you don't know. There are lots and lots and lots of regulations that you guys have on you.
So there's just no uniform policy as to what's allowed at this facility versus this, it's left to the discretion of the physician?
A That's my understating.
Q Okay. And -- all right.
So one of the questions I was going to ask you about the physical restraint, since you sent this letter at the end of 2020, have your human development centers started keeping up with that data and reporting it?
A They have.
Q Okay. And are they reporting the chemical and the mechanical restraints as well as the personal or physical?
A They do.
Q Okay. Whenever -- let me back up.
I think it was implied when you said what you do, but in your position, you oversee the human development centers; correct?

A There's two staff below me that oversee them directly. I'm over the whole division.
Q Right. And I know you have lots of other responsibilities but I'm just focusing on the human development centers. So who are your two staff below you that also have supervision --
A I have a pretty large executive team. But I have a deputy, Thomas Tarpley. And then, underneath Tommy is an assistant director, Tammy Benbrook who oversees my human development centers.
Q Okay. But, ultimately, for lack of a better word, you are the boss over those two --
A I am.
Q -- and the facilities? Okay. And -- all right. With respect to -- we've talked about chemical restraints.

With respect to personal restraints or mechanical restraints, do you know what type of policies govern the use of those? Are you familiar with, let me make sure I get all my acronyms correct, CPI/NCI?
A I am. I am familiar with CPI, yes.
Q And can you just briefly explain what that is?
A That's a nationally recognized training curriculum that we put all of our staff through to learn deescalation techniques and proper use of restraints.

Q Okay. And that is the training that has been authorized to be used for your staff at your human development centers; correct?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And staff at your human development centers are supposed to only follow the training they've received; correct?
A They have a lot of training in different areas; but yes, they're supposed to follow with the training.
Q I mean, they're not supposed to just wing it and come up with something different. You expect them to follow their training and the policies that you've put in place; correct?
A Yes.
Q Okay. Are you familiar with Mark Hise, H-i-s-e --
A I'm not.
Q -- at Booneville Center?
A No, sir.
Q Not familiar with him at all?
A Hu-uh.
Q Do you know who does the training at your human development centers of the CPI/NCI stuff?
A We have different trainers at each center. I don't know them.
Q Okay. So is it true, that at each center, there's an employee of your agency that's tasked with the responsibility with being one of the people in charge of that training and making sure that it's in compliance?

A Yes.

Q Okay. You don't know if Mark Hise is the individual that does that at Booneville?

A I don't. I have 1,900 staff. So I just --

Q I understand. I understand. All right. If -- let me back up here.

Who is the superintendent at Booneville?

A Jeff Gonyea.

Q Okay. And does he have an assistant?

A Jennifer Berry.

Q Okay. If they had represented that Mark Hise is the expert on the CPI/NCI for that facility, would you have any reason to disagree with that?

MR. ROSEN: I'm going to interpose an objection as to your representation. She's here to talk about facts, not your representations.

MR. GREEN: Okay. Well, she can answer the question and you've objected.

BY MR. GREEN:

Q If they were to have represented that, would you have any reason to doubt them?

A That's a weird way to ask it. I don't -- I don't -- I already said I don't know who he is. And this is probably going to hurt his feelings that I don't know who he, if he is who he says he is, when he sees this.
Q Do you trust Mr. Gonyea and Ms. Berry to provide accurate information about --
A I do.
Q -- the way their facility is run?
A Yes.
Q Okay. So if they've made a statement about him, you would have expected them to give truthful statements about him?
A I would.
Q Okay. That's good enough.
Do you know who Sandy Evans is?
A I don't.
Q Okay. All right.
You still got Exhibit 2 there in front of you?
A I do.
Q And just a little bit lower down, I think you -- let's see. It's the third paragraph that starts at this response isn't intended to argue.
But, later in that, you state that you agree with Tom that people with disabilities, whether they live at the facility or out in the community, deserve the best possible care; correct?

A Correct.
Q And you're saying Tom, Tom believes that as well?
A I'm responding to his letter, so there must have been something in his letter that referenced that.
Q Because you said you agreed with him; correct?
A This is a letter in response to his letter. I'd have to go back and read his letter.
Q Okay. And you say you agreed that we need to renew our effort to actively reduce restraints. I am committed with your help and other members of the behavioral consultation committee to change the culture and significantly reduce the restraint usage; correct?
A Correct.
Q So I know you've said you wanted to reduce it and you needed help from other partners and Tom and DRA. I'm going to abbreviate Disability Rights of Arkansas as DRA, if that's okay.
A Okay.
Q And you want them to be on the committee and contribute ideas to that as well; correct?
A I do.
Q All right.
And so you wouldn't have put them on the committee if you didn't think they had some value to add to the committee; correct?

A They're federally and state -- my PNA, when we have committees, they're a member.
Q okay. So are you saying you don't value the input they give you? I know -- I'm not -- let me rephrase the question.
I'm not asking if you agree with everything they tell you. But do you listen to what they have to say, give it consideration, when forming your policies?
A Yeah, of course. I listen to -- I listen to what -- all input --
Q Okay.
A -- and consider it when I'm doing policies.
Q Okay. And so their input at least provides some level of value in that way; correct?
A I do listen to their input, yes.
Q Okay.
A And take it into consideration.
Q And would you agree that sometimes they have an idea that you may agree with?
A I think Tom and I both agree that we need to -- I say reduce, he says eliminate. I don't disagree with his sentiments on, on that statement.
Q Okay. You said to change the culture. Were you referring to the culture specifically at the Booneville facility?

A No, I wasn't.
Q What did you mean when you said change the culture?
A I use that phrase a lot when I'm doing training with my staff.
When you have almost 2,000 staff, it's like moving the Titanic when you try to do policy changes. And policy changes don't work if you don't have buy-in. And that buy-in from that many people takes a lot of effort.
Q Okay. And so you're wanting to change the culture from restraints at a certain level to less restraints? Would that be fair to say?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And, as you said, you're over a large number of people, it's important to have written policies that are clear, easy to understand; correct?
A Correct.
Q All right. And whenever -- do your facilities, the human development centers, each have their own set of policies in addition to your overriding policies?
A They do. And that's -- that's due to the office of long-term care.
Q Okay.
A The more we try to standardize, inevitably long-term care, each -- you know, when they go out, they say you need another policy on this or on that. So, you know, we try to standardize.

But, under the regs, it's very hard when we're told to, to deviate.

Q I understand. So if, for instance, the Conway Human Development Center wanted to change one of their regs, what's the procedure they would follow to do that?

Are they allowed to just, on their own, autonomously do that? Do they have to run it up to you or one of your deputies for approval? How do they --

A Are you talking about --

Q -- change their policy?

A So there's -- you know, there's definitely a difference between policy and procedure.

Q Okay.

A So there's a very outlined way to do policy that's promulgated under the APA; and that takes my approval.

Q Okay. So if they're going to change a policy, you expect them to follow the APA?

A If it's promulgated.

Q Okay. And then, but if it's a procedure, they would not need your approval?

A They need Ms. Beenbrook's approval.

Q Okay. And can you give me an example of something that would be a procedure but not a policy?

A Well, a policy, under the APA, is a -- you know, there's a distinct definition of things that affect the public at large and the procedures are internal process.
Q Okay. All right.
A So how you would -- how you would deposit funds, for example, maybe is just a process. It would not be promulgated, although it probably is because we're the state. That's a bad example.

MR. ROSEN: I'm just going to -- I mean, you're asking her about legal issues that really are in the statute.

MR. GREEN: Yeah, I'm asking her knowledge of how rules are -- policy and procedures are implemented at her facilities.

BY MR. GREEN:
Q So I'm just trying to understand.
For instance, restraint use, would that be something that would be a procedure or a policy that would need to be approved through the APA?
A It's my understanding that we have a promulgated policy on some of the restraint usage. There's federal requirements, state requirements that falls under long-term care. That would go up through me.
Q Okay. Great.
And, again, I know we -- some of these, I know the answers to, you know the answer to, but I still have to make the record.

All right. Okay. And, at your centers, are the staff given regular training updates, refresher courses?

A Absolutely.

Q Okay. Is that a uniform policy across all of them, that they get a cert -- they each, each facility gets a certain refresher each year or is it up to each facility to determine what they do?

A No, that's standardized, how they're trained and how they're annually re-upped on training.

I will say, when long-term care comes out, if there's a complaint or an investigation, staff are often immediately retrained on site based on what was found. So there's training going on probably right this very second at all five of them.

Q Something is always happening; right?

A Something is always being trained.

Q And -- okay. Is there a -- I understand, if there's an instance that has happened, you will do immediate training; is that correct? Is that what you're saying?

A It depends on what long-term care.

Q Okay.

A So our regulatory --

Q Ah, all right. But is there a standard, once a year, we have training, whether anything has happened or not?

A Yes. We have annual training.

Q Is that annual training conducted the same time of the year each year? Spring, fall? Is it just scheduled depending on year to year, what all is going on? Do you know?

A I don't know.

Q Okay. Is the training provided by employees at each different facility?

A Yes.

Q Is the training uniform across all of the different facilities?

A I don't know.

Q Okay.

On your letter that you sent back to Tom, I just want to make sure I understand because there's different plans and goals and I want to make sure I understand what, what are your plans and goals and what are not.

On Page Two, at the top, it says action number three, action number four, and then it says DRA recommendation, action five, ensure the use of restraint is regularly monitored including carful evaluations and scrutiny of the recent staff utilized restraint, alternatives to restraint, and follow-up actions in response to restraint.

This includes requiring the clinical and senior administrative staff to be more involved in the day-to-day activities of residents to ensure the individualized treatment or behavior plans are effective and the adequate act of treatment is provided. The process for this oversight should be included in the project plan.

Did you agree with that recommendation?

A Well, you see how I worded that recommendation. So ones that just say action in front of them were recommendations that came out of my department.

This one is a DRA recommendation and I took down word for word what they recommended.

Q Right. So -- but my question is -- I understand that's the recommendation. But my question is, do you agree with that recommendation?

A Let me reread it.

Q Sure.

A I agree with that.

Q And, if it doesn't say DRA recommendation and it says action number four, action number three, that came from your department; is that right?

A It did.

Q Okay. Would it be safe to assume that you agree with those because they came from your department? If it doesn't say DRA or (inaudible) --

A No, I'm just saying those are more our words.

When it says DRA recommendation, I just took down exactly what was sent in by them.

Q Right. I'm just trying to understand, for instance, action number four, develop a template, action number three, update incidents, your agency came up with that?

A We did.

Q Do you agree with those actions?

A Oh, yes, I do.

Q Okay. So you wouldn't put an action in there that you wrote if you didn't agree with it and intend to try to implement it?

A Right. And, just remember, this all came out of the committee and there's other stakeholders on the committee.

Q Sure.

A I don't remember at the time, I'd have to go back and look at my e-mails, but Disability Rights wanted their exact language in the plan.

What we did with all these is we put together a behavioral consultation plan that we published and put online. And they asked for their exact words to be used and for -- you know, rather than paraphrase like I had on the others.

Q Right. Yeah. And I understand completely, if it says DRA, you may not agree with that.
A Right.
Q I'm just trying to confirm --
A On the rest.
Q -- if, on the rest that you all drafted, it seems like an obvious question, but you agree with what you drafted and put in --
A I did.
Q -- with actions one and two -- okay.
A Right.
Q I'm not trying to trick you. I just want to make sure. I know you don't necessarily agree with all of the DRA recommendations.

On the next section where it talks about preferred restraint and communication options, excuse me, it says develop a project plan is the goal, timeline of recommendations for implementing the best devices, including communication devices.

What does that mean? Implement communication devices.
A It can mean a wide variety. You know, we have -- we have clients that cannot communicate at all. We have clients that utilize sign language. We have clients that need various either technology pieces or different methods in order to be able to communicate their needs, wants.

And so it's -- it's kind of self explanatory in terms of like go back and reevaluate and make sure that our clients have the most comprehensive communication device they can so they can communicate the best they can.

Q I understand your answer. My confusion was -- and I get your answer is you're talking about communication devices to help assist those clients and being able to better communicate with staff.

A Yes.

Q I didn't know if the communication devices meant communication among staff or -- so I was just trying to --

A Oh, no.

Q -- delineate, so that was my question.

A Okay.

Q DRA's recommendation and action was to ban the use of the papoose board as a form of restraint. Do you agree with that as a goal or not?

A We've done that.

Q Okay. Y'all have already implemented that?

A We did.

Q Okay.

On the last page where your signature's at, at the top, it says external advocate recommendations and it says Tom is the chair. So he was the chair of the external advocate group of the committee; is that right?

A Yes.

Q Okay. I don't want to get the terminology wrong. All right. And I'm assuming these goals and actions -- well, I don't want to assume. Let me ask you.

Underneath where it says that he is the chair -- and you had designated him in the chair; correct?

A I think he volunteered, but, yes.

Q I mean, it was your decision; right? You could have said no?

A I try to be polite, but, yes.

Q All right. But you wouldn't put him on there if you didn't -- never mind.

I assume you don't put people in positions that are not competent to be able to handle the position, generally.

A Well, I mean --

Q Right?

A I can't speak for all situations.

Q Well, sometimes people turn out not to be competent, but you don't know any (inaudible); right?

A That's true.
Q It has a goal and then it has actions listed. Were those actions that you all agreed with? Or were those DRA actions that agreed with some, not others?
A I was trying to read through them really quickly.
Q Yeah. Take a minute.
A Yeah.
Q I'm not trying to rush you. We can take a break. Whatever you need.
A All but number five. I agree with actions one through four. I agreed to research independent investigators, but there's a lot of complications around that. And Tom and I had a lot of discussion.

We already have so much oversight that I disagreed that we needed a fourth, you know, entity to come in and do investigations when we already do one ourselves, we already have adult protective services, we already have office of long-term care, we have the attorney general's office.

And, you know, that's a lot of people investigating our facilities and I -- so I did disagree with action five that we need yet another investigative agency.
Q Okay. You said it quick, and I was trying to write this down.
A Oh, yeah.

Q You said their adult -- that the investigators you deal with are adult protective services, long-term care, the attorney general, I mean --
A Child protective services, DCFS.
Q Okay.
A And then we do our own investigations as well.
Q DHS or DD --
A DDS on behalf of long-term care. We do one, initial for reporting.
Q That's one, two -- yeah. You said five.
All five agencies wouldn't necessarily investigate every incident; correct?
A No. Only if child abuse or maltreatment is suspected. Only if adult maltreatment or abuse is suspected would they be called in.
Q Right.
A The AG's office, it's their discretion, whether or not they come in and do an additional investigation. But they are notified.
Q All right. So, if it's an adult in adult protective services, do they automatically come in and do one or do they have to be requested?
A We automatically have to -- we're mandated reporters. We automatically notify. I don't know -- I haven't represented them in many years.

Q Okay. Gotcha. And, long-term care, do they automatically come in and do an investigation or do they have to be requested --

A They automatically do investigations, yes.

Q Okay. And do they draft a separate report, each of these different entities?

A They do.

Q Okay. What about the attorney general?

A They're always notified.

Q Okay. And, obviously, if it's not a child, you would notify Child Protective Services.

A Right.

Q Okay. And then, DDS, you all do your own investigation?

A (Witness moves head up and down.)

Q Okay. And then, to a certain extent, DRA does some, but they have a limited information; correct?

A Yes. If they -- they pick and choose, but, yes. Like in this case, clearly, they have put out some sort of investigative report.

Q Okay. And -- but these other agencies that you mentioned, they would have full access to all the records; correct?

A Yes.

Q All right.

THE WITNESS: I'm sorry. I really need to use the restroom.

MR. ROSEN: Let's take a break.

VIDEOGRAPHER: We are off the record at 10:59 a.m.

(WHEREUPON, the record was suspended momentarily and the proceedings resumed as follows, to wit.)

VIDEOGRAPHER: We're back on the record.

BY MR. GREEN:

Q Ms. Weatherton, you understand you're still under oath?

A I do.

Q All right. You said something earlier and I think I -- I'm not sure if I wrote it down correctly.

When I was asking about the different five agencies that do investigations and also about training, that sometimes there's training after an event, but you always have an annual training.

And the training after an event, did you say if long-term care deems that it's necessary or --

A (Witness moves head up and down.)

Q Okay.

A Or if we do -- because we do an investigation. We do a preliminary when we report it, so --

Q Okay.
A -- retraining is a big part of our curriculum.
Q Okay. So, if something's happened, either you all might put some training in immediately or long-term care?
A Correct.
Q Okay.
All right. I'm going to show you what I'm going to mark as a No. 3.
(WHEREUPON, the document was marked for identification as Exhibit No. 3 and is attached hereto.)
BY MR. GREEN:
Q Let me know once you recognize that document.
A I recognize it.
Q It says it's a DDS behavior consultation committee report summary from April 2022; is that right?
A That's right.
Q And this is the same committee we were talking about earlier that you appoint the members of; is that correct?
A That's right.
Q Okay. And I know this report was generated in April and there's certain objectives.
MR. ROSEN: And I just want to ask, this is -- April of 2022 is the date on the report.
MR. GREEN: Uh-huh.

MR. ROSEN: I mean, is there a relevance to this claim?

MR. GREEN: Yeah. Yeah. I'm going to --

MR. ROSEN: Okay. Well --

MR. GREEN: -- ask a couple of questions that will make it relevant.

MR. ROSEN: Okay. I mean, based on --

MR. GREEN: I'm not going --

MR. ROSEN: -- public policy by the State of Arkansas, about any, anything that has happened since this, I don't know how -- I object to the relevance. Let's put it that way.

MR. GREEN: Okay. I gotcha. I'm not going to --

MR. ROSEN: And I don't know what your questions are.

MR. GREEN: Yeah, yeah. I'm not going to go through page by page.

MR. ROSEN: And so I'll just have a standing objection to each one. I might interpose and additional objection on anything in this report would be not relevant to the claim that is being put forth in front of the claims commission since this is two years later.

MR. GREEN: And I have no problem treating it as a continuing objection.

MR. ROSEN: Thank you.

BY MR. GREEN:

Q Really, what I wanted to just double check, there's objectives, I won't go through all of those since those objections were formed afterwards.

The very last page lists committee members. And I know that you formed this committee, I think you said, around the time you wrote the letter back to Tom in November of 2020; is that right?

A Yeah. It was a few weeks or months prior to. I just can't remember the exact date.

Q That's okay. I'm not to holding you to an exact month. I'm just trying to get a general idea.

And you're obviously on the committee; and I then I see where the outside partners, Dr. Charlie Green from Pathfinders, Tom from DRA, Reagan Stanford's from DRA, Josh Wilson, I don't know how to say to Dr. Evans' first name.

A Syard.

Q Syard.

A Uh-huh.

Q Were these the committee members, at least the outside partners, that were on it when you first formed it?

A Yes.
Q Okay. So those outside partners have been on it since you created it?
A Yes.
Q Okay. Are they still serving on the committee?
A You know, we had a meeting yesterday and I don't remember seeing Dr. Wilson or Dr. Evans on the Zoom. I -- so I don't know if they were invited and didn't, weren't able to come, or if they're not on it anymore.
Q Sometimes committee members miss a meeting occasionally?
A Yes.
Q All right. I know, that from reading the documents, that at the time of Mr. Cains' death, there were no cameras at the Booneville facility; is that correct?
A Yes.
Q Okay. In my understanding, the other four human development centers did have cameras; is that correct?
A Somewhat. Not everywhere and the quality was very poor.
Q Okay.
A We're in the process of redoing all five cameras at all five.

Q Okay. So the other four had cameras not covering every square inch and not the greatest quality, but had cameras?
A That's a fair statement.
Q Okay. Have any cameras been installed at Booneville?
A You know, I don't know. We've been working on this camera project for quite a while now.
Q Okay.
A We had to do fibers and internet connectivity and all kinds of stuff to get ready; and I don't know where we are in the process.
Q Okay.
Whenever there is a restraint that has to be used -- well, let me back up.
Would you agree that using a restraint should be an option of last resort if the other deescalation and other things that your staff have been trained have not been successful?
A I think we already talked about this. I didn't answer that because I really don't.
It's so case specific and it's based on that person's behavior plan and I'm just not comfortable answering.
Q Okay. That's fine. That's a perfectly fine answer.

All right. So, when there is a restraint event, I'm going to call it that -- and if I use a word or a phrase that's not the lingo that you guys use, let me know. And I'll try to use your wording.

But, if there is an incident where someone is restrained, what happens after that, as far as your agency?

Is there any automatic investigation? Is it evaluated? Or, you know, what do you do? I know you collect the data, but what is done? And I'm not asking you to disclose anybody's individual information.

A It's my general understanding, so there are -- there's paperwork that the staff members have to complete when any type of restraint is performed. That is routed to the centers human rights committee into the leadership team at HDCs; and then it's also notated on statistical reports.

And, from where I sit, I get statistical data.

Q Okay. Is there anyone -- so you get the statistical data. Is there anyone, one of your deputies or anyone at the actual center, that in addition to taking the reports, actually evaluates to determine the appropriateness of it, what things might need to be changed, or if it was compliant or if there could be other suggestions to help reduce it?

A Uh-huh. So that is my -- that is the role of the human rights committee at each one of the human development centers.
Q Do those committees have a standardized protocol or process that they go by?
A I don't know.
Q Okay. So each one might have different criteria they use in going about it?
A I'm really not sure.
Q Okay.
I'm going to ask you some questions about incidents that have occurred specifically at Booneville but maybe at some of the other centers. In no way, shape, or form, by any of my questions, am I asking you to disclose any names of any persons or any other confidential information.
I'm going to ask you about some things, some occurrences, that were reported in news media that's public information. Just a few questions.
Were you aware of an incident in Booneville that occurred in 2019 where a client had an arm broken by a staff member?
A No.
Q You're not aware of that at all?
A I can't articulate enough the amount of staff that I have, the amount of clients we serve. I am not into that kind of granular level on an incident in 2019.

Q Okay. What if one of your staff members were to be charged and convicted with a felony in relation to that? Would that be something that would rise to your level?

A We've had staff that have over the years; but I'm not familiar with the exact incident that you're talking about.

Q Okay.

All right. Are you aware of an incident in January of 2019, also in Booneville, where a client lost consciousness based on a choke hold that they were placed in by a staff member?

A No.

Q Okay.

Do you have an opinion as to whether or not a choke hold around someone's neck that rendered them unconscious would be appropriate?

A I'm not going to give an opinion on something I don't know about it.

Q Okay. So you don't know about the proper restraint as dictated by the CPI/NCI? You have other people that train that and teach that; correct?

A Yes. And you prefaced this with saying in the media; so, if the media paraphrased it as a choke hold, that does not mean that's what occurred.

Q Okay. You're correct.
I can show you this newspaper article, if you'd like to see it, because you actually were quoted in it. Would you like to see it?
A Is that the 2017 -- what was that?
Q This is the 2019. Those two incidents I just mentioned. I've got -- I'm not going to make -- well, if you want me to make an exhibit --
MR. ROSEN: It's your deposition, so --
MR. GREEN: Okay. Sure.
MR. ROSEN: -- however you choose to proceed, and I'll respond appropriately.
MR. GREEN: Is this number four? This will be marked as a No. 4.
(WHEREUPON, the document was marked for identification as Exhibit No. 4 and is attached hereto.)
BY MR. GREEN:
Q And you have to look at the very, very back page where it says the article was contributed by Eric Besson at the Arkansas Democrat Gazette. This was an article that appeared in the Arkansas Democrat Gazette.
MR. ROSEN: Well, let's take a few minutes. It's a four to five page document.

MR. GREEN: Yeah, I'm not -- I'm not asking about the merits.

MR. ROSEN: Oh.

BY MR. GREEN:

Q At the top, it says September 14th, 2020. Take a minute.

MR. ROSEN: Do we want to go off the record or no?

THE WITNESS: Do I need to read this? Are you going to ask me questions?

MR. GREEN: I'm going to ask you specific question if -- and

MR. ROSEN: Then we need to read it then.

MR. GREEN: If I ask -- okay. Yeah.

MR. ROSEN: Okay. So let's take a few minutes. Let's take another five-minute break and read it.

VIDEOGRAPHER: We are off the record at 11:24 a.m.

(WHEREUPON, the record was suspended momentarily and the proceedings resumed as follows, to wit.)

VIDEOGRAPHER: We are back on the record at 11:46 a.m.

BY MR. GREEN:

Q All right. Ms. Wetherington, I know I keep asking, but I have to, you understand you're under oath?
A Yes.
Q Have you had to look over what's marked as number -- Exhibit 4 and 5?
A Yes.
Q Okay. I just have a couple of quick questions.

Exhibit No. 4 was the news article that I had referenced about the broken arm in 2019 and loss of consciousness due to a choke hold that same year.

There was also something about the Conway Human Development Center that I did not mention. But, on page two -- your last name used to be Stone; correct?
A Correct.
Q It says that Director Melissa Stone said the events described in the documents were self reported by the centers. In other words, the centers reported these incidents; correct?
A Yes.
Q And that you describe them as isolated incidents that should be categorized as abuse, not a personal restraint gone wrong. Was that your quote?
A Yes.
Q Was that an accurate quote of yours, as far as you can remember?

A Yeah. Like I said earlier, I just don't remember the exact -- I just don't remember the facts around these cases; but, yeah, I mean --
Q Yeah. And I'm not asking you to remember the facts --
A Uh-huh.
Q -- and I don't want to get into other personal data, but just the general -- is the general idea -- is your belief still that those incidents like that or those incidents were isolated and were not a personal restraint gone wrong but were actually abuse?
A It's my understanding we found that the -- both of these incidents that you mentioned were -- we found abuse. That the employee abused the clients and they were terminated.
Q Correct. And it also has you quoted as saying what happened was not in compliance with our training and we consider the behavior maltreatment of our clients.
It says that you wrote that in an e-mail. Of course, they could be lying. But if, if the actions of staff were not in compliance with the training and it's considered maltreatment and abuse, does that sound like your belief?
A Staff are terminated, yes.
Q Okay. Because you told me earlier you expect them to follow the training they've been given; correct?

A Right.
Q And, if they fail to follow that training, that can cause abuse?
A I mean, they -- abuse can be caused, you know --
Q I don't mean exclusively.
A Right.
Q But failure to follow proper training can cause abuse; correct?
A Correct.
Q On page -- I guess it's the third page of the article, under the section that begins reducing use, going to third paragraph down, cites to a government report from 2003 that restraints, that seclusion care is a risk of serious injury and death.

I think, earlier, you said restraint increases the risk of danger to injury to clients and the staff; correct?
A Yes. This is referring to a federal mental health agency report. Not anything that we put out.
Q Right. Not anything you've put out. But you're not changing your earlier statement that restraints -- when someone has to be put into a restraint, it increases the danger of harm to clients and staff; correct?
A Yes. It's weighed, you know? They're already a danger to themselves or others or they wouldn't be going in, so --

Q Okay. Also under that section reducing use, one, two, three, four, five, six, seventh paragraph down, where it says she added, and it's referring to a statement you made in the previous paragraph about having a plan updated annually to reduce restraint use, which you already I think testified about, but it says that staff is trained de-escalation techniques and that a committee was created in 2017 in response to reports of excessive restraint use at Booneville led by a psychologist.

That was different committee than the one we've been discussing earlier that you said you formed in 2020; correct?

A Yes. And you notice that's not in quotes. I don't know what they took from what I said to write that.

Q Fair enough. But it's definitely not the one we've been discussing earlier, if it was one, they may have misquoted you?

A The consultation committee that we've been talking about was enacted in 2020.

Q Okay. Perfect. That's just what I wanted to clarify.

The next page over says criminal convictions. And did you read the portion that stated the staff member who broke the resident's arm at Booneville pled guilty to a second-degree felony battery?

A The second paragraph under criminal convictions?

Q Yes, ma'am.

A Yes, that's what it says.

Q Okay. And it talks about some abuse at Conway but I'm not going to ask about that.

All right. That's all I'm going to ask you about No. 4.

BY MR. GREEN:

Q No. 5 is another Arkansas Democrat Gazette article. At the top says published January 31, 2021. Did you have time to read that earlier?

A I did go through it; but, if you'll point out where your -- what you're asking, that would help.

Q Oh, yeah. I'm not -- I'm not going to just ask you to tell me what it means.

A Okay.

Q Just a few very specific questions. This article, while I don't believe it names Mr. Cains by name, was it obvious to you in reading this that this refers to Mr.

Cains?
A Yes.
Q Okay. It references Booneville, that he liked the Monkees, the band. Those were some characteristics of Mr. Cains; correct?
A Yes.
Q Okay. On the second page, and it's -- I hate to say paragraph because some of these are just a line, but --
A Right.
Q -- the one, two -- on the second one down, where it says his death not revealed in news reports, do you see that paragraph?
A I do.
Q Okay. It said that -- it states that provides new context for the state's division of developmental disabilities services' promise in September to review the use of physical restraints and restraining devices in its five human development centers.

And is that -- would that have been September 2021? I mean, I'm sorry. 2020. Because this was published in January 2021. I misspoke.
A I don't know what, what she's saying there.
Q Okay.

And, earlier, you said that this committee that we talked about that was formed in 2020, you first -- you said it was around the time you wrote that letter in November 2020, that you said it could have been a couple of months before, and that was certainly formed to review the use of restraints and see what could be done to help minimize those; correct?

A It was.

Q Okay.

Do you see where, one, two, three, I believe it's the fourth one down, that says Stone stopped short of saying?

A I did see that. I again don't know what she's referring to.

Q Yeah. And I'm not going to ask about the trigger language. This reporter said that the state was influenced by restraint data assessment that officials undertook during the pandemic lockdowns to see if the isolation effected residents. And then, in quotes that are attributable to you, the quote is those numbers were high, she said, we need to reengage ourselves in this.

Do you -- does that sound like something you would have said or believed at the time?

A This is referring to what you and I talked about earlier which is, during the pandemic, we were concerned nationally and here in Arkansas, we were receiving more clients and the isolation was affecting restraint increases.

Q Okay. That's what I thought. I just wanted to make sure.
Let's see. I know it's been a little while since you reviewed the actual documents related to David's death but -- I know you just saw this article.
Do you recall, that when emergency medical arrived on the scene, they were not told that there had been any restraint leading up to the vomiting and the aspiration?
A I do remember looking at some of the reports, but -- I wish you had them so I could relook at them; because it's been two-and-a-half years.
Q Okay. But you recall that was not disclosed?
A I don't remember what the witness statement said.
Q Okay. Do you think it would have been important for your staff to tell emergency medical personnel that arrived on scene as much detail as they can about the circumstances leading up to an emergency event, a medical event?
A That's really speculating. I don't know -- I don't feel comfortable answering about this case when I haven't reviewed it in so long.
Q Okay. But just, in general, if an ambulance shows up on the scene, would you agree that it's important that someone that was a witness to whatever occurred that caused an ambulance to get there would tell the ambulance as much as they know about what happened?

A If I remember correctly, in this case, he was unfortunately choking and the paramedics were very aware he was choking and were actively trying to remove it from his throat.
Q Yeah, and I'm not asking about this case.
I guess my question is, would you agree with me that it's better to provide more information to medical personnel about all of the circumstances that led up to a medical event?
MR. ROSEN: I'm going to object.
A I just don't know how to answer that.
BY MR. GREEN:
Q So you have no opinion? Or don't know how to answer it?
A I don't.
Q Okay.
A I don't know how to answer that.
Q All right. That's fine.
I think I know the answer to this but I just want to make sure it's on the record. I know you're over all of these centers. I take it you didn't personally call any member of David's family to talk to them about the incident; correct?

A No, I did not.
Q Okay.
I think, in the article, you're quoted as saying that cameras -- if there had been cameras at the facility in Booneville, which had none, it would have helped to make the situation, quote, black and white to you.
Does that sound like something you would have said or believed at the time?
A I am a big believer that we need to have high quality cameras across our facilities.
Q Okay. And this is page -- sorry they're not numbered.
Page three, second paragraph down; and, again, this is a quote attributable to you and it's in quotes. It says it's very clear that a personal restraint did occur leading up to him passing away, referring to Mr. Cains, but I've looked at every document, I've looked at Disability Rights Arkansas' report, I've looked at hospital reports; I've not been given any kind of documentation that says personal restraint did or did not lead to the passing of that client, she said.
Do you recall making that statement or something along those lines?
A Again, I -- I have not looked at this case. I mean, I'm not doubting that she's quoting me, so I'm not going to argue with what I said.

But I'm sure I had looked at this case in -- before I responded to this interview.

Q If there's a death at one of your centers, you -- you personally do get involved in reviewing the materials --

A I do.

Q -- correct? Okay. And so --

A Well, not every death. We have a lot of clients that pass away that are older age, that it's very clear they've had a heart attack. There's a -- natural causes death.

So we have a lot of people, as you can imagine, over the years, that pass away just because they've been with us a very long time and it's their time. So I don't review every death. I just want to be clear.

Q No. And that's fair. That's fair.

A I did review this death.

Q Obvious natural deaths, you don't. Do you have -- is there a certain criteria that gets applied that would make a death rise to the level that you need to look at it?

A Not necessarily. No.

Q On a case-by-case determination?

A Yes.

Q Okay. But you did look at these materials you referenced here?
A I did.
Q Okay.
A I would have looked at them, especially before I responded to a newspaper reporter.
Q Okay. And, at least according to this, at the time, it's reported that you said that you didn't see anything in those documents that said the restraint did or did not cause this death. Is that still your position? You don't know if it did or did not?
A I don't; because I -- honestly, I don't. It's been so long, I don't remember what the statement said at this point.
Q Okay.
My understanding is, that after all of the investigation was done into this matter involving Mr. Cains, that there was a finding that all of the staff acted properly and provided the appropriate standard of care; is that correct?
A Correct.
Q Okay. Did you approve that final determination? Or was that your determination?
A I don't make that. That's the office of long-term care.

Q Okay. What about -- I think you said that you all have your own people that do your own internal investigation. Did you review that?
A I did. So the internal investigation is only to gather enough information so that we can make a report to our federal reporter, federal investigators.
So that information would have been sent to the office of long-term care and the attorney general's office.
Q Okay.
A Who -- it's my understanding -- I don't know the AG's office ever got involved. I can't remember. But OLTC cleared of any wrongdoing.
Q Okay. So you're saying OLCT cleared of any wrongdoing?
A Yeah.
Q Okay. All right. But you didn't review this and come to any conclusion of your own? You just relied on their conclusion; correct?
A I don't owe verbal investigations of long-term care. That's way outside my scope.
Q Okay.
A They're an independent agency.
Q Understood. So then I guess you don't have an opinion as to what caused this death based on what you just said. Is that correct or am I not correct?

A I rely on the -- I rely on a federal investigative agency. I read the documents and I found that I -- I agreed with their outcome.
Q Okay.
A But, again, you know, I wasn't there. I wasn't on site. I didn't do any interviews. I mean --
Q Is it your position that Mr. Cains was responsible for his own death?
A I didn't say that.
Q I didn't say you did. It's a question I have to ask.
A No.
Q Okay.
A No, of course not.
Q Again, I just had to ask.
All right. You mentioned long-term care and this will be the last time I ask about this. And I think I'm done with this article almost completely done.
I think your testimony earlier was, if there's an incident, if the office of long-term care finds something wrong, y'all will do training right away or if you all determine that training should be done right away, it would be done right away; is that right?
A That's fair, yeah.

Q What kind of criteria do you all apply to determine whether or not training, immediate training, is necessary?
A I would have to defer to the superintendents on this. That's way down -- I have no idea.
Q Okay. So there's no uniform criteria if certain types of events automatically trigger it; correct?
A Correct. I don't -- I don't know what that would be.
Q Okay.
A They determine disciplinary actions. It's run by legal, so. . .
Q All right.
Let me show you what I've marked as No. 6.
(WHEREUPON, the document was marked for identification as Exhibit No. and is attached hereto.)
THE WITNESS: Thank you.
MR. GREEN: I think this is going to be my last exhibit but --
THE WITNESS: Okay.
MR. GREEN: -- don't hold me to that. If I have one more, I apologize. But I think -- we'll have to take a break in a second.
BY MR. GREEN:

Q This document I've handed you, at the top, it says first aid guidelines. It was provided to us in discovery. It's date stamped at the bottom.

Do you -- do you know what this document is?

A I don't.

Q Okay. Have you ever seen it before?

A I don't recall.

Q Okay. At the top, it says first aid guidelines and it also, in the upper right, says Booneville HDC Policy 4-B-10.

That policy, 4-B-10, what do you all call those policies that the development centers have? Are those policies? Are those procedures? Are they --

A You know, I would have to see. It looks like this is a procedure that's for Booneville. I'd have to get on the Secretary of State to see if this is actually promulgated. I highly doubt it.

Q Okay.

A Just by the way it looks.

Q And if this was a procedure and not a policy, would Mr. Gonyea have been able to just put this in place without any approval from someone at your staff, the executive staff?

A I don't know. I see on there that it was enacted on 3/13 of '15, so that was before I was the director.

Q Well, once you became director, if -- because I know you distinguish between policies and procedures; and I'm just trying to clarify.
A Uh-huh.
Q Policies, we know, go through the APA. A procedure doesn't necessary -- doesn't have to.
But I guess my question is, are the superintendents given the authority to determine and set their own procedures for each individual center or do they have to get approval from someone else higher up, perhaps in your office, for their procedures?
A You know, ideally, all these would run through Tammy Benbrook. Again, she wasn't in place when any of this, when this procedure policy was dated. So I can't tell you the process this went through.
Q And I'm not asking about this particular one.
Just in general, today, if Booneville wanted to change this policy again -- not policy. I'm sorry.
A It's okay.
Q If it's a procedure, a procedure, would you expect Mr. Gonyea to be able to change it on his own without any approval from your staff or would you expect your staff to have reviewed procedural changes at the facilities?
A I would expect this to get sent through someone in my office.

Q Understood.
A The only difference would, you know, if long-term care comes out and they say, immediately, you need to put this policy in place -- which is why these policy manuals at the HDCs get so large and deviate from each other.
If they come out on site and say we need you to put a policy in place, then that would never come through us. We'd hear about it after the fact.
So that's why you feel my hesitancy. It's like I don't -- I can't say a hundred percent that this stuff gets run anywhere.
Q Yeah. And I'm not trying to trip you up and ask you about this specific one. I'm just trying to get the general -- generally, do you expect a procedure at one of your facilities, by facility I mean human development center, if they want to change a procedure, do you expect them to just handle it themselves or to have someone that is up at your office review it and approve it? It sounded like you said you would normally expect that, but I --
A Yeah. I would assume that. But I don't know, you know.
Q Understanding that -- I'm not asking what happened here. And I do understand that long-term care may dictate. And, if they did, you would be told about it after the fact; right? Or someone in your office --

A Somebody would.
Q Yeah. Someone in your office; is that right?
A Someone would be told. I don't know who. I don't know.
You're asking me to make some very specific statements about stuff that's very different on a case-by-case basis.
Q Well, I'm just trying to understand how your organization works. And, if a human development center, which you oversee ultimately, wants to change a procedure, how would they go about doing that?
A I think it would depend on what the procedure is. And I -- like I said, there's a lot of factors on how the procedure's being pushed on us or if we're changing it ourselves.
If we're changing it ourselves, then I assume, you know, there's a lot of -- there's discussion and it moves up through Tammy, in some form or fashion.
Q Gotcha. And I know Tammy wasn't there in 2015. Do you know who would have been in the equivalent of her position?
A Before Tammy, it was Forrest Steele.
Q I'm sorry?
A Forrest Steele.

Q Do you know if it's S-t-e-e-l-e?
A It is.
Q Okay.
And this procedure -- what did we mark it as, 6? Is that what it is? Yeah, 6.
This Booneville procedure from 2015, you said you haven't seen it before today?
A It doesn't look familiar. But, I mean, you've seen how many procedures and policies each facility has.
Q Oh, I know. I know. It's quite a bit.
A Yes, it is.
Q I'm going to ask you just a couple of questions about it. Do you want me to ask those questions or do you want to take a minute to read it?
A No, you can ask me.
Q Okay. These guidelines state, that on number two, in all cases in which a serious medical injury or illness is expected either to clients or staff, a call to the medical department should be made. It should be the first call so medical staff can respond immediately to the situation. Do you see that?
A I do.
Q Okay. And it specifies what should be told to medical as far as the caller's name and where the location is and all of those things.

But number -- sub section three of number two says medical will assess the situation and call an ambulance if appropriate. Do you see that?
A I do.
Q Okay. So just on its face, from looking at this policy, would you agree with me that it appears, if there is a serious medical injury or illness, the first call should be to medical, and then medical will make a determination whether to call an ambulance?
A That appears to be what this says.
Q Okay.

MR. GREEN: Can we just take five minutes? And I'll probably have five more minutes.

MR. ROSEN: Yeah.

VIDEOGRAPHER: We are off the record at 12:15 p.m.

(WHEREUPON, the record was suspended momentarily and the proceedings resumed as follows, to wit.)

VIDEOGRAPHER: We are back on the record at 12:25 p.m.

BY MR. GREEN:
Q Ms. Weatherton, were you able to understand all the questions that I asked you today?
A I was.

Q Okay. Were you able to hear me clearly?
A I was.
Q Are there any of your answers that you would like to change?
A No.
Q Okay. All right.

CROSS EXAMINATION

BY MR. ROSEN:
Q I do have one question.
A Okay.
Q With regard to Claimant's Exhibit No. 5, which purports to be a newspaper article, if you would take a look at that, and there's a picture on the front of it with a small caption underneath that -- what is that caption? What is that a picture of?
A It's someplace in Lakewood, Washington.
Q It has nothing to do with Booneville Human Development Center, does it?
A No.
Q Okay.

MR. ROSEN: No other questions. Thank you.

MR. GREEN: Let me look at my No. 5. I don't think I --

THE WITNESS: It's right here, if you want to take mine.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. GREEN:

Q Okay. While the picture has nothing to do with Arkansas, you'd agree the article is in reference to the incident that occurred in Arkansas with Mr. Cains; correct?

A I think part of it. I think -- I don't remember if this is some of the national stuff in here too, but part of it, yes.

Q And, certainly, your quotes that it had related to the incidents in Arkansas, not incidents in other parts of the country; correct?

A Yes.

Q All right.

MR. ROSEN: We'll read.

VIDEOGRAPHER: We're off the record.

(WHEREUPON, the proceedings were concluded in the matter at 12:27 p.m.)

Disability Rights Arkansas (DRA) is the designated federal Protection and Advocacy System ("P&A") for individuals with disabilities in Arkansas. One of DRA's core functions is to investigate the deaths of persons with developmental disabilities in facilities that provide services to people with developmental disabilities. DRA has authority under federal law to thoroughly investigate deaths occurring in any public or private entity that provides care, services, treatment, or habilitation to individuals with disabilities.

As you are aware, resident David Cains of Booneville Human Development Center (BHDC) died on June 13, 2020. His death occurred while three BHDC staff restrained David on the floor outside of the cafeteria. David's family contacted DRA and requested we investigate his death and the circumstances surrounding it.

DRA completed an extensive investigation into David's death. Our investigation involved reviewing the Adult Maltreatment Investigation Report, all witness statements, the DPSQA Complaint Investigation Report, the EMS report, hospital records, and the Coroner's report. Our office interviewed BHDC staff, including , , and , the individuals who restrained David; , the Adult Maltreatment Investigator; , the Superintendent; and the NCI instructor. Our office also interviewed the Emergency Medical Services provider, , who provided emergency services that day, as well as , the Deputy Coroner who was assigned to David's case.

Summary

According to the BHDC Staff written statements and interviews with DRA staff:

On June 13, 2020, David ate his lunch in the cafeteria at the Commons Building. After finishing his meal, David put his tray away, asked to go to the restroom, and was accompanied to do so by . According to , David seemed irritated, asked to sit in the lobby to calm down after exiting the restroom, and then began screaming, ripping paper off the wall, and attempting to hit .

stated that he, "applied personals[1] by grabbing [David's] arms and ended up falling over."[2] David landed on his face and then rolled him to his side.[3] believes that this restraint began at 11:30 a.m., although all times are estimates as there are not any visible clocks in the area where the restraint occurred, according to all staff interviewed. arrived shortly after David was brought to the ground and assisted in the restraint. According to all written witness statements, David was resisting the restraint at that time. arrived sometime later and began holding David's legs. Within seconds of arriving noticed that David had defecated on himself and she

This entire event took place on the floor while three people were holding David by his legs, torso, and head. A fact that was omitted in reports to EMS, the hospital, the Coroner, and the family.

During our investigation, we noted several unresolved discrepancies between written statements, subsequent interviews, and investigative conclusions:

1) There is not a consensus between the employees involved regarding the positioning and actions of each employee, information pertinent to identifying not only potential wrongdoing, but also possible missteps to be avoided in the future.

[7] BHDC Policy IV-B-10 states that on-site medical should be the first call and that "medical will assess the situation and call an ambulance if appropriate." All persons interviewed, including Superintendent , interpreted the policy to prohibit non-medical staff from calling 911 in response to a medical emergency and confirmed that as the BHDC practice.

a. written statement and subsequent interview by DRA staff were consistent with one another. She states that when she arrived David was on the ground on his left side, was on his knees facing David and holding his wrists, and David's hands were by his sides. "came to assist to position David's head so he wouldn't spit"[11] and then attempted to assist by holding David's ankles when he began to kick.

b. stated that when she arrived, "David was on his left side with his arms held up with his elbows bent slightly."[12] She states she assisted by holding David's hands so that he could not strike who was positioned behind David. denied ever holding David's head during the restraint.

c. According to written statement he was "squatted over him, not putting [his] weight on him during any of this, holding his shoulder and sides,"[13] assisted by "grabbing his hands," and held his legs down. During our interview, deviated from his written statement, stating "she was on his side behind him, holding his head on the side, keeping close to ground but not pushing on it"[14] because David was trying to bite. He also clarified his positioning as being behind David, who was laying on his left side and "spread out T-style"[15] with his left arm on the ground. was holding his right arm (not) and trying to get it to the ground. David's arms were never above his head.

d. Adult Maltreatment Investigation Report #5-2020, completed by , fails to resolve discrepancies regarding the placement of David's hands and whether a staff member was holding his head in place during the restraint.

e. Cameras at the facility would have been immeasurably helpful in resolving the discrepancies and ultimately understanding the circumstances surrounding David's death.

2) A timeline of events included in two separate documents we received completely omits any reference to a restraint having occurred.

a. The DHS Incident Report includes a timeline of events provided by RN/DON, who does not appear to have been at the scene of the incident at any time.

i. According to the timeline at "11:30 a.m. – Immediately after lunch, David Cains headed to common area kicking, yelling, and biting. and attempted to settle client. Suddenly started vomiting and turning cyanotic."

1. and written statements and interviews with DRA indicate that did not arrive until Mr. Cains was already on the ground and being restrained by , in conflict with the assertion here.
2. There is no evidence of either staff member attempting to "settle" David.

b. A similar statement is included in a "Timeline of Events" that appears to be a word document included in David's medical file. The statement is not attributed to anyone in this document.

When DRA interviewed Emergency Services Worker, , he stated BHDC staff never informed them that David had been in a personal restraint prior to or during this incident. stated that they were told that David was found in the hallway, unconscious, and staff attempted abdominal thrusts prior to CPR. They were told that he had choked on his lunch. EMS relayed the same information to the ER staff at Mercy Hospital in Booneville.

[redacted]

The same misinformation was passed on to the investigating coroner, Deputy Coroner leading him to list the cause of death as respiratory arrest, due to food aspiration, and cardiac arrest. Mr. stated:

[redacted]

When our office interviewed Mr. , he stated he had no knowledge that David was restrained prior to or during this incident. He confirmed that his office would have further investigated had they received that information and would likely have requested an autopsy.

When BHDC staff contacted David's mother, they told her that David choked on his lunch and that the family would need to contact the hospital for any additional information. When the family called Mercy Hospital, they were informed David was deceased. David's family did not find out about the personal restraint until June 22nd – nine days after David passed away and three days after David's funeral. By the time the family learned of the circumstances surrounding his death it was too late for them to request an autopsy.

This was a tragic event. Any time an individual passes away while in the custody and care of the state a meaningful, critical evaluation of the policies and practices that led to that incident should be required. In this case, that evaluation included: (1) an investigation by an individual who is employed by the BHDC, working alongside those who she is charged to investigate; (2) a review and endorsement of that investigation by the superintendent who hired or who is ultimately responsible for the actions of those employees investigated; (3) the suppression or omission of relevant, if not crucial facts from agencies who would further investigate the circumstances of this gentleman's death.

The BHDC review of this death, endorsed by Superintendent , concluded that no individual involved in this incident did anything wrong; therefore, nothing could have been done differently to prevent it and nothing can be learned from it. To date, we have not been informed whether BHDC has reviewed or revised their restraint policies or practices following this event.

At some time after the internal investigation concluded the Division of Provider Services and Quality

Assurance (DPSQA) investigated David's death and the circumstances surrounding it. Very little information could be gleaned from the DPSQA Complaint Investigation Report reviewed by DRA. Despite the ability to attach narratives of staff interviews, none were found or made available upon our request. Ultimately, the DPSQA investigation concluded similarly to the internal investigation conducted by BHDC with no description of the events or statements from witnesses.

Practice of Restraints at BHDC

In 2012, DDS retained H&W Independent Solutions, who are self-described "skilled trainers and workshop facilitators on a wide range of topics pertinent to organizations supporting people with disabilities." In April of 2012, BHDC participated in a training survey with H&W to evaluate and improve the quality of care to the residents. During the evaluation of BHDC, H&W found that significant improvement was needed due to, in part, the BHDC staff's reliance on emergency restraint.

Nearly four years later, in January 2016, our office issued a report regarding the use of restraint at BHDC. We warned that risks associated with restraint include physical injuries, significant trauma, and death. We pointed out that the overuse of restraint could cause physical and emotional trauma to both the residents and the staff at BHDC. We recommended that BHDC retain an independent expert to implement evidence-based alternatives aimed to reduce or eliminate the use of restraint at BHDC.

NCI/CPI trains staff to respond to crisis by intervening in non-violent ways to prevent escalation and offers programs to certify staff in this skill. At the same time BHDC certifies its staff in the use of NCI/CPI, BHDC also trains its staff to restrain residents using methods that require no certification, are not evidence-based, and, when practiced, conflict with NCI/CPI training. It is concerning that BHDC staff are then left to choose between non-violent crisis intervention and physically/emotionally traumatizing physical restraint.

Findings

- [redacted]
- Instead of releasing David when he was lying down on the floor, David was restrained on the hard floor by three BHDC staff after finishing his lunch.
- Prior to the restraint, Staff failed to use other less intrusive interventions such as NCI/CPI, for which they are trained.
- Staff failed to leave him on the floor, unrestrained, until he was calm.
- [redacted]
- This restraint likely either directly or indirectly led to David's death.
- The facility failed to properly communicate the circumstances of this incident to EMS.
- We found no evidence that the facility properly communicated the circumstances of this incident to the Arkansas State Police, the Logan County Sheriff's Office, or any other law enforcement agency

- BHDC's investigation failed to resolve discrepancies in statements from witnesses.
- It is not the policy or practice of BHDC to permit direct care staff to call 911 in an emergency.
- NCI/CPI does not endorse or instruct any maneuver that involves physically restraining an individual on the floor.
- During interviews, BHDC direct care staff reported that they, "take people to the floor often."
- BHDC could not articulate what kind of "restraint technique" is being taught to staff.
- The conclusion from Superintendent failed to find that anyone violated any policy or procedure and inexplicably failed to find that any policy or procedure might need review or modification.
- No corrective actions were made or recommended by BHDC or DHS - Division of Provider Services and Quality Assurance.
- BHDC failed to adequately inform David's family of the circumstances surrounding his death.

Recommendations

1. Install video cameras on campus. Video cameras on campus would greatly assist investigators in determining whether maltreatment has occurred. Presently, we have differing statements from individuals regarding a restraint on the floor that led to an individual's death.
2. Retrain all staff in NCI/CPI. NCI/CPI does not endorse the use of restraint while an individual is lying down on the floor. The very fact that NCI/CPI is touted as the intervention strategy implemented by BHDC, and yet this individual was restrained on the floor long enough to aspirate and die means that NCI/CPI was either ignored or forgotten.
3. Reevaluate the use of restraint in all forms and employ evidence-based, nonviolent methods of crisis intervention. A greater problem that exists is the overall reliance on restraint at BHDC. It is a culture of compliance that we see often in prisons. When individuals are not compliant, they are made to comply. If DHS does not address restraint and physical, mechanical, and chemical intervention as a system-wide problem, the culture cannot be meaningfully changed. Further, the physical restraints BHDC employs are not based on any professional training or sanctioned method.
4. Clarify or Modify policy to permit staff to contact 911 in response to emergency medical situations. Staff must have permission to identify and respond in an emergency. BHDC is a large campus in a rural area of the state. While it is comforting that nursing staff is available to respond to medical issues, the current policy forces staff to ignore what many first aid/CPR certification programs insist is the first step in responding to a crisis – calling 911.
5. Engage qualified, independent investigators to complete thorough, meaningful investigations on ALL deaths.

a. Utilize investigators that are completely independent of the Human Development Centers they investigate. While it is important that BHDC review incidents internally for quality improvement and staff oversight, there must be a truly independent investigation by a disinterested third party. At one time, DDS employed an attorney whose role was to investigate deaths at any HDC. We are unaware whether or why such a position no longer exists. Anyone DDS authorizes to investigate serious incidents should have no connection to the Human Development Centers they investigate. Investigators should be informed regarding the requesting of an autopsy and empowered to make such a request when warranted.

b. Ensure all investigations are reflective of the gravity of the circumstances investigated. Death investigations must be both thorough and critical. Investigations that lack specificity in their investigative processes and findings, do not include interviews of all involved parties, and by design can only substantiate maltreatment or declare nothing could have been done differently undermine confidence in the process. When a family is left to gradually learn new information regarding the death of their loved one, including that the coroner was not accurately informed of the circumstances surrounding the death, what else are they to be left with other than suspicion and anger? Instead, the trauma surrounding the death is amplified and revisited with each new fact they learn. That is not closure; that is not justice.

Mr. Tom Masseau
Executive Director
Disability Rights Arkansas
400 West Capitol Avenue, #1200
Little Rock, AR 72201

Mr. Masseau,

I'm writing to formally respond to an investigation conducted by Disability Rights Arkansas that you provided me on October 23, 2020. As I stated in my initial email response that day, I do appreciate you sending the report and including additional recommendations that can be applied across all five Human Development Centers. I also appreciate your involvement with the Behavioral Consultation Committee and your attendance at the meeting held on November 5, 2020. I also appreciate the feedback you provided me yesterday ensuring that all recommendations were included in the subcommittee projects.

I reviewed your investigation surrounding the death and then went back and read through the internal reports, witness statements, hospital records, and his social and medical history. When a death occurs, the records not only detail the death but you also get to read about the person. He had lived at Booneville for thirteen years. He liked the Dukes of Hazard. He liked listening to music by the Monkeys. He didn't like to be alone. He had a mother and a sister and I am sorry for their loss.

This response isn't intended to argue with your report or point out discrepancies. I agree with you that people with disabilities, whether they live at a facility or out in the community, deserve the best possible care. I agree that we need to renew our effort to actively reduce restraints. I am committed, with your help and other members of the Behavioral Consultation Committee, to change the culture and significantly reduce restraint usage. Below I have included the four focus areas for the subcommittees that we will tackle over the next several months. I think we can bring about real change.

Behavioral Consultation Committee Subcommittee Project Plans

Data-Informed Practices

Co-Chairs: Dr. Julie Howard and Dr. Jeremy Thompson

Goal: Develop a project plan, timeline and recommendations for the collection and use of data to inform restraint practices, as well as, consistent and effective use of the data to reduce restraint usage

Action #1: Review and update how we report, categorize and define restraints

Action #2: Review current metrics and methods used for tracking personal, mechanical and chemical restraints, as well as entire episodes involving individual clients.

Action #3: Update how incidents involving restraints are tracked on the HDC Statistical Report. Improve the report's restraint tracking methodologies and terminology.

Action #4: Develop a template for collecting, reviewing and utilizing data that will be utilized throughout the strategic process.

DRA Recommendation and Action #5: Ensure that the use of restraint is regularly monitored, including careful evaluation and scrutiny of the reasons staff utilized restraint, alternatives to restraint, and follow-up actions in response to restraint. This includes requiring that clinical and senior administrative staff be more involved in the day-to-day activities of residents to ensure that individualized treatment or behavior plans are effective, and that adequate active treatment is provided. A process for this oversight should be included in the project plan.

Preferred Restraint and Communication Options while working to reduce restraint usage

Chair: Shannon Roberts

Goal: Develop a project plan, timeline and recommendations for implementing the best devices, including communication devices.

Action #1: Review current mechanical restraint devices used at each human development center.

Action #2: Research and recommend improved devices.

Action #3: Develop action plan for phasing out obsolete devices while implementing improved, standardized devices.

DRA Recommendation and Action #4: Ban the use of the papoose board as a form of restraint at the HDCs.

Restraint Reduction Methods

Chair: Dr. Carl Reddig

Goal: Develop a project plan, timeline and recommendations for reducing the use of restraints. *will need incorporate items from Dr. Howard and Dr. Thompson's project plan.

Action #1: Identify and recommend alternative tools and intervention methods for reducing restraint use.

Action #2: Review client behavioral support plans and identify minimal language required to allow restraint usage as a last resort.

Action #3: Develop an action plan for reviewing and modifying all client behavioral support plans. Ensuring specific restraint language is removed, all support plans have all intervention methods, and support plan templates do not revert back to having specific restraint language.

DRA Recommendations and Action #4: evaluate mental health and other treatment service for clients at each HDC and make recommendations on needed services.

External Advocate Recommendations

Chair: Tom Masseau, Disabilities Rights Arkansas

Goal: Develop a project plan and timeline for implementing recommendations made by Disabilities Rights Arkansas not included in the project plans listed above.

Action #1: Research the use of independent experts with expertise in working with facilities to develop and implement current evidence-based best practices to significantly reduce and/or eliminate the use of restraint at the facility. Outline appropriate options that includes how an expert would be utilized.

Action #2: Research the best comprehensive training on person-centered and trauma-informed, recovery-oriented, evidence-based services and supports. Outline recommendations on who should be trained, including frequency.

Action #3: Develop a plan to increase the frequency of NCI/CPI training with all staff, while incorporating, where appropriate, the comprehensive training recommended in Action #2.

Action #4: Clarify or Modify policy to permit staff to contact 911 in response to emergency medical situations. Staff must have permission to identify and respond in an emergency.

Action #5: Research the use of independent investigators to complete investigations on all deaths.

Thank you for agreeing to lead the External Recommendations Team. You and I may not always agree but I know that we both want people with disabilities to be safe and respected and live their best possible life.

Sincerely,

Melissa Stone, Director
Division of Developmental Disabilities Services

DDS Behavioral Consultation Committee Report Summary

EXHIBIT 3
PENGAD 800-631-6989

Overview

The Arkansas Department of Human Services (DHS) Division of Developmental Disabilities Services (DDS) set out in the fall of 2020 to conduct a thorough review of the restraint practices at the state's five human development centers (HDC) and develop a comprehensive approach with the help of clinicians and advocates to significantly reduce the use of restraints on developmental and intellectually disabled clients living at the HDCs.

This report outlines what is done today and recommendations made by the DDS Behavioral Consultation Committee, which was tasked with reviewing restraint usage and implementing new strategies to reduce the frequency of using restraints to ensure the safety of clients and nearby individuals, including staff.

Objectives

1. Develop a plan to better use data to inform restraint-related practices and to ensure the State has accurate and comprehensive restraint data.

2. Identify preferred restraint and communication options to be used while working to reduce restraints.

3. Develop a comprehensive approach to reducing restraint usage.

4. Seek and implement additional recommendations from external advocates.

Reporting and data collection

Today, each HDC collects restraint data, and the Developmental Disabilities Services Board reviews it regularly. The long-standing Behavioral Consultation Committee provides a clinical review of restraints. This review became even more important during the public health emergency because we wanted to monitor for increased usage due to the stress of the pandemic, which we did not find.

Restraint practices

Today, all five human development centers use restraints to ensure the safety of clients and staff when a client experiences an unsafe behavioral issue. The types of restraints differ depending on the facility and client needs, but can include personal holds, mechanical restraints (such as the blanket wrap), chemical restraints, and less common a papoose board. All staff are trained to de-escalate situations involving unsafe behavioral issues with the goal of not needing a restraint. However, reviews of restraints, client files, and data show that restraints are sometimes included in a client's behavioral plan and are used quickly during an unsafe situation rather than as the last resort. That is something we are working to change.

Existing restraint reduction efforts

DDS leadership has emphasized the need to reduce the number of restraints, and ideally eliminate them altogether. In addition to the ongoing Committee reviews mentioned above, DDS provides crisis intervention and de-escalation training through new employee and ongoing training. In the Fall of 2020, DDS also began requiring all direct care staff to become certified nurse assistants (CNAs), which increases their care skills. The number of restraints have gone down over the last few years, but we believe that with a more intensive focus on restraint usage we can reduce the numbers even more.

External review

Many recommendations outlined in this report summary are listed as "on hold" because DHS is in the process of hiring an independent expert to review restraint-related policies and processes across all five of the human development centers. The review should provide us important information we can use to address the recommendations that are on hold.

RECOMMENDATIONS

Recommendations listed as on hold are pending because DHS is in the process of hiring an independent expert to review restraint-related policies and processes.

Objective 1

Develop a plan to better use data to inform restraint-related practices and to ensure the State has accurate and comprehensive restraint data.

The committee reviewed and discussed current restraint reports and definitions, methods and metrics for tracking restraint usage, and incident tracking.

✓ 1. Select and define common language to be used in reports across all the human development centers:

- Chemical Restraint - the oral, rectal, intramuscular, or subcutaneous administration of a medication to aid the client in calming to ensure the safety of the client and/or others; must be ordered by a physician and administered by a licensed nurse.
- Personal Restraint - the actual physical holding of a client by staff using manual methods that restrict the free movement of the client or restrict movement of or access to a portion or portions of the client's body until the client reaches a state of calm and cooperation, signaling the dangerous behavior has ended and safety no longer is at immediate risk.
- Mechanical Restraint - a device that restricts the free movement of a client or restricts movement of or access to a portion or portions of the client's body until the client reaches a state of calm and cooperation, signaling the dangerous behavior has ended and safety no longer is at immediate risk.

✓ 2. Review and realign current personal restraint policies with new uniform restraint use policy for all HDCs.
✓ 3. Create uniform restraint use policy.
◯ 4. Continue tracking restraints and conducting retrospective analysis.
✓ 5. Create and implement new HDC Quality Assurance Report and HDC Restraint Analysis report for restraint usage at all HDCs.
✓ 6. Amend the existing HDC Statistical Report to combine subcategories and automatically calculate rates.
◯ 7. Review reports to make data-driven decisions related to restraint usage.

✓ Complete ◯ Ongoing/In process ◑ Partially Complete ⊖ Not moving forward with recommendation ▮▮ On hold pending external consultant review

Objective 2

Identify preferred restraint and communication options to be used while working to reduce restraints.

Committee members reviewed existing HDC restraints as well as commercial and customer mechanical restraints on the market. They determined that the commercial restraints are new models of the restraints already used by HDCs. Additionally, members reviewed research and training curriculum related to effective de-escalation communication techniques that can prevent aggressive/harmful behaviors.

↻ 1. Hire an independent consultant to review the types of restraints used at the HDCs and to identify the best restraints to ensure the health, safety, and comfort of clients.

▮▮ 2. Expand communication strategy options for individual clients being restrained, including adding sign language, gestures, timers, visual schedules, etc.

▮▮ 3. Create, implement, and train staff on new manual of available communication strategies and devices for case managers to ensure interdisciplinary teams have access to current, effective practices.

⊖ 5. During restraints, require staff who are most familiar with client to monitor for safety due to potential limited communication options.

Note: This was highly recommended but is not achievable because familiar staff may not be available.

Note: Recommendations listed as on hold are pending because DHS is in the process of hiring an independent expert to review restraint-related policies and processes.

✓ Complete ↻ Ongoing/In process ◑ Partially Complete ⊖ Not moving forward with recommendation ▮▮ On hold pending external consultant review

Objective 3

Develop a comprehensive approach to reducing restraint usage.

The committee reviewed alternative safety interventions and client behavioral support plans, and identified language that could be used to ensure that restraints were employed as a last resort for safety reasons.

↻ 2. Establish routine staff training on individual clients' behavioral health and safety plans.
⊖ 3. Establish a statewide review committee to offer consultation and assistance with clients who are repeatedly restrained.
Note: Human Rights Committee, interdisciplinary teams, and psychiatric teams already review every incident and make recommendations.
▮▮ 4. Identify behavioral health service gaps for individual clients at each HDC, what is needed to address those gaps, and metrics to evaluate mental health and service needs.
▮▮ 5. Establish a group to review all behavioral support plans to ensure removal of restraint-specific language.

Note: Recommendations listed as on hold are pending because DHS is in the process of hiring an independent expert to review restraint-related policies and processes.

✓ Complete ↻ Ongoing/In process ◑ Partially Complete ⊖ Not moving forward with recommendation ▮▮ On hold pending external consultant review

Objective 4

Seek and implement additional recommendations from external advocates.

DDS has worked closely with Disability Rights Arkansas and asked the executive director to provide additional recommendations for changes he thinks the HDCs should implement related to restraint usage.

◑ 1. Hire an independent expert to implement best practices related to restraints at all Arkansas HDCs to significantly reduce or eliminate use of restraints.

✓ 2. Require HDC senior administrative, clinical, and direct care staff to undergo comprehensive training on person-centered and trauma-informed, recovery-informed, evidence-based services and supports. Conway HDC is partnering with Arkansas Building Effective Services for Trauma (ARBEST) within the Department of Psychiatry at UAMS in hosting a conference focusing on trauma-informed care education in August 2021.

✓ 4. Require HDC senior administrative and clinical staff to develop a strategic plan to transform the facility to one that adopts current, best practice philosophy, vision, and values.

↻ 5. Require HDC staff undergo extensive training on de-escalation best practices and ongoing monitoring.

Camera status at each HDC:

- Booneville HDC - cameras being purchased, installation plan submitted for approval
- Arkadelphia HDC - cameras in place - planning to upgrade and increase coverage
- Conway HDC - cameras in place - planning to upgrade and increase coverage
- Jonesboro HDC - cameras in place - planning to upgrade and increase coverage
- Southeast Arkansas HDC - cameras in place - planning to upgrade and increase coverage

✓ 8. Clarify and reinforce medical emergency policies requiring staff to call on-site medical staff with the option of calling 911, if necessary.

⊖ 9. Engage qualified independent investigators to investigate all deaths.

Note: DHS investigators are trained and certified by Labor Relations Alternatives, Inc.

Note: Recommendations listed as on hold are pending because DHS is in the process of hiring an independent expert to review restraint-related policies and processes.

✓ Complete ↻ Ongoing/In process ◑ Partially Complete ⊖ Not moving forward with recommendation ▮▮ On hold pending external consultant review

Reports describe misuse of restraints at 2 state-run homes

Facilities' clients hurt in some cases by Kat Stromquist | September 14, 2020 at 7:15 a.m.

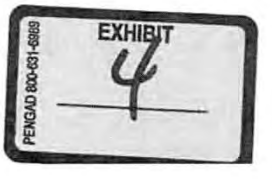
Before covid-19 outbreaks threatened two state-run homes for people with disabilities, records show regulators flagged the centers for endangering clients while using physical restraints -- a controversial yet common practice to defuse tense situations.



An ongoing Arkansas Democrat-Gazette review of documents from Conway Human Development Center and Booneville Human Development Center found five cases in which inspectors said facilities violated federal standards when staff members restrained clients, with some cases amounting to abuse.

A client at Booneville suffered a broken arm when a staffer restrained him in July 2019, and another lost consciousness in January that year when a staff member placed him in a "choke hold," inspectors said in reports.

A staff member at Conway threatened to restrain a female client all night if she didn't "shut up," an October report said.

Department of Human Services, police and prosecution reports obtained under the state's public-records law provide a window into facilities entrusted with the welfare of vulnerable Arkansans. They show recurring issues in cases involving both personal and "mechanical" restraints, such as a board with straps called a papoose board.

Sometimes, the facilities broke rules meant to limit restraint use in care facilities that receive federal payments from the Medicaid program, inspectors wrote in their reports. At other times, they didn't meet standards meant to protect clients from abuse during events involving restraints.

Division of Developmental Disabilities Services Director Melissa Stone said the events described in the documents were "self-reported" by the centers. She described them as "isolated incidents" that "should be categorized as abuse not a personal restraint gone wrong."

"What happened was not in compliance with our training and we considered the behavior maltreatment of our clients," Stone wrote in an email. "Maltreatment of clients is never OK, and individuals involved in the cases were immediately placed on administrative leave and all were terminated as I understand it."

Four of the five incidents the newspaper reviewed drew inspectors' most serious citation, "immediate jeopardy," which is for events that put clients "at risk for serious injury, serious harm, serious impairment or death."

On Friday -- after the newspaper reached out to the Department of Human Services about its findings -- Stone wrote to the head of an Arkansas disability-rights watchdog describing "additional steps" the state will take to assess restraint usage, including tracking personal restraint and reviewing treatment plans and devices.

About 880 people live in five state-run residential treatment centers for residents with developmental disabilities and, sometimes, other health or mental-health issues. Conway Human Development Center is the largest, with 460 residents.

Like other long-term care settings, the centers have drawn scrutiny this year because of the risk of quick viral spread in group living environments. Conway and Booneville endured the largest outbreaks, with 142 and 89 total resident cases, respectively, Arkansas Department of Health data from Sept. 4 show.

A 66-year-old client of the Southeast Arkansas Human Development Center in Warren died of covid-19 in August, coroner's records show, the facilities' first such death.

Inspectors visiting Conway Human Development Center in June for a review prompted by the pandemic gave the facility good marks for its infection control practices but noted a problem for one client, who was strapped to a papoose board during the visit.

The client was "quietly looking" at a staff member, the inspector wrote. When asked how long the client had been restrained, the employee replied: "Thirty minutes. She still has twenty minutes to go."

That breached federal standards about releasing clients from restraints "as quickly as possible," an inspector wrote. And it ignored internal policy about when residents should be released from restraining devices -- "when calm," the inspector wrote.

Records suggest a pattern of similar infractions that stretches back at least 18 months, including three since 2019 that led to criminal convictions.

Twelve months of state data -- from August 2019 through July -- also shows the five human development centers aren't consistent in their use of restraints, even when considering population sizes.

At Conway, which has a bit more than four times the population of the Jonesboro center, mechanical restraints including a restraint chair, the papoose board and a restraining wrap were used 1,074 times compared to Jonesboro's 92 times, data shows.

An analysis over a different yearlong period provided by the Department of Human Services showed a rate of use at Conway that is nearly five times that of the Arkadelphia center, though others were closer.

Across all five facilities, mechanical restraints were used on residents 148 times in July as the pandemic surged, according to state data: four times at Jonesboro, eight times at Booneville, 12 times at Warren, 14 times at Arkadelphia and 110 times -- or more than three times a day -- at Conway.

Documents and data reviewed by the newspaper weren't comprehensive and did not include documents from each individual use of restraints.

Personal restraints, which involve a staff member's hands or body only, haven't been consistently tracked by the centers, and this review by the newspaper did not extend to "chemical" restraints including antipsychotic and other drugs.

The state watchdog group, Disability Rights Arkansas, noted similar issues with restraints at Booneville in 2015 and 2016, including them in a 23-page report that called for reforms to correct a "culture" of "excessive" restraint.

Its director, Tom Masseau, said in an interview that he thinks the public sometimes doesn't understand what it means when restraints are used at the human development centers, including in cases where residents were injured or otherwise harmed.

"If that happened in your own home, to your kid or your loved one, you would be under investigation. But if it happens to somebody in an institution, we just sweep it under the rug and call it a behavioral issue," he said.

"We really haven't gotten down to the bones of, why do we allow this to continue?"

Witnesses to the July 2019 incident at Booneville told an inspector that they'd seen a resident with an intellectual disability and schizophrenia begin hitting a staff member. The staff member allegedly responded by twisting the resident's arm behind his back in an "emergency personal restraint."

"You're not gonna hit me. I'll [expletive] your world up," the staff member reportedly told the resident. Witnesses heard a "crack" or a "pop," they said.

An X-ray later showed the resident's arm was broken.

REDUCING USE

Restraints are permitted in many care settings, including intermediate care facilities such as the human development centers, but experts and advocates have questioned their continued use, citing the danger of injury, inconsistent data collection and scant evidence of their therapeutic usefulness.

As early as 2003, a federal mental health agency issued a "call to action" to reduce the use of restraints and seclusion. (The latter practice of isolation isn't allowed at intermediate care facilities, a Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services spokesman said.)

A government report from that same year says both restraint and seclusion carry "risk for serious injury or death, re-traumatizing people who have a history of trauma, loss of dignity, and other psychological harm" and should only be used as a "last resort."

Current Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services guidelines say intermediate care facilities must develop policies around restraint use and provide "active treatment" to "reduce dependency" on the tools, as well as on "unnecessary drugs" to manage clients' behavior. They also must make sure their use of restraints doesn't violate mandates to keep residents safe from abuse and neglect.

Some states have enacted more stringent standards than the federal guidelines on restraint use. Arkansas has not.

Stone said the state has a plan, updated annually, to reduce restraint use, and provided each facility's restraint policy to the newspaper. Restraints at the human development centers are "not used therapeutically," but in "emergency" situations where clients may harm themselves or others, she said.

She added that staffs are trained in deescalation techniques and that a committee was created in 2017 in response to reports of excessive restraint usage at Booneville. Led by a psychologist, the group conducts a quarterly review of restraint data, she said.

"In general, it is a small group of the same clients who are restrained," she wrote in an email, noting that some clients have "complex behavioral and mental health issues."

Nationwide, restraint remains "ingrained in the environment" at many sites, said Deborah M. Kennedy, a vice president and head of the abuse investigation unit at Chicago-based disability advocacy group Equip for Equality. She added that initiatives to reduce its use often incur pushback, sometimes out of care workers' fear of losing a tool in the "toolbox."

"Provider settings don't take the time and the effort that needs to be undertaken to make that switch in the culture of the institution," she said, which moves "staff away from looking at individuals in terms of 'You are trouble, you are a problem,' to 'How can I help you?'"

Ellen Blair, a clinician who studied methods of reducing restraint use in psychiatric care settings, said the goal in almost any setting should be to curtail restraint use as much as possible. People who have been restrained often describe it as psychologically traumatic, she said.

When restraints are used, facilities should "drill down" on what happened and conduct a formal debriefing with staff members, clinicians and others, including incorporating feedback from the person who was restrained, she said.

"I think we all have to strive for zero, and treat every [use of restraints] as a very important incident," said Blair, the director of nursing at Hartford HealthCare Institute of Living in Connecticut.

CRIMINAL CONVICTIONS

Since the beginning of 2019, records show restraint use was involved in three incidents that led to criminal convictions for staff members of the Booneville and Conway centers. Three people were sentenced to probation, and at least two were fined.

That included the episode that broke a resident's arm at Booneville. The staff member later pleaded guilty to second-degree felony battery.

Roughly six months earlier, a Booneville resident lost consciousness when a staff member placed the client with an intellectual disability and schizophrenia in a "choke hold," according to a report. Red marks were visible on the client's neck and shoulders.

In a separate incident at Conway last September, an inspector wrote that video showed a staff member "kicks [Client No. 1] in the back then continues dragging the client, on his back, by his arm and shirt, on the floor backwards," before strapping the client to a papoose board, a report said.

Another staff member who was present at the time didn't move to intervene. Neither of the two present appeared to follow protocols outlined in the client's "safety plan" when he became agitated, a report said.

"To aid calming ask [the client] to take deep breaths and 'Breathe like Luther'. Luther is a horse he used to ride," that plan said.

In addition to prosecutions of staff members involved, the Conway and Booneville centers responded to those and other incidents by taking several measures outlined in written plans, including retraining, checking other clients for harm and monitoring other staff members.

All the incidents discussed in this report were documented through a complaint process. But two of the three that led to criminal convictions may not otherwise have appeared in state data because a mechanical restraint was not used.

Stone, the Division of Developmental Disabilities Services chief, said the agency will work to establish new tracking and metrics for personal restraint use. Those "should be" tracked, she wrote in an email.

"We believe that tracking personal restraint usage, and tracking when that usage leads to a mechanical restraint will be helpful to provide us an overall picture of restraint episodes," she said in her Friday letter to Masseau.

The Chicago investigator, Kennedy, said facilities that don't document those types of restraints "don't have any control" over how they're used. A physical hold "can be as dangerous" as a mechanical restraint, she said.

Documents on restraint use also demonstrate the stakes when advocates and family can't visit people in long-term care facilities, as was true earlier in the pandemic.

Some limited visits to the human development centers have resumed. Experts in long-term care say contact with family members plays an important role in safeguarding residents.

Limited interaction with the public is part of a problem with institutional care more broadly, said Serena Lowe, interim executive director of Washington, D.C.-based TASH, a disability-rights advocacy group.

Clients who live in institutions are "really in a very segregated existence. That's where abuse happens, when nobody's looking," she said.

Files: Site's resident died after restrained

June case preceded state's decision to review use of controls at care centers by Kat Stromquist | January 31, 2021 at 4:42 a.m.

Labels on a cabinet in a ward at a psychiatric hospital in Lakewood, Wash., read "flashlights" and "restraints" in this Nov. 18, 2015, file photo.

A man who lived at an Arkansas-run center for people with developmental disabilities died last summer after three staff members restrained him, just a few months before state officials pledged to review physical restraint use at the sites.

The resident died June 13 after having a medical emergency while restrained by Booneville Human Development Center staff members, according to documents that the newspaper obtained under Arkansas' public records law.

He'd been "brought to the ground" as workers grabbed his arms and then "began holding" his legs, a report from a watchdog group to state officials said. The staff noticed he wasn't breathing "approximately one minute" after he was restrained.

The man, 42, died at a hospital about an hour after the restraint incident began, files show.

His death, not revealed in news reports until now, provides new context for the state's Division of Developmental Disabilities Services' promise in September to review the use of physical restraints and restraint devices in its five human development centers. The devices include padded boards, restraining chairs and wrist wraps.

Committees at work on the policies are scheduled to meet again Feb. 11. Thus far, the state plans to bring in a consultant to observe and interview staff members, begin more robust data tracking, add camera coverage across the facilities and take other steps, the division's director Melissa Stone said in an interview.

Stone stopped short of saying the death was a "trigger" for the review, while explaining that she did not want to downplay the event. The state was influenced by a restraint data assessment that officials undertook during pandemic lockdowns to see if the isolation affected residents.

"Those numbers were high," she said. "We need to reengage ourselves in this."

The review was made public last fall as the Arkansas Democrat-Gazette reported on an apparent pattern of harmful restraint use at two of five centers housing hundreds of people with intellectual and other disabilities. Among them were incidents at the Booneville site in 2019 that broke one resident's arm and caused another to faint when he was placed in a "choke hold," records show.

Records detailing the 42-year-old man's death last summer raise fresh questions about how Arkansas investigates restraint incidents that hurt people in the care centers. Some of those people cannot speak or walk, and many don't have family members who visit or advocate for them, current and former employees say.

In an Oct. 22 report sent to Stone, a Disability Rights Arkansas attorney and advocate described the man's death and offered what amounted to a scathing critique of the state's response. The group is a federally-designated monitor and advocate for people with disabilities.

Writing from medical records, interviews and state files, the seven-page report alleges that first responders and a physician weren't informed that the man was physically restrained, and were instead told that he "was found in the hallway" and had "choked on his lunch" before he was pronounced dead at Mercy Hospital-Booneville.

The man's mother did not learn that he was restrained by the staff until nine days after his death -- "too late for them to request an autopsy," the report said.

Stone responded to the Disability Rights Arkansas report on Nov. 13 with a three-page written proposal to form new committees to "inform restraint practices" used for human development center clients. Her response "isn't intended to argue with your report or point out discrepancies," she wrote to advocates.

In an interview this month, she said cameras in the facility -- the Booneville site had none -- would have helped make the situation "black and white" to her.

"It's very clear that a personal restraint did occur leading up to him passing away -- but I've looked at every document, I've looked at [Disability Rights Arkansas]'s report, I've looked at hospital reports. ... I've not been given any kind of documentation that says the personal restraint did, or did not, lead to the passing of that client," she said.

Disability Rights Arkansas director Tom Masseau wrote in an Oct. 23 email to Stone that the state's initial probe, which did not lead to any findings of wrongdoing by the staff, was "unacceptable." The man's death was a "tragedy that arose from a dangerous and barbaric practice and never should have occurred," he wrote.

State employees who first looked into the death were not asking "the tough questions. ... Your reports are only as good as the person conducting the investigation," he later told the newspaper.

"You want to know what events led to [a death], and what could be done to prevent it."

FOR 'SAFETY'

An ongoing investigation by the newspaper has shed light on problems at the state-run human development center sites, as well as restraint issues. Records show:

- Staff members didn't wear masks or quarantine sick residents in facilities with covid-19 outbreaks.
- Residents with the eating disorder called pica swallowed batteries and latex gloves.
- An "unsupervised" resident, prescribed a "pureed" diet, died after choking on cake.

More than 800 people live at the centers. Many have behavioral health or other health issues in addition to developmental disabilities, and facility workers say it's not unusual for clients to remain in the centers for years.

Generally, the care system for Arkansans with disabilities appears "woefully behind" other states, University of Minnesota Institute on Community Integration Director Amy Hewitt has said. She said many other states have entirely phased out their large institutions that offer "less choice and autonomy and self-determination."

The newspaper has identified the man who died after being restrained last summer, but is not naming him in this article because a family member declined to comment on the record about the incident. An attorney for the family also declined to comment.

After lunch the day he died, the man "headed to the common area kicking, yelling and biting," according to a Sept. 24 report from a state Department of Human Services committee that reviews all deaths of human development center residents. Three staff members restrained him for "safety," so he was "lying on the floor on [redacted] left side," the report said.

He suddenly started throwing up "and turning cyanotic," meaning his skin became blueish from lack of oxygen, documents show.

A report describes the man's transport via ambulance to the small hospital where he died. Committee members wrote at the time of their report that his official cause of death was "currently unknown," and determined that the "standard of care" was met by the staff.

The man's obituary describes him as a 13-year resident of the Booneville Human Development Center. He loved singing to the Monkees band, taking trips to Walmart and KFC, and participating in the Special Olympics. He graduated from a Pope County high school.

A Logan County deputy coroner listed the man's cause of death as "respiratory arrest" because of "food aspiration, cardiac arrest" in a June 13 report.

The man "was eating lunch at the Booneville Human Development Center where he lived, when some food became lodged in his throat. The Human Development Center staff tried to dislodge what was stuck but were unable to," a narrative portion of the coroner's report reads.

The coroner's report does not mention restraints.

CHANGES WEIGHED

No staff members were disciplined or terminated in the June incident because "there was no finding of inappropriate use of a personal hold/restraint" and life-saving measures were implemented, Stone said in a written statement last week.

She said she cannot "speak to or verify" what information was provided to first responders, but social services staff members who first notified the man's family have "limited information" about incidents, which could have happened just moments before.

Potential changes in investigative practices in the centers are on the table as part of the policy review.

Their eventual goal, state officials say, is to eliminate restraint use at the centers. Interim plans include modernizing outdated cameras at four centers and installing cameras at the Booneville facility for the first time, in part to deter "bad actors," Stone said.

"You can train people all day long, but you can't train people to be kind, and you can't train them to be respectful," she told a reporter. The staff should "understand that you can't hurt these people, because they can't defend themselves."

The overhaul also is likely to remove mentions of restraints as strategies in individual care plans and further train the staff to lessen reliance on restraints as a behavioral tool.

Masseau, the advocate, has worked closely with the state on the changes and said he felt encouraged by the direction of the review. One likely change will allow human development center staffs to call 911 in medical emergencies without seeking approval from administrators, shaving off crucial moments of response time.

He said "follow through" will be most important.

"There has to be a huge cultural shift," he said. "If there is buy-in from the [administrators], but it doesn't get down to staff, it's not going to do any good."

TRIED BEFORE

This is not the first time Arkansas has tried to change restraint usage in its human development centers. A plan aiming to reduce restraints is updated annually, Stone said in September.

In 2016, Disability Rights Arkansas published a report claiming "excessive" restraint use at the Booneville Human Development Center, which advocates said put residents and the staff at risk. Residents "sustained injuries ranging from scrapes and scratches to large, multiple bruises and even broken bones," the group wrote at the time.

Later that year, the state announced further training on restraint usage for staffs and banned the use of an isolation room at the Booneville facility, according to previous reports. An outside consultant also worked on that review, but did not make site visits or speak in depth with the staff, as is planned this year, Stone said.

The state's latest moves to change its practices arise as restraint use in care settings draws attention nationwide. Michigan health regulators announced a ban of several types of restraints in July after a Black teenager had a heart attack while being restrained at a Kalamazoo care center and died, reports said.

Guy Stephens, director of the Maryland-based group Alliance Against Seclusion and Restraint, says restraint use is a civil rights issue that's most likely to impact people with disabilities and people of color.

Research shows that being restrained can make behavior problems worse, he says, by triggering brain activity and trauma that make people more likely to lash out in the future.

More often than not, he added, the interventions are not being used "for life-or-death danger, but rather for situations of noncompliance, disrespect."

In July 2018, Arkansas inspectors cited the Arkadelphia facility when staff members placed two residents in restraints for "staff convenience" when the residents refused to go to work.

They were then "forcibly" taken to a job site, an Office of Long Term Care inspection report said.

Restraint events end in injuries

These are four harmful restraint incidents at Arkansas Human Development Centers of at least 10 identified by the newspaper since 2018. Inspectors said each incident could have physically or emotionally harmed residents

1. Resident's arm fractured after being twisted behind back by staff member in "inappropriate personal restraint hold." 07/31/19

2. Resident with brittle bone disease breaks arm after being "unnecessarily restrained" by staff member. 11/05/19

3. Staff member kicks resident, drags him down a hallway and straps him to restraining board. 09/12/19

4. Staff member holds a resident's wrist and arm in place to restrict him from getting off a treadmill, causing him to fall and injure his knees. 08/17/18

FIRST AID GUIDELINES

POLICY STATEMENT: First Aid Guidelines are available for use in each of the Aide Stations in each living area. This will permit appropriate and immediate attention to medical conditions of sudden onset, including injuries and choking.

PROCEDURES:

1. The First Aid Guidelines have been approved by the staff physician for the Booneville HDC.

2. In all cases in which a serious medical injury or illness is suspected, either to clients or staff, a call to the Medical Department should be made. This should be the first call so Medical staff can respond immediately to the situation.

   A call to Medical at 1422 should be made and the following information should be given:

   1. Caller's name and title
   2. Victim's name, location, situation and condition of the victim (alert, unconscious, etc.)
   3. Medical will assess the situation and call an ambulance if appropriate.

3. All staff members are trained in first aid, CPR, and abdominal thrust for choking so, that if necessary, emergency rescue measures can be initiated before Medical staff arrives.

4. Choking is a serious and potentially life-threatening situation and the following guidelines should be followed:

   a. Staff will supervise clients during meal times and nursing staff will be available by phone at all times;
   b. emergency equipment including oxygen and suction machine will be kept in the dining room for use as needed;
   c. All staff will receive annual training in abdominal thrust and choking precautions.

5. First Aid kits, disaster kits, and first aid guidelines will be kept in all areas. Medical will do monthly inspections on first aid kits, and every 6 month inspections on disaster kits, and refill appropriately. If living area staff notice supplies are low, Medical is to be notified and supplies will be replenished.

Abstract

This research investigated the physiological and psychological impact of supine and side lying physical restraint (PR) positions which have been suggested as safer alternatives to prone restraint positions. Twenty adults participated. From baseline Forced Vital Capacity (FVC) reduced by 10.4%, 10.4% and 14.6%, and FEV1 reduced by 7%, 7%, and 12% for supine arms low (SPR-AL), supine arms high (SPR-AH), and Side Lying restraint (SLR) respectively. SLR imposed the greatest Thoracic Weight bearing Pressure (TWP) at 116.1 (±17.5) mmHg, which was ~17% more than SPR-AH, and ~23% more than SPR-AL. HR was unaffected. Comfort was perceived to be greatest for SPR-AL, with SPR-AH being 6.7% less comfortable and SLR being 45% less comfortable. Anxiety was greatest in SLR, with SPR-HL and SPR-AL being 36.5% and 48.1% less anxiety inducing respectively. Breathing limitation was greatest in SLR, with SPR-AH and SPR-AL being 44.4% and 46.3% less limiting respectively. Compared to baseline all three restraint positions reduced respiratory measures ($p = 0.001$), with SPR-AL and SPR-AH being similar but differing from SLR ($p = 0.001$), and resulted in perceptions of discomfort, anxiety, and breathing limitation, with SLR being the most negatively impactful position tested. These findings are in keeping with our previous research which showed variance in the physiological and psychological impact of different restraint positions. All restraint positions possess the ability to negatively impact an individual both physiologically and psychologically but that impact is not homogenous, with some positions clearly possessing a lower level of risk than others.

Introduction

This research will be of interest to those who work in, commission or regulate settings where staff are trained to use restrictive physical interventions (manual restraint). Physical Restraint (PR) is a manual, hands-on method of containing or immobilising individuals by limiting their freedom to move to prevent or reduce their ability to harm themselves or others [1,2]. PR remains contentious, not only because of the potential breaches in human rights if misused or abused, but also due to its ability to cause anatomical, physiological and psychological harm including death [3].

The Human Rights Act 1998 [4] created legal obligations for the protection of rights and applies to all public authorities, determining the legal duties of staff to respect and protect everyone's human rights. As such the use of restraint must be lawful and rights-respecting. Article 2 requires 'all reasonable steps to be taken to protect a person's right to life' and therefore can include intervening with PR to protect a person from harming themselves or others; as well as stopping the use of PR if it is likely to result in harm. Article 3 prohibits 'torture, and inhuman and degrading treatment or punishment' which may include different types of assault on human dignity and physical integrity, including acts of unjustified suffering and acts which inflict sufficient severity of pain especially if undertaken deliberately. Therefore, the use of any PR must not cause unnecessary or intended harm (including negligent acts or failures to protect) which amounts to degrading or ill-treatment. When deciding if any intervention is a breach of Article 3, consideration should be given to the severity and intensity of suffering inflicted to an individual based on an assessment of factors including duration, physical and psychological effects, sex, age, gender and health of the person, as well as the manner and execution of the intervention. Furthermore, Article 8 protects a person's right to be consulted and involved in decision making. With respect to the use of PR, staff should ensure that the use of any restrictive practice is transparent and part of a recovery-based, person-centred plan which fully involves the individual.

Our previous research [5,6] quantified the pressures imposed on the anterior chest wall, the concomitant reduction in ventilatory capacity and the psychological impact of prone restraint. Although research is lacking into the physiological and psychological impact of alternatives to the prone restraint position recent standards to improve training to eliminate or minimise use of PR and make practice safer have recently become law [7,8]. This recent change in legislation follows on-going social, professional and political campaigns in which seated, supine and side lying restraint has been advocated as "safer" alternatives, with a common perception that restraint-related adverse events arise solely from the use of the prone restraint position [1,2,7-13]. This current study investigated the physiological and psychological effects of three floor positions which may be used as alternatives to prone PR; they were two positions of supine PR, where individual's arms were either held close to the body at 60° of shoulder abduction (Supine Restraint arms low - SPR-AL) or held further from the body at 100° of shoulder abduction (Supine Restraint arms high – SPR-AH). The third position was right side lying (Side lying restraint -SLR). By increasing our understanding of the impact of PR positions current practice can be improved by advocating which positions create the least adverse impact and therefore maximise the level of safety and minimise the level of harm to those subject to PR. The null hypothesis was stated as there would be no difference in physiological or psychological measures between any of the physical restraint positions tested.

Materials and Methods

Ethical issues

Ethical approval was granted by the School of Health and Rehabilitation Ethics Committee (Keele University, Newcastle-under-Lyme, United Kingdom). Prior to data collection participants were reminded of their right to withdraw from the study, and signed consent and health screening questionnaires. No incentives were offered or given to participants.

Participants

Twenty adults (Male = 10, Female = 10) with no known health problems were recruited and none were excluded. All participants were free from current neuro-musculo-skeletal injuries and cardio-vascular-respiratory risk factors. Age ranged from 18-23 years, mean 20 years (± 1.3). Height ranged from 158.6-197.1 cm, mean 176.1 cm (± 11.2). Weight ranged from 53.4-102.8 Kg, mean 73.8 Kg (± 13.5). BMI (kg/m^2) ranged from 19.3-27.8, mean 23.6 (± 2.5).

Equipment

HP Cosmos Pulsar treadmill; 4 Carefusion MicroLab Spirometer; Disposable Spirometry Mouthpieces; Polar H10 heart rate monitor; Stabilizer™ Pressure Biofeedback unit (Figure 2); Seca 761 weighing scales and 220 Standiometer; Goniometer; Alcohol wipes, 10cm Visual Analogue Scale, and a metric ruler. Equipment was freely available from the school of Health and Rehabilitation, Keele University, UK.

Conduct of the study

All participants were tested individually. Before each data collection all equipment was calibrated and cleaned. Before sitting for five minutes participants' height (cm) and weight (Kg) were measured. Whilst sitting the experimental procedures, spirometry technique (without nose clips) and visual analogue scale were explained to each participant after which resting heart rate was measured. Estimated heart rate maximum (HRM) (220 – age) and resting HR were then used to calculate 90% of Heart Rate Reserve (HRRes) (HRM – HR rest x 0.9). Baseline spirometry measures were then taken including Forced Vital Capacity (FVC) and Forced Expiratory Volume in one second (FEV1) (best of three). Next, participants mounted the treadmill and commenced a ramped treadmill protocol which aimed to raise HR to 90% HRRes within five minutes. Once target HR was achieved participants dismounted the treadmill and were restrained by professional instructors in the Management of Actual or Potential Aggression (MAPA) (Figure 1) in the allocated position determined by Triple Latin Square randomisation.

After one minute of PR spirometry measurements (FVC, FEV1) were taken, and after the PR position had been held for a total of five minutes PR was stopped. Before participants commenced their five minute self-paced recovery walk thoracic weight bearing pressure (TWP) was measured (Figure 2) at the posterior chest wall for SPR-AL and SPR-AH, and at the lateral chest wall for SLR using a pressure biofeedback unit.

Recovery between testing in the second restraint position was 45 minutes in duration, as supported by Winter et al. [14]. The third position was tested seven days later as three tests in one day was deemed excessive. Finally, participants completed 10cm Visual Analogue Scales (VAS) that explored their experiences of each position in relation to comfort, anxiety, and breathing limitation. Participants also gave free text responses in relation to their experiences of PR.

Statistical Analysis

The data collected was analysed using Statistical Packages for the Social Sciences Statistics (IBM Corp. version 24.0, Chicago, Illinois, USA). Normal distribution of data was confirmed (Shapiro-Wilk test) and subsequently descriptive and inferential (Paired Sample t-test) statistical analysis was undertaken, with significance set at $p < 0.02$ following Bonferroni correction to reduce the chance of type 1 error as multiple t-tests were performed.

Results of the physiological and psychological measures taken can be seen in Table 1.

Table 1: Research measurements: Forced Vital Capacity (FVC), Forced Expiratory Volume (FEV1), Heart Rate, Thoracic Weight Bearing Pressure (TWP), and perceptions of restraint (Comfort, Anxiety, Breathing Limitation) at baseline and in positions of restraint

FVC was recorded as 4.8 (±1.1), 4.3 (±0.99), 4.3 (±1.04), and 4.1 (±1.05) litres for baseline, SPR-AL, SPR-AH, and SLR respectively, with SPR-AL and SPR-AH showing a 10.4% reduction from baseline and SLR a 14.6% reduction. FEV1 was recorded as 4.2 litres (±0.8), 3.9 (±0.78), 3.9 (±0.81), and 3.7(±0.85) litres for baseline, SPR-AL, SPR-AH, and SLR respectively, with SPR-AL and SPR-

AH showing a 7% reduction from baseline and SLR a 12% reduction. The results of this study demonstrate that ventilatory capacity as measured by spirometry was reduced in all restraint positions tested compared to baseline ($p = 0.001$) with the greatest reduction seen in SLR which was statistically significantly different ($p < 0.02$) to both SPR-AL and SPR-AH. HR did not differ between the positions tested. SLR imposed the greatest TWP at 116.1 (±17.5) mmHg and was statistically different to both SPR-AL and SRP-AH ($p<0.000$). Pressure exerted in SPR-AH was 96.1 (±13.0) mmHg, which was ~17% less than SLR, and SPR-AL pressure was 89.1 (±14.1) mmHg, which was ~23% less than SLR. In relation to psychological measurements the SPR-AL position was the most comfortable with a VAS score of 6.0 (±2.06), followed by SPR-AH VAS 5.6 (±1.57) which was a 6.7% reduction in comfort, and SLR being the least comfortable VAS 3.3 (±1.25) a comfort reduction of 45% compared to SPR-AL. Ratings for perceived Anxiety were 2.7 (±1.30), 3.3 (±1.92), and 5.2 (±1.79) for SPR-AL, SPR-AH and SLR respectively showing SLR to be the most anxiety inducing with SPR-AH and SPR-AL being 36.5% and 48.1% less anxiety inducing respectively. Ratings for perceived Breathing Limitation were 2.9 (±0.92), 3.0 (±1.37), and 5.4 (±1.51) for SPR-AL, SPR-AH and SLR respectively showing SLR imposed the greatest breathing limitation with SPR-AH and SPR-AL being 44.4% and 46.3% respectively less inducing of breathing limitation perception. Free text responses revealed several themes relating to decreased blood flow to the upper limbs with participants complaining of pins and needles, numbness, "dead arm", and "blood supply felt cut off" (SLR = 8, SPR-AH = 7, SPR-AL = 5). Limitation in breathing described using words such as feeling "squished", "trapped", "suffocated", and "it was harder to breathe" were most frequently reported in SLR (n=8), then SPR-AH (n=2), and least reported in SPR-AL (n=1).

Discussion

Our findings were in keeping with our previous work [3,5,6] in that the effect of the PR positions tested were non-homogenous, and that all PR positions tested reduced ventilatory capacity and resulted in negative psychological perceptions for comfort, anxiety, and breathing limitation. The SLR position was found to impose the greatest pressure to the thorax, the greatest ventilatory restriction, and was perceived to be the most anxiety inducing, the least comfortable and the most limiting to breathing when compared to the two supine positions. Barnett et al. [5] reported pressure exerted on the anterior chest wall during unsupported prone restraint (arms abducted) at 102.56 (+24.29) mmHg resulting in a 16% reduction in FVC from baseline, which when in supported prone (arms supporting anterior chest) reduced pressure to 72.74 (+16.9) mmHg, with FVC dropping 11% from baseline. In this current study SLR exerted greater pressure on the thorax (116.1 ±17.5) than did unsupported or supported prone restraint, and reduced FVC by 14.6% compared to 16% for unsupported prone, and 11% for supported prone, therefore the recommendation for the use of SLR as a safer alternative to both prone and supine restraint to minimise the risk of adverse restraint-related outcomes [14] should be challenged.

The reductions in ventilatory capacity seen in the current study were proportional to the extent of the restriction imposed by the restraint position, but did not reach clinical significance, and the perceptions of anxiety, discomfort, and breathing limitation were experienced in an experimental setting. However, PR adverse events occur due to sequelae of cumulative risk factors and it is not known to what extent the ventilatory reductions seen may prove harmful and in what confluence of circumstances risks may occur in a 'perfect storm' scenario [3,16] resulting in adverse outcomes. That said, best practice in PR should seek to risk assess each technique / position used so that the safety of the individual is maximised and any potential harm is minimised by seeking to ameliorate as many risks as possible.

This study has shown that the SLR position was perceived to be more psychologically stressful and imposed more pressure on the thorax than both the supine restraint positions investigated. The negative and potentially adverse psychological and physiological effects observed were similar to those induced by unsupported prone restraint [5,6] and support the findings of Parkes et al. [17] suggesting it is erroneous to assume alternatives to prone restraint are homogeneously safer. All restraint positions have the potential for adverse consequences meaning that, regardless of position, PR should always be considered an emergency with the potential for physiological and psychological complications including psychological distress, anatomical injury, physiological compromise and even death.

Methodological strengths of this study included the use of four professional restraint trainers to consistently apply the restraint techniques, and the use of a stringent protocol that covered the procedure of testing and data collection using the same researchers throughout. The use of goniometry and spirometry followed routine clinical practice guidelines, and the construction and use of VAS scales to determine participant perceptions was as suggested by Scott and Huskisson [18] and McCormack et al. [19]. Furthermore, all participants achieved 90% of HRRes by running on the treadmill before being restrained to simulate the exertion of PR. Limitations of this study would be that participants did not struggle against their restraint once restrained, due to ethical considerations, and neither did they possess known risk factors for adverse events occurring during PR.

Conclusion

Our on-going research has demonstrated the potential for negative anatomical, physiological and psychological consequences of several PR positions, by investigating the physiological and psychological impact of supine and side lying PR positions which are often perceived to be safer alternatives to prone PR. All PR positions tested reduced respiratory capacity and resulted in perceptions of discomfort, anxiety, and breathing limitation compared to baseline. SLR was found to possess a significantly greater degree of negative physiological and psychological impact than supine restraint positions. Current guidance suggests avoiding prone restraint where possible however the alternatives are not free from negative physiological and psychological perceptions and as such supine and side lying alternatives should be selected carefully, monitored continuously, and regularly reviewed, with all applications of PR being considered as potential medical emergencies. Further research is required to identify and rank other PR positions and techniques in terms of risk so that staff is better able to make informed decisions during the use of PR in order to maximise safety and minimise harm.

Booneville Human Development Center Death Investigation

A public report by

Disability Rights Arkansas, Inc. (DRA) is the federally authorized and funded Protection and Advocacy System and Client Assistance Program for individuals with disabilities in Arkansas. DRA is authorized to protect the human, civil, and legal rights of all Arkansans with disabilities consistent with federal law.

This publication was made possible by funding support from the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA) and the Department of Health & Human Services Administration for Community Living. Executive Summary

In January 2015, Disability Rights Arkansas, Inc. (DRA) issued a report concerning the Booneville Human Development Center (HDC), a state owned and operated ICF/IID at which approximately 121 individuals with developmental disabilities reside. In the monitoring leading up to that report, DRA determined that there was excessive mechanical and chemical restraint of residents at the facility. DRA included information about this in its January 2015 report.[1] DRA found that the use of restraints was unreasonably high when compared with the other similarly-sized Human Development Centers located in Arkansas. DRA recommended that the Arkansas Department of Human Services take steps to determine the root causes of the excessive use of restraint at this facility and pay particular attention to the behavior plans of those residents who are frequently restrained.

DRA followed up its January 2015 report with further investigation and review of restraint practices at the Booneville HDC. DRA issued a second report on January 2016 regarding the excessive use of restraint at the facility.[2] DRA found that, in the months following the January 2015 report, the use of mechanical and chemical restraints at Booneville HDC was excessive, was not consistent with the facility's policies, and was not the product of thorough behavior analysis and programming.

As part of the investigation done for the January 2016 report, DRA reviewed restraint information and identified residents who were repeatedly restrained on a regular basis and for excessive amounts of time at Booneville HDC. DRA then sought further information about those residents. One of these residents was Jane, a 24 year old female who had been placed at the Booneville HDC in 2008 when she was 18 years old, after she briefly resided at the Conway Human Development Center.[3]

Jane was an individual with Mild Intellectual Disability and several mental health diagnoses, including Bipolar Disorder. Part of Jane's treatment and habilitation needs included services to address her emotional and behavioral functioning. Jane was assigned to a Special Treatment Program housing unit at the Hillside House at Booneville HDC for most of her time at the facility.

On April 23, 2015, DRA went to the Booneville HDC to meet Jane and talk with her about her experiences with restraint at the facility. DRA wanted to interview her because from January 2014 to February 2015, Jane had been physically restrained more than 40 times for a total of 36 hours and 49 minutes. DRA was not able to interview Jane. Upon arriving at the facility, DRA learned that Jane had died on February 26, 2015, as a result of choking to death on food.

Due to concerns about the treatment of residents generally and the treatment of Jane specifically, DRA conducted an investigation into the circumstances surrounding her death. DRA's investigation revealed that not only was Jane the victim of excessive restraint, she also was the victim of dangerous "treatment" that led to the development and implementation of a behavior treatment program that ignored serious medical concerns, including Jane's known risk of choking and history of seizure episodes that included falling, jerking, and vomiting.

There were both choking and seizure precautions ordered for Jane in the years preceding her death. Those precautions were meant to ensure her safety around food to avoid choking incidents and to provide appropriate action in the event of choking or seizure. Yet these precautions were ignored when a tragic and dangerous decision was made to implement a Behavior Treatment Program that emphasized ignoring any behavior that resembled a seizure because it was believed that Jane was deliberately engaging in the seizure-like episodes to garner attention.

The Behavior Treatment Program for Jane was fatally flawed because it did not acknowledge the conflicts between the choking and seizure precautions required for Jane's safety and the directive that staff ignore her seizure-like episodes. The Behavior Treatment Program was implemented despite concern expressed by direct care staff to the facility's Director of Nursing that the Program caused direct care staff to act outside of their qualifications. Ultimately, Jane choked to death because of a disregard for choking and seizure precautions.

Although Jane's death was not due to a restraint, she did die as a result of the outdated and primitive responses to behaviors used at the Booneville HDC that dangerously combined with a lack of coordination in medical and behavioral care that left her, and continues to leave other residents, at risk of injury and death. Jane was victim to a dangerous Behavior Treatment Program that ignored serious medical issues and punished her for seeking attention, a normal human need. She was left in the care of direct care staff who were in the untenable position of being instructed to not pay attention to Jane during seizure-like episodes in which she had a heightened risk of choking.

Moreover, as with the excessive use of restraint, the State system charged with oversight and monitoring the treatment and deaths of individuals at the Booneville HDC took only a cursory look at the circumstances leading to Jane's death, thus failing her in death as in life.

DRA urges the Arkansas Department of Human Services and its Division of Developmental Disabilities Services to immediately take the following actions as a start toward ensuring better care for Booneville HDC residents and avoiding unnecessary deaths of residents like Jane:

- immediately hire an independent expert or group of experts to review and assist in evaluating and improving the treatment and habilitation services provided to Booneville HDC residents;
- obtain an independent, expert evaluation of each Booneville HDC resident to make comprehensive recommendations for their treatment and habilitation needs, including coordination of medical and psychological treatment and safety;
- implement a more rigorous, independent review of treatment decisions, practices and incidents, including deaths; and
- implement the recommendations contained in DRA's January 2016 report.

Jane's death at 24 years old was an avoidable tragedy. It is also a warning. Without both adequate collaboration and meaningful review of the practices at Booneville HDC, the unreasonable risks to the safety of the residents will persist.

Tom Masseau, Executive Director
Disability Rights Arkansas, Inc.

Death Investigation Report

On February 26, 2015, Jane, a 24 year old resident of the Booneville Human Development Center (Booneville HDC), was pronounced dead at Booneville Mercy Hospital. Earlier that evening, Jane collapsed, began having seizure-like activity, and vomited on the floor of the TV room of her living unit. By the time she was assessed by medical staff, Jane was lying in her own vomit and spilled cereal and was accompanied by staff members who were ordered not to look directly at Jane while she was experiencing seizure-like activity. Mercy Hospital reported her cause of death as cardiac arrest, seizure, and choking due to food in the larynx. The Arkansas State Crime Laboratory conducted an autopsy and ruled that Jane's cause of death was "[a]sphyxia due to airway occlusion by food bolus." In other words, Jane's airway was blocked by food, and she choked to death.

Disability Rights Arkansas[4] (DRA) undertook an investigation into Jane's death pursuant to our federal authority under 42 U.S.C. §§ 15041-15045 and 42 U.S.C. § 10801 et seq.[5] DRA's investigation revealed several serious areas of concern that lead us to conclude that Jane's death was both avoidable and resulted from the deviation from the standard of care expected of a facility of this type in significant ways.

[4] Disability Rights Arkansas, Inc., is the federally authorized and funded nonprofit organization serving as the Protection and Advocacy System (P&A) for individuals with disabilities in Arkansas. As part of its responsibility under federal law, Disability Rights Arkansas monitors and investigates where persons with disabilities reside to determine whether treatment and resources are fair and humane, including whether residents have been subject to abuse and neglect. Disability Rights Arkansas has not only the authority, but also the obligation to investigate and report these abuses pursuant to: (1) Part C of Title I of the Developmental Disabilities Assistance and Bill of Rights Act of 2000 (the DD Act), 42 U.S.C. 15041-15045; (2) the Protection and Advocacy for Individuals with Mental Illness Act of 1986 (the PAIMI Act), 42 U.S.C. 10801 et seq.; and, (3) the Protection and Advocacy of Individual Rights (PAIR) Program of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, 29 U.S.C. 794e.

[5] Disability Rights Arkansas' investigation included a review of all available records regarding Jane's residency and treatment at the facility, applicable policies, procedures and standards, interviews both with Booneville HDC staff and DDS Assistant Director for Quality Assurance, and consultation with a medical expert.

The failures of the facility that combined to cause this tragic event include the following:

- The facility failed to initiate any safe, evidence-based interventions or plans to address Jane's behavior. The Behavior Treatment Program developed for Jane placed her at increased risk of choking, thereby further jeopardizing her safety; the intervention recommended in that Program directly led to her death.
- There was a lack of adequate communication or careful consideration among medical, psychological, and psychiatric personnel at the facility when recommending a Behavior Treatment Program. Jane's Behavior Treatment Program required staff to ignore a dangerous situation, exposing her to increased choking risk during seizure-like activity.
- The facility failed to initiate or follow appropriate, adequate choking precautions while Jane was eating cereal. The failure of the staff to follow these precautions as well as the inability of the staff to identify and respond appropriately to a choking incident, led to Jane's untimely death.
- The Booneville HDC and Arkansas Human Development Center Death Review Committee both conducted reviews of the circumstances of Jane's death; however, the reviews by both Booneville HDC and the Arkansas Human Development Center Death Review Committee were superficial and concluded without complete information or adequate scope.

This report summarizes DRA's findings, conclusions, and recommendations based on information obtained as a result of its investigation.

Findings

1. On July 9, 2008, Jane, at eighteen years old, was admitted to the Booneville Human Development Center (Booneville HDC) on a respite basis and was made a permanent resident on July 24, 2008. Before this, Jane was placed at the Conway Human Development Center for less than one year. Booneville HDC Social Services Department, Social History Narrative, December 17, 2014.

2. Shortly before her admission to the Booneville HDC, the Reynolds Intellectual Assessment Scales (RIAS) was administered to Jane and resulted in an IQ score of 44, which was determined to be in the moderate range of intellectual disability. The Vineland Adaptive Behavior Scales, Second Edition (VABS-II) was administered to assess Jane's adaptive behavior functioning, which resulted in adaptive behavior functioning determined to be in the mild range of intellectual disability. Booneville HDC Psychological Evaluation, [redacted], M.S., Psy. Ex. II, July 14, 2008.

3. Based upon the RAIS and VABS-II results from July 2008, Jane's functioning was determined to be in the mild range overall. Id.

4. At the time of her admission to the Booneville HDC, Jane had been diagnosed with the following: Bipolar I Disorder, Manic; Enuresis; and Mild Mental Retardation. Booneville HDC Medical Review, December 16, 2014.

5. For most of her time at the Booneville HDC, Jane resided in the Hillside House Special Treatment Program housing unit. Individual Program Plan Annual Review, January 27, 2014.

Hillside House Entrance

6. Individuals in a Special Treatment Program must meet certain admission criteria, including a psychiatric disorder that significantly impairs functioning and a history of challenging behaviors. Booneville HDC Special Treatment Program Description, Revised February 10, 2012.

7. The Special Treatment Programs at the Booneville HDC utilize a differential reinforcement of other behavior (DRO) framework, which is intended to reinforce appropriate behavior as defined by the facility. Id.

8. Residents in the Special Treatment Program earn points for positive behaviors and are awarded reinforcement from one of three levels if meeting the point level required. Id.

9. Residents are eligible for discharge from the Special Treatment Program after meeting exit criteria and are considered for transfer to a lesser restrictive environment at that time. Id.

10. Jane passed away on February 26, 2015, after an incident at the Booneville HDC in which she choked to death. Arkansas State Crime Laboratory Autopsy, 7.

11. At the time of her death, Jane had been a resident at the Booneville HDC for roughly seven years.

12. The Booneville HDC Death Summary identified Jane's diagnoses as "Mild Intellectual Disability; Antisocial Personality features; Bipolar 1 Disorder, Moderate, Most Recent Episode Manic; Factitious Disorder; Enuresis, Nocturnal and Diurnal; Sinus Tachycardia; Astigmatism; Hyperlipidemia; Constipation; Seasonal Allergic Rhinitis; History of Possible Pseudo Seizures; Anemia of Chronic Disease; Contraception." Booneville HDC Death Summary, p. 1.

13. The Death Summary identified Jane's medications as Ativan (prolonged seizure activity); Clozapine (antipsychotic); Haldol (Bipolar Disorder); Multivitamin (Nutritional Supplement); Desmopressin (Enuresis Diurnal); Diastat (prolonged seizure activity); Depakote (mood stabilizer/Seizures); Colace (stool softener), Ferrous Sulfate (Iron Supplement); Lithium (antipsychotic); Loestrin FE (birth control); Loratadine (Claritin); Nasacort AQ (Seasonal Allergic Rhinitis); Inderal (to decrease her fast heart rate); Simvastatin (Hypercholesterolemia); and, Polyethylene Glycol (bulk laxative). Id.

Choking Precautions

14. "Choking Risk Assessments" identify the residents' likelihood to choke and provide guidance for precautions that aid in ensuring the safety of the resident from choking.

15. On April, 27, 2011, Jane received a modified barium swallow study due to having scored above 50% on a previous Choking Risk Assessment. Booneville HDC Dysphagia Disorder Survey, January 10, 2014.

16. On April 26, 2012, Jane had a repeat barium swallow study. Id.

17. Both the 2011 and 2012 barium studies indicated Jane had a delayed swallow with premature spillover. Id.

18. On December 3, 2013, Booneville HDC nursing staff assessed Jane for choking risk by utilizing the Choking Risk Assessment form, which assesses risk based on ten categories. Choking Risk Assessment, December 3, 2013.

19. At this time, Jane's choking risk was assessed at 60% based on:

a. dysphagia diagnosis;
b. medication side effects;
c. mealtime actions and behaviors;
d. rate of spooning and drinking; and
e. excessive size mouthfuls. Id.

A score of 60% identified Jane as a "High Risk" for choking. Booneville HDC Medical Annual Review, January 2014; Booneville HDC Dysphagia Disorder Survey, January 31, 2014.

20. As a result of the choking risk assessment, choking precautions were ordered for Jane, which included chopping all of Jane's foods, monitoring all meals and snacks, and utilizing weighted utensils and other adaptive equipment. Id. Choking Precautions had been ordered since at least 2013. Physician Order Form, December 20, 2013; see also Death Summary, p. 3.

21. On January 10, 2014, a speech pathologist administered a Dysphagia Disorder Survey Screening to Jane. Booneville HDC Dysphagia Disorder Survey, January 31, 2014.

22. The Dysphagia Disorder Screening identified Jane's eating risks and issues to be taking bites and sips that were too large, being distractible while eating, and slumping. The Screening resulted in a recommendation that choking precautions be continued. Booneville HDC Dysphagia Disorder Survey Narrative Summary, January 31, 2014.

23. On January 13, 2014, direct care staff conducted an Annual Review of Jane and identified Jane as a "choker" who gets distracted at meal times and who is monitored for choking. Direct Care Assessment Annual Review, January 13, 2014.

24. On January 31, 2014, the speech pathologist drafted an eating and dining plan to address Jane's choking risk that included:

a. monitoring of Jane during all meal times;
b. ensuring that she sit upright at 90 degrees;
c. ensuring that she take small bites and sips while eating;
d. using adaptive equipment, such as a weighted cup, weighted spoon, and wrist weights; and
e. informing medical staff of any signs or symptoms of aspiration.

25. On December 8, 2014, Booneville HDC nursing staff re-assessed Jane for choking utilizing the same Choking Risk Assessment form used on December 3, 2013. At this time, Jane's choking risk was scored at 30% based on dysphagia diagnosis, medication side effects, and excessive size mouthfuls. Choking Risk Assessment, December 3, 3013.

26. The December 2014 Risk Assessment did not consider the previous issues that the 2013 Choking Risk Assessment and the 2014 Dysgraphia Disorder Survey Screening had identified that would put Jane at higher risk for choking, namely mealtime actions, mealtime behaviors, and rate of spooning and drinking. Choking Risk Assessment, December 8, 2014.

27. Furthermore, neither the 2013 nor 2014 Choking Risk Assessments reflect knowledge of or information about Jane's seizure activity when both identifying and assessing choking risk, though that information is requested as part of the assessment. Id. This was a significant omission due to the amplified risk to Jane of choking.

28. The Death Summary reiterated that Jane's "choking risk was 30% as a result of medication that could affect swallowing, mild Dysphagia disorder and taking excessive size mouthfuls at times," based on evaluations completed on December 8, 2014. Booneville HDC Death Summary, p. 3.

29. Despite failure to identify seizure activity as part of the choking risk assessment, choking precautions were ordered for Jane and remained in effect until the time of her death. Booneville HDC Medical Review, December 16, 2014. Physician's Orders, renewed by Dr. [redacted] on January 2, 2015.

Seizures

30. Jane had a history of seizure-like symptoms that presented as jerking and shaking. Death Summary, p. 2.

31. These episodes were, at times, accompanied by vomiting, urination, falling, and catatonic features. Seizure Report, September 29, 2014; Behavior Reports 2014-2015, discussed individually below.

32. Since at least 2009, Jane had been placed on seizure and choking precautions that included, but were not limited to staff informing the Team RN if any coughing or gurgling sounds occur after eating, as well as if staff observed a wet gurgling sounding voice or any other signs/symptoms of aspiration. Dysphagia Disorder Survey, Narrative Summary, January 10, 2014; Dining Plan, January 31, 2014; Physician's Orders, January 2, 2015.

33. Jane had been seen by a neurologist since at least January 24, 2011. Neurology Progress Note, February 26, 2013.

34. In the months leading up to her death, Jane suffered injuries due to falls that occurred during seizure-like activity, resulting in lacerations to the head, face, and knees:

> August 23, 2014: Scraped knee due to seizure activity. (Injury Report, August 23, 2014).
> September 3, 2014:
> Lacerated lower lip and chin after falling down stairs, attributed to a seizure. (Injury Report, September 3, 2014).
> November 8, 2014:
> Abrasion to the back of the head from falling during a seizure. (Injury Report, November 8, 2014).

35. Jane suffered additional falls during 2014 that resulted in injuries, though those falls were not attributed to seizures by direct care or nursing staff:

> December 9, 2014:
> The Behavior Report states that Jane "had a sudden jerking movement and fell, re-opening an old abrasion on her knee" (Behavior Report, December 9, 2014)[6] The Injury Report accompanying the fall does not document the injury as seizure-related. (Injury Report, December 9, 2014). Jane continued to experience "jerking" and falling, which staff characterized as "attention-seeking." (Behavior Report, December 9, 2014).

[6] A Behavior Report completed on December 9, 2014, describes Jane making "jerking motions" and falling to the ground, with no attempts to break her fall. This Behavior Report states that this happened four times and that "staff could feel the muscle type spasms in her arms." Due to the jerking motions, the Behavior Report states that most of Jane's lunch was spilled or ended up on the floor. Medical was notified and made two visits to check on her. (Behavior Report, December 9, 2014). The Injury Report that coincided with the Behavior Report mentions that Jane falls, but makes no mention of jerking or spasms. (Injury Report, December 9, 2014).

July 25, 2014:

Staff reported that Jane's whole body would jerk while she was getting medications from nursing staff. Staff responded to the jerking by telling Jane to stop because staff "thought it was a behavior." (Behavior Report, July 25, 2014).

- Shortly thereafter, Jane arrived at class, and staff members were told about the previous jerking behavior and were asked to observe for that behavior. Staff stated that, during observations, Jane was jerking. While eating a cracker, Jane's body jerked causing her cracker to hit the floor. As Jane was later walking to mobile (the van used by the facility for transport), she began jerking. She jerked hard and fell to the ground. Staff stated that she was jerking hard and fast. Jane also began vomiting and breathing heavily at that time. (Behavior Report, July 25, 2014).
- The Injury Report completed for treating Jane's scraped knee does not document the injury as seizure-related. (Injury Report, July 25, 2014).[7]

36. From July 2014 until February 2015, Booneville HDC staff reported more than twenty incidents in which Jane had seizure-like activity. There were 9 such incidents in the month preceding Jane's death.

July 25, 2014:

Jane had been exhibiting "jerking" during mealtime. Later, as she was walking to mobile, she began to jerk hard and fell to the ground, vomiting and breathing heavily (Behavior Report, July 25, 2014).

[7] There were additional Injury Reports completed where Jane's injuries were attributed to falls, but no Behavior Reports were provided to know the circumstances surrounding those falls.

August 23, 2014:

Jane had a seizure lasting at least four minutes, which was accompanied by vomiting (Nurse's notes, August 23, 2014).

August 25, 2014:

Jane had a seizure lasting between four and twelve minutes, which also included vomiting and urine incontinence (Nurse's notes, August 28, 2014).

August 29, 2014:

Jane was "jerking" during breakfast (Behavior Report, August 29, 2014).

August 29, 2014:

Jane "jerked' and fell to the ground while working. She was stiff and jerking around on the floor. She then vomited, urinated on herself, and became unresponsive. The incident lasted for twelve minutes (Behavior Report, August 29, 2014).

September 11, 2014:

Jane jerked while carrying her tray and fell to her knees (Behavior Report, September 11, 2014).

September 11, 2014:

Three similar incidents happened right after while Jane was carrying her second tray of food and while she was attempting to eat and drink (Behavior Reports, September 11, 2014).

September 11, 2014:

Jane was observed "jerking" on and off for a ten minute period while in the training area (Behavior Report, September 11, 2014).

November 29, 2014:

Jane was "jerking" while eating, which caused her to spill her food onto the floor. The report notes that another "jerking" incident had occurred earlier (Behavior Report, November 29, 2014).

December 9, 2014:

Jane experienced a "sudden jerking movement" that caused her to fall and re-open an old wound. The Injury Report does not list the injury as seizure-related (Behavior Report, December 9, 2014. Injury Report, December 9, 2014).

December 9, 2014:

Jane was walking to lunch when she made a "jerking motion" and fell to the ground. This happened a total of four times. Staff noted that Jane did not attempt to stop her fall at all. Staff also noted that they were able to feel "muscle type spasms in her arms." Jane's jerking motions were so bad that staff noted most of her lunch ended up in the floor (Behavior Report, December 9, 2014).

December 10, 2014:

Jane displayed what staff characterized as "unusual behavior," consisting of slumping to the floor and jerking (Behavior Report, December 10, 2014).

December 10, 2014:

Jane stumbled and fell a number of times while walking to receive medications and made several "jerking" movements. Medical staff instructed her to "stop," but she continued. Jane continued to stumble while walking to her training area. She fell near her work table. During lunch, she was unable to eat or drink due to jerking movements. She eventually vomited and was taking to medical for observations (Behavior Report, December 10, 2014).

December 10, 2014:

Jane exhibited "jerking" and what staff characterized as attempts to fall down (Behavior Report, December 10, 2014).

February 6, 2015:

Jane was having lunch when she started "jerking." Staff asked her to stop and clean the floor (Behavior Report, February 6, 2015).

February 17, 2015:

Jane was "jerking" and "twisting" so much that the nursing staff had a difficult time taking her blood pressure (Behavior Report, February 17, 2015).

February 19, 2015:

Jane began "jerking," which resulted in her dropping food while at lunch. Staff marked Jane's DRO card for demanding attention/disrupting others (Behavior Report, February 19, 2015).

February 21, 2015:

Jane was "jerking" while eating breakfast, which resulted in her food and drink spilling. Staff marked Jane's DRO card for demanding attention (Behavior Report, February 21, 2015).

February 23, 2015:

Jane was "making jerking motions," which made food spill. Staff ignored her. She continued jerking until she "realized staff was ignoring her and she stopped" (Behavior Report, February 23, 2015).

February 23, 2015:

Jane was "jerking" at supper and again during her bath. It was noted that staff ignored the jerking both times (Behavior Report, February 23, 2015).

February 25, 2015:

Jane was at work and "began to appear to have seizures." She later fell out of her chair and into the floor where she refused to move until the class took a break (Behavior Report, February 25, 2015).

37. On June 3, 2014, Jane saw a neurologist, Dr. [redacted]. According to the Death Summary, the neurologist noted that Jane's seizures were well controlled in the past year and recommended that Jane continue with AED (anti-epileptic drug) regimen. Booneville HDC Death Summary p. 2.

According to Booneville HDC staff, the neurologist was not given Jane's entire behavioral record; thus, she would not have had access to Behavior Reports, which gave a more thorough and accurate picture of Jane's seizure episodes.

38. On August 28, 2014, Jane's seizure-like activity was discussed at a Special Team Meeting. At this meeting, the Team determined that all suspected seizure activity must be documented on a Seizure Report "in order for the neurologist to be fully informed," and that Jane would see the neurologist the next time she was at the Booneville HDC. Special Team Meeting, August 28, 2014 (emphasis added).

39. According to Registered Nurse [redacted], who provided RN approval for Jane's Behavior Treatment Program, a seizure report must be completed by a staff member for every documented seizure. This system is in place in order to ensure that the facility has an accurate and complete clinical picture for its residents. According to the Registered Nurse, if a staff member describes an incident as a "seizure" in a behavior report, then there must be a seizure report completed as well.

40. Booneville HDC staff did not follow the directive to document all suspected seizure activity on a Seizure Report form for Jane. For the twenty episodes of jerking or suspected seizure activity described above, staff completed only three seizure reports for Jane. See Seizure Reports, August 29, 2014; September 3, 2014; September 29, 2014.

41. On October 28, 2014, Jane had an Electroencephalogram, (EEG). The EEG report stated as follows:

> No epileptiform activity was seen (although its absence does not necessarily exclude the presence of an underlying clinical seizure disorder). The presence of mild intermittent slowing of the background may also represent a mild encephalopathic process although this particular finding was very subtle and mild. Further clinical correlation is recommended.

Death Summary, p. 2.

42. On November 4, 2014, Jane saw the neurologist again. According to the Death Summary, the neurologist "noted a history of seizures, most of the jerking reported sound like pseudo seizures, continue present AED regimen approach jerking episodes with non-attention [...]." Death Summary, p. 2.

43. Following the EEG, the neurologist recommended continuing Jane's anti-epileptic drug regimen. Death Summary, p. 2-4.

44. Jane continued to have physician orders for at least two medications to be administered during seizures lasting longer than five minutes. Medical Review, December 16, 2014; Physician's Orders, October 1, 2014.

45. Jane's mother does not recall being told that Jane was somehow faking seizures to gain attention. She said that she was frequently called by facility staff and told that Jane had a seizure. She was aware that Jane frequently fell down, sometimes hurting herself, and that this was reported to her as the result of seizures.

46. Jane's mother was concerned about the cause of the seizures that her daughter was having. She requested that the facility consider reducing the amount of medication that Jane was taking, due to concern about whether the medications were causing seizures.

47. Orders for Jane continued to include "Seizure and Choking Precautions." Death Summary, p. 2.

48. Jane's records include research regarding each medication and interactions between medications. Several of Jane's medications, either alone or in combination with other medications prescribed to her cause "loss of seizure control or symptoms such as tremors, poor muscle coordination, increased seizures, and changes in behavior." Other combinations cause "confusion, fainting, fast heart rate, drowsiness, drooling, difficulty breathing, [. . .] dizziness, lightheadedness, fainting, and/or changes in pulse or heart rate." See Drug Interaction Report, Received by BHDC Records Room December 17, 2014.

49. On December 12, 2014, Jane saw a psychiatrist, Dr. [redacted]. According to the Death Summary, the psychiatrist reported "[s]tate somewhat improved, Jerking episodes likely pseudo seizures, possible side effect from meds orthostatic hypotension- decrease Clozapine [...] and added diagnosis for Factitious Disorder." Death Summary, p. 2.

50. According to the DSM-V Manual, there are four diagnostic criteria for Factitious Disorder:

a. Falsification of physical or psychological signs or symptoms, or induction of injury or disease, associated with identified deception.
b. The individual presents himself or herself to others as ill, impaired, or injured.
c. The deceptive behavior is evident even in the absence of obvious external rewards.
d. The behavior is not better explained by another mental disorder, such as delusional disorder or another psychotic disorder.[8]

51. Unfortunately, it does not appear that there was investigation into the underlying cause of the identified problem for Jane. Instead, the seizure activity for Jane was assumed to be attention seeking misbehavior to be ignored. Causes of nonepileptic seizures can include migraines, panic attacks, sleep disorders, or psychologic distress, according to the American Academy of Family Physicians.[9]

The Behavior Treatment Program

52. Jane had a history of significant behavioral symptoms as part of her disabilities. Since at least March 2012, Jane had some form of Behavior Treatment Program. See Behavior Treatment Program, March 12, 2012.

53. The primary behavioral symptoms that Jane's Behavior Treatment Program indicated needed to be monitored were "Physical Aggression,"

[8] Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders, American Psychiatric Association, Fifth Edition, 2013.
[9] Alsaadi, Taoufik, M. and Marquez, Anna Vinter, Psychogenic Nonepileptic Seizures, Am. Fam. Physician, 2005 Sep 1; 72(5): 849-856.

"Demanding Attention/Disrupting Others," and "Noncompliance." Behavior Treatment Program, March 12, 2012.

54. The Behavior Treatment Program noted that Jane "thrives on personal attention." Id.

55. Over the years, Jane's Behavior Treatment Program consisted primarily of Differential Reinforcement of Other Behavior that allowed Jane to earn rewards from a Reinforcement Menu. Id.

56. DRA initially encountered Jane's case in conjunction with examining the restraint practices of Booneville HDC as a whole. Jane was frequently restrained by staff, spending over 36 hours in restraints over the course of the thirteen months preceding her death.

57. A few of the behavioral incidents that DRA reviewed for Jane were:

- In September 2014, after Jane was restrained for 1.5 hours on a papoose board, a staff member recommended weekly formal counseling for Jane to help her cope with personal issues. Behavior Report, September 18, 2014. There is no record of Jane ever receiving the counseling recommended by the staff member.
- In November 2014, Jane was administered a dose of Haldol for chemical restraint without any explanation. Although there is a chemical intervention checklist (provided to the physician for evaluation of whether chemical intervention should be permitted) there was not an accompanying behavior report. The intervention checklist states that the client did not present a clear and present danger to others at that time, nor did the client present a clear and present danger in the hour preceding the evaluation. Nevertheless, the facility administered the dose of Haldol. Chemical Intervention Checklist, November 19, 2014.
- In December 2014, Jane was cited for "non-compliance" when she was yelling that she wanted her mommy during class and acting like she was asleep. When staff told her to work, she swung at staff and tried to kick or stomp on the staff members' feet. She was restrained on a papoose board for a half hour and told staff afterwards that she would "be good tomorrow and not listen to the voices she was hearing in her head and she misses her mom." Again, no recommendations were provided by staff to prevent future restraints. Behavior Report, December 8, 2014.

- In January 2015, Jane was strapped to a papoose board after refusing to eat her dinner. Staff encouraged her to eat and she left the room. When staff tried to get her back to the dining room, she became aggressive. It was not until after Jane had been restrained for just under an hour that staff gleaned from her that her grandfather had recently died and she missed him. When staff reviewed Jane's restraint on this date, they determined that there were no recommendations to prevent a restraint from occurring in the future. Behavior Report, January 18, 2015.

58. There is no indication that Jane's treatment was altered to address the September 2014 recommendation for formal counseling or that Jane had a formal plan for professional psychological counseling in the year preceding her death.

59. On December 17, 2015, Jane's Interdisciplinary Team requested changes to the Behavior Treatment Program to include interventions for Factitious Disorder symptoms. Behavior Treatment Program, January 6, 2015, p. 1.

60. On January 6, 2015, the Behavior Treatment Program was modified to provide that:

> Factitious Disorder is a condition where Jane purposely feigns illness or causes injury to herself. The methods of illness falsification can include exaggeration, faking, and actual self-harm. Her symptoms include jerking, twitching, shaking to the point where food falls off eating utensils, stumbling, and falling down. The primary functions of the symptoms appear to be avoidance of tasks and > attention seeking. Jane has verbalized that she had a seizure, then later stated she had faked it. Jane has fallen down without attempting to catch herself, and injured herself. Jane may also demonstrate physical aggression towards others, tantrum behaviors, verbal aggression, noncompliance, running out of an assigned area, and argumentativeness.

> Even though her pseudo seizure symptoms may be attention seeking, with high risk behavior there is always the potential for accidental self-harm. Jane usually begins this behavior by jerking or twitching. When attention is given, the behavior typically escalates to increased motor movements, stumbling and/or falling to the ground. If Jane makes any threats, gestures or actions to hurt herself, follow BHDC Suicide Precautions Policy or Increased Supervision Policy.

Behavior Treatment Program, January 6, 2015, pp. 2-3 (emphasis added).

61. Jane's Behavior Treatment Program went on to describe Factitious Disorder Interventions as follows:

> This serious illness requires a delicate balance of providing appropriate intervention, but not reinforce the symptoms. Staff should ignore jerks and twitches and monitor these behaviors using peripheral vision (avoid watching her directly). Jane may continue this behavior despite planned ignoring. If Jane is working in a training area and attempts to stand up, or walk off, direct Jane to sit back down. If she complies, provide praise for following staff instruction. Should she refuse to comply and runs, or continues walking, escort her back to a seated position. If Jane complains of an inability to engage in a task due to pseudo seizures, redirect her attention to something positive or about expectation with active treatment tasks. This redirection may serve to provide Jane with the attention she is seeking in a positive manner and reduce her tendency to seek negative attention.

Behavior Treatment Program, January 6, 2015, p. 3.

62. The Behavior Treatment Program recognized that there was a "serious potential for self-harm [...] when Jane is exhibiting pseudo seizure behaviors" and required interventions such as, "ignore jerks and twitches and monitor these behaviors using peripheral vision [. . .] instruct her to get up and continue to her destination." Behavior Treatment Program, January 6, 2015, pp. 3-4 (emphasis added).

63. On January 8, 2015, the modified Behavior Treatment Program was approved by Booneville HDC Superintendent [redacted] and [redacted], RN. Behavior Treatment Program Approvals for January 2015 Behavior Treatment Program.

64. On January 30, 2015, Jane's guardian provided consent to the modified Behavior Treatment Program. Consent for Behavioral Treatment, January 30, 2015.

65. The January 2015 Behavior Treatment Program required staff to ignore Jane's seizure-like activity due to the diagnosis of factitious disorder. See Behavior Treatment Program, January 6, 2015; Physician's Orders, January 2, 2015.

66. Physician's Orders for Jane continued to require seizure and choking precautions to be followed. There was a significant conflict between the Behavior Treatment Program and Physician's Orders that was not reconciled before Booneville HDC staff were required to implement the new Behavior Treatment Program.

67. For Jane's January 2015 Behavior Treatment Program, [redacted], Psychological Examiner, (Examiner) provided training for eleven staff members on February 12, 2015, and followed with training for approximately fifty more staff members on February 13, 14 and 17, 2015. A video of the February 12, 2015, training was then played for approximately 150 more staff for training purposes.

68. The training provided by Examiner consisted of her sitting at a table and reading the Behavior Treatment Program to staff and briefly discussing its contents. The video was then played for other groups who were not present for the initial training. The training did not include any discussion of how to resolve the conflict between the Behavior Treatment Program's requirement to ignore seizure-like activity and the seizure or choking precautions.

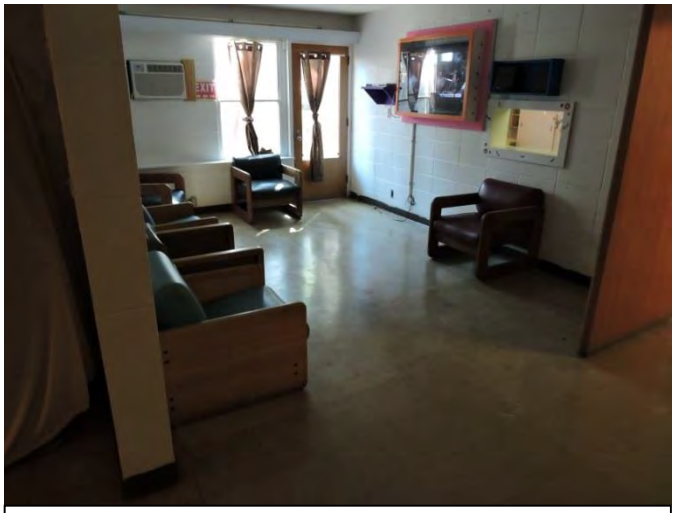
69. In an interview with Examiner, DRA asked about the incidents in which Jane vomited during seizure-like episodes. Examiner told DRA that she did not know that Jane had ever vomited during seizure-like activities and would have included such information in the Behavior Treatment Program if she had known.

70. DRA consulted with Dr. Kevin Ann Huckshorn, an expert in facility practices.[10] Dr. Huckshorn expressed grave concerns regarding both the implementation and maintenance of the Behavior Treatment Program adopted by Booneville HDC.

71. Dr. Huckshorn identified a need for qualified personnel to identify not only the behaviors for the Program to address but also whether the Program is effective. In Jane's case, seizure-like activities increased after implementation of the Program, signifying to Dr. Huckshorn that the Program was not effective and should have been discontinued. The ineffectiveness of the program was either not reported to the persons charged with evaluation of the Program's effectiveness or was reported and not properly evaluated.

72. Finally, Dr. Huckshorn cited a significant deviation in the standard of care in requiring direct care staff to assess Jane's seizure episodes and distinguish between a behavior that mimics a medical emergency and an actual medical emergency, all of which are outside the scope of their training, education, and experience.



Jane's Death

73. Jane was pronounced dead at 9:14 p.m. on February 26, 2015. The events leading to her death are as follows:

[10] Dr. Huckshorn is a licensed and certified mental health nurse and substance abuse clinician with 36 years of experience working in a variety of public and private behavioral health organizations. She has published on topics including violence, treatment adherence, trauma-informed care, and workforce development and has co-authored a book with William Anthony, PhD, titled "Principled Leadership in Mental Health Systems and Programs" (2008).

February 26, 2015, 7:30 p.m.:

Jane was in the TV room of the Hillside House Down having an evening snack of Fruit Loops cereal and milk.[11] Residential Care Shift Supervisor [redacted] (Supervisor) saw Jane "in the TV room eating her snack [when] all of a sudden she jerked really big with her whole body, spilling her cereal."[12]

TV Room at Hillside House Down

Supervisor later said that Jane spilled her cereal and milk before eating any cereal.[13]

Supervisor responded to Jane by asking her "to clean up her mess."[14] She advised Jane to do this because this was Supervisor's understanding of Jane's modified Behavior Treatment Program to address behavioral symptoms of Factitious Disorder.[15] Jane then walked down the hallway to a linen closet to get a towel.[16]

Supervisor initially reported that Jane, after returning to the TV room, "got down on her hands and knees and fell over in a big jerking movement."[17] Supervisor later reported that Jane "got down on her hands and knees and began wiping up her mess."[18] She also reported that Jane asked if she could have another snack, and when Supervisor told her that they were not going to discuss this at that time, Jane "jerked really big again and fell over."[19]

Supervisor asked Jane to get up and sit in the chair, which she did. At that time, there were several other residents in the TV room.[20]

7:33 p.m.:

Supervisor left the TV room to call the nurse to get some pain medication for another resident.[21] [redacted] (LPN), the LPN who took Supervisor's call for medication, reported this call from Supervisor as 7:35 p.m.[22]

When Supervisor returned to the TV room, "Jane was in the floor, her whole body jerking as if in a seizure."[23] Supervisor again asked her to get up and sit in the chair.[24] Jane did not respond and "only kept jerking."[25] Also, at that time, Jane "started throwing up liquid/flem [sic]."[26]

Supervisor then "left Jane alone but kept watching her."[27] Supervisor later stated that she did not leave her alone in the TV room but "stood watching/monitoring her actions."[28]

After about 30 seconds, Supervisor yelled down the hall for another staff member, [redacted], Residential Care Technician (Technician), who was in another resident's room.[29] She asked Technician to stay with Jane while Supervisor went to call Medical.[30] Technician does not mention this event at all in her statement.[31]

"At this point Jane's eyes were still open. She had finished vomiting, and she had stopped jerking. She was breathing loud raspy breaths…."[32] This was something that Supervisor had witnessed at least two times when she previously witnessed Jane having a seizure.[33]

7:39 p.m.:

Supervisor called Medical a second time and spoke to LPN.[34] In her first statement, Supervisor reported that she told LPN that Jane "had fell out into a seizure and that she was throwing up."[35] In her second statement, Supervisor reported that she told LPN that Jane "was having a pseudo seizure and that she had thrown up liquids."[36] Supervisor was not sure if LPN "needed to check [Jane.]"[37]

LPN confirmed that Supervisor told her that "we need you to come check Jane after her seizure."[38] LPN reported that "Jane has pseudo seizures as determined by medical staff and protocol mandates observing client and providing safety for client."[39]

Supervisor reported that LPN told her that she would be over to check Jane in a few minutes.[40] LPN reported that she left for Hillside House Down immediately.[41]

Supervisor then returned to the TV room[42], sat in a chair and watched Jane who was lying on the floor.[43] At this time, Supervisor believed Jane was still breathing because she could see her stomach moving up and down.[44] Jane's eyes were open.[45]

Supervisor wiped the vomit from Jane's face, nose, and hair.[46] She also checked Jane's mouth to "to ensure there was nothing in it."[47] She rolled Jane over onto her back and shook and called out to her.[48] Jane did not respond.[49] Supervisor "assumed she was ignoring me because that's the way she did after every other pseudo seizure event" Supervisor witnessed.[50] Supervisor got up and sat in a chair, leaving Jane on the floor on her back.[51]

Supervisor was not certified to perform CPR on the date of Jane's death. In fact, her certification lapsed more than one year prior, on February 22, 2014.

7:42 p.m.:

LPN arrived at the TV room in Hillside House Down.[52] She did not check on Jane first but instead gave another resident medication.[53] All the other residents left the TV room, leaving only LPN, Supervisor, and Jane.[54]

LPN checked on Jane, who was still lying on the floor in the middle of the TV room on her back with her head to the right side.[55] Meanwhile, Supervisor was sitting in a chair "directly across" from Jane.[56]

LPN checked Jane's mouth and did not find any foreign objects or vomit in her mouth; however, she saw "clear vomitus" around Jane.[57] She also saw whole dry cereal on the floor.[58]

LPN "observed [Jane] per protocol following seizure like activity."[59] LPN at first thought that Jane was breathing based upon "feeling [Jane's] breath on [her] hand."[60] Jane's eyes were open.[61]

LPN sought more information from Supervisor. LPN reported that Supervisor told her "Jane had her cereal in hand and began throwing up."[62] Supervisor also told LPN that "Jane had one of her seizures [sic] like episodes and fell forward dropping her cereal."[63] LPN asked Supervisor whether any cereal had been eaten.[64] Supervisor reported none had been eaten.[65]

While LPN was talking with Supervisor, Jane's breathing ceased.[66] LPN "got on the floor beside [Jane] to check for her pulse and indications of breathing."[67] Jane did not have any blood pressure or pulse.[68]

LPN began chest compressions.[69] After around 30 compressions, LPN asked Supervisor to take over with chest compressions so she could call for an ambulance, and Supervisor started chest compressions.[70] LPN then took over chest compressions while Supervisor called for assistance from additional staff.[71]

7:50 p.m.:

Residential Care Technician [redacted] (Technician2) was upstairs at Hillside House when he heard someone scream for help and ran downstairs.[72] Technician2 reported that he was asked by LPN to call by radio for an Automated External Defibrillator (AED) which he did.[73] This was at the same time that Technician was trying to call by radio for an AED.[74]

7:52 p.m.:

LPN called [redacted], (LPN2), and requested additional medical assistance at Hillside House Down because Jane was "down and non-responsive."[75] After she called for LPN2, LPN again took over doing chest compressions on Jane.[76] After she did another 30 compressions, LPN then retrieved the breathing mask for rescue breaths.[77] When she did this, she noticed that there was no rise in Jane's chest or return of breath.[78] LPN again checked for obstructions but did not find any.[79]

7:57 p.m.:

Residential Care Assistant, [redacted], (Assistant), a First Responder, brought a portable suction devise to the TV room and attempted to suction without success.[80]

7:58 p.m.:

LPN2 arrived; LPN observed LPN2 call for an AED.[81]

8:00 p.m.:

Residential Care Staff [redacted] (Staff) arrived at the TV room with an AED.[82] Assistant proceeded to place the AED pads on Jane; however, the AED never provided an instruction to shock "because the heart rhythm showed asystole."[83]

Various staff members continued to do CPR and chest compressions while waiting for the ambulance to arrive.[84]

8:20 p.m.:

The ambulance arrived at the Booneville HDC.[85] EMS were informed that "the patient was eating and started having a seizure and fell to the floor and went into cardiac arrest."[86] EMS personnel took over care, continued chest compressions, and transported Jane to Mercy Booneville Hospital.[87]

9:14 p.m.:

Jane was pronounced dead by Dr. [redacted], Booneville HDC's staff physician.[88]

Post-Mortem

74. On the night of Jane's death, a Booneville HDC staff member called her mother at about 9 p.m. Jane's mother was told that her daughter had died earlier that night. Her mother was upset and shaking, trying to understand what she was being told. She remembers that she was told that her daughter was eating cereal during snack time, had a seizure, fell to the floor, and choked to death on the cereal.

75. Jane's mother later asked if there was any "tape" or recording of what happened to Jane. There are no video cameras at the Hillside House where Jane was at the time of the incident. Booneville HDC did not advise her mother of any investigation into Jane's death and did not provide her with additional information, including the death investigation report.

76. The final diagnosis from the Hospital was "Cardiac arrest, Seizure, Choking due to food in Larynx." Death Summary, p. 4.

77. On March 1, 2015, the State Crime Laboratory issued an autopsy report on Jane's death. The conclusion of the report was that the cause of death was "Asphyxia due to Airway Occlusion by Food Bolus." Autopsy Report, p. 1.

78. The Autopsy Report noted that Jane's "stomach contained approximately 200 mL of partially digested food fragments and tan liquid. There was [sic] large food fragments present, some measuring up to 3 cm in greatest dimension." Autopsy Report, p. 3.

79. The Autopsy Report's Findings included, among other things, the following:

> II. Clinical history of dysphasia
> A. Witnessed choking episode > i. Large food bolus removed from airway reported by emergency medical personnel > ii. Microscopic food particles present in lungs

Autopsy Report, p. 7.

80. The Autopsy Report's Opinion was as follows:

> This 24 year old female, [Jane], dies due to asphyxia due to airway occlusion by food bolus.
> According to investigative reports provided by the Logan County Sheriff's Office and the Booneville Human Development Center, [Jane] was witnessed to be consuming a bowl of cereal when she had a pseudo seizure associated with choking and vomiting. Emergency services were summoned and a large food bolus was removed from [Jane] airway. She was transported to a local hospital where she was pronounced dead.
> Autopsy revealed a well-developed, well nourished, adult female with no internal or external evidence of traumatic injury. There was no evidence of significant natural disease.

> At the time of autopsy, there was some freshly masticated food fragments within the airway, but the airway was not occluded at autopsy. Microscopic examination of the lung tissue revealed the presence of food fragments with no evidence of actual inflammatory reaction.

Autopsy Report, p. 7 (emphasis added).

Review of Jane's Death by Booneville HDC and DHS

81. Jane's death was investigated by Booneville HDC. Upon learning of the possible death at 8:18 p.m. (two minutes before the ambulance arrived), [redacted], the administrator of Booneville HDC, ordered [redacted], (Investigator) the on-call Social Service Worker to begin taking statements. See Report of Investigator, March 5, 2015.

82. Investigator's investigation involved questioning each of the witnesses, including follow-up with Supervisor and LPN after having received their written statements. Investigator noted that "[t]he only inconsistency I found in the [Behavior Treatment Program] is when it specifies behaviors to expect, and vomiting is not mentioned." Investigator concluded that staff followed the plan, and she did not scrutinize the care Jane received beyond that conclusion. She did not acknowledge or note the choking precautions Jane was under, nor did she consult with a physician regarding whether a patient who exhibits vomiting during seizure-like activity should be ignored.

83. Investigator was also the Social Service Worker on duty at Booneville HDC the day prior to Jane's death. That day, Investigator recorded an incident wherein Staff told Investigator that Jane said that the voices in her head were telling her to kill herself. After consulting with Examiner, they planned to put Jane on suicide precautions, involving "enhanced supervision and 15 min. documented checks," to continue through the next morning. Jane's mother wanted to call Jane and check on her after learning about Jane's suicidal comments, but Booneville HDC staff told her to only speak with staff. Case Notes, February 25, 2015.

84. The Arkansas Department of Human Services Office of Long Term Care appears from their records to have only investigated the incident by reviewing the Investigator's report. There is no meaningful review of the events prior to Jane's death.

85. Arkansas Department of Human Services is required to convene a Human Development Center Death Review Committee (Death Review Committee) for the purpose of reviewing all deaths at HDCs to determine (1) the circumstances surrounding the death; (2) the appropriateness of the medical and nursing care rendered by the HDC; and (3) any HDC system issues that may require review and resolution for quality improvement and quality assurance. The Death Review Committee is charged with ensuring that the HDCs operate in compliance with conditions and standards imposed by the Arkansas Medical Assistance Program.

86. Death Review Committee members are given packets upon which they base their review. The packets are required to contain:

a. Interdisciplinary discharge summary including medical discharge summary;
b. A copy of the incident (IRIS) report of the death and any incident reports prior to the death that were related to the death;
c. Nursing notes for one month prior to the date of death;
d. Physician orders and progress notes for one month prior to the date of death;
e. Most recent MAR and lab reports within the last month, prior to death;
f. Most recent physical examination;
g. Medical diagnostic reports (X-ray, CT scan, MRI, etc.) within the month prior to death;
h. Most recent Individualized Program Plan;
i. Death Certificate; autopsy report, if available; and
j. Verification of guardianship.

87. Although they are charged with scrutinizing the policies of the HDCs to determine whether there should be a policy change, the HDC Death Review Protocol does not require the HDC to forward the written policies to the HDC Death Review Committee.

88. According to the Assistant Director for Quality Assurance within DHS, while it is not a written policy or part of the protocol, the Death Review Committee saves no account of what was received or reviewed by the committee, other than a single "Conclusion Statement" detailing their findings.[89] Every other record of what the Death Review Committee received or reviewed from the HDC is promptly destroyed following the meeting of the Death Review Committee. Thus, there is no opportunity for meaningful review of their decision.

89. In Jane's case, the "Conclusion Statement" consists of a single page. There is no mention of the conflict that existed between the choking and seizure protocols and her Behavior Treatment Program. In fact, there is no mention of her Behavior Treatment Program at all in the HDC Death Review Committee Report; accordingly, there is no way to verify whether the order to ignore Jane during seizure activities was ever considered by the Death Review Committee.

90. There also is no indication that the Death Review Committee reviewed the policies of the Booneville HDC as part of its review of her death.

Critical Information Not Considered as Part of Booneville HDC or the Death Review Committee

91. DRA interviewed some of the employees who were present during Jane's death and during the implementation of Jane's Behavior Treatment Program.

92. Supervisor reported concerns about Jane's Behavior Treatment Program to the Director of Nursing[90] prior to Jane's death. According to

Supervisor, the Director of Nursing told her that all of Jane's seizures are faked behaviors and that she should ignore them as directed unless it is a medical emergency. Supervisor was uncomfortable having to distinguish between a medical emergency and seizures that she was told were behaviors.

93. LPN, who was the first medical assistance to arrive at the TV room in response to the call for help, suspects that Jane was already deceased when she arrived on the scene. She believes that, in retrospect, she was probably mistaken regarding her immediate assessment that Jane was breathing when she arrived, as there was a large food bolus that prevented her from breathing. The LPN reported that LPN staff are not notified of the specifics of patients' Behavior Treatment Programs, as they do not have the constant contact with the patients that the direct care staff have.

94. Examiner, who wrote the 2015 Behavior Treatment Program for Jane, blamed the psychiatrist and neurologist for the suggestion of ignoring Jane's seizures. When asked whether she considered how to distinguish between seizures that coincided with vomiting and those that did not, she reported that she knew of no incident in which Jane exhibited vomiting as part of a seizure activity, and would have included such a distinction in the Behavior Treatment Program if she had known.

95. Examiner indicated that the medical staff had the opportunity for input in that area and did not note a conflict. However, she confirmed that Behavior Treatment Programs do not rescind medical orders. Yet the January 2015 Behavior Treatment Program for Jane contradicted longstanding medical orders for her, including both choking precautions and a seizure protocol.

96. The Behavioral Treatment Program was developed without comprehensive medical, psychological, and behavioral information about Jane and without adequate coordination of care between disciplines. The resulting inconsistency between reaction to choking or seizures versus reaction to factitious disorder created an unreasonably dangerous environment for Jane.

97. Inconsistent and contradictory treatment directives passed down from medical and psychology staff created an environment where direct care staff members were left in the untenable position of having to make judgment calls which they were not qualified to make. There is no evidence that members of Jane's direct care staff were given instruction on how to reconcile these two contradictory directives. This demonstrates a lack of communication and coordination between departments in client programming.

98. "Ignoring" is overused at Booneville HDC. Dr. Huckshorn notes that the overuse of "ignoring" implies permission for the staff to fail to engage residents who they deem to be misbehaving. Further, ignoring escalating behavior is not best left to staff who do not have the education, training, or experience to know when to respond to an emergency, as opposed to ignore a behavior.

99. The practice of internal investigation of colleagues is not a productive or meaningful practice within the HDC. In this instance, Investigator was only charged with the duty of ensuring that staff followed the directions that were in place. Thus, there was neither an effort to scrutinize the directions nor to inquire into the conflict that existed between the Behavior Treatment Program and Physician's Orders. Investigator even acknowledged the valid point that vomiting is not mentioned in the Behavior Treatment Program, and yet further investigation on this point was quickly dismissed.

100. The HDC Death Review Committee is required to investigate and examine (1) the circumstances surrounding the death; (2) the appropriateness of the medical and nursing care rendered by the HDC; and (3) any HDC system issues that may require review and resolution for quality improvement and quality assurance.

101. The HDC Death Review Committee process and review of Jane's death was superficial. It does not appear that the HDC Death Review Committee goes beyond review of the facts of the sentinel event. In this case, the Death Review Committee did not indicate whether they reviewed Booneville

HDC policies, the apparent conflict between the Behavior Treatment Program and the Physician Orders, or the requirement that the direct care staff act outside of their education, training, and experience in implementing the Behavior Treatment Program.

Conclusions

1. The State of Arkansas Department of Human Services, its Division of Developmental Disabilities Services, and the Booneville HDC failed to ensure comprehensive neurological evaluation and the type of clinical correlation recommended for Jane to ensure adequate assessment of her seizure-like episodes.

2. The State of Arkansas Department of Human Services, its Division of Developmental Disabilities Services, and the Booneville HDC failed to comprehensively or completely assess Jane's choking risk by not considering her seizure-like episodes in the 2013 or 2014 choking assessments.

3. The State of Arkansas Department of Human Services, its Division of Developmental Disabilities Services, and the Booneville HDC failed to ensure that medical needs related to Jane's risk of choking and required choking precautions were addressed in her 2015 Behavior Treatment Program, thus creating an unreasonably dangerous plan for Jane that led to her death.

4. The State of Arkansas Department of Human Services, its Division of Developmental Disabilities Services, and the Booneville HDC failed to assess and determine the impact of the multiple medications administered to Jane, several of which include seizures or seizure-like activity as a side effect.

5. The State of Arkansas Department of Human Services, its Division of Developmental Disabilities Services, and the Booneville HDC failed to ensure comprehensive psychiatric and/or psychological evaluation of and treatment for Jane to determine and treat the underlying causes for the Factitious Disorder diagnosis.

6. The State of Arkansas Department of Human Services, its Division of Developmental Disabilities Services, and the Booneville HDC failed to ensure that Jane had a Behavior Treatment Program that could be safely implemented by direct care staff, thus creating an unreasonably dangerous plan for Jane that led to her death.

7. It does not appear from the evidence in the records that there was meaningful collaboration in developing Programming for Jane at Booneville HDC. While the departments are all represented at interdisciplinary meetings, the events leading to Jane's death signify a lack of meaningful collaboration.

8. The State of Arkansas Department of Human Services, its Division of Developmental Disabilities Services, and the Booneville HDC failed to provide Jane with the active treatment required, including the failure to conduct an adequate or comprehensive assessment of her behavior, and to use evidence-based methods to address her behaviors and their causes.

9. The State of Arkansas Department of Human Services, its Division of Developmental Disabilities Services, and the Booneville HDC adopted a punitive approach to Jane's needs, including her identified need for attention, and overreliance on "ignoring" as a behavioral intervention at the facility.

10. The State of Arkansas Department of Human Services, its Division of Developmental Disabilities Services, and the Booneville HDC otherwise failed to adequately or appropriately address Jane's behavior needs by allowing for the overuse of mechanical and chemical restraints in response to her behaviors.

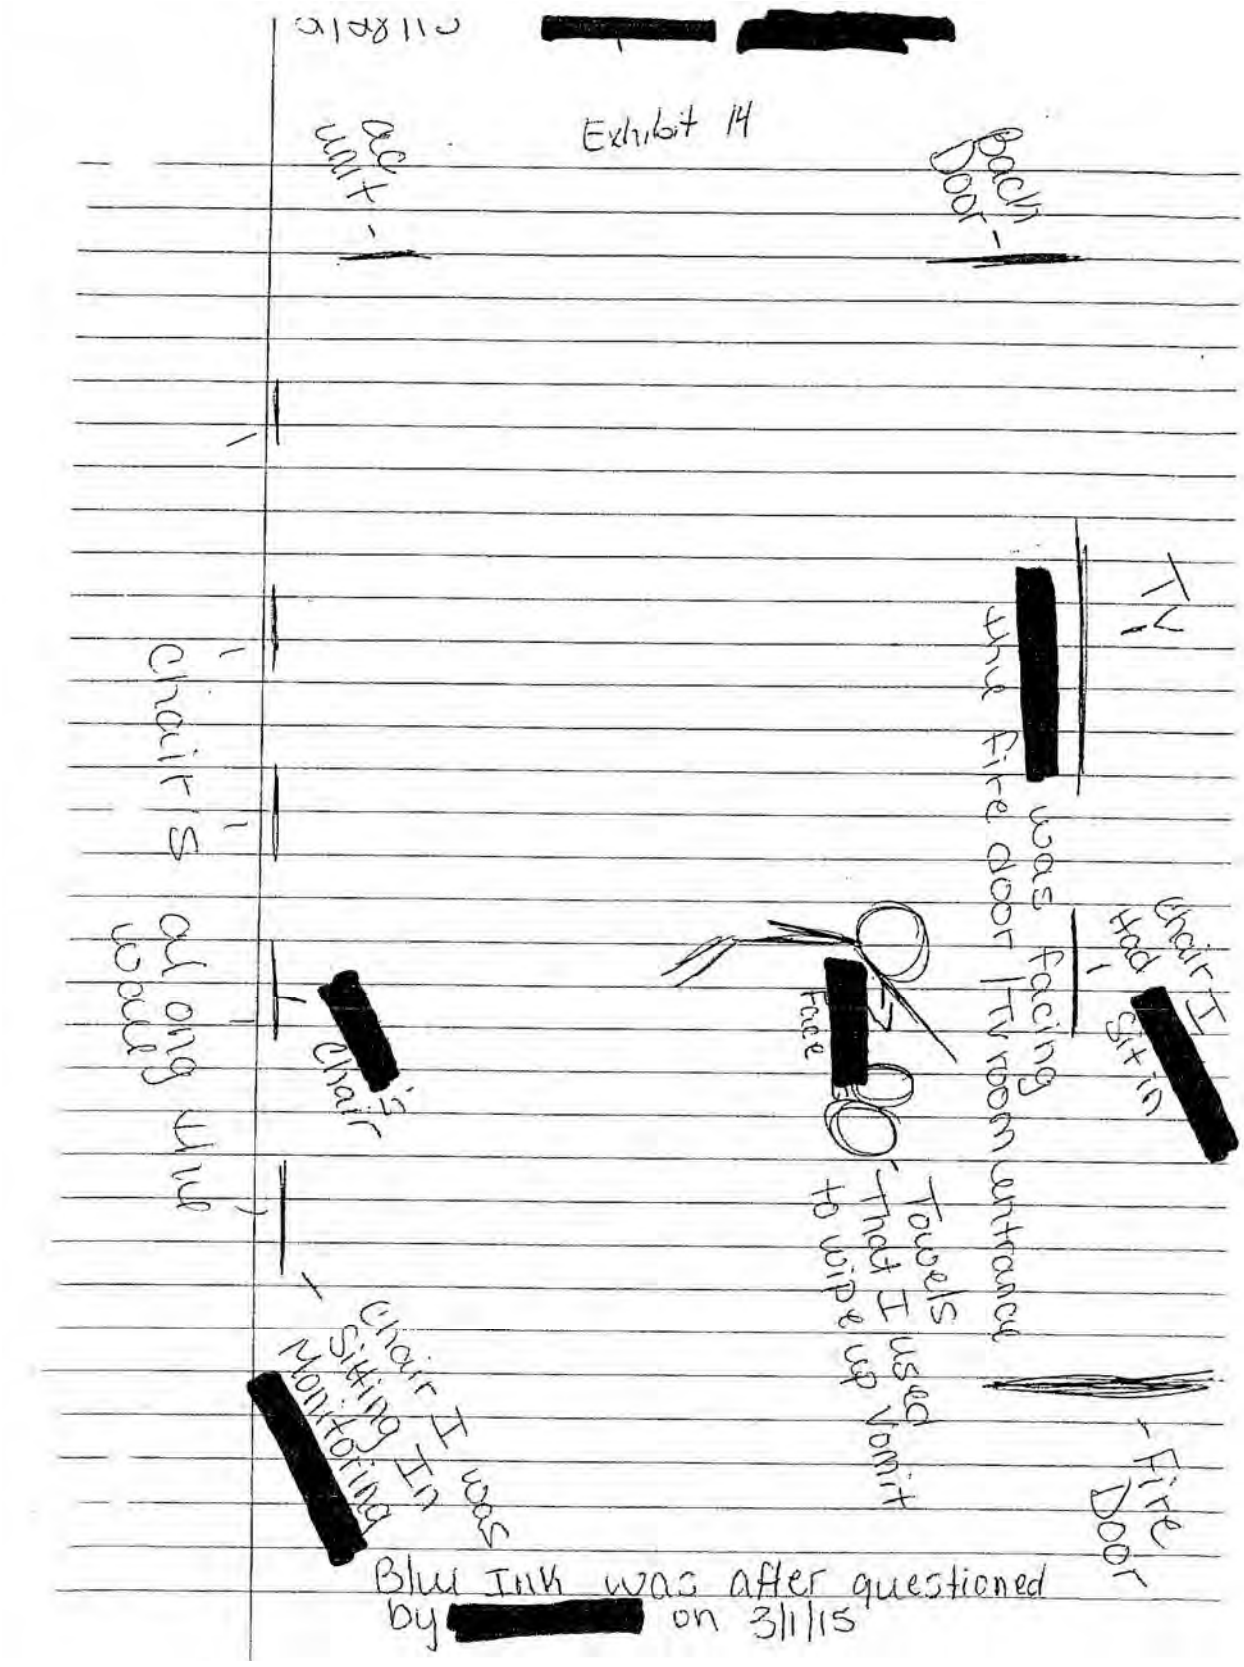
11. The State of Arkansas Department of Human Services and its Division of Developmental Disabilities Services have failed to ensure that there was an adequate or meaningful investigation into Jane's death, and that a system is in place to ensure such investigations. The failure to examine the medical and psychological treatment, as well as the omissions, in the development of the Behavior Treatment Program led to a cursory, superficial review of Jane's death.

Recommendations

1. The Arkansas Department of Human Services and its Division of Developmental Disabilities Services should immediately hire an independent expert or group of experts to review and assist in evaluating and improving the treatment and habilitation services provided to Booneville HDC residents, including coordination of medical and psychological treatment and safety.

2. The Arkansas Department of Human Services and its Division of Developmental Disabilities Services should provide improved direct (as opposed to video) training and support for direct care staff.

3. The Arkansas Department of Human Services and its Division of Developmental Disabilities Services should retain an independent expert with expertise in working with facilities to implement a more rigorous, independent review of treatment decisions, practices, and incidents, including deaths.



4. The Arkansas Department of Human Services and its Division of Developmental Disabilities Services should provide and require participation of Booneville HDC's senior administrative, clinical, and direct care staff in comprehensive training on person-centered and trauma-informed, recovery-oriented, evidence-based services and supports.

5. The Arkansas Department of Human Services, its Division of Developmental Disabilities Services, and Booneville HDC's senior administrative and clinical staff should be required to develop a strategic plan to transform this institution to one that adopts current, best practice philosophy, vision, and values. This plan should be updated monthly and reviewed quarterly by the state office or an external entity.

6. The Arkansas Department of Human Services and its Division of Developmental Disabilities Services should ensure that residents of Booneville HDC have access to active treatment, including the provision of mental health and other treatment that supports residents in addressing their challenging behaviors in ways that do not include coercion or punishment.

7. The Arkansas Department of Human Services and its Division of Developmental Disabilities Services should implement the recommendations included in DRA's January 2016 Report.

RE: Conclusion Statement from 06-25-15 Committee Meeting

[redacted] was admitted to Booneville Human Development Center (BHDC) on July 23, 2008. She was residing at Hillside House Down, ext. 1486, until her demise on February 26, 2015 at Mercy Boonville Hospital.

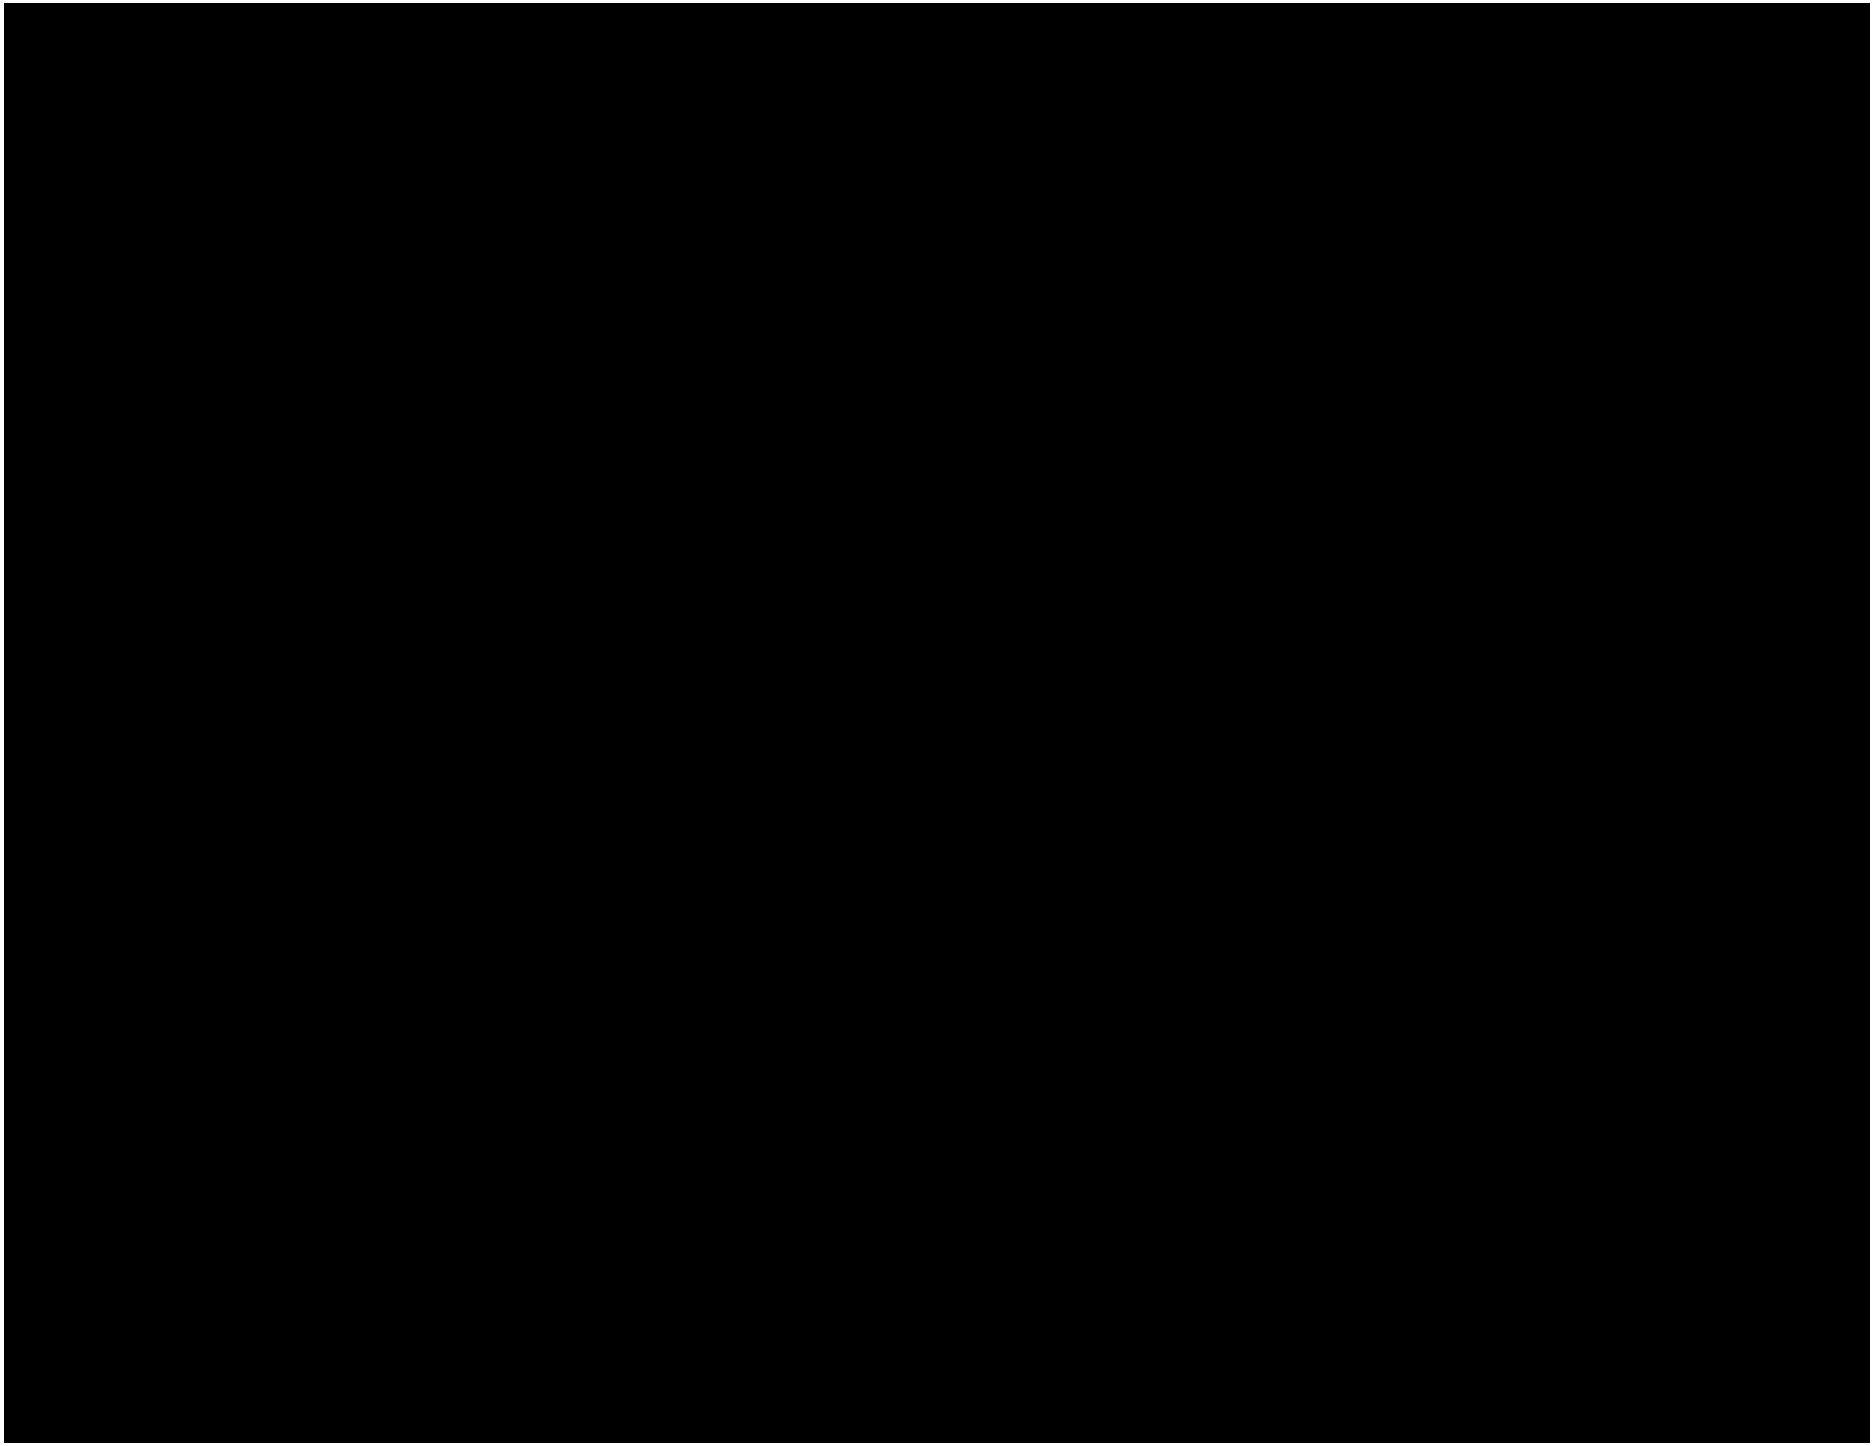
[redacted] had diagnoses of mild intellectual disability; Antisocial Personality features; Bipolar I Disorder, Moderate, most recent episode Manic; Factitious Disorder; Enuresis; Nocturnal and Diurnal; Sinus Tachycardia; Astigmatism; Hyperlipidemia; Constipation; Seasonal Allergic Rhinitis; History of possible Pseudo Seizures; Anemia of Chronic Disease; Contraception.

On 2/26/15, [redacted] LPN received a call at 7:39 p.m. from the living area staff reporting, [redacted] was about to eat her snack of cereal, Fruit Loops, and started having seizure like activity. They needed a nurse to come check her. [redacted] LPN arrived to find [redacted] with her head turned to the side, clear emesis/vomitus surrounding client and no seizure activity. The nurse checked [redacted]'s mouth for foreign object/vomitus, her mouth was clear of foreign object. [redacted] was breathing at this time.

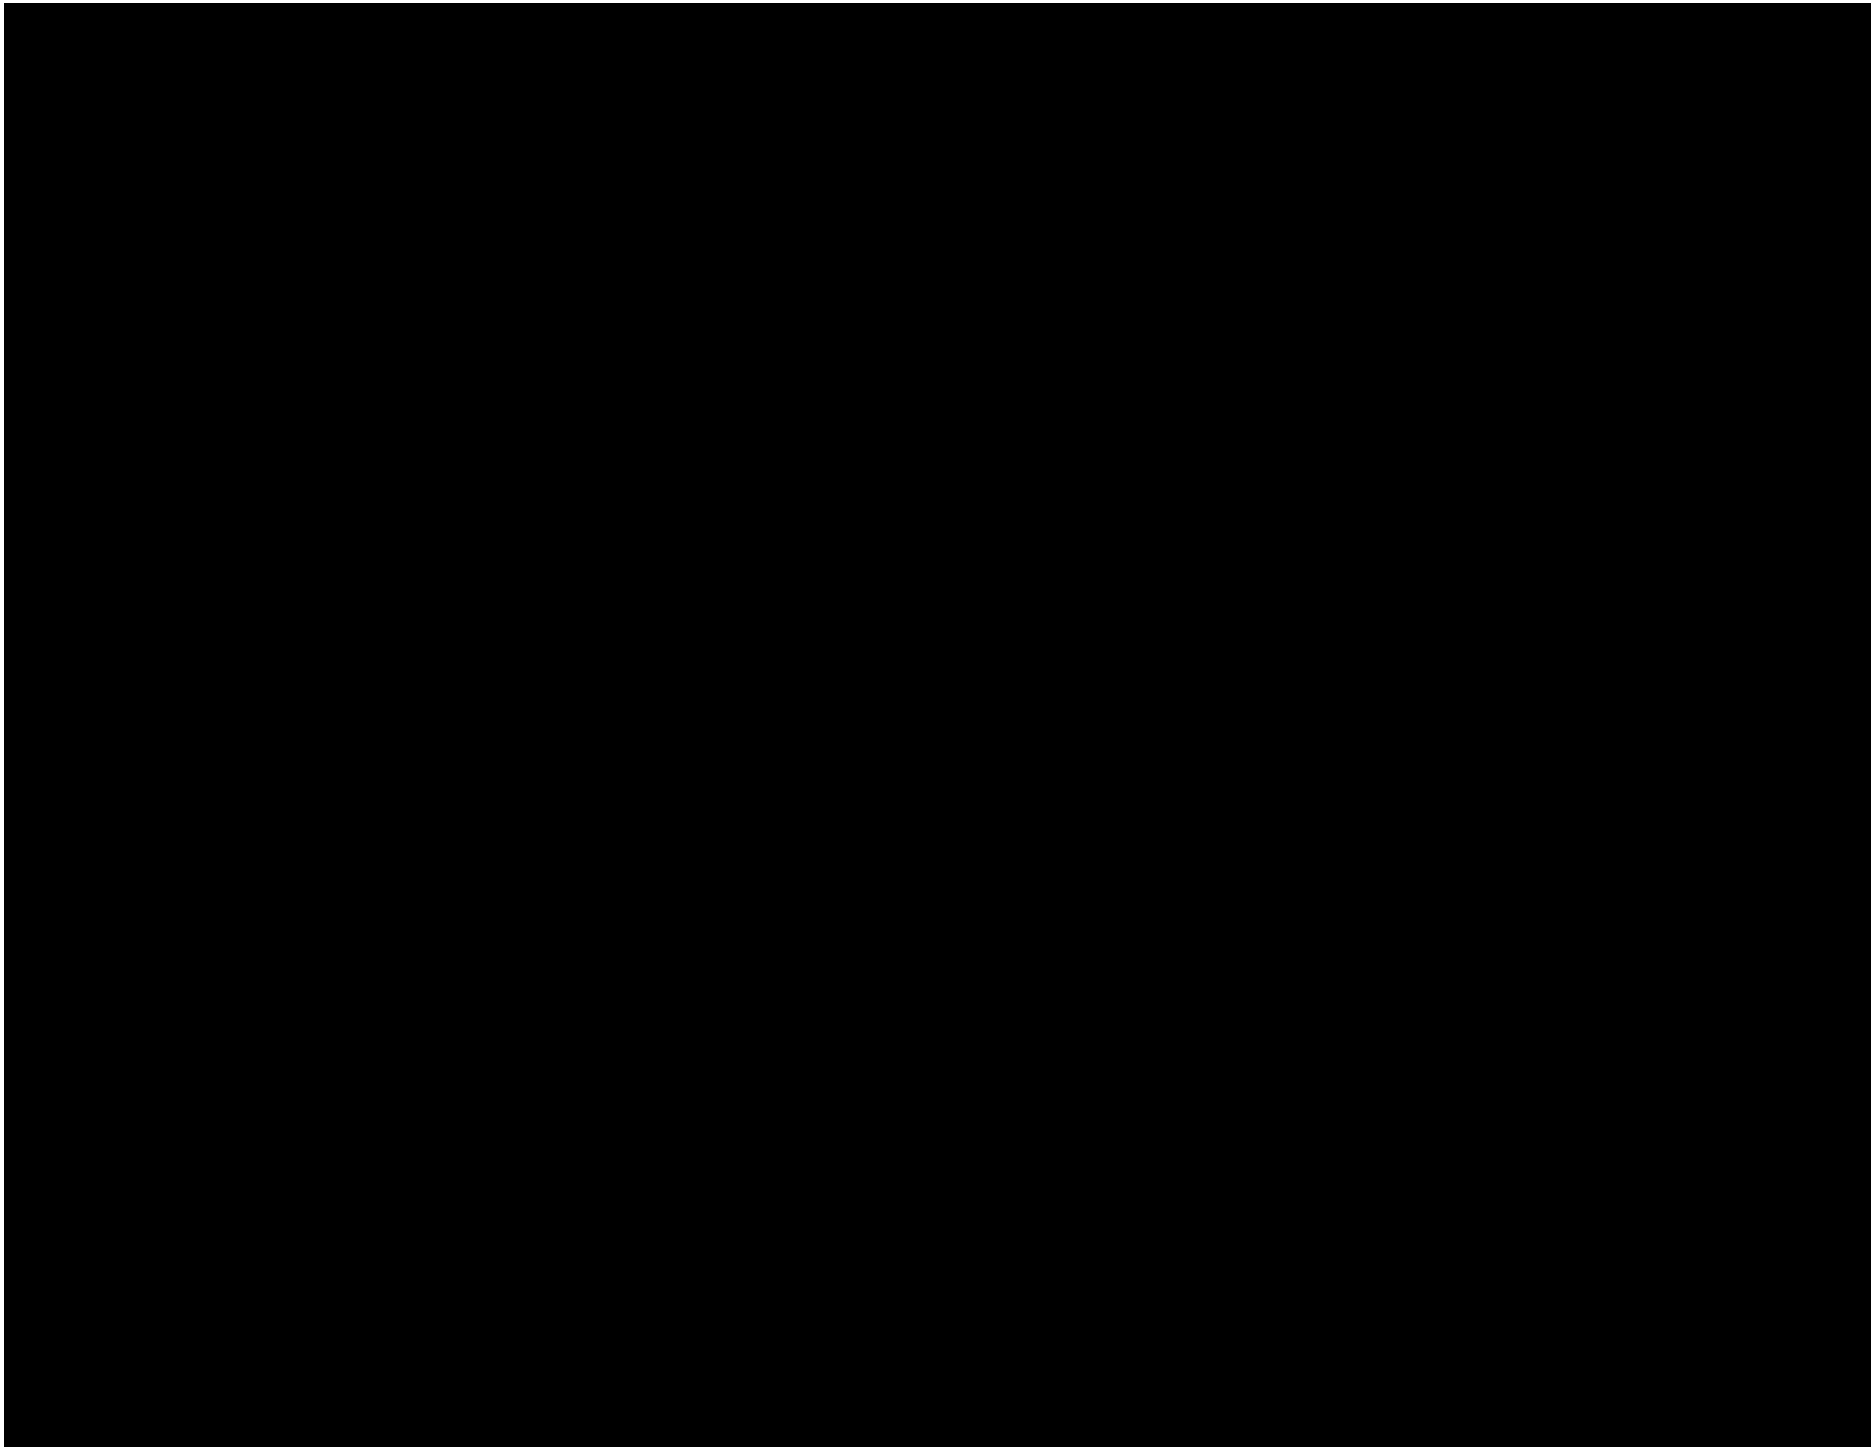
[redacted] LPN observed her per protocol following seizure like activity. [redacted] became still, breathing ceased. Staff attempted to obtain pulse and blood pressure with manual Bp cuff but could not get either pulse or blood pressure. The nurse and staff began CPR. Staff members continued compressions while the nurse called for an ambulance at 7:50 p.m.

[redacted], a direct care staff member, who is also a First Responder, responded with a portable suction device and attempted to suction without success. [redacted], LPN checked [redacted]'s mouth for obstruction again due to not being able to force a breath, nothing was visualized. The nurse called for assistance of the other nurses, [redacted], LPN and [redacted] LPN at 7:52 p.m. Staff continued to attempts to give breaths and do chest compressions.

At 8:00 p.m., the Program Supervisor arrived with the AED and it was placed on [redacted]. The AED did not instruct to prepare for shock because the heart rhythm showed asystole, staff continued CPR.



Logan County Sheriff's office reports, the EMS arrived to BHDC at approximately 8:25 p.m. and took over care and continued chest compression, transporting her to Mercy Booneville Hospital. Code Blue was run/CPR continued. She also was intubated. Dr. [redacted] and nurses, [redacted], RN and [redacted] RN arrived at the hospital at 9:10 p.m.



[redacted] was pronounced dead at 9:14 p.m. The Final Diagnosis from the hospital was Cardiac arrest, Seizure, and choking due to food in the Larynx. At 9:50 p.m., Dr. [redacted] and the nurses returned to BHDC and notified [redacted] family of her death.

After review of the information submitted by Booneville Human Development Center, it is the consensus of the committee that standard of care was met at BHDC. There are no recommendations.

Respectfully submitted,

IT IS HEREBY AGREED AND STIPULATED by the parties in the above cause, through their attorneys of record, that the testimony of Samuel Scow, produced, sworn, and examined via Zoom, commencing on May 5, 2022, at 9:11 a.m., before Cris M. Brasuell, CCR, pursuant to the terms and provisions of the Arkansas Rules for use as permitted by the Rules; that the questions and answers so given and propounded shall be transcribed by the reporter.

WHEREUPON, there being no further stipulations, the following proceedings were had and done, to wit:

P R O C E E D I N G S

WHEREUPON, Samuel Scow was duly sworn to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, and gave the following testimony to wit.

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. GILLISPIE:

Q Okay.

Sam, could you please state your full name for the record.

A My name is Samuel Eric Scow.

Q Okay.

A S-c-o-w.

Q All right. And, Sam, you're an EMT for Logan County EMS; correct?

A I am a paramedic.

Q Paramedic.

A For Logan County EMS.

Q Okay. All right. And what's the different between an EMT and a paramedic?

A Oh, standard of care, level of care.

I have a two-and-a-half-year education. I guess, if you look at -- if you're familiar with a CNA and an RN --

Q Uh-huh.

A -- and the difference between the two, that's an EMT to a paramedic.

Q Okay.
A -- transfer of care in the State of Arkansas to an RN.
Q Oh, okay. Okay. Excellent. I wasn't aware of that. So a paramedic is a higher level --
A A higher level of care.
Q -- emergency care worker than an EMT. Okay.
A Yeah.
Q Perfect.
And you responded to an emergency call at the Booneville Human Development Center on June 13th of 2020; is that right?
A Yes, sir.
Q Okay. And I have here what's going to be an exhibit, our Exhibit 1, and that's simply the Logan County EMS patient care record.
A Yep.
Q And it's a seven-page document. And do you have a copy of that as well?
A I have the copy you sent me and a printed copy we pulled out of archive.
Q Oh, okay. That you got from archives? Okay.
A Yep.
MR. GILLISPIE: Eric, do you want a second to pull that up?

MR. COLLINS: Yeah. I have a copy here somewhere. You can continue. I'll find it.

MR. GILLISPIE: Okay.

(WHEREUPON, the document was marked for identification as Exhibit No. 1 and is attached hereto.)

BY MR. GILLISPIE:

Q Okay.

Sam, I'd like to go to Page Three of this document.

A All righty.

Q And I just want to confirm a few things that this appears to indicate.

According to this document, the 9-1-1 call came in at 11:37 a.m.; correct?

A Yes. At the bottom right-hand, yeah. The (inaudible) dispatch notified, call received, and dispatched 11:37. That is when my dispatch received the call.

Q Okay. And then --

A Yeah. I did document that --

Q -- you were in route -- and then you got in route at 11:38?

A Yes.

Q And there's an electronic record of these calls coming in; is that correct?

A Correct. Yeah. Dispatch logs it and records it and they're all available for -- to be pulled.
Q Okay.
And, according to this document, when you arrived at the -- well, first of all, when you arrived at the scene, the patient, David Cains, what were you told -- I'm sorry. Strike that question.
When you arrived at the scene, did you speak to staff present and interview them about what had happened?
A Yes.
Q Okay.
A But I do that as I work.
[redacted]

Q They found him in a hallway?
A In the hallway and a -- which was right there at the lobby, so --
Q Okay. And nobody said a word to you about him having been restrained by staff members?
A No, sir.
Q You were never told that he was held on the ground and started aspirating while on the ground?
A No.
Q You were never told anything about any sort of behavior incident or emergency incident that required him to be restrained?
A No, sir.
Q You were specifically told that this patient was simply found on the floor in this hallway and that he had choked on his lunch?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And you probably don't remember specifically who you talked to, do you?
A I do not. That was a pretty -- I know that it was a pretty hectic scene and I just kind of interview as I'm trying to do my interventions.
And I don't always get to look at who's speaking in the eye or get their name, so -- Q Do you remember that it -- can you say whether -- was it men, women? Do you have any memory of that?

A I remember, besides myself and my partner, there was three women. And I remember that there was one man that was sent to be kind of the gofer to run and get things and do things as we needed them.
Q But the only people you spoke to were these three women?
A Yep. Or my partner.
Q Okay. You didn't speak to any men about what had happened?
A Nope.
Q Okay.
Do you happen to remember, do you have any idea whether these women were nurses or direct care staff? Can you say one way or another?
A No, ma'am. Or no, sir.
Q Okay.
A No, sir.
Q But to be clear, your report here -- and you completed this report; right?
A Yes, sir. This is all done by me.
Q Your report indicates that eight minutes of time lapsed between when the patient stopped breathing and when 9-1-1 was called; correct?
A Correct.

Q And how -- okay. And that's correct?
A Correct.
Q Okay. And could you briefly tell us, you know, how you came to that conclusion?
A So the estimated CPR and time of collapse was a -- so it was a witness collapse.

[redacted]

Q Okay.
A And -- so we have a -- I think that's on page -- witness time of collapse, I think that's Page Four. It could be.
Q Take your time.
A Yes. So page -- actually, Page Three. The second box, specialty patient, CPR.

Under the time of call, you see the rest witness by layperson.

Q Okay. And you were specifically told that that was 11:30?
A Yes.
Q You wouldn't have just guessed at a time? You would have --
A No, sir. No, sir.

Q Okay.
A No, sir. You know and -- so, I -- you know, I -- this question is always asked, you know, it's important for patient treatment and care and understanding of patient report to the hospital and condition, so --
Q And what did you report to the hospital about -- well, strike that question.
Did you relay to the hospital the same things you were told by the folks you spoke to at the scene here?
A Yes. Yes. I relayed everything as witnessed and directed in my patient narrative.
Q Okay.
A And they get a copy of this, you know, as soon as I complete it and lock it. It faxes over to them.
Q Okay.
A So --
Q Okay. And so you stand by everything in this report?
A I do.
Q Okay. And, again, you were told that he was -- that a witness -- you were specifically told, by somebody on the scene, that a person witnessed him collapse in the hallway choking on his lunch and --
A Yes.
Q -- stop breathing; correct?

A Yes.

Q Okay. And you were told nothing, at any point, about a physical restraint performed on this or applied to --

A No, sir.

Q -- this patient?

A No, sir. And there -- you know, part of my evaluation, upon patient assessment initial, is do I see any restraints or anything on the patient. I did not see any restraints on the patient.

Q Okay.

Had you known, had you been told that this patient had been in a physical restraint whereby he was being held down on the ground when he began going into cardiac arrest, that's certainly something you would have put in your report and made sure that the hospital knew about it; right?

A Yes. Yes. And it's really -- that is pertinent information.

[redacted]

[redacted]

Q Yeah. Okay. And I know that -- let me ask it this way.

Based on this document, the hospital waited how long between the time this patient stopped breathing to call 9-1-1?

A The hospital or the facility?

Q The facility.

A Or is HDC considered a hospital? Okay.

Q I'm talking about BHDC.

A Okay. All right.

So, from what was stated as 11:30 CPR initiation, the time of call is seven minutes. And then our scene time to the scene is 13 minutes.

Q Okay. And, if they're performing CPR, that means he's not breathing; right?

A Right. You do not -- unless it's a pediatric patient, nobody performs CPR on a -- on somebody who's breathing.

Q Is it possible that, had 9-1-1 been called immediately, is it possible at least that you could have -- that the outcome here could have been different?

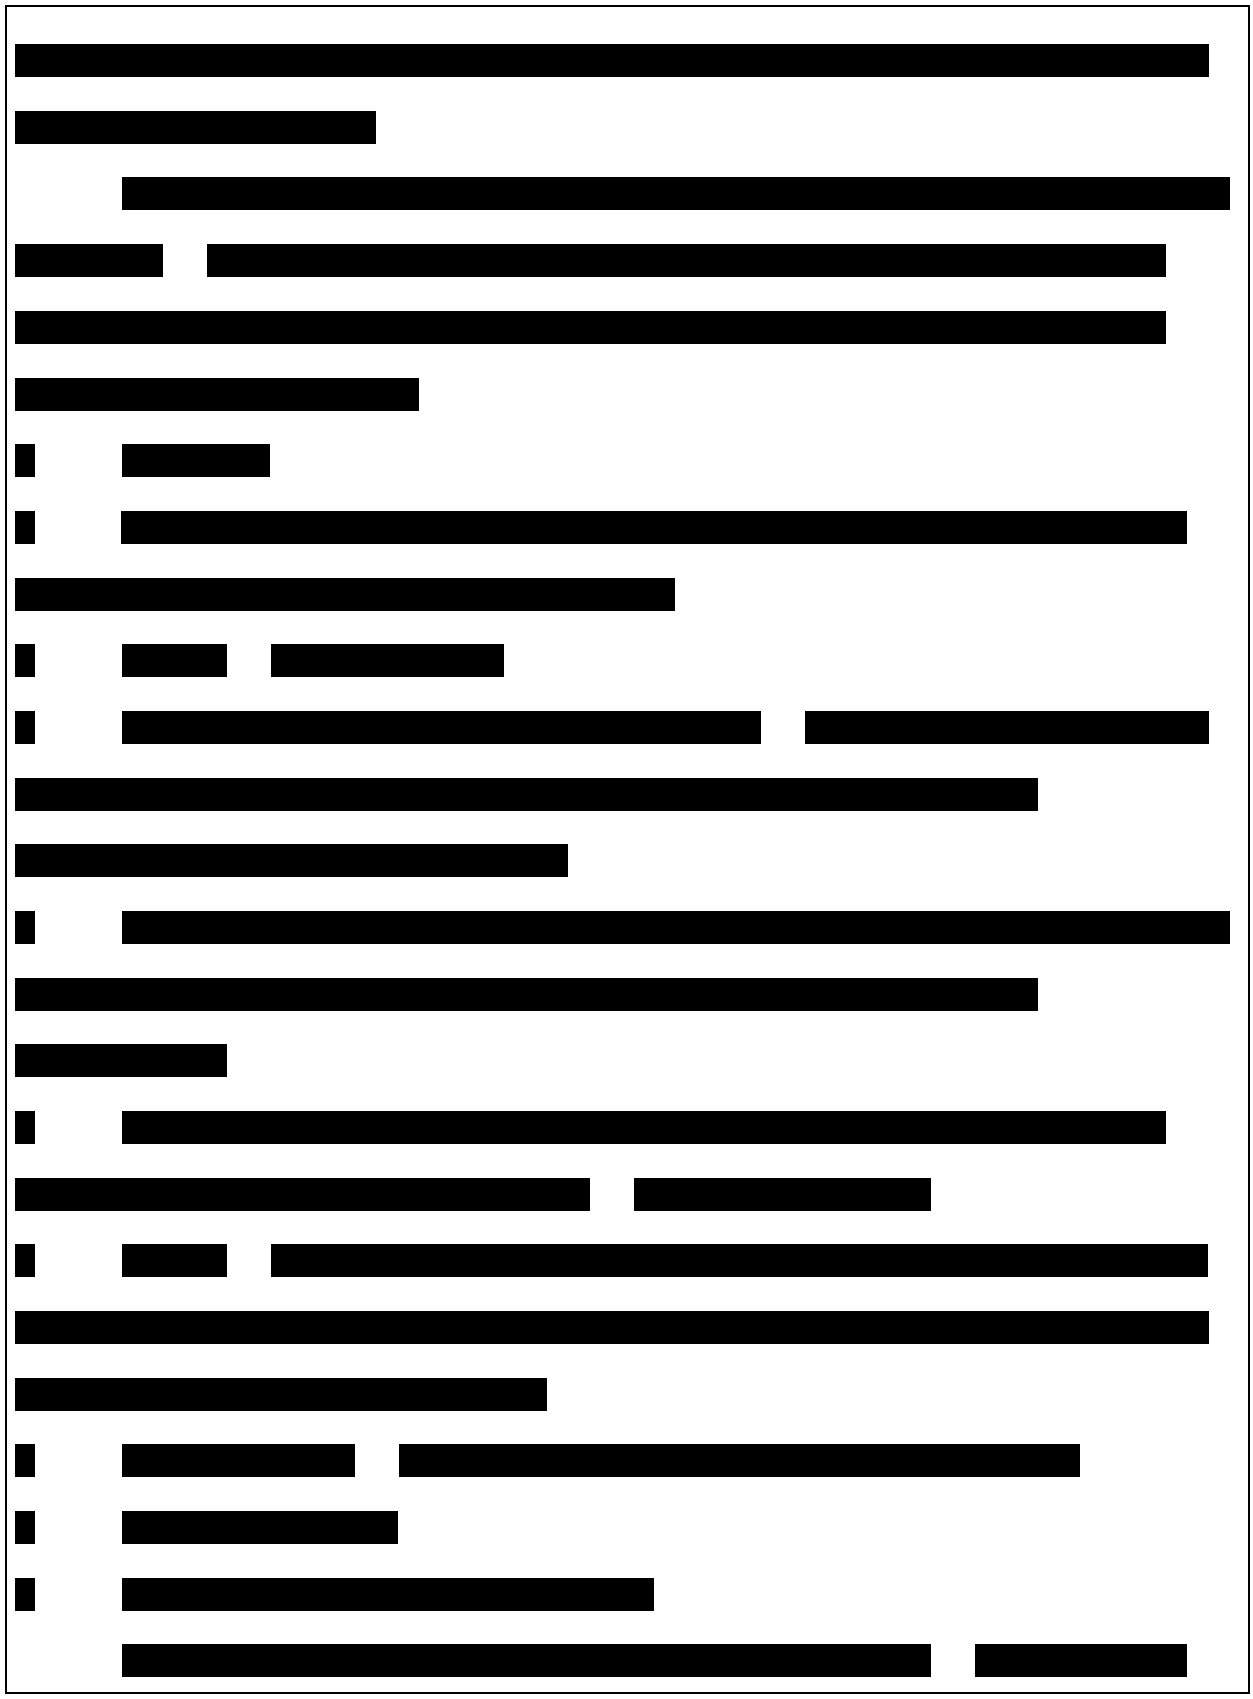
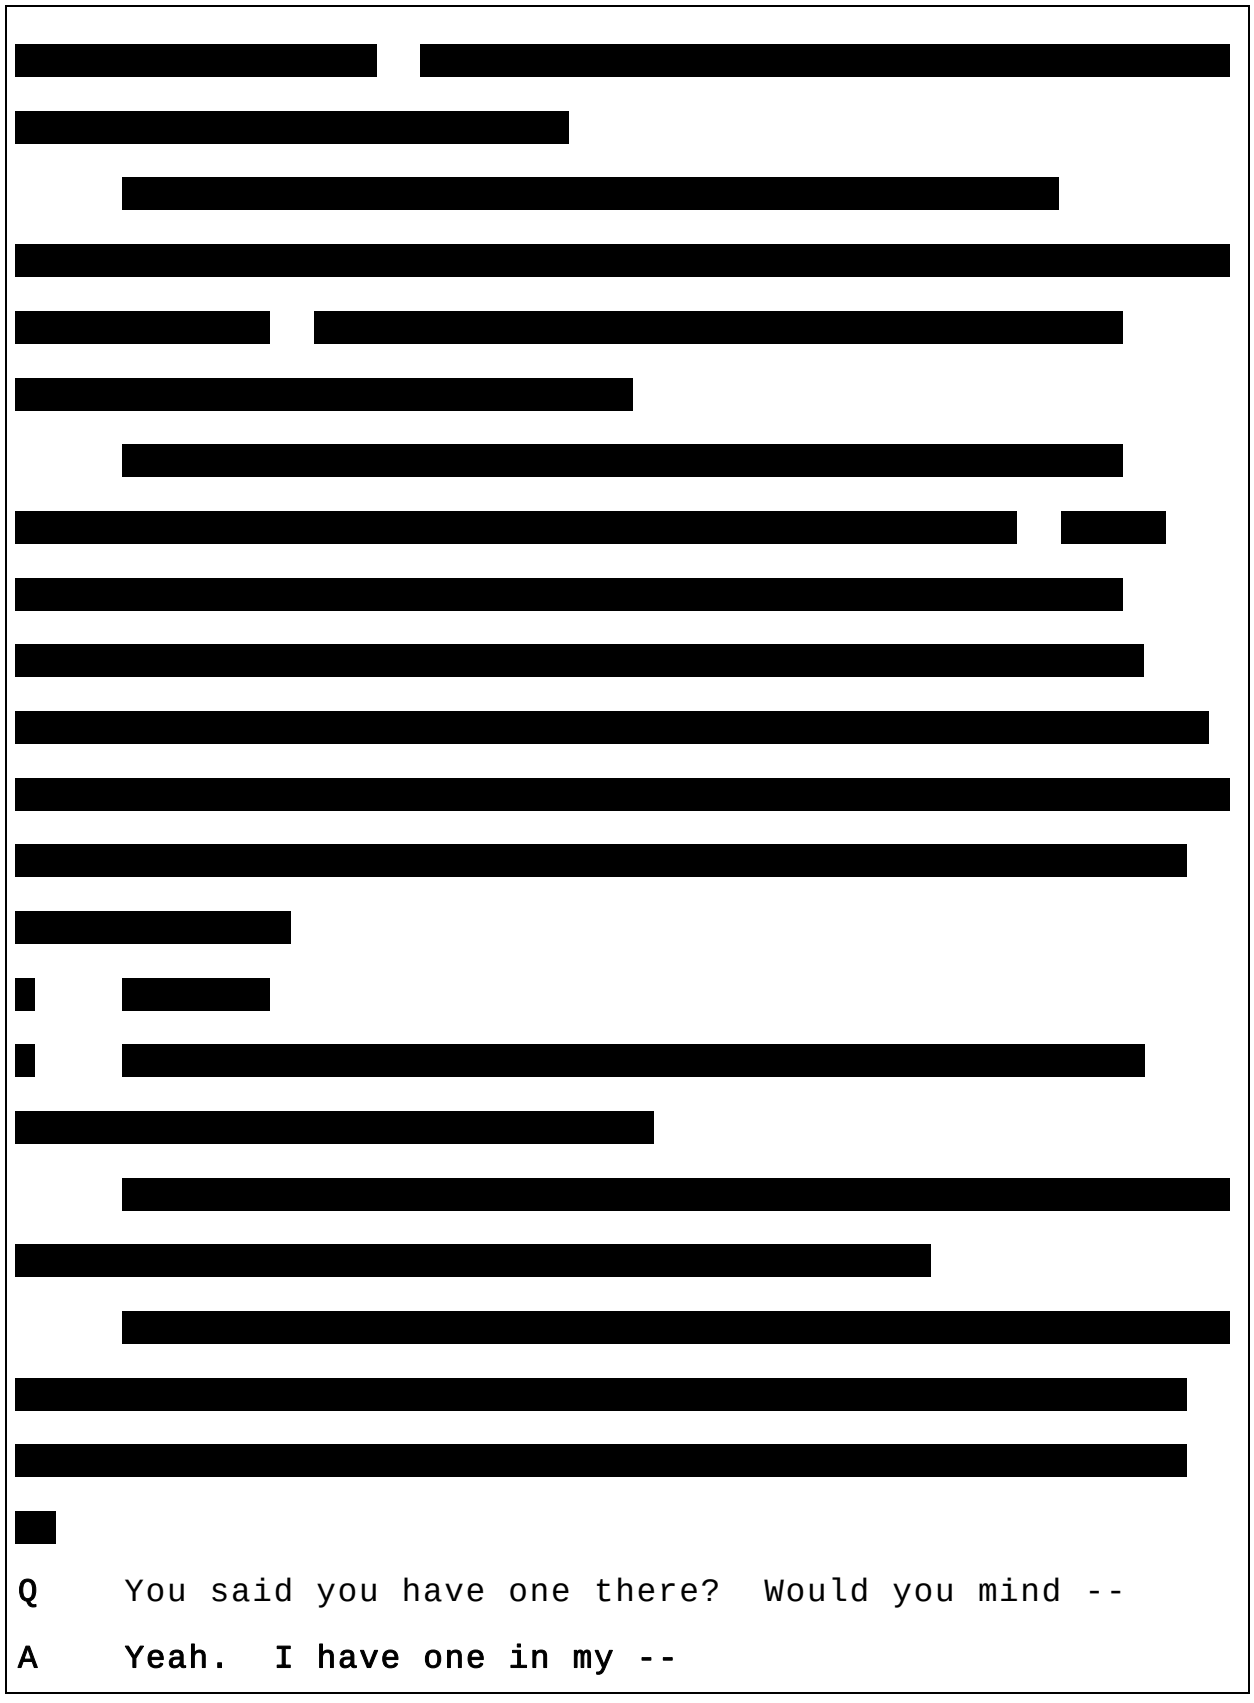
A I can't give any specific like certainty. But I can say that, yeah, time is tissue.

[redacted]



Q Okay.

A You know, that -- you know, time is a variable. So, if you adjust variables, you can have different outcomes.



Q And is one of those outcomes at least in the realm of possible that he could have lived?

A Sure.

[redacted]

CRIS M. BRASUELL, CCR
BREPORTING@GMAIL.COM

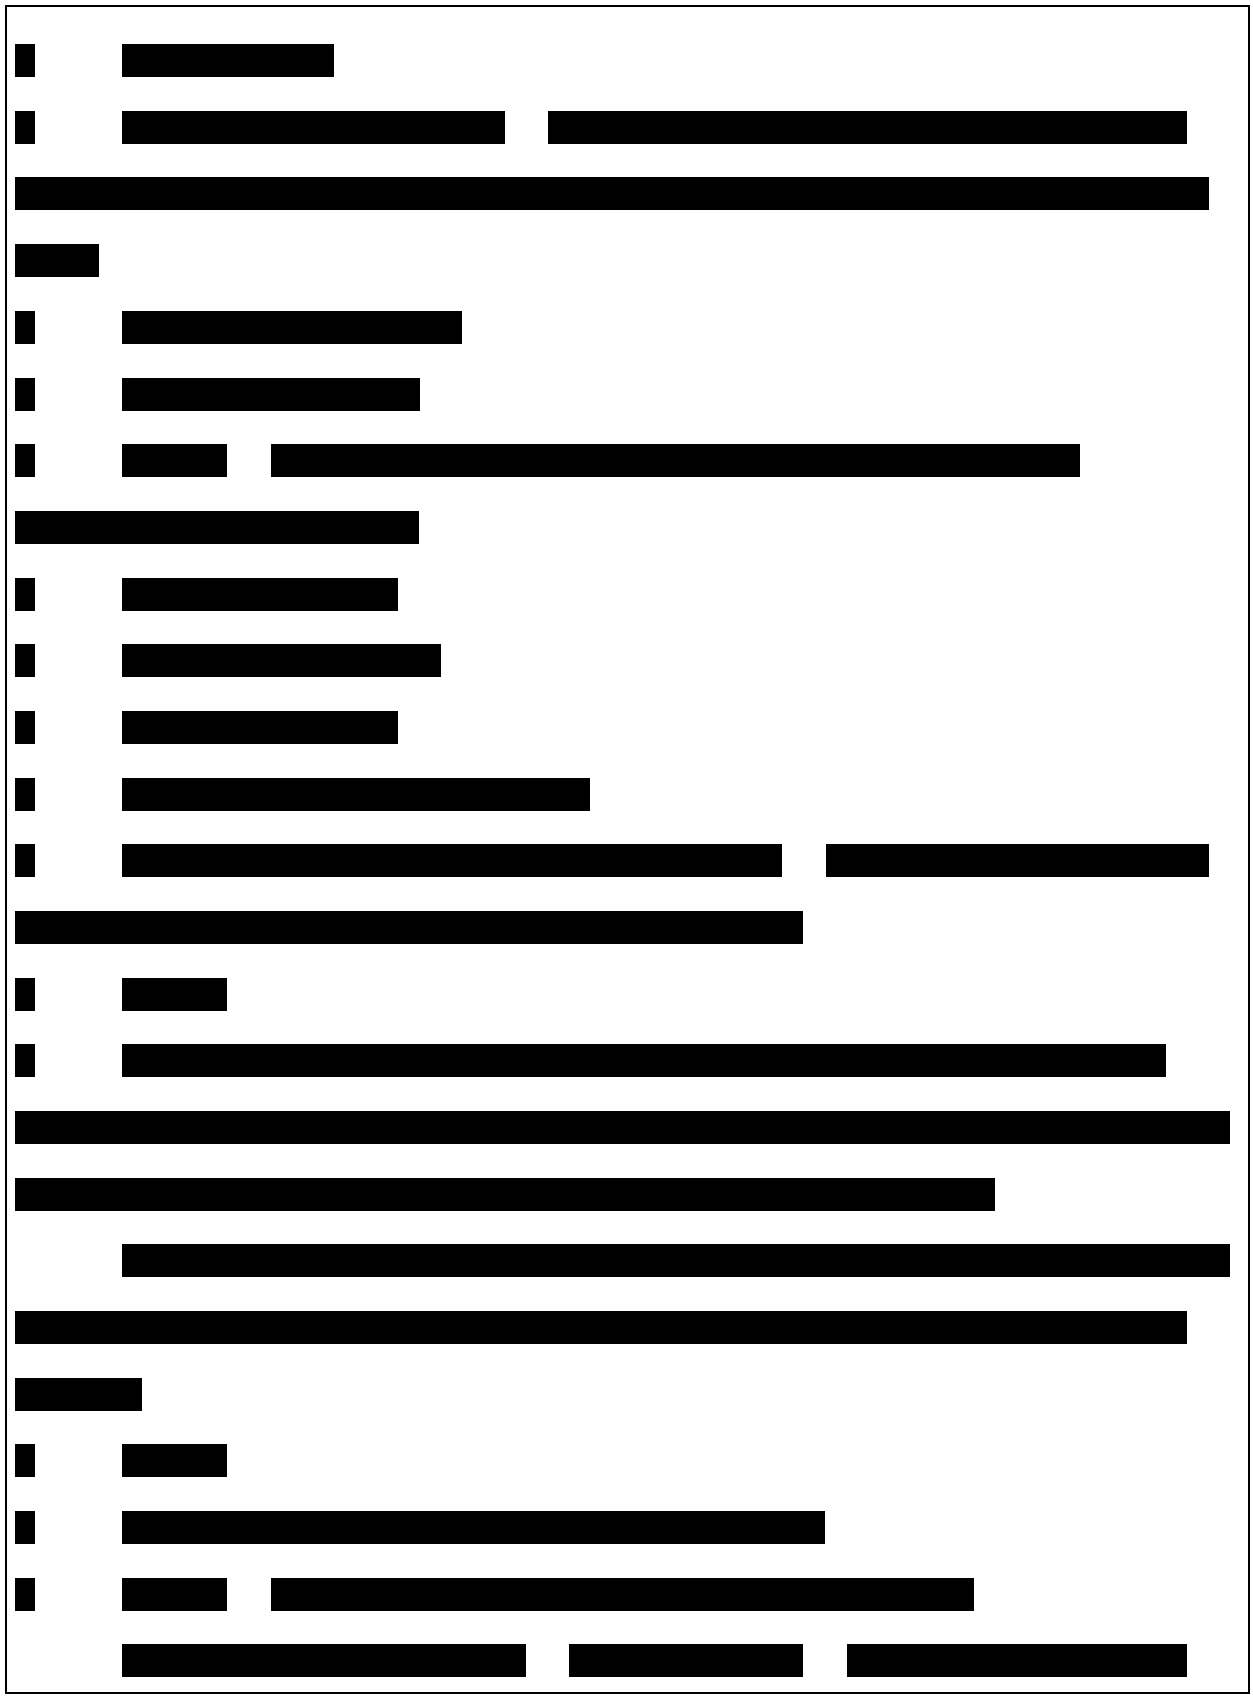
Q You said you have one there? Would you mind --

A Yeah. I have one in my --

Q Would you mind grabbing it real quick? Thanks.

MR. GILLISPIE: You want to go off the record for a second, Cris?

(WHEREUPON, the record was suspended momentarily and the proceedings resumed as follows, to wit.)



A Well, I can't find my tube.

BY MR. GILLISPIE:

Q Okay. That's okay.

A One of my kids got into it.

CRIS M. BRASUELL, CCR
BREPORTING@GMAIL.COM

[redacted] I mean, it's --

Q Okay. And --

A National registry standard, so that's --

Q Okay. And --

A That's -- yeah. Go ahead.

Q What's the different between -- if you're able to, what's the difference between aspiration and choking on your lunch?

A It's the same thing, man. Aspiration is an inhaled

-- is an inhaled object. It's just a medical term to say that you have food or an obstruction in your airway.

And the same -- in this case, it's the same thing as choking on his lunch. His -- he's got food in his airway and around his airway obstructing his ability to create gas exchange.

Q But there's not --
A And (inaudible) --
Q -- anything different you would have done had you --

A No. No. (Inaudible) --
Q -- seen (inaudible) --
A -- (inaudible) -- yeah. Same outcome. Aspiration is aspiration, no matter what the root cause is.
Q Okay. And so you would have used the same techniques and the same equipment?
A Yep.
Q Okay.

[redacted]

So this is a -- this is obviously not sized for an adult. This is sized for my children.
Q Uh-huh.
A But this is a BVM.

Q Okay.
A This connects to the oxygen or we can go to room air. This fills with oxygen.
This goes on the patient's face, I squeeze this, and I create positive pressure ventilation.
Q Okay.
A So I'm forcing air into the patient.
Q Okay. And that's know as a BVM?
A Yes. BVM is the non-brand specific term.
Q Bag ventilation mask?
A Yeah.
[redacted]

[redacted]

Q And was this an easy place -- was this an easy facility to get to?

Meaning, when you pulled up in the ambulance, was the door just right there and you were able to just immediately get in there and get to him?

A So access wasn't the greatest.

I remember having to carry our power cot, which is like 200 pounds, and all my equipment on myself or strapped to the cot up the foyer steps. And they are old and stone and it was a lot to move.

And then, when we left, that was one of the problems that my partner worked while I was -- once we got to a point where he could.

And we ended up -- they cleared out the cafeteria and we used the cap -- he moved the ambulance, you know, 300 meters down the driveway and we went to the cafeteria and used a ramp they had there when we left. Because there was no physical way to move that patient safely down those steps.

Q Okay.
A So we just, you know, we worked that problem at the end.
Q Okay. But getting in there took a little bit of time because there were fairly steep steps you had to go up?
A Yep. The steps and just the total amount of equipment to move.
Q Okay.
A So -- yep.
Q Okay.
Any other equipment that y'all had with you that we haven't talked about?
A We talked about my cardiac monitor. That's pretty self-explanatory. Monitor pads or the sticky pads that I -- I can monitor a patient heart rhythm and deliver shocks as needed.
Q Okay. So you talked about a way to deliver shocks?
A Yes. I have a way to defibrillate my patients.
Q And that -- okay. So you had a defibrillator?
A So my cardiac monitor is more than just a defibrillator. But, yes, it's one of the -- the deal -- I can actually interpret cardiac rhythms, monitor blood pressure and vitals, stuff like that.

Q Okay.

A So -- let's see.

[redacted]

Q I guess -- hold on just a second. Let me rephrase this question better.

[redacted]

CRIS M. BRASUELL, CCR
BREPORTING@GMAIL.COM

[redacted]

Q Okay.

Let's see. Were you questioned about this incident by anyone afterwards?

A Yes. At some point, we were contacted and -- by the -- I think someone at the Department of Health.

Q Uh-huh.

A And I remember being pulled into my boss's office and there was a speaker phone conversation. And I basically said everything I've said right here.

You know, whatever's in my narrative -- because it was -- I think it was over a year --

Q Yeah.

A I don't think -- that wasn't a -- that was probably shortly after; because that investigation happened right after.

Q Were you asked if you thought that -- were you asked if you felt like everything was, you know, done the proper way, copasetic, or were you asked anything like that?
A I was asked if I had any opinion and like as far as what I saw when I walked in about what was being done and resources. I said there's more people there than there usually is when I'm at any other facility.
BHDC is pretty good about having hands there --
Q Uh-huh.
A -- that I can direct. So that's all I could tell. I was like there was three women working the patient when we showed up. It's better than --
Q Yeah.
A -- just one person, so --
[redacted]

[redacted]

Q Last question here. I believe you said earlier time is tissue.

A Yes.

Q What does that mean?

A Time is tissue is kind of a catch all, that the longer you go without gas exchange, the longer you go without oxygen being delivered to your venous and arterial system, your capillaries, to all your organs and perfusing, you have breakdown.

So you don't have oxygen going to your brain, you have brain damage. You don't have oxygen in a heart attack being included in coronary arteries through blood profusion, you end up with dead tissue in your heart, you know, or scar tissue.

Q So time is everything in these situations?

A Yes. Time -- time is a critical component of any healthcare in a critical setting.

Q And this facility waited eight minutes from the time they knew he wasn't breathing to the time 9-1-1 was called, according to what you were told?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And, when I say told, according to what you were told by the people on the scene?
A Yes.
Q Okay.
All right. That's all. That's all I have. Thank you.

CROSS EXAMINATION

BY MR. COLLINS:

Q Hi, sir. How are you doing?
A Good. How are you, man?
Q Not too bad. You know, I appreciate your testimony so far, so I'm just kind of going to go back, I guess from the beginning.
So I saw on this note, the dispatch note that you had, that you were the lead of the team; is that correct?
A Yes, sir. I am the -- we -- at the time, we had a paramedic EMT team. So I am the -- I'm the patient care lead.
Q Okay. And you're the paramedic; correct?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And your other individual, was he driving the vehicle that day?

A Yes. He was driving in my assistant. Yeah, he operates at a very basic level. Basic EMT, so -- Q Okay. And, when you guys got the call, where were you stationed at?
A I want to say we were in -- I have to look. I wonder if this even tells me what station I was at.
We have three stations in the county, two in Paris, one in Booneville. And -- I have to look. I don't see my dispatch (inaudible) on here.
We had to be in Booneville with a 13-minute scene time. So, whether we were at one of the other stations or -- but we -- we post in Booneville when Booneville goes out on a call. So we were in Booneville for that, so.
Q Okay.
A We could be at any station but we were at Booneville.
Q Gotcha. So you got the call, you guys drove over to the BHDC. Once you got to BHDC, what occurred?
A What occurred? We had gotten all the information we could over the radio for what was going on. We made the best possible --
(Audio Interference)
BY MR. COLLINS:

Q One second, sir. You're cutting out. You can try again.
A -- hear me?
So we (inaudible) differential (inaudible) for the patient (inaudible) equipment we need. And then loaded it up on the stretcher and then trudged it upstairs and (inaudible).
Q Mr. Scow, I'm still having troubling hearing you.
MR. COLLINS: Cris, are you having trouble hearing him or is it just me?
COURT REPORTER: Yeah, I can't hear him. He's cutting out a lot right now.
MR. GILLISPIE: It's an internet connection thing, I think.
THE WITNESS: All right. Let me (inaudible).
(Brief discussion off the record.)
BY MR. COLLINS:
Q I know we kind of left off with you coming -- I want to back up a little bit.
Because I'm curious to know how you got to the building in question. So were you led in the gate? Were you led in -- how did you find the building?
A So, usually, my partner handles that, as far as what building, because he's driving.

Usually, we're informed through dispatch at such and such building. A lot of those buildings are named, so we know which building to roll up to. And part of that is just he's working that area and that -- for, I think, eight years, so he knows the building names. I don't.
Q Okay.
A So I don't know the building names to save my life.
Q Okay.
A But he does, so that's usually how we know.
Or he'll ask on the radio in route for more clarification for which building and which -- dispatch would contact them and that would get worked out over the radio.
Q Okay. So you guys didn't have any confusion finding the building?
A Not that I'm aware of.
Q Okay.
So how long have you been a paramedic?
A Now or at the time? Now I've -- going on almost five years.
Q Five years. And were you an EMS before that or did you have any other kind of background doing this?
A EMS for -- I was an EMT for like two years, I think, before that. And then four years in an ICU as a tech. Then, I think, what, a year and a half as a mortician's apprentice.

Q Okay.
A Yeah.
Q In your experience kind of, you know, responding to these situations, are you always given the most accurate information by the people on the ground or is it hectic?
A It's -- so -- yeah. No.
Radio reports aren't always reliable whether it's from a skilled professional at a nursing home or this facility or someone's cousin who found grandma.
Nothing's ever set in stone or specific and I take it all with a grain of skepticism.
On scene, when we're doing patient care, if it's a hectic environment, you take what information you can get and you try to get as clear as -- clearest picture of what you can get when you're asking questions and interviewing while you're doing your work at the same time, so -- yeah.
It's -- it's not always the most accurate but --
Q Okay. And you said you can't identify who was there but you know there were at least three women and one man?
A Yes.
Q Do you know which of those you spoke to? Was it a woman or a man?
A I spoke to the women. I remember the man being there and he was sent off to go do something and I didn't see him ever again.

Q Okay. And do you know if the women were nurses?

A No.

[redacted]

Q Oh, we have a different -- hold on.

MR. COLLINS: Well, maybe, Josh, I'm working from a different document than you guys are.

MR. GILLISPIE: No, mine says that.

MR. COLLINS: Oh, does it? Okay.

MR. GILLISPIE: Yeah. It's right under -- it's hard -- it's like the very top sentence where -- right under the word --

THE WITNESS: This is a -- you guys have got a different narrative than what I've got from work. Sorry about that.

This must be -- what lock number do you guys -- let's see. One second, guys.

MR. GILLISPIE: Sure. And you have the one I sent you that --

THE WITNESS: Yeah. That's the one I'm looking at now. Let me see other versions.

MR. GILLISPIE: So it's Page Three at the very top under --

THE WITNESS: Right. So I'm looking at it. We have -- all right.

So I guess that looks like the only change that I had in my narrative.

So I've got a different -- I guess this is the final form of my charting.

MR. GILLISPIE: How is yours different?

THE WITNESS: So mine says -- the first paragraph that you're discussing, upon arrival, [redacted]

[redacted]

MR. GILLISPIE: So the time --

THE WITNESS: This is a --

MR. GILLISPIE: The numbers and the times are all the same?

THE WITNESS: Yeah.

MR. GILLISPIE: Okay.

MR. COLLINS: Would it be possible to get a copy of that regardless? Just so we --

THE WITNESS: Oh, the one I've got?

MR. COLLINS: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Yes. I can make sure this comes to you, bud.

MR. COLLINS: Okay. Thank you.

THE WITNESS: You may actually have to reach out to -- I mean, I'll let them know. But you'll have to let the office know, the building office. Or just call EMS station and they'll get it over to you.

MR. COLLINS: Okay.

Well, I guess I'm going to go back a little bit. So I know you're saying you don't have a copy of this one?

MR. GILLISPIE: He does. He has it.

THE WITNESS: I do. I jumped over to y'all's now.

MR. COLLINS: Okay. Sounds good.

BY MR. COLLINS:

Q Did you write this copy?

A Yes. Both copies have been written by me.

Q Okay. So you're the one that the nurse is unable to clear the patient's airway?

A Right. And then it looks like I changed that to staff, basically, and just gave more elaboration on what the -- the intervention the patient -- nurse did.

Q Okay.

So what I'm kind of getting at here is I'm trying to identify the people that you were speaking to. Was your understanding --

A Yeah.

Q -- (inaudible) that you wrote nurse here, that they were in fact nurses?

A Yeah, I guess. Or there was -- yeah.

Q Or is this a reasonable --

A Yeah. It's a -- yeah. It's a reasonable inference or that -- that I deal with nurses enough that I was like -- that I went back and I wasn't sure and I changed the name to staff. But -- yeah.

If I put nurse, then -- at the time of typing that one, before the edit, I assumed they were a nurse.

Q Okay. So you were speaking to these ladies.

You said you walked up, they were doing CPR, you're speaking to them as you are working?

A Yes.

Q Okay. Then you ask them, if I recall correctly, how they found him?

A I said -- let's see. I asked -- my usual questions would be like how did he get here, how long has he been down or in this condition, what have you done, any patient history.

Like those are all questions just -- you just rattle off as you're going to try to build a picture with more definition.

Q Gotcha. Okay.

Obviously, you're really busy with Mr. Cains. Did you notice any clocks in the room or anything along those lines?

A No.

Q No? Okay.

A No.

Q You also said --
A I didn't --
Q Go ahead.
A Go ahead. No, the only clock that I will say that I had available is my watch, so --
Q And you said that you didn't see any restraints on his person?
A Did not.
Q Okay. But you said that would have been pertinent information? Normally, you check for those things?
A Correct. Well, it's just one of those things that you do, a head to toe like eye scan.

You look for any signs of trauma or restraint or, you know, a weed whacker wrapped around their leg. You know, just you look for -- for obvious signs.

[redacted]

Q Let's say, for instance, you did see a restraint on him. What would you have done?
A I would have just asked for more clarification while I was working.

At that point, them restraining the patient has no outcome. [redacted]

[redacted]

And the knowledge just helps me to pass that on or paint a picture when I go to the hospital. And for my narrative.

But, otherwise, like if we was restrained, that all has an issue with what led up to the problem and I'm dealing with what's after the problem. The problem after, so it just paints a picture.

Q And you previously stated, that the longer you go without gas exchange, the larger of a problem you have.

A True.

Q How long -- and, obviously, every patient is different, every situation is different. You probably can't give a one size fits all answer.

But, in general, at what period of time after someone stopped breathing is the chance of resuscitating them significantly declined?

A Significantly declined? That depends on which -- which material and studies you go with.

You know, some people and services have a protocol at 30 minutes, no CPR, you don't do anything.

As far as at asystole, as soon as you stop gas exchange, you start having the clock ticking. So, I mean, I've had patients come back from ROSC at 30 minutes, but they never left the hospital, you know, upon follow up. Patient died in the hospital.

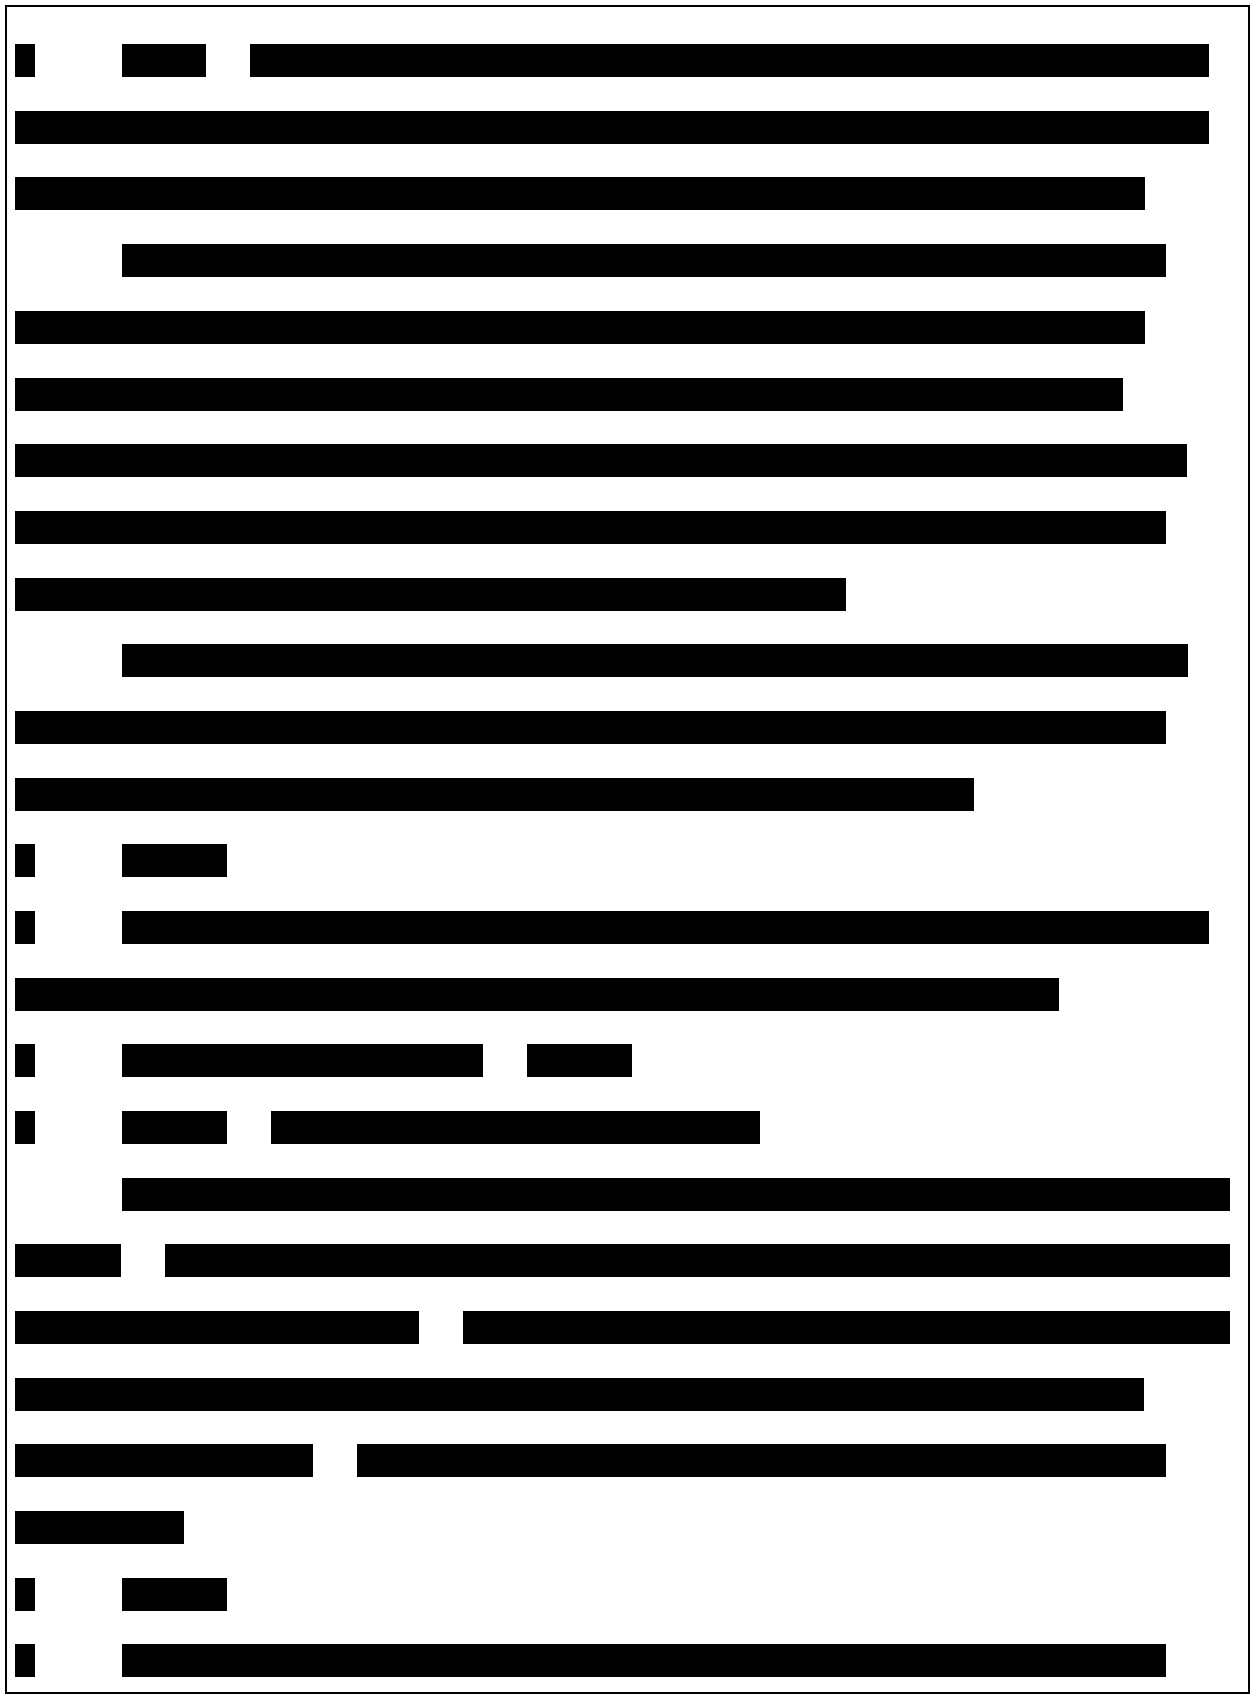
So I can't ever say a patient lived. I can say I've gotten ROSC but I can't say that the patient had a positive outcome and walked out.

But, yeah, it's -- it's patient dependent. It's based on -- for example, how efficient is their body with the oxygen exchange, gas exchange. Do they have COPD, CHF, do they smoke, do they have lung tissue damage from tuberculosis or another pathogen.

So all those things play into how efficient they can -- how long they go without gas exchange do they start having negative effects.

You know, grandma who smoked three packs a day for 60 years versus you who looks like he hasn't smoked a day in his life, you know, if you sat there and held your breath, you're going to hold your breath longer than she does because she's going to panic CO2 retention and oxygen.



So, you know -- and you can have worse outcomes. She would have worse outcomes, so --

Q Okay.

A That's just very -- that's such a big patient variable. It's based on patient history; right?

Q Okay.

[redacted]

CRIS M. BRASUELL, CCR
BREPORTING@GMAIL.COM

[redacted]

Q Okay.
A So --
Q You said that the most important thing was CPR; correct?
A At post -- I want to be clear. In a --
MR. GILLISPIE: Object to the form of that. Go ahead.
A To be clear, which I tried to clarify with you, sir, was, in a post cardiac arrest situation, CPR is hands down has the largest impact on getting ROSC.
As far as him having an obstructed airway, clearing that airway is the most important aspect.
So you -- you know, if he was standing there choking, I'd walk up there while he was still standing, I'd do the Heimlich and try to physically, or like doing abdominal thrusts, try to clear that airway; right?

While he's still breathing. But, once he's down, then you got to start that -- that heart pumping.

BY MR. COLLINS:

[redacted]

Q Okay. I probably only have one or two more questions for you.

You said your time on call to the scene was 13 minutes?

A Yeah. Looking at my, let me see, my time sheets. Yep, looking like -- let's see. Eleven --

Q I don't need the exact time. I mean, I trust that it was what you're saying --

A I just want to make sure. Yeah. So I got it written down here. I'm just double checking.

Yeah. So it looks like, from my time of call, was roughly 13 minutes to scene. And then looks like a minute or two to at patient. And roughly 20 minutes on scene and eight minutes from destination from leaving the departure to destination.

Q Okay. That's kind of what I was wanting to get at.

When you're saying time to scene, are you talking to Booneville HDC and then it took you an additional two minutes to get to Mr. Cains?

A Yes. Yes. So what you're seeing on Page Three, you'll see that on scene means like, hey, I just pulled up at your front door; right? And at patient means I have eyes on you, I'm right there; right?

Like now I'm taking -- I'm starting my treatment and assessment modality with you.

Q Okay.

A With your loved one or whatever; right.

And so there's always that -- you know, like there's always going to be a split in time unless the guy's lying in the road, so --

Q Okay. So the time from the call until the time you put a finger on the patient was 15 minutes?

A Looks like it. Yeah.

Q Okay.

MR. COLLINS: One second, please.

All right I have nothing further.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. GILLISPIE:

Q Just real quick, Sam. On Page Four of the document, top right-hand corner --

A Yes, sir.

Q -- you see where it has on scene and then at patient? You see that?

A Yeah. Yeah.

Q Okay. So on scene 11:49 a.m.; right?

A Yes.
Q And does that mean right at the closest possible place you can get the ambulance to the building?
A That's when we put it in park. That's when we call the -- we call the -- so this is -- I'll clarify.
I don't make these times up. These are times where -- like the on scene is we get on the radio, we say to our dispatch, squad one is on scene. And they say ten-four, 11:49.
Q So that would mean you're right in front of the building at 11:49?
A Yes.
Q And then at patient, 11:50?
A Yes.
Q So that means it took you about one minute to get --
A (Inaudible) and unloading --
Q -- everything up those stairs and to the patient?
A Yeah. It's all like right there. It's all -- so it's all piled up. So I just pull it up and grab it.
My -- at patient for me is not finger on patient. That is visualization of my patient. I am seeing -- because that is the start of my patient assessment and treatment, so --
Q So then, if you got the call at 11:37, you were in route at 11:38, you arrived --

A Right.
Q -- at the patient where you could see the patient at 11:50, that means it was roughly -- that means it would have been either 12 minutes from -- 13 minutes from the time of the call to the time you had the patient visually in front of you?
A Yeah.
Q Yes?
A Yes.
Q Okay.
A If that's what the numbers say, yeah.
Q Okay.
A But those are all times that are documented and then handed to me at the end.
Q But it took you a full minute, probably because of those stairs, to get from the parked ambulance to the scene?
A Yeah. Pull the equipment out and get up the stairs, yeah.
Q Okay.
A And the doors are right there. He was like in full view of the doors.
Q Yeah.
A So.
Q But, because of those stairs and just the layout of the place, it still took a minute to get from the ambulance to the location of the patient?

A Yes.

Q Okay. And you were parked right tin front of the building as well; right?

A Yes. We were parked right there at the stairs.

Q Okay.

Q Okay.

[redacted]

Q Okay. And last question.

Mr. Collins asked you about whether you can always rely on the information that you're given at the scene in hectic situations.

I just want to follow up on that real quick and confirm that you were in fact specifically told that this guy had -- this patient had collapsed and --

A Was a (inaudible) --

Q -- was unable to breathe since 11:30; correct?

A Yes. Yes. They -- I asked --

Q And do you have any specific reason -- in this case, do you have any specific reason to think that the person that told you that was lying or wrong?

A Nope.

[redacted]

Q Okay. All right. That's all I have. Thank you.

MR. COLLINS: I just have a quick follow-up.

RECROSS EXAMINATION

BY MR. COLLINS:

Q This will take two seconds. I just want to clarify a few things.

You said you parked right in front of the building and you could see him from the door of the building at least. What was the (inaudible) --

A (Inaudible) --

Q Didn't you testify that --

A I'm sorry. What?

Q -- once you -- I guess, my understanding of your testimony is, once you crossed the door or got into the door, you could see Mr. Cains; is that correct?

A Yeah. There's farther steps inside the door; but, yeah, I could see Mr. Cains laying on the floor. Yeah.
Q Okay.
I'm just wondering if you can -- obviously, you're going to be guessing to a degree, the distance from where you parked to where Mr. Cains was laying. How many feet do you think that was?
A Twenty or 30 feet from like the vertical height of getting up the stairs.
Like I said, we had everything on the cot already and so it was just pull the cot up which is an auto load thing so it's just like that. It's on rails. And then just hefted it up the stairs.
As we hefted it up the stairs, I can see as their -- from the doorway, the patient, [redacted]
Q Okay. I just want to clarify real quick. Obviously, you wouldn't do this, but let's say you decided not to take any of your equipment with you, you just got out of the ambulance and just ran up to there.
How long do you think it would have taken you to get there?
A Thirty seconds? Generally, we -- I don't run because running leads to injury. And, if I'm hurt, I can't help my patient.

But I -- I walk with a sense of urgency. So if you mean like with a sense of urgency and mindful of the environment, yes, it'd be about 30 seconds that -- to summit those stairs without any equipment.

Q Okay. And I'm sure this is on both your form, our form, and the one you received from Mr. Gillispie.

All these times that are noted that you say you call in, I notice they're all rounded off. Do you know the standard practice for how you guys determine what time to round off to?

A I don't.

Q Okay. So you don't know if they're rounding to the nearest minute or if they're just looking up what the minute is and calling that minute out?

A Yeah. So like all I know is, on my end, I'll say, hey, or my partner usually manages the radio and say, you know, squad one is on scene. And they'd say 10-4, 11:49.

Or if they're busy -- this does happen. Because, like I said, they manage our law enforcement guys as well. There's usually only one dispatcher.

They'll mic click us and let us know, acknowledge us, but they're tied up on something else. And then they'll come back to us later.

And they email and then they report the times and then I get the times also.

So there is like human error and what not on their side of it that I'm not in control of, so --

Q Okay.

I have nothing further. Thank you.

MR. GILLISPIE: Me neither.

Thank you so much, Mr. Scow.

THE WITNESS: Thanks, guys.

P R O C E E D I N G S

THEREUPON, Dr. Rickie Brown-Forestiere was duly sworn to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth and gave the following testimony to wit.

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. GILLISPIE:

Q Dr. Brown, thanks for being here today. Could you state your name for us for the record.

A Dr. Rickie Brown-Forestiere.

Q All right.

And, before we get into the case, I wanted to get a little bit of information about your background and expertise on this issue.

If you could just talk a little bit about your background and what it is that allows you to provide an expert opinion in a case like this on causation.

A Sure. So I am a board certified emergency physician. So that means I went to medical school. I had a three year emergency medicine residency and have passed all my qualifying boards to become a board certified physician.

In terms of training and the specifics of this situation, multiple different areas are of importance. Initially, I would say the most important is that we are experts in resuscitation; meaning, people in their most emergent and critical settings, that is where we are experts to take care of these patients. So we see people in all different settings.

But, in this scenario, [redacted], which is what the patient suffered, is something that we do on a daily basis. And we're highly trained and we're definitely the experts for that. We're called in all over the hospitals for our expertise on that.

In addition, in regards to restraints, we have extensive training in how to use chemical and physical restraints safely; as we, you know, occasionally need to use those in the emergency department.

And we also have extensive training in how to deal with situations that come from physical restraints not being done properly and when we need to take care of someone for that.

Q Okay. And as an emergency room physician, do you encounter choking pretty frequently?

A Yeah. It's -- unfortunately, yes, we do, for multiple different reasons. People have natural choking where they choke on their food.

People -- we have many people who, unfortunately, from an altered mental status, whether it be something like a stroke or a drug overdose, will have an induced vomiting and choking.

And then we also deal with people with strangulation, suffocations, drowning. These are all different forms of suffocation leading to cardiac arrest.

Q Okay. And, as an emergency room physician who's graduated from medical school, gone through residency, worked in an emergency room as a physician for several years, is it true to say that you have seen your fair share of choking emergencies in your emergency room?

A Yeah. Absolutely.

Q Okay.

And you've received some training over the years specific to -- you talked about specific to restraints and specific to resuscitation, obviously.

But I assume there's also specific training that you've received, either in medical school or throughout residency or otherwise, specifically relating to choking and suffocation?

A Absolutely.

Q Okay.

A It's a very -- it's a very unfortunately seen thing and we have very specific training for it.

Q Okay.

All right. And is it -- would it even be possible for you to estimate how many, how many choking emergencies that you've provided treatment for in the emergency room over the years?

A Oh, my gosh. Honestly, I don't think I'd be able to count.

I can tell you that it's definitely within every week of working; and sometimes multiple times a day. It just depends on the day. Our -- we're in the emergency room. That's where everyone (inaudible) --

Q That's one of the more common things you see in an emergency room, in other words?

A What's that?

Q It's one of the most common things you see in the emergency room?

A It's pretty common. Yeah. It's one of our most common --

Q Okay.

A -- (inaudible) as traumas.

Q Okay.

And, Dr. Brown, you've reviewed some documents and records related to this case in preparation for giving an opinion here today; correct?

A Uh-huh. Yep. Many.

Q Okay. What materials have you reviewed that you intend to or that have informed the opinion you're going to give today?

A So first, I did some research on David. And so we -- I took a look at the dysphasia survey and choking assessment. These are all part of his IPP.

Also his physician orders, his diet orders, to see if there were any sort of special circumstances that needed to be, you know, taken into account.

Also, I then looked at depositions for Tyler Mattson, Ryann Campos, Amy Jones; and then the LPNs, Kelly, Amanda, and Debbie.

I also looked through the OLTC statements from Jones, Mattson, and Campos. And then I reviewed the paramedic's deposition, Samuel and also looked at his paramedic reports from the day, from the event.

Q Okay. And then I assume you, of course, looked at the coroner's report and the ER records as well?

A Yes. Yes. Those as well.

Q Okay. And then you also looked at the deposition, did you also look at the deposition of Dr. Hamid.

A Dr. Hamid, yes. The other -- yes, that as well. Sorry.

Q Okay. And, finally, did you also review the report, the written report, that Disability Rights of Arkansas released on this case?

A Yes.

Q Okay.

And, in reviewing David's records and all of these other documents, were you able to form a medical opinion as to precisely how David Cains died?

A Yes. So --

Q And are you able to say within a reasonable degree of medical certainty what caused his death on this day?

A Yes. It's -- it's -- well, I won't call it simple --

MR. ROSEN: Well, hold on. I'm going to make an objection; because the -- in the information provided to us in the first, second, or third supplemental responses to DHS, there was no opinion stated as to a reasonable degree of medical certainty.

That opinion has not been submitted to us in the reports. And I'm specifically looking at the report of what Dr. Brown would be testifying to in -- which was provided to DHS in Claimant's Third Supplemental Responses to discovery.

MR. GILLISPIE: Uh-huh.

MR. ROSEN: So we're going to make an objection to that, because that is not an opinion that was provided to us, despite numerous requests for updates.

MR. GILLISPIE: Well, the opinion that I believe she's going to give is the same opinion that you've seen.

Now, I may have neglected to include that actual language in the response; but, as you know, any expert that -- any medical expert that gives an expert opinion in a case in Arkansas must do so within a degree of -- you know, that's the standard.

So, by the very fact that she's, you know, my expert tells you that she's going to be testifying within a reasonable degree of medical certainty, but --

MR. ROSEN: No, I would -- I would disagree with that. I mean, we can continue on, but I'm --

MR. GILLISPIE: Sure.

MR. ROSEN: -- objecting to it because --

MR. GILLISPIE: All right.

MR. ROSEN: -- it was not provided to us. And that's an essential part of the opinion. Go ahead.

MR. GILLISPIE: Well, that's noted.

BY MR. GILLISPIE:

Q Dr. Brown, go on ahead with what you were going to say as far as your opinion, again, that you're giving within a reasonable degree of medical certainty.

MR. ROSEN: And I assume that, Counsel, you're going to be asking that question and to the extent that you -- it's an ongoing objection. So I don't have to keep making that?

MR. GILLISPIE: Sure. Yeah. I agree to a continuing objection on that issue, Rich.

A Okay.

[redacted]

BY MR. GILLISPIE:

Q Okay.

And, Dr. Brown, are you also able to say within a reasonable degree of medical certainty what caused Mr. Cains to vomit?

A Yeah. I -- I think that I can. So there's a lot of physics to this. I'll try -- I'll do my best to make it in easy to understand terms.

So, when someone is struggling in this scenario that's been described by all the participants, someone who is struggling has what's called a fight or flight response, meaning they're -- have adrenaline surges and they are fight -- essentially fighting for their life.

Their muscles constrict to fend off what they feel is an attack. They -- so their muscles constrict, their breathing increases, (interference) set of physiological (interference) leads to increased (interference) pressure which is the pressure in your chest.

And it also constricts the abdomen which increases the intra-abdominal pressure. Both of these are cavities in the body where the stomach is.

The inferior or superior aspect on top of the stomach is the diaphragm in the chest above that, and just below it, the abdomen. And increased pressure on both of these does place increased pressure on the stomach and from the sides.

Obviously, there's a definitive end to the body and how far it can stretch. And also his left side being on the floor is another definitive mechanical block as to where it can expand.

So, if you think of the stomach as a cube, it's having pressure from all different angles for -- because of the struggle and the position and the increased pressures. And it caused him to vomit.

[redacted]

Q Okay. So if I'm hearing you correctly, Dr. Brown, and in my very nonmedical layman's terms, intense struggle that produces a fight or flight reflex and adrenaline can, is itself, increases the likelihood of triggering vomiting; is that correct?

A In this scenario, it would, yes, due to gravity.

Q And being on his left side increased the likelihood that the pressure, intrathoracic pressure and gravity, would --

A Yeah.

Q -- trigger vomiting?

A Yeah. Unfortunately, the stomach -- and the stomach's on the left. So it means everything in the body and all the pressures above him were pressing down onto the stomach; which was butting up against the ground, essentially.

Q Okay.

And the fact that he had -- if I'm hearing you correctly, the [redacted]

Q Okay.

And do you have any opinion as to after he began vomiting while he was on his left side, do you have any opinion or does what happened next, what staff did next, play into your opinion at all?

[redacted]

[redacted]

Q Is it fair to say, that once he started vomiting while on his left side in the restraint, that placing him, quickly placing him onto his back, was essentially the worst thing that they could have done?

A Yes, unfortunately.

The very first thing that is taught is to turn them onto their side if there's any sign of vomiting.
Q Okay.
A That is absolutely the just very unfortunate wrong thing.
Q Okay.
MR. GILLISPIE: And, Rich and Cris, back up just a second.
I meant to introduce her CV as Exhibit 1. It's going to be my only exhibit. Do you have any objection to that, Rich?
MR. ROSEN: Is that the one that was provided with the discovery?
MR. GILLISPIE: It's -- yes.
MR. ROSEN: Number two --
MR. GILLISPIE: Yes.
MR. ROSEN: -- number -- second supplemental?
MR. GILLISPIE: Yes, sir.
MR. ROSEN: Okay.
MR. GILLISPIE: The only CV of hers that I've ever -- that I have, yes.
MR. ROSEN: Yeah. No, I don't have any objection to that.
MR. GILLISPIE: Okay. Thanks. And I'll just have to e-mail you that later, Cris.

(WHEREUPON, the document was later received and marked for identification as Exhibit No. 1 and is attached hereto.)

MR. ROSEN: And, just fort court reporter, just make sure that's attached to the copy of the deposition that I get, if you would.

THE COURT REPORTER: Absolutely.

MR. GILLISPIE: Sure.

BY MR. GILLISPIE:

Q Okay. Just a few more questions, Dr. Brown.

I wanted to see if you could describe kind of what happens when somebody -- well, let me phrase that differently.

When a person vomits and chokes on their own vomit and they end up suffocating to death, could you just describe kind of medically what happens there and what that -- what that's like --

A Sure.

Q -- as best you can?

A Sure. So, when someone chokes and their airway is closed off, obviously, they can no longer receive oxygen or expel CO2.

This quickly induces kind of what we would call a terror fight or flight response, similar to a drowning victim. They start fighting with everything they can.

Unfortunately, as the airway is blocked, CO2 which is -- turns into a toxic substance, which is an acid, builds up in their body, their muscles fighting against and are unable to expel the lactic acid they build up.

So, essentially, you're not only suffocating, but it's a feeling of burning. Your lungs begin burning, your whole body, because of the acid build up.

And the struggle -- and eventually you become unconscious and -- and your body continues to struggle until it no longer can.

Q Is it a painful death?

A It's probably the -- one of the most painful deaths there could be. That and I assume burning to death.

But strangulation or suffocation and burning are the -- are known as the two most awful ways to die.

Q Okay. Thank you.

I know that you testified that you reviewed the -- you reviewed the depositions of the three LPNs --

A Uh-huh.

Q -- and the three staff members, Tyler, Amy, and Ryann. And you reviewed the deposition transcript of Samuel Scow, the paramedic who arrived at the scene --

A Uh-huh.

Q -- correct?

A Correct.
Q And you reviewed records and testimony that state that there was a gap of eight minutes between when Mr. Cains began suffocating and when 9-1-1 was called; correct?
A Correct.
Q Are you able to give any opinion with regards to whether the outcome for Mr. Cains could have been different had paramedics arrived eight minutes sooner than they did?

MR. ROSEN: Objection. That also was not an -- any opinion on that, which would have been asked, which was asked for, for expert opinion.

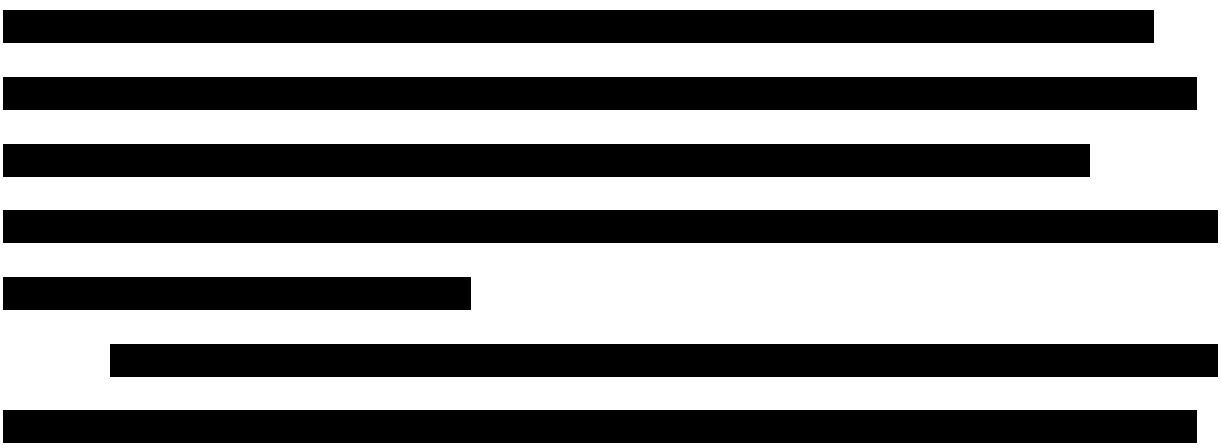
It was not provided in any of the first, second, or third supplemental responses to interrogatories as to the facts and opinions and substance of any expert's testimony. So that is a surprise to us --

MR. GILLISPIE: Okay. Thank you.

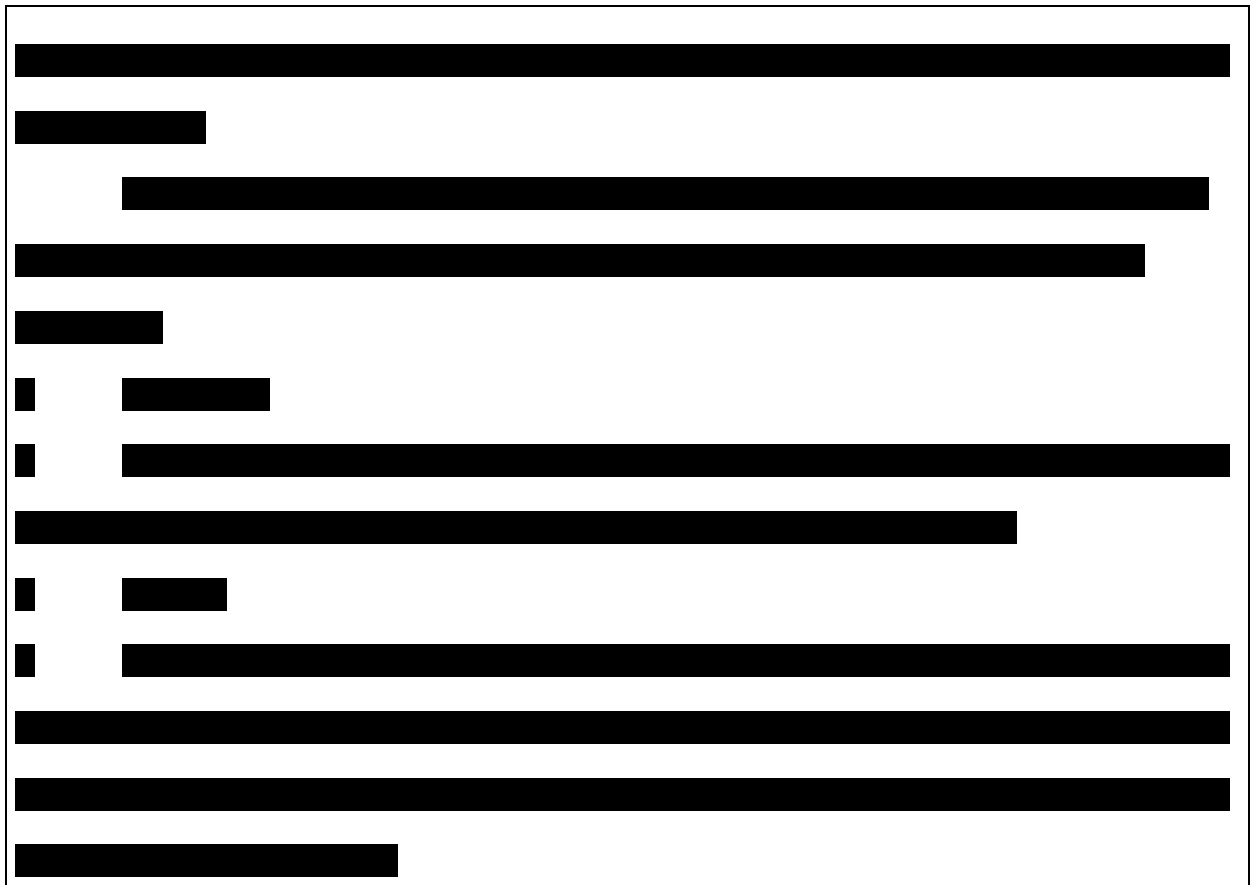
MR. ROSEN: -- and was not provided previously. So we object.

MR. GILLISPIE: Okay. Noted. Thank you.

BY MR. GILLISPIE:
Q All right. Dr. Brown, go ahead.



A So I did take a look. And, based on the facts from all the different documents that there was an eight minute duration before 9-1-1 is called, I can give you the facts on a resuscitation.



Without any intervention, someone who suffocates will likely die within five minutes. If there is a resuscitation, meaning the CPR that was immediately started for him, that leads into a resuscitation time.

Our research, and it's plentiful in emergency medicine, shows that a resuscitation past 20 minutes drastically drops the possibility of a meaningful outcome; meaning not only that we can revive the body but also the brain.

So, yes, it is very unfortunate. Those eight minutes, honestly, in my opinion, I think that it could have had a very large impact.

It did take the paramedics 13 minutes to get there. And review of Samuel's deposition discusses the fact that They're very well trained. They have all of the medications and the tools needed to do so. They would have been able to do much more sophisticated resuscitation.

And, in an absolute dire emergency like this, they also can place what's called a surgical airway. If it is blocked from above and he was unable to clear it, they can cut through the neck and place a tube into the trachea --

Q Okay.

A -- to allow for gas exchange.

Q Okay.

A Many different ways that could have helped.

I can't say for sure if it would have changed whether he died or not, but I can definitely tell you that there would have been a much better chance had it been done earlier.

Q Okay. And am I correct that a paramedic such as Mr. Scow, the training and the equipment that they brought to the scene, is much greater than what your typical LPN would be able to provide?

A Oh, absolutely. An LPN is the -- one of the very lowest medical certifications in regards in the nursing world it -- as the lower end.

And, even an RN, which is above an LPN, would not have been able to have the tools or administer the type of treatments or procedures that a paramedic can.

They're very highly trained. So they -- they have quite a few tools at their disposal and knowledge to use them.

Q Okay. This is my last question.

I don't know if you came across the -- and I can't recall if you would have come across this in the materials you read, but there have been one or two witnesses, staff members, who have testified at deposition that they believe that Mr. Cains had the ability to intentionally vomit when agitated.

Assuming that you came across that, do you have any -- can you provide any opinion as to whether you think that that could have happened here?

MR. ROSEN: And I'm going to object again to the extent that this doctor is going to render any opinion on that question. That is an expert opinion on that question that has not been provided to DHS despite numerous requests and three supplemental responses to interrogatory. So there's -- that's not something that's subject to this deposition.

MR. GILLISPIE: Well, I'm asking her for the -- for the first time here, Rich. So I -- I just want to hear if she has an opinion on it.

BY MR. GILLISPIE:

Q Go ahead, Dr. Brown.

A I did come across that information. It was in Tyler Mattson's OLTC and I believe in another area as well.

I cannot imagine a scenario in where someone who's fighting for their life would have the wherewithal to intentionally vomit. I don't see any evidence from the three -- from Ryann and Amy and Tyler that gave any description that would be consistent with someone intentionally vomiting.

It's a physically demanding thing to do and quite a difficult one. I -- I don't see how -- of course, I cannot give you a 100 percent certainty, and no one can, but I think that it is probably one of the least possible things that I could imagine.

Q Okay.

MR. GILLISPIE: Let me go off the record for just a couple minutes here and review my notes, Cris.

(WHEREUPON, the record was suspended momentarily and the proceedings resumed as follows, to wit.)

BY MR. GILLISPIE:

Q Dr. Brown, my last question is, would you mind, just so we all know exactly what it is you're saying, would you mind one more time just kind of recapping your expert opinion or re-summarizing your expert opinion as to how David Cains vomited and then choked on his vomit and suffocated to death?

MR. ROSEN: I'm going to object. That's been asked and answered.

MR. GILLISPIE: (Inaudible) that.

MR. ROSEN: I think that the doctor's opinions was quite clear; and so giving her a second opportunity to clarify anything or to change her testimony would be inappropriate.

I think the question is --

MR. GILLISPIE: I'm -- I'm --

MR. ROSEN: -- what -- does the doctor think she was quite clear? Because I think she was quite clear.

MR. GILLISPIE: I do as well.

MR. ROSEN: Then there's no need for the question.

BY MR. GILLISPIE:

Q Dr. Brown, I'm certainly not asking you to -- Dr. Brown, I'm certainly not asking you to -- certainly not intending to give you a chance to change your opinion and nor do I expect you to change your opinion at all.

My question is -- I'd simply like for the record -- we only get one shot with you here.

So, for the record, I'd just like to hear it one more time and maybe even in simpler terms, because you did such a great job, as Rich said, describing it in medical terms, maybe in simpler terms, what it is that happened here.

MR. ROSEN: I --I object --

MR. GILLISPIE: Your objection's noted. Your objection's noted.

MR. ROSEN: Irrelevant and asked and answered. She's already stated it. I think the question is that, the first -- there's a lack of --

MR. GILLISPIE: Richard, your objection's noted. Your objection's noted.

MR. ROSEN: Well, I just want to put it on as a lack of foundation as well. Because she hasn't -- you know, unless she says that she's been unclear in her statements previously --

MR. GILLISPIE: Yeah --

MR. ROSEN: I don't think that it's necessarily.

MR. GILLISPIE: Well, I'm -- I'm not going to pull the question. I want -- I want to hear this answer and then you'll have your chance.

BY MR. GILLISPIE:

Q Go ahead, Dr. Brown.

A I -- I'll just give a quick recap. I think that that's -- that's fine and there's nothing that will change in it.

So Mr. Cains was on the floor being restrained by three people in three different locations of his body.

There was a struggle, fight or flight, patient just struggling, adrenaline pumping, causing a lot of constriction of muscles and things of that nature.

If you think -- in simpler terms, if you think of the stomach as a water balloon, essentially, it had pressure coming from every single direction; and the water balloon, eventually the tie at the top, broke. That would be the lower esophageal I was talking about.

The tie at the top broke and all the water was released and, unfortunately, the water was a solid substance and it then --

Q And his balloon tie is weaker than most because of his [redacted] correct?

A Correct.

MR. ROSEN: I'm objecting because she wasn't done with her answer that -- to the question that you asked her before there was an interruption. And so I would ask that she be --

MR. GILLISPIE: Okay.

BY MR. GILLISPIE:

Q Go ahead, Dr. Brown.

MR. ROSEN: -- allowed to answer the question that you asked her.

A Sure.

Yeah, so balloon, weaker tie, breaking, everything coming up. Those are solid substances. He was on his left.

They then turn them on his back, allowing the vomit to rest in his throat closing off his air pipe and closing off gas exchange.

He then suffocated. And the suffocation cut off oxygen to his body and that eventually causes the heart to stop, which is what happened, and that's how he died.

BY MR. GILLISPIE:

Q Thank you very much, Dr. Brown.

MR. GILLISPIE: I'll pass the witness, Rich.

CROSS EXAMINATION

BY MR. ROSEN:

Q Thank you, Dr. Brown. Let me just finish taking my notes of what you just said.

MR. GILLISPIE: I'm going to grab my coffee while you do that.

MR. ROSEN: Okay. I'll wait for you.

MR. GILLISPIE: All right. I'm back, as you can see.

MR. ROSEN: Okay. Yes.

MR. GILLISPIE: Hard to miss me.

BY MR. ROSEN:

Q All right. And I'm ready to go.

Just on one thing that I just -- and I have a lot of questions based upon what you've asked, or excuse me, testified to. But that last statement or one of the statements is that I think everybody agrees that he was -- that David Cain was on his side, whether the right side or left side --

A Uh-huh.

Q -- that might be -- but everybody agrees that he was on his side when he started vomiting.

A Uh-huh.

Q Would you agree with that?

A Sounds like what I read.

Q Okay. And that they turned him over after they noticed that he had choked and stopped breathing?

A After they noticed that he had vomited, choked, and stopped breathing, yes.

Q Okay.

Now, I want to get into a little background here and then we'll get back to the substance of your opinion.

I'm looking at your resume, which was introduced by counsel in this case, and you graduated from medical school in 2018; right?

A Yep.

Q And that was -- what's the name of the medical school?

A University of Science, Arts and Technology, USAT.

Q And that's in Montserrat, West Indies?

A Uh-huh.
Q And so you -- oh, so you went to medical school in the West Indies? I mean, that's what school is?
A Uh-huh.
Q Is that a yes or a no?
A Yes. Sorry.
Q Okay. And is that an accredited medical school?
A Sure is.
Q And who is it accredited by?
A Oh, gosh, I don't remember the accreditation board of the -- you know, the NIH has an accreditation board. I don't quite recall the acronym. It's got a couple letters in there.
Q Well, I'm familiar with West -- with the Caribbean Medical School.
A Uh-huh.
Q And I know there's a Caribbean accrediting agency for schools, medical schools. There are numerous medical schools in the Caribbean.
A Uh-huh.
Q And had it -- and is that -- is that agency accredited?
A Not entirely sure I understand your question, but --
Q Well, let me -- we'll walk through it again. Okay.
A Sure.

Q So it's your understanding that you're -- I mean, to me, it's a very simple question as to whether the school I went to or didn't go to was accredited.

A Yeah, it was.

MR. GILLISPIE: Well, I'll object there. It's -- she -- it's -- she an -- she answered that right away.

MR. ROSEN: Okay. Well, okay. So let's --

MR. GILLISPIE: So, yes, it's accredited.

BY MR. ROSEN:

Q So, as counsel has said, tell me -- because I just want to get through this. I just kind of want to know kind of your training, a little background.

A Sure.

Q So you graduate in 2018 from the Montserrat Medical School of Science --

A Sure.

Q -- Arts and Technology; right?

A Uh-huh.

Q Is that a yes?

A Yes. I'm sorry.

Q You're a -- Doctor, you're going to have to say yes or no because --

A Yeah. Sorry, I forgot about that.

Yes, that's true.

Q I mean, I knew what you were talking about, I just --

A I gotcha.

Q The court reporter might not.

A I got it.

Q So you started the school in what year?

A Oh, man. I've got to think back on this one. Let's see, it would be four years, so '14, I believe.

Q Okay. In '14, so let's start in 19 -- in 2014.

Was the medical school that you went to in Montserrat West Indies an accredited medical school program?

A Yes.

Q Okay. Can you tell me the name of the accrediting agency?

A Sorry. I'd have to look it up, honestly. I'm not in the business of accrediting medical schools.

So -- but I know it's accredited by the American Board that accredits schools.

Q Well, would you disagree with me then when I read just the other day that that medical school is not an accredited medical school?

A That's not true. That was accredited at the time I went there.

Q Okay.
A I believe they have since had some financial struggles.
Q Okay. Do you -- are you saying, that when you graduated, it was an accredited medical school program?
A Correct. Correct.
Q And is it accredited medical school program today?
A I have no idea.
Q And you don't -- to recap, you don't know who accredited it, do you?

MR. GILLISPIE: Object to the form. That's -- that is -- that's not what -- that's not what she said. She said she'd have to look it up. Obviously, it's --

MR. ROSEN: Well, I --

MR. GILLISPIE: -- an accredited medical school. She's board certified.

MR. ROSEN: No, you --

THE WITNESS: You can't be board certified without an accredited medical school.

MR. ROSEN: Well, let me get there; because I would tend to disagree with both you, Counsel, and you, Doctor.

BY MR. ROSEN:
Q So is it accredit -- is the -- hold on.

Are you aware that the University of Science, Arts and Technology website today states on their website at U-S-T, excuse me, USAT.edu/aboutus/ under, quote, listings and accreditations, quote, under that title, quote, we are currently in the process of applying for accreditation, unquote. Are you aware of that?

A No. I do know that they had some financial struggles and some things they had to reorganize. And I believe it was mostly paperwork --

Q Are you aware --

A At -- at the time that I was there, it was 100 percent certified.

You can't get into a residency without a 100 percent certified program. It's not possible. You can't even apply to get into residency without that.

Q Well, let me follow up on my question.

Okay. So, here in Arkansas, we have the University of Arkansas for Medical Science College of Medicine which is accredited by the Liaison Committee for Medical Education of the Association of American College of -- American Medical College, also known as AAMC.

To your knowledge, was the medical school that you went to accredited by AAMC at any time that you were there?

A I believe so. I -- and, honestly, whatever the accrediting board is -- and, again, I'm happy to look it up. But I don't know the actual acronyms of the boards that certify medical schools.

What I do know is that my medical school was -- was certified at the time I went to it. And, again, you cannot get into -- you cannot even to apply to ERAS, which is the program that gets you into residency without an accredited medical school. They won't accept your application. So it's kind of a moot point. You can't do it without it.

Q Well, I mean -- and currently, right now, would you agree that the -- that through 2018, graduates of your medical school could get into that, could do a residency here?

A Actually, I know that they can through 2019; because one of my classmates came to my program right after me, so --

Q Well --

A They were 2019.

Q -- let me ask you, so the Caribbean Accreditation Authority for Education and Medicine and other professionals known as CAAM-HP is the accrediting body for medical schools and other programs in the Caribbean; right?

A Probably.

MR. GILLISPIE: Objection. Asked and answered. She doesn't --

A I don't know the acronyms. I'm sorry.

BY MR. ROSEN:

Q Well, do you know -- forget about the acronym.

What about the Caribbean -- have you ever heard of the Caribbean Accreditation Authority for Education and Medicine and other Health Professions?

MR. GILLISPIE: Same objection; asked and answered.

MR. ROSEN: I don't know what the answer is.

A The answer is I --

MR. GILLISPIE: She doesn't either. That's the point. That's the answer. She's not sure.

A I don't know the accrediting boards that are in charge of these things.

I know that I went to an accredited medical school and could not get into a residency; nor could I be board certified without it.

BY MR. ROSEN:

Q The university you went to, excuse me, the medical program is a privately owned school; correct?

A As are most private schools.

Q Okay. And it's a for-profit institution, is it not?
A Don't know.
Q You didn't check into this when you went to -- when you applied?
A I mean, I have no idea whether a program is for, for profit or not. I know that most private schools are for profit.
Q Have you ever heard of --
A (Inaudible) hospitals and they're all allowed.
Q Well, here in Arkansas, the University of Medical Science, College of Medicine is not a for-profit agency --
A Yeah, it's a university.
If you want to go through all the medical schools, we can go through a lot of them, such as Harvard and Stanford and all the rest of them, all private medical schools.
Q Okay.
Now, have you ever heard of the Education Commission for Foreign Medical Graduates?
A Yes.
Q And they're the ones that --
A ECFMG. And I'm certified by them as well.
Q Yes. That I know, you are certified by them.
A Uh-huh.

Q Okay. But that doesn't certify the medical school that you went to, does it?
A Actually, it does.
Q No, it doesn't. Okay.
A You can't get certified by them if they don't approve of your education. I'm sorry. That's not true.
Q It is, but okay.
Let's talk about -- are you a licensed physician in Arkansas?
A No.
Q Have you ever lived in Arkansas?
A No.
Q Okay. Did you do any training in Arkansas?
A Nope.
Q Have you ever visited even Arkansas?
A Many times. My husband's from Arkansas. I go to the Hot Springs Derby every year and his family's in Pine Bluff. And my husband went to medical school there.
Q Okay. And so did you perform a rotation here --
A No.
Q -- or any training, medical training, here whatsoever?
A Not at all.
Q Have you ever been to -- you're going to have to excuse me for a second. There's an alarm going on. I don't know if you can hear it.

A I can.
Q Let me finish my questioning. I might have to leave the building. So it usually only takes a few minutes, if that's the case.
Have you ever been to Booneville, Arkansas?
A I'm sorry, where?
Q Booneville, Arkansas.
A I have not.
Q Okay. Logan County, Arkansas, you ever been there?
A I don't know.
Q Okay.
A I've been a couple places there with my husband. Not sure.
Q Do you know -- have you ever -- did you ever meet David Cains?
A No.
Q No? Is that --
A No.
Q Okay. Did you ever treat David Cains?
A No.
Q Do you know the population mix at the Booneville Human Development Centers or the differences in the populations that at the several Arkansas Human Development Centers?

A I do not.
MR. GILLISPIE: Object to form.
MR. ROSEN: I'm sorry, Counsel?
MR. GILLISPIE: I object. Object to form of the question.
MR. ROSEN: Well, I don't know -- this is cross examination, so I don't know what the form would be.
MR. GILLISPIE: Well, it's a -- it's a broad compound question that --
MR. ROSEN: All right.
MR. GILLISPIE: -- asks for multiple answers.
MR. ROSEN: Let me break it down.
BY MR. ROSEN:
Q Do you know the population mix at the Booneville Human Development Center?
A I do not.
Q Do you know the populate or any differences in the population mixes from the other Human Development Centers in Arkansas?
A I have not specifically reviewed them in Arkansas, no.
Q Are you aware, do you have any information that Booneville Human Development Center population includes a large mix of behavioral management population?

A Behavioral management population?
Q In other words, population with people who have behavioral problems.
A I gathered this much from the training that the -- Mattson and all of them completed, that they probably had to deal with that.
Q Let me ask you -- okay. So since you didn't treat him and you didn't -- you really -- you weren't trained here, you -- you're in Florida; right?
A Uh-huh.
Q Is that a yes?
A Yes. Yes. Sorry.
Q Okay. And you're licensed in Florida?
A Correct.
Q Okay. Not licensed in Arkansas; right?
A No.
Q Do you know Mr. Gillispie or any people in his firm personally?
A No.
Q Have you met him before this case?
A No.
Q Have you ever spoken to him before this case?
A I don't believe so, no.
Q Okay.

And where -- I see on your resume that you're employed at a hospital in Florida.

A At two hospitals, yes.

Q Okay. And where are they?

A Brandon and Lakeland.

Q Where's that? What's it near?

A Tampa.

Q Okay. So you're -- is this in Tampa or --

A Between Tampa and Orlando.

Q Okay. So you're out -- you're in between. All right.

A Uh-huh.

Q How is it that you came to be hired as an expert physician in this case by Mr. Gillispie or people of his -- in his firm?

A I was recommended to him.

Q By?

A Through mutual friends.

Q Okay. So then -- and who were the mutual friends?

A Through my husband and his -- much of his colleagues and friends --

Q Okay.

A -- I was recommended to him.

Q Your husband knew Mr. Gillespie? Is that what you're saying?

A Yes.
Q Okay. And so, your husband, what type of physician is he?
A He's a trauma surgeon.
Q Oh, but is he licensed here in Arkansas?
A No. But his father is.
Q Okay. Is his father still practicing?
A Yes, he is. And he trained at UAMS.
Q Okay. So what I'm asking then is why did -- but they didn't come to testify in this case, you did; right?
A They're not emergency medicine physicians.
Q Okay. But they're physicians --
A They don't deal with these emergencies. I do.
Q All right.
A They're traumas surgeons.
Q Are you listed or enrolled with any organizations that refer expert witnesses to plaintiff's counsel?
A No.
Q You've never been a like -- like kind of like a headhunter for what expert witnesses?
A No, sir.
Q Okay. When were you actually retained in this case?
A I will have to -- I would have to go review my records --
Q Approximately.

A -- for if there's a date for my retainer check. I honestly --
Q Don't --
A -- don't remember. I got to think --
Q Okay. I mean, approximately, what month was that? What year and what month?
A Well, it was this year. Yes, it was this year. Gosh. I would have to check my records. I honestly don't recall.
Q Okay.
So would you -- was it in the winter of this year? In the spring of this year? In the summer of this year?
A Well, I live in Florida, so they're all the same. But I don't recall -- I can very easily pull up my retainer fees and my retainer contract. But I --
Q Okay. Well --
A -- don't have them on me.
Q Well, let me ask you that. So has -- have you -- so you were retained, right, by --
A Right.
Q -- counsel; is that right?
A Uh-huh. Yes.
Q Yes? Okay.
A As all witnesses are, I believe.
MR. GILLISPIE: Unfortunately.

BY MR. ROSEN:
Q Okay.
Now, how much have you been paid to date?
A I don't recall. I would have to review my records.
Q Do you do this a lot, these expert witnesses?
A I'm training in them and doing them often.
Q So you are? You testify a lot in these types of cases?
A I'm beginning to, yes.
Q Okay. How many do you think you've testified in?
A Today is my first official deposition with -- in this scenario.
Q So -- but -- so this is the first one, but you -- but you don't know how much you've been paid to date?
A No, sir, I do not.
Q All right.
A I would have to check my records. I don't actually keep those things in my brain.
MR. GILLISPIE: Rich, I'll -- I'm happy to provide you all that. I'm happy to provide you --
MR. ROSEN: Okay.
MR. GILLISPIE: -- all that information.
MR. ROSEN: But I'm still going to ask the question. So -- but I would ask that you would provide it.

BY MR. ROSEN:

Q Are there any outstanding bills or invoices regarding the work you've done on this case?

A Not at this time.

Q Not at this time? Everything's paid to date?

A Yes, it is.

Q And are you paid directly by the claimant or counsel or through an agency? Or an intermediary?

A Through a law firm, the law firm.

Q Mr. Gillespie's law firm?

A Correct.

Q All right.

Now, you said earlier that you -- that you were familiar with the -- Mr. Cains' IPP; correct?

A Uh-huh. Correct.

Q Okay. And before I -- since the warning, the alarm is still going off, I don't know if you can hear it or not, but --

A Oh, I can hear it.

Q Okay. I'm going to -- let's take a, say, five or ten minute break before we start talking about the IPP just so I can see what's going on.

And I promise I'll come back and tell you whether there's a fire in the building or it's a drill. And I apologize, but it's beyond my control. So --

MR. GILLISPIE: No problem.

THE WITNESS: Very clearly.

MR. ROSEN: If we can just take about -- it's 10:30, about -- reconvene at 10:40.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

MR. GILLISPIE: Sure.

(WHEREUPON, the record was suspended momentarily and the proceedings resumed as follows, to wit.)

BY MR. ROSEN:

Q Okay. I apologize for that. And we were starting talking about review, your review of the IPP, the --

A Correct.

Q -- individual program plan for Mr. Cains.

A Uh-huh.

Q So, Doctor, you -- you've reviewed that IPP and you're aware of Mr. Cains' behavioral aggression and violence issues; is that correct?

A I did not --

MR. GILLISPIE: Object to form. That assumes evidence not in the record.

A I did not see anything in regards to him being violent.

BY MR. ROSEN:

Q Okay. You didn't see anything in the IPP about his aggressive behaviors and his care plan for how to handle aggressive behavior?
A I heard irritable behaviors that were to be handled with care.
Q And you read the -- I think you testified that you read the depositions of Mr. Mattson, Ms. Campos, and Ms. Jones; is that correct?
A Correct.
Q Okay. So then, at least from Ms. Jones, you're aware that he had -- that David Cains had violent tendencies and outbursts of aggression that -- where he would try to hit, he would throw, he would have violent --

MR. GILLISPIE: Same -- same objection. The word aggressive is used in his care plan. But violent -- in fact, almost everybody that's been deposed couldn't even think of time he hurt a single person.

So violent is not a word that I ever recall seeing anywhere. So same objection, assuming evidence not in the record.

BY MR. ROSEN:
Q Well, I'm going to -- if you can answer the question, because violence could mean -- and there are evidence, if you read the record -- at least this Jones deposition carefully, you would have seen where he did hear -- hurt people and he did have outbursts where he destroyed things. And he did --

A I read things about him --

Q -- (inaudible) -- huh?

A Sorry. I read things about him ripping a paper off of a wall.

Q Uh-huh.

A I heard things that he did have word outbursts which are not violent. And that was about it.

I don't recall hearing anything that -- about him striking anyone or causing any bodily injuries to anyone.

Q Do you recall anything about a fire extinguisher being thrown?

A I don't. I'm sorry.

Q Do you know anything about him attacking people or trying to hit people?

A I actually remember reading the opposite, that he would have aggressive yelling outbursts, but that he was not known to have ever attacked anyone.

Q Okay. So that's part of that -- part of your opinion is based upon the fact that he's never attacked anyone or tried to have anyone, he just had verbal outbursts; is that correct?

MR. GILLISPIE: I'm going to object --
MR. ROSEN: I'm asking the doctor.
MR. GILLISPIE: Her opinion is about his cause of death. It has nothing to do with his history of aggression or lack thereof.
MR. ROSEN: Well, I mean, I'm just -- I'm asking her about the IPP upon which you asked her whether she formed an opinion based upon all those documents she reviewed. So I'm just following up.
A I'm -- you know --
MR. GILLISPIE: What's the question? What's the question then?
BY MR. ROSEN:
Q The question is, so is it your testimony that your opinion formed in this case had nothing to do with that there was -- you saw no evidence of any aggression or violence or throwing of fire extinguishers or trying to hit people in the records and transcripts that you reviewed?
MR. GILLISPIE: Object to form.
THE WITNESS: Okay. Do I still answer?
BY MR. ROSEN:
Q Yeah.
A Okay.

So, no, actually, my medical opinion has absolutely nothing to do with his personal -- whether he had personal aggression or not.

My interest in the forums of his medical records and IPP was much more so to his physical, any physical conditions, in regards to if he had any diet specifics that made -- would have made him more of a choking risk and -- which he didn't, and if he had any special considerations and conditions in regards to eating; [redacted]

[redacted]

Outside of that, my opinion is purely medical and scientifically driven and does not take into account whether he was a violent person or not. It has no bearing on whether he died from suffocation from choking.

Q Okay. So if he had a violent outburst at the time right before -- or at -- during this incident, is it your opinion, since you testified about restraints and I guess it's based upon your personal training of restraints -- well, let me ask it this way. Strike that question.

Are you familiar with the training on restraints and what authority there is to restrain David Cains in the Human Development Center?

A In the Human Development Center, I do not believe I read specifics on --

Q Okay.

A -- their particular protocols.
I recall them talking about it, but I don't see -- I did not see a specific protocol.
Q Okay. Fair enough. And so you base -- based upon -- you base your opinion based upon your own training on restraints; is that right?
MR. GILLISPIE: Object. Object to the form. Object to the form again. That assumes evidence not in the record.
Her -- whatever restraint training she had, as she's already said, has nothing to do with her opinion of how he died. The medical cause of his death --
MR. ROSEN: Okay.
MR. GILLISPIE: -- which is her purpose.
BY MR. ROSEN:
Q Well, I heard earlier and I think I made an objection to it, in fact I know I did, about her being -- about Dr. Brown, I'm sorry, Dr. Brown being an expert and test -- in restraint and testifying that they, that they -- you have extensive training on how it's used in your emergency rooms. Isn't that what I heard?
A Yes.
Q Okay.
A I have extensive training in chemical and physical restraint.

Q Okay. And that's the type of training that you have in your emergency room; right?

A They're not specific to institutions. They're generally state and federal laws on how restraints can be used.

Q Okay. All right. Well, are you -- so but you're not aware of what -- are you aware of what the laws are or the policies or rules regarding restraints in Human Development Centers in 2020?

A I am not.

Q Okay. Fair enough. So your opinion has nothing to do with whatever was authorized in the IPP or allowed in Arkansas in HDCs at that time?

A Correct. It is not.

Q Okay. Fine.

Now, so I want to -- I'm a little confused by your testimony, including your recap, as to -- is it your testimony that David Cain was restrained on, I think you said left side, and then put on his back and -- and on his left side, started vomiting, and then put on his back? Is that your testimony?

MR. GILLISPIE: It's --

MR. ROSEN: It's to the doctor. Not to the counsel.

MR. GILLISPIE: Well, I -- I -- my objection is, yeah, it's her testimony, but it's --

MR. ROSEN: I didn't ask that.

MR. GILLISPIE: -- everybody's testimony. He was on his left side.

MR. ROSEN: Mr. Gillispie, I didn't -- well, it's not, but -- well, that he was on his side.

MR. GILLISPIE: It absolutely is. It absolutely is.

MR. ROSEN: Mr. Gillispie, I really -- my questions are directed towards Dr. Brown and her testimony and her recollection.

MR. GILLISPIE: Well, I just want to make sure you understand the case, Rich.

MR. ROSEN: I --

MR. GILLISPIE: He was on his left side.

MR. ROSEN: I understand the case. So --

MR. GILLISPIE: Well, you seem to be confused about whether it was his right side or his left side.

MR. ROSEN: Well, no, I'm not. Okay? I'm trying to ask a question to probe a response to see what Dr. Brown knows.

MR. GILLISPIE: Okay.

BY MR. ROSEN:

Q First of all, Dr. Brown, you weren't there, were you?

A No, of course, I was not.

Q Okay. And you didn't see it. There was no picture that you saw of David Cain being restrained on the ground on that June day in 2020, is there?

A No, sir.

Q Okay. So you're getting -- you're formulating your opinions based upon the depositions and the records that you testified earlier to in your testimony; right?

A Correct.

Q Okay. Now --

A The only available forms of account of what happened, as far as I'm aware.

Q Okay.

So what I'm asking about is, we all agree that he was -- that when he was restrained, that he was on his left side, right? Correct?

A Correct.

Q Okay. And that would be a proper type of restraint to protect against vomiting. You would agree with that; correct?

MR. GILLISPIE: Object to the -- object to the form. She has already testified she doesn't know what the -- what was allowed and what wasn't allowed, as far as restraints go at this facility.

She's not researched it. She's not researched the laws in Arkansas on what's allowed and what isn't. So she's already testified that she can't -- you know, she can't say whether that type of restraint was appropriate, allowed under Arkansas law, or not.

We have a different expert for that very thing.

MR. ROSEN: I'm asking from -- let me -- let me back up and make it more simple. Okay?

BY MR. ROSEN:

Q You had said earlier on, as I recall, that it was -- that you would want somebody to be -- who is vomiting to be placed on their side and not on their back --

A Correct.

Q -- is that correct? Okay.

And we all agree that David Cains, on that day, was placed, was on his side when he started vomiting.

A Correct.

Q Okay. Fine.

Your testimony that I'm getting, going to ask you about, is I recall you saying, that he was then -- after he started vomiting, he was then at some point in time placed on his back.

A Correct.

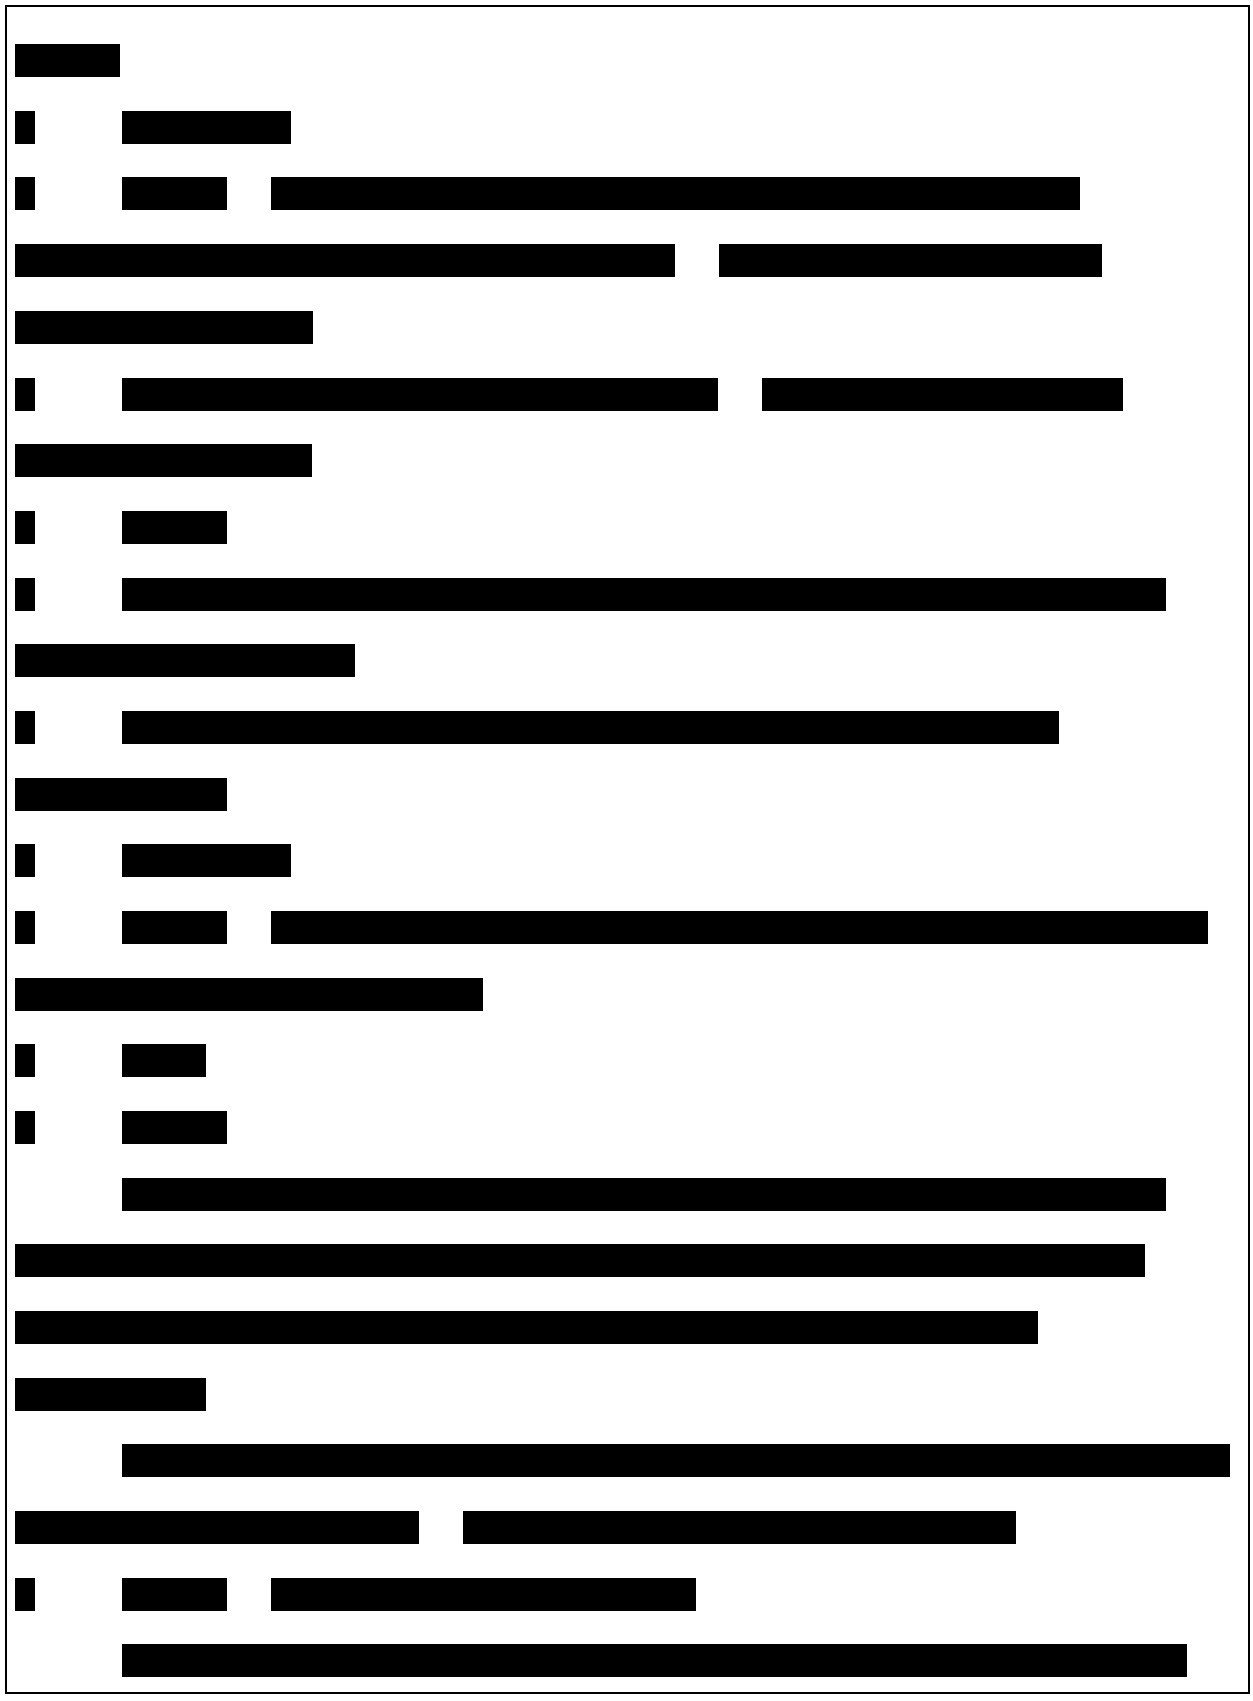
Q Okay. And that's where you have your concerns; is that right?

A One of my concerns.

Q Okay. So let's talk about this one concern. Okay?

A Uh-huh.

Q Do you know when he was placed -- when he was turned from his side to his back, after he had vomited, do you know whether he was breathing at that point in time or not?



A I only have -- I personally was not there. No, I do not know. I have what I -- what were the accounts.

Q Okay. And what accounts -- so based upon your understanding of the facts, was he breathing or not breathing when they turned him from his side to his back?

A I believe they said that he had choked and they did not think he was breathing.

Q Okay.

[redacted]

[redacted]

Q Okay.

A Typically.

Q So if he was on his left side and vomited and then they turned him on his back and did abdominal thrusts, would you conclude that they believed or had reason to believe that he was choking?

A I can't comment on what they thought. I'm sorry.

Q Well, so I mean, on your opinion, your opinion is that he was on his left side and vomited and then they turned him on his back and put pressure on his stomach and somehow, it -- that's when he choked. Is that your opinion?

A My opinion is that he choked from vomiting when he was on his left side.

[redacted]

MR. GILLISPIE: Objection. Objection. Object to the form with regards to the part of your question, the comment that said that completely unresponsive.

There was no -- there's no -- I don't believe that he was completely unresponsive at that point. But there's not been testimony that he was completely unresponsive when he was turned over; only that he was choking on his vomit.

BY MR. ROSEN:

Q Now, Doctor, I see you're looking down. Are you reading something?

A No.

Q Okay.

[redacted]

Q Oh, so you're thinking that he should have been pulled on his stomach?

A No, not on his stomach.

Q Okay. So how would you do back thrusts if he's laying down?

A Actually, the proper way to do that at that point would be to lean someone over a chair if they are unable to stand and do back thrusts.

Q But that -- so you're saying -- it's your testimony here today, as a medical expert in the emergency room resuscitation, that abdominal thrusts in the stomach to pop out an obstruction in the esophagus, in the airways, is not an appropriate procedure?

A It is not the appropriate procedure.

It is the idea that they had to try it, from what I can see. But, unfortunately, that is not the teaching.

The teaching is quite clear that laying someone on their back occludes their airway and it is never the teaching to lay them on their back --

Q Okay.

A -- unless you happen to have a device that can then remove things from the airway.

Q Taught to whom?

A To experienced resuscitation team --
Q Do you know whether it was taught at the HDC to these (inaudible) --
A I have no idea whether it was taught there or not. But I can tell you that it's not the correct approach to a choking patient.
Q Okay.
So if somebody -- and, in your opinion, what would be the correct response in a unresponsive choking patient who is laying on the ground?
A In a situation where you have no tools?
Q Yes.
A Again, you should do your best to get them up onto a chair, a chair being at their diaphragm, and doing back strikes. Or you can put them over your knees and do back strikes.
Q Okay. And what would be the purpose of that?
A To use gravity for you, not against you.
If you put them on the back, the food falls into the back of the oropharynx and blocks the trachea. If you put them facing down, they -- and have area to -- for things to fall out of their mouths -- so if you put them just on his stomach, he would just have vomited and gone to the floor and cause another mechanical obstruction.
If you put them over your knees and have a space in between and strike on the back, you're trying to dislodge something and also give it space to move from the oropharynx.

Q Would not the abdominal thrusts also be an attempt to dislodge it through -- just using through pressure?

A Well, the only problem with that is that you would dislodge it and cause it to fall right back into the oropharynx, so it --

Q Do you know whether that happened or not?

A -- dislodge -- I'm sorry?

Q You know whether that happened or not?

A I have no way of knowing whether that --

Q Okay.

A -- happened or not.

Q But you -- so -- okay.

A You asked me what the techniques are supposed to be per protocol; and that is not it.

Q Now -- hold on. I'm just looking at my notes.

A That's fine.

Q Earlier, you talked about a struggle and fight, fight and flight. And those are terms we all learned a long time ago in grade school. Okay?

A Correct.

Q And so what -- how do you know or do you -- did you form an opinion on the intensity of this, quote/unquote, struggle, unquote?

A I mean, form an opinion, I don't know if it's a direct opinion or just a typical instinctual reaction.
Your body instinctually fights as hard as it possibly can to survive when it feels that it may be dying. Regardless of your mental state, your body fights, so --
Q Are you --
A -- I would assume that it would be a very intense struggle, given your death being the alternative.
Q Well, I mean, initially, there was a behavioral incident of aggression and the aid, Mr. Mattson, attempted to restrain Mr. Cains for -- to keep him from harming himself and others. Okay? Would you agree with that?
MR. GILLISPIE: Object to -- object to the form.
MR. ROSEN: (Inaudible.)
MR. GILLISPIE: That's definitely not anywhere in the evidence.
MR. ROSEN: And I wish that Mr. Gillispie would stop testifying and try and coach the witness.
BY MR. ROSEN:
Q But I would ask, Dr. Brown, you read the -- you read the -- you read all these documents.

A Can you ask the question again?
Q This incident occurred when Mr. Cains, during a behavioral episode where Mr. Cains lunged at Tyler Mattson, and they -- Tyler Mattson put him in an emergency hold authorized by the IPP, would you agree with that statement?
A I did not see anything documented about lunging at someone.
Q Oh, you didn't? Okay.
Now, if it turns out that Mr. Cains lunged at Tyler Mattson, which is the reason for the restraint, would -- would that change your opinion?
A No.
Q Would it change your opinion if you knew that there were steps right by there and a half wall that went down to the lower level?
A I don't -- I don't see how that would change anything.
Q Okay. That's fine.
So is it your opinion from a medical expert -- well, that you're -- just to allow somebody to -- well, was Tyler Mattson supposed to allow, in your opinion, Mr. Cain to just attack him or --
MR. GILLISPIE: Object to the form. She didn't -- object.

She didn't give any opinion on any of this, Rich. So what do you cross --

MR. ROSEN: Well, she gave an opinion that --

MR. GILLISPIE: She didn't give any opinion on this.

MR. ROSEN: -- this, this was an intense struggle due to a fight or flight. And I'm asking questions about that and how she knows that. Okay? That's --

MR. GILLISPIE: She knows there was a struggle when they went to the ground.

MR. ROSEN: Okay.

MR. GILLISPIE: It was a struggle, he had to be restrained by three people. Obviously, that's --

MR. ROSEN: And, Counsel, I appreciate that. But I'm not asking you the questions. I'm asking her the questions.

I want to know what how she formed her opinions that she's giving here today and whether she had all the information that she really needed to have in order to make a valid medical opinion. So that's what I'm asking.

BY MR. ROSEN:

Q So, Doctor, when you say that this was a -- is it your opinion this was an intense struggle --

A It is.

Q -- or do you not know whether it was an intense struggle?

A I -- I would assume that it is. But, no, of course, I have no way of knowing exactly how intense it was.

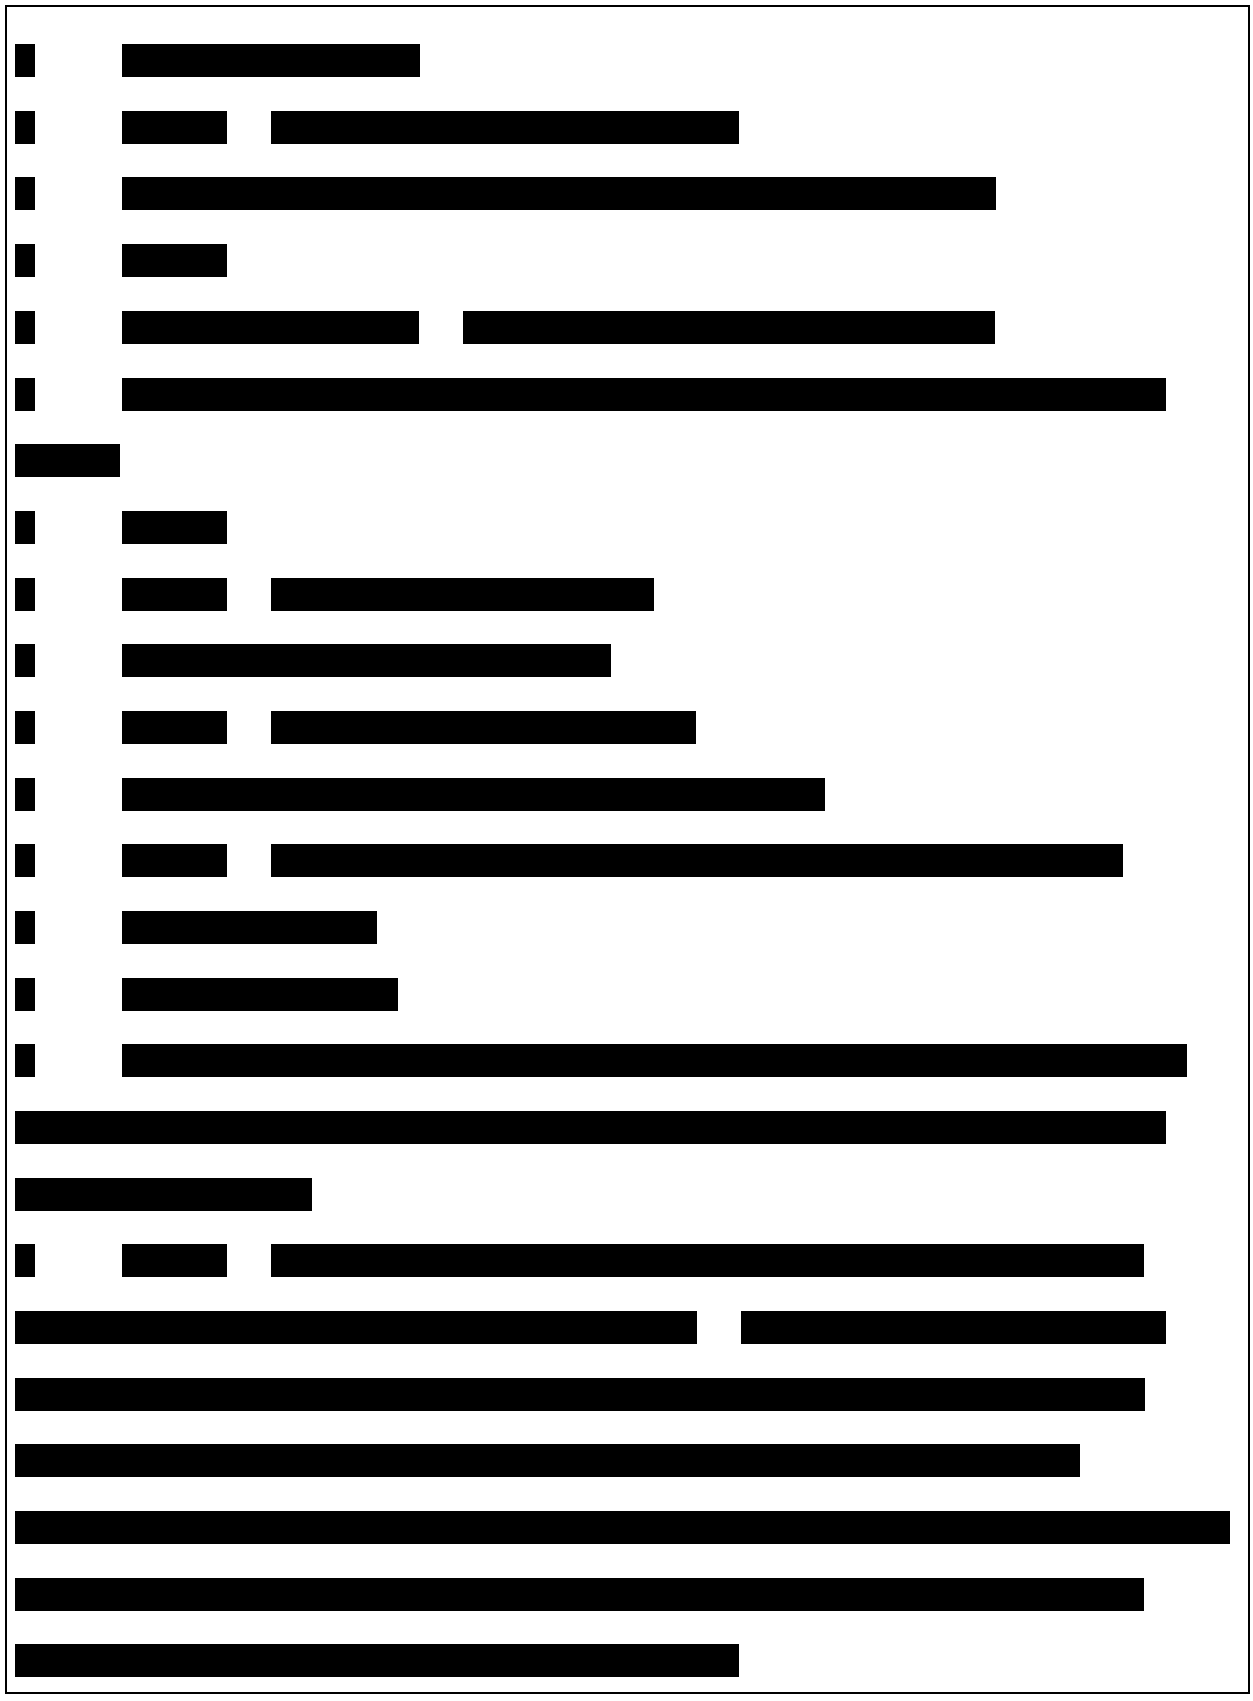
Q Okay. Well, I think that answered the question. Thank you.

Let's talk about, it's your opinion, and I saw it and it's all in the record, in the -- in the responses to interrogatory, third supplemental responses, that's kind of your opinion that we were notified of at our request to the plaintiff.

And you state, and as you stated today, that this pressure on the stomach, on the laying on the left side, caused increased pressure and caused him to vomit; which, ultimately, he choked on.



That's just a quick recap. Would you agree?

A Quick recap is, yes. There was multiple avenues of pressure that could have caused the stomach to erupt in vomit, yes.

Q Okay. Did you rule out any other causes?

A Of what?

Q Of him vomiting.
A I'm not sure exactly what type of causes you're talking about.
Q Any cause. I mean, you've reached this conclusion. Did you consider other reasons that he might have vomited?
A Absolutely.
Q What were they?
A [redacted]

Q Okay. So you don't know -- well, that's why I kind of -- I guess I'm a little -- I want to follow up on.

If somebody has a higher risk of something, that doesn't mean that -- if I have a higher risk of vomiting, it doesn't mean that I actually vomited because of [redacted] does it? I can vomit for other --

A I don't --

Q Okay. I can vomit for other reasons; correct?

A Absolutely.

Q Okay.

Now -- and that goes back to my earlier question to you about what was ruled out, if anything.

A There was no evidence suggesting any other injury had occurred.

Q Okay. Do people have a -- what if he had an upset stomach?

A I can't say. I wasn't able to ask him.

Q Okay. So you don't -- you weren't able to rule that out, were you?

A I was not able to rule out whether he had an upset stomach or not. Although he was not vomiting when he was standing, per report.

Q But you realize, a few minutes earlier, he had gone to the restroom? Did you know that?

A I'm sorry. Say it one more time.

Q Did you know, that a few minutes before this episode occurred, he had gone to the restroom?

A Yes.

Q Okay.

A That's in the record.

Q And were you able to rule out, and if so, how, his voluntary ability to vomit?

A If in this scenario if he was able to voluntary -- well, let me back up.

Tyler's description of the bathroom visit, which is only thing that we were able to go off of, states very specifically that -- that he did not hear any noises that were -- that he could say sounded like vomiting, intentionally vomiting, or otherwise.

He's heard no abnormal sounds that indicated vomiting. So I think that's the only piece of evidence we all have in regards of what happened in the bathroom.

Q Okay.

A So --

Q And that's what --

A -- there was no indication that he had an upset stomach. Only that he went to the bathroom.

Q But you -- but you didn't rule -- you weren't able to definitively rule out any of this, were you?

A No one can.

Q Okay.

A The only thing I can rule in is that a struggle often induces vomiting.

Q Okay. You don't know how intense the struggle here was?

A If you're fighting for your life, I think it's without question that it's going to be --

Q Well --

A -- an intense fight.

Q Well, I mean, so when the -- when the restraint started, there was a behavioral episode. Was he fighting for his life then?

A What he thought was a fight for his life and when it came down to that, I can't say.
Q Do you --
A But, I mean --
Q -- is it your opinion --
A -- I imagine being restrained at all would be very intense.
Q So -- but you -- you saw that it will -- well, strike that question.
Do you know -- I mean, what's your idea of how he was restrained? What do you base your opinion on?
A The reports.
Q Okay. Tell me the facts that you based your opinion on about --
A From both depositions and the OLTCs. There was Ryann at the feet, Tyler behind, and Ms. Amy at the head.
I think there was a question whether she was holding the head or the arms. I don't know if that was ever completely delineated, but that -- I know that those were the three people there. And they came in at various times --
Q Okay.
A -- and various locations.

Q And so they were just -- if they were holding his arms and his feet, what -- is it your opinion that somebody was on top of him?
A I -- no. I didn't say that either.
Q So he wasn't pinned to the floor --
A I believe that --
Q -- (inaudible)?
A -- Tyler had his hand on his waist holding him on the ground. He said he was holding him there but did not place his weight on him.
Q Okay.
A That was his description.
Q Okay. So I ask you again, is it -- did you formulate an opinion that he was, that Mr. Cain was somehow pinned to the floor?
A Hard to say. I know that he had a restraint at the shoulders, at the waist, at the either arms or head, and at the feet.
And I don't think that you can get up on the floor, if your feet are restrained --
Q And so --
A -- and your hands restrained.
Q Okay. And so I know that you have said that you do restraints in your emergency room.
A Yeah.

Q And that's to protect the individual from hurting himself, him or herself or, and for -- to protect the staff and other people in the surrounding areas; isn't that correct?
A Yes.
Q Would you have any reason to differ that that was the situation here?
A That they were restraining him for his own protection or theirs?
Q Yes.
A I -- I -- you would have to ask them. I don't know their reasons for doing things.
Q Okay.
A I do know, that in our training, the first thing to do is verbal de-escalation so that you can avoid restraints. And it does not appear that that happened.
Q It didn't appear to you that they tried to de-escalate it?
A I heard that he was given a chance to go to the bathroom and sit down.
Q And was the sit down a calming mechanism?
A I don't know.
Q As a matter of fact, the reason he sat down was to calm down, was it not?
A That might have been what it was directly --

Q So, in other words, there was a de-escalation or a calming before this outburst?
A Not what I would call the traditional, but potentially the way they thought of it, maybe.
Q Okay.
A It's not my training in de-escalation for -- to use those particular methods.
Q Now --

MR. GILLISPIE: And again, I --

MR. ROSEN: Is there an objection?

MR. GILLISPIE: I just -- that she's not giving -- she didn't -- I didn't ask her to give any expert opinions on de-escalation or physical restraints --

MR. ROSEN: Well, no --

MR. GILLISPIE: -- (inaudible) --

MR. ROSEN: -- I'm just following up -- I understand, Counsel.

But I'm following up on her fight or flight struggle opinion. And this is part of that. And she did mention about there was no de-escalation that she saw.

I'm just reminding her that there was. Okay?

BY MR. ROSEN:

Q So, Doctor -- and I don't have too much longer. Okay?

A You're fine.

Q I'm just -- your opinions here today that you have said, and I think counsel asked you, that they're based upon a, I guess your medical education and your training and your four years of experience as an emergency room doctor; is that right?

A Yes.

Q Okay. You wouldn't expect -- I mean, some of the -- I -- I saw your -- the statement in the third supplemental responses where you explained it and it was kind of -- and I think you were today, used the word today, intrathoracic pressure increased.

And the -- and you're explaining of the obstruction to the left side of the stomach, in your opinion.

I've been a lawyer for 39 years. Okay? I'm not a physician. I don't know -- I wouldn't be expected to know what you said. And that's why you're here today; is that correct?

A I'm -- I'm not sure, but --

Q Okay, let me reword it. Okay?

This increase of intrathoracic -- as a lawyer or as just a layperson, I wouldn't know what -- you wouldn't expect me to understand until you explain it or somebody else explains it, what intrathoracic pressure is, would you?

A Correct. I would not expect that you knew what that meant.
Q So your opinion about the how Mr. Cain, why he choked, the medical reason for that, you wouldn't expect me to know that, would you? Without you -- that's why we're here today; right?
A I would not to expect you to know how he died?
Q Yes.
A In the -- in medical terms, no. I would --
Q Okay.
A -- expect in medical terms.
Q Or the -- I mean, I know how it -- looking at -- we know what happened. He choked on vomit.
A Correct.
Q That's the lay version of it; right?
A Absolutely.
Q I think your -- in your opinion, the way it was laid out to me in the interrogatory answers was you're giving the reason, in your opinion, it happened.
A Yes. The physiologic response of an -- of your body.
Q And you wouldn't -- the cause, so to speak?
A Correct.

Q Okay. And you wouldn't expect me -- and again, I'm not medically trained to know that without asking you; is that right?

A Yes.

Q Okay.

Only a few more questions. Actually, I want maybe a few more -- maybe a few, few more, but not too many. And a lot of these, I've already asked you a lot of questions. I'm just going back to my notes, so --

A You're fine.

[redacted]

Q Okay. And, if the person was totally blocked and no air was going in and no air was coming out, mouth to mouth resuscitation would not be of any use, would it?

A Most likely, it would be futile, yes.

[redacted]

Q Okay. And you don't -- and that was appropriate, in your opinion; right?

A Yes.

Q And that was an attempt to save David Cains' life, was it not?

A Yes, it was. As far as I can tell.

Q And so do you -- were you -- you're aware that this is a rural community in Booneville?

A That it's a rural community?
Q That it is a rural -- well, were you aware of this was a rural, this happened in a rural community?
A No one had used that terminology, but it sounded like it.
Q Okay. And so do you -- I don't know if where you live is a rural community or not. But is it?
A Where I live is not a rural community --
Q Where you --
A -- some of where I practice is a bit rural.
Q Okay. Well, this is rural Arkansas. And Logan County is in the western part of the state.
A Uh-huh.
Q And do you have any experience in emergency responses and the timeframes in rural areas?
A I do.
Q Okay. So you know then, that while in the city, it probably takes four to six minutes for an ambulance to respond; in a rural area, it could take an hour?
A Absolutely. I have trained and practiced in multiple rural settings. And I've done EMS work as well.
Q Okay. So then you're familiar with the situation, the reality on the ground, so to speak --
A Absolutely.
Q -- in rural areas with emergency responders. Okay.

Now, I think, in this instance, you mentioned that it -- it took eight minutes before that, from your understanding, before, I guess, 9-1-1 was called; right?
A That's what I read.
Q Is that what your understanding is?
A That is my understanding.
Q Okay.
Now -- and you're aware that a call -- when this happened, when the -- when the aids, Mr. Mattson and the other people, realized that this -- something had happened and Mr. Cains had stopped breathing, that they called the medical team at the --
A Yes. That's what I read.
Q -- facility? Yes. And those were the LPNs that responded; correct?
A Correct.
Q And do you know how long it took them to respond after that call came?
A I believe they said it was one to two minutes, but I am not positive.
Q Okay. So they arrived within one to two minutes, according to your understanding. That's faster than any ambulance would be there; correct?
A Yeah.
Q Even in a city?

A Yeah.
Q Okay. And they responded and at that -- when they responded, about one to two minutes after this happened, 9-1-1 was called; correct?
A Not sure that's the exact timeline, but --
Q Okay. Well, what's your understanding of the timeline?
MR. GILLISPIE: Rich --
A I just know there was a total of eight minutes in --
MR. GILLISPIE: Rich --
A -- (inaudible) time.
MR. GILLISPIE: I'm sorry to interrupt. I just want to clarify just one brief objection.
I understand your line of questioning. I just want to clarify that nobody's conceding that it took one to two minutes for the nurses to get there or that they got there that fast.
That's what she -- that's what these -- that's what some witnesses testified to, but just I don't -- want to make that clear. Nobody's conceding that that's -- that it only took them one to two minutes to get there.
MR. ROSEN: Well, appreciate your -- your -- I understand why you are making these statements.

But this is really a question between me and Dr. Brown and what her understanding is from the records. Because she said she read all those depositions and I believe that she read all those depositions.

So I really would appreciate if Counsel would stop trying to steer the witness and let the witness just answer the question.

MR. GILLISPIE: I --

MR. ROSEN: You can ask a follow-up question if you want.

MR. GILLISPIE: And I appreciate that, Rich. And I'm not trying to -- I would rather not have to interrupt you. And I'd rather not have to object.

It's just that you're asking questions that keep assuming evidence that's not in the record or contested issues.

MR. ROSEN: There's no contested about it. There's no -- there's no --

MR. GILLISPIE: Okay.

MR. ROSEN: -- dispute about that, as far as I saw. And this is just based upon what Dr. Brown reviewed.

MR. GILLISPIE: Okay.

MR. ROSEN: Those depositions that she reviewed are undisputed. Everybody says that, including the people that -- the nurses who responded. Okay?

MR. GILLISPIE: Go ahead. Go ahead.

MR. ROSEN: So I'm asking for what you read about.

MR. GILLISPIE: Go ahead.

MR. ROSEN: It's not about whatever you want to argue, just what she read. Okay.

BY MR. ROSEN:

Q So, you read one to two minutes, I think, was your testimony; right?

A I believe so. I -- I would have to look back, but I believe I read that.

Q Okay. And so that is -- so they called the medical station and they were there within one to two minutes.

And, when they got there, you read, I'm sure -- well, do you recall that they -- somebody directed that one of the aides call 9-1-1?

A Yes, I recall that.

Q Okay. And they did right away; right?

A I don't know. I wasn't there.

Q Well, according to the records that you read --

A According to the records, it looks like two different people had -- had to call.

Q Okay. And so the call went out.
And so we know that the call went out, according to what you read, about one to two minutes after the problem happened; right?
MR. GILLISPIE: Object to the -- what -- object to the form.
A I don't --
MR. ROSEN: I don't know what form there would be --
MR. GILLISPIE: Well, you're -- one or two minutes after the problem.
MR. ROSEN: Okay.
MR. GILLISPIE: If you're talking about the problem being --
MR. ROSEN: Okay.
MR. GILLISPIE: -- the choking, it's eight minutes. We know that because --
MR. ROSEN: No, we don't know that.
MR. GILLISPIE: -- the ambulance records say eight minutes.
MR. ROSEN: Okay. Yeah.
And, Counsel, I appreciate you're trying to give the witness a hint. But I --
MR. GILLISPIE: I'm not -- you just -- you just asked if, if the ambulance was called one or two minutes after the problem started.

MR. ROSEN: Okay. And the problem being the choking.

Now, you're -- and this is -- I really would appreciate, Counsel, if you would just wait and hold your questions for the witness until later.

MR. GILLISPIE: How can I not object to that question? We all know it's --

MR. ROSEN: What's objectionable? It's not -- what you're saying is not true. That's your classification of it. And I get to ask the questions to the witness.

And -- because this witness may or may not know some facts. And, actually, this witness doesn't know the facts, only knows what she read. Okay? And I want to get her understanding of --

MR. GILLISPIE: All I would ask is --

MR. ROSEN: -- her opinion. Okay.

MR. GILLISPIE: I appreciate that. Just -- just ask it in a way that doesn't mischaracterize the evidence. That's all I ask.

MR. ROSEN: Okay. Counsel, there is no evidence -- there's your statements. And your statements are not evidence. Okay?

MR. GILLISPIE: The ambulance records, that's evidence --

MR. ROSEN: Let me --

MR. GILLISPIE: -- (inaudible) --

MR. ROSEN: We're going to need to -- Counsel, you --

MR. GILLISPIE: -- (inaudible) --

MR. ROSEN: -- can -- you can follow up with Dr. Brown all you want. Okay?

But, at this point in time, in my experience, during cross examination, I'm allowed to ask my questions. Okay?

You can make an objection. I don't even mind you making some limited speaking objections. But giving -- trying to steer the witness is inappropriate at this time, because you don't know what my follow-up questions are going to be. And it might be on that line. Okay?

BY MR. ROSEN:

Q Now, let's back up a little bit.

Dr. Brown, in an emergency room situation, which is,

I would assume, is somewhat chaotic but probably more controlled than in most emergency situations -- well, let me strike that.

In the emergency room, is there a clock on the wall?

A Yes.

Q Okay. And, often in an emergency, is there somebody documenting times and orders and events that happen in an emergency room?

A Yes.

Q Okay. When somebody has a car accident and they're injured and somebody says it happened at 12:30, do you know whether that is a total accurate a time or -- accurate time or is that often an estimated time?

A I have absolutely no idea.

Q Okay.

In your experience, when somebody said something happened at 12:30 or one o'clock, does that mean that it happened exactly at that minute?

A It is my practice to take a patient at their word --

Q Okay.

A -- for when things happen, because I don't have any evidence showing me otherwise --

Q Okay.

A -- unless there are other participants who can give me other information.

Q Okay. So then you read, in Tyler Mattson's deposition, that they didn't look at the clock; right?

A The -- I read multiple times that it was eight minutes.

Q Okay. Well, that's somebody's conclusion. And this is where I'm going at.

So, in the emergency room, when you're doing something and administrating, administering a drug or calling out an order for someone else to do something, often there's somebody documenting and looking at the clock to see -- and because I know it will say what time to the minute; right?

A Yeah.

Q In an emergency room; right?

A Correct.

Q Okay.

Now, were you aware that in the lobby of the commons building where this choking incident happened on June 13th, 2020, there was no clock?

A I did not know one way or another, no.

Q Okay. So when the call -- when somebody says the call went out at 11:30 to the medical and they said that I'm estimating because I didn't look at the clock, would you expect that to be at exactly 11:30 or would you expect it to be around 11:30?

A If they don't have an exact time that they did it, then we would have to assume it's an approximation.
Q Exactly. And particularly if they said, this is an approximation; right?
A I -- I think we're getting a little semantic in this scenario. I -- but I'm just commenting --
Q (Inaudible) --
A -- on what I read, which is --
Q Okay.
A -- eight minutes --
Q Okay.
A -- multiple times in multiple forms. That's all.
Q Yeah. But you did read that in Tyler Mattson's and everybody else that this was an approximation, because -- because there was no clock and nobody looked at the watch; right?
A Yes.
Q You recall that; right?
A Uh-huh.
Q Is that yes or no?
A Yes. Sorry.
Q Okay.
A Yes.
Q So -- but we do know that it took one to two minutes from the call to the, what we call Judge Hill, which is the nurse's station, to respond to the -- to the commons lobby where David Cains was. That took one to two minutes from that call.

MR. GILLISPIE: Object to form.

BY MR. ROSEN:

Q Do you -- would you -- that's your -- that's what you read; right?

A I -- I believe so.

Q Okay. Now, and then when -- once the nurses got there and saw what was happening, they had had one of the aides call 9-1-1. Is that your recollection?

A Called medical, yes.

Q Okay. And so then, after that, after that call, and that call was registered at 11:37, correct, according to the EMT reports? Do you recall that? And, if you don't recall, it's okay.

A Yeah. I mean, I can pull it up, but --

Q Okay.

A If I need to, but --

Q Okay.

A -- whatever the time (inaudible) --

Q Okay.

According to the reports, it was at 11:37. And we know that that call came in, that call went out rather, one to two minutes after the choking incident from the testimony of --

MR. GILLISPIE: Object to the form.

BY MR. ROSEN:

Q -- everybody else; right?

MR. GILLISPIE: Object to the form.

BY MR. ROSEN:

Q Is that what you would conclude?

A I conclude the same thing I've concluded 12 times. It's my understanding it was eight minutes from the --

Q But I --

A -- initial onset of the situation to when the phone call was made.

Q Okay.

A And how they concluded that timeline is not up to me. I just read it.

Q Okay. And, when you say from the beginning of the, of the incident, you talking from the time that he choked or from the time that the incident started?

A You would have to ask the people involved. I was not there.

Q Okay. So fair enough. Fair enough. You don't know?

A I -- I was given the information, same as you, that it took eight minutes.

Q Okay.

A That's all we can all comment on.
Q And if --
A Because none of us were there.
Q Okay. But we do know that the call went out to 9-1-1 at 11:37, because we know that from Logan County EMS, which does document times, and -- and it's all sequenced in their own system. I mean --
A Yes.
Q -- their watch in there -- you know, they know when it came in; right?
A Yeah.
Q Okay. And so it came in 11:37, and they were dispatched en route at 11:38, according to this.
Do you have any recollection of that?
A Yes. They're all -- yeah. That's generally the case of EMS. They're dispatched immediately.
Q And do you know -- and just for your -- they arrived at 11:50, according to these documents. Is that your understanding?
A Yes, it is.
Q Okay. So it took them 13 minutes to arrive at the building or to arrive -- to arrive at the building; right?
A Uh-huh.
Q Is that yes?

A Yes. Sorry.
Q And we know from the E -- and you read Mr. Scow's, if I'm pronouncing it right, the EMT's deposition, that he took one to two minutes to assess the situation before he jumped in. Do you remember that?
A I believe his terms were that he assessed while talking to them.
The -- so he started working on the patient while -- while he was assessing the situation.
Q Well, that's not -- okay. Well, is that your understanding of the timeline?
A Yes.
Q Okay. Now, if that understanding is wrong, does that do anything to your opinion?
A If my understanding is wrong on what?
Q That before he touched the patient, he waited one to two minutes.
A It -- no. It doesn't change my opinion as to how --
Q Okay.
A -- Mr. Cains died.
Q Okay. I'm not asking how he died, as to the timeline as far as what happened here.
A No.
[redacted]

[redacted]

Q Okay.

Now, was there ever a time that the EMTs, according to your understanding, and I'm not a doctor and I don't know what half of this means --

A Sure.

[redacted]

[redacted]

Q Okay. So we have, say, from the time 9-1-1 was called at 11:37 and not even go out en route until 11:38, until about -- I think they transported -- they arrived at the hospital at -- destination at 12:18.

They weren't -- it's your understanding they weren't able to clear?

A Twelve -- so -- sorry. The timeline you were saying was?

Q It looks like, according to this document, and I'm looking at the Logan EMS records -- and I'm assuming -- I think this is one of the records that you stated that you read; is that right?

A Yes.

Q Okay. And it said -- it says, at patient 11:50, I think we're all in agreement on that --

A Uh-huh.

Q Depart scene at 12:10 and -- and arrive at destination 12:18. And I'm -- would you agree with that or --

A Yes.

Q Okay. And I assume the destination is the local hospital; is that right?
A I would assume so.
Q Okay. Now, I don't know the distances, but it took eight minutes to get there in -- by ambulance.
[redacted]
Q All right. Few more questions. I know -- I promise to wrap up soon.
Oh, let me ask you this because I'm not a CPR expert. But the chest compressions, if you do -- are you supposed to do 30 sets of chest compressions three times? Is that a standard?
A It depends on how many people are working on the person.
Q Okay. So it would -- so would that be an acceptable thing to do or would that be a recommended thing to do?
A Not in the scenario they were in.
In the scenario -- if you're talking about the paramedic, they would have done continuous compressions for two minutes until pulse check.
[redacted]

[redacted]

Q Okay.

And as I didn't ask a question, did this thought come back to you or did somebody contact you versus -- and say in an instant message to tell you that?

A No one contacted me in an instant message.

Q I --

A I was thinking about the fact that I may have been making -- we may have been having difference of semantics and particularly terminology.

Q Okay.

So I just -- I just want to follow up in your opinion that you said today and in your third supplemental responses to the claimant's third supplemental responses to interrogatory that included your opinions, at least some of them that you said here today, you mentioned about laying on the left side, on your left side, and a mechanical obstruction to the stomach, which is kind of what I didn't -- I never would have known that but for you telling me that.

Is that -- is -- what does that mean?

A Let me see if -- how I can explain it. So --

Q What does the mechanical obstruction mean?

A Oh, okay. A mechanical obstruction is -- so I'm going to just show you here.

So saying my -- my fist here, this is the stomach and this is the floor on the left side --

Q Okay.

A -- you only go as far as this will allow. It's not a flexible surface.

So the mechanical obstruction would be something that you cannot pass due to mechanical physics, that this is a solid ground, you cannot move through it.

Q And you were indicating a fist and kind of the other hand was the floor and just saying that --

A Uh-huh.

Q So it's not as flexible, I guess, is what you're saying?

A Correct.

Q Okay.

A It's an inflexible --

Q Because I -- I have to say, and maybe I need to act differently, but I mean, I would think that -- I know I do.

But I would think that a lot of people, after they eat, go to their couches and kind of lounge on it and lay down on their left side and watch TV or read or play with the dog.

Are you saying that's something they should not do?

A No, I'm not saying that at all.

Q Okay.

A I'm simply commenting on a physics, that he was on the floor and that's a --

Q Okay.

A -- that is a mechanical stop to the end of the flexible surface, is the floor. That's all.

Q Okay. So but when I -- if I were to eat and lie down on the floor, there would be a mechanical obstruction on the left side of my stomach; right?

A There would be -- if you were on a couch, it'd actually be soft, so probably not. But --

Q Well, I have animals and I'm often on the floor playing --

A I'm sorry about that.

Q Okay. And so is -- I mean, I -- would I then too have a mechanical obstruction?

A I think -- I think you're misunderstanding my terms.

Q Okay.

A All I'm commenting on is that that was the end of the level, because this is the floor, this is how he was laying down.

It's not about a mechanical obstruction that could cause vomiting of -- if you were not in this scenario.

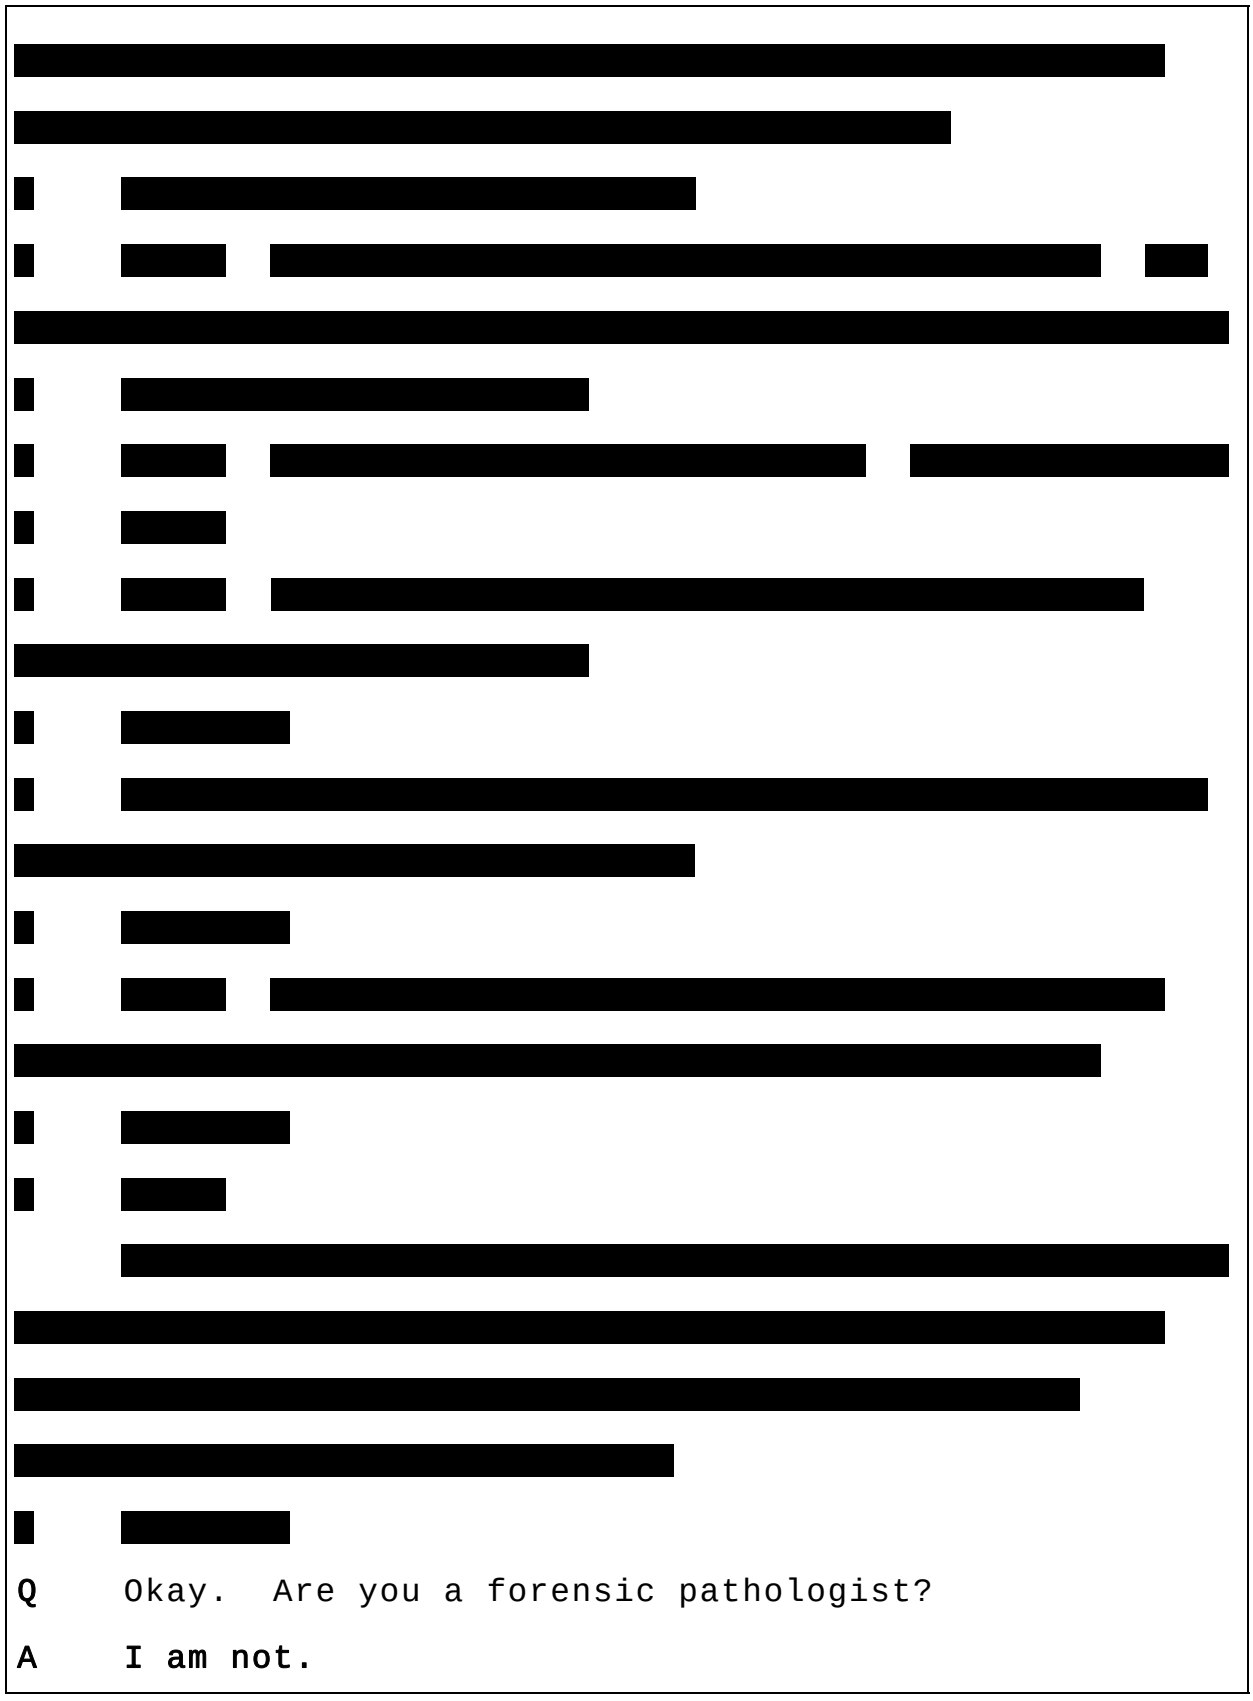
I'm talking about a box, a cube if you will, and the different areas of pressure that were being applied based on the various physical restraints of gravity, frankly.

Q Okay.

And, in your opinion, when you say that there was pressure, Tyler Mattson put pressure on Mr. Cains' stomach, you're talking about when he was doing the abdominal thrusts; is that correct?

A On both the abdominal thrusts, he did do -- put pressure there. And then also from restraint.

I mean -- but, however, he didn't -- however minimal his physical pressure was, if he was restraining him, there was at least some level of pressure coming from his arm.



Q You not being there, you don't know how what level that is; correct?

A Nope. I do not. I know that any pressure is some.

Q Almost done here.

A You're fine.

Q [redacted]

Q Okay. Are you a forensic pathologist?

A I am not.

Q Okay. And.
You didn't treat David Cain or know his condition before you were approached to testify in this case; right?
A Not at all.
Q Okay.
I think I have no other questions. Thank you.
A Thank you.
MR. GILLISPIE: Okay. Give me a couple minutes. I may not have any further questions. Give me a couple minutes, if that's all right.
MR. ROSEN: That's fine. I'm going to stretch, so --
MR. GILLISPIE: Go ahead.
MR. ROSEN: I was going to say, five minutes?
MR. GILLISPIE: Five.
MR. ROSEN: Okay. Sounds good. Thank you.
(WHEREUPON, the record was suspended momentarily and the proceedings resumed as follows, to wit.)
MR. GILLISPIE: Okay. Rich, no redirect. So thank you, Dr. Brown.
THE WITNESS: Thank you.

MR. ROSEN: All right.

Thank you, Dr. Brown.

(WHEREUPON, the proceedings were concluded in the matter at 11:45 a.m.)

Choking Hazards

NEW YORK STATE OF OPPORTUNITY. | Office for People With Developmental Disabilities

The Office for People With Developmental Disabilities (OPWDD) recognizes that individuals with developmental disabilities present a high risk for dysphagia (difficulty swallowing) which can lead to both choking and aspiration.

This online course reviews preventative measures to decrease the risk of choking and aspiration.

NEW YORK STATE OF OPPORTUNITY. | Office for People With Developmental Disabilities

COURSE EXPECTATIONS

In this course, you will review the following:

- Definitions of choking and aspiration
- Common issues that people with developmental disabilities face when eating or drinking
- Identification and reduction of hazards through observation of the person and their environment
- Interventions to reduce the risk of choking and aspiration
- Appropriate first aid responses to an incident

NEW YORK STATE OF OPPORTUNITY. | Office for People With Developmental Disabilities

DEFINITIONS

CHOKING

Choking is the blocking of the airway by foods, liquids or foreign objects.

NEW YORK STATE OF OPPORTUNITY. | Office for People With Developmental Disabilities

DEFINITIONS

ASPIRATION

Aspiration is the inhaling of foods, liquids or foreign objects into the lungs. This is also known as "going down the wrong pipe".

NEW YORK STATE OF OPPORTUNITY. | Office for People With Developmental Disabilities

COMMON ISSUES - 1 of 3

For people with developmental disabilities, common issues exist that place a person at risk for Choking and Aspiration:

- The person has decreased muscle coordination and/or tone which is causing problems with their chewing or swallowing
- The person has difficulty holding their head up or sitting up straight
- The person has impaired mobility which leaves them unable to properly position themselves for adequate swallowing

NEW YORK STATE OF OPPORTUNITY. Office for People With Developmental Disabilities

COMMON ISSUES - 2 of 3

- The person has been diagnosed with Gastroesophageal reflux disease, commonly referred to as GERD or acid reflux
- The person has dental concerns or problems
- The person takes medications that affect the muscles of the throat or mouth and cause delayed swallowing

NEW YORK STATE OF OPPORTUNITY. Office for People With Developmental Disabilities

COMMON ISSUES - 3 of 3

- The person has poor self-eating skills and is prone to food stuffing or rapid eating
- The person has difficulty swallowing anything with inappropriate fluid or food consistencies
- The person is assigned a staff team member who has not been trained in supporting people with their eating/drinking

NEW YORK STATE OF OPPORTUNITY. | Office for People With Developmental Disabilities

PREVENTION IS CRITICAL

- Some incidents are completely preventable
- Mealtime can be pleasurable for some and a difficult time for others
- If we identify problems and develop interventions early, we can ensure the health and safety of individuals and make eating and drinking a pleasant experience

NEW YORK STATE OF OPPORTUNITY. | Office for People With Developmental Disabilities

YOUR CHALLENGE!!

- The greatest error made by most treatment teams is failing to identify the source of the real eating/drinking problems
- Treatment Teams should routinely consider a wide range of potential causes
- Intervention and prevention strategies should be identified and noted in the ISP, CFA, any risk assessments and Dining Plans
  - How a person eats should be discussed during the Interdisciplinary Service Planning session, and, if risks are present, a good plan of prevention should be discussed, written down, and shared with all staff that support the individual including day program staff

OBSERVATION

Observation is the greatest incident prevention tool you have. When helping an individual eat or drink make sure your attention and focus stays on the individual.

What to observe:

- Does someone else put food or fluid into this person's mouth?
- Does this person cough or choke during or after finishing their food or beverage?
- Does food fall (or fluid drool) out of this person's mouth?

NEW YORK STATE OF OPPORTUNITY. | Office for People With Developmental Disabilities

OBSERVATION

- Does this person regularly refuse liquids?
  - Answer "yes" if, for example, they will not drink for certain staff or if they like drinks that are only thick or only thin
- Does this person regularly refuse food?
  - Answer "yes" if, for example, they will not eat for certain staff or they do not like certain consistencies

Important:
If an individual's eating or drinking pattern changes please notify the nurse or supervisor immediately

NEW YORK STATE OF OPPORTUNITY. Office for People With Developmental Disabilities

OBSERVATION

- Does this person have a medical condition such as cerebral palsy, acid reflux, difficulty swallowing or hiatal hernia?
- Does this person have chronic chest congestion, frequent pneumonia, rattling when breathing, persistent cough or does this person chronically use cough or asthma medication?
- Does this person complain of chest pain or heart burn or have small, frequent vomiting (especially after meals) or frequent or wet burping?
- Does this person eat or drink too rapidly or stuff food into their mouth that may cause choking?

NEW YORK STATE OF OPPORTUNITY. Office for People With Developmental Disabilities

OBSERVATION

- Does this person have extreme food seeking or liquid seeking behavior that may cause injury to them?
- Does this person engage in pica behavior?
  - Some persons with developmental disabilities have a condition called pica that causes them to eat non-edible items such as rubber gloves, batteries, cigarette butts, or paper. It is very important to pay close attention to the environment of the home if there is an individual with pica living there.

NEW YORK STATE OF OPPORTUNITY. | Office for People With Developmental Disabilities

INTERVENTIONS are methods to help reduce the risk of choking and aspiration

- Know the individual's written Dining Plan
- Prepare the appropriate food texture and liquid consistency per physician's order
- Only trained staff are to assist with eating
- If there are swallowing difficulties consult with a nurse or supervisor immediately
- Carefully stop the individual from eating if the person coughs, chokes, or gags
- Call for help and apply first aid, if needed, to ensure the safety of the individual

NEW YORK STATE OF OPPORTUNITY. | Office for People With Developmental Disabilities

INTERVENTIONS

- Maintain a slow pace of eating and decrease the size of bites
- Be sure individual is seated for meals and snacks in proper sitting position to encourage safe swallowing
- Do not engage in power struggles with persons that have behavioral issues when eating
- Maintain a calm environment while eating and drinking

NEW YORK STATE OF OPPORTUNITY. Office for People With Developmental Disabilities

SUPERVISION

- Supervision is critical for choking prevention
- Supervise all individuals when they are eating and/or drinking at meals, snack time, medication administration, in program or in the community:
  - movies
  - picnics
  - ball games
  - restaurants

NEW YORK STATE OF OPPORTUNITY. Office for People With Developmental Disabilities

TRAINING PROTOCOLS

- Staff should be trained in prescribed food and liquid consistencies
- If there is any possibility a person is choking, do not wait, call 911 or activate the Emergency Medical Services (EMS) and assist the individual immediately by applying choking interventions per your First Aid training
- If a person is assigned to one-to-one staffing, staff must follow the one-to-one protocol
- Staff should be trained in the Dining Plan for each individual they support

NEW YORK STATE OF OPPORTUNITY. | Office for People With Developmental Disabilities

Universal Sign for Choking

- Call for Help
- Use your first aid training
- Seek medical treatment

NEW YORK STATE OF OPPORTUNITY. | Office for People With Developmental Disabilities

COURSE REVIEW QUESTIONS

Your training is nearly complete, however, to ensure you take away the most important points you will now test your knowledge with review questions.

NEW YORK STATE OF OPPORTUNITY. | Office for People With Developmental Disabilities

QUESTION 1 of 4

1. If there is any possibility a person is choking:

- A. Call 911 or activate EMS
- B. Assist the individual immediately
- C. Wait for the individuals to ask for help
- D. Both A & B are correct
- E. None of the above

NEW YORK STATE OF OPPORTUNITY. | Office for People With Developmental Disabilities

QUESTION 2 of 4

2. Walking around while eating can increase the risk of choking.

- True
- False

NEW YORK STATE OF OPPORTUNITY. | Office for People With Developmental Disabilities

QUESTION 3 of 4

3. Any time a person with a developmental disability is eating, you should (choose all that apply):

- ☐ A. Leave the room if they ask for privacy
- ☐ B. Be sure they are seated while eating
- ☐ C. Allow them the freedom to eat how they wish
- ☐ D. Ensure that their food is cut up properly
- ☐ E. Encourage them to eat slowly

NEW YORK STATE OF OPPORTUNITY. | Office for People With Developmental Disabilities

QUESTION 4 of 4

4. If a person's eating or drinking pattern changes you should do the following:

- ○ A. Cut their food into smaller pieces
- ○ B. Offer the person additional fluids
- ○ C. Notify the nurse or supervisor immediately
- ○ D. Spoon feed the person to complete the meal

NEW YORK STATE OF OPPORTUNITY. | Office for People With Developmental Disabilities

WHEREUPON,

RHONDA HARRIS,

Having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

EXAMINATION

BY MR. GILLISPIE:

Q You are Rhonda Harris, right?

A Yes.

Q And you used to work at the Booneville Human Development Center as a residential services-prevocational trainer or teaching assistant, right?

A Yes.

Q And you would encounter David Cains from time to time or fairly regularly in the Stone building; is that right?

A Yes. We got him in the afternoons, yes.

Q Oh, okay. And how many years were you there at the same time David was there? David was there from 2007 until his death in 2020. What years did you work there? Can you hear me?

A Can you hear me?

Q Well, I think we got a connection issue for a second.

A No, it's storming at my house. Sorry.
Q Oh, okay. I'll make it real quick. What years did you work at Booneville?
A Like for the whole time I worked there or just down there at the work area?
Q Just in that work area.
A I would say probably five, six years because I worked up there ten all together, so probably between five and six roughly.
Q David probably would have been there the whole time you were there, right?
A Yes.
Q And you'd see him every day after lunch?
A Yes.
Q Because he would come to work in your building?
A Well, yes, but I wasn't always on the Stone building. There's three different buildings down there that we would work in. We would have to rotate between buildings, but the majority of the time, 80 percent of the time, yes.
Q Okay. I wanted to talk to you about a -- so if you know, as you know, this case has to do with personal restraints and I understand that in -- I believe it would have been in maybe April of 2020, there was a behavioral incident in the Stone building in the classroom that involved David Cains and you and then a man named Don Carter; is that correct?

A Yes.
Q And does April of 2020 sound about right?
A Yeah. I mean, that's been a while ago. I mean, it was -- I mean, yeah.
Q And my understanding is that during this incident, David had just gotten back from lunch. He was in a bad mood and he was kicking chairs. And then at one point, he got up and picked up one of those combination chair desk deals like children have and threw it.
A Yes.
Q Is that right?
A Yes.
Q And then it didn't hit anybody, but at that point -- it didn't hit anybody, correct?
A Correct.
Q But at that point, you intervened with -- my understanding is that you and Mr. Carter performed a successful intervention, personal hold that did not result in any sort of harm to anybody; is that correct?
A That is correct.
Q And my understanding is that you took him to the ground and then you guys restrained him on the ground for about five minutes until he calmed down.

A Yes.
Q And then you were able to -- he calmed down and y'all were able to let him up and he was fine, right?
A Yes.
Q Could you describe kind of how you guys were able to take him to the ground?
A Well, when he threw the chair, you know, we just come up and like I had him, you know, like by one arm, you know, and he was still swinging the other one, and he was like, "I'm calm, I'm calm, I'm calm," you know, I'm done. And he just like collapsed to the ground and laid -- I mean, he would lay on his belly. So he laid down and I just held his arms like by his wrists down on each side, you know, with him laying flat down and his arms was down by his waist and I would just -- you know, I restrained him by his wrists, you know, got beside him, and Don, you know, was on his knees and just like held his legs down. We let him lay there for a few minutes and he kept saying he didn't feel good, and so I told him, you know, get up, you know, we'll set you back in your chair, and we will contact the nurse, you know, to come evaluate you and check you out. And that's what happened.
Q So in this particular instance, you initiated a personal hold and then he went to the ground himself?

A Yeah. I mean, we didn't force him to the ground or nothing else. I had him by the wrist and like my hand back there on his back, you know. And when he went down, I just -- the hand that was on his shoulder, I took that hand off and grabbed his other wrist, you know, from behind him as he was, you know, on the ground. That way he couldn't flail his arms to try to hit somebody or anything. And I held his wrists while he held his -- and I want to say he held him like by the calves, you know, just like had his arm across his calves down there.

Q Don held him by the calves?

A Yeah. So that way he wouldn't flail.

Q And you told me that whenever you would have to restrain David on the ground, you would try to put him on his stomach?

A I always did. And it's knowing your clients, you know, because like I told you, you know, he could throw up, you know, I mean, on the spot. He didn't give you any warning when he was, you know, going to have a behavior either. I mean, it was a split second. But you've got to learn him. We always made sure that we put him facedown. That way, you know, if he did have any issues, you know, he was already facedown.

Q And that's specifically because he was a known vomiting threat?

A Yes. He had medical issues going on. I still to this day don't know if the nurses ever found out what exactly was wrong with him, but everybody that worked around him knew that, you know, so you always -- we always -- where I worked, you know, we had the understanding, you know, if you ever took him down, make sure he was facedown. That way if he started to, you know, vomit -- because I don't know -- at first, we thought he just was like -- you know, he could do it, you know, on his own, like just make himself throw up, but then it's become like it happened, you know, regularly, you know, where we were constantly calling the nurses, you know, or medical to have them come evaluate him because that's not normal, you know, for anybody to do. I know they'd send him for some tests and stuff, but, you know, they don't tell us what they find or anything. But just from us every day of being around him, you know, you just learn how to deal with him the best you can to keep anybody, them or yourselves or another client or somebody, from getting harmed.
Q So everybody that was accustomed to David or had been around David and knew David was aware that there was a risk of him vomiting?

A Yes.
Q I think you said at first, you know, you couldn't tell if he was doing this on purpose.
A Yeah, purposefully or not, but, you know, as time went on, you know, and it continued -- and I'm telling you it was months, you know, of this, that he was doing this. They sent him to the doctor, you know, to have tests run and stuff like that, you know, to figure out what was causing him.
Q You eventually determined that this is more likely some sort of medical thing that's going on with him?
A Yeah, because anytime he would drink red -- you know, anything with red in it, he would throw up. You know, within a little bit after that, he would be vomiting.
Q And so that's why you would be very careful to make sure he was laying facedown whenever you used a ground restraint?
A Yes, sir.
Q I assume there were other times where you had to do this where he didn't just initiate going to the ground on his own where you had to kind of gently put him on the ground, right?
A Right. Well, yeah. I mean, there's a few times of that, yeah.

Q And when you would have to --
A But there was always -- you know, there's several people that work down there, so there was always two of us, you know, and you just like -- what we normally do is you grab like -- grab up underneath their arm with your arm on their shoulder, you know, and then you just kind of go down to the ground with them. You just go to the ground. And a lot of times we would do it on their back, and then once we'd get them on their back, then we would roll him over, you know.
Q And then he would just kind of hold there until he calms down?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And Don told me that was a -- in his experience, that was the thing that seemed to work best for David, I think Don said.
A Oh, yeah, because as long as he could see you, you know, I mean, he would still be -- you know, he would be still wanting to fight, but if you would roll him over, you know, where he was facedown and he would just lay his head down for a minute, you know, it would help him, you know, on calming down.
Q Do you recall ever talking with anybody, any nurses or doctors or administrators or really anybody about the vomiting issue?

A Yeah, we talked to the nurses all the time about it.
Q What did they have to say about it? Do you recall? I take it not good?
A Yeah, not good.
Q Tell me.
A They told us for a long time, you know, that it was, you know, him purposely doing it, you know. I mean, this went on for a while before -- we just got to where we would call them every single day, you know, because, I mean, it turned into at least three, sometimes four times a week that he would throw up because we would always get him after he had just freshly ate lunch, you know. And he did not like crowds of people, you know, and that cafeteria is full and we tried for a long time, you know, to have him where he would -- you know, after he left his work area that morning, you know, to go back to his living area and eat there, you know, and then send him down to us. And they wouldn't go for that either because they said once they sent him back to the dorm, you know, then it was a fight to get him out of there to go back to work, so they didn't want to start that.
But yeah, I mean, we just got to where, you know, every afternoon we would -- you know, when he would place up there, like you can -- you know, we see them and deal with them every single day on a daily basis. And you go to one of them and tell them like something's not right and they look at you like they're crazy. Well, they're just faking it. They're just faking it. No. You know, when you see these people every single day, you know, and they like look different or they're acting different than normal, something's wrong somewhere, you know, and that is a big deal with that up there, you know, is -- I mean --

Q And the nurses just didn't take this seriously in your opinion?

A No, not at all. Not at all. And I'm sure if I was still up there, it would be the same way, but, I mean --

Q Do you happen to remember specifically which nurses you're talking about?

A No. There were so many of them, I can't recollect exactly like -- I mean, I'm trying to think off the top of my head, but . . .

Q I know there's an Amanda Schmidt, a Deborah Noah, a Kelly King, Angie Nelson. And it's okay if not. I just wondered if any of those -- you had any specific memories of any of them.

A Well, them -- I mean, them are three -- now that

[redacted]

[redacted]

[redacted]

[redacted]

[redacted]

know that he wasn't feeling good. And it become more frequent, so we just got to where we would, you know, contact the nurses. And they would say it was a behavior.

Q We kind of covered this a little bit. I want to go back into how you play into this. So you're over one of the training areas or the job areas; is that correct?

A Yes, I was.

Q What did you guys do in that job area?

A We tore books. You know, we got around recycling because we're the recycling center. We go as far as like Russellville and surrounding counties and we pick up like their textbooks when they get new ones or whatever and we let them tear books. Some of them sort. You know, we get bags of like paper, you know, where they would recycle it and we would let them sort the color from the white. And then other clients that's higher-functioning, they shred that paper and then we take the paper down and put it in a baler and we bale it up and they sell it.

Q Okay. Did you guys do that in the mornings and the afternoons or just in the afternoons?

A No. We did it morning and afternoons, but we have different clients in the mornings and different clients in the afternoons. I mean, there's a handful that we would have all day, but, you know, he went to Hamp in the mornings and then he would come to us after lunch.

Q Are you aware of him having any issues throwing up after breakfast?
A Yeah.
Q How are you aware of that? Have you seen it yourself or what's your understanding of that issue?
A Well, whenever I worked -- before I worked as the training area, I worked in direct care and I worked at the dorm at the green when he lived at the blue.
Q Okay. I'm asking did you see it yourself or did somebody tell you?
A I mean, I've seen it myself, but, you know, a lot of times if he was throwing up in the afternoons, we would contact, you know, somebody that served breakfast down there and ask them, you know, if he had issues, you know, at breakfast, you know, just to kind of compare if it was something that's been going on, if that was the second time he had thrown out, because once you throw up three times, you know, we're -- I mean, we're supposed to contact medical, you know, but we were trying to keep an eye on it, you know, to see if it was an ongoing issue or not.
Q Okay. And so when you contacted those people from the morning job, they would say that he had been throwing up?

A Some days he would. Some days he wouldn't.
Q And you previously mentioned that you tried to get him to go eat in his dorm room; is that correct? That's something you guys told him?
A Yes.
Q And they said no because once he got there, it would be really hard to get him to come back out and go to work?
A Yes, they would have a behavior, you know, trying to get him back on the van to come back to work.
Q So he didn't enjoy going to the work site?
A Sometimes he would. I mean, it varied. It depended on how he felt that day. Sometimes he was happy to go and sometimes he wasn't.
Q You also said that nurses didn't take it seriously. Do you recall that?
A Yeah, I do.
Q But you're also saying that BHDC apparently sent him to get checked out with the doctor?
A I can't hear what you're saying. You're breaking up real bad.
Q Okay. I'm saying you also testified that Booneville HDC eventually sent him to the doctors to have tests done?

A Yes, eventually. Yeah.
Q How long do you believe that took for that to happen?
A Do what?
Q How long do you believe that took for that to happen?
A Several months probably. At least two or three.
Q Thank you. I have nothing further.

FURTHER EXAMINATION

BY MR. GILLISPIE:
Q Real quick. Rhonda, the vomiting, you would mainly notice it after lunch; is that right?
A Yes. That's when I had him. That's when he would come to where we were at, you know, or we'd be in the dining room. You know, he would be sitting there eating, you know, sometimes, you know, and he would get up, you know, and they were taking him out to go to the bathroom, you know, because he was getting sick.
Q And you said that it started happening and it happened pretty regularly and kind of got worse over a period of months. Are you talking about -- would that have been 2020, the months leading up to his death?
A I'm trying to think. Yeah.
Q He died in June of 2020. I'm assuming you're memos, you know, and e-mails that goes to like my supervisor. When we come in the morning, he would have them laid out on the table, you know, and everybody has to initial it. You know, all the staff that works in that area, you know, we all had to initial at the bottom, you know, that we read, you know, the memo of what it was.

Q Those were e-mails that would come from supervisors?

A No, like medical. You know, on something like that, medical. Like Stacy would send out an e-mail, you know, to all the supervisors, you know, and then the supervisors would make sure that all their staff, you know, read it and then you initialed it at the bottom, you know, letting them know that you read it, so you were aware.

Q Do you recall there being a memo from Stacy on this issue that we're talking about?

A Yeah, I believe there was.

Q Do you have any recollection of what it might have said?

A Well, I knew, you know, with the vomiting, it was, you know, like keeping an eye on him, you know, and this and that, I believe. Then they had come out with one, you know, saying that -- where they had found out

A Well, I worked -- like Audra Delay. I don't know if you talked to her.
Q No, I haven't. The name's come up, but . . .
A Yeah, she was -- I mean, David loved her. She was his like -- he hollered all the time that was his girlfriend. He was going to marry her one day.
Q When you said we realized this was a medical issue and they need to do something about it, is Audra one of the staff members that --
A Yeah, her, Lori Franklin. I mean, everybody that worked at the Stone building.
Q Okay. All right. Well, thank you for your time today, ma'am.
A You're welcome.

Files: Site's resident died after restrained

June case preceded state's decision to review use of controls at care centers by Kat Stromquist | January 31, 2021 at 4:42 a.m.

A man who lived at an Arkansas-run center for people with developmental disabilities died last summer after three staff members restrained him, just a few months before state officials pledged to review physical restraint use at the sites.

The resident died June 13 after having a medical emergency while restrained by Booneville Human Development Center staff members, according to documents that the newspaper obtained under Arkansas' public records law.

He'd been "brought to the ground" as workers grabbed his arms and then "began holding" his legs, a report from a watchdog group to state officials said. The staff noticed he wasn't breathing "approximately one minute" after he was restrained.

The man, 42, died at a hospital about an hour after the restraint incident began, files show.

His death, not revealed in news reports until now, provides new context for the state's Division of Developmental Disabilities Services' promise in September to review the use of physical restraints and restraint devices in its five human development centers. The devices include padded boards, restraining chairs and wrist wraps.

Committees at work on the policies are scheduled to meet again Feb. 11. Thus far, the state plans to bring in a consultant to observe and interview staff members, begin more robust data tracking, add camera coverage across the facilities and take other steps, the division's director Melissa Stone said in an interview.

Stone stopped short of saying the death was a "trigger" for the review, while explaining that she did not want to downplay the event. The state was influenced by a restraint data assessment that officials undertook during pandemic lockdowns to see if the isolation affected residents.

"Those numbers were high," she said. "We need to reengage ourselves in this."

The review was made public last fall as the Arkansas Democrat-Gazette reported on an apparent pattern of harmful restraint use at two of five centers housing hundreds of people with intellectual and other disabilities. Among them were incidents at the Booneville site in 2019 that broke one resident's arm and caused another to faint when he was placed in a "choke hold," records show.

Records detailing the 42-year-old man's death last summer raise fresh questions about how Arkansas investigates restraint incidents that hurt people in the care centers. Some of those people cannot speak or walk, and many don't have family members who visit or advocate for them, current and former employees say.

In an Oct. 22 report sent to Stone, a Disability Rights Arkansas attorney and advocate described the man's death and offered what amounted to a scathing critique of the state's response. The group is a federally-designated monitor and advocate for people with disabilities.

Writing from medical records, interviews and state files, the seven-page report alleges that first responders and a physician weren't informed that the man was physically restrained, and were instead told that he "was found in the hallway" and had "choked on his lunch" before he was pronounced dead at Mercy Hospital-Booneville.

The man's mother did not learn that he was restrained by the staff until nine days after his death -- "too late for them to request an autopsy," the report said.

Stone responded to the Disability Rights Arkansas report on Nov. 13 with a three-page written proposal to form new committees to "inform restraint practices" used for human development center clients. Her response "isn't intended to argue with your report or point out discrepancies," she wrote to advocates.

In an interview this month, she said cameras in the facility -- the Booneville site had none -- would have helped make the situation "black and white" to her.

"It's very clear that a personal restraint did occur leading up to him passing away -- but I've looked at every document, I've looked at [Disability Rights Arkansas]'s report, I've looked at hospital reports. ... I've not been given any kind of documentation that says the personal restraint did, or did not, lead to the passing of that client," she said.

Disability Rights Arkansas director Tom Masseau wrote in an Oct. 23 email to Stone that the state's initial probe, which did not lead to any findings of wrongdoing by the staff, was "unacceptable." The man's death was a "tragedy that arose from a dangerous and barbaric practice and never should have occurred," he wrote.

State employees who first looked into the death were not asking "the tough questions. ... Your reports are only as good as the person conducting the investigation," he later told the newspaper.

"You want to know what events led to [a death], and what could be done to prevent it."

FOR 'SAFETY'

An ongoing investigation by the newspaper has shed light on problems at the state-run human development center sites, as well as restraint issues. Records show:

- Staff members didn't wear masks or quarantine sick residents in facilities with covid-19 outbreaks.
- Residents with the eating disorder called pica swallowed batteries and latex gloves.
- An "unsupervised" resident, prescribed a "pureed" diet, died after choking on cake.

More than 800 people live at the centers. Many have behavioral health or other health issues in addition to developmental disabilities, and facility workers say it's not unusual for clients to remain in the centers for years.

Generally, the care system for Arkansans with disabilities appears "woefully behind" other states, University of Minnesota Institute on Community Integration Director Amy Hewitt has said. She said many other states have entirely phased out their large institutions that offer "less choice and autonomy and self-determination."

The newspaper has identified the man who died after being restrained last summer, but is not naming him in this article because a family member declined to comment on the record about the incident. An attorney for the family also declined to comment.

After lunch the day he died, the man "headed to the common area kicking, yelling and biting," according to a Sept. 24 report from a state Department of Human Services committee that reviews all deaths of human development center residents. Three staff members restrained him for "safety," so he was "lying on the floor on [redacted] left side," the report said.

He suddenly started throwing up "and turning cyanotic," meaning his skin became blueish from lack of oxygen, documents show.

A report describes the man's transport via ambulance to the small hospital where he died. Committee members wrote at the time of their report that his official cause of death was "currently unknown," and determined that the "standard of care" was met by the staff.

The man's obituary describes him as a 13-year resident of the Booneville Human Development Center. He loved singing to the Monkees band, taking trips to Walmart and KFC, and participating in the Special Olympics. He graduated from a Pope County high school.

A Logan County deputy coroner listed the man's cause of death as "respiratory arrest" because of "food aspiration, cardiac arrest" in a June 13 report.

The man "was eating lunch at the Booneville Human Development Center where he lived, when some food became lodged in his throat. The Human Development Center staff tried to dislodge what was stuck but were unable to," a narrative portion of the coroner's report reads.

The coroner's report does not mention restraints.

CHANGES WEIGHED

No staff members were disciplined or terminated in the June incident because "there was no finding of inappropriate use of a personal hold/restraint" and life-saving measures were implemented, Stone said in a written statement last week.

She said she cannot "speak to or verify" what information was provided to first responders, but social services staff members who first notified the man's family have "limited information" about incidents, which could have happened just moments before.

Potential changes in investigative practices in the centers are on the table as part of the policy review.

Their eventual goal, state officials say, is to eliminate restraint use at the centers. Interim plans include modernizing outdated cameras at four centers and installing cameras at the Booneville facility for the first time, in part to deter "bad actors," Stone said.

"You can train people all day long, but you can't train people to be kind, and you can't train them to be respectful," she told a reporter. The staff should "understand that you can't hurt these people, because they can't defend themselves."

The overhaul also is likely to remove mentions of restraints as strategies in individual care plans and further train the staff to lessen reliance on restraints as a behavioral tool.

Masseau, the advocate, has worked closely with the state on the changes and said he felt encouraged by the direction of the review. One likely change will allow human development center staffs to call 911 in medical emergencies without seeking approval from administrators, shaving off crucial moments of response time.

He said "follow through" will be most important.

"There has to be a huge cultural shift," he said. "If there is buy-in from the [administrators], but it doesn't get down to staff, it's not going to do any good."

TRIED BEFORE

This is not the first time Arkansas has tried to change restraint usage in its human development centers. A plan aiming to reduce restraints is updated annually, Stone said in September.

In 2016, Disability Rights Arkansas published a report claiming "excessive" restraint use at the Booneville Human Development Center, which advocates said put residents and the staff at risk. Residents "sustained injuries ranging from scrapes and scratches to large, multiple bruises and even broken bones," the group wrote at the time.

Later that year, the state announced further training on restraint usage for staffs and banned the use of an isolation room at the Booneville facility, according to previous reports. An outside consultant also worked on that review, but did not make site visits or speak in depth with the staff, as is planned this year, Stone said.

The state's latest moves to change its practices arise as restraint use in care settings draws attention nationwide. Michigan health regulators announced a ban of several types of restraints in July after a Black teenager had a heart attack while being restrained at a Kalamazoo care center and died, reports said.

Guy Stephens, director of the Maryland-based group Alliance Against Seclusion and Restraint, says restraint use is a civil rights issue that's most likely to impact people with disabilities and people of color.

Research shows that being restrained can make behavior problems worse, he says, by triggering brain activity and trauma that make people more likely to lash out in the future.

More often than not, he added, the interventions are not being used "for life-or-death danger, but rather for situations of noncompliance, disrespect."

In July 2018, Arkansas inspectors cited the Arkadelphia facility when staff members placed two residents in restraints for "staff convenience" when the residents refused to go to work.

They were then "forcibly" taken to a job site, an Office of Long Term Care inspection report said.

Restraint events end in injuries

These are four harmful restraint incidents at Arkansas Human Development Centers of at least 10 identified by the newspaper since 2018. Inspectors said each incident could have physically or emotionally harmed residents

1. Resident's arm fractured after being twisted behind back by staff member in "inappropriate personal restraint hold." 07/31/19

2. Resident with brittle bone disease breaks arm after being "unnecessarily restrained" by staff member. 11/05/19

3. Staff member kicks resident, drags him down a hallway and straps him to restraining board. 09/12/19

4. Staff member holds a resident's wrist and arm in place to restrict him from getting off a treadmill, causing him to fall and injure his knees. 08/17/18

Introduction

The State of Arkansas operates five Human Development Centers (HDCs),[1] which are institutional facilities that provide 24-hour residential, medical, and habilitative services to individuals with developmental disabilities.[2] The five HDCs are located in Arkadelphia, Booneville, Conway, Jonesboro, and Warren. As of September 2015, 908 individuals with developmental disabilities reside in the State's HDCs.

Booneville HDC is the oldest property of the five HDCs. The facility is located in Logan County at the former site of the Arkansas Tuberculosis Sanatorium; it is a large facility on 900 acres with many buildings that are almost 100 years old.[3] Booneville HDC has 138 licensed beds for residents and has approximately 300 employees. The facility's annual budget was $16 million for Fiscal Year 2014; however, millions of additional dollars are needed to address the aging physical plant conditions at the facility.[4]

In January 2015, Disability Rights Arkansas (DRA) released a report expressing concerns regarding both the physical plant conditions and the high number of restraints at the facility.[5] DRA recommended closure of Booneville HDC due to the conditions and the excessive use of restraint at the facility. These concerns are in addition to DRA's general concern that Arkansas continues to rely on restrictive institutional care for individuals with disabilities in violation of the integration mandate of the Americans with Disabilities Act as articulated by the United States Supreme Court in Olmstead v. L.C, 527 U.S. 581 (1999),[6] while thousands of Arkansans are unable to access services that would allow them to live in their communities.[7]

There is controversy within the State about the continued existence of Booneville HDC, and there has been no movement toward closing the facility. Nevertheless, if the State continues to rely upon Booneville HDC for the care of individuals with developmental disabilities, it must take steps to ensure that the individuals who reside in the facility are free from the unnecessary use of restraint and have access to treatment that eliminates the need for restraint.

Since publication of our January 2015 report, DRA has continued to monitor and review the use of restraints at Booneville HDC. In an effort to evaluate the extent of the restraint activity, DRA reviewed all restraint reports for a sixteen month period and HDC reports, which are submitted quarterly to the Developmental Disability Services Board.[8] DRA talked with facility staff and administrators to discern not only the extent and type of restraints used in the facility but also the efforts to provide programming to reduce restraint incidents. DRA also consulted with an expert in facility practices, including reducing the use of restraint in facilities.[9]

DRA has concluded that the restraint practices at Booneville HDC are both contrary to currently recognized best practices regarding restraints and puts residents and staff at risk of physical and emotional harm. Furthermore, DRA has concluded that the restraint practices at Booneville HDC will not be eliminated without serious scrutiny and comprehensive changes within the facility.[10]

Regulations and Policies Governing Use of Restraints

Intermediate care facilities for individuals with developmental disabilities, such as Booneville HDC, must meet certain federal standards in order to receive Medicaid reimbursement.[11] The Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services regulations govern these types of facilities and provide requirements for compliance in order for those facilities to maintain their Medicaid funding. Within those regulations are specific criteria regarding the use of restraints at institutions such as Booneville HDC.

Facilities must "[e]nsure that clients are free from unnecessary drugs and physical restraints and are provided active treatment to reduce dependency on drugs and physical restraints."[12] Physical restraints are only allowed as part of an individualized program intended to result in less restrictive means of managing a specific behavior, on an emergency basis if required to protect the resident or others from injury, or as prescribed by a physician to be used during specific medical or surgical procedures, or while a medical condition exists.[13]

Written policies and procedures regarding the management of any inappropriate behaviors must be developed so that these types of interventions are done on a continuum; the least restrictive means of managing a behavior must be attempted first before resorting to more intrusive methods.[14] These policies and procedures are intended to ensure that a resident's human and civil rights are protected and that restraints are not used "for disciplinary purposes, for the convenience of staff, or as a substitute for an active treatment program."[15]

The Division of Developmental Disabilities Services (DDS) within the Arkansas Department of Human Services (DHS) has developed a policy related to behavior management that the HDCs are required to follow.[16] This policy notes that the agency's philosophy is to use positive approaches to behavior management before utilizing more restrictive approaches.[17] It also recognizes that "[e]fforts at positive programming prove to be successful with the majority of maladaptive behaviors."[18]

> "The goal is to eliminate the use of seclusion and restraint in behavioral health, as the use of seclusion and restraint creates potential physical and psychological dangers to the persons subject to the interventions, to the staff members who administer them, or those who witness the practice." [19]

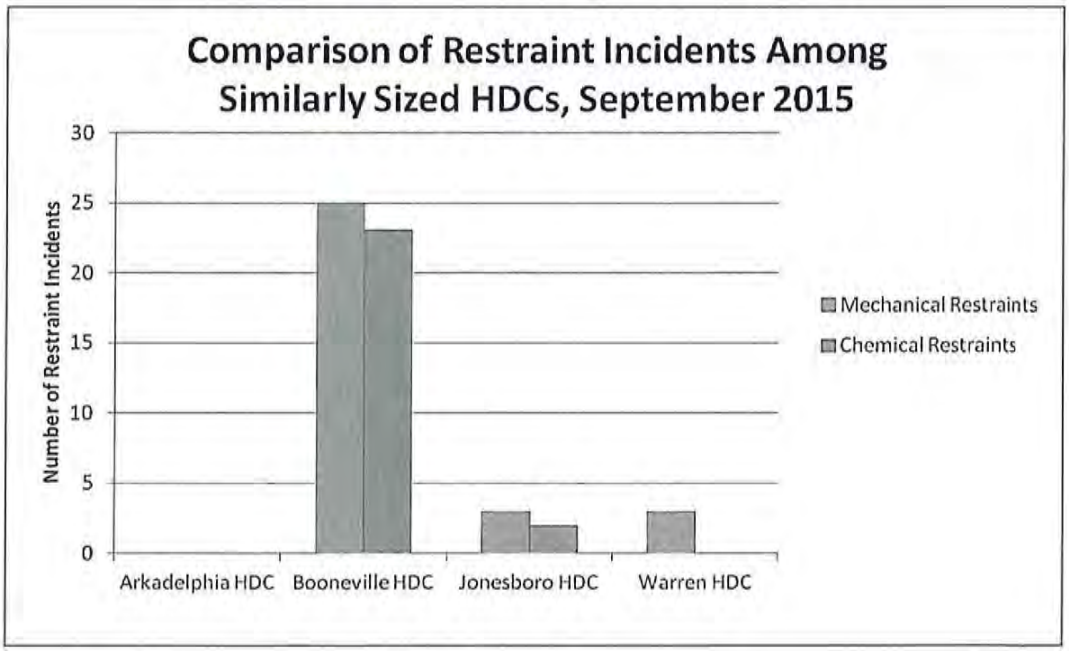
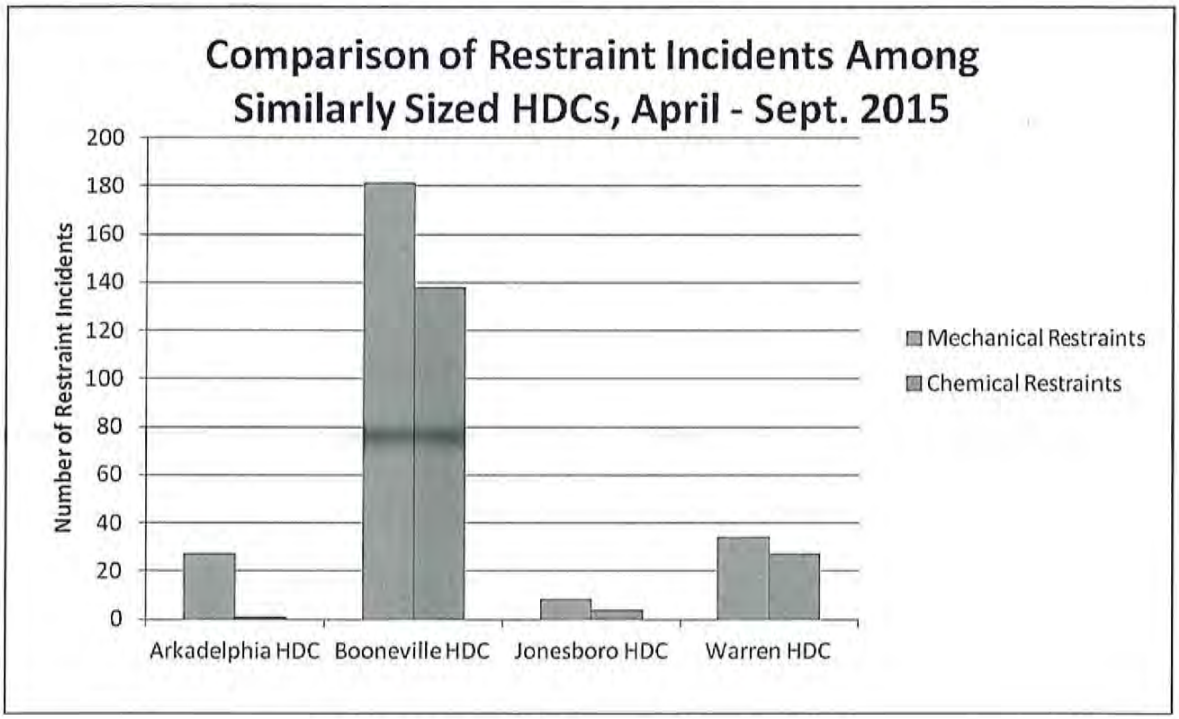
Restrictive methods, including restraints, which are used as part of an individual's behavior program, should be limited to those "individuals who repetitively engage in dangerously aggressive behavior and for whom other interventions have not been effective."[20]



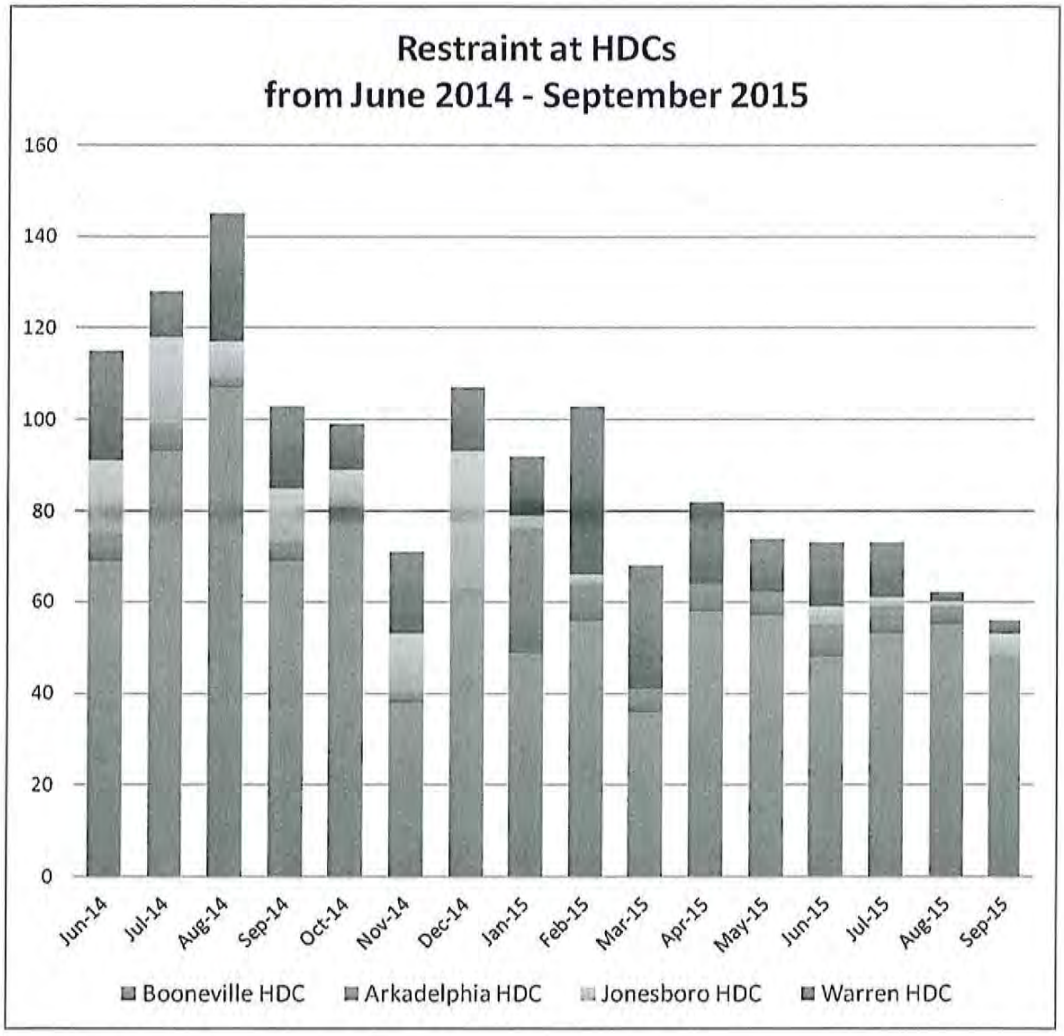
Restraints must also include documentation that other, less restrictive methods of addressing behavioral issues have previously been tried and failed. The program should be carefully reviewed and monitored by professionals and revised if the interventions are proving ineffective.[21] Regardless of how they are labeled, restraints, both personal and mechanical, should only be used to prevent personal injury or serious property damage.

Booneville HDC also has an internal policy and procedure for managing behaviors that recognizes that it is not effective to control behavior by coercion[22] and that personal or mechanical restraints for behaviors should only be used in emergency situations.[23] Emergency restraints are only to be used when a behavior is severely aggressive or destructive and never for punishment or convenience.[24] Emergency mechanical restraints are only to be used when all other means of behavior control have been exhausted and when the individual is "so aggressive that restraint is necessary to prevent imminent physical harm to themselves, others, or property."[25]



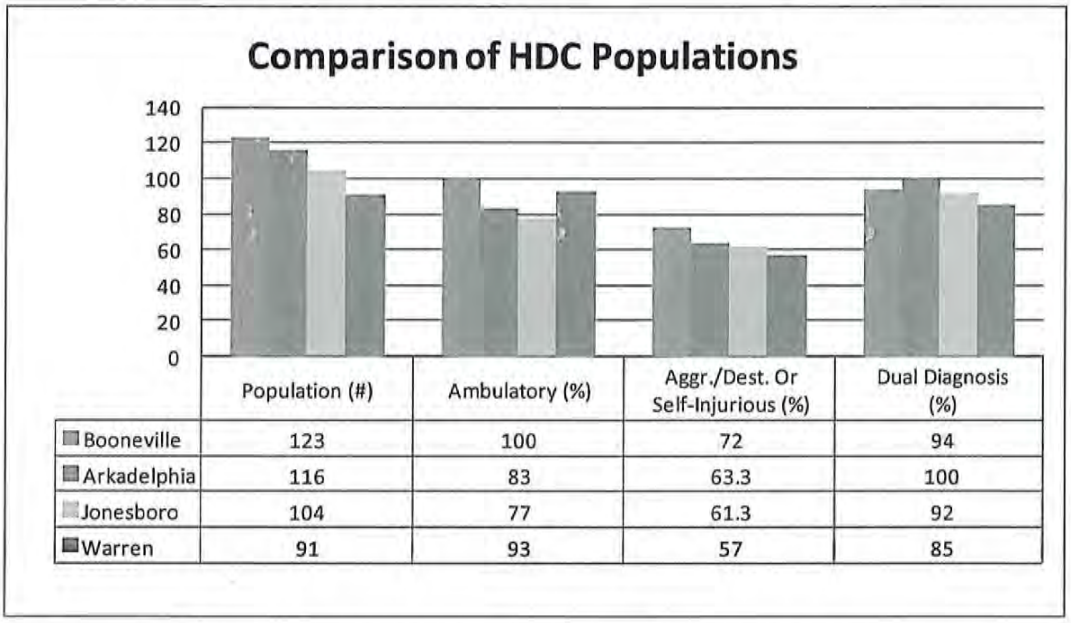
Booneville HDC Has A Significantly Higher Number of Restraints than Similar HDCs

As part of examining the use of restraint at Booneville HDC, DRA compared the frequency of restraint use at that facility with the three other similarly sized HDCs, which are in Arkadelphia, Jonesboro, and Warren.[26] Booneville HDC continues to have more restraints, in relation to population, than the other similar HDCs.[27]



In September 2015, Booneville HDC's population was 122 residents, and it reported 25 mechanical restraints and 23 chemical restraints.[28] By comparison, Arkadelphia HDC's population was 117 residents, and it reported no restraints. For further comparison, Jonesboro HDC's population was 104 residents, and it reported 3 mechanical restraints and 2 chemical restraints. Warren HDC's population was 92 residents, and it reported only 3 mechanical restraints and 0 chemical restraints.

The September 2015 results are not an anomaly. Restraint numbers reported for the preceding six months yielded the same result—Booneville HDC has consistently higher incidents of restraint when compared with other HDCs of similar size and character. From April through September 2015, Booneville HDC reported a total of 181 mechanical restraints and 138 chemical restraints. Arkadelphia HDC reported 27 mechanical restraints and 1 chemical restraint. Jonesboro HDC reported 8 mechanical restraints and 4 chemical restraints during that same reporting period. Warren reported 34 mechanical restraints and 27 chemical restraints during that same period.



Each month over a sixteen month period from June 2014 to September 2015, Booneville HDC consistently utilized more restraints than any of the other comparable HDCs combined.[29] While Booneville HDC has reduced the number of restraints occurring at the facility, the average number of restraints is still approximately twenty-five times higher than the average number of restraints at other HDCs.

Disability Rights Arkansas, Inc.
"Bound to the Past: The Excessive Use of Restraint at Booneville Human Development Center"
January 2016

As shown in the graph below, the remaining HDCs (Arkadelphia, Jonesboro, and Warren) are comparable in not just the raw number of residents but also in the percentage of residents who (1) have a dual diagnosis, (2) have been identified as exhibiting aggressive/destructive or self-injurious behavior, and (3) are ambulatory.[30]

	Population (#)	Ambulatory (%)	Aggr./Dest. Or Self-Injurious (%)	Dual Diagnosis (%)
Booneville	123	100	72	94
Arkadelphia	116	83	63.3	100
Jonesboro	104	77	61.3	92
Warren	91	93	57	85

These particular characteristics were chosen for comparison because the Department of Human Services has explained the higher number of restraints at Booneville HDC, stating: "the number of times restraints are used at Booneville tends to trend higher than other HDCs, and we believe that relates to the fact that Booneville specializes in serving only intellectually or developmental disabled, ambulatory individuals with severe behavioral challenges [. . .]"[31] Therefore, DRA compared the number of HDC residents reported to have a dual diagnosis, which means a resident has both a developmental disability and a mental health diagnosis. The HDCs have nearly even numbers of individuals with dual diagnoses.[32] In fact, according to recent reports from the HDCs, Arkadelphia HDC has the highest number of residents with a dual diagnosis among the HDCs compared.

DRA also compared the percentage of residents who have been identified as having "aggressive/destructive" or "self-injurious" behaviors according to reports from the HDCs. While Booneville HDC has a marginally higher percentage of residents who exhibit these identified behaviors, the other HDCs have a significant number of residents with these same types of behaviors.[33] This difference in the number of residents who have been identified as having "aggressive/destructive" or "self-injurious" behaviors does not justify the uncommonly high number of restraints at Booneville HDC.

Finally, DRA compared the percentage of ambulatory residents and found some difference.[34] All of the residents at Booneville HDC are ambulatory, which is necessary due to the inaccessibility of its campus for persons with mobility impairments. However, there are significant numbers of ambulatory residents at the other HDCs as well. The small disparity in the number of ambulatory residents at Booneville HDC does not explain the large discrepancy between the number of restraints at Booneville and at the other HDCs.

Restraint is Inherently Dangerous

Concern over the high number of restraints used at Booneville HDC comes from the inherent dangers associated with these types of interventions. Published studies and articles have discussed the risks associated with restraints, which can include physical injuries, significant trauma, and death.[35] Due to these recognized risks, numerous institutions across the country providing services to individuals with mental health or developmental disabilities, or training professionals to do so, have worked to eliminate the use of restraints. They have done so due to the potential for serious physical and psychological harm, both to the individual restrained and to the staff implementing the restraint.[36] Many organizations across the country have also agreed that restraint should be a last resort and used only in instances where serious injury is imminent.[37]

Booneville HDC's Restraint Incident Debriefing Form acknowledges the danger of restraints to both staff and residents, noting that the "use of restraints is proven to be dangerous for both staff and clients, with the occurrence of injuries dramatically increasing when restraint is used." However, restraints routinely occur at Booneville HDC where, based on documentation of the incident, the risk of serious injury was not imminent. As a result of restraint use, residents at Booneville HDC have sustained injuries ranging from scrapes and scratches to large, multiple bruises and even broken bones.

> "The use of physical restraints can cause harm including strangulation, loss of muscle tone, decreased bone density (with greater susceptibility for fractures), pressure ulcers, decreased mobility, depression, agitation, loss of dignity, incontinence, constipation, and in some cases, resident death." [38]

Types of Restraints at Booneville HDC

At Booneville HDC, there are five approved restraint procedures, techniques, and devices—

1. personal restraints;
2. chemical interventions;
3. protective helmets;
4. papoose board; and
5. wrist restraints.[39]

Based on our review of documents, the methods used most often are personal restraints, chemical interventions, and the papoose board. Personal restraints are procedures that limit movement by physically holding the hand or limb.[40] However, this procedure can range from a hand on the shoulder to forcing a resident to the ground and forcibly holding him or her there, sometimes with a knee in the resident's back and a forearm across the back of the resident's neck.

Chemical interventions/restraints involve the administration of a drug to restrict a resident's movement or to sedate him or her. The most commonly used chemical interventions at Booneville HDC are Ativan and Haldol.[41] Ativan is labeled as a medication to treat epileptic seizures and to sedate patients before surgery.[42] Side effects can include central nervous system depression, respiratory depression, dizziness, confusion, depression, sobbing, and delirium.[43] Meanwhile, Haldol is used to treat schizophrenia and Tourette's Disorder.[44] Its known adverse reactions or side effects include tachycardia, hypotension and hypertension, impaired liver function, anorexia, constipation, diarrhea, hypersalivation, nausea, vomiting, visual disturbances, insomnia, anxiety, agitation, depression, and "potentially irreversible, involuntary, dyskinetic movements."[45] Chemical restraints are often given in conjunction with a mechanical or personal restraint.[46]

The final method of restraint reviewed for this report is the papoose board. This "mechanical restraint" is a device that limits movement and range of motion.[47] It resembles a padded board with straps to hold a resident tightly to the board in a way that prohibits movement and completely controls a resident's body. Frequently, the term "graduated guidance" is used to describe the method of moving a resident to the papoose board and represents how a staff member must struggle with and force a resident, who does not want to be restrained, onto this restrictive device. The papoose board is used for longer periods of time than personal restraint. At least one resident has been strapped to the papoose board for six hours in a single day, while only being released for mandatory breaks every 55 minutes.

Use of Restraints at Booneville HDC

Booneville HDC's policies require that less restrictive measures be used before resorting to restraints. According to the documentation reviewed by DRA, restraints often occur when a lack of meaningful intervention by staff has led to an escalation in the resident's behavior.

Staff often use restraint when Booneville HDC's policy would dictate a less restrictive intervention. Staff document less restrictive interventions most often in the form of redirection, direction, or sanctions. Redirection routinely takes the form of simply telling an agitated or upset resident to "stop," "calm down," or "go back to work." Residents will also be told that they risk having a privilege taken away. None of these strategies actually address the needs of the resident, or the motives of the behavior, and frequently accomplish nothing but escalation of the resident's behavior.

This is concerning because some of the residents at Booneville HDC are in restraints for extended lengths of time.[48] In the fourteen month period between January 2014 and February 2015, the cumulative time residents were personally or mechanically restrained ranged anywhere from one minute to nearly four full days.[49] The average cumulative time a resident at Booneville HDC spent in either personal or mechanical restraints was over five hours for that period of time.[50]

A few examples from the period of January 2014 through February 2015 illustrate the lengths that residents have been restrained on a papoose board:

- Resident 1 was restrained every month and restrained a total of 59 hours and 17 minutes during this time frame.
- Resident 2, who also was restrained every month, was restrained a total of 64 hours and 51 minutes during this time frame.
- Resident 3 was restrained in all but one month and was restrained a total of 94 hours and 57 minutes during this time frame.
- Resident 4, who was also restrained in all but one month, was restrained a total of 84 hours and 22 minutes.

The restraint documentation also does not provide enough information regarding why a behavior escalated, or what occurred before the incident that led to the behavior. Instead, the focus is limited to the resident's actions that led to the restraint, without regard to the reason for the behavior. Resident behaviors and actions are consistently examined in a vacuum, divorced from any context or meaning, and viewed only as compliant or non-compliant. Staff involved in restraint incidents rarely document the reason for a behavior, or suggest any changes to the individual's program as a way to address the problematic behavior. This is true even in instances when a resident's behavior tends to occur in identifiable patterns, frequently taking place at the same time of day, with the same residents, or in the same location.

> "Seclusion and restraints have no therapeutic value, cause human suffering, and frequently result in severe emotional and physical harm, and even death." [51]

Disability Rights Arkansas, Inc.
"Bound to the Past: The Excessive Use of Restraint at Booneville Human Development Center"
January 2016

Example: Resident was upset that another resident was telling her what to do. Staff intervened in the situation, but they stated it was too late. Staff report that Resident was then engaging in self-injurious behavior and spitting at staff. Staff also report that Resident asked the staff to restrain her on the papoose board and give her a chemical restraint. Resident was strapped to the papoose board for 40 minutes. There was no insight regarding program changes or the motivation for the behavior other than agitation by a co-resident.

Identifying the function that a particular behavior serves is one of the most important aspects of modifying a challenging behavior. This important step is relatively nonexistent at Booneville HDC. Instead, the same residents are subjected to repeated restraints with no attempts at providing them with needed therapy and tools for them to use to adapt their behavior.

Most human behavior has meaning. Professional staff, with training to identify that meaning, should be carefully reviewing all restraint documentation and events leading up to a restraint in order to better provide direct care staff with an understanding of what the resident is seeking to communicate with a behavior. For this to occur, staff involved in the restraint must consistently document what happened prior to the escalation of the behavior so that a true understanding of the behavior can take place.

A related issue that is apparent from review of restraint documentation at Booneville HDC is that staff routinely relies on rule enforcement instead of resident engagement. When a resident does not "comply" with a rule, a restraint often follows. This is typically due to a resident's resistance to being directed to do some action that he or she does not want to do at the time. Instead of engaging with that resident to determine why there is resistance, or to find alternate avenues that allow for resident expression, staff often will try to force the resident to comply, which only escalates the situation.

Example: Resident did not want to go to his room for shift change. When staff attempted "graduated guidance" to get him to his room, he started threatening and swinging at staff. One of the staff members fell on Resident, breaking his collar bone. Resident was then strapped to the papoose board for 50 minutes. There was no indication that any staff member questioned Resident to see why he did not want to go to his room. When staff asked Resident for his input to prevent future restraints, he replied that he would like to go to either the Arkansas State Hospital or jail as opposed to staying at Booneville HDC.

In fact, non-compliance is frequently used throughout the restraint documentation as justification for why a restraint was used. Non-compliance places the blame and consequences for a behavior on the resident. The focus on non-compliance reflects an outdated philosophy that exists at Booneville HDC and likely contributes to the frequency of restraints. In many similar institutional settings across the country, non-adherence has replaced non-compliance as a best practice. Non-adherence acknowledges a resident's choice in treatment and gives information to the provider that the resident needs to be better engaged in the program.

Example: Resident was asked to take a shower due to having a bowel movement in his pants during a seizure. Resident became upset with staff after they told him several times to take a shower. He swung at a staff member and was promptly strapped to the papoose board for thirty minutes until he agreed to shower. There were no recommendations to help prevent a similar event from occurring again.

Another concern is the frequency with which Booneville HDC staff routinely restrain residents based on behaviors that they classify as "attention-seeking." Restraint documentation revealed that events leading up to a resident being restrained were often due to a resident attempting to gain the attention of staff members. When those attempts were unsuccessful, due to staff either ignoring the resident or trying to redirect their actions, the resident's behavior would escalate, and restraint would result. The use of restraints in these instances is inappropriate and would be unnecessary if staff were provided with training on best practices to enable them to better understand a resident's need for attention and how to appropriately respond to that need.

The record below is an excerpt from a Restraint Incident Debriefing Form.[52] This restraint began with the resident having displayed self-injurious behavior, leading to a personal restraint. She calmed herself enough to have breakfast and take her medications, at which point a nurse announced that she was still going to administer a chemical restraint in the form of a shot. This, according to staff, escalated the resident's behavior. Upon reflection, the staff member filling out the debriefing form recommended that the nurses be more discrete when administering chemical restraints. There is no documentation that explains why staff thought a chemical restraint was necessary after the resident was already calmed.

3. Interaction with Staff: (Was the interaction with this person and the client performed in such a way as to deescalate the situation or a factor in escalating the behavior? Was this person someone whom the client likes or not? Could a different staff person have interacted with the client and avoided the emergency restraint?) Please Describe:
[redacted] calmed [redacted] to the point of taking her meds and have breakfast. The nurse [redacted] stated. I'm still gonna give her that shot and [redacted] threw her water and went to bite herself. and fight staff.

6. Recommendations: (Are there any recommendations from the Client, the Intervention Team and/or the Restraint Leader that could help prevent a similar event from occurring again?) Please List:
Have staff not say things like the Nurse said in front of clients. Need to be descreet.

Another important issue is that documentation of a restraint requires the use of multiple forms, which, though intended to capture the entire event, often miss critical pieces required to truly understand what happened. As noted earlier, staff members tend to document the resident's behavior after it has already escalated. There is little attention given to events leading up to the escalated behavior, to effective interventions prior to the use of restraint, or to an analysis of how the restraint could have been avoided.

Furthermore, the Restraint Incident Debriefing Form is often completed or reviewed at a later date, which does not aid in identifying patterns or avenues for reducing the use of restraints for that resident. DRA's review of the restraint documentation revealed that many residents experience restraints repeatedly during the same day, week, or month. Without a prompt review and thorough discussion of the restraint, the resident is subjected to repeated instances of this dangerous, dehumanizing, and coercive intervention that could have been avoided had that review taken place.

> Example: According to a Behavior Report, Resident was restrained for threatening to kill staff and himself, and he relentlessly continued this behavior while restrained on a papoose board for one hour and thirty-five minutes; however, a Chemical Intervention Checklist for the same incident states that Resident "was calm until he heard staff talking about how he needed a shot." Yet another document, the Restraint Incident Debriefing Form, does not mention the interaction with staff that escalated Resident's behavior.

Residents in institutional settings rely on staff members for all of their basic needs. The majority of their days are spent on the same campus, in the same rooms, with the same individuals. As such, it is simply human nature to seek out attention in a variety of ways. Instead of ignoring or punishing that behavior, staff should be working with residents to better engage them in their treatment programs and in the world outside of the Booneville HDC campus.

> Example: Resident made a homemade badge and was pretending that he worked at Booneville HDC. He began telling clients what to do. When staff tried to redirect him, he punched a staff member. He was strapped to a papoose board for 35 minutes. When asked to reflect on programmatic issues that could be made to prevent the restraint, the staff member writes, "no changes could of [sic] helped this behavior." No effort was made to transfer Resident's imagined role as a staff member to a purposeful activity before resorting to restraints.

Lack of Meaningful Follow-up

Though restraints are routinely used at Booneville HDC, there is a lack of meaningful follow-up by the facility in order to identify alternative avenues of behavior management. While other institutions across the country seek to eliminate the use of restraints, Booneville HDC has shown marginal movement towards that goal. Review of documentation revealed that the same residents are repeatedly restrained without consideration of ways to avoid the use of restraint.

Booneville HDC uses a "Restraint Incident Debriefing Form" that is to be completed by staff following an emergency restraint.[53] When an incident occurs, a restraint incident leader is to conduct a debriefing session with other staff involved, as well as the resident, to pinpoint the behavior that led to restraint, environmental factors involved, antecedents to the behavior, staff actions that could have kept the situation from escalating, the resident's reaction, and any programmatic changes or resident options that could have prevented the restraint.[54]

While staff members appear to complete the debriefing forms with regularity following a restraint, the documentation frequently does not provide the information that the questions intend to target. Many times the answer is simply "none." The area designated for resident input often does not include information from the resident to better understand the resident's point of view. There is little documentation of ways the restraint could have been avoided.

In addition, staff routinely place the blame for the use of restraints on the resident's "bad behavior," without regard to how the staff's own actions may have contributed to the escalation. Though there is an area that allows staff to put recommendations as to how to avoid restraints in the future, staff members rarely have suggestions. A review of the debriefing forms reveals that direct care staff members involved in administering the restraints do not see any other options and just accept restraint activity as a necessity. This reflects a culture at Booneville HDC where overuse of restraint is the norm.

Lack of Meaningful Oversight

Booneville HDC does have a Human Rights Committee (Committee) that is intended to protect the rights of Booneville HDC residents. The Committee, which is required and established by both the Division of Developmental Disabilities Services and Booneville HDC policies, is tasked with a number of functions, one of which is to review the restraint activity at Booneville HDC.[55] However, the Committee rarely, if ever, questions the use of restraint. The meeting minutes reflect that the Committee routinely approves the use of restraints, even for those residents who are repeatedly restrained during a review period, with no discussion documented as to ways to prevent those restraints in the future. Though the same residents often are included in the review month after month, there appears to be no effort by the Committee to question the course of action or to reduce the use of restraints. Instead, there appears to be acceptance, facility-wide and by the Committee, that the use of restraints is the status quo.

Conclusion

According to the data collected and maintained by Booneville HDC and the State, residents at Booneville live in an environment in which restraint is used excessively, far more frequently than at the Arkadelphia, Jonesboro, or Warren HDCs. Booneville HDC fails to ensure that staff utilize effective tools to de-escalate situations, leading to the use of restraints when other interventions, if implemented sooner, could eliminate the need for restraint. The Department of Human Services and its Division of Developmental Disabilities Services has failed to provide the oversight and training to ensure that residents at Booneville HDC are not subjected to unnecessary and excessive restraints. Residents and staff have already been injured due to the current restraint practice at Booneville HDC.[56]

All HDC residents are entitled to live in an environment in which restraints are used as a last resort after other interventions have failed. The residents at Booneville HDC have a right to be treated with dignity and respect, to not be subjected to unnecessary and harmful restraint, and to receive active treatment based on evidence-based best practices. DRA urges the State to take immediate action to address the culture at Booneville HDC and to instruct Booneville HDC to stop this inherently dangerous practice. The individuals with disabilities residing at Booneville HDC deserve better.

Recommendations

DRA recommends that the State take the following steps to ensure that residents at Booneville HDC are protected from excessive and unnecessary restraint:

1. The Arkansas Department of Human Services and its Division of Developmental Disabilities Services should retain an independent expert with expertise in working with facilities to develop and implement current evidence-based best practices at Booneville HDC to significantly reduce and/or eliminate the use of restraint at the facility.

2. The Arkansas Department of Human Services and its Division of Developmental Disabilities Services should provide and require participation of Booneville HDC's senior administrative, clinical, and direct care staff in comprehensive training on person-centered and trauma-informed, recovery-oriented, evidence-based services and supports.

3. The Arkansas Department of Human Services, its Division of Developmental Disabilities Services, and Booneville HDC's senior administrative and clinical staff should be required to develop a strategic plan to transform this institution to one that adopts current, best practice philosophy, vision, and values. This plan should be updated monthly and reviewed quarterly by the state office or an external entity.

4. The Arkansas Department of Human Services, its Division of Developmental Disabilities Services, and Booneville HDC should ensure that all facility staff immediately receive extensive training and are intensively monitored to ensure that evidence-based best practices are used to avoid escalation of behaviors and the use of restraint. DRA recently learned that Booneville HDC has begun training some facility staff on Nonviolent Crisis Intervention Training. Nevertheless, the number of restraints a Booneville HDC are still much higher than at the other HDCs.

5. The Arkansas Department of Human Services and its Division of Developmental Disabilities Services should ensure that the use of restraint at Booneville HDC is regularly monitored, including careful evaluation and scrutiny of the reasons staff utilized restraint, alternatives to restraint, and follow-up actions in response to restraint. This includes requiring that clinical and senior administrative staff be more involved in the day-to-day activities of residents to ensure that individualized treatment or behavior plans are effective and that adequate active treatment is provided.

6. The Arkansas Department of Human Services and its Division of Developmental Disabilities Services should ensure that residents of Booneville HDC have access to active treatment, including the provision of mental health and other treatment that supports residents in addressing their challenging behaviors in ways that do not include coercion or punishment.

7. The Arkansas Department of Human Services and its Division of Developmental Disabilities Services should ban the use of the papoose board as a form of restraint at Booneville HDC and other HDCs.

It is caused by mental retardation or a closely related condition; cerebral palsy; epilepsy; autism; or dyslexia (difficulty learning to read and spell) resulting from cerebral palsy, epilepsy, or autism. The Court decision "that unjustified institutional isolation of persons with disabilities is a form of discrimination reflects two evident judgments. [8] The Developmental Disabilities Services Board (DDS Board) is charged with the oversight of the services provided to Arkansans with developmental disabilities. Arkansas Act 348 of 1985 reorganized DHS, placing the Division of Developmental Disabilities Services (DDS) under its authority, and designated control and administration of the HDCs under the management and direction of the DDS Board. The mission of DDS and the DDS Board includes a commitment to the positive management of challenging behaviors, and protection of the constitutional rights of individuals with disabilities, and their rights to personal dignity, respect and freedom from harm.

DRA's conclusions are intended to address the shortcomings in the State's provision of active treatment and safe care to HDC residents and to encourage the State to take the necessary steps to change the culture at the facility by reducing and eliminating the use of restraint.

Booneville Human Development Center
RESTRAINT INCIDENT DEBRIEFING FORM
To be completed and turned in with the Restraint Log

The Booneville Human Development Center is dedicated to the reduction of restraint use at the facility. The use of restraints is proven to be dangerous for both staff and clients, with the occurrence of injuries dramatically increasing when restraint is used. All efforts must be made to deescalate behavioral situations so that they do not result in restraint. All restraint at the facility is to be for emergency use only (even when part of a behavior treatment program), when a very real risk of personal injury or severe property damage is imminent.

INCIDENT:
On [redacted] [redacted] was placed in mechanical restraint
Date Client name
as documented on the attached Restraint Log. The reason that the use of restraint was necessary because (describe the behavior):
[redacted] was calm enough to get her meds and then have breakfast. The nurse stated she was still gonna give her the shot and [redacted] threw her water and went to hit herself and fight staff

III. Event Analysis:
The following may be contributing factors to this restraint incident:

1. Physical Environment: (Where did the incident occur, were their anything in the physical environment that may have been a factor in the incident?) Please Explain:
In med pass area

2. Interaction with Peers: (Was another person's interaction with the client a factor in the client requiring restraint?) Please Describe:

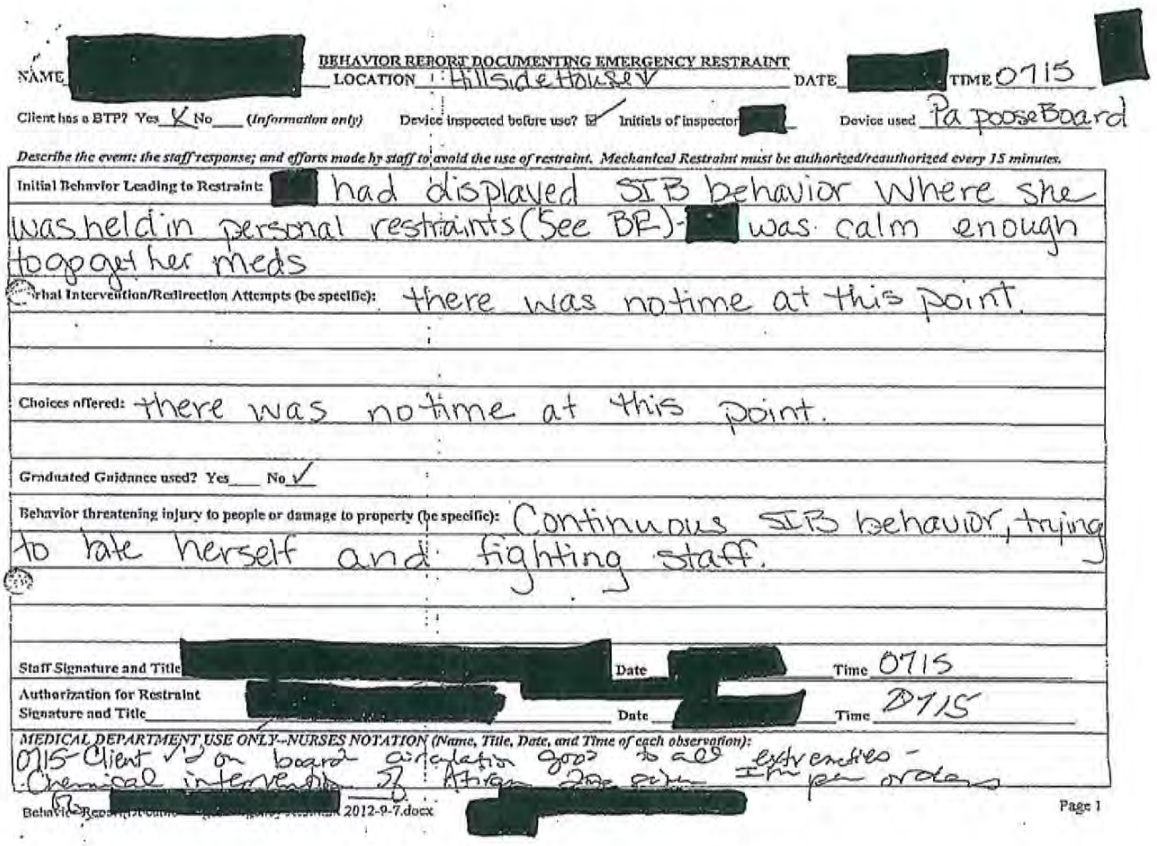
RESTRAINT INCIDENT DEBRIEFING FORM
To be completed and turned in with the Restraint Log

3. Interaction with Staff: (Was the interaction with this person and the client performed in such a way as to deescalate the situation or a factor in escalating the behavior? Was this person someone whom the client likes or not? Could a different staff person have interacted with the client and avoided the emergency restraint?) Please Describe:
We calmed [redacted] to the point of taking her meds and have breakfast. The nurse [redacted] stated I'm still gonna give her that shot and [redacted] threw her water and went to bite herself. and fight staff.

4. Programmatic Issues: (Were there any programming issues involved in the incident, such as requests to perform assigned tasks such a laundry, room maintenance, going to class, bathing, etc. involved in the incident? Could any programmatic changes be made to prevent similar incidents such as doing laundry at a different time or day, etc?) Please Describe:
None



5. Client Input: (Actively seek information from the client as to what could be done to prevent such an incident in the future. Did the client feel that staff overreacted in the incident or did they feel the restraint was justified?) Please Describe:
She ignored staff

6. Recommendations: (Are there any recommendations from the Client, the Intervention Team and/or the Restraint Leader that could help prevent a similar event from occurring again?) Please List:
Have staff not say things like the Nurse said in front of clients. Needs to be descreet.

WHEREUPON,

VIDEOGRAPHER: We are on the audio and video record. Today is November 4th, 2022, the time is approximately 10:01 a.m. This is the videotaped deposition of Charlene Robinson in the case of Christine McAuliffe versus the Arkansas Department of Human Services. Case number is 220374 in the Claims Commission of the State of Arkansas. My name is Randy Schoening, I'm a videographer from Little Rock, Arkansas.

Will counsel please introduce themselves for the record?

MR. GILLISPIE: Josh Gillispie for Claimant.

MR. ROSEN: Rich Rosen for the Department of Human Services.

VIDEOGRAPHER: Will the witness please be sworn?

(WHEREUPON, the witness was duly sworn.)

COURT REPORTER: She's sworn.

VIDEOGRAPHER: You may proceed.

MR. ROSEN: Thank you.

WHEREUPON,

CHARLENE ROBINSON,

having been called for examination, and having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. ROSEN:

Q Good morning, Ms. Robinson. My name is Rich Rosen.

A Good morning.

Q And I'm the attorney with the Arkansas Department of Human Services, and I'm going to be asking you questions this morning.

A Uh-huh. (Indicated yes.)

Q Your counsel might -- or, excuse me, Mr. Gillispie may be asking some questions, as well. I'm going to -- when I ask you a question, I'm going to assume, if you answer it, that you understood the question.

A Uh-huh. (Indicated yes.)

Q And if you don't understand it or you need me to repeat it, just let me know and I'll be happy to do so.

A Okay.

Q If for some reason you need to take a break, as long as a question is not pending, just let me know.

A Okay.

Q Okay? All right. I'm going to start out with some preliminary things, such as, if you could kindly please state your name.

A Charlene Robinson.

Q Okay. And you're going to have to speak up.

A Okay.

Q There's a lot of microphones here and the transcript, but still we're wanting to make sure that we accurately transcribe your testimony.

A Okay.

Q And in doing that, and since we're all present here, a lot of times in communications we nod heads or say "uh-huh". On the record we have to say "yes/no".

A Right.

Q Because we take visual cues and stop, but it doesn't come out on the transcript.

A Right.

Q So, we're going to have -- I might interrupt you and say, "Is that a 'yes' or a 'no'" --

A Okay.

Q -- when you kind of nod your head. Okay?

A Okay.

Q All right. Can you -- Ms. Robinson, can you please state your address?

A I live in [redacted] My physical address is [redacted]

Arkansas.
Q Okay. And how long have you lived at that address?
A 23 and a half years.
Q Okay. And where did you live before that?
A I lived in -- I've lived nowhere but [redacted] since 1970.
Q Okay. So, you all -- you lived in that area?
A Yes.
Q Okay. Now, did you live in that house -- and your relationship to David Cains is what?
A I'm his mother.
Q Okay. And did you live in that house when David Cains was born?
A No.
Q Okay. Where did you live?
A We lived at [redacted]
Q In [redacted]
A [redacted] yes.
Q And when was David born?
A He was born [redacted]
Q And did there come a time -- and how long did you live there with him in that residence?
A In that residence? We moved, he was about three months old.
Q Okay. To another --

A We bought a home.
Q In [redacted]
A Yes.
Q And who lived with him there in the new home?
A In the new home? His father and I.
Q Okay. Was David the oldest child?
A Yes.
Q Did there come a point in time when you had other children?
A Yes.
Q Who?
A Chrissie, Christine.
Q And Christine --
A Was born [redacted]
Q So, she's three years younger, approximately?
A Yes.
Q And Christine is now known as -- what's her current name?
A If I can say it, McAuliffe.
Q Okay. Christine McAuliffe?
A Yes.
Q And did she live in the house with you and David and your husband?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And how long did you live in that house?

A The new house? I lived there from 1977 to 1984.
Q Okay. And who lived there with you?
A Well, part of the time it was my husband and my two children. Then, after, from 1982 on, it was my two children.
Q Okay. So, your husband moved out?
A Yes.
Q And I understand -- did you get divorced?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And what year was that?
A 1982.
Q In 1982. So, did David -- where did David live?
A He lived with me.
Q Okay. Did he go visit his father, did he ever live in his father's house, as well?
A He stayed with his father, yes. He lived with his father. We were -- everything was, you know, nice. We played nice.
Q Well, what I'm asking, so, were you the primary custodian or was your --
A We were -- it was dual.
Q Joint?
A Joint --
Q Okay.
A -- custody.

Q I got you. Okay. So, they would live at your house about half the time and live at his -- at their father's house about half the time?
A Approximately. But, I mean, he didn't live like the first six months and then go the last six months, no. He might -- they might stay there for a week or two or, you know, if I went out of town, of course, then he took care of them.
Q And --I'm sorry. So, that was in about 1982 starting, did you say?
A Starting in 1982.
Q Okay. And so, David would have been approximately five years old or so?
A Yeah, almost.
Q Do you have any other children?
A No.
Q Okay. And so, then, there came -- and you lived in that house until when, approximately?
A Until 1984.
Q Oh. Till '84?
A Yes.
Q And then, where did you live?
A I moved into a rental home for three months, and then I moved into an apartment for seven years.
Q Okay. Until about when?

A I moved into the apartment in 19 -- in November of 1984 -- no, I'm sorry. That was September of 1984, I moved out and then November, the seven.
Q When?
A Of '84.
Q Of '84. Okay. So, after that, where did you live?
A I moved into an apartment in [redacted]
Q Okay.
A And I lived there for seven years.
Q Okay. So, you moved into that apartment in about 1984?
A Yes, that first one.
Q Okay. And how long -- and you lived there seven years?
A Yes.
Q So, that would be until about '91?
A '91, yes.
Q All right. And so, during that seven-year period who lived there with you?
A My two children.
Q Okay. That would be David and Christine?
A David and Chrissie.
Q Did you say Chrissie?
A Yes.
Q Okay.

A Well, that's what we call her. Her name is Christine.
Q Okay. I've got it. I'll probably refer to her as Christine.
A That's fine.
Q And so -- and did this joint arrangement with your former husband at this point in time continue throughout that period?
A Yes.
Q Okay. So, David would spend -- it was basically kind of a shared type of residence?
A Yes.
Q A couple weeks over at one, a couple weeks over at the other?
A In the summer. And like I said, it wasn't necessarily two weeks in a row, but they might spend the whole weekend, or maybe in the summer they might spend a whole week.
Q Okay.
A I mean, he took them on trips once in a while.
Q Okay. And did David go to school?
A Yes.
Q Where did he go to school?
A He began his school in Friendship.
Q What's Friendship?

A Friendship is a school for the developmentally delayed.
Q Okay.
A He was there, and then they moved him to middle school, a regular middle school but a self-contained classroom, and then he went --
Q And what does that mean?
A It means that he didn't go anywhere. They were right there, they taught him everything, especially in his case. Whatever he was going to learn he learned. I mean, he learned how to write. He didn't learn how to read, he couldn't do that. But they would teach him life skills.
Q Okay. So, when you say "self-contained", he didn't move around from class to class?
A No. He went to lunch, you know, obviously, in the cafeteria with everybody else. But as far as going to other classes, no.
Q And so, Friendship was a school for the developmentally delayed?
A Yes.
Q And so, he started that in, what, first grade?
A He was -- no. He started going there when he was four years old.
Q Okay.

A Sort of a pre-school.
Q Okay. And so, he had been diagnosed early on?
A Yes.
Q Is that correct?
A (Indicated yes.)
Q You're going to have to say "yes".
A Yes.
Q Or "no".
A No, be was diagnosed early on.

MR. GILLISPIE: That's because they have to make a record.

THE WITNESS: Right.

MR. GILLISPIE: So, I like to do that as a reminder.

BY MR. ROSEN:
Q And sometimes I might think that you paused and I'll start talking, and this lady will -- she needs to get it down. So, okay. And so, what types of -- was he -- and he was in the school in a class with other children?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And he was in there until about what age?
A He was all in a classroom situation, he might have went to a different school because the elementary, they only had one self-contained classroom. But he actually graduated -- you could say that he ended his schooling career when he was 17.

Q Okay. And what year was that, approximately?
A He was 17 in 1994.
Q Okay. And so, during this time when he was, you would say in preschool, in that self-contained school was Friendship, I think you mentioned?
A Yeah, that was one of them.
Q Okay. Oh, so, there were other schools?
A Well, yes. He went to Sequoia Elementary -- no, he didn't, he went to Center Valley.
Q I see.
A One of the elementary schools.
Q Was he mainstreamed or was he in special classes?
A No. It was special classes.
Q But it just happened to be in that school?
A Right.
Q Public school?
A Yes.
Q I got it. Okay.
A He never went to anywhere but a public school after he left Friendship.
Q All right. And so, during the time that he was a child, and I guess living in your home, were there any behaviors that you had noticed about him?
A Just your normal, maybe a little temper tantrum every now and then, but nothing that wasn't ordinary for a child his age, you know.

Q Okay. Give me an example of a temper tantrum.

A He would just lay on the floor sometimes and kick, you know, his arms and legs, and (indicating), he would holler. So, I would redirect him. In fact, I got on the floor with him and did the same thing, and he looked at me like I was nuts. Guess what, it stopped. I mean, you know, it's like if you can't win, join them. But it did help that I got down, I guess, to his level.

[redacted]

Q Oh, they don't do it that early?

A No, they didn't then, because he wasn't even -- at that point in time, he wasn't attending any type of school.

Q Okay. So, that took us to -- you said he stopped school in about 1994?

A Yes.

Q Okay. And you lived in that home, I think you said, until '91?

A In 1994 I was living where I -- let's see. Where was I? Oh, I was living on Marina -- I was living in an apartment on North Inglewood.

Q Okay.
A Sorry.
Q And so, from -- that was after you left the other location in 1991?
A Yes.
Q How long did you live on the Inglewood apartment?
A Two years.
Q Okay. Well, that would take you to '93, approximately?
A No.
Q I just -- so where --
A '94 to '96.
Q I'm sorry. Okay. So, let's go back a little bit. You moved out of your house in -- I think you said in 1991?
A My house, no.
Q Or your --
A I moved out of my house in 1984. I sold it.
Q Okay. Where were you living, again, in 1991?
A 1991, I was living in the apartment on North Joplin.
Q Okay. That's what I'm talking about.
A Okay. And then, later that year I moved to another apartment.
Q Okay. And so, in these two apartments in '91 and then later that year, who lived there with you?

A Myself, and my son was living there part of the time also, and my daughter.
Q David, David?
A David, yes.
Q When you say "part of the time", where was he living the rest -- the other part of the time?
A Davie was being taken care of by an individual part of that time, because I had to work. I was working.
Q Okay.
A Sometimes two jobs. So, yeah, he was being taken -- excuse me, taken care of.
Q And when -- by another family?
A He was -- by a young woman and her daughter.
[redacted]
Q Okay. Where did she live?
A She lived in Lamar.
Q Where is Lamar?
A So, he -- Lamar, it's like close to Clarksville, out 64 Highway.
Q Okay. So, about how far from your house?
A Maybe 20 minutes, maybe.

Q All right. And how -- so, this started when, approximately?
A That started in '91 after his father was -- had passed away.
Q Okay. And so, he lived with the [redacted]
A [redacted]
Q And were they friends or family?
A They were friends. I did not know them directly, but I did know that they had worked for -- the services would take him, they worked for the same company I had worked for at one time.
Q Oh. And what company was that?
A I worked for Friendship Services at one time.
Q Okay. So, they went -- you said part-time. So, tell me how the arrangement was. And we're talking in, what, the '91 year?
A '91 he moved in there, I believe. I don't know. I can't remember exactly what month. It was fall. And he stayed there with her till they moved -- she moved to Russellville in '92, and then they lived right around the corner from where I was.
Q Okay.
A And he stayed there until 1993 with her.
Q Okay. And then, what? Then, where did he live?
A He went to live with the [redacted] in Russellville.

Q [redacted]
A They were living in Russellville at the time.
Q And were they family or friends, or did you know them?
A I did not know them, but I knew people that did know them.
Q Okay. And so, when you say he went -- so, he went, basically, to live there full-time?
A Yes.
Q Okay. So, when was the last time that David lived in your home and not just visited?
A That would be 1991.
Q Okay. So, then, the -- so, then, in -- you said that he stayed with the [redacted] and then he switched to the [redacted]
A Yes.
Q And was there a reason he switched?
A The lady just wanted to be -- she was a nurse, and she wanted to go back to nursing.
Q Okay.
A Full-time nursing.
Q And so, did she find the [redacted] or did you find the [redacted]
A No. Friendship.
Q Oh, an organization found the [redacted]

A Yes. Friendship Services --
Q Okay.
A -- found the [redacted]
Q But you didn't know them before he lived with them?
A No, I did not know them, but they were recommended.
Q All right. And then, how long did he live with the [redacted]
A Till March of 2007.
Q So, from about 1994?
A '93.
Q From 1993 to 2007?
A Yes.
Q So, about 14 years?
A Well, almost 14 years, yes.
Q Okay. And where did the [redacted] live, again?
A They lived in Russellville for a while, and then they moved to Fayetteville.
Q And during any of this time from when David moved out, out of your house in 1991 and through like 2007, I think, when you said he lived with the Roberts' through that date, did you visit him?
A Oh, yes.
Q Okay. Did you notice any behaviors that he had?
A No, not anything that I would call out of the ordinary. I mean, he would get upset or --

Q Tell me about when he would get upset.
A Well, he would just -- sometimes he would get upset or frustrated.
Q And what would happen?
A Sometimes he would just cry, or he would say, "Call my sister," you know, so I did, if I could. But, no, he wasn't doing anything -- he was hyper, too. He was hyper.
Q Now, so, I guess when he left your house in '91, he was about 14 years old?
A Yes.
Q Oh. So, when grad -- when he stopped going to school, he -- that was -- he was with the [redacted]at that time; is that right?
A Yes.
Q Okay. What school did he go to at that time?
A He was going to Center Valley -- no. I'm sorry. He was going to the high school, Russellville High School --
Q Russellville.
A -- in a self-contained classroom.
Q Okay. And so, who had custody, legal custody of him?
A Me.
Q Oh. You did?
A Yes.

Q Okay. So, during this time period -- so, the [redacted] moved -- lived in Russellville, then at a point in time they moved to Fayetteville?
A Yes.
Q Approximately when did they move to Fayetteville?
A In 1994, I believe.
Q And did they -- did you ever visit?
A I visited -- I went up there every other weekend, if I could. If I wasn't working, I was up there every other weekend. And he came home for holidays.
Q So, when you went up there for the weekend, did you stay at the [redacted] house?
A No.
Q Oh, you stayed in a hotel or somewhere else?
A I stayed in a hotel. Or sometimes I would just bring him home.
Q Oh. You would run up there and come take him back?
A Yes, yes. Most of the time, I just went up there and took him back so he could see his -- you know, he had grandparents that lived here, you know. And he was very social.
Q And so, when you would run up there and take him back, how long would he stay at your house?
A Anywhere from Friday afternoon to Sunday evening.
Q And about how often did this happen?

A I tried to get up there every other weekend, depending on my work schedule.
Q What did you do during this time period?
A What do you mean?
Q What type of work did you do?
A Oh. In that time period I was working for the Hector School District.
Q Okay. And what type of work did you do?
A I was an aide in a self-contained classroom. I had one person that I actually took care of.
Q Oh, okay. So, this -- is this a school for developmentally delayed?
A No. It's a -- no, no. It's a regular public school. They just had -- just like all the other schools, they just have a specific classroom for individuals.
Q Okay. Who were developmentally delayed --
A Yes.
Q -- or physically?
A Physically and developmentally, it could be, yes.
Q So -- I got it. Okay.
A Yes.
Q So, you're an aide to the teacher in this classroom --
A Yes, yes.

Q -- in Russellville?
A No. Hector.
Q Where is Hector? I mean, is that another county or town?
A No. It's in Pope County.
Q Okay. So, a nearby school district?
A Yes.
Q I got you.

MR. GILLISPIE: Rich is from Virginia.

THE WITNESS: I'm sorry about that.

MR. ROSEN: Yeah, I'm from Virginia. I've only been here 25 years, so I don't know -- I know where most counties are, but I don't know where all these other --

THE WITNESS: It is Pope County. It's Pope County.

MR. GILLISPIE: I couldn't tell you. I couldn't tell you where Hector is if my life depended on it.

THE WITNESS: I couldn't, either, until I started working there.

BY MR. ROSEN:
Q So, you are at -- and so, you took care of a particular --
A I took care --

Q -- developmentally delayed child at that school?
A I had one child. And if she wasn't there, then I helped with other children.
Q Okay. So, was there more than one aide in the classroom?
A Yes.
Q I got it. Okay. And how long did you do that?
A I worked there from the fall of 1992 till the spring of 1999.
Q Okay.
A And I had second jobs, too, during that time.
Q What were your other jobs during this time period?
A I filled in at Friendship, did various -- worked with various people, I worked at --
Q What -- before we go off that, what type of work did you do there?
A I worked with developmentally delayed individuals at Friendship. Just I worked with individuals.
Q I don't know what that -
A That would either be --
Q Can you provide me --
A Well, I worked with an individual that was living at home, or I worked with an individual that was living with a family. I would provide care.
Q Oh, you're a caregiver? Okay.

A Right. And I worked in a facility they had also, I worked in their school. I just filled in, I worked in the --
Q Yeah. But when you say you worked at wherever these various tasks that you did for Friendship, they were -- Friendship is a -- it was all for developmentally delayed people?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And what types of things would you do, just some examples?
A I would take them to a workshop. They had a workshop there. Or I would work in the classroom with somebody. And they had a day care during the summer, I worked there. Just various things. I worked in the group homes.
Q Okay. And you would -- what type of work, supervise care?
A Supervise, maybe make sure they bathed, make sure they ate, you know. We went on trips, like maybe we went to the Christmas parade in Russellville, and we would take them there and I was with them.
Q Okay.
A Or we would take them to the movies, I went.
Q All right. And so, I think you were about to tell me that you also had some other jobs that you did?

A I worked at a nursing home.
Q Okay. Which nursing home?
A Russellville Nursing Home.
Q And what did you do there?
A I was a certified aide, nurse's aide.
Q A CNA?
A Yes.
Q And so, this was all during this '92 to '99 time period, approximately?
A Approximately, yes.
Q Okay. Did you have any other jobs?
A Yes. I worked for the Pope County Health Department. I started that in 1998.
Q Okay. And actually, let me -- in Russellville you were a CNA. And I know what a CNA is. But just for the record, what is a --
A I'm still a CNA.
Q Oh.
A It's a Certified Nurse's Aide.
Q And what is the type of work a CNA does?
A We do things in the home, we help bathing, we do cooking. In the nursing home, it's still bathing, you observe the patient, putting -- you know, like this person seems to be more tired today, or this person is angry today for some reason. You know, we just had to pay attention to what they were up to.

Q And did you help assist with transfers and ambulation type issues, or not?
A The only thing -- in the nursing home, yes, I would put -- help people get into a wheelchair.
Q Bathe?
A Yes. Or into a geriatric chair, or into a shower chair so they could go, you know, have a shower. Some of them could take themselves down there, but not all of them.
Q Okay. And then, you had said the Pope County Health Department?
A Yes. At one time -- there's 75 counties in Arkansas, but 69 of them had their own health departments, and some shared. So, I did personal -- they had home health, personal care, and hospice care. Well, in 2016, Hutchinson decided to break it up. He sold the license for the personal care, home health, and hospice care.
Q When you say "Hutchinson", you mean the Governor?
A Yes.
Q Oh, okay.
A Now, he left the rest of the Pope -- you know, the Health Department, he left it alone. But he sold it to Kindred, which is a company out of Kentucky. And I've worked there since 2016 with them.

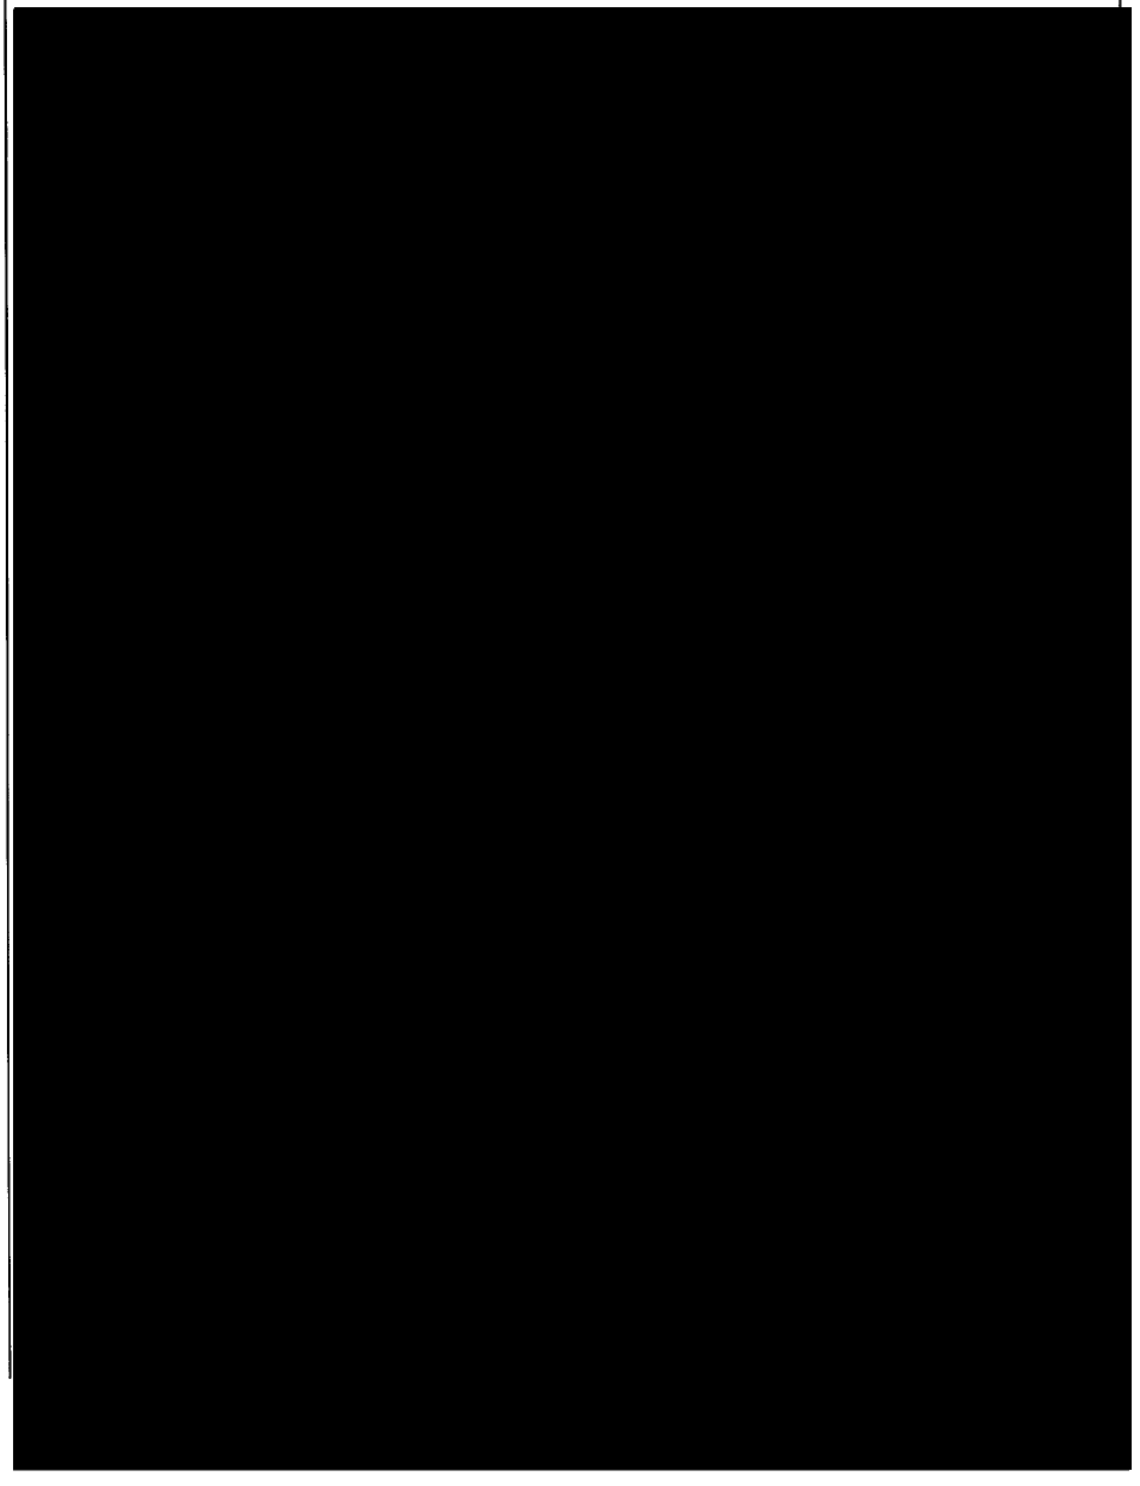
Q Okay. So, this is a little after the time period of '99?
A Yes.
Q This is all currently?
A Yes.
Q Okay. So, you worked -- I'm sorry. So, who do you work for?
A Well, it's called -- it was called Kindred. They just changed their name to Centerwell.
Q Okay.
A But it's the same --
Q And you do CNA type work?
A Yes.
Q And this is -- do you work certain shifts or --
A I work in people's homes.
Q Oh, you -- okay. You mentioned that.
A Now.
Q So, you go to the home and provide the care?
A Yes, yes.
Q So, without mentioning anybody's names.
A I can't remember.
Q When you go into a client's home who needs these care services?
A Yes.



Q You -- what do you do there?
A I help them with their bathing, I may prepare a meal. I do light housekeeping, I do laundry. We're not allowed to transport at all out of the home, but I do assistance in the wheelchair, to their bed, or that type of thing. I observe them for any differences in behavior or health. You know, if they complain of headaches or backaches or any type thing like that, then I report it.
Q Okay. And that started when?
A I started doing that in 1998.
Q Okay. When did you become a CNA?
A In 1994 -- no. '93, '93.
Q Okay. All right. So, we kind of got a little ahead of ourselves.
A Okay.
Q But who is Sarah Ashley?
A She's my children's half-sister, Davie and Chrissie's half-sister.
Q So, subsequent to your first marriage to David's father, you got married again?
A No.
Q Okay. Can you explain that?
A Sarah Ashley is not my daughter.
Q Oh. She's related -- it's through your former husband?

A Yes.
Q Okay. And what is -- I'm sorry, I didn't ask you that, I'm going to ask -- what is Christina --
A It's Christine.
Q Christine McAuliffe's date of birth?
A [redacted]
Q Okay. And Ashley -- Sarah Ashley's?
A [redacted] She was born on Father's Day that year.
Q [redacted]
A Uh-huh. (Indicated yes.)
Q And she's your -- she's your children's half-sister?
A Yes.
Q And is Sarah Ashley her full -- is that her name or is that --
A Her name is Sarah Ashley.
Q Okay. And did she ever live in a home with David Cains?
A No. Now, she was there, you know, maybe on a visit. But, no, they never lived -- actually lived together, no.
Q And who is Shelly?
A Shelly is Ash -- I call her Ashley, but I will say Sarah Ashley's sister.
Q Oh. So, it's the same relation?

A Yeah. They have the same mother.
Q And how old is -- well, do you know when Shelly was born?
A I don't have any idea.
Q I understand. Did Shelly ever live in the house with David Cains?
A Yes.
Q Okay. Where and when?
A When they were living in Pottsville. Oh, gosh, approximately 1988, '89, I guess, until '90. It's like she didn't live there that whole time.
Q Okay. So, this is when -- so, like from '88 to '90 and --
A I believe. I don't -- I mean, she was living somewhere -- living up north, I think. I don't know.
Q Okay. I'm just trying to -- and I understand this was a while ago and she's not your child.
A No. I mean, I've never really --
Q You don't really know her?
A Not really. I know her, but not that well.
Q What I'm getting at is just -- so, during this time, this is before, say, your -- you were no longer married to David's father?
A No.
Q And he had remarried, apparently?

A Yes.
Q And they -- so, this is a time when David lived part-time, I guess is what you're saying, with the father --
A He lived --
Q -- and part-time with you?
A -- there part-time, and then they did move in and stay there a little bit longer because of my work schedule.
Q Okay.
A And he had a business from home. I mean, we were very on -- you know, like I said, dual custody and we supported both of them. And he supported us and I supported him. So, we did get along.
Q Okay.
A And not just for the sake of the children, I mean, we got along.
Q All right. So, we were talking about -- and we got a little out of order. But we were talking about, I guess, David at a certain point in approximately 1994 -- well, at a certain point, David came to live with the [redacted]
A Yes.
Q And again, what year was that?
A 1993.

Q Three. Thank you. And they lived locally and then they moved to Fayetteville?
A Yes.
Q And you would go on up there and would --
A I went up there, yes, and he came home.
Q Okay. And how long did he live with the [redacted]
A He lived there until March of 2007.
Q And then, where did he live?
A That's when he went to Booneville Human Development Center.
Q Oh. So, what happened at that point in time?
A What do you mean?
Q Why did he go to live there?
A Because --
Q Why did he --
[redacted]
Q Oh. That's what I'm asking. Okay.
A Yeah. I don't.

[redacted]

Q Okay. And so, you had seen him at Christmastime in 2006?

A Yes. He came home.

Q He came home?

A Yes.

Q How long did he come home for, do you remember?

A Normally I would pick him up, depending on my work schedule, again, I would have him from the 23rd of December until the 26th or 27th of December.

Q And were there other people in your home?

A My daughter would be there.

Q Which one, Christine?

A My only daughter. Yes, Christine.

Q And so, when you would bring David home when he was at the [redacted] or at the [redacted]-

A [redacted]

Q -- [redacted] did he have any behavioral issues that had to be addressed?

A No, not really.

Q Who is -- is there an Uncle Patrick?

A That's my brother.

Q Okay. Did he ever visit David?

A Oh, yes. He visited him, he would go see him and take him out for lunch or dinner. Sometimes he didn't go until later.

Q This is -- and I'm going to jump forward a little bit. But did there come a point in time when Uncle Patrick took David, while he was at the human development center, and went into town in Booneville and had lunch at McDonald's?
A Yes.
Q And did something unusual happen?
A Yeah, there was a little behavior. I wasn't there.
Q Did you hear about -- I mean, you're the guardian?
A Oh, of course, I heard about it, yes.
Q So, what happened? What's your understanding of what happened?
A My understanding was Davie, I don't know why, he threw his Coke on him. He didn't do it -- you know, he didn't do anything else, he threw his Coke on him. Because it's a public area, my brother did the right thing and called Booneville Human Development Center.
Q What do you mean? And called Booneville to do what?
A To -- they came and picked him up.
Q Oh. So -- okay.
A Yes.
Q I understand. And what's Patrick's last name?
A Riley.
Q So, he's David's uncle?

A Yes.

MR. GILLISPIE: Pat Riley.

THE WITNESS: Yeah. I call him Patrick, but --

BY MR. ROSEN:

Q Oh, his name is Pat Riley?

MR. GILLISPIE: Yes. He goes by Pat. His name is Patrick.

BY MR. ROSEN:

Q Okay. Pat. All right.

A He goes by Pat, but I call him Patrick.

Q Okay. Well, that's fine. We're talking about the same person; right?

A Yes, we are.

Q And so, Mr. Riley?

A Yes.

Q So, he came -- do you remember when this happened, approximate year?

A I don't remember exactly when that happened, no.

Q But there was a behavioral incident in McDonald's?

A Yes, yes.

Q And so, he had -- so I understand it, he had gone to pick up David and take him into Booneville?

A Yes.

Q And they went to have lunch at McDonald's?

A Yes.
Q And I understand that McDonald's is one of his favorite places?
A Yes, it is.
Q Was?
A One of his favorite.
Q And that, I guess, during this lunch David had a behavior?
A Yes. He threw a Coke.
Q And so, why did --
A He threw the Coke -- I don't know. I mean, I don't know. He just --
Q No, no. I meant, why -- and so, then, Mr. Riley immediately called Booneville?
A He called Booneville Human Development Center to tell them what was happening, and they came and picked him up and took him back. Because when you're in public, you have to be so careful.
Q Okay. Do you know why Mr. Riley didn't just take him back himself?
A I don't know. I believe he didn't -- he just called, in case there was a situation, maybe. I don't know. I mean, I don't know.
Q Do you know whether there were other customers who were alarmed in the McDonald's?

A I don't think so. I mean, my brother did not say anything about that.
Q Was that -- had he ever thrown things, water or anything before, soda before?
A Not that I know of. He never threw anything at me like that.
Q Did he ever swat at you or punch at you?
A No, he didn't punch.
Q Did he swat?
A He would flail his arms a little bit, and if I was in the -- you know, close enough, yeah, I would get, like that. (Indicating.) But, no.
Q Do you know why he would flail --
A He was just upset, you know.
Q Okay.
A I mean, I don't know why. He would just get upset sometimes.
Q So --
A He was anxious. He would -- you know, he had anxiety issues, and sometimes he would -- but it was easy. I just sat him down, or had him go put on his Monkees. If he was at home, I would put him in his room. Tell him -- he would go in his room by himself. He would turn on his Monkees.
Q Okay.

A And then, a little while later he would come out and say, "I feel better." But there was never any --
Q And while he was visiting you or in your house, did he ever throw anything?
A No.
Q Did he ever break anything?
A No, no.
Q You're aware -- are you aware that he threw things later and broke stuff later in life?
A I don't know. I mean, maybe he did it -- I mean, if he had a behavior, obviously, at the human development center, I would find out about it. But as far as anywhere else, no.
Q Okay. Now, when he was -- I guess when he was removed from the [redacted] home in March of 2007 --
A Yes.
Q -- you were the legal guardian; right?
A I was his guardian.
Q You didn't -- he didn't come back to live in your home, though?
A No. Not then, no. It was -- no. They took him to Booneville Human Development Center.
Q Do you know why they didn't take him to your house?
A Because it probably wouldn't -- it would have been too confusing to him. This way, he went there. And, you know, like I said, I had to work. My schedule was so varied I couldn't -- and he couldn't be left alone.

Q What about Christine, was she in a position to take him?
A Not at that time, no.
Q Did she want to -- did she offer to take him?
A She would have taken him if she could have. But, no. She had a job, she had, you know, responsibilities. She couldn't -- she had to work, too.
Q Were there other family members that lived in Arkansas at the time?
A Yes. But they --
Q They didn't take him?
A No.
Q So, he went to Booneville?
A Yes.
Q And were you familiar with Booneville at the time?
A I knew at one time it had been the sanitorium for people with tuberculosis.
Q Okay. But it wasn't at this time?
A Oh, no, no. Yes, I was familiar -- I knew about Booneville.
Q And when he went to Booneville -- so, actually, and let me just get this straight, were you the legal guardian before he went to Booneville?

A I was his guardian when he went to Booneville, yes.
Q And for the years before that, had you actually gotten legal guardianship over him?
A I was his guardian.
Q Okay. So, you were this whole time?
A Yes, I was his -- the contact, I was the one that made all the decisions.
Q And so, did you decide to put him in Booneville?
A I did decide to -- I had looked at other options. There was one in Dardanelle, but I didn't feel like it would be suitable because they didn't have any type of programs, like work, that type of thing.
Q Tell me why you chose to put him in Booneville Human Development Center.
A Well, that's where they took him. I did go there and I talked to the individuals. They had programs, they had --
Q What do you mean by "programs"?
A Programs, like work.
Q Vocational?
A Vocational programs. He worked. He had life skills programs, they sent him to a life skills class, he was able to have his own room. And, of course, he had friends. And I know at one time he went -- they took some of them, I don't know about all of them, to -- oh, excuse me -- an aquarium in Oklahoma.

Q So, they do field trips?
A They did field trips.
Q And so, they had recreational social programs?
A Yes. And they had a pool there, which he -- he used the pool for a while, but he got to where he didn't care about it.
Q Okay.
A They had a gym. I know he went to the gym periodically and worked out.
Q And all meals throughout the day; right?
A Yes.
Q And healthcare?
A Oh, yes.
Q They had a medical team; right?
A Yes.
Q Nurses, did you ever meet any of them?
A I met some of the nurses. Yes, I did, because when I would go pick him up, I would have to get his medications.
Q Okay. And so, they all knew David; right?
A Oh, yes.
Q Okay. And David knew them; right?
A Oh, yes.
Q Did David consider the Booneville Human Development

Center his home?
A He did consider it his home, but he also considered my home his home, because he had a room, he had things at my home. He had his own room, his own bed, he had clothes, he had a TV, he had a stereo. I mean, he had everything at my home. But, yes, he did consider -- he enjoyed it. He had friends that he talked to that he would -- sometimes he would share his movies and they would watch them in the TV room, you know, a group of them. But, yeah, he told me all the time how much he liked it.
Q Did he have any friends in the caregivers that were there?
A I believe he had some that he was partial to, yes.
Q Do you know their names?
A I don't know all their names, because, you know, sometimes when I would come, there may be a different one every time I came because of their scheduling.
Q Oh.
A And I normally came on Sunday to see him when I did, so, you know --
Q So, when you would come there on Sundays to visit him at the Booneville Human Development Center, what would you do?
A Well, first of all, of course, I went to the dorm, and then I would have to go over to Commons to get his medication. He took medicine, his medicine at --

Q Oh, this was to pick him up?

A Yeah. I picked him up at the dorm and then took him to Commons, because that's where they gave out medications for, you know, people who were eating at the cafeteria, I guess.

Q Okay.

A And I would take him and we would go to -- usually we would go to KFC, Taco Bell, or we would go to one of the pizza places, whatever he wanted.

Q And then, what?

A And then, we had to make at least one trip to Wal-Mart. We went to Wal-Mart. And sometimes he didn't buy anything, sometimes he liked walking around. But he would buy CDs or DVDs or Razorback t-shirts, and he would buy something for his sister. It was always usually a candy bar. But after that, sometimes we would go to Sonic because he wanted a milkshake.

And then, we would go back to the dorm for a little while. And anything I bought, because I kept a complete inventory sheet of everything we bought, and marked everything he got and I gave them an inventory sheet. And then, he would want to go to Dollar -- he liked Dollar Tree.

Q Okay.
A And we would go there. Sometimes he went to Dollar General, but I don't think he liked Dollar General. I don't know why. He just walked around, got a bag of chips, and that was it. And then, I always bought him supper before I left.
Q To eat with you or to take back to the --
A No. To take back to the dorm. They would put it up for him.
Q All right.
A And that, we went to McDonald's.
Q And --
A And while we were there, he watched Dukes. I mean, he would --
Q He what?
A Watched the Dukes of Hazzard while I was there.
Q Oh, TV?
A And I would clean out his drawers and his, you know, closet.
Q Would you watch TV with him?
A Yes, I did, sometimes.
Q Would that be -- and I understand that in the dorm or in the cottage, whatever you call it --
A The dorm.
Q -- they would have a TV room. But he also had a TV in his --

A Oh, yes, he had his own television.
Q Okay. And did you notice that the TV was behind a plexiglass glass screen?
A Yes. I knew it was behind there. It needed to be behind there, because, for one thing, the rooms weren't big enough for anything. And it was -- and also, some of the other residents came in his room and would take things or touch things. So, that's why.
Q Well, do you -- was the TV bolted to the wall?
A I don't know. It had one of those -- I don't know. You can put them on any wall.
Q Okay. But it was behind a TV -- behind a plexiglass screen?
A Yes, yes.
Q Now, the TV in the -- strike that question. And did that have anything to do with him breaking the TV?
A The TV did get broken. I was not there.
Q Okay.
A I did not see it, I just know it got broken.
Q You were informed about it?
A Of course.
Q Okay. And what did he do to the TV?
A I don't know. I wasn't there.
Q Okay.

A I don't know if he pushed it over. I don't know -- I don't know.
Q Okay. Did you ask?
A No.
Q Okay.
A They just told me it was broken.
Q Okay. And so, that -- did it get replaced?
A I replaced it eventually, yes.
Q And so, when it got replaced, they took this precaution to put it behind --
A That's where I -- I also suggested -- in fact, I even bought the thing to put it on the wall. And then they said, "What about to put plexiglass on it?" And I said that would be a good idea. For one thing, nobody else can mess with it.
Q And he wouldn't be able to break it?
A No.
Q Or it wouldn't be as easy to break?
A It wouldn't be.
Q Yes. But he broke it; right?
A I assume he did. Like I said, I wasn't there. They told me it had gotten broken. Now, I don't know who witnessed it. You know, I don't know. I just know it got broken. But he -- it happened.
Q Okay. And he also listened, and I think you mentioned about DVDs --

COURT REPORTER: She just said something, and I didn't get it.

MR. GILLISPIE: She said, "It happened".

COURT REPORTER: Thank you. Sorry.

THE WITNESS: I said it happened.

BY MR. ROSEN:

Q So, you had mentioned that you would periodically buy DVDs, or David would?

A Yes, he --

Q Or CDs. I don't know what the difference is.

A There is a difference. A DVD is more like a movie, and a CD is music.

Q So, he had a CD player and a DVD player?

A No. You could play CDs on the DVD player.

Q Okay. So, he had a player?

A Yes, he had something to play both.

Q And did they ever get broken?

A No.

Q So, the DVD player never got broken?

A No. He had the same one the whole time he was there. And it was sitting on his --

MR. ROSEN: If we could stop for a second.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

MR. ROSEN: I see that the microphone has gotten tangled.

THE WITNESS: Oh.

VIDEOGRAPHER: You can pick that up.

THE WITNESS: No, mine is all right.

MR. ROSEN: I told you. That's fine.

MR. GILLISPIE: Does anybody need anything, water or anything? Water?

MR. ROSEN: Okay. We're good. Let's take a break.

VIDEOGRAPHER: You want to go off the record?

MR. ROSEN: Yes.

VIDEOGRAPHER: We are off the record at 10:50 a.m.

(WHEREUPON, a brief break was taken.)

VIDEOGRAPHER: We are back on the record at 10:58 a.m.

MR. ROSEN: Thank you.

BY MR. ROSEN:

Q Ms. Robinson?

A Yes.

Q Just so I understand and the record is clear. So, when did you first become the court-appointed legal guardian of David Cains?

A In May.

Q Of what year?
A 2007.
Q Oh, okay. Okay.
A I've always been his guardian, like I told you. Yes, I was court-appointed at that time.
Q Okay. So, you only became the court-appointed legal guardian in 2007?
A Well, actually, when I got divorced I was considered his legal guardian.
Q Okay. That would be through the divorce papers, presumably?
A Yes. I had --
Q But then, once David turned 18, who was his legal guardian? Did he have a court-appointed legal guardian?
A No.
Q Okay.
A He didn't. I still made all his decisions.
Q Okay. But from a -- but he was an adult at that time?
A Yes.
Q And so, but you didn't become the court-appointed legal guardian until 2007?
A Right.
Q Is that yes?
A Yes.

Q Okay. I'm sorry. And that was about the time that he went into the Booneville Human Development Center?
A Yes.
Q I got it. Okay. So, just before that time when he went in -- in the early -- in the spring of 2007 before he went into the human development center, before he was [redacted] and placed there, did -- and I think we determined that you had seen him around Christmas or December of --
A Yes, I saw him.
Q -- 2006.
A Yes.
Q What about, did Christine or Ashley or Shelly or Uncle -- or Pat Riley ever visit him while he was at the [redacted] in 2007?
A No, not that I know of.
Q Okay. How often -- where did Christine reside at that time?
A In 2007 she was living in Russellville, I believe.
Q Okay. Was she married, was she working?
A No, she wasn't married, but she was working.
Q What type of work did she do?
A She works for -- outages at nuclear plants.
COURT REPORTER: I'm sorry?
THE WITNESS: Outages at nuclear plants.

BY MR. ROSEN:

Q Do you know when the last time she went up there to visit David at -- [redacted]

A No. She saw him at Christmas of 2006, I know that.

Q At your house?

A Yes. She was home at Christmas at my house, yes.

Q Okay. Did she live at your house at that time?

A No.

Q Okay. Do you know how often she went up to visit him in, say, the fall of 2006 and into 2007?

A No, I don't. She saw him whenever I had him at home. I don't know. I don't know. She was an adult, she could do what she wanted. I don't know. I don't know. I don't know.

Q Are you aware of any times that she went up to visit him by herself without going with you or when David came to your home?

A She would go up there, yes, alone.

[redacted]

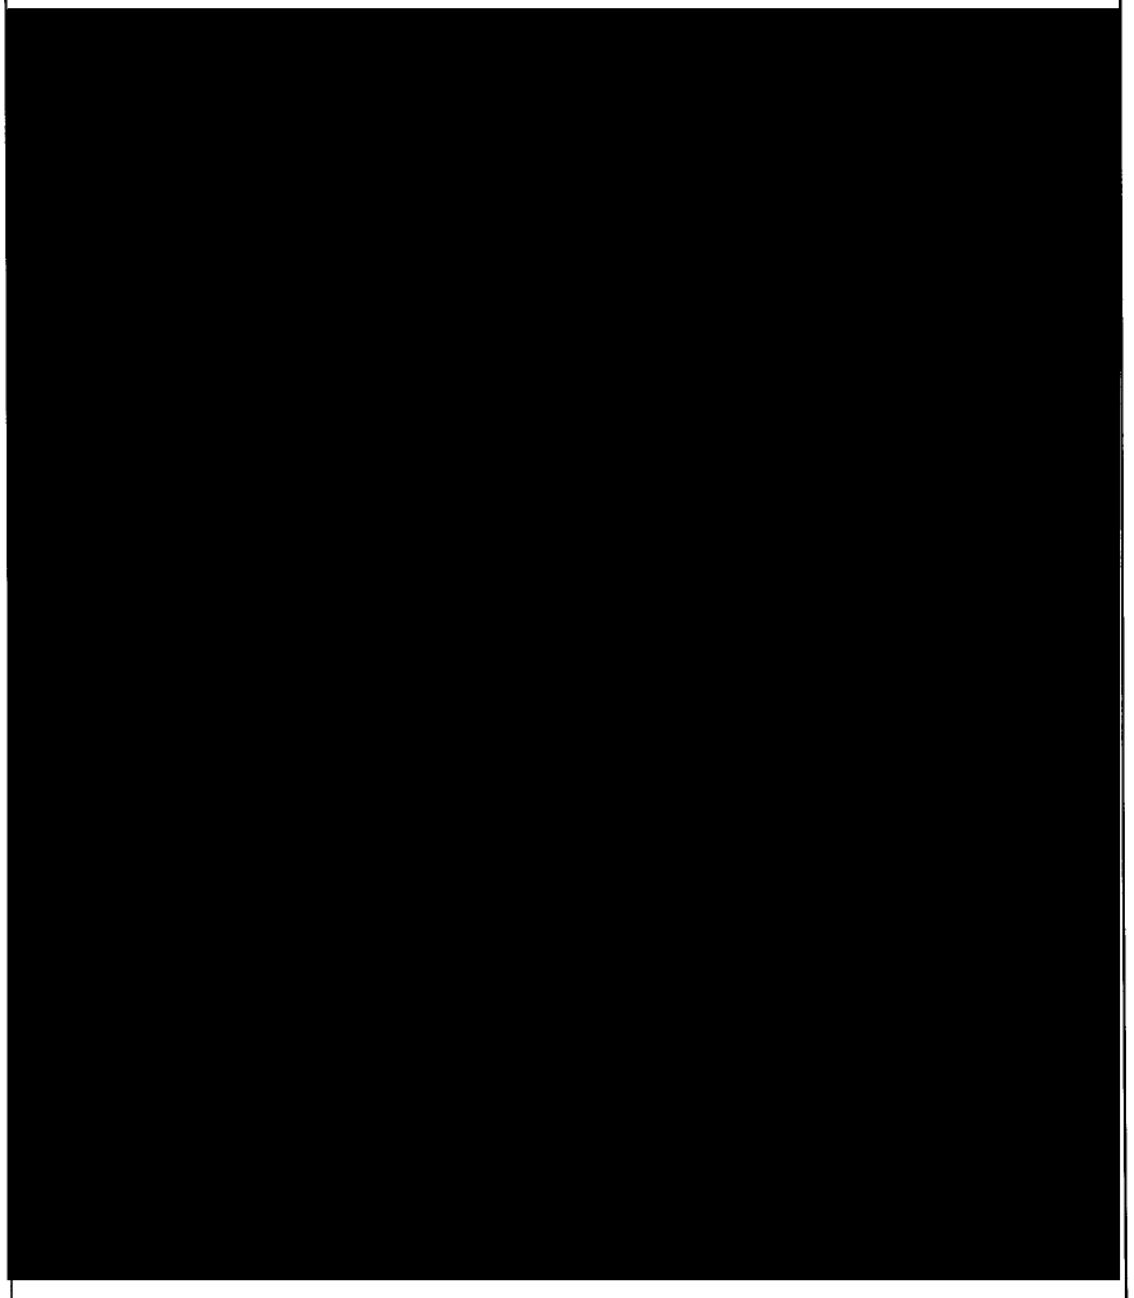
[redacted]

Q Do you know whether he had been getting his dental care?

A He, I know -- I don't know.

Q Okay. Did you --

A Because Medicare or Medicaid won't pay for dental care after a certain age. I don't know. I don't know.



Q So, do you know whether he got dental care or not?

A He got dental care at Booneville.

Q No. Once he got there, I know.

A Yes.

[redacted]

Q Did you go to doctors with David when he had to go to the doctor?

A No.

Q Okay. And as legal guardian of David, once you became legal guardian in 2007, the court-appointed legal guardian, you got to control his placement where he lived; right?

A Yes.

Q Okay. And where did you place him?

A I placed him in Booneville.

Q Okay.

A I left him there. That seemed appropriate, so I left him.

Q And you never removed him from there?

A No.

Q Okay. And you didn't see any reason to remove him, did you?

A No.

Q And so, when he is at Booneville, as his legal guardian, you were actually involved in making decisions on his care and his Treatment Plan, were you not?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And do you know what they call that?
A IPP.
Q IPP?
A Uh-huh. (Indicated yes.)
Q And that stands for Individual Program Plan?
A Uh-huh, yes.
Q And he had one every year?
A Yes.
Q And did you participate every year?
A Yes.
Q And it was a team of people that were on the -- that developed this plan; right?
A Yes, yes.
Q It wasn't just you?
A No.
Q It was -- what type of people were on the plan -- on the IPP?
A His case manager, his supervisor at work, one of the nurses was there.
Q So, there was vocational?
A Vocational, yes.

Q There was medical?
A Yes.
Q There was, I guess, residential?
A Yes.
Q And I guess -- and a host of other ones; right?
A Yes.
Q It was a big team, wasn't it?
A Not big, but it was --
Q About how many people were on it?
A Counting me, maybe seven, I guess.
Q Okay. And they got reports from different areas as to what he needed and what he was --
A Yes.
Q And goals he needed to receive?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And you actually signed off on the care plans; right?
A Yes. I was there.
Q I'm sorry?
A Yes, yes.
Q Okay. Included in the care plan was -- they talked about David's aggression and behavioral problems, didn't they?
A They did talk about his behavior, yes.
Q And what do you remember being talked about, generally?

A Generally, they said he sometimes was anxious.
Q And what would happen when he got anxious?
A He would sometimes shout, or he would go into his room and turn up his Monkees.
Q Okay. Did he ever have an aggressive outburst?
A Not that I know of. I was never -- I had nothing aggressive reported about him, no. No.
Q Okay. It also in there talked about restraint -- in the IPP it talked about restraint use; right?
A Yes.
Q And as a matter of fact, you would -- you would periodically be advised from the human development center social services staff about his aggressive behaviors, would you not?
A Yes.
Q And that it required the use of a restraint to calm him down or to protect himself?
A Some type, yes.
Q Okay. So, let's talk a little bit about that. Okay?
A Okay.
Q So, there were times -- and I know that generally David was calm?
A Yes.

Q But as we discussed, he would have his moments where things got -- behavioral-wise, got a little out of control?
A Yes, yes.
Q Okay. You would agree with that?
A Well, yes.
Q Okay. And that's why there is a -- it's addressed in the IPPs; right?
A Yes.
Q Do you recall addressing and discussing it in the meetings?
A We discussed certain things, yes.
Q Okay. And what would you discuss?
A We would discuss manners of what they would use to --
Q And why would they need it, though?
A If he got -- if he was going to hurt himself, they would make sure that -- or, you know, like I said, if he was going to hurt himself. If there was something in the way, he would just fly his arms out, he might have hit something.
Q So, it would be a safety issue?
A Yes.
Q I guess for himself --
A For him.

Q -- and for staff and other residents around him?
A For himself.
Q Okay. Not for the staff or other residents nearby?
A I don't believe there were other residents -- I don't know if there were other residents with him involved, if they were even -- sometimes, they would be -- I don't know. They may run into the wrong rooms. I don't know.
Q And so -- thanks. And so, when a restraint was used or necessary for safety, the Booneville Human Development Center, or at least somebody from there, would often call you and tell you what is happening?
A They would call or they would send some type of conversation, or communication of that, yes.
Q And they would talk to you as the legal guardian; right?
A Yes.
Q And Mom?
A Yes, I was his -- I'm his mother.
Q And so, and that would be discussed at the annual meetings for his IPP; right?
A Yes, yes.
Q Okay. So, it wasn't just once a year. You would get calls from, say, the staff about problems in David's behavior?

A No, no.
Q Oh, you wouldn't?
A I did not get phone calls, no.
Q Okay. So, you would have conversations with them?
A I would have conversa -- when I -- no, I didn't have conversations with that staff, no.
Q Okay. I thought you just said you did?
A No.
Q Okay. So, do you know who Jennifer Barry is?
A I don't know.
Q Okay. Did you ever talk to her about David's behavior?
A Not that I can recall.
Q Okay. And in the IPP, the treatment team, which included you at least every year; right?
A Yes.
Q Okay. The development team, I don't know what they call it.
A No, right.
Q But the IPP team that developed it?
A Yes. The team that -- yes.
Q Okay. They found that David's Behavioral Treatment Plan was appropriate each year; correct?
A For certain things, yes.

Q Okay. And that would include you; right? You agreed with it?
A I would approve whatever they presented.
Q Yes. And that would include the use of emergency restraints for safety?
A A papoose board.
Q Okay.
A Yes.
Q What's a papoose board?
A A board that they put him on.
Q Okay. So, you approved that?
A I approved that.
Q Okay. And is that -- that is put on there on the ground, he has got to be on the ground, they would put him on it?
A No.
Q Okay. Did you approve any emergency holds?
A No.
Q Okay. Did you approve -- and we're talking in the IPP.
A I know what you're talking. I know.
Q And did you approve early chemical intervention?
A They did have chemical intervention of some sort, yes.
[redacted]

[redacted]

Q And when would he need that?
A Not very often. I don't know. They did not call me every time he had a behavior and ask me.
Q Well, now, I don't mean every time. I mean, but they would update you periodically, would they not?
A Only if I asked how he was doing, they would answer, yes.
Q Did you ever ask?
A I asked every time I got a phone call from every week when he talked to me. Yes, I asked about him.
Q So, you would ask the staff? That's kind of where I was going.
A No, not the staff.
Q Well, who would tell you about his behaviors?
A Caleb Murray is the person I would talk to directly.
Q Okay. And he -- Caleb, Mr. Murray would tell you about David's behaviors?
A He would tell me if there were any behaviors or something, say, "No, he didn't have any issues this week." I mean, he would inform me what was going on, yes. I knew what was going on with him.
Q Okay. And that's what I'm asking, what was going on?

A Yes.
Q Because I don't know, so I'm asking you.
A I knew what was going on with him.
Q What? What was going on?
A If he had a behavior, he told me.
Q Okay.
A But there were many times he said, "He has had a good week, he's happy," that type of thing.
Q Sure.
A But I did not get a letter in the mail all the time.
Q Oh, I'm not asking about a letter. I'm just --
A And I did not talk to the staff. It was Caleb.
Q Okay. So, you just spoke to Caleb?
A Yes.
Q Caleb is part of the staff, is he not?
A Yes, but not in the essence of --
Q I mean, he works at the Booneville Human Development Center?
A Yes. But he's the case manager. He does not work in the dorm.
Q Okay. But he would update you about David's behavior problems --
A Yes, he would.
Q Let me finish the question. Okay? Because this lady has to take it down.

A Okay.
Q So, he would have -- he would update you on David's behaviors and behavioral problems?
A Yes.
Q His good behavior and his bad behavior?
A Yes.
Q And he would update you periodically about that David's behavior required some safety restraints; correct?
A Yes.
Q Okay. In fact, you -- each year, you signed the IPP?
A I signed off. Of course I did, I was there. Yes, I signed.
Q And you found it -- and you and the treatment team all agreed that -- each year that this was -- the Booneville Human Development Center was a good placement for David?
A I believed it was, yes.
Q Okay. Because there were other options; right?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And you had explored them, I think you said earlier?
A I had explored them.

Q Okay. I'm just going to actually introduce a document, and it's not stapled, it's just clipped, and I'm not -- we're not going to go through the whole document. Okay?
A Okay.
Q I just want you to look at it and --
A In a minute.
Q Do you need your glasses?
A Yes.
Q Okay.

MR. ROSEN: And while we're doing that, I'm going to go ahead and introduce the Notice of Deposition as DHS Exhibit One.

(WHEREUPON, DHS Exhibit Number One was marked for identification.)

BY MR. ROSEN:
Q And what I'm going to show you is -- the booklet is labeled "Booneville Human Development Center Individual Program Plan". It says, "Date of identification," it's -- well, this is for 2018?
A Yes.
Q Do you recognize that?
A I have one. Yes.
Q And you can flip through it.
A I --

Q And it's Bates stamped -- and I don't -- CM1346 through 1430 -- 1346 to 1437.
A 1346, where do you get that?
Q On the bottom. It's just page numbers.
A Oh.
Q Okay. And while you're -- I'll let you look through it. But if you would just turn to page -- oh, maybe about the third page of that, which is CM1348.
A Okay.
Q And it has a bunch of signatures on there. About the third page in there.
A Yes.
Q And one of those signatures is yours; right?
A Yes.
Q And what's the date of that?
A August 9th, 2018.
Q Okay. And so, this was the plan for that year; right?
A Yes.
Q Okay. In fact, the -- all right.

MR. ROSEN: We don't need to go through all of that. I'm going to move this be introduced as DHS Exhibit Two.

THE WITNESS: Yes, I see it here. I have seen it.

MR. ROSEN: Counsel, do you want a copy? I know you have it probably.

(WHEREUPON, DHS Exhibit Number Two was marked for identification.)

BY MR. ROSEN:

Q And I'm going to show you what's marked as -- what we're going to mark as DHS Exhibit Three, which is identified as Booneville Human Development Center Individual Program Plan. And it's Bates stamped CM1453 through -- these are the page numbers.

A Yes, I know.

Q CM1544. And this is for 2019. If you could identify that and peruse it? And I'll just ask you one or two questions on it.

A (Witness reviews document.)

Q Okay. And are you still reviewing it?

A I'm just looking at it.

Q Okay.

A There are a lot of blank pages. (Witness reviews document.)

Q Have you read it?

A No, there's all them blank pages.

Q Well, there are some, I guess, forms in the back.

A Blank pages.

Q So, I'm going to -- if you are done, do you recognize this document?

A I recognize the document, yes, obviously.
Q Okay. And this is the -- according to, on the first page, it says it's for the annual review date of 07-18-19.
A Uh-huh. (Indicated yes.)
Q Is that "yes"?
A Yes.
Q Okay. So, this is the -- this is really just the next year's version of what we just talked about as Exhibit Two; right?
A Right.
Q So, this is Exhibit Three, and this is for the year 2019 into '20; correct?
A Yes.
Q And just turning to page three of the document, that's your signature on there, is it not --
A Yes.
Q -- on 1455?
A Yes.
Q And also, on there it says Chrissie Cains; correct?
A Yes.
Q And that's your daughter?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And everybody signed it on July 18th of 2019;

right?
A Everybody I can see here.
Q Yes. And this has the same type of treatment teams that made recommendations?
A Uh-huh. (Indicated yes.)
Q And discussed the care and treatment; correct?
A Yes.
Q And it also included discussions of David's behaviors and safety precautions, including restraints; right?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And I just want to -- I'm not going to go through the whole document. Just want to point out on page 1463. If you would turn to that?
A (Witness complies.) Okay.

[redacted]

[redacted]

A I never -- he never broke a -- I don't know about the radios and the DVD player.

Q Okay.

A I do know about the television. I don't know anything about a window.

[redacted]

Q And so, if you look at -- well, okay. So, we're going to -- but you signed this, and these issues were discussed at the meeting?

A Yes, they were.

Q Okay. All right.

MR. ROSEN: Introduce that as Exhibit Number Three.

(WHEREUPON, DHS Exhibit Number Three was marked for identification.)

THE WITNESS: I wanted to --

BY MR. ROSEN:

Q I only have a few more minutes.

A Okay.

Q Okay. So, let's change a little course of topics. Okay? And let's talk about, so David Cains passed away, when did he pass away?

A June 13th, 2020, on a Saturday.

Q Okay. And when was the last time that you had visited with him?

A February 16th, 2020, on a Sunday.

Q Okay. And you went to the Booneville Human Development Center?

A Yes, I did.

Q And did you do what -- kind of the routine that we just talked about?

A Yes.

Q The Wal-Mart, type of food?

A Yes.

Q McDonald's?

A Yes.

Q Okay. A day visit?

A Yes.

Q All right. And did you go up there by yourself, did you have somebody with you?
A I was by myself.
Q All right. Now, did you -- before David passed away, were you on any -- were you going to any type of counseling or therapy or having any treatment for emotional or psychological issues?
A No.
Q And after he had passed away, did you undergo any such treatment?
A No.
Q And before David passed away, were you on any antidepression medications?
A No.
Q Any antianxiety medications?
A No.
Q Any type of antipsychotic medications?
A No.
Q And what about afterwards, did you start any such medications?
A No.
Q So, you didn't take any antidepressants, any antipsychotics, or antianxiety pills?
A No.
Q I'm going to ask you -- I know that Christine has a different name now. So, at some point in time, I assume she got married?

A Yes.
Q Okay. And it's my understanding, she lives in Vermont?
A Yes.
Q Do you know when she moved to Vermont, approximately?
A Approximately -- I don't know. 2015, 2016, I think. I'm not sure.
Q Okay. And she got a job up there?
A Yes. In that area, yes.
Q And so, how often would she come back down to visit you?
A She would come at least once, maybe twice a year.
Q Okay. And when she came to visit you, did she also go to see David?
A Always, yes.
Q So, that would be once or twice a year?
A At least once or twice a year, on average.
Q All right.
A Yes.
Q Do you know who the Disability Rights Arkansas organization is?
A I know what it is.

Q Have you ever spoken to them?
A No.
Q You never spoke to anybody from them or to them about David?
A No.
Q You never spoke to them at the Booneville Human Development Center?
A No.

MR. ROSEN: I think that's all the questions I have. Thank you very much.

CROSS EXAMINATION

BY MR. GILLISPIE:

Q Ms. Charlene, was there -- you said that you had last visited David in February of 2020?
A Yes.
Q Was there a reason that you had not been able to visit him since February, 2020?
A Yes.
Q What's the reason?
A COVID.
Q And could you -- was there -- or was visitation suspended?
A Yes.
Q Mr. Rosen showed you David's IPPs from 2018 and 2019. And those have been introduced as Respondent's

Exhibits Two and Three to your deposition.
A Yes.
Q And did you review -- you took a look at those; right?
A Yes.
Q And he asked you questions about that?
A Yes.
Q As far as you know, is there any mention of ground restraints anywhere in either of these documents?
A No.
Q As far as you know, did anybody at Booneville ever talk to you or tell you that David might be restrained on the ground?
A No.
Q All right. Is there any mention in either of these same documents about a policy that they had whereby only medical staff could call 911?
A No, no.
Q Did you see anything in those documents that mentioned that?
A No.
Q Did anybody ever tell you that there was a policy at Booneville whereby direct care staff could not call 911?
A No.

Q On the day of your son's death, did someone call you to notify you that he had passed away?
A Somebody called me, yes.
Q And how did they tell you he had died?
A The person that called me said he had choked on his lunch.
Q Okay.
A While eating lunch. But they know he has -- you know, that's what I was told.
Q Okay. I'm showing you an envelope here. Take a look at that.
A Okay. (Witness complies.) Yes.
Q That's an original envelope, so there is no copy of it?
A Yes. I must have taped it shut.
Q Okay. You received a letter in this envelope after David's death?
A Yes.
Q Could you tell -- is there a postmark date on that?
A Yes. It appears to be 22nd June '20.
Q Okay. Could you hold that up for the camera?
A Uh-huh. (Witness complies.)

THE WITNESS: You got it?

VIDEOGRAPHER: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

BY MR. GILLISPIE:
Q And did you receive that letter -- so, it's postmarked June 22nd, 2020. Did you receive that letter either on the 22nd or the 23rd of June?
A Yes, yes.
Q And did that -- and that envelope contained a letter; correct?
A Yes.
Q Let him take a look at it, and then I'll ask you one or two questions about the letter.
A Okay.
Q Now, Ms. Charlene, is this the actual copy, the original letter that you received?
A Yes, yes.
Q Okay. And who is that letter from?
A Caleb Murray.
Q Okay. And who is -- and Caleb Murray is who?
A Program Coordinator/Social Worker. I call him case manager.
Q Is it a letter from the Booneville Human Development Center?
A No, there's nothing on it. It just says -- where is it? It says, "Human Services", which is the department he was in.
Q Okay. Is it a letter from the Arkansas Department of Human Services?

A Yes, Arkansas Department of Human Services.
Q Okay. And it was written by Caleb Murray?
A It appears to be, yes.
Q Okay. And where did Caleb Murray work?
A He worked at Booneville, and he was in social services.
Q He was David's social services worker?
A Yes, he was.
Q Okay. And I would like you to just read the entire letter.
A Okay. "Reference: David Cains. Dear Ms. Robinson" --
Q Speak up, please.
A Okay. Sorry. My throat is a little dry. "Enclosed you will find a copy of the Final Synopsis of an incident that was reported to you earlier. As always, I appreciate your cooperation and involvement. If you should have any questions or concerns, please do not hesitate to contact me. I can be reached by phone at 479-675-1406 or by email at Caleb" --
Q That's fine.
A You know, I couldn't do that anyway.
Q And this letter came with a Final Synopsis?
A Yes.

Q But it references a Final Synopsis?
A Yes.
Q And is this the Final Synopsis that you received on that day? (Indicating.)
A Yes.
Q Okay. And I won't ask you to read the entire thing.
A Okay.
Q But what did this Final Synopsis contain? What did you learn from this Final Synopsis?
A I learned that he choked while eating lunch. I learned that there was maltreatment of some sort. Well, it says "maltreatment".
Q You had been told he choked while eating lunch?
A Yes, that's what I had been told.
Q But did this Final Synopsis give you new information that you hadn't known previously?
A Only that he was restrained on the floor.
Q Okay.
A Other than that, no.
Q This Final -- does this Final Synopsis reflect that your son had -- there had been a restraint incident related to his death?
A It -- yes.
Q Does it reflect that there was a maltreatment investigation into the people who restrained -- into the direct care staff that restrained David?

A Yes.
Q Prior to receiving this letter on either June 22nd or June 23rd of 2020, had you ever been informed that there had been a restraint incident that led to his death?
A No.
Q Prior to this letter, had you ever been informed that there was a maltreatment investigation related to your son's death?
A No.
Q Okay. Nobody ever called you and mentioned anything like that to you?
A No.
Q And you -- again, you received this letter on either June 22nd or June 23rd?
A Yes.
Q And your son died on June 13th?
A Yes.
Q Okay. At the time you received this letter, had your son's funeral already occurred?
A Yes.
Q Was he -- what day was he buried?
A June 19th.
Q And was that a Friday?

A Yes, it was.
Q Okay. And you received this letter either three or four days after he was --
A Yes.
Q -- was buried?
A Yes.
Q And again, prior to this letter, you -- and as far as you know, neither you, and as far as you know, nobody in your family had received any notice whatsoever that there had been a restraint incident that led to his death or a maltreatment investigation into that restraint incident?
A No.
Q Okay. If you would, hold the letter up for the camera.
A Like this? (Indicating.)
Q Yes.

MR. ROSEN: Are you going to introduce it?

MR. GILLISPIE: Yes.

MR. ROSEN: Okay.

MR. GILLISPIE: And can you hold up the Final Synopsis?

THE WITNESS: (Complies.)

MR. GILLISPIE: Yes. You got it?

VIDEOGRAPHER: Uh-huh. (Indicated yes.)

BY MR. GILLISPIE:
Q Okay. And I'll introduce the envelope as a --
A I wrote on this one.
Q Well, I'll make a copy of it. But make the envelope Exhibit One, and then we'll make the letter and the attached Synopsis Exhibit Two, because they're one document, really.
A They came together.
Q They came together. And in fact, since this is the original, I'll make copies of the exhibits. I have one.

MR. GILLISPIE: Give me just a moment, please. I'm not sure I have anything else.

MR. ROSEN: Do you want to go off the record?

MR. GILLISPIE: Yes.

MR. ROSEN: You've got to make the copy anyway.

VIDEOGRAPHER: We are off the record at 11:37 a.m.

(WHEREUPON, there was a discussion held off the record.)

(WHEREUPON, Claimant's Exhibit Numbers One and Two were marked for identification.)

VIDEOGRAPHER: We are back on the record at 11:41 a.m.

BY MR. GILLISPIE:
Q Okay. Ms. Robinson, I'm showing you once again the Final Synopsis that you received in the mail on June 22nd or June 23rd of 2020 which has been marked as Claimant's Exhibit Two to your deposition. I would like, if you could, read that first paragraph under "Final Synopsis".
A "I have reviewed the Adult Maltreatment Investigation Report prepared by Sandy Evans, Residential Services Director/Adult Maltreatment Investigator, as well as all supporting documentation. This report concerns David Cains, client, and BHDC facility."
Q Okay. And I would like you to, the next paragraph, read the first three sentences of the second paragraph.
A "On 6-13-20, David Cains purportedly vomited and choked during a behavior incident at the Commons Building at approximately 11:30 a.m. David had physically attacked and he was held in personal restraint on his left side by" --
Q And are there -- there are portions of this that are redacted?
A Yes.
Q The name of the person he allegedly attacked is redacted?
A Yes.
Q And then, the names of the people who, it says, restrained him on his left side are redacted?

A Yes.
Q Okay.
A There are names redacted.
Q Okay. Now, I would like you to read the last part that says -- starting with, "Based on", and then those two little paragraphs under that.
A "Based on interviews and written statements by BHDC staff, I find: There is insufficient evidence to corroborate maltreatment of David Cains by," and there it's redacted, "and/or," and another redacted. "All staff conducted themselves in an appropriate manner and immediately responded to help David in this crisis. All staff was current on their CPR training and CPI training and followed Mr. Cains' IPP dated 7-18-2019. Therefore, I find there is not sufficient evidence to substantiate a finding of Adult Maltreatment by facility nor staff." And then, redacted, "and," redacted, "will report back to full duty June 18, 2020."
Q And then, what's that?
A "CLOSED".
Q "CLOSED". And did you have any idea what they were -- what this was talking about at the time you received this letter?
A No.

Q This is the very first you had heard of any of this?
A Very first I had heard.
Q Did anybody ever follow up with a phone call and give you some explanation as to what all this meant?
A No.
Q Never?
A Never.
Q Okay. Nobody from Booneville, nobody from DDS, nobody from DHS ever gave you the courtesy of a phone call to go over this incident and the contents of this letter and give you some answers?
A No.
Q Or even to express condolences?
A No. What do you want me to do with this?
Q You can have that.
A Okay.
Q Okay. Do you miss your son, Ms. Robinson?
A Yes. I think about him every day.
Q Could you say that again?
A I think about him every day.
Q What do you think about when you think of him?
A I think about how happy, you know, he was there, about how much fun he had coming home, about his Monkees, and his sister, you know, his sister, he asked about her all the time.

Q Were they extremely close?
A They were very close, yes.
Q Had they been close their whole lives?
A Yes.
Q What do you -- what are some of the things you miss most about Davie?
A I miss just his bubbly personality. I miss being able to speak to him every week, and we would talk about, you know, what he did for the week. And, of course, he always wanted chicken, that he wanted me to come see him.
Q Did you speak to him every week?
A I spoke to him every week.
Q And what did he talk about, typically?
A Typically, I talked about how he -- I asked him, "How are you doing," "I'm doing good." "What have you been doing," and he would tell me he would go to work or he was listening to his Monkees and watching TV. Of course, during COVID, obviously, things were limited. But he was happy. And when I explained to him I couldn't come up there, he understood.
Q He understood?
A Yes.
Q Is there anything else you would like to share about

David, about who he was and what he meant to you?
A He meant the world to me. I mean, I was his mother, but we were friends, too. We laughed, you know. Yes, we argued, but you argue with your children, you know, and he would -- sometimes when I would take him shopping, he would say I owed him money. He was always using my money. But it was fun, we had very good outings. We went on drives, you know, take a drive. And I just miss him, I miss him, I miss him coming home. He had his own room, his own TV, you know, at my -- or I call it our home. And he was a lot of fun to be around.
Q Did you ever spend time with him at Christmas?
A Always. He was there at Christmas always.
Q Are Christmases without him hard?
A There was one Christmas that we decided not to be with him, and that was due to the weather.
Q Are Christmases, now that he's gone, difficult?
A Yes. I still put the tree up because he loved the tree. I hung his huge stocking that a friend of mine decorated for him, and I put that out by the tree, too, because he --
Q You still put his stocking up every year?
A Yes. And he has a little tree that he decorated for Halloween, and then let those kids -- this is funny, Halloween, you know, decorations, and then turn around and put Christmas decorations on the same tree with the Halloween.

Q He did that?
A He did that. Because I was going to take them off, "No, no. These are going to stay on."
Q Did he love Halloween, too?
A He liked Halloween, he did.
Q Yes. Would he dress up?
A He did dress up sometimes. They had -- sometimes they would have, you know -- and I know they had cookouts and stuff like that, through the year for different occasions.
Q Yes.
A But, yeah, he would dress up sometimes.
Q Okay.

MR. GILLISPIE: Well, thank you, Ms. Robinson, I don't think I have any further questions for you.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

MR. ROSEN: I have a few more.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. ROSEN:
Q Just a few followup questions for you.
A Okay.
Q What does the word "investigation" mean to you?

A It's investigating the circumstances, what may have happened surrounding an individual or a situation.
Q Okay. So, like an inquiry?
A An inquiry, asking questions, yes.
Q So, investigations take a little bit of time, don't they?
A Normally, yes.
Q So, it wouldn't be unusual, in your mind, would it, for something, an event to happen, whatever it is, and then the investigation to be conducted once that happened would take several days, or even sometimes longer?
A It could take a while, yes.
Q Okay. So, that wouldn't be unusual?
A No.
Q Okay. And you mentioned that -- so, after you received what has been marked as Claimant's Exhibit One, the letter?
A Yes.
Q Did you call anybody at Booneville Human Development Center and ask what it meant?
A No, I did not.
Q Okay. And there were members of the Booneville Human Development Center at David Cains' funeral; right?
A His case manager and his supervisor.
Q Because they're the ones who took care of him on a day-to-day basis; right?

A Part of them, yes.
Q And they knew him?
A Yes, they knew him.
Q And were they upset?
A Yes.
Q Okay.

MR. ROSEN: I have no other questions. Thank you.

VIDEOGRAPHER: We are off the record at 11:50 a.m.

WHEREUPON,

VIDEOGRAPHER: We are on the audio and video record. Today's date is November 4th, 2022, the time is approximately 11:54 a.m. This is the videotaped deposition of Sarah Ashley Cains in the case of Christine McAuliffe versus the Arkansas Department of Human Services. Case number is 220374 in the Claims Commission of the State of Arkansas. My name is Randy Schoening, I'm a videographer from Little Rock, Arkansas.

Will counsel please introduce themselves for the record?

MR. GILLISPIE: Yes. I'm Josh Gillispie on behalf of claimant.

MR. ROSEN: Rich Rosen for the Department of Human Services.

VIDEOGRAPHER: Will the witness please be sworn?

(WHEREUPON, the witness was duly sworn.)

VIDEOGRAPHER: You may proceed.

MR. ROSEN: Thank you.

WHEREUPON,

SARAH ASHLEY CAINS,

having been called for examination, and having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. ROSEN:

Q As I was introduced, my name is Rich Rosen, I represent the Arkansas Department of Human Services in this matter, and I'm going to be asking you a few questions here today.

A Okay.

Q If you answer the question, I'm going to assume that you understood what the question asks. If you don't understand what it asks, just ask me to --

A Clarify?

Q -- repeat it or restate it and I'll be happy to do so.

A Okay.

Q If for any reason you need to take a break during this deposition, as long as there's not a question pending, just let us know.

A Okay.

Q And we're good. Okay. I'm going to start off with the basics. Would you please state your name again?

A Sarah Ashley Cains.

Q And do you go by Sarah or Ashley?

A I go by Ashley.
Q Okay. All right. And what is your date of birth?
A [redacted]
Q And where do you live?
A Gulfport, Mississippi.
Q Okay. Are you employed?
A Yes.
Q And what do you do?
A I work at Bubba Gump Shrimp Company, and I also work at KimCo as a billing clerk.
Q Okay. And the shrimp company, what do you do there?
A I do a daiquiri retail shop.
Q What does that mean?
A I do the retail shop, and we also sell daiquiris.
Q Okay. I like daiquiris. Okay. And how long have you been in Mississippi?
A I've been there since March 2008.
Q Oh, for a long time?
A Yes, sir.
Q Okay. And did you ever live in Arkansas?
A Yes, sir.
Q Okay. So, before March of 2008?
A Yes. My whole life before that.
Q Okay. And what caused you to move to Mississippi?
A My boyfriend, we had a son, and we decided to follow his family down there.

Q Okay.
A A change.
Q All right. And so, what did you do when you lived here in Arkansas?
A I worked at Dixie Cafe after I graduated high school.
Q Okay. And is this in Pope County?
A Yes.
Q So, did you -- hold on. What's your relationship to David Cains?
A My brother, he was my brother.
Q Okay. And from what I understand, he's -- his mother is different than your mother?
A Yes.
Q Okay.
A We share a dad.
Q Okay. When did you -- and what was your father's name?
A David.
Q And he has passed away since?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And David was your father's name?
A Yes.
Q And so, David, your father, remarried after his divorce to David Cains' mother; is that right?

A They married after I was born.
Q Yes. Because the names are the same, it's a little confusing.
A Yes.
Q So, let me ask it a different way, just to make sure I understand. Your father -- David Cains is your half-brother?
A Yes.
Q And David Cains, I guess, Senior is your father?
A Yes. We share a father.
Q And so, did -- well, let me ask it this way. Did you ever live in a home with David Cains, Junior?
A Not that I can recall. I was little. I'm sure I did at some point.
Q Okay. But you don't really recall living with him?
A I was little.
Q Yes.
A When our dad passed.
Q Okay. And so, growing up, you didn't -- you don't recall living with David Cains, your half-brother, but did you -- did he ever come visit with you or did you ever visit him?
A Yes, we visited every -- a lot.
Q Okay. I'm sorry. I know I asked you this. But what year were you born?

A [redacted]
Q [redacted] Okay. And so, [redacted] where was David Cains living, the son?
A In Pottsville with my dad and sister.
Q And where were you living?
A I was just born.
Q Okay. All right. So, you all lived together --
A I'm -- yes.
Q You lived together, you just don't remember it?
A Yes. I was too little. I was too little to remember.
Q All right. Did he live with your father full-time? I mean, do you know?
A At that point, yes.
Q Okay. So, he didn't live -- in 1988, he didn't live with Ms. Robinson?
A I believe, before I was born, they did live together.
Q Okay.
A I am not aware of that.
Q Okay. But in 19 -- there came a point in time where he lived -- after you were born, where David Cains came to live full-time in you and your dad's household?
A I believe, yes.

Q Okay. That's your understanding?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And how long did that last?
A I'm not sure.
Q Okay. And then, there came a point in time, from my understanding, that David Cains, your half-brother, moved away?
A Yes.
Q Okay. Tell me what happened.
A I do not know. I was young.
Q And after -- do you know where he went, David went?
A When he moved?
Q When he moved, do you know anything about that?
A He lived with a family.
Q All right. Do you know anything about that family?
A I just know his name was [redacted]
Q Okay.
A He lived there.
Q [redacted] was the first name or last name?
A His first name.
Q Okay. Do you know his last name?
A No.
Q And what's your understanding, how long did he stay with that family?
A For years, yeah.

Q Okay. And then, did you ever visit David Cains?
A Not at that family. When he would come home, we would visit, at my grandma's or his mother's house.
Q So, let's talk about -- okay. So, when he would come home, where would he come to, to your home?
A No. Charlene's house.
Q To Ms. Robinson's house?
A Yes.
Q His mother's?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And you would come over there --
A And visit.
Q -- and see him?
A (Indicated yes.)
Q Okay. Is that a "yes" or a "no"?
A Yes, sir.
Q I'm sorry. One of the things that --
A Yeah. Sorry.
Q In person we all have nonverbal communications, but it has to be on the record.
A Yes.
Q So, I'm just trying to understand. So, you would simply -- when he would come home from this family that he was living with, when he would go visit his mother, you would sometimes come over?

A Yes.
Q What, for dinner or --
A Dinner, hang out, to visit, see him.
Q I got it. And to see the rest -- I guess you had other siblings, Christine?
A Yes.
Q Okay. So, it wasn't just for David Cains, it was for the family?
A Yes.
Q Okay.
A But we made it a big deal when he came home.
Q Okay. How often would he come home, that you saw him?
A I'm not sure. I was really little at that time.
Q What about later, how long did he live with this other family?
A I'm not for sure.
Q Okay. Fair enough. Do you know, did he stay with that family for -- did he ever go with another family or stay with that family, or do you not know?
A I do not know.
Q And did there come a point in time where he had a different placement, that you're aware of?
A Just the family he was with, and then ADHD -- or ADC.

Q The human development center?
A Yes.
Q I know what you meant, but I needed to --
A Yes.
Q And did you ever visit him there?
A Yes, several times.
Q "Several" being approximately how many?
A I can't put a number on it. I moved shortly after that to Gulfport. So, when we would come visit, we would come see him, or he would come down and we would see him then.
Q So, when you -- I guess what I'm asking is, did you go directly to visit him in the Booneville Human Development Center, or did you go with like other family members to go visit him?
A I went with my sister a few times, mainly with her, and Charlene. But when I lived in Gulfport, I would come visit him probably a couple of times alone with me and my kids.
Q Okay. And so, you were familiar with Booneville Human Development Center?
A Somewhat.
Q Okay. Did he seem happy there?
A Yes.
Q Did it seem a good placement for him?

A He loved it there.
Q That was his home?
A Yeah.
Q Okay. Did you meet any of the staff?
A Just signing in and in passing.
Q Okay. So, you didn't really talk to them?
A Not personally, no.
Q Did you -- were you -- at any times that you were visiting or that you recall -- and I understand you were young when you were in the house -- but with that caveat, were there any behavioral problems, aggression, that you became aware of or noticed?
A No, sir.
Q Okay. Did you ever become aware of any aggression or violence?
A No.
Q Okay. And so, after David became -- after you have your own family and you had moved away, and you had said that you would come up sometimes and you would bring your kids and go visit David. Would that -- tell me about that.
A We would just -- we would go visit him, we would stop at Wal-Mart, buy him the snacks that he liked, bring him his lunch, stayed there a few hours and visit.
Q Okay. What types of things would you do when you were at -- so, you would visit him at the Booneville Human Development Center?

A Yes.
Q Did they have a room or an area that --
A His room.
Q Oh. Okay.
A Or if we would bring him lunch, we would go sit in the lunchroom.
Q And during those times there were no problems?
A No, sir.
Q And everything looked -- at the human development center, you were satisfied with the care he was given?
A Yes, sir.
Q Anything -- and you went into David's room in the development center?
A Yes.
Q And he had his own room; right?
A Yes.
Q Did he -- did he have a TV?
A Yes.
Q Did you notice anything about the TV?
A No, sir.
Q Did you notice that it was behind plexiglass?
A No, not that I can recall.
Q How many times do you think, after you moved to Mississippi, that you came up to see the family and eventually David?

A A good handful. I couldn't really put a number on it. But every time we would come home, if he didn't come visit us at his mom's, we would go up there and visit him.
Q And I don't have the name, but Shelly, is that your sister?
A Yes. We share the same mom.
Q Okay. And did Shelly -- where did she live?
A She lives in New York now.
Q Oh. When did she move there?
A Recently. Not even a year ago.
Q Okay. Before that -- before David Cains passed away, where did she live?
A In the house with them in Pottsville.
Q With?
A My mom, my dad.
Q Okay. And your dad passed away in 1991?
A Yes.
Q And then, do you know -- so, where did Shelly live after that, with your mom?
A Yes. And then --
Q Okay. Is that what you're saying?
A Yes.

Q Okay.

MR. GILLISPIE: Don't wait.

MR. ROSEN: We'll wait.

VIDEOGRAPHER: Do you want to go off the record?

(WHEREUPON, a brief discussion was held off the record.)

BY MR. ROSEN:

Q So, were you at David's funeral?

A Yes.

Q Was Shelly at the funeral?

A No.

Q Okay. What's her last name?

A Now?

Q Yes.

A Panulla.

Q Can you spell that?

A P-A-N-U-L-L-A.

Q Was your mom at the funeral?

A No.

Q Was Ms. Robinson at the funeral?

A Yes.

Q Was Christine at the funeral?

A Yes.

[redacted]

Q Are you aware of any behavior -- well, when you were with David, did he have any -- express any frustrations or behaviors that were when he was agitated?

A No.

Q So, when you saw him, everything was nice and calm?

A Yes.

Q In a good mood?

A Yes.

Q And do you still visit with Ms. Robinson?

A When I do come home to visit, I will.
Q Okay. And you saw her today here?
A Yes.
Q Do you stay in contact with her?
A I do.
Q By telephone?
A Yes.
Q Okay.

MR. ROSEN: I don't think I have anything further.

MR. GILLISPIE: I don't have any questions. Thank you very much.

MR. ROSEN: Thank you very much.

THE WITNESS: Thank you.

VIDEOGRAPHER: We are off the record at 12:12 p.m.

(WHEREUPON, at 12:12 p.m., the taking of the above-entitled deposition was concluded.)

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. GILLISPIE:

Q Hi, Mr. Jobb. Thanks for being here today.

My name is Josh Gillespie. I'm the attorney for the Estate of David Cains.

Would you state your full name for us, please.

A James Justin Jobb.

Q Okay.

A Not job.

Q Okay. Jobb. Okay. I'm sorry.

A That's okay. I get it all the time.

Q If it's possible to either turn up your volume or scoot a little bit closer --

A Okay. Let me see.

Q -- I'm having a little trouble -- I can hear you but it's a little quiet.

A They usually say I'm loud, so this is news to me.

Q Me too. Easiest thing might just be to get a little bit closer.

A Okay.

Q I don't know though.
A All right. I'll scoot up. Is that better?
Q Yeah. Sorry about that.
Are you in your office today?
A Yeah, I am.
Q Okay. Is anybody else present with you?
A No, sir.
Q Okay.
All right, Mr. Jobb. Again, have you ever been -- appreciate you being here.
Have you ever been deposed before, sir?
A No, sir.
Q Okay. Well, basically I'm going to ask you some questions. I'm going to try not to take up too much of your time.
The only real rules here are to make sure you can hear me. If you can't hear me, let me know. If you don't understand what I'm asking, ask me to rephrase.
And, because we have the court reporter who has to make a record, it's important to verbalize yes and no as opposed to -- as opposed to that. Because she has to make a record of it.
If you need to take a break, at any point, just let us know, and we can do that. Other than that, we can get started here.

A Okay.
Q All right.
What is your educational background, Mr. Jobb?
A I have a bachelor's degree in history with a minor in historical interpretation.
Q Okay. And how long -- and your title at Booneville is what?
A Well, I'm actually doing double duty at this time. I'm a program coordinator as well as a team leader.
I just hired on as team leader maybe two months ago. But I was -- I've been a program coordinator here for between 12 or 13 years. I worked at BHDC for close to 24 years.
Q Oh, okay. Close to 24 years. All right.
A I've worked in this field for a little over 30 years.
I've worked at different facilities out in Texas as well. Been doing this -- Q (Inaudible) -- I'm sorry. Go ahead.
A No, I just said I've been doing this awhile.
Q Okay.
Where'd you go to college? Where'd you get your degree?
A University of Arkansas in Fort Smith.
Q Okay. And do you have any other -- other than your bachelor's in history and your minor, do you have any other degrees?

A No, sir. I do not.

Q Okay.

And what was your title at Booneville at the time of David Cains' death?

A Program coordinator.

Q You weren't the QIDP, qualified --

A (Inaudible) --

Q -- intellectual disability professional?

A It's the same thing. It's a QIDP, program coordinator.

Q So those are interchangeable terms at Booneville?

A It is. Yes, sir.

Q Okay.

A I mean, the social workers are also considered program coordinators as well, for whatever reason.

But, yes, Q -- QIDP, slash, program coordinator. It's a long title but. . .

Q Okay.

A Q for short, usually. But program coordinator seems to help people understand actually what I do.

Q Okay. And you were specifically the qualified intellectual disability professional, which we'll call Q for short. You were the Q for David Cains?

A Yes, sir.
Q Okay. Did he have more than one Q or was it just you?
A Just me. Just me at that time.
Q How long had you been his Q at the time of his death?
A Oh -- let's see. I'd say probably -- honestly, I don't know.
Because our caseloads change periodically, so I can't give you a clear answer on that.
Q More than five years?
A Honestly, don't know. Because, like I said, our caseloads -- you know, we had a revolving door of Qs there for a while.
And I had clients added, moved, and just -- we rotated quite a bit. So I know, at the time of his death, I was his Q. I had known him for years though.
Q Can you give me any idea of how long you know for sure you had been his Q at the time of his death?
A I would -- I would just have to guess.
I mean, I've been a Q over that particular living area along with some other living areas. But, over at Davison house, where he resided, the entire time I've been a Q. But I can not put a timeframe on that. I'm sorry.

Q How many clients does each Q have? How many clients is each Q responsible for, at a given time, typically?
A During my time, it's been anywhere from 22 clients to 38 is about -- I think 38 is probably about the most I've ever had.
I've probably not had less than 21, 22, at any time. That number goes up and down because this is an intermediate facility, so. . .
Q And could you say how many you had in 2020?
A No, I can not.
Q Did you review any documents, review any materials, in preparation for today?
A I looked at my IPP that I wrote. It's -- it's probably three years old.
At the time of his death, we were -- we had a scheduled annual review for him that we obviously did not get to conduct. So I just looked at -- that's the big document that I was responsible for; so, yes, I did look over that.
Q And am I correct that the most recent IPP for David had been done in July of 2019?
A Yes, sir. That's correct.
Q And I presume that the next one would have been done in July of 2020 had he lived?
A Right.

We usually -- those IPPs have to be typed and up for review and posted within 15 working days after the meeting itself, so yes.
Q And that meeting takes place once a year for each client?
A Well, yes. Honestly, it's close to 11 months because we have to have that annual review in and IPP has to be typed, reviewed, and posted before that annual year will lapse. So we'd be out of compliance.
So that gives you time -- really, it's every 11 months on -- you know.
Q Okay.
A Because, at that time -- I mean --
Q But it's an annual thing?
A It's an annual thing, yes. It's a once-a-year meeting.
But it -- it has to be done in a timely manner where we have time to get the meeting and the paperwork done and everything in place. There's a lot that goes with those.
Q And you referred to it as, you know, my IPP. Is that because, as the Q, you're the person, ultimately, in charge of and responsible for the individual program plan for your clients?
A Yes. I wrote that IPP. So it's considered a legal document and it has my name on it, so. . .

Q I'm just trying to get a sense of if there's any other person that is more ultimately responsible for that IPP than the Q.
A No. I mean, it -- it has to go up for review before we can post it.
And, at this time, our QA director reviews them. That has -- you know, they -- they may look for typos and any kind of mistakes we may have made.
You know, they're sometimes 20 to 28 pages long; there's going to be some typos. So it's just a thing that we go by where they review it and they send it back to us, we correct those mistakes, and then we post it. Or we post it on SHARE, is what we use, so (inaudible). Go ahead.
Q No, I'm sorry. That's another thing about depositions I should have mentioned. I'm going to be careful to try to not speak over you and let you finish your sentence so that it doesn't confuse the record. And you've already been doing a good job at this, but just do the same for me.
I'm probably going to ask questions where you know the -- you seem like a bright guy. You're going to -- there's going to be some questions where you know the answer before I even finish the sentence. Go ahead and let me finish the sentence anyways --

A Certainly.
Q -- for the record --
A Sure.
Q -- before you answer. And I'll do the same for you.
It's something I -- it's hard for me, particularly. I'm an impatient sort.
A It's not my strength, but I'll do my best.
Q Me either. I come by it honestly though.
As far as documents you reviewed to prepare for today, other than the 2019 IPP, were there any other things that you looked at?
A Just the health and safety plan. But that is within the IPP as well.
That's another document that I type up following that annual review. But it's -- it's included in the IPP.
Q Isn't there a team of folks that are supposed to, at least, give you input on these IPPs?
A Well, yes. Yes.
Q And, if you could, just explain to me that -- would that be the interdisciplinary team?
A Yes, sir.
Q Okay. And if you could -- and I have the policy, the interdisciplinary team. And then I have the one for qualified intellectual disability professional process.

But how would you describe -- and, again, I'm asking just so I can get a -- make sure I have the best understanding, the clearest understanding possible, of how this process works, with regards to producing the IPP.

So, if you could, explain what this -- with regards to David, what the interdisciplinary team is. What it did; how it then effectuates producing this IPP.

A Okay. The first thing we do is, after the previous years' annual review, we schedule one. Like I said earlier, it's approximately 11 months after that.

Now, leading into the annual review itself, there's various areas at this, on this campus, that provide me with their evaluations. Those -- those people would be his prevocational trainers, his living area supervisor, his registered nurse that's on the team, psychology, social services.

You know, if he were in speech therapy, I'd have a report from the speech therapist. I also -- and there's different reports within the medical, like the nutritional report, the dysphasia, those types of things.

So everybody provides a report. And we like to have those at least one week prior to the meeting. And they post them on the computer, what we call SHARE.

So everyone on the team goes and ideally reviews these reports and then I develop -- I go by the reports. And a lot of them provide me training objectives that -- whether it be domestic skills or personal care skills or the prevocational training, fitness training, those different things.

So I will develop a draft of the training plan. And that training plans is also included in the IPP. But I like to have a draft going into the meeting after I've reviewed everybody's reports. So --

Q Are the people that submit the reports, are those considered the members of the interdisciplinary team?

A Well, we have what is called a core. The core team members would be social services, the guardian, the client, psychology, medical, and a representative. Usually, it's a supervisor in the living area.

Those would be your core team members. Now --

Q And that's --

A Go ahead.

Q I apologize. Go ahead.

A Well, those are your core team members. But there's times where other people will show up.

Like I mentioned before, there might be a speech therapist that shows up. Prevocational trainers show up.

But, see, speech is under medical; prevocational trainers are under residential services, so we can't stack the deck with the vote because we do a lot of voting at these meetings.

So we only allow the -- we want the core team members to vote.

Q Okay. I'm going to show you a document. I think this must -- tell me this -- okay.

So this is page three of the 2019 IPP. And, at the top, it says the following people attended the annual review, see signature sheet, and then name and title.

MR. GILLISPIE: And this is Bates marked 13908, Eric.

MR. COLLINS: Okay.

BY MR. GILLISPIE:

Q My question is, the people listed under name and title here of these, one, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten, 11, these 11 folks, would that be the core team for the 2019 IPP?

A They're not all core team members, no. I can point out, if you'd like, the core team members that's listed.

Q Please.

A All those people listed were in attendance at that meeting.

Q Okay. That was my next question, but -- okay.

A Yeah, they were -- those people were in attendance.

Now, there are times where they're on conference calls. But it looks like, in this case, everybody was in person at -- because I will stipulate if it was on a conference call --

Q Okay.

A -- under the same area.

Q But you have this in front of you, so you don't need me to hold it up?

A Well, I couldn't see it anyway. You're about the size of a half-dollar right now. I might have to blow you up over there so. . .

Q Okay. Well --

A Yes, I do have it in front of me.

Q Okay. So who were the core team members for this 2019 IPP?

A Okay. I'll list them off for you.

The first one was Caleb Murray. He is the worker for -- he's the social services worker.

Q Yes, sir.

A Brenda Jo Jarrard is the RN. She's the team RN.

Q Yes, sir.

A The next one, she no longer works here, but her name was Ashton Cobb. She was the living area supervisor that was representing Davison house.

Q Yes, sir.

A The next one is Mike Alvis. He's the psychological examiner.
Q Yes, sir.
A And then David is listed and his mother, as guardian, is also part of that core team.
Q Okay.
A As you can see, there's other people that were at that meeting. The one -- Angela McPhail, the RI, she's from prevo; or was.
Q Yes, sir.
A Jane Ziegler, she was our QA director at the time.
Q Yes, sir.
A She's no longer with us.
But another -- I had another representative from prevocational training, Audra DeLay.
And the sister, Chrissy Cains, was -- is not part of the core; but she was obviously a family member and -- and attended that particular meeting.
Q Yes, sir.
So, to recap, the core team members were Caleb Murray, Brenda Jo Jarrard, Ashton Cobb, Mike Alvis, yourself, and Charlene Robinson?
A Yes. And I -- I always include the client as well.
Q And David. Okay. Okay. Very good.
And the, below that, those are the folks that you referred to earlier from different areas, from psychology, from medical, from nursing, who may have submitted written input through the SHARE system; is that right?

A That is correct.

Everyone I have listed there had some type of information, whether it was an evaluation or -- a lot of it, I mean, the first few are under medical. And that was included in Brenda Jo Jarrard's medical review.

But some of them -- yes. That is the answer to your question. All of these people, I had some type of report, some information provided to me, prior to that annual review.

Q And I've spoken to Caleb Murray before, but what would you -- Caleb Murray, as David's social worker, in layman terms, how does he function as a core member of this IPP, of this team, that helps you with his IPP?

A Well, he provides the social history report. And, I don't know, they vary but -- and I don't have that one in front of me.

But, you know, they're about five or six pages long. And it includes a lot of the background information, you know, what transpired through his life, how he actually came to our facility, you know, as far as the guardianship, some of the legal terminology and how he acquired guardianship and those sort of things.

So -- but he's a voting member at my -- there's a few things that we have to vote on.

Q What are those?

A Okay. Well, the first one is we talk about whether we feel this individual client is properly places here at BHDC or should -- does anybody from the team feel like we need to seek alternate placement outside of this facility.

We are an intermediate facility. We are not you live here forever facility. We try to give the individual skills so they can thrive in the community or another setting at some point in their life.

But we have to vote on that. And I actually have them vote on that close to the beginning of my meeting and then before we wrap up the meeting.

Somewhere toward the end, we vote again. And we go around the table and ask the core team members that will say that.

Now, we vote on that particular thing; but the guardian actually has the real say as -- and that's one thing that, in her case, she would have complete say.

We could have everybody on the team say I think he's properly placed. If his mother said, no, I want to seek alternate placement, her vote just vetoes everybody else in that particular case and we would seek alternate placement for that individual in that case, but --

Q She could have chosen to remove him from the facility at any point?
A At any time. At any time.
Q Whether you wanted her to or not?
A Right. And the team would document that they were opposed to it, if they were opposed to it. And it's happened, you know, so. . .
Q Never with him though?
A No. No. No.
Q All right.

MR. GILLISPIE: I think I forgot to say that I'm going to enter this as Exhibit 1. This is the page. We'll just have to email it around.

(WHEREUPON, the document was marked for identification as Exhibit No. 1 and is attached hereto.)

A Well, I did not finish the other things that we vote on, if you were interested.
BY MR. GILLISPIE:
Q Yeah. I'm sorry. Please.
A You did ask on that.
That was -- that's what we -- we do that at the beginning and at the end.

But another thing that we have to vote on, and we do at every meeting for every individual we serve is we go down the list of rights restrictions. And, usually, the way I carried that out is I will read to the team what we currently have authorized, and we'll determine as a team if we want to make any type of revisions.

Maybe sometimes -- we really try to do away with restrictions when we can. That's the idea. Sometimes we need -- it's a health and safety plan. So sometimes we need to add things to that particular document to better protect that individual we serve.

So -- but these are all voted on. And we go around the table and majority rules. You know, sometimes you'll have members opposed to it and -- but we will go with the majority and the restriction will be added if the numbers are in that way.

Another thing that we discuss is money authorization. And similar with the health and safety plan, I will -- I will usually say this is what we currently have authorized and does anybody feel like we need to make any type of revisions. And we will go around and vote on that.

So, usually, that's about it. I mean, there's -- there's times where someone will ask, you know, if they don't feel he's properly placed at that particular setting on campus, so, you know, there are times, if somebody wants to, we'll discuss it.

If they might want him to live in another particular area on campus, we will vote on that, if that's an issue. But, usually, those are the things that I can think of off the top of my head that we vote on during my meeting.

Q And, with regards to David specifically, can you recall any contested votes on any particular issue?

A No. You would probably see it on page five under the professional judgment guardian opinion. That's usually where I would indicate if there were someone that was opposed to it.

In his -- I would have to look at this real quick. But it looks like, in this case, every -- we had a consensus that he was probably placed. And we -- we're not going to seek alternate placement.

Q Okay.

A Looks like we did have a consensus there.

But that would be the area, if there was an opposing view -- and there are times that we do. But not in this case.

Q And am I correct that you were also the Q for his 2018 IPP as well?

A I -- maybe. I'm not certain. But -- you know, if you had that document -- if my name is on there, I was.

We do list under the name and title and -- but I don't have that one in front of me. I'm sorry.
Q Okay. Let me --
A It's possible.
Q I would just really, if possible, like to figure out, at least get some idea of how long you've served in this, what sounds like, an extremely important role for Mr. Cains.
A Yeah. I'm not even sure how we would acquire that information. I mean, like I said, those caseloads -- I'm sure there's a way. I don't have that information in front of me.
Q So I don't have it printed out. I can't show it to you. But this was produced to me in discovery. I'm looking at it here on my screen.
MR. GILLISPIE: And this is the -- Eric, this is Bates stamped 1350. And this is that same page three that lists the people who attended the meeting except this is for 2018.
BY MR. GILLISPIE:
Q And it does list you, Mr. Jobb, under that, on that list, as QIDP, dash, DDS, backslash, PC.
A All right.
Q So, assuming that I'm not lying to you about what

I'm looking at here, would that indicate you were his Q in 2018 as well?
A Yes. That would be a reasonable assumption. Yes.
Q Okay. And I don't know that I've looked at the one for 2017 or if I have it. So I'm not going to be able to ask you about that.
But, assuming that's true, you were the Q for at least the last two years of his life?
A Yes.
Q Okay.
And what is the RN's role on core team? Brenda Jo Jarrard. We talked about the social worker. What's the RN, Brenda Jo Jarrard's, role on the core team?
A Okay. She provides a medical review. I'm sure you have a copy of her review that's provided.
And she would do those annually prior to the meeting. There's a lot of information. I'd rather her answer it.
But, basically, she's a voting member. She brings any concerns to the table that may need to be addressed. But she kind of -- and I may have failed to mention this. They read their reports at the meeting.
So they -- well, the high points of the report. I'm not going to sit here and say they read word-for-word everything. But they certainly hit the high points of their report that they provide to me prior to the meeting.

And so she would go over, you know, the medications and some of his doctor appointments he may have had or if there were any certain injuries or illnesses or anything that was addressed over that year.

She would also touch on the psych review. And then, at the end of her report, she would ask if anybody has any questions.

So anybody at the table, whether they're a core team member or not, could ask any question they like.

Q Okay. And then Ashton Cobb, she was the -- tell me that, what her job was again and her --

A She was, basically, the -- one of the dorm supervisors. And there -- we had a different number of supervisors. So each supervisor that we have has a caseload similar to what I would have. So --

Q Is --

A Go ahead.

Q Would Ashton Cobb -- RCSS. You told me earlier what they stood for. What is that?

A Residential care supervisor. Staff supervisor. She -- she supervises the direct care staff.

Q Okay. That's my next question.

So does that mean she was the highest-ranking direct care staff member for David?

A Honestly, I don't -- I don't know that answer.
You know, like right now -- no, she wasn't. They have different levels of supervision.
But she -- she was the one that had him on her caseload. She provided the report. But, like right now, in my current position, I'm a team leader. I'm still over that same dorm. So, if she were still with us, I would be her supervisor.
Q Okay. Let me --
A And I have supervisors above me, so -- go ahead.
Q Well, first, let me follow up. Who are the supervisors above you?
A Currently, Jennifer Bancroft is my immediate supervisor.
Q What's her title?
A Residential Services Director.
Q Okay. And, in 2020, who was -- was it still Jennifer Bancroft?
A No. No. She's just been in that position about a year.
Q Who was your direct supervisor in 2020?
A My direct care supervisor in 2020. Honestly, I don't know. I could narrow it down for you, but that --
Q (Inaudible) --

A -- (inaudible) -- you know, there was a time -- because they moved us around.

There was a time that Jane Ziegler, that you see there as a QA director, she was -- she was our supervisor for a period. But then we were moved to residential services.

And now we've been moved back to QA. So we kind of bounce around. So it would have either been her or Debby Porter.

Q And when you say we, whatever department Q is part of, gets moved?

A Well, the Q's, there -- currently, there's, I think, five. And, you know, we don't have -- we're currently under quality assurance.

But there was a time that we were under residential services, so --

Q And you can't say which for --

A -- it's gone back and forth two or three times. So it's -- I would just be making it up.

I want to be perfectly honest with you. I can't -- I don't know.

Q But, in 2020, at the time of his death, it most likely would have either been Debby Porter or Jane Ziegler? Depending on if the Qs were under residential or quality assurance?

A It could have been Carey Johnson.
Q Okay.
And then who would be the person over them?
A If he was still with us -- I'm not sure if he was, but Jerry Cravins was in Jennifer Bancroft's position. But he retired around that time.
Q What was his job title?
A Same as Jennifer Bancroft. He was the residential services director.
Q And who supervises the residential services director?
A The superintendent.
Q And there's --
A Jeff Gonyea.
Q Okay.
So the superintendent is the direct supervisor over the residential services director?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And you're not sure who the residential services director was at the time of David's death?
A I can narrow it down for you.
It was either Jerry Cravins or Sandy Evans. They have both retired since. I don't have the date when they retired, but Jennifer -- it was Jerry Cravins then Sandy Evans and then Jennifer Bancroft replaced Sandy.

The other two have retired.

Q Okay. That's fine.

A We're still hoping for the third one to retire.

Q No, no. That's fine. And I'm not trying to test your memory. I'm just --

A Well (inaudible) --

Q -- trying to get a basic understanding of the hierarchy.

A I can narrow it down for you. But that's difficult for me to do.

Q Perfectly sufficient. I appreciate it.

Can you say who would have been -- you know, these three direct care staff who were involved in the restraint that led to David's death being Ryann Campos, Tyler Mattson, and Mandy Jones, my understanding is that Mandy Jones was some sort of, maybe a shift supervisor that day.

But do you know who would have been the immediate supervisor over her and over them at that time?

A No. I do not have that answer.

Q Do you know what job title would typically would function in that role, if not the name of the person?

A In those three roles that you just mentioned, those three staff members?

Q Right.

A Well, I know the --
Q You've got these three staff members on this date in June of 2020 in the Commons area. They're all direct care staff.
I'm just trying to figure out what -- I know you don't know who the person was. But, typically, what job title would have been the direct supervisor over those three direct care staff?
A Well, it may -- it depends on where they -- you know, it'd probably -- it'd be one of the team leaders. But we have three different team leaders. So it depends on what area they worked on, worked in, or were assigned.
Because sometimes staff are moved around. And I don't know where those three particular staff members were working at that time.
So it really depends on where they were assigned as to who would be their supervisor.
Q (Inaudible) --
A But, ultimately, it would have been the residential service director, would certainly be over all three of those.
Q Okay.
A Yeah.
Q That's fine. That's fine.
Okay. And am I correct that, as the Q, is it fair to say that you were responsible for overseeing the implementation of this IPP?

A Yes. I would -- like I said, I would provide the draft and then we would initiate it. It's usually initiated within 24 hours of the annual review.
And then, as a Q, you have to do progress notes each month to check the data that's been collected from those various areas. And there's times where you make some modifications on those objectives if they meet criteria and are advancing.
But there's also times where they're not progressing; and, after a certain period of time, we may change the criteria to help them show some type of progression.
Q Okay.
A Because they meet the criteria, the objective, altogether, and it's managed to the best of their ability and it's discontinues and there are times where we add a new objective.
So, yes, it's monitored through the Qs or the program coordinator.
Q And is it fair to say that the IPP, you could call that the treatment program? Are those pretty much interchangeable terms?
A Well, there's a behavior treatment program that's completely different.

Q Okay.
A It comes out of psychology. But it's just an individual plan for that individual that we serve.
They're all different. I mean, they can look similar on the outside, but we really try to make them as individual as we can.
They -- they're not all working on the same objectives. We just try to meet their needs. And they have certain goals so -- and they have a different list of goals. And that's on page four.
But -- so those objectives would have something to do with each and every one of those goals.
Q And what I'm getting at is just trying to get a full understanding of the responsibilities of the Q, so --
A I can give you a list of some of my duties as a Q --
Q Well --
A -- if that would help.
Q -- let me -- before you do that, when I say implement the IPP, I mean, is the -- am I correct to say -- am I correct, in my understanding, that the Q is ultimately responsible for making sure that the IPP is being implemented properly, that it's integrated, that it's done in a coordinated way so that direct care staff and whomever else are all on the same page about what a particular client's IPP --

A I think that's fair to say.
Q -- dictates?
A I think that's fair to say, yes.
Now, as far as implementing it, it depends on the area. Like the direct care staff would be implementing their -- and fitness track. And I'll just go down here, the (inaudible) --
A -- IPP. But I just would monitor to make sure --
Q But you make sure -- I know that you don't do the actual, you know -- you don't --
A (Inaudible) --
Q You don't work with him in vocation and you don't actually do the direct care.
But, as the Q, you kind of have to make sure that they know what the IPP says they're supposed to be doing. Is that right?
A That is correct.
Q Okay.
A And there's times where, you know -- as a Q, you visit them in their living area at least once a month and you visit them in their training area at least once a month.
So there are times where you can kind of get an idea of how they're doing. And then once a month, usually -- I mean, the data's supposed to be posted on the fifth working day of the month. That's not always done; but, ideally, that's what they do.

So then I would go and pull up those members and then I can see if they're progressing or if we need to make any modifications to those objectives.

I mean, sometimes we want to let them go three or four months just to kind of give them an opportunity. But, you know, we don't want to stay on a particular objective of the same criteria if they're not showing any progression. We would want to modify that because we want to assist them in any way we can to progress.

And sometimes they just simply can't do the task assigned and it'll be deleted and we'll come up with another task that would help them.

Q Okay. I'm going to put a pin in that for just a second and go back.

I meant to follow up on your -- real quick, on your background a little bit more, my understanding is that there are certain qualifications, required qualifications, to serve as a Q.

Just briefly tell me, you know, kind of what those are and how you meet those qualifications. I'm not suggesting you don't. I just need to have it on the record.

A Yeah. They want you to have a bachelor's degree at least with a -- you know, in this field, teaching will suffice.
My particular degree was more focused on teaching at the college level. But what helped me was my experience. I mean, I -- I have, in this particular field, over 30 years experience at four different facilities. And I've been a supervisor at every facility I've worked at.
So the combination with my experience and my -- I mean, you have to have a bachelor's degree.
Q You don't have to have a bachelor's degree in a certain area?
A No.
Q Okay. Anything other than a bachelor's degree required?
A You know, they certainly want you to have experience in the field, you know.
Q Okay.
MR. GILLISPIE: Hey, Eric, can we talk a quick five?
MR. COLLINS: Uh-huh.
MR. GILLISPIE: Thanks.
(WHEREUPON, the record was suspended momentarily and the proceedings resumed as follows, to wit.)

BY MR. GILLISPIE:

Q Okay.

Mr. Jobb, following up on the qualifications or the required qualifications for serving as the qualified intellectual disability professional, I hate to harp on this. I don't want to harp on this.

MR. GILLISPIE: But I went back and took a look at the state operations manual that y'all provided me. Starting at regulation, 483.30 which is Bates stamped page number 1679, Eric, these are what are labeled as the ICF-IID regulations.

MR. COLLINS: Okay.

BY MR. GILLISPIE:

Q State operations manual Appendix J, guidance to surveyors intermediate care facilities for individuals with intellectual disabilities; so the state operations manual.

So starting on this page here, again, Bates marked 1679, it sort of defines the role of the Q.

It says that each client's active treatment program must be integrated, coordinated, and monitored by a qualified intellectual disability professional who -- would you agree with that statement, Mr. Jobb?

A Yes.

Q Okay.

And then it sort of lays out I think, basically, the same things that you've done an excellent job of already describing to me, but that the Q's responsible for orchestrating all facets of the active treatment effort, including the IDT creation of relevant IPPs tailored to meet individual client needs. Do you agree with that?

A Yes, sir.

Q You'd agree that the Q is responsible for effectively coordinating internal and external program services and supporting, and supports, to facilitate the acquisition of client skills and adaptive behaviors?

A Externally, you know, as far as medical appointments and that sort of thing, that'd be coordinated through the medical department.

Now, I might make sure that those appointments are being seen. But I don't schedule any of those things and I don't -- I would count on my team RN to do that sort of thing.

Q Okay. Other than that, though, you would agree with that statement? That the Q would be responsible for -- to effectively coordinate at least internal services and supports to facilitate the acquisition of client skills and adaptive behaviors?

A I think that's accurate, yes.
Q Okay. And, finally, the Q is responsible to promote or is responsible for the promotion of competent interactions of residential staff with clients in program implementation and behavior management?
A Okay. (Inaudible.)
Q Would you agree that that is your responsibility as the Q?
A Well, I'm not sure that -- I mean, as far as, you know, psychology, they write the behavior treatment programs and they would make any type of revisions.
You know, they might take some input from the team, but they ultimately are responsible for that BTP.
Now, we try to carry it out the best we can in adherence to that program; but I don't -- I don't write that particular program.
Q But that program is part of the IPP, isn't it?
A Not the program. I mean, as far as the target symptoms and the target behaviors, I mean, you can look as far as -- let me see where I mention it.
Q Well, right here on page nine of the 2019 IPP, under [redacted]
[redacted]
A Right.
Q [redacted]

[redacted]

You wrote that; right?

A Yes. I -- I took that entirely from the report or the program that psychology provided.

As you'll see with a lot of the IPP, it's taken directly from the reports or evaluations that I received.

Q But what I'm getting at is one of your roles as Q is to make sure that these interventions that are specifically authorized by the IPP that you wrote are properly being implemented or that they're being integrated into his actual day-to-day care; correct?

A Certainly want to give guidance in that sense.

But, as far as the training, I do not conduct that training, as far as the TACT or the NCI training.

Q Well, let me put it this way.

The literal state operations manual that your organization goes by, it says -- now, if we were in person, I'd show it to you.

It says that the Q is responsible to promote confident interactions of residential staff with clients in program implementation and behavior management.

Are you saying, as you sit here today, that that is not how it's done at Booneville?

A Well, it's -- I think it's left for interpretation.

Q What is?

A What you just said. I mean, as far -- as I don't write the program. I don't write the BTP program.

I don't do the training on how to conduct those types of interventions.

Now -- and I don't carry -- I mean, our psychology department carries out that training and has the staff sign off on that. I don't do that either, so --

Q But you integrate it into the IPP based on the -- I get that that's their area --

A (Inaudible) --

Q -- but you take their information and integrate it into the IPP; correct?

A It'd be similar.

Let me give you another scenario. Like with the medical department or psychology and the medications that prescribed, I don't give those medications. Do I include it in the IPP, yes. It's part of the program.

But same thing with the behavior treatment program. I don't carry out that program myself.

Q Right.
A I try to give them guidelines and information so they can carry it out properly.
Q Right. Right. And we may be just talking past each other and that's my fault. I may be saying this wrong.
I get that you don't administer medication.
A Right.
Q I get that you don't administer restraints on clients yourself. I think what I'm simply asking is, is it or is it not the Q's responsibility to make sure that the folks who do do those hands-on things know what they're supposed to be doing as stated in the IPP?
A I think it's -- it's part of my job as a coordinator to make sure that that particular department is carrying out what they're supposed to be carrying out, as far as the psychology department, and I assist them in any way I can.
I try to interpret their program and make sure that the proper training is being conducted. But I don't conduct that training.
A I just try to give them guidelines to go by and to give them information that they can access and make sure that that information is updated and that they have the appropriate -- even as far as them having the appropriate

BTP in their living area, that's done by the living area supervisor.

Now, when I'm over there and I happen to see that it might not be the right one, then I would certainly let somebody know.

But there's certain things as a coordinator, I'm just making sure -- I try to coordinate and make sure everybody else is doing their job.

Q Yeah.

A I don't do all their jobs for them.

Q Yeah. You're the overseer of the IPP. And you'd agree --

A Right.

Q -- that no -- direct care staff aren't allowed to perform an intervention, a behavioral intervention, that is not authorized by the IPP; correct?

A Well, that's -- I mean, correct. I mean, as far as interventions are concerned --

Q That's -- no. Are they authorized to do something -- yes or no.

Are they authorized to do something, as far as a physical restraint, that is not authorized by the IPP?

A Only in emergency situations can they carry out any type of restraints.

Q Well, the IPP calls -- the IPP specifically mentions that, emergency situations.

A 11-D, emergency situations. That's the only -- we do not have -- in anybody's plan, we do not have any type of restraint that's not emergency.
Q Okay.
A Whether it's category one or category three.
It's not part of any behavior treatment program then; it's not part of any behavior treatment program now. Only in emergency situations.
Q Okay. We'll put a flag in that and come back.
I get that. I'm just saying -- and his IPP does authorize the emergency procedures if necessary and TACT procedures. I get that.
I'm simply asking, I mean, am I wrong that things other than what are specifically authorized in this IPP can not be done?
Isn't this document sort of, you know, gospel when it comes to the client's care and treatment?
A Well, it's -- it's one of many pieces. I mean, like the program, BTP program, is an entity on its own.
Q And what is that? Don't use the acronym. Tell me what you're saying.
A I'm sorry. It's the behavior treatment program.
Q Okay. And who's responsible for that?
A The psychology department which is usually a psychological examiner.

Q And you're saying that the behavioral treatment program operates completely in its own world separately from what you do?
A Well, I touch on that in my report. But, as far as writing that program, I've never written one.
I don't have the background to write one.
Q And so who advises you from behavioral treatment on what to touch on in your report?
A The core team member which is a psychological examiner.
Q Okay. And, in this case, it would have been Michael Alvis?
A That's correct. Yes.
And, during his portion of the meeting, he goes over the BTP and the -- he looks over the previous years and tries to make some comparisons on what may be working and what might not be.
So I include some of that information from his report in my IPP, as I do with everybody's report.
Q Okay.
Would you agree that the Q is required to and responsible for guiding the interdisciplinary team and ensuring that the team decisions comply with established policies as well as ICF regulations?

A I'd say that's accurate, yes.
Q And would you agree the Q is responsible for chairing the interdisciplinary team and completing individual program plans for clients?
A Yes.
Q And would you agree that the Q is responsible for monitoring the implementation of training objectives and the delivery of services for clients on their assigned caseloads as determined in each client's IPP?
A Well, that one, I mean, like I said, as far as these objectives that I put in the training plan, I'm not going to be over there every day monitoring to see if those are conducted.

Now, I will do a monthly check to see if I've got appropriate data being collected. But I put the plan and give the plan to the staff. It's up to them to carry that out, their supervisors to train them properly.

But I'm not -- I don't see them on a daily basis. I do not see these objectives carried out on a daily basis.
Q You do on some basis though. Not daily, but monthly or randomly or weekly or something, don't you?
A Yeah, I just said that. I do the monthly progress notes. And we mentioned that earlier. They usually are posted fifth working day of the month; and so I can go on SHARE and kind of monitor that and make some revisions if needed.

Or maybe I encourage some of their instructors to consider some revisions.

Q And, in fact, you have to do on-site observations of the clients in their living and training areas at least once a month; right?

A Correct. Yes.

Q Okay.

And so I'm reading from -- and this is Booneville HDC Policy III-A-8 and this is Bates stamped 4386 and then page two is 4387.

And this document is called qualified intellectual disability professional process. So this is Booneville's own policy on the role of the Q.

MR. GILLISPIE: And this is going to be Exhibit 2 for Mr. Jobb's deposition.

BY MR. GILLISPIE:

Q But one of the things it says that you push back on a little bit was that the program coordinator, backslash, QIDP monitors the implementation of training objectives and the delivery of services for clients on their assigned caseloads as determined in each client's IPP.

They do on-site observations, tracking for each of their clients in the living areas and training areas at least once a month.

A Right.
Q They may also observe their clients in other areas. Would you now agree with that passage?
A Well, I agree that we certainly make monthly -- we do check on the individuals we serve in their training areas once a month, in their living areas once a month. We do document that.
Q But you do not agree that you monitor the implementation of the delivery of services?
A I would -- I would agree that I monitor that, at least, on a monthly basis. I don't -- it's not monitored on a daily basis.
Q Would you agree that, as the Q, you are the person that is ultimately responsible for monitoring it, whether it be on a monthly basis or any other basis?
A I think that's fair to say, yes.
Q Okay.
And then you do a monthly plan review every month to summarize information from your observations and record reviews?
A That's correct.
Q Okay.
A It's on a monthly progress note.
Q And the same exhibit, under duties and responsibilities of the Q, Section A, the program coordinator, backslash, QIDP functions as advocate for the client by assuring he or she receives the maximum benefit of active treatment.

Would you agree that that's your job? To make sure that that your clients receive the maximum benefit of active treatment?

A Yes.

Q What I seem to be getting here is that the Q is the, essentially, may be the most important person to a given client when it comes to that client's care in the facility.

I mean, you're the advocate; is that fair to say?

A Yes. That is fair.

Q And your IPP -- scratch that.

MR. GILLISPIE: Eric, I'm marking that as Exhibit 2.

MR. COLLINS: Okay.

(WHEREUPON, the document was marked for identification as Exhibit No. 2 and is attached hereto.)

BY MR. GILLISPIE:

Q I want to, real quick, go back to the state operations manual, the ICF-IID regulations.

Specifically, Section 483-430(A)(I). This is Bates Stamp 1680. And this is -- these are the state's requirements for QIDPs.

The first requirement is that the person have at least one year of experience working directly with persons with intellectual disability or other development disabilities.

And I believe you said you had that; right? Before becoming a Q at Booneville?

A That's correct.

Q Okay. Where did you get your experience? And it could have been at Booneville, I suppose, in some other capacity.

But where did you get your one year of experience working directly with folks with intellectual disabilities prior to becoming a Q?

A Well, I worked at the Lubbock State School. Started out there in 1987. Supervised a special treatment unit for about five years.

Q And that involved persons with intellectual disabilities?

A Very -- very similar to the campus I currently work on.

Q Okay.

A Just a little (inaudible).

Q When did you first become a program director or a Q?

A Oh, I would -- I'd have to approximate.

Q That's fine.
A But between 12 -- around 12 years ago.
Q Okay. So that's one requirement which you clearly seem to meet.
The second requirement is that the person be either a doctor of medicine or osteopathy or a registered nurse or it can be an individual who holds a bachelor's degree in a professional category specified in B5 of this same document.
And, specifically, that's 483, Section 483.430-B5 Roman Numeral I through 11. And I'm going to go through what those different areas are that you can get a bachelor's degree in.
The first listed in this section is occupational therapy. You do not have a bachelor's degree in occupational therapy; correct?
A Correct.
MR. GILLISPIE: Cris?
COURT REPORTER: Lost you for a second. We heard your question, you do not have a degree in occupational therapy, is that correct; and he said correct.
MR. GILLISPIE: All right.
BY MR. GILLISPIE:
Q Okay. And you also do not have a bachelor's degree in physical therapy, do you?

A No, I do not.
Q Okay. You're not a psychologist; correct?
A That's correct.
Q And your bachelor's degree is not in psychology?
A No, sir.
Q Okay. And you don't have a bachelor's degree in social work?
A No.
Q You don't have a bachelor's degree in speech language pathology?
A No, I do not.
Q How about audiology?
A No.
Q You don't have a bachelor's degree in recreation such as art, dance, music, or physical education?
A No.
Q And you don't have a degree in diet science? You're not a dietician; correct?
A No.
Q And you said your degree is in history, just regular history?
A Yes. History with a minor in historical interpretation.
Q Okay.

But you were never asked about -- you were never required to have any of these other specific degrees, obviously.

A No. I think it was -- I don't know. My guess is that -- because this facility doesn't dictate who gets the interview or not. That's determined in Little Rock.

So I -- I would only be assuming that, since it was educational and maybe my experience -- because they certainly don't just let anyone interview for the position, so. . .

Q Sure. And I'm not suggesting you're not qualified. I'm just trying to determine if the, you know, if the rules were followed or not.

MR. GILLISPIE: So we'll mark this as Exhibit 3.

(WHEREUPON, the document was marked for identification as Exhibit No. 3 and is attached hereto.)

MR. GILLISPIE: So I think this is a good stopping point, Eric.

And then we can find a day to finish up. I probably need about another hour or two.

(WHEREUPON, the proceedings were paused in the matter at 1:14 p.m. and continued at a later date.)

QUALIFIED INTELLECTUAL DISABILITY PROFESSIONAL PROCESS

POLICY STATEMENT: Every client will have an assigned QIDP (Qualified Intellectual Disability Professional), as defined in ICF/IID Regulation 483.430. The Program Coordinator/QIDP has an assigned caseload. They are responsible for chairing the interdisciplinary team and completing Individual Program Plans for clients on their respective caseload.

The Program Coordinator/QIDP monitors the implementation of training objectives and the delivery of services for clients on their assigned caseloads, as determined in each client's IPP. They do on-site observations (tracking) for each of their clients in the living areas and training areas at least once a month. They may also observe their clients in other areas.

The Program Coordinator/QIDP also reviews Monthly Progress Notes and other documentation relevant to each client. They submit Monthly Plan Reviews to summarize information from their observations and their record reviews. Monthly Plan Reviews document monthly observations/tracking and are submitted on a monthly basis. The original Monthly Plan Reviews are filed in the client's master file.

PROCEDURES:

1. PROGRAM COORDINATOR/QIDP ASSIGNMENTS

   a. Each Program Coordinator/QIDP works with an assigned caseload or group of clients. A master list of Program Coordinator/QIDP caseload assignments is maintained on the secure drive.

   b. Each client is assigned a Program Coordinator/QIDP when he/she is admitted to BHDC. Changes in Program Coordinator/QIDP caseload assignments are generally made if a client moves to a different living area, but may be appropriate for other reasons. Team Leaders are responsible for making the caseload assignments.

2. DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES OF PROGRAM COORDINATOR/QIDP

   a. The Program Coordinator/QIDP functions as advocate for the client by assuring he/she receives the maximum benefit of active treatment.

   b. The Program Coordinator/QIDP is chairman of the client's interdisciplinary team. As chairman he/she is responsible for scheduling and conducting 30-day reviews and annual reviews, and for conducting special meetings to discuss various problems or concerns that may occur throughout the year. IPPs are to be completed by the 15th working day after a given 30-day review or annual review. However, an additional requirement is that 30-day IPP's must be completed and distributed within 30 days after admission. Annual review IPP's must be completed and distributed within 365 days after the previous annual review and by the 15th working day following an annual review.

c. The Program Coordinator/QIDP observes actual delivery of services by randomly visiting the living areas, as well as the training areas or work areas each month to observe each client on his/her caseload. These observations, along with any problems noted, are documented on the Monthly Plan Review.

d. If a change of caseload assignment is made, the current Program Coordinator/QIDP completes the documentation for the current month and then forwards that client's file to the new Program Coordinator/QIDP. The majority of the file is available on the secure drive. File information includes the client's IPP and their activity schedule, as well as other information pertaining to that client.

e. The Program Coordinator/QIDP reviews Progress Notes and data posted on the secure drive, monitors progress on objectives, and works with service providers to make any necessary modifications in training objectives and service objectives.

f. The Program Coordinator/QIDP completes the Monthly Plan Reviews, as outlined in the BHDC policy. These reports include documentation of their monthly observations (tracking), follow-up, and/or other significant information. Monthly Plan Reviews for each client are to be completed monthly and are due by the 15th working day after the end of the month.

g. The Program Coordinator/QIDP must guide the interdisciplinary team and assure that team decisions comply with established policies, as well as ICF regulations.

3. INTERNAL REVIEW OF INDIVIDUAL PROGRAM PLANS

Every IPP will be reviewed by Residential Services managerial staff prior to publication/distribution. The reviewer will complete an IPP Proofing Sheet and will include any questions they have, or any corrections that are needed by the Program Coordinator/QIDP. The Program Coordinator/QIDP will make any necessary corrections, post the IPP to the secure drive, and send the original IPP to the master file. A copy with signatures is sent to Social Services for the guardian, with a request for guardian approval or input.

§483.430 Condition of participation: Facility staffing.

(a) Standard: Qualified intellectual disability professional

W159

(Rev. 135, Issued: 02-27-15, Effective: 04-27-15, Implementation: 04-27-15)

§483.430(a) Each client's active treatment program must be integrated, coordinated and monitored by a qualified intellectual disability professional who –

Guidance §483.430(a)

The position of qualified intellectual disability professional (QIDP) is unique to the ICF/IID program. This position can be central to the overall responsiveness and effectiveness of an active treatment program. Whether a supervisory or non-supervisory position, the QIDP is responsible to:

- Orchestrate all facets of the active treatment effort, including the IDT creation of relevant IPPs tailored to meet individual client needs;
- Effectively coordinate internal and external program services and supports to facilitate the acquisition of client skills and adaptive behaviors; and
- Promote competent interactions of residential staff with clients in program implementation and behavior management.

Breakdowns in the provision of needed services does not automatically equate with deficient practice with QIDP regulations. Non-compliance with QIDP regulations exist where the facility has failed to provide a QIDP or sufficient numbers of QIDPs to effectively perform these required functions or the QIDP(s) has failed to assertively attempt to integrate, coordinate and/or monitor each client's active treatment program.

Elements of integrating, coordinating and monitoring active treatment programs include:

- Routinely observing clients across settings in program areas to assess effectiveness of program implementation and consistency of training effort to determine effectiveness of IPPs and making timely modifications to facilitate achieving desired skills or goals.

- Routinely interacting with program staff across settings to assist in determining the effectiveness and continued relevance of program plans in meeting identified client needs.

- Determining the need for program revision based on client performance.

- Identifying inconsistencies in training approaches or programs not being implemented as written and facilitating the resolution of these inconsistencies.

- Assures follow-up occurs for any recommendation for services, equipment or programs so that needed services and supplies are provided in a timely manner to meet the client's needs.

The number of QIDPs will vary depending on such factors as the number of clients the facility serves, the complexity of needs manifested by these clients, the number, qualifications and competencies of additional professional staff members, and whether or not other duties are assigned to the QIDP function.

The QIDP function may not be delegated to other employees even though the QIDP co-signs their work.

§483.430(a)(1) Has at least one year of experience working directly with persons with intellectual disability or other developmental disabilities; and

Guidance §483.430(a)(1)

"Experience" means providing professional or direct services, either paid or volunteer, in a setting that serves persons with intellectual disabilities. The experience working directly with persons with intellectual or other developmental disabilities can be obtained prior to or after obtaining the qualifying degree or credentials.

§483.430(a)(2) Is one of the following:

§483.430(a)(2)(iii) An individual who holds at least a bachelor's degree in a professional category specified in paragraph (b)(5) of this section

Guidance §483.430(a)(2)(iii)

The individual must have at least a bachelor's degree in one of the professions listed in §483.430 (b)(5)(i-xi).

(b) Standard: Professional program services

W164

(Rev. 135, Issued: 02-27-15, Effective: 04-27-15, Implementation: 04-27-15)

§483.430 (b)(1) Each client must receive the professional program services needed to implement the active treatment program defined by each client's individual program plan.

Guidance §483.430 (b)(1)

The effectiveness of the active treatment effort is dependent on a facility's assembly of a competent team of professional program staff, with knowledge of contemporary care practices in intellectual disabilities specific to their field of expertise, that work cooperatively as members of an IDT. The facility is responsible for the acquisition of professional staff necessary to provide direct and indirect professional services to meet client needs.

Professional program services are those services that meet the needs identified by a client's CFA that must be provided by a member of a vocation founded upon specialized education/training.

Professional staff services also include on-going monitoring of the effectiveness of programs and plans developed by professional staff but implemented by non -professional staff.

Indirect professional staff services also include on-going, technical support to staff implementing these programs as well as timely assessment of the need for modification of the program with appropriate communication to the QIDP and IDT.

The needs identified in the initial CFA, as required in §483.440(c)(3)(v), should guide the team in deciding if a particular professional's involvement is necessary and, if so, to what extent professional involvement must continue on a direct or indirect basis.

Since such needed professional expertise may fall within the purview of multiple professional disciplines, based on overlapping training and experience, determine if the facility's delivery of professional services is adequate by the extent to which clients' needs are aggressively and competently addressed. Some examples in which professional expertise may overlap include, but are not limited to:

- Physical development and health: nurse, dietitian, pharmacist.

- Nutritional status: nurse, nutritionist or dietitian.

- Sensorimotor development: educators, recreation therapists, and occupational therapist, physical therapist.

- Affective (emotional) development: special educators, social workers, psychologists, psychiatrists, mental health counselors, rehabilitation counselors, behavior therapists, behavior management specialists, behavior analyst, and medical staff.

- Speech and language (communication) development: speech-language pathologists, special educators for people who are deaf or hearing impaired, and medical staff.

- Auditory functioning: audiologists (basic or comprehensive audiologic assessment and use of amplification equipment); speech-language pathologists (like audiologists, may perform aural rehabilitation); special educators for clients who are hearing impaired and medical staff.

- Cognitive development: teachers (if required by law, e.g., school aged children, or if pursuit of GED is indicated), behavior analysts, psychologists, speech-language pathologists.

- Vocational development: occupational therapists, vocational rehabilitation counselors, or other work specialists (if development of specific vocational skills or work placement is indicated).

- Social Development: teachers, professional recreation staff, social workers, behavior analysts, psychologists (specialized training needs for social skill development).

Adaptive behaviors or independent living skills: special educators, occupational therapists, behavior analysts, and medical staff.

§483.430(b)(1) Professional program staff must work directly with clients

Guidance §483.430(b)(1)

Examples of professional staff working directly with clients include: performing professional assessments of clients, provision of direct support and services and periodic monitoring by the professional of the client working on the program. The amount and degree of direct care that professionals must provide will depend on the needs of the client and the ability of other staff to effectively work with clients on a day-to-day basis.

For those services that must be provided by a professional due to either law, licensure or registration, the client receives the services directly from the professional. Professionals may deliver services through the supervision and direction of subordinates where provided by law.

§483.430(b)(1) and with paraprofessional, nonprofessional and other professional program staff who work with clients.

Guidance §483.430(b)(1)

Paraprofessionals are persons in various occupational fields who are trained to assist professionals but are themselves not licensed at the professional level.

Examples of "working with" these other staff may include, but not be limited to:

- Modeling the correct technique for interacting with clients or implementing a specific program objective.

- Designing residential activity programs and teaching staff how to implement them.
- Conducting classes on discipline specific topics.
- Answering questions of staff related to program implementation or specific behavioral management issues.
- Monitoring active treatment areas to identify program implementation or staff-client interaction issues.

W167

(Rev. 135, Issued: 02-27-15, Effective: 04-27-15, Implementation: 04-27-15)

§483.430(b)(2) The facility must have available enough qualified professional staff to carry out and monitor the various professional interventions in accordance with the stated goals and objectives of every individual program plan.

Guidance §483.430(b)(2)

There should be sufficient professional staff in the facility to ensure that:

- needed assessments by professionals are completed timely;
- direct professional services are provided when indicated;
- clients are receiving interventions as specified in the IPP;
- client outcomes are being monitored by the professional;
- assessments and outcomes are being communicated to the IDT; and
- professional staff are available to consult with team members when needed.

(Rev. 135, Issued: 02-27-15, Effective: 04-27-15, Implementation: 04-27-15)

§483.430(b)(3) Professional program staff must participate as members of the interdisciplinary team in relevant aspects of the active treatment process.

Guidance §483.430(b)(3)

When a professional does an assessment and determines there are client needs which become incorporated into the IPP, with a current prioritized objective, the professional should actively participate on the IDT. This participation may be through written reports or verbally while attending the IPP meeting or participating via telephone or other electronic means, to provide team members with the opportunity to review and discuss information and recommendations relevant to the client's needs, and to reach decisions as a team, rather than individually, on how best to address those needs.

W169

(Rev. 135, Issued: 02-27-15, Effective: 04-27-15, Implementation: 04-27-15)

§483.430(b)(4) Professional program staff must participate in on-going staff development and training in both formal and informal settings with other professional, paraprofessional, and nonprofessional staff members.

Guidance §483.430(b)(4)

Professional program staff provides various types of training to staff as indicated by the IPP and IDT.

Formal training: a specific training done at the time a program is implemented or updated by the professional, with all staff who works with the client.

Informal training: when the professional observes the staff not correctly implementing a program, the professional provides informal guidance on correct implementation.

Training on programs that apply to multiple clients: when a particular program applies to several clients in a facility, a professional may provide training to several staff on a particular topic that applies to multiple clients (such as safe transfer techniques).

Professional staff of the facility should participate in ongoing training such as conferences and workshops to maintain current standards of practice in the field of intellectual and developmental disabilities as required by their professional licensure or certification.

§483.430(b)(5)(xi) If the client's individual program plan is being successfully implemented by facility staff, professional program staff meeting the qualifications of paragraph (b)(5)(i) through (x) of this section are not required-

(A) Except for qualified intellectual disability professionals;

(B) Except for the requirements of paragraph (b)(2) of this section concerning the facility's provision of enough qualified professional program staff; and

(C) Unless otherwise specified by State licensure and certification requirements.

Guidance §483.430(b)(5)(xi)

An individual client program may not require that professional staff perform all of the services as outlined by the IPP (e.g. the direct support staff may be trained by the professional to safely and effectively carry out the designed program), however, any specialized therapy must involve evaluation, program development, and re-assessment by the appropriate professional at periodic intervals.

Guidance §483.430(c)(1)

The facility must have sufficient staff to provide needed care and services without the use of volunteers or enlisting the help of clients residing in the facility to perform the duties normally performed by facility staff.

The facility may not rely on volunteers in lieu of paid staff to fill required staff positions and perform direct care services. Volunteers are permissible, but must be in addition to the number of paid staff required to carry out a function. Volunteers should have an orientation to the policies and procedures of the facility and oversight is required by facility staff.

AVOIDING / DEFUSING VIOLENT BEHAVIORS

Employees are reminded that we must continue to strive to calm upset individuals without injury or damage. The following steps may help defuse or avoid violent behaviors:

1. Know the individual.
2. Breathe slowly and deeply to relax
3. Try to appear calm and relaxed before intervening- even if you are not.
4. Speak slowly and softly, keeping voice low at all times.
5. Listen.
6. Keep hands at sides with palms open in a reassuring stance. Do not trap or corner the angry person. Do not double your fist, point your finger, cross your arms, put your hands on your hips, in your pockets, or behind your back.
7. Judge the distance you keep by your knowledge of the individual and your rapport with him/her; allow both of you space and room to escape.
8. Stand if he/she stands; sit if he/she sits. Squat or sit down if the individual is in a wheelchair.
9. Do not ask "Why." Do not argue, threaten, raise your voice, or become judgmental.
10. Listen.
11. Let the individual know you are there to help in any way you can, but do not make promises you cannot keep.
12. Keep your face passive and neutral – do not frown, scowl, or laugh.
13. Reassure the individual that you are there to help and you will wait with him/her until he/she works through whatever is bothering them. Let them express his/her fears, frustrations, and accusations without censor.
14. Stay relaxed, keep a monitor on your voice tone, body stance, muscle tension, and breathing so that you present yourself as a source of stability and model of how to remain calm.
15. Listen.

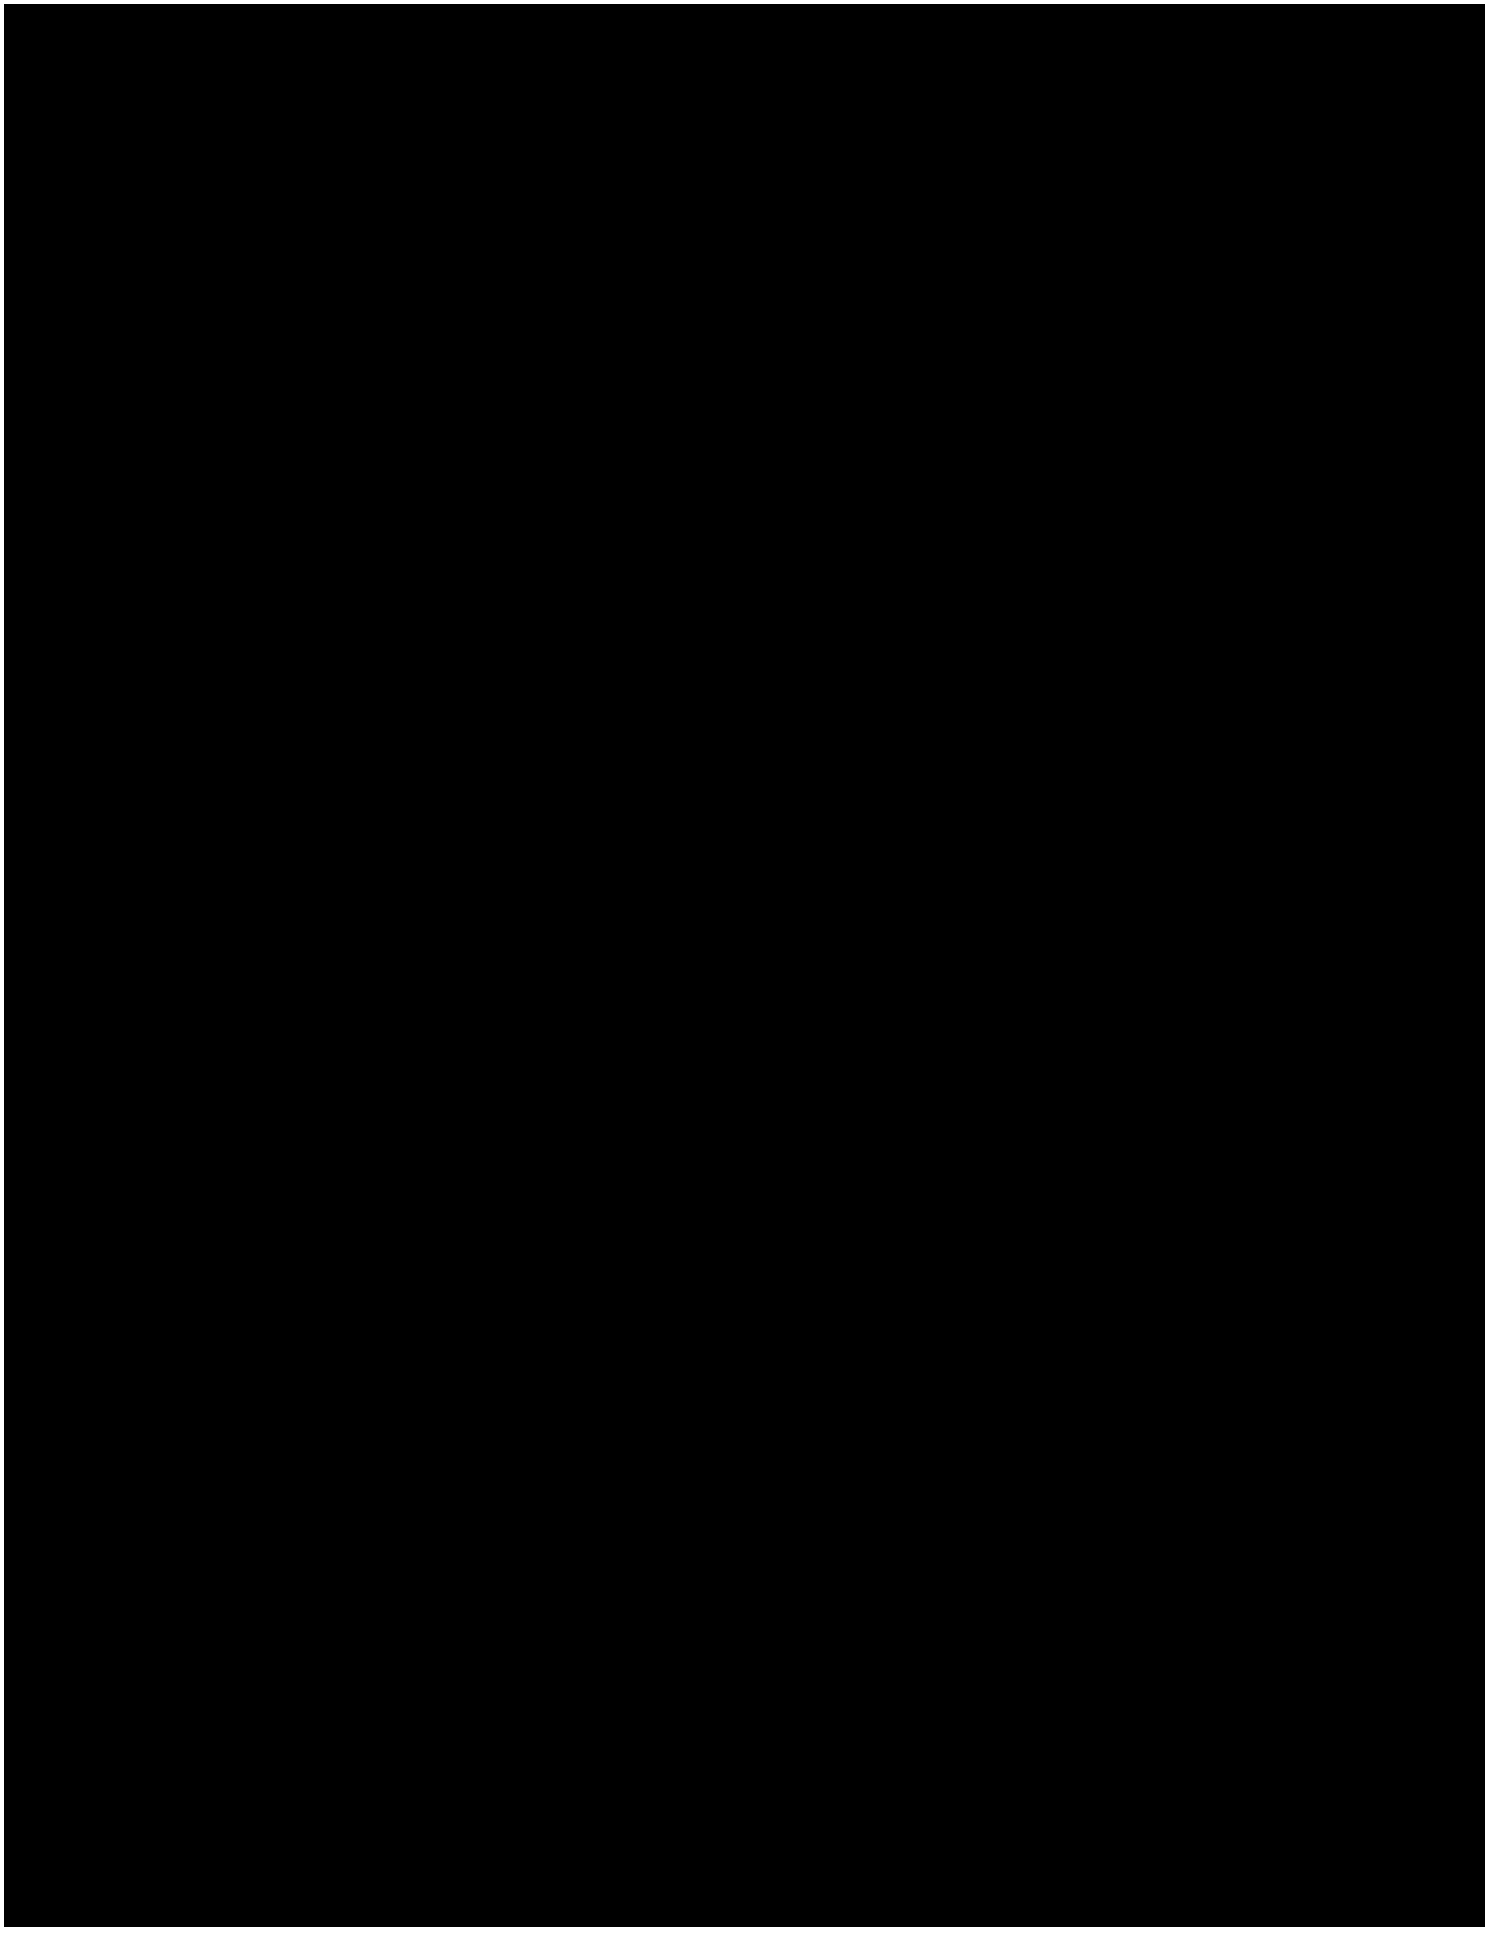
NONVIOLENT CRISIS INTERVENTION TRAINING PROGRAM OBJECTIVES (NCI)

Identify behavior levels that contribute to the development of a crisis and choose appropriate staff intervention for each level. This program is used to provide guidance to the acting out individual and the employees that are dealing with de-escalating the behavior.



When writing a Behavior Report, be careful not to include any of your personal feelings (opinions) about the incident or behavior. Instead, always rely on the Five 'Ws'- Who, What, Where, When, and Why.

PREVENTION / REPORTING OF MALTREATMENT

BHDC strictly prohibits the maltreatment of clients residing at this facility. Maltreatment is defined as:

- Physical abuse or assault.
- Psychological abuse.
- Verbal abuse.
- Negligence.
- Failure to provide necessary care.
- Exploitation or sexual abuse.
- Misappropriation of personal property or moving furniture or belongings without permission.

5. The client's suitcase is to be examined for bed bugs. If any evidence of bugs are found, it is to be bagged immediately after the clothes are emptied out of it. Contact Custodial so they can spray the suitcase and then re-bag it.

6. All clothes that were taken LOA, and any other possessions he/she brings back with them, are to be placed in the dryer in the living area on high for 60 minutes (i.e. shoes, stuffed animals, books, etc.) Do not overload the dryer or the clothes will not reach the proper temperature. When placing the clothes in the dryer, take them directly from the bag and directly into the dryer, DO NOT SHAKE THEM!

7. Examine client's body for evidence of bed bug bites, document, and notify Medical if any bites are found so client can be treated accordingly.

Choking Protocol for a Choking Client

Purpose: To provide guidelines to all staff for client care and evaluations in the event a client has a choking episode.

In the event a client has a choking episode the following steps are to be taken:

1. All choking events will be documented on a Choking Event Data Collection form. These forms will be available in the Food Service Secretary's office, LPN office, as well as in all living areas and training areas.

2. After the client has received care, the staff member witnessing the choking event will immediately take the client with the form to Medical to be evaluated by the LPN. (Forms will be available with LPN if necessary). The staff member that witnessed the choking event will inform the LPN the details of the choking event and complete the first (1st) portion of the Choking Event Data Collection Form. If client is not able to come to Medical or in the case of an emergency, call for Medical Assistance, Medical Emergency phone # 1422. After the choking event, the client will be placed on supervision and be monitored during mealtimes/snack times until all observations/evaluations are completed (Dietary Supervision/Monitoring Choking Event – page 4 of 5) The QIDP and ROM (Residential Operations Manager) will be notified for the need of supervision of the client.

3. The LPN will assess the client, fill out the second (2nd) section of the Choking Event Data Collection form labeled "Nursing Evaluation", notify the Clinic RN, and send the client and all related documentation to the Clinic RN. If Client is in distress and exhibits symptoms of medical discomfort related to the choking event the physician will be notified. The Physician will be given all pertinent information and will make the determination whether immediate medical care is necessary. The LPN will notify (ROM, QIDP, Dietary, Team Leader, Team Secretary, Living Area Supervisor, Social Service, & Team RN) by email to insure all direct care personnel on all shifts are aware of the choking event, the need for Dietary Supervision, to provide continuity of care.

4. The LPN will also initiate and generate the Dietary Supervision/Monitoring Sheet which will be used for client until all evaluations/recommendations are completed. The Dietary Supervision/Monitoring Sheet will be initiated by the LPN and given to the Direct Care Staff member returning with the Client to their living area. The Choking event will be documented in the living area communication log for staff information and need for monitoring when eating. Monitoring of the client while eating will continue until informed by Nurse Manager or Team RN that Dietary Monitoring is no longer necessary. The LPN will forward the Choking Event Form to the Clinic RN and will leave the Dietary Supervision/Monitoring Sheet in the Living Area to be completed at each meal.

CHOKING / ABDOMINAL THRUST

1. If a choking person is coughing forcefully, let him or her try to cough up the object. A person who is getting enough air to cough or speak should be observed. If they continue to cough, call the Emergency Medical Phone, Ext. 1422.
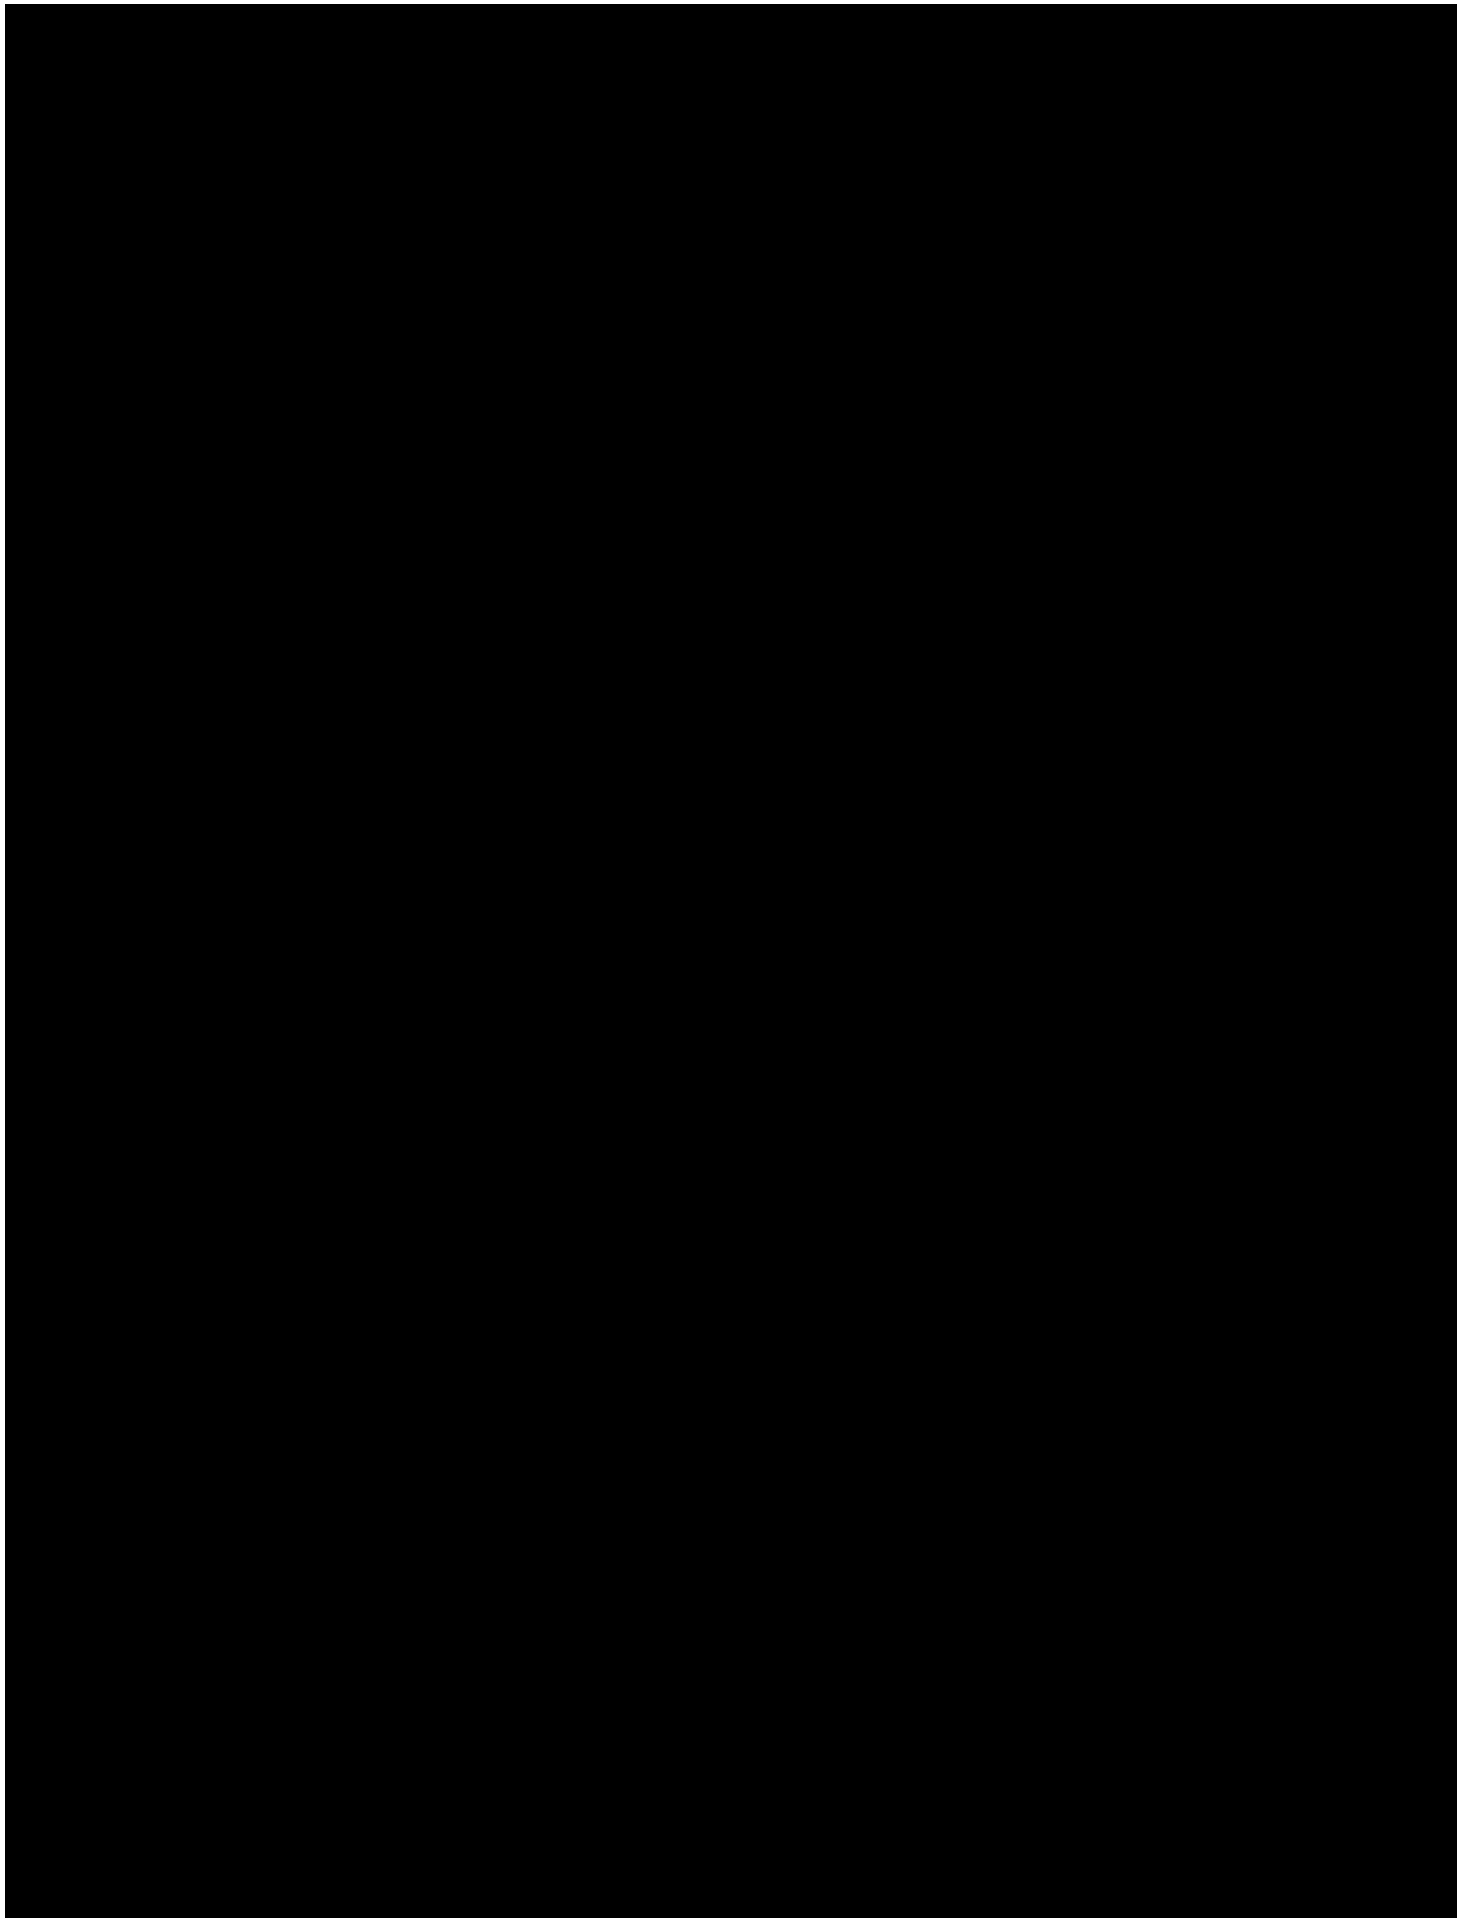
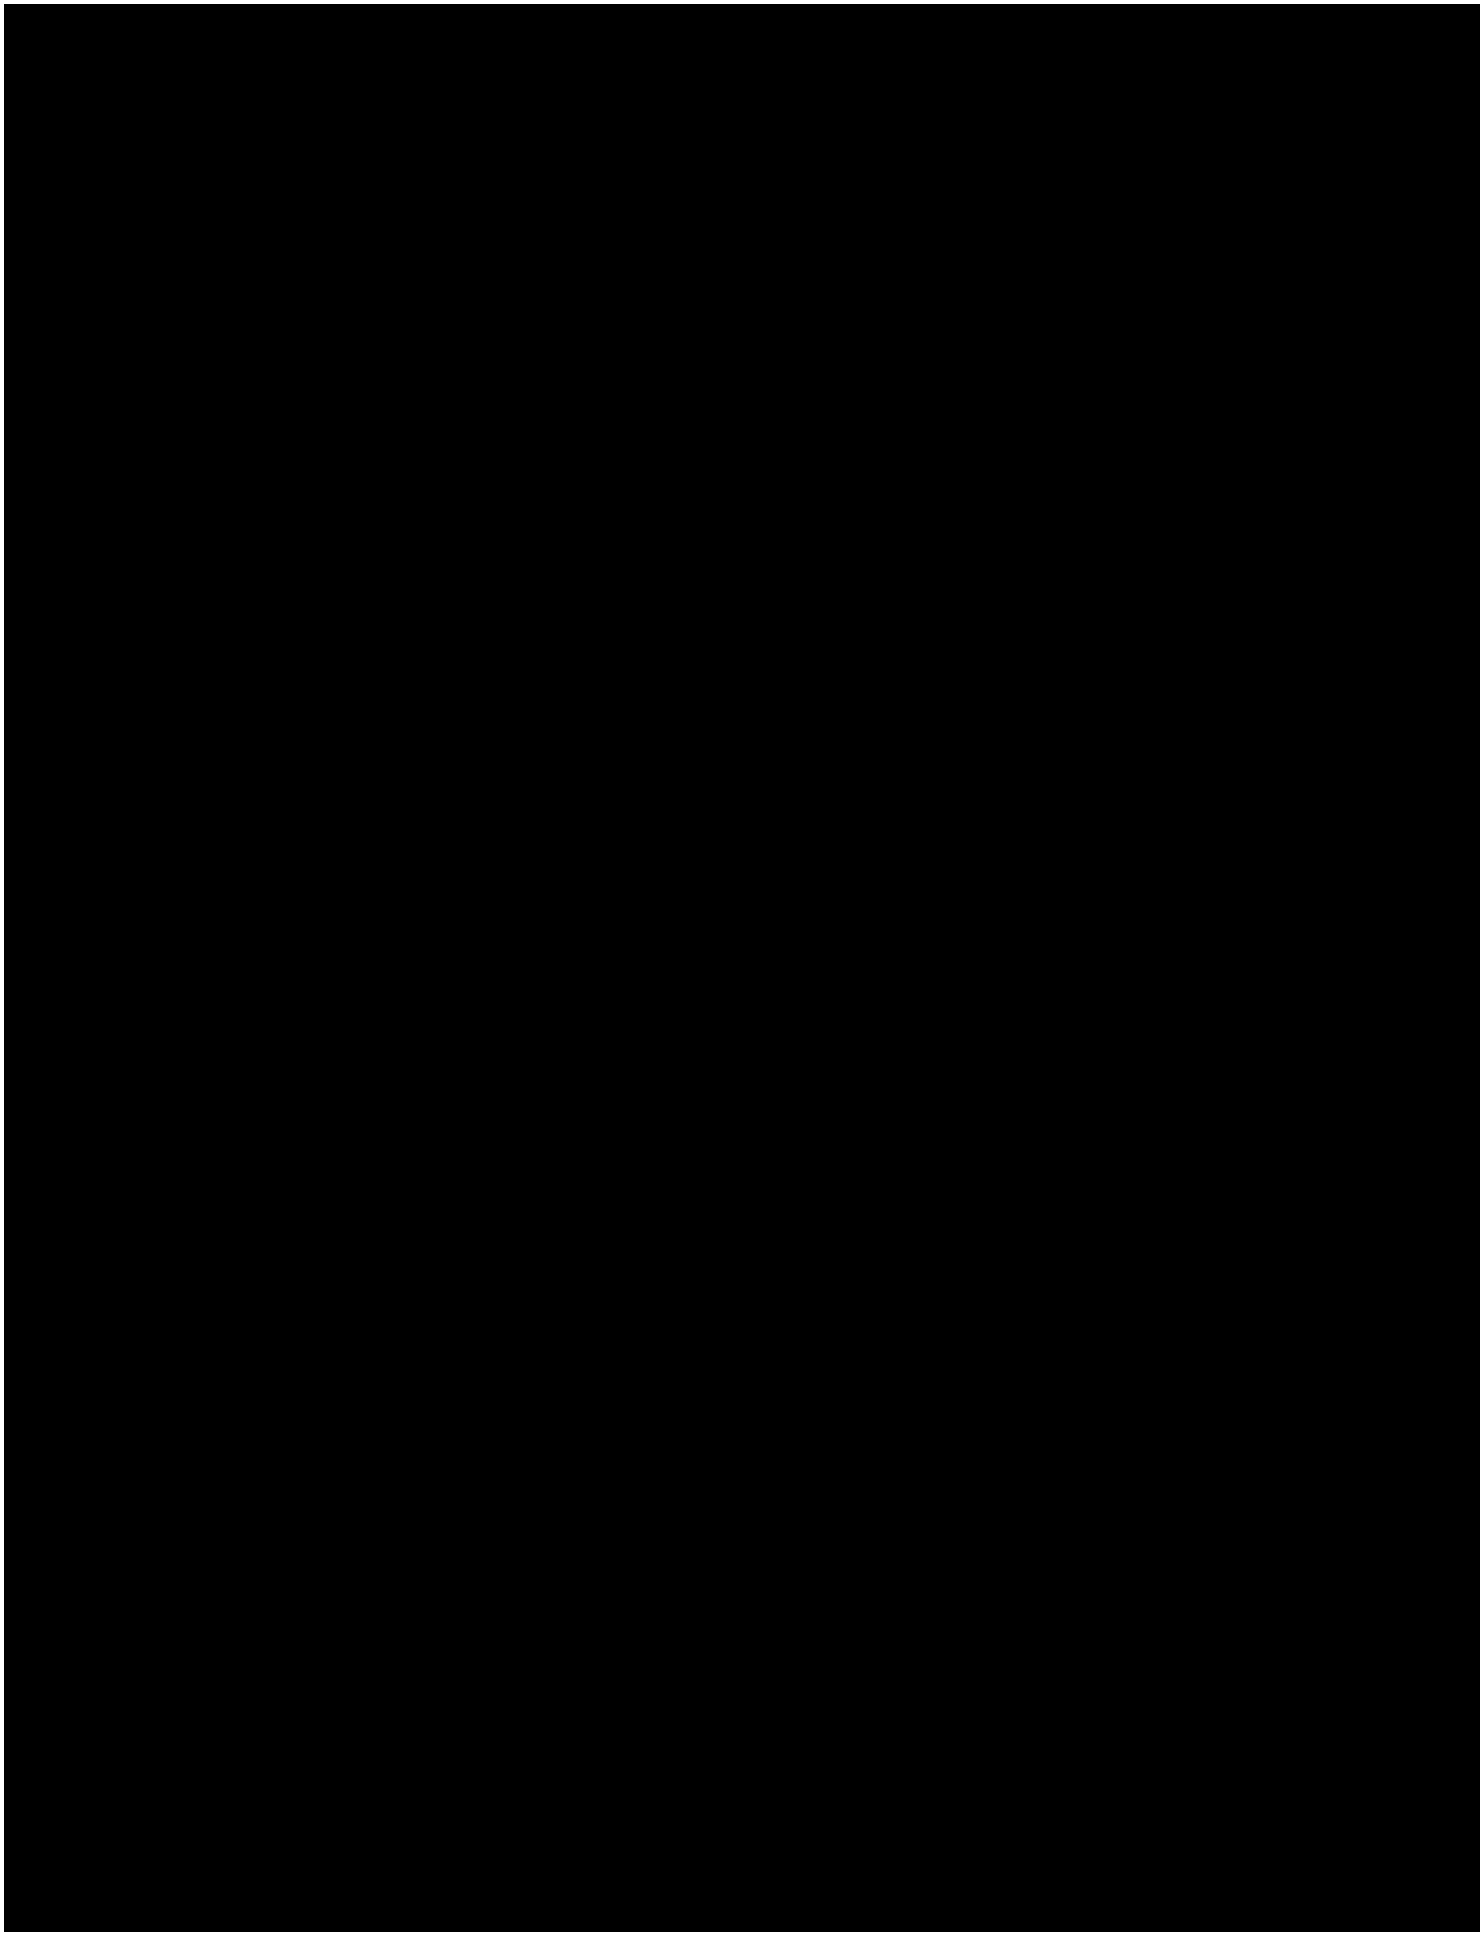
2. A person who cannot speak, cough, or breath IS CHOKING. Give quick upward thrusts to the abdomen, just above the navel, until airway is cleared. Instruct someone to call the Emergency Medical Phone, Ext. 1422.

CARDIO PULMONARY RESUSCITATION (CPR)



1. When you arrive at the scene, be sure it is safe to go to the victim. As you walk towards the victim, try to look for signs of the cause of the problem.



2. Check whether the victim's responsive. Shake the victim firmly and shout "Are you OK?"

3. If victim is unresponsive then you must call for help. Call 911 if the victim is a fellow staff member and if the victim is an individual/client/resident you must first phone the BHDC Medical Only Emergency # 1422. If there are other staff members present have them make the call- if you are alone make the call yourself and return to the victim's side.

USE AND DOCUMENTATION OF PROCEDURES TO MANAGE BEHAVIOR

POLICY STATEMENT: The Booneville Human Development Center (BHDC) is an environment that projects an atmosphere of normalization. The most important factor of this program is teaching the clients to accept responsibility for his/her actions using positive, non-aversive techniques whenever possible. Behavior control by dictates, mandates, and coercion is not conducive to helping people learn to make more responsible decisions. It is the responsibility of the staff to set forth a program wherein the client has an opportunity to make decisions for himself/herself. All Booneville HDC staff have the responsibility of being that type of example; whereby the clients can reflect upon and learn through observation. The use and documentation of disciplinary procedures will comply with all relevant ICF/IID regulations and DDS Policy #3011-D.

PROCEDURES:

1. All staff should use positive nonaversive techniques in dealing with client behaviors. When positive, nonaversive techniques fail to produce the desired effect, alternate methods defined in Category I of DDS policy 3011-D may be used:

2. Category I procedures are those which may be used without prior approval of the Human Rights Committee or psychology staff. Frequent use (as determined by Interdisciplinary Team (IDT) of these procedures with a client indicates the need for consideration of the development of a behavior plan by the client's IDT.

   The client must be supervised during these procedures. With the exception of verbal intervention, any use of Category I procedures, whether part of a formal behavior program or not, requires documentation on a Behavior Report, Data Sheet, or other locally used behavior documentation system.

   a. Verbal Intervention: Verbal intervention is utilized to stop an inappropriate behavior in progress and involves telling the client "no" or "stop", identifying the behavior, and redirecting to an appropriate activity. The command is given in a firm but normal tone of voice. Threats, screaming, yelling or issuing repetitive or multiple sets of commands are not considered verbal correction and are inappropriate.

   b. Separation from Activity up To 30 Minutes: The client is prevented from engaging in a reinforcing activity in which he/she has displayed inappropriate behavior. Separation is maintained within the same room or outdoor area where the activity is conducted. This is considered a Category I procedure if compliance by the client can be accomplished through verbal prompting/physical prompting without requiring personal restraint (holding).

   c. Separation from Setting up To 30 Minutes: The client is removed from the area where the reinforcing activity is taking place. Separation must occur under observation either outdoors or in a living or training area (bathrooms, storage rooms and closets do not constitute living/training areas). This is considered a Category I procedure if compliance by the client can be accomplished through verbal prompting/physical prompting without requiring personal restraint (holding).

Note: Separation to Allow Calming (STAC) - Also available is the positive procedure of STAC whereby the client is encouraged to move to an area away from the person or situation that upset him/her. At the same time, they are assisted in directing their attention to talking about the problem, listening to music, talking about family, relaxing quietly, going for a walk, etc. The activity should be chosen by the client in need of calming. When sufficiently calm, staff will assist the client in resuming normal activities.

d. Assignment of Additional Chores: The client is assigned additional chores as a consequence for inappropriate behavior. Additional chores may be assigned only if such chores are already a part of the Individual Program Plan (IPP) and are not designed to replace work assignments of housekeeping personnel.

e. Restitution: The client is cued to restore any property damaged, stolen or defaced. If appropriate to the client's level of functioning, he/she may be cued to offer a verbal apology to the offended person. If appropriate to the client's ability to comprehend, monetary reimbursement for the value of the damaged or stolen property may be required if this is a part of the IPP. In lieu of full value, a symbolic portion of the value may be required. Monetary reimbursement requires Human Rights Committee approval and Guardian consent.

Note: The client is not degraded nor put on display while restoring damage. The client is given the same equipment and protection to complete the restitution as would normally be given to a person not responsible for the damage.

f. Withholding Privileges: The client loses a particular privilege following the occurrence of an inappropriate behavior. Privileges include such things as cookouts, going to the recreation room, or on site fishing. Trips off grounds are special and should only be curtailed if problem behavior is anticipated during that trip. Examples of situations where problem behaviors may be anticipated include a problem behavior having already occurred and the person is not fully calm or a problem behavior has not yet occurred, but there are indications that a problem behavior is likely. The curtailing of trips off grounds should be done only after consultation with Psychology Staff or the Program Supervisor if Psychology Staff is not available. Privileges do not include basic living activities, such as meals, habilitation activities, or basic rights afforded all clients.

g. Personal Property Removal (less than one hour): Removal of a client's personal item that is being used in an inappropriate or unsafe manner or location. For example, if a client disturbs others in a common TV room by playing his radio too loudly and will not reduce the volume when instructed, the radio may be removed from that client for a time not to exceed one hour. The item will be held in a secure area and will be returned to the client's room or to the client directly, as appropriate (See Section 6, Page 8 of 9, DDS 3011-D).

3. If the above measures are needed for dealing with a client on a frequent basis, then the IDT will review the behaviors to determine whether a written behavior modification program is required.

4. A Behavior Report or BTP data sheet (if applicable) shall be completed immediately following any incident in which a procedure except verbal reprimand was applied.

Consultant Report:
A Review of Restraint Use in Five Arkansas Human Development Centers

INTRODUCTION

Beginning in 2016 the Arkansas Division of Developmental Disabilities Services (DDS) launched an examination of restraint use in the state's five Human Development Centers (HDCs). A committee "set out in the fall of 2020 to conduct a thorough review of restraint practices at the state's five human development centers" (Committee Report 2021). The committee was known as the DDS Behavioral Consultation Committee (hereafter referred to as the Committee). The purpose of the Committee was to:

> "…conduct a thorough review of the restraint practices at the state's five human development centers and develop a comprehensive approach with the help of clinicians and advocates to significantly reduce the use of restraints on developmental and intellectually disabled clients living at the HDCs."

In May 2021 the committee released a report that identified a number of objectives for DDS with regard to the use of restraints in HDCs. These objectives were as follows:

> Objective 1: Develop a plan to better use data to inform restraint-related practices and to ensure the State has accurate and comprehensive restraint data.
> Objective 2: Identify preferred restraint and communication options to be used while working to reduce restraints.
> Objective 3: Develop a comprehensive approach to reducing restraint usage.
> Objective 4: Seek and implement additional recommendations from external advocates.

In its May 2021 report, the Committee identified a total of 26 specific recommendations. The report was subsequently revised in April 2022 and now contains 27 specific recommendations. Three recommendations were ultimately rejected by the Committee. Action on six recommendations was deferred and subjected to a review by outside consultants. DDS, in collaboration with various stakeholders, is in the process of implementing the remaining 18 recommendations.

The six specific recommendations placed on hold pending further consultant review, under each of the four Committee objectives, included:

> Objective 1: No recommendations placed on hold.

Objective 2:

- Expand communication strategy options for individual clients being restrained, including adding sign language, gestures, timers, visual schedules, etc.
- Create, implement, and train staff on new manual of available communication strategies and devices for case managers to ensure interdisciplinary teams have access to current, effective practices.
- Provide supplemental training to all client-facing staff on effective communication strategies.
- Ban the use of the papoose board.

Objective 3:

- Identify behavioral health service gaps for individual clients at each HDC, what is needed to address those gaps, and metrics to evaluate mental health and service needs,
- Establish a group to review all behavioral support plans to ensure removal of restraint-specific language.

Objective 4: No recommendations placed on hold.

The Committee's recommendations included the engagement of independent experts "to review restraint-related practices and processes across all five of the human development centers" (Committee Report, 2021). The Committee also recommended that the experts review the six recommendations which had been placed on hold.

> "Many recommendations outlined in this report summary are listed as "on hold" because DHS is in the process of hiring an independent expert to review restraint related policies and processes across all five of the human development centers. The review should provide us important information we can use to address the recommendations that are on hold" (Committee Report, 2021).

Our present report describes the engagement and findings of independent behavior experts retained for the purpose of implementing the recommendations of the Behavior Committee. This report also addresses those six recommendations that were placed on hold.

CONSULTATION OVERVIEW

1. Purpose and Definitions

Purpose. The purpose of the consultation was to systematically review restraint usage and practices at five public-operated Human Developmental Centers (HDCs) including Arkadelphia, Booneville, Conway, Jonesboro and SEAHDC (Warren). Consultants reviewed the use of restraints in order to make recommendations for alternatives as needed. This consultation relied on restraint use data collected and aggregated by the Division of Developmental Disabilities Services (DDS) and data provided by each of the five HDCs. This project did not independently assess the quality (i.e., validity) of the data collected and reported by each HDC.

Definition of Restraint. Throughout this document the term "physical restraint" is defined as any manual method, or physical or mechanical device, that the individual cannot remove easily, and which restricts the free movement of, normal functioning of, or normal access to a portion or portions of an individual's body. According to regulations, the following definitions are used herein.

"Personal restraints" are a type of physical restraint and refer to the actual physical holding of a client by staff using manual methods that restrict the free movement of the client or restrict movement of or access to a portion or portions of the client's body.

"Mechanical restraints" are devices that restrict the free movement of a client or restrict movement of, or access to, a portion or portions of the client's body. Excluded are physical guidance and prompting techniques of brief duration and mechanical supports as defined in ICF/IID guidelines [§483.440(c)(6)(iv)] relating to providing position or support to an individual. This consultation did not review the use of psychotropic medication or chemical restraints.

2. Consultation Methodology

In order to minimize the risk of Covid transmission to DDS staff members and individuals residing in HDCs, the project was performed remotely using Microsoft Teams and through digitally shared data and documents. The methodology included the following:

1. Initial Meeting: The consultants met with the DDS Director and the DDS Executive Staff to discuss specifics of the data collection process and schedule of meetings with personnel at each HDC. DDS approved the final schedule for the duration of the consultation (see below).
2. Pre-Interview Material Review: Using Medicaid ICF/IID Appendix J regulations on restraint as a source document, the consultants created a data gathering protocol and tool for use at each HDC. The protocol provided guidelines for collecting standardized information set from HDCs as well as standardized interview questions. The scope of the consultation was expanded to include personal control techniques (PCTs) known within DDS as "personal restraints." Review of materials included:
    - Policy and Procedures
    - Restraint Use Types
    - Compliance with Active Treatment Parameters

- Training Programs
- Review and Oversight Mechanisms
- Data Collection and Communication

3. Pre-interview Data Review: Consultants collected raw and/or aggregated data from each HDC for all types of restraint use from 2018 onward.
4. Additional Material Collection: Consultants also collected oversight committee notes, minutes, and deliberations in order to ensure integrity of HDC oversight and review processes. This included the following:
    - Examination of training materials, incident reports, policies and procedures.
    - Examination of notes of Human Rights Committees, Behavior Management Committees and the DDS Behavioral Consultation Committee.
5. HDC Staff Interviews: The consultants gathered information about current practice at each HDC using a standardized protocol/tool as well as using it during interviews via remote meeting technology with the following personnel:
    - Superintendent and/or designee
    - Training Manager
    - Quality Management Manager
    - Clinical Services Administrator
    - Other relevant personnel involved in restraint review process

    DDS staff provided consultants with summary reports and other data as determined during the HDC staff interviews.
6. Compile Information and Interview Responses: Consultants aggregated and analyzed data provided by HDCs and DDS.
7. Submit Report of Findings and Recommendations: Within sixty (60) days of the completion of the final interview, consultants provided DDS a report of findings and recommendations.
8. Follow-up Meeting With DDS: Within thirty (30) days of the submission of the findings and recommendations reports, consultants will participate in one or more meetings with DDS Executive staff to discuss and answer questions about the report.
9. Follow-up Meeting With Each HDC: Consultant will participate in a follow-up meeting with each HDC to assist in finalizing the implementation of any plans developed based upon the consultant's recommendations.

3. Consultation Timeline

The timeline for the consultation was adopted and is shown in Table 1 following:

4. Consultant Team

The authors of this report were engaged as a team to carry out this independent review of restraint practices in the HDCs. The consultants are: Theodore A. Kastner, MD, MS; Robert Bowen; and Kevin K. Walsh, PhD. Drs. Kastner and Walsh are familiar with Arkansas DDS and the five HDCs having carried out several contracted behavioral consultations and staff training activities in all five HDCs. Mr. Bowen is a behavioral consultant and trainer with over 40 years' experience in the United States, Canada, and Australia. He was the CEO of a company that taught the prevention and, if needed, use of restraint for 13 years and has provided expert witness reports on the inappropriate use of restraint in the state of Victoria in Australia and the state of Iowa in the US. He is a published author and an internationally-known presenter. Mr. Bowen has been a university professor, and has held several advocacy and professional positions in the field of disabilities. Full listings of the consultants' experience and qualifications relative to this project are shown in Appendix A.

5. The Report

In this report we present our finding from the current phase of our review of restraint practices in the five Arkansas HDCs. The contents of this report center around three main activities undertaken to understand and characterize the use of restraints in the HDCs. First, we collected general information pertaining to standing policy and procedures and related them to Medicaid regulations. Second, we collected information from key staff at each HDC consisting of responses to a comprehensive questionnaire/survey document followed up by individual interviews of key staff members at each facility. Third, we collected recent use and outcome data on personal and mechanical restraints in each HDC, subjected them to secondary analyses and report the results herein.

METHOD

1. Information and Data Collection

In February, 2022 a standardized information and data request was sent to each of the five DDS HDCs requesting the following:

- A standardized set of contact and other information and specific data items pertaining to the use of restraints at HDCs
- A standard memorandum providing instructions and time frames on what and how to submit information and data to our team
- A standard Interview and Questions for Teams document was used in two ways: first, the document was completed in a group context by selected personnel from each HDC and, second, the group-completed form was used as a basis for individual interviews with six key HDC staff members. The six key staff members from each HDC were designated as follows:

    1. Superintendent and/or designee for this project
    2. Director of Training or Training Manager
    3. Director of Quality Management or QA Manager
    4. Clinical Services Administrator
    5. Restraint Review Committee Chair
    6. Staff Psychologists (for those residents who have been restrained)

All information documents and data files were transferred to a member of our team via email by "data transfer managers" at each HDC.[1] The following list designates the specific materials that had been requested.

1. HDC Staff Member Listing and contact information for the six key HDC staff
2. A resident listing with descriptive information
3. Restraint policies, procedures and reports
4. Restraint training materials (both personal restraints and mechanical restraints)
5. Restraint oversight/review committee materials and unusual incident reports associated with restraint
6. Three years of restraint data and associated reports

When information files were received from HDCs, they were identified as to content and logged into a file log-in system maintained by the consultant team. The initial data collection efforts resulted in the collection of nearly 200 document and data files from all of the HDCs taken together. A small number of additional files were collected from the DDS Central Office. These files constituted the bulk of the materials used by the consultants in their review.

[1] The consulting team wishes to recognize and thank each HDC data transfer manager. All of these individuals were very helpful, fully responsive, and efficient in responding to our requests. In certain cases, these individuals were also part of the team interviewed at the facility. We owe the following individuals a debt of gratitude for their efforts on our behalf: Linda Scales (Arkadelphia); Nakita S. Martin (Booneville); Joseph Price (Conway); Becky Hale and Ann Marie Hatcher (Jonesboro); Dana Harvey and Tekeila Rawls (SEAHDC); and Shannon Roberts (DDS).

2. Standard Interview Questions for Teams forms

A standardized data collection form was created to gather initial information from each HDC. This form was titled the Standard Interview Questions for Teams form (hereafter: "Standard Interview") and consisted of a multi-page document comprised of a number of questions on restraints in five different sections. A copy of the form is included in Appendix B. The sections of the questionnaire form were:

1. Identifying Information
2. Restraint Type, Use, and Training
3. Restraint Review and Oversight
4. Restraint Documentation and Data Collection
5. Compliance with Active Treatment Requirements

The Standard Interview forms were used in two ways. First, copies of the form were sent to each HDC with personnel at the facilities completing them and returning them to our team. We had requested that at least one form be returned for each HDC. At this stage all HDCs returned one completed form (Jonesboro returned two forms from two senior administrators which were nearly identical) representing information from that HDC. A simple consolidated template was created to show the responses to the Standard Interview form of the HDCs into one document. Second, the form was used later in the project as a template and background document to interview the key individuals noted above from each HDC.

The responses from the HDCs were consolidated (from six completed forms because we had two from Jonesboro HDC). These responses were compiled and made available to our two interviewers prior to the individual interviews with HDC staff members. They only served as background material for these interviews. The consolidated responses from these forms are presented in the Results section of the Report.

3. Individual Interviews

Following the collection and consolidation of the HDC responses to the Standard Interview, as noted the completed form from each HDC served as a guide for individual interviews. Several individual interviews were carried out with the key personnel for each of the five HDCs. The key staff members who were interviewed at each HDC:

1. Superintendent and/or designee for this project
2. Director of Training or Training Manager
3. Director of Quality Management or QA Manager
4. Clinical Services Administrator
5. Restraint Review Committee Chair
6. Staff Psychologist

These interviews were open-ended, that is, not tightly-structured interviews, and HDC staff could provide whatever information they thought was relevant. These interviews were carried out one-to-one with each HDC staff member and one of two members of our team (TK or RB); all interviews were conducted via Microsoft Teams.

Two members of our consulting team (TK and RB) carried out all of the individual interviews with HDC staff members. Consultants maintained individual notes from these interviews and used the consolidated responses from the Standard Interview forms as background information. The interviewers organized their notes and provided written sections on this phase of the project in the Results section.

4. Comparison of Policy to Appendix J

As a basic foundation to other work, one member of our team (RB) carried out a comparison of the DDS and HDC restraint policy statements provided to us with the Medicaid standards as contained in Appendix J of the Medicaid Survey Procedures and Interpretive Guidelines (known generally as "Appendix J"). The comparison was restricted to specific areas of Appendix J regulations. This comparison determined the most fundamental requirements for the system. A separate document/report detailing this review appears in the Appendices to this report (Appendix E) and it titled: A Rule Comparison: ICF/IID Regulations Appendix J and Arkansas DDS.

To accomplish this comparison, policy and procedure statements and documents pertaining to the use of restraint were collected from HDCs. These were grouped and reviewed in relation to the Medicaid regulations governing ICF/IID facilities in the State Operations Manual Appendix J – Guidance to Surveyors, for those regulations related to the use of restraint.

The DDS statewide policies and procedures as well as those specific to each of the five HDCs were reviewed. The comparisons of these policies and procedures with Appendix J Conditions of Participation and regulations were carried out in the following areas:

- Active Treatment
- Assessment
- Replacement Behaviors
- Data Collection / Plan Monitoring
- Committee Requirements
- Informed Consent
- Client Behavior
- Conduct Towards Clients
- Management of Inappropriate Client Behavior
- Use of Aversive Techniques – Hierarchy of Interventions
- Protection of Rights
- Physical Restraints
- Oversight

This review determined that all of the collected policy and procedure statements from DDS and from the individual HDCs demonstrate that all of the facilities are in substantial compliance with ICF/IID regulations.

5. Restraint Data Analysis

We collected various existing data reports on restraints from each HDC. Using these data we carried out secondary or post hoc analyses on data provided by each HDC. The goal was to identify overall rates of restraint use and to characterize the average frequency and duration of the restraints based on aggregate data provided by the HDCs.

Data received from the HDCs varied in format, content, and quantity. Analyses proceeded in each HDC dataset to create similar statistics, although due to data limitations, there are certain differences that had to be carried into this report.

One of our team members (KW) concentrated on compiling, comparing, and carrying out analyses on the restraint data submitted from the five HDCs and from the standard DDS Monthly Statistical Reports supplied from DDS Central Office (based on fiscal years). The general goals of these analyses were as follows:

1. Identify standardized and comparable rates of restraint for each HDC
2. Identify comparability problems across HDCs
3. Analyze reporting methods to improve overall utility and comparability across the system
4. Propose standardized methods of data collection for the system (i.e., all HDCs)
5. Identify elements of best practice and make recommendations for approaches to reducing restraint use
6. Make recommendations for data reporting from HDCs to DDS
7. Identify possible future analytic methods to quantify and monitor restraint reduction efforts.

RESULTS

1. Standard Interview Questionnaire Data Results

To achieve comprehensive information on the HDC approaches and current practices with regard to restraint, the Standard Interview form included items that required both short answers (e.g., "yes" or "no") and items that required extended explanation and longer textual answers. These two types of items were segregated for ease of compilation.

A. Short-Answer Items from Standard Interview

The short-answer items for each HDC are shown in Table 2 below. Table 2, for the most part, shows a remarkable similarity across HDCs which no doubt reflects general compliance with statewide guidelines and regulations pertaining to the use of restraint. There are some differences however.

All of the HDCs used "planned restraints" for health limitations (such as mittens, helmets, etc) that are fully reviewed by Human Rights Committees (HRCs) and Restraint Committees. However, Arkadelphia, Booneville, and SEAHDC do not use what might be termed "planned behavioral restraints" while Conway and Jonesboro reported using them. These are restraints that are typically written into a resident's personal plan. The statistical reports received from Jonesboro did not make a distinction between planned and emergency restraints and we considered all the data reported to us from Jonesboro under the general rubric of restraints. Further, the Conway data were broken down by type of restraint ("safety" restraints vs. "emergency" restraints); due to the size of the facility and its administrative structure the Conway restraint data presented certain problems for our secondary analyses (see Conroy section later in this report).

All of the HDCs have dedicated restraint review committees, known by different names in the different HDCs (e.g., Arkadelphia is named the QA Committee; others use HRC committees). In extended text response on the form, Arkadelphia laid out a multi-level review process beginning with line supervisor review, a quality assurance committee, psychology review, and various administrative levels up to and including the Superintendent. The other HDCs designated committees to review restraint and produce minutes. [Note: we report on a secondary analysis of a set of such minutes from SEAHDC later in this report.]

All HDCs reported that staff members are trained in both personal and mechanical restraints although there were differences in the time spent in training of staff members to handle behavioral crises.

Specifically, Booneville HDC reported that staff received 600 minutes (10 hours) of training in the prevention of problem behaviors, 600 minutes (10 hours) of training in de-escalation of problem behaviors, and 90 minutes (1.5 hours) of training for implementation of restraint procedures. When queried about the number of hours of training, Boonevillle personnel stated that this included all informal hours of training including peer-to-peer, on-the-job training in addition to formal didactic training. In contrast, the other HDCs identified only didactic training hours in response to the survey. We concluded that the amount of formal and informal didactic training available to staff at all HDCs was comparable to the amount of training afforded to staff members at the Booneville HDC.

2. Individual Follow-Up Interview Results

A. Purpose

The purpose of these individual follow-up interviews of key staff member was to provide an opportunity for individuals employed at the HDCs to provide personal responses to the Standard Interview document completed for each HDC or to simply voice their own thoughts on the issues. This part of the project was completed by Mr. Bowen and Dr. Kastner in early to mid-June 2022. Mr. Bowen and Dr. Kastner both participated in the interviews with Booneville staff in order to achieve comparable interviewer approaches to assure reliability. Separately, Mr. Bowen conducted the interviews at Arkadelphia and Jonesboro and Dr. Kastner conducted the interviews at SEAHDC (Warren) and Conway.

The development and use of the Interview and Questions for Teams document is described previously in sections 2 and 3 of the Methods portion of this report. As noted earlier, the goal was to have six individuals from each HDC interviewed about the completed Interview and Questions for Teams document. Twenty-five such interviews were accomplished, including 26 individuals, in all of the HDCs taken together. These individuals were to represent the following organizational functions:

1. Superintendent and/or designee for this project
2. Director of Training or Training Manager
3. Director of Quality Management or QA Manager
4. Clinical Services Administrator
5. Restraint Review Committee Chair
6. Staff Psychologists (for those residents who have been restrained)

On several occasions, the interviewers discussed behavioral data which had been collected as part of this project and was being subjected to secondary analyses. The responses to these interview sessions are presented below and have not been individualized. Rather, responses have been aggregated as some people answered the same question and while their words were different the responses were similar giving us a high degree of confidence in the authenticity of the responses. We wish to extend our thanks to all the participants in the interviews and to the staff members who are providing what appears to be services and supports consistent with state and federal regulations and best practice standards.

B. Arkadelphia HDC

Following are notes from the follow up interviews with staff members from the Arkadelphia HDC taken on June 22, 2022. The interviews were conducted by Bob Bowen, who transcribed his own notes. The persons interviewed and their roles were:

- Kerry Gambill, Superintendent
- Michael Nelson, Director of Training
- Samantha Tippitt, Director of Quality Management and HRC Director
- Dr. Julie Howard, Psychologist

Linda Scales completed the original questionnaire for the Arkadelphia HDC. The interviews began by sharing some of the findings from the secondary data analysis conducted by Dr. Walsh which appeared to show that a large majority of the restraints are used by a small number of residents.

Restraint Type, Use, and Training
Section A. Mechanical Restraint

- Mechanical restraints are used only in emergency situations and are part of an individual's Individual Program Plan (IPP) if they are needed in order to provide safety as a last resort.
- Behavior Support Plans and Safety Response Plans are different documents to separate preventative and proactive interventions from responses that are a last resort to address imminent threat of harm to self and/or others.
- All staff members are trained in the prevention, de-escalation and if needed, use of restraints including personal holds, releases, and transitions to the ground.

Section B: Personal Hold Restraints

- These are restraints taught by the Crisis Prevention Institute (CPI) and are used as a last resort if and when the behavior of a client poses an imminent threat of harm to self and/or others.

Section C: Additional Information

- There are video cameras in all common areas in all homes. Footage from these cameras has been used to identify potential triggers, verify allegations and in some cases protect staff from false allegations.
- Understanding the impact of co-existing (dual) diagnoses and the impact of trauma on behavior was discussed by several people.
- A new psychiatrist will be starting work in September at Arkadelphia.

Restraint Review and Oversight

- Debriefing is completed after every restraint.
- Restraint is seen as "treatment plan failure" (consistent with the document "Six Core Strategies for the Reduction of Seclusion and Restraint" by Kevin Ann Huckshorn, 2008).
- Trends are analyzed with information sent to all relevant parties.
- There is a robust process to identify factors that impact behavior such as what staff person is on duty, what foods a particular resident might have eaten prior to incontinence, etc.
- The superintendent requires that unless there is an emergency the physician must authorize all restraints. The superintendent is notified of all restraints.
- Restraint documentation and data collection is carried out.
- Data are analyzed monthly with results sent to the QIDP for each person who was restrained that month.

Compliance with Active Treatment Requirements

- Trauma history, environmental factors such as noise, light and temperature are also considered as potential setting events.
- An active treatment program is in place for each person.
- Identification of replacement behaviors is a priority for the interdisciplinary team for each person who is restrained.

Concluding Remarks and Observations

The consultant concluded that the Arkadelphia HDC is fully invested in the concept of using restraint only as a last resort, and using best practices to find ways to minimize the use of restraint. It appears that the culture established by the leadership of the organization fully embraces the Six Core Strategies for the Reduction of Restraint and Seclusion, developed by Kevin Huckshorn. It should be noted that the use of seclusion is prohibited at Arkadelphia.

C. Booneville HDC

Following are notes from the follow up interviews with staff from the Booneville Human Development Center on June 7, 2022. The interviews were conducted together by Ted Kastner and Bob Bowen with notes transcribed by Bob Bowen. The interviews began later than scheduled due to a power outage at the Booneville HDC. All staff members easily adjusted to the time changes necessitated by the power outage, and during the interviews all personnel were professional, forthcoming, and helpful in the process of following up on the responses to the Standard Interview document. The persons interviewed and their roles were:

- Jeff Gonyea, Superintendent
- Vanessa Wyrick and Mark Hise, Training Department
- Nakita Martin, Director of Quality Management (Ms. Martin completed the initial Standard Interview document)
- Becky Draper, Restraint Review Committee Chair
- Kathy Edwards, Psychology Examiner

We started the interviews by sharing that our secondary data analysis conducted so far showed that the frequency and duration of restraints is declining at the Booneville HDC. It also appears that a large majority of the restraints are used by a small number of residents.

Restraint Type, Use, and Training
Section A. Mechanical Restraints

- Mechanical restraints are used only in emergency situations and are not a part of any individual's Individual Program Plan (IPP).
- All staff members are trained in the prevention, de-escalation and if needed, use of restraints including personal holds, releases, and transitions to the ground.

- The transitions to the ground are not part of the Crisis Prevention Institute (CPI) training protocols, but rather are designed and taught by HDC staff in Arkansas. Their purpose is not to restrain individuals on the ground, but rather to transition from a personal hold to a mechanical restraint.
- The term "papoose board" was noted to be outdated and pejorative. Some staff just refer to it as a mechanical restraint.

Section B: Personal Hold Restraints

- In the written response, restraint was defined as "restraining the arms, legs, head or a combination." It was clarified that in situations of biting the head was not restrained but rather stabilized.
- A soft item such as a pillow was placed between the head and the floor in cases of head-banging.

Section C: Additional Information

- It was noted that many of the resident population has a dual diagnosis (an intellectual disability and a mental health diagnosis), which requires more intensive training.
- A three week staff orientation model is used, and within that time the concepts of prevention and de-escalation of potentially aggressive incidents is covered.
- Refreshers are provided annually, with full re-certification required every two years.

Restraint Review and Oversight

- Debriefing is completed after every restraint.
- Restraint is seen as "treatment plan failure" (consistent Huckshorn, 2008).
- Trends are analyzed with information sent to all relevant parties.
- New approaches to address problematic behaviors are attempted in order to further reduce restraint use.

Restraint Documentation and Data Collection

- Data are analyzed monthly with results sent to the QIDP for each person who was restrained that month.
- It was noted that new residents tend to have restraint used more than existing residents, until staff become aware of triggers and preferred de-escalation methods.
- Very few staff injuries noted, even though the US Department of Labor reports that staff injuries in human service programs are increasing.

Compliance with Active Treatment Requirements

- A Functional Behavior Analysis (FBA) is conducted for all restraints to identify potential triggers.

- Trauma history, environmental factors such as noise, light and temperature are also considered as potential setting events.
- Staff would like specific ideas and contacts to further reduce and perhaps even eliminate the use of restraint.

Concluding Remarks and Observations by Interviewers

It is our impression that the Booneville HDC is fully invested in the concept of using restraint only as a last resort, and using best practices to find ways to minimize restraint use. The use of the papoose board with a chest restraint is considered to be a potential risk, as it is difficult to determine if a person is struggling because they are still behaviorally heightened, or if they are feeling the effects of the restraint on their ability to breathe.

D. Conway HDC

Following are notes from the follow up interviews with staff from the Conway Human Development Center on June 6, 2022. Dr. Kastner conducted the interviews and transcribed the notes. The persons interviewed and their roles were:

- Sarah Murphy, Superintendent
- Stuart Douglas, Education and Instruction Coordinator
- Glenn Gray, Psychological Examiner
- Joe Price, Quality Assurance Manager (Mr. Price completed the initial Interview and Questions for Teams document)
- Jennifer Evans, Central Quality Assurance Committee Chair
- Dr. Moore, Chief Psychologist

The Conway HDC operates multiple administrative teams. Data for each team had not yet been analyzed and, therefore, was not shared. Joe Price had completed the Standard Interview for Conway HDC.

The use of the papoose board with a chest restraint is considered to be a potential risk, as it is difficult to determine if a person is struggling because they are still behaviorally heightened, or if they are feeling the effects of the restraint on their ability to breathe.

E. Jonesboro HDC

Following are notes from the follow-up interviews with staff from the Jonesboro on June 16, 2022. The interviews were conducted and the notes transcribed by Bob Bowen. The persons interviewed and their roles were:

- Diane Keith, Superintendent
- Ann Hatcher, Director of Training
- Ross Granberry, Director of Quality Management
- Josh Barnes, Psychology Examiner

Originally two Standard Interview documents were submitted by Jonesboro HDC – one by Becky Hale, Program Administrator and the other by Ann Marie Hatcher, Training Project Manager.

Restraint Type, Use, and Training
Section A. Mechanical Restraints

- Mechanical restraints are used only in emergency situations and are a part of an individual's Individual Program Plan (IPP) if they are needed in order to provide safety as a last resort.
- All staff members are trained in the prevention, de-escalation and if needed, use of restraints including personal holds, releases, and transitions to the ground.
- In the responses to the questionnaire, the term "Matt wrap" was used. This term refers to what other HDC's call a "burrito wrap." If this mechanical restraint is needed, the person is transitioned to the floor as it would be dangerous to attempt to implement the Matt wrap standing up.

Section B: Personal Hold Restraints

- A restraint using a chair was described as a process taught by the Crisis Prevention Institute (CPI) in which an individual served sits in a chair and 2 people (one on each side) come up behind them
- Using gentle touch, they begin to attempt to de-escalate the individual. If this is not effective, staff can transition to a CPI restraint if that is the last resort in order to establish safety.

Section C: Additional Information

- There is a perceived need for more training to empower people to actually practice physical restraint, as staff may not have a high enough skill level given the current structure of 1.5 hours for training in physical skills
- There was an emphasis on providing training that would focus more on prevention through creating environments in which restraint cannot occur. This is consistent with the writings of Edward Carr, one of the authors of the initial articles describing what is now known as Positive Behavior Support.
- There was also a recommendation to provide more training on how to communicate more effectively with individuals served.
- There are video cameras in all common areas in all homes. One recommendation was to use these recordings more in order to analyze behavioral incidents, as well as to analyze situations in which staff successfully prevented and/or de-escalated an incident.

- Finding ways to better train what were described as “rotating staff” was also discussed, as was a suggestion that there should be a focus on increasing compassion for the individuals served, and not taking their behaviour personally when it occurred.
- Helping staff understand the differences between reactive and instrumental (or purposeful) aggression was suggested.
- Understanding the impact of co-existing (dual) diagnoses and the impact of trauma on behavior was discussed by several people.
- It was recommended that select staff, such as all people who qualify as QIDP’s, go through a nationally recognized training to become Registered Behavior Technicians. More information is available from https://www.bacb.com/rbt/

Restraint Review and Oversight

- Debriefing is completed after every restraint.
- Restraint is seen as “treatment plan failure” (consistent with the document “Six Core Strategies for the Reduction of Seclusion and Restraint” by Kevin Ann Huckshorn).
- Trends are analyzed with information sent to all relevant parties.
- Factors that impact behavior such as the weather, time of day and functioning level were presented and need to be more widely discussed and known.

Restraint Documentation and Data Collection

- Data are analyzed monthly with results sent to the QIDP for each person who was restrained that month.
- It was noted that new residents tend to have restraint used more than existing residents, until staff become aware of triggers and preferred de-escalation methods.
- Very few staff injuries noted, even though the US Department of Labor reports that staff injuries in human services are increasing.

Compliance with Active Treatment Requirements

- All people who are prescribed psychotropic medication are required to have a Behavior Development Plan, which includes a Functional Behavioral Analysis (FBA) for all restraint to identify potential triggers
- Trauma history, environmental factors such as noise, light and temperature are also considered as potential setting events
- Staff would like specific ideas and contacts to further reduce and perhaps event eliminate the use of restraint

Concluding Remarks and Observations

It is my impression that the Jonesboro HDC is fully invested in the concept of using restraint only as a last resort, and using best practices to find ways to minimize the use of restraint. The need for not only additional training but supports to empower staff to implement the training was a common theme among all the people interviewed.

SEAHDC (Warren)

Following are notes from the follow up interviews with staff from the Southeast Arkansas Human Development Center (SEAHDC) on June 6, 2022. Dr. Kastner conducted the interviews and transcribed the notes. Dana Harvey completed the Standard Interview document from SEAHDC. The persons interviewed and their roles were:

- Mark Wargo, Superintendent
- Dana Harvey, Assistant Superintendent
- Tekeila Rawls, Quality Assurance Manager
- Lauren Franklin, Client Training
- Tim Watson, Staff Training
- Dr. Julie Howard (on June 8, 2022)

Behavioral data for the SEAHDC had not yet been analyzed and, therefore, was not shared. However, a quick review indicated that a large majority of the restraints are used by a small number of residents.

Restraint Type, Use, and Training
Section A: Mechanical Restraints

- Mechanical restraints are used only in emergency situations and are not a part of any individual's Individual Program Plan (IPP).
- All staff members are trained in the prevention, de-escalation and if needed, use of restraints including personal holds, releases, and transitions to the ground.
- The transitions to the ground are not part of the Crisis Prevention Institute (CPI) training protocols, but rather are designed and taught by HDC staff in Arkansas. Their purpose is not to restrain individuals on the ground, but rather to transition from a personal hold to a mechanical restraint.

Compliance with Active Treatment Requirements

- A Functional Behavior Analysis (FBA) is conducted for all restraints to identify potential triggers
- Trauma history, environmental factors such as noise, light and temperature are also considered as potential setting events

Concluding Remarks and Observations by Interviewer

SEAHDC is fully invested in the concept of using restraint only as a last resort, and using best practices to find ways to minimize restraint use. The use of the papoose board with a chest restraint is considered to be a potential risk, as it is difficult to determine if a person is struggling because they are still behaviorally heightened, or if they are feeling the effects of the restraint on their ability to breathe.

3. Appendix J Comparison Results

As noted in the Method section, a review of DDS and HDC policies and procedures surrounding restraint was carried out (see comparison document in Appendix E). There is a basic continuity across both sets of regulations although there are some differences due to the use of both personal and mechanical restraint. Our review of DDS and HDC policy and procedures surrounding the use of restraints suggest that the facilities are all in substantial compliance. We note that the Appendix J regulations on restraint permit the use of restraints in both a planned and an emergency manner. In the questionnaire responses, three facilities (Arkadelphia, Booneville, and SEAHDC) responded that planned mechanical restraints are not used; and one (SEAHDC) added that planned personal restraints are also not used.

Additionally, there is a relationship between the use of restraints and the individual service plan prepared for the individual. Planned restraints (i.e., those with an intended clinical effect) need to be included formally in the person's plan while emergency restraints do not. In our review and in interviews we found the HDCs to be in compliance in this regard as well.

With regard to the distinction in the type of restraints permitted in Appendix J, a certain amount of complexity has been introduced in the use of "safety" plans in some of the HDCs, most notably Conway. We address this later in the following section.

4. Analysis of Restraint Data

Exclusion of Chemical Restraints. Although Medicaid regulations for ICF/IID (i.e., Appendix J) permit the use of chemical restraints we have not reviewed them in detail nor included them in the current report. Chemical restraints are defined as the oral, rectal, intramuscular, or subcutaneous administration of a medication to aid the client in calming to ensure safety of the client and/or others. These restraints require a physician's prescription and must be administered by a licensed nurse. We have limited our review to the external application of restraints because chemical restraints are used, and produce their outcomes, in a different manner than personal and mechanical restraints.

A. Arkadelphia Restraint Data

Data Source and Secondary Analyses. Arkadelphia provided a 21-page Quality Assurance Indicator Report that included restraint data for a number fiscal years. The four sections of the report provided restraint data that covered 42 months, from July 2018 to June 2022. Each section of the report divides the restraint data into quarters of the fiscal year; thus, each fiscal year begins with the second half of one calendar year and includes the first half of the next calendar year. Therefore, the first quarter of each year is July – September; the second quarter is October to December, and so on.

Using the data from the HDC report, we extracted the frequency and duration of personal and mechanical restraints for the 14 quarters (representing the entire 42-month period) and calculated restraint rates for both types of restraints. Table 3 shows the frequency and duration of the restraints in each fiscal year. The duration row also includes the average duration per restraint in parentheses.

The restraint rate is presented throughout our report as a per person per year rate. Note that this does not mean that each individual in an HDC was restrained; rather it is simply a statistical device to produce a standardized rate that can be compared across the HDCs. In fact, in all HDCs only a small minority of individuals account for the vast majority of restraints.

For any given HDC, the per person per year (PP/Y) rate statistic is calculated as follows:

$$\text{PP/Y} = \frac{\text{total \# of restraints in a given time frame}}{\text{average census for the time frame}}$$

For Arkadelphia, in any given fiscal year per person per year restraint rates for both personal and mechanical restraints varies. However, across the years that PP/Y rate for each fiscal year has increased from the beginning to the end of the period under question. The PP/Y rates for personal and mechanical restraint for each quarter over the 42 months for Arkadelphia are shown in the large table in Appendix C.

Table 3. Frequency and Duration – Personal and Mechanical Restraints (Arkadelphia)

RATE	FY 2018-2019	FY 2019-2020	FY 2020-2021	2nd Half-2021*
Average Census	116	113	102	102
PERSONAL RESTRAINTS
Personal Restraints Frequency (Count)	73	114	205	37
Personal Restraints Total Duration - Minutes (Average Duration/restraint)	238 (2.0 min)	402 (3.6 min)	852 (8.4 min)	144 (1.4 min)
MECHANICAL RESTRAINTS
Mechanical Restraints Frequency (Count)	25	55	125	67
Mechanical Restraints Total Duration - Minutes (Average Duration/restraint)	605 (5.2 min)	1170 (21.3 min)	2711 (26.6 min)	1454 (14.3 min)

 The frequency and duration of both types of restraint in the last column only represent two quarters; therefore these figures are not directly comparable to the other three years; because the time period is 6 months, it would be reasonable to double the figures in this column for comparison

The restraint rate for mechanical restraints is less than the rate of personal restraints in all years. In fact, this was true for 12 of the 14 quarters (see Appendix C); the two quarters in which the rate for mechanical restraints exceeded personal restraints were the most recent in the 42-month sequence (i.e., the last two quarters, or the 2nd half of 2021). Overall, there were fewer mechanical restraints and the personal restraints were shorter in duration than the mechanical restraints – both favorable trends (Table 3). Table 4 following extracts the personal and mechanical restraint rates by fiscal year.

It is not clear why previous increases occurred although it is possible that there have been changes in the makeup of the population at Arkadelphia. Although the census has remained somewhat stable over the period (with perhaps a slight decrease) it is possible that the nature of the population has shifted to individuals with more complex and challenging behavioral profiles.

Table 4. Personal and Mechanical Restraint Rates X Fiscal Year (Arkadelphia)

RATE	FY 2018-2019	FY 2019-2020	FY 2020-2021	2nd Half-2021*
Personal Restraint Rate (PP/Y)	.63	1.01	2.01	.36
Mechanical Restraint Rate (PP/Y)	.22	.49	1.23	.66

* This column only represents 2 quarters therefore it is not directly comparable to the other 3 years.

B. Booneville Restraint Data

Data Source and Secondary Analyses. Booneville provided a set of Excel spreadsheets (three tabs) covering the years 2019, 2020, 2021 that presented data on personal holds and mechanical restraints. There are three spreadsheet charts, one on each tab covering a single year. Statistics and per person per year rates were calculated from these spreadsheets for personal and mechanical restraints. Complete data compilations are presented by year in Appendix D.

The spreadsheets received from the HDC contain aggregate data and therefore certain statistical calculations were not possible (such as the range of restraint duration by individual; number of restraints attributable to individuals). Note that in Tables 5 and 6 only 9 months of data were available in 2019 for personal restraints (this is when personal restraint data collection was initiated) and therefore, a pro-rated statistic was added to the relevant cells (in parentheses) to show what the full year value might have been had the 9-month rate held for the entire year. Our findings are shown in Tables 5 and 6 following.

Table 5. Frequency and Duration – Personal and Mechanical Restraints (Booneville)

RATE	2019	2020	2021
Average Daily Census	128	121	120
PERSONAL RESTRAINTS
Personal Restraints Frequency (Count)	702 (936)*	887	575
Personal Restraints Total Duration -Minutes (Average Duration/restraint)	2,181 (3.1 min) (2,908 min)*	3,196 (3.6 min)	2,073 (3.6 min)
MECHANICAL RESTRAINTS
Mechanical Restraints Frequency (Count)	214	145	135
Mechanical Restraints Total Duration -Minutes (Average Duration/restraint)	8,372 (39.1 min)	6,155 (42.4 min)	4,090 (30.3 min)

*Data on personal restraints were only available for 9 months in 2019; prorated (to 12 months) the figure for frequency would be 936; total minutes would be 2,908; the average would remain 3.1).

Findings. Table 5 shows the frequency and duration of restraints at Booneville during the period 2019 – 2021 and Table 6 shows the per person per year rates as described earlier. It is noteworthy that both of the restraint types (personal and mechanical) show reductions year to year. Using the pro-rated figure for 2019 there was a 39% reduction in time spent in personal restraints and a 37% reduction in time spent in mechanical restraints over the time period.

Table 6. Personal and Mechanical Rates X Year (Booneville)

RATE	2019	2020	2021
Personal Restraint Rate (PP/Y)	5.5 (7.3)*	7.3	4.8
Mechanical Restraint Rate (PP/Y)	1.7	1.2	1.1

* Prorated to 12 months from 9 months.

Although individual restraint data were not provided, it was possible to discern from the spreadsheets that the range in the number of individuals across the months of each year dropped slightly from 2019. The range in the percentage of residents restrained during the months of 2019 ranged between 18% and 25%; however the range in the percent of those restrained in the months of 2021 had dropped to between 13% and 23% indicating a smaller percentage of individuals restrained in the later years.

Because the statistics shown in Tables 5 and 6 were derived from aggregate data, it is not possible to determine the number of restraints experienced by specific individuals. Thus, for example, at Booneville in 2021 there were 575 Personal Holds applied to a total number of "195 residents." What can't be determined is the number attributed to any specific individual or group of individuals. It is possible, for example, that 190 of the identified residents had 1 personal hold each and the 5 remaining residents accounted for the remaining 387 personal holds. In the future, it would be a useful statistic to report the number of restrains per individual. This is the practice at the other HDCs.

C. Conway Restraint Data

Data Sources and Secondary Analyses. Unlike the other HDCs, Conway has a system of safety restraints which are planned, but not necessarily designed for clinical behavioral change, and, in addition, the facility employs emergency restraints. We comment on this distinction further later in this section. Additionally, the facility uses a team structure to monitor and report restraint statistics, unlike the other HDCs. Taken together, these two facts greatly complicated our secondary analyses of CHDC's restraint data. The facility supplied our consultant team with a series of 60 20-page Behavior Reports and Restraint Use Summaries ("BR Reports") and 12 sets of Quality Assurance Subcommittee minutes ("QASC Minutes) from 2021 and 2022 consisting of two sets from each of five administrative teams at the facility. The teams included in the BR Reports are as follows:

SLT Sheltered Living Team
IAT Individual Assistance Team
HTT Habilitation & Training Team

TCT Total Care Team
ITT Intensive Training Team

The QASC minutes consist of spreadsheets of individual cases documenting each incident review and individual action taken by the subcommittee. However, there is no aggregation in these minutes because the focus is on the individual incidents; without aggregation these reports were less than useful to our team as they sometimes consisted of over 200 lines each without any aggregation or compilation. We did not have the time or resources to go through these reports to aggregate them in some fashion. Therefore, we relied on the BR Reports.

The 60 BR Reports, totaling approximately 1,200 pages, each contained individual listings of restraint incidents for each team, several tables pertaining to behavior incident reports by day, by residence, etc. (which may or may not include restraints of different types) and an aggregated data table (named Restraint Totals by Team). Again, some of this information however, these was difficult to use by our consultant team's review of restraints because of several disclaimer statements in each BR Report to the effect of: (1) all restraints may not be included ("...these may not include all restraints – only those marked on BR's" because "…some programs do not require a BR to accompany every restraint use"); (2) certain restraint cases including "…any individual who has more than 1,500 minutes of restraint use per month is separated from the team total…" in the reports; (3) "the reports listed…are obtained from the behavior reports only…(t)hey do not include all restraints"; and (4) "the 'time began' and 'time ended' is from the behavior report and indicates when (the) behavior incident began and ended. This time does not reflect actual time in restraints." We were concerned that these disclaimers would render the Conway statistics we computed not entirely comparable with the other HDCs.

Nonetheless, we have examined the aggregated tables named "Restraint Totals by Team" from all of the 60 months supplied to us (2017 through 2021) and have noted that, by far, the majority of restraint takes place in the IAT and HHT teams. Although the picture is somewhat incomplete, we have created five years' of restraint statistics from these tables for these two teams only. The statistics created from these reports are shown in the two tables included below (Tables 7 and 8).

In the IAT it is noteworthy that between 2017 and 2021 for "safety mechanical" restraints (rows 1 – 4) and for "emergency personal" restraints (rows 13 – 16) all of the statistics shown are, more or less, substantially reduced. For example, for safety mechanical restraints (rows 1 – 4) percentage decreases between 2017 and 2021 were large for both frequency (43%) and for duration in minutes (55%). In contrast to these reductions, the statistics shown for "emergency mechanical restraints" (rows 9 – 12) all increased between 2017 and 2021.

We constructed the same set of statistics for the Habilitation and Training Team (HTT) which is the other CHDC team with substantial restraint use. These statistics are shown in the table below. Some of the statistics in the HTT mirrored the IAT, for example the statistics for "safety mechanical restraints" (rows A – D) and "emergency personal restraints" (rows M – P) were all also reduced between 2017 and 2021 in the HTT. Additionally, all of the statistics for "safety personal restraints" (rows E – H) were also all lower in 2021 than they were in 2017. Offsetting these laudable reductions is the fact that all of the statistics for HTT emergency mechanical restraints (rows I – L) increased across the five year period.

Some of the HTT reductions over the period are striking. For example, minutes for "safety mechanical" restraints went from an annual total of 488,683 to an annual total of 12,929 (a 37-fold decrease!). Although minutes for "safety mechanical restraints" were reduced in both the IAT and the HTT, in both teams the number of minutes in these restraints annually remained above 10,000 (with average individual durations of 34.6 minutes in IAT and 42.4 minutes in HTT).

In general, taking just these two teams (IAT and HTT) which account for the preponderance of Conway restraints, there is a bit of a shift over the period (2017 to 2021) toward "emergency mechanical" restraints as the statistics for these have increased in both teams (table rows 9 -12 for IAT and table rows I – L for HTT).

Our secondary analyses of CHDC restraints are not fully comparable to the other HDCs because of the caveats noted above (possible restraint exclusion issues), and the restraint differences across teams at Conway. Therefore, given time and resource constraints, we have not been able to calculate per person per year statistics for the entire CHDC center. We could have calculated these for the IAT and HTT, however given the possible missing data and the lack of similar secondary analyses for the other three teams, we refrain from reporting them because they could easily be misinterpreted.

Conway HDC is rather different from the other HDCs in that it relies to a great extent on "safety" restraints compared to emergency restraints. Additionally, the IAT relies far more on mechanical restraints than personal restraints; in our view personal restraints are likely to be considered less aversive and therefore should be favored. This pattern holds for the HTT as well – that is, there are more mechanical restraints than personal restraints, and as in the IAT, the mechanical restraints are far longer. Again, we urge the facility to seek to increase the use of shorter-duration emergency personal restraints instead of longer-duration emergency mechanical restraints.

Safety Restraints vs. Emergency Restraints. We are cognizant of the laudable efforts on the part of CHDC to recognize that certain residents will require the use of restraint and to, in a way, plan for them via "safety plan" restraints.[2] However, our data compilation shows that such safety restraints are used more than emergency restraints (at least in the IAT and the HTT) and that perhaps the concept of "emergency behavioral issues" has been somehow incorporated into the safety restraint system. This may convey that when emergencies arise, for residents that have "safety plans," staff members should apply the restraints instead of attempting to avoid them. Our general position is that restraint use is reduced when staff members are constantly reminded that the primary goal in behavioral crisis situations is to avoid the use of any restraints unless, and only if, there is a clear indication that danger to the person or others is imminent.

[2] Safety restraints are different than the "planned" restraints permitted in the ICD/IID regulations. "Planned" restraints are intended to be "clinical" in nature – that is, they seek to change behavior. In contrast, the intent of "safety" restraints (also planned in advance) in our understanding is to keep residents "safe" when behavioral acting out presents a danger to self or others.

It may be a valuable exercise for DDS to closely review the use of "safety" restraints viz viz emergency restraints (or ICF/IID "planned" restraints) based on the current use statistics at Conway. Similarly, we note that in the "safety restraint" category of both teams we reviewed, that the use of mechanical restraints far exceeds the use of personal restraints. Therefore, we further suggest that any such review include the assessment of (less intense and shorter) personal restraints in favor of the use of mechanical restraints.

D. Jonesboro Restraint Data

Data Source and Secondary Analyses. Jonesboro provided a series of yearly restraint reports covering the period from 2018 to 2021 that included individual restraint data by resident. Duration of restraints was not available for 2018 and 2019. We extracted data from these reports and created tables, by year, showing restraint data. As is typical in such data, a small number of individuals accounted for the majority of restraints. For example, for all of the years in our review five or fewer residents accounted for 70% of all personal and mechanical restraints for each year.

Findings. Table 9 below shows the frequency of each type of restraint at Jonesboro over the time period. As noted, the duration of restraints was not included in the 2018 and 2019 data. A slight increase in the number of restraints is shown between 2018 and 2021.

E. SEAHDC Restraint Data

Data Source and Intensive Study. SEAHDC provided 12 sets of Human Rights Committee (HRC) Restraint Review Meeting Minutes from the period between July 30, 2020 and January 25, 2022. These minutes included the HDC's individual review of restraints that occurred during a 19-month period from June 2020 to December 2021. These meeting minutes were very complete and provided our team with an opportunity to examine a typical HRC review process closely. Using these meeting minutes, we conducted an intensive study of them by first extracting data from each individual meeting minute entry in these minutes. These data were entered into a database we created covering the period; we identified the frequency and duration of both personal and mechanical restraints. During this 19-month period we identified 175 personal restraints and 102 mechanical restraints.

All of the restraints identified in this intensive study were experienced by a total of only 34 unique residents or about 36% of the population of SEAHDC. These residents consisted of 29 males (85%) and 5 females (15%). Of these 34 residents, however, only 11 individuals accounted for 75% of all of the restraint incidents we identified in our study. This is a common finding in reviewing restraint statistics in HDC facilities – that is, a very small number of individuals account for a disproportionate number of restraint incidents.

This study permitted us to evaluate an HDC seeking to reduce the use of restraints over three six-month periods. In the table below we compare statistics for these three periods. Although our database covered 19 months, we have decided to exclude the first month (June 2020, and the restraints during this month) to render the three periods directly comparable. We present the frequency and duration of restraints at SEAHDC in Table 11.

As shown in Table 11, over this 18-month period there is a clear reduction in the frequency of both the personal and mechanical restraints from the first six month block to the second, but less so between the second and third six month blocks. This is also true for the duration of both personal and mechanical restraints. Note that in the table there is an additional row at the bottom that shows the continuation of mechanical restraints after the addition of a chemical restraint. That is, someone who was in a mechanical restraint was then administered a chemical restraint as well, and the duration shown in the table reflects the overall time that restraints continued after that. Therefore, the total duration of mechanical restraints is correctly characterized by the sum of these two rows (i.e., 1,000 min, 643 min, and 486 respectively) which still shows a decline over the 18 month period.

To make each time block six months in length, we eliminated one month Jun 2020 which included 9 personal restraints and 7 mechanical restraints.

Using the same database, the table below shows the rate statistics that we calculated for each HDC. In Table 12 we calculated these statistics from the database we created directly from the HRC meeting minutes data we included in our created database.

Progression of Restraints. The database we created from the SEAHDC Human Rights Committee review minutes permitted us to do a more fine-grained analysis of these restraints that we believe may have implications for the other HDCs as well. This finding was mentioned in at least one other HDC report as well. In general this has to do with the progression from one form of restraint to another. In particular the data we collected in the intensive study at SEAHDC shows such progression.

As noted, in the full 19-month period we identified 175 personal restraints and 102 mechanical restraints of which all but 11 of the mechanical restraints progressed from prior personal restraints. This is important when considering whether personal restraints are used in their own right to ameliorate the behavioral outburst, or are used simply as a means to get individuals into mechanical restraints.

Additionally, we identified “progressions” from mechanical to chemical restraints which had the effect of extending the duration of mechanical restraints. Of the 115 chemical restraints that were included in the HRC meeting minutes, 31 of them (27%) were chemical restraints only and were not associated with prior personal or mechanical restraints. We identified 23 chemical restraints (20%) which were preceded by personal restraints. The remaining 61 chemical restraints (53%) were preceded by mechanical restraints (which, in turn, were typically preceded by personal restraint) with the mechanical restraints continuing after the chemical restraint was administered. It is for this reason that we noted that the duration of mechanical restraints needs to include the time in a mechanical restraint after a person may have also received a chemical restraint. We strongly recommend caution in the use of chemical restraints while someone is concurrently in mechanical restraints.

Review of chemical restraints is beyond the purview of this report; however, it should be understood that there often exists a progression among restraints with the initial personal restraints often giving rise to a cascade of restraints – both mechanical and chemical that may follow.

The short duration of personal restraints (usually just a few minutes) often lead to mechanical restraints of more than 20 minutes. As any part of a policy or plan to reduce the use of restraints needs to take this progression into account, lest personal restraints simply become a “gateway” to additional restraints. In our view, two laudable goals for all HDCs would be to track and study such restraint progressions in their HRC reviews and seek to: (1) increase the duration of personal restraints while simultaneously working to decrease the duration of mechanical restraints; and (2) work to have personal restraints function as the only restraints used when needed. As personal restraints successfully replace mechanical restraints – that is, breaking the “progression” – then the goal can shift to reducing the use of personal restraints as well.

CONSULTANT RECOMMENDATIONS

Before providing specific recommendations based on our findings we want to address the recommendations made by the DDS Behavioral Consultation Committee, specifically those that the committee has placed on hold. We support all of the committee's recommendations so far and make the following recommendations in regard to the "on hold" recommendations. There is a certain amount of overlap in our reiteration of the DDS Behavioral Committee recommendations (#1 below) and our specific recommendations under #2 below.

1. Recommendations Related to the DDS Behavioral Consultation Committee

Earlier, in the Introduction herein, we identified the six specific recommendations that the Committee had placed on hold pending consultant input. Below are our recommendations related to the six that the Committee placed on hold. In addition to the recommendations shown under the following headings, some of our specific recommendations made in part 2 of this section may also be relevant.

A. Consultant recommendations in relation to Objective 2: Identify preferred restraint and communication options to be used while working to reduce restraints.

1. Expand communication strategy options for individual clients being restrained, including adding sign language, gestures, timers, visual schedules, and similar media.

2. Create, implement, and develop training on a new manual of available communication strategies and devices; target administrative, supervisory, professional and clinical staff members to ensure that interdisciplinary teams have access to current, effective practices.

3. Provide supplemental training to all client-facing staff on effective communication strategies to prevent, and effectively de-escalate behavioral incidents.

4. Discontinue the use of the papoose boards. Note that there is some concern around the use of restraint chairs as well; however, the state's committee (in Objective 2) only addressed the papoose boards. If discontinuance of the use of papoose boards results in an increase in the use of restraint chairs, then Arkansas should consider also banning them.

B. Consultant recommendations in relation to Objective 3: Develop a comprehensive approach to reducing restraint usage

1. Identify behavioral health service gaps for individual clients at each HDC, identify what is needed to address those gaps, and adopt metrics to evaluate identified mental health and service needs.

2. Establish a group to review all behavioral support plans to ensure removal of restraint-specific language.

3. Review HDC restraint training and annual follow-up training; seek to standardize curricula and time in training. Enhance training that seeks to prevent behavioral crises before restraint is required. Use existing HDC training teams and procedures to build a DDS "best practice" training standard.

4. Develop and adopt a written plan for restraint reduction of all types. Implement the plan in the same manner in all Human Development Centers. Explore general approaches such as the six core strategies promulgated by the National Association of State Mental Health Program Directors (nasmhpd.org).

5. Utilize the existing elements in HDCs to develop a comprehensive standardized restraint data tracking, reporting, review, and oversight system; apply to all HDCs; develop standardized HRC or similar restraint review and oversight processes; produce standardized oversight meeting minutes; create a standardized reporting format that presents comparable frequency, duration, and standardized rates.

6. Develop and adopt a restraint data analytic framework that goes beyond the simple reporting/tracking/graphing of incidents and other data to the actual analysis of data to produce useful information for administrative decision-making that connects with the comprehensive standardized restraint reduction plan. Develop comprehensive metrics (such as standardized rate measures, e.g., per person per year) that can be used to gauge restraint reduction efforts across all HDCs.

2. Additional Consultant Recommendations

1. Review all DDS and local HDC restraint policies and procedures; to the extent possible create a single DDS-state-wide set of restraint policies and procedures that are informed by and meet all ICF/IID regulations (i.e., Appendix J).

2. Because we believe that restraint cannot be reduced simply by creating regulations, we urge the creation of a DDS-wide separate, stand-alone policy/procedure/handbook document pertaining to the reduction in the use of all types of restraints. Include in this a careful examination of the use of "safety" vs. "emergency" restraints as well as the use of "progressive" restraints; e.g., short duration personal restraints followed by longer duration mechanical restraints (with or without chemical restraints added). The consultants are concerned that the current system in both of these cases may inadvertently reduce the effectiveness of any restraint reduction messaging or philosophy.

3. Create a centralized DDS restraint review function that has the capability to: collect annual and/or quarterly reports from all HDCs; create a DDS level annual restraint report that addresses all restraint data; this function may benefit from an interdisciplinary "DDS state-wide" restraint review team. In conjunction with this it may be beneficial to identify a DDS central office position with restraint oversight, training, and analytic capabilities. Although the state may have a centralized reporting function, during our review the only data received from Central Office were Monthly Statistical Reports between 2018 and 2022. These reports seem to only list the data submitted by HDCs – there was no analytic function evident in these reports.

4. Create an analytic approach to the collection, presentation, and reporting of restraint data; currently data collection is uneven across HDCs although in some facilities large amounts of data are collected. The goal of an analytic approach is to "use data to inform practice" (Huckshorn, 2008); at present although some elements of HDCs are awash in data, there is less information being extracted from the data to inform practice. Results from this process should be reviewed in light of the standardized restraint reduction documents.
5. Apparently the HDCs have all employed the CPI restraint training system. In some cases there appeared to be disparities in how the CPI program was trained. The goal would be to standardize the basic training program across HDCs if not already completed. If local needs exceed such training then add additional training programs to specific areas. Agree on standardized training formats, content, and time with modifications to same based on local HDC need. Subsequent discussions suggest that the basic CPI training is approximately 7.5 hours and that about 1 hour each is allotted to subsequent topics identified by our team.
6. Closely examine the use of chemical restraints in conjunction (concurrently) with mechanical restraints. Our team urges extreme caution.
7. Employ existing video cameras as restraint data capture elements to provide useful critical review data for informing routine practices.
8. Assure that "rotating shift" personnel are afforded the full restraint training received by regular staff members.
9. If not already available, where needed, create training elements on behavioral acting out during mental health crises; include information on dual diagnosis (MH and IDD).
10. Explore additional trauma-based training. All HDCs acknowledged that trauma-informed perspectives were incorporated into assessment and treatment planning; however, staff members at two facilities (Arkadelphia and Jonesboro) requested additional training.
11. It may be reasonable for selected staff members (such as QIDPs) go through a nationally-recognized training program to become registered behavioral technicians (RBTs) (information can be found at www.bacb.com/rbt.

CONCLUSION

The consultants thank DDS and the HDCs for the opportunity to undertake this review of restraints pursuant to the DDS Behavioral Consultation Committee. We found all of the DDS and HDC personnel to be professional and helpful in our work and we owe them a debt of gratitude for their assistance.

We found the personnel we interviewed to clearly have the best interests of those they care for at heart. We generally found an interest in both the reduction of restraint use and/or the improving of the quality, review and oversight of restraints. We note that some of the populations of HDCs have been shifting slightly with the result that behavioral challenges with regard to mental health concerns are becoming more common.

As is typical in this area, we found that a rather small percentage of complex individuals account for the majority of restraints of all kinds. Nonetheless, there are certain elements in the DDS system in which restraint use is still rather prevalent; these areas are good targets for reduction efforts.

The system, as a whole, would benefit from more standardized approaches including an over-arching philosophy, including related policy and procedures of restraint reduction. It may be timely to review and update all DDS and HDC restraint policies/procedures. Although there is typically ample data in the system we think that an increase of analytic treatment of such data to inform practice would be very beneficial.

We think there are some issues that require more intense scrutiny such as: (1) the relationship between safety and emergency restraints; (2) the progression of restraints (i.e., personal restraint as a gateway to more restrictive forms); (3) the continued use of problematic restraint forms (e.g., papoose boards); and (4) the concurrent use of mechanical and chemical restraints. In contrast, with a few exceptions, we also found that in most HDCs and in many areas the use of restraints has diminished in frequency and duration over the past several years. Therefore, the facilities have a very good start and need to re-double their efforts along the path to reduced restraint use.

In general, we are hopeful that DDS and the HDCs can accomplish the reduction in the use of all types of restraint and we hope that the review and recommendations that we have provided will be found useful.

QUALIFICATIONS OF CONSULTANT TEAM

Theodore Kastner, M.D., M.S.

Theodore Kastner is a physician board-certified in three specialties – Pediatrics, Developmental and Behavioral Pediatrics and Neurodevelopmental Disabilities. Dr. Kastner completed his training in the care of children and adults with developmental disabilities and handicapping conditions at the Rose F. Kennedy Center of the Albert Einstein College of Medicine in 1986. In addition, in 1997 he received a Master of Science in population health from the University of Wisconsin.

Dr. Kastner is a leading authority on the health care concerns of people with I/DD. In 1998 Dr. Kastner founded and served as the President of Developmental Disabilities Health Alliance, Inc. (DDHA), which grew to become the largest provider of health care services to persons with I/DD in New Jersey. DDHA was nationally recognized for its health care programs for persons with I/DD and received a CMS Health Care Innovations Challenge Award to further its work.

Between 2015 and 2019, Dr. Kastner was Co-Director of the Rose F. Kennedy Center at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine. In that role he also served as Director of the RFK Children's Evaluation and Rehabilitation Center at Montefiore Medical Center and as the Director of the Leadership in Education in Neurodevelopmental Disabilities (LEND) program, a federally-designated training program in neurodevelopmental disabilities. He also served as the Director of the Rose F. Kennedy University Center for Excellence in Developmental Disabilities (UCEDD) a federally funded center for people with developmental disabilities. Additionally, he served as principal Investigator on four federally-funded training programs and half a dozen state and local contracts.

In 2019, Dr. Kastner became Commissioner of the New York State Office for Persons With Developmental Disabilities (OPWDD) where he led an organization with a budget of approximately $10 billion with 18,000 employees serving 121,000 individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities (I/DD).

Dr. Kastner has been a recipient of more than a dozen awards and honors including the Health Care Professional of the Year Award by The Arc and the Elizabeth M. Boggs Citizenship Award from the United Cerebral Palsy Associations of New Jersey and the Ann Klein Advocate Award from the New Jersey Community Health Law Project.

Dr. Kastner has served as a consultant to innumerable national organizations and agencies including the US DOJ and 14 states. Dr. Kastner has presented at over 200 conferences and training workshops and authored more than 100 publications in the field of I/DD. His research interests are in the areas of primary health care, mental health problems, infectious disease concerns, managed care and public policy issues for people with I/DD.

Kevin K. Walsh, Ph.D.

Kevin Walsh is the founder and president of Kevin Walsh Consulting, LLC, a firm that specializes in the training of techniques to manage behavioral crises including personal control techniques to staff members in the field of intellectual and developmental disabilities

(www.kevinwalshconsulting.com). Dr. Walsh has spent his entire career in the field of intellectual and developmental disabilities in clinical, administrative, and research capacities. In his full-time capacity, he has recently retired as the Director of Quality Management and Research for Developmental Disabilities Health Alliance, Inc. (DDHA) a specialized statewide health care and in-home behavioral support organization. He received his undergraduate degree in developmental psychology in 1972 from Mount Saint Mary's University in Emmitsburg, Maryland and his MA and Ph.D. degrees in Life-Span Developmental Psychology from The University of Akron in Ohio in 1978 and 1981 respectively.

He served for 14 years as a part-time Associate Editor of the journal Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities published by the American Association on Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities (AAIDD). Additionally he has served on the boards of directors of the state, regional, and national levels of that organization. He is a past President and current Treasurer of the Arc of Cumberland County having been a member of that board since 1991. Until this past year he also served as a Member-at-Large on the Executive Committee of the board of The Arc of New Jersey, where he began his service in the mid-1990s.

Dr. Walsh has presented widely at conferences and meetings and continues to regularly publish in the field of intellectual and developmental disabilities with over 50 peer-reviewed articles or book chapters to his credit. Dr. Walsh's research interests include clinical practice models of specialized health care for people with disabilities; quality and outcomes research in the field; behavioral approaches; and policy and service system needs for people with intellectual and developmental disabilities.

He has consulted in ten states in addition to New Jersey (ME, MA, CT, PA, MD, FL, WA, AR, WV and OH) and has often served as an expert witness in state-level cases involving developmental and other disabilities and quality of care issues.

Dr. Walsh was a long-time member (since the 1980s) of the New Jersey Division of Developmental Disabilities (NJ/DDD) committee that reviews the behavioral management policies and personal control technique curricula used by agencies under contract with the NJ/DDD. During his tenure on this committee, it has reviewed hundreds of behavior support and behavioral restraint policies and procedures. As the longest-serving non-state member of the BPRC committee, Dr. Walsh has reviewed nearly every personal control technique program proposed for use by any New Jersey organization since the 1980s.

Bob Bowen is a behavioral consultant and trainer with Prag Consulting in Melbourne, Australia. He has over 40 years of experience supporting individuals with complex behavioral needs in the United States, Canada, and Australia. He has provided keynote and plenary presentations at conferences in the United Kingdom, Ireland, Norway, Australia, Hong Kong, Canada and the United States. Bob is the developer of The Matrix of Needs, an innovative approach to understanding human needs. he has published over 20 peer and scientifically reviewed articles, three book chapters, and presented hundreds of workshops on the prevention of workplace violence, while improving the quality of life for people affected by disabilities, and the staff who support them.

During his career in human services, Bob has held positions ranging from direct support professional to CEO and almost everything in between. He was the CEO of The Mandt System, Inc., an organization providing training in the prevention and, if needed, use of restraint. In this role he was the primary author of the curriculum used to teach preventative measures, and wrote the chapters on Trauma Informed Services and Positive Behavior Support. He has also served as an adjunct assistant professor of psychiatry at the University of Rochester in New York for eleven years, and also has experience teaching at Walsh University in North Canton, Ohio, and at Hawkeye Community College in Waterloo, Iowa. Additionally, Bob was a field placement supervisor for the Malone University Department of Social Work in Canton, Ohio, and is currently a member of the Department of Social Work Community Advisory Board at Malone.

Bob is a member of the Australasian Society for Intellectual Disability, the Restraint Reduction Network in the United Kingdom, the National Association of Social Workers, the National Organization of Human Services, the Association for Positive Behaviour Support, and the National Association of Qualified Intellectual Disability Professionals. Bob is certified in trauma treatment through the National Institute for the Clinical Application of Behavioral Medicine, and the Trauma Research Foundation.

Standard Interview Questions for Teams form

The Standard Interview document begins on the following page. Because the goal in this appendix is to show the content of the Standard Interview, much of the space provided for personnel to record their answers has been removed. The document was provided to HDCs in both a fill-in MS Word format and in a .pdf format. All forms were acceptable and provided for unlimited space to include textual responses. The abbreviated answer spaces shown in the copy following is for brevity.

Providing support to direct support professionals who are the people charged with implementing physical and/or mechanical restraints is a key part of the role of administrators, managers and/or clinical staff members. These questions are designed to enhance the ability of the various persons, teams and oversight committees at Arkansas Human Development Centers to "develop a comprehensive approach with the help of clinicians and advocates to significantly reduce the use of restraints on developmental and intellectually disabled clients living at the HDCs." (DDS Behavioral Support Committee Report Summary, 2021)

II. RESTRAINT TYPE, USE, AND TRAINING

NOTE: Medicaid ICF/IID regulations mostly cover mechanical restraint use; however, increasingly facilities are using personal hold restraints (PHR). This section covers both

A. MECHANICAL RESTRAINTS

DOES THE HDC USE MECHANICAL RESTRAINTS?.....
Yes ☐ No ☐

If "no" skip to section B; if "yes" complete section A.

If MECHANICAL RESTRAINTS are used, please list all mechanical restraint devices that are employed:

DOES THE HDC USE EMERGENCY MECHANICAL RESTRAINTS (THAT IS, WITHOUT A PLAN BEING IN THE IPP)?.....Yes ☐ No ☐

NOTES: _____

IS NON-EMERGENCY USE OF MECHANICAL RESTRAINTS USED (THAT IS, "PLANNED" AND INCLUDED IN THE IPP)?.....Yes ☐ No ☐

NOTES: _____

ARE STAFF MEMBERS TRAINED IN THE IMPLEMENTATION OF MECHANICAL RESTRAINTS.....Yes ☐ No ☐

If yes, please list below all training provided to staff who implement mechanical restraints:

NOTE: Materials used to train staff members who implement mechanical restraints have been requested in the separate request for materials from the HDC.

DO STAFF MEMBERS TAKE PART IN A PERIODIC "REFRESHER" CLASS ON THE USE OF MECHANICAL RESTRAINTS?.....Yes ☐ No ☐

If yes, describe: _____

B. PERSONAL HOLD RESTRAINTS

DOES THE HDC USE PERSONAL HOLD RESTRAINTS (PHR)?.....Yes ☐ No ☐

If PERSONAL HOLD RESTRAINTS are used, please list all the types that are employed:

DOES THE HDC USE EMERGENCY PERSONAL HOLD RESTRAINTS (THAT IS, WITHOUT A PLAN BEING IN THE IPP)?.....Yes ☐ No ☐

NOTES: _____

IS NON-EMERGENCY USE OF PERSONAL HOLD RESTRAINTS USED (THAT IS, "PLANNED" AND INCLUDED IN THE IPP)?.....Yes ☐ No ☐

ARE STAFF MEMBERS TRAINED IN THE IMPLEMENTATION OF PERSONAL HOLD RESTRAINTS (PHR)?..... Yes ☐ No ☐

If yes, please list all training provided to staff members who implement PHRs?

NOTE: Materials used to train staff members who implement personal hold restraints have been requested in the separate request for materials from the HDC.

DO STAFF MEMBERS TAKE PART IN A PERIODIC "REFRESHER" CLASS ON THE USE OF PERSONAL HOLD RESTRAINTS?.....Yes ☐ No ☐

If yes, describe: _____

C. ADDITIONAL RESTRAINT TRAINING INFORMATION

DURING THE INITIAL STAFF MEMBER ORIENTATION/TRAINING, IS TIME SPENT IN TRAINING STAFF MEMBERS IN THE PREVENTION OF BEHAVIORAL INCIDENTS?.....Yes ☐ No ☐

If so, how much time: _____

DURING THE INITIAL STAFF MEMBER ORIENTATION/TRAINING,

IS TIME SPENT IN TRAINING STAFF MEMBERS IN THE DE-ESCALATION OF BEHAVIORAL INCIDENTS?.....Yes ☐ No ☐

If so, how much time:_____

HOW MUCH TIME IN TOTAL IS SPENT IN THE TRAINING OF STAFF MEMBERS IN THE IMPLEMENTATION OF RESTRAINT PROCEDURES IN THE INITIAL STAFF ORIENTATION?

HOW MUCH TIME IS SPENT ON REFRESHING OR RE-CERTIFYING STAFF MEMBERS IN THE FOLLOWING:

PREVENTION of PROBLEM BEHAVIORS: _____ minutes

DE-ESCALATION of PROBLEM BEHAVIORS:_____minutes

IMPLEMENTTION OF RESTRAINT PROCEDURES:_____minutes

Additional Notes:_____

If there is NO dedicated restraint review committee, what alternative is used?

WHETHER THERE IS A DESIGNATED REVIEW COMMITTEE OR NOT, DESCRIBE THE RESTRAINT REVIEW PROCESS:

HOW ARE CASES REFERRED TO THE COMMITTEE FOR REVIEW (WHAT IS THE CRITERION?) describe:

ARE ALL RESTRAINTS REVIEWED?.....Yes ☐ No ☐

If not, is there a cutoff for type, frequency or duration? If so, describe:

HAVE COMMITTEE MEMBERS BEEN TRAINED IN RESTRAINTS AND ON OVERSIGHT MECHANISMS?.....Yes ☐ No ☐

WHAT IS THE FEEDBACK PROCESS FROM THE COMMITTEE TO THE QIDP, SUPERVISORS, AND STAFF IMPLEMENTING THE RESTRAINTS? Describe:

IS THERE ADDITIONAL ADMINISTRATIVE REVIEW OF RESTRAINTS? (If so, describe):

DOES COMMITTEE OVERSIGHT OR RECOMMENDATIONS RESULT IN INDIVIDUAL PROGRAM PLAN CHANGES?.....Yes ☐ No ☐

If yes, what is the mechanism?

IN SUCH CASES, ARE PLAN CHANGES FOLLOWED-UP BY THE REVIEWING COMMITTEE?.....Yes ☐ No ☐

If so, how:_____

IV. RESTRAINT DOCUMENTATION AND DATA COLLECTION

ARE ALL RESTRAINTS DOCUMENTED?.....Yes ☐ No ☐

If YES, how documented:_____

If NOT, why not?_____

WHAT IS THE POLICY AND PROCEDURE FOR COLLECTION OF DATA? Describe

WHAT FACTORS ARE USED TO IDENTIFY PATTERNS OF RESTRAINT USE?

IS THERE A PROCESS FOR ASSESSING WHETHER RESTRAINTS WERE USED CORRECTLY?..... Yes ☐ No ☐

If YES, describe the process:

DESCRIBE WHAT HAPPENS IN THE EVENT THAT RESTRAINTS WERE DETERMINED TO HAVE BEEN IMPLEMENTED INCORRECTLY (such as re-training, staff discipline, etc.):

V. COMPLIANCE WITH ACTIVE TREATMENT REQUIREMENTS

DOES EACH CONSUMER/RESIDENT WITH WHOM RESTRAINT IS USED HAVE A FUNCTIONAL BEHAVIOR ASSESSMENT ON FILE ADDRESSING THE BEHAVIORS WHICH REQUIRE RESTRAINT USE?

Yes ☐ No ☐

IF ANY TYPE OF RESTRAINT IS INCLUDED IN THE IPP (I.E., PLANNED RESTRAINT), ARE SPECIFIC PROGRAM PLANS ON FILE?

Yes ☐ No ☐

HAVE SUCH PLANS BEEN REVIEWED BY A HUMAN RIGHTS COMMITTEE?

Yes ☐ No ☐

IS DOCUMENTATION OF SUCH REVIEW INCLUDED IN THE IPP DOCUMENTS?

Yes ☐ No ☐

ARE LESS RESTRICTIVE ALTERNATIVES ATTEMPTED AND/OR CONSIDERED?

Yes ☐ No ☐

FOR CONSUMERS/RESIDENTS WITH HISTORY OF RESTRAINTS ARE BEHAVIORAL OR OTHER INTERVENTIONS INCLUDED IN THE IPP?

Yes ☐ No ☐

IF SO, ARE THEY REGULARLY MONITORED?.....

Yes ☐ No ☐

Briefly describe how monitoring is carried out:

ARE SUCH PLANS MADE AVAILABLE TO THE RESTRAINT REVIEW COMMITTEE?.....Yes ☐ No ☐

ARE THERE CLEAR ATTEMPTS TO REDUCE THE FREQUENCY AND DURATION OF INDIVIDUAL RESTRAINT USE?..... Yes ☐ No ☐

If so, describe how?

IS THERE A FACILITY-WIDE EFFORT TO REDUCE THE FREQUENCY AND DURATION OF RESTRAINTS USE?.....Yes ☐ No ☐

IF SO, IS THERE A WRITTEN PLAN?.....Yes ☐ No ☐

HOW IS THE PLAN IMPLEMENTED?

A Rule Comparison: ICF/IID Regulations Appendix J and Arkansas DDS.

[The appendix begins on the page following.]

A Rule Comparison: ICF/IID Regulations Appendix J and Arkansas DDS

Target Group: Arkansas Human Development Centers, Arkansas DDS

Introduction

42 CFR 483.450 is a "Condition of Participation" related to the behavior of clients and the practices of the facility to address these behaviors positively which the Human Development Centers (HDC's) in Arkansas must meet in order to maintain their certification to participate in Medicaid funded services. When doing surveys to measure compliance with waiver funded expectations, federal surveyors use the ICF/DD regulations as a template to measure the implementation of services addressing health and safety issues. The Interpretive Guidance to Surveyors (Appendix J) states the following Compliance Principles:

"The Condition of Participation of Client Behavior and Facility Practices is met when:
• Individual programs and activities regularly include use of positive techniques, teaching strategies, and supports. Efforts are made to reduce and eliminate use of restrictive techniques with positive results;
• Staff teach and reinforce appropriate behaviors, such as communication skills, social skills, independence and choice-making skills, coping skills, and leisure skills which serve as functional substitutes for inappropriate behaviors; and
• Restrictive techniques are used only when warranted by the severity of the behavior, and result in desired behavioral outcomes.

The Condition of Participation of Client Behavior and Facility Practices is not met when:
• Restrictive, intrusive techniques are used to manage or control behavior in lieu of positive teaching strategies;
• Individuals are physically or psychologically injured or harmed as a result of the use of the restrictive interventions and the facility has failed to adequately monitor the use of the intervention; or
• Restrictive interventions are used when they are not warranted or without first attempting less restrictive/more positive measures."

The Comparison

The Arkansas Department of Human Services, Division of Developmental Disability Services (DDS), has promulgated a series of policies and procedures for state-wide use, and each of the five HDC's has their own set of policies and procedures which contain differences between facility policies and procedures and the Condition of Participation in Appendix J for Client Behavior and Facility Practices.

Following is a more detailed look at the standards contained in the Condition of Participation of the ICF/DD regulations governing ICF/DD programs, compared with relevant sections of Arkansas DDS regulations and HDC policies and procedures. The comparison is divided into the following sections:

- Active Treatment
- Assessment
- Replacement Behaviors
- Data Collection/ Plan Monitoring
- Committee Requirements
- Informed Consent
- Client Behavior
- Conduct Towards Clients
- Management of Inappropriate Client Behavior
- Use of Aversive Techniques – Hierarchy of Interventions
- Protection of Rights
- Physical Restraints
- Oversight

ICF/DD Conditions of Participation	Arkansas HDC Policies and Procedures	Comparison Notes
Active Treatment
(a) Standard: Active treatment Tag number W195 (1) Each client must receive a continuous active treatment program, which includes aggressive, consistent implementation of a program of specialized and generic training, treatment, health services and related services described in this subpart, that is directed toward-- (i) The acquisition of the behaviors necessary for the client to function with as much self determination and independence as possible; and (ii) The prevention or deceleration of regression or loss of current optimal functional status. W239 (vi) Provision for the appropriate expression of behavior and the replacement of inappropriate behavior, if applicable, with behavior that is adaptive or appropriate.	In the policies and procedures available for review, the term "Active Treatment" was not mentioned. This does not mean that Active Treatment is not being implemented in the HDC's as the policies and procedures reviewed pertained only to behavioral supports. An example of a policy and procedure which would comply with the Active Treatment standards is from Booneville, and reads as follows: "The Psychology Department recognizes that an enriched environment and individualized instruction help develop adaptive behaviors and are the first basis for preventing and managing maladaptive behaviors." Policy #I-F-5 These and other policies and procedures focusing on enriched environments and improved quality of life are important aspects of positive behavior support. The Arkadelphia HDC policy states that: "It is the philosophy of this agency to focus on reinforcing the development and maintenance of appropriate replacement behaviors." , Policy I-F-5	Active treatment is the backbone of the CMS standards. In numerous surveys, CMS has found that when behavioral issues are not addressed, and are significant enough to show non-compliance with behavioral standards, the Condition of Participation for Active Treatment is also at risk of non-compliance, as the client is not able to function with self-determination and independence due to the negative effects of behavior. This and other policies and procedures meet the expectation of W239.

Assessment
ICF/DD Conditions of Particpation	Arkansas HDC Policies and Procedures	Comments
W214 standard: (iii) Identify the client's specific developmental and behavioral management needs; Guideline: Assessment of the behavior assumed to be maladaptive should include analyses of the potential causes, such as lack of exposure to positive models and teaching strategies, lack of ability to communicate needs and desires, lack of success experiences, a history of punishing experiences, presence of a physiological condition, or other environmental or social conditions which may elicit or sustain the behavior.	The policies and procedures appear to meet the standard expectations of a Functional Behavior Assessment, as evidenced by the relevant document from the Conway HDC: "Discuss how the functional assessment was conducted such as the use of a formal assessment, interviews, professional knowledge of person, observations of the person. Structural/Environmental/Physical/Sensory Concerns Person served has migraines, constipation, etc., the person served does not like crowds, has problems with transitions, does not like certain television shows, does not like certain foods, does not like certain clothing, etc. Antecedents/triggers contributing to the display of inappropriate behavior. Identify and discuss the events, times and situations that predict when the problem behavior will and will not occur across the full range of typical daily routines" Policy II-D-16	Assessment is the key to identifying what CMS sees as the root causes of a behavior (and this is critical – "assumed to be maladaptive". In addition to the standard definitions of Functional and Structural assessments, the Condition of Participation is recommending ICF/DD programs also consider the following as potential causes of maladaptive behavior: Lack of exposure to positive models Lack of exposure to positive teaching strategies Lack of ability to communicate wants and needs Lack of success experiences A history of punishing experiences Presence of a physiological condition Other social or environmental conditions which sustain the behavior

Replacement Behaviors
ICF/DD Conditions of Participation	Arkansas HDC Policies and Procedures	Comparison Notes
483.440(c)(5)(vi) FACILITY PRACTICES: The training program provides specific information as to how to elicit or strengthen appropriate behavior and what behaviors to teach, reinforce or encourage which would reduce or replace the inappropriate behavior. Replacement behaviors are functionally related to the targeted behavior. (6) The individual program plan must also: W240 (i) Describe relevant interventions to support the individual toward independence.	The Jonesboro HDC policies and procedures on behavior support and management are representative of how the Arkansas HDC's meet this requirement: "The focus of Behavior Support and Management is primarily on reinforcing the development and maintenance of functionally appropriate replacement behaviors and secondarily on the decrease of inappropriate behaviors."	After assessment, CMS expects a program plan that identifies why a person engaged in a specific behavior (what did they want to acquire or escape from), and then a specific training program to help the person get or get away from what they want to get (acquire) or get away from (escape), in ways that do not result in harm or injury to self or others.
Data Collection/ Plan Monitoring
W252 (1) Data relative to accomplishment of the criteria specified in client individual program plan objectives must be documented in measurable terms		Data is a key factor in assessing how the program is working. In the absence of data, CMS assumes the plan is ineffective.
§483.440(e)(2) FACILITY PRACTICES: Standard: Program monitoring and change. The individual program plan must be reviewed at least by the qualified mental retardation professional and revised as necessary, including, but not limited to situations in which	Policy and Procedure #II-D-16 from the Conway HDC clearly lays out the expectation for review of incidents and desired outcomes of Positive Behavior Support plans.	The word "data" is only used once in the Condition of Participation on Client Behavior and Facility Practices. For this reason, we are looking at the data collection requirements in the Active Treatment Condition of Participation for guidance.

the client- - (i) Has successfully completed an objective or objectives identified in the individual program plan; (ii) Is regressing or losing skills already gained; (iii) Is failing to progress toward identified objectives after reasonable efforts have been made or; (iv) Is being considered for training towards new objectives (2) At least annually,
Committee Requirements
ICF/DD Conditions of Participation	Arkansas HDC Policies and Procedures	Comparison Notes
W261 (3) The facility must designate and use a specially constituted committee or committees consisting of members of facility staff, parents, legal guardians, clients (as appropriate), qualified persons who have either experience or training in contemporary practices to change inappropriate client behavior, and persons with no ownership or controlling interest in the facility to- - W262 (i) Review, approve, and monitor individual programs designed to manage inappropriate behavior and other programs that, in the opinion of the committee, involve risks to client protection and rights; W263 (ii) Insure that these programs are conducted only with the written informed consent of the client, parents (if the client is a minor) or legal guardian; and W264 (iii) Review, monitor and make	Policy #QA-4 from the Jonesboro HDC clearly lays out the expectations of the Human Rights Committee. The policy says, in part, that "the person's program coordinator will serve as an advocate to ensure that rights are understood, affirmed and protected and that this includes the right to refuse services." Procedure #1 goes on to say that the committee should be "by membership and training, a resource for center on rights support and protection." A second committee, the Quality Assurance sub-committee, is designated within the HDC's to review behavioral data. The specific form for reporting the use of any restraint is identified and a clear chain of command is presented.	The policies and procedures of the HDC's and the DDDS Central office are in substantial compliance with the relevant conditions of participation found in Appendix J. Where there are differences between the conditions of participation and relevant policies and procedures, the differences do not appear to be substantive in nature. There appears to be a consistent emphasis on the rights of individuals served and the responsibility of the Human Rights Committee to advocate on behalf of the individuals receiving services.

suggestions to the facility about its practices and programs as they relate to drug usage, physical restraints, time-out rooms, application of painful or noxious stimuli, control of inappropriate behavior, protection of client rights and funds, and any other areas that the committee believes need to be addressed. §483.440(f)(3) GUIDELINES: Depending on its size, complexity and available resources, the ICF/DD may establish one multi-purpose committee to serve it for all advisory functions, or it may establish separate single-purpose committees. The facility§s human rights committee may be shared among other agencies or the ICF/DD may utilize a human rights committee established by another governing body, e.g., a county or a statewide group, as long as all pertinent regulatory requirements are met. The regulation does not specify the professional credentials of the "qualified persons who have either experience or training in contemporary practices to change inappropriate client behavior". There is no requirement that any specific disciplines, such as nurse, physician or pharmacist be members of the committee.	As an example, the Booneville HDC policy and procedure on the Human Rights Committee states, in part: a. HRC will review all psychoactive medications that are prescribed for a psychiatric diagnosis, to help ensure appropriate treatment for psychiatric problems. b. HRC will review and decide whether to approve Category III Behavior Treatment Programs which involve the use of certain restrictive or intrusive procedures. c. HRC will review all rights restrictions at least every six months or more often as determined by the Committee. d. HRC will review documented evidence in cases of alleged maltreatment and/or other situations, if requested by the Superintendent, to determine the appropriateness and adequacy of the investigation (as determined by DDS Policy #3004-I). e. HRC will review human rights issues in regard to any research proposals that would be carried out on site f. HRC will review a summary of the personal holds, mechanical restraints, and chemical interventions that have been utilized during the review period prior to the meeting.

§483.440(f)(3)(i) FACILITY PRACTICES: Any programs which incorporate restrictive techniques (e.g., restraints, medication to manage behavior, restrictions on community access, etc.) have been reviewed and approved by the committee prior to implementation. The committee periodically monitors restrictive programs to determine if the restriction of rights or risk to protections remains justified.	g. HRC will review other emergency procedures, including Emergency Increased Supervision, Suicide Precautions or other restrictive measures that must be implemented immediately to ensure client safety. h. In certain situations it may be necessary to quickly expedite medication changes. If the Medical Department requests emergency approval of a psychoactive medication, the HRC Chairperson will contact HRC members by phone or email to request the emergency approval and will document that information for the client's Master File.
Informed Consent
W263 (ii) Insure that these programs are conducted only with the written informed consent of the client, parents (if the client is a minor) or legal guardian; and §483.440(f)(3)(ii) FACILITY PRACTICES: Written consent is present prior to implementation of any restrictive program. Consent is given by the legally appropriate party.	(H) A facility must ensure that each resident and the resident's legally authorized representative are notified of the DADS rules and the facility's policies related to restraint and seclusion.

The consent is for the program which incorporates the use of a restrictive technique, rather than the restrictive technique alone. The consent is informed, i.e., the person giving consent is aware of the risks, benefits, alternatives, right to refuse and consequences.
Client Behavior
ICF/DD Conditions of Participation	Arkansas HDC Policies and Procedures	Comparison Notes
W266 483.450 Condition of participation: Client behavior and facility practices. §483.450 COMPLIANCE PRINCIPLES: The Condition of Participation of Client Behavior and Facility Practices is met when: o Individual programs and activities regularly include use of positive techniques, teaching strategies, and supports. Efforts are made to reduce and eliminate use of restrictive techniques with positive results; o Staff teach and reinforce appropriate behaviors, such as communication skills, social skills, independence and choice-making skills, coping skills, and leisure skills which serve as functional substitutes for inappropriate behaviors; and o Restrictive techniques are used only	The policy statements found in relevant HDC and DDDS central office documents appear to meet the expectations laid out in the Conditions of Participation, as evidenced by: "The Arkansas Human Development Centers are committed to managing the dangerous behaviors of clients that place the safety of the client and/or others at risk by using the least restrictive interventions that are effective in managing the behavioral situation. While the elimination of dangerous behaviors is sought using positive behavior interventions and de-escalation techniques, it is acknowledged that clients may not always respond to these interventions and the dangerous behavior may escalate to an emergency situation in which physical and/or chemical restraint may be required to protect the safety of the client and/or others.	While the basics of the Arkansas HDC and DDS central office policies and procedures are consistent with the federal Conditions of Participation, the policies and procedures appear to be focused on using positive behavior supports to prevent restraint use rather having a primary focus of addressing behavioral concerns. As an example, the Conway HDC Policies and procedures state, in part, that "A PBSP is usually written, except in circumstances discussed by the IDT, when a Safety Plan has Restraints. The PBSP, at the very least, addresses the specific issue(s) related to the need to plan for restraints of the person receiving services. The PBSP attempts to expand the skill level of the person served by teaching replacement behaviors such that the need for restraints, are reduced or eliminated. The PBSP may also be written to when warranted by the severity of the behavior, and result in desired behavioral outcomes. The Condition of Participation of Client Behavior and Facility Practices is not met when: o Restrictive, intrusive techniques are used to manage or control behavior in lieu of positive teaching strategies; o Individuals are physically or psychologically injured or harmed as a result of the use of the restrictive interventions and the facility has failed to adequately monitor the use of the intervention; or o Restrictive interventions are used when they are not warranted or without first attempting less restrictive/more positive measures.	Restraints are not considered to be a psychologically therapeutic intervention; rather, they are a facility's response to an emergency situation with the goal of restoring the client to a state of being calm and no longer a danger to self and/or others." Conduct Toward Clients

W267(a) Standard: Facility practices--Conduct toward clients. (1) The facility must develop and implement written policies and procedures for the management of conduct between staff and clients. §483.450(a)(1) FACILITY PRACTICES:	The focus of the Arkansas HDC and DDDS policies and procedures appears to be on the prevention of abuse and the methodologies for reporting and investigating allegations of abuse.	Policy 3004-I appears to meet the federal expectations of conduct towards clients. The identified policies state what staff should not do, while the guidance for surveyors found in Appendix J has an added focus on what staff should do in their interactions with clients.

Observed practices regarding the behavior and interactions of staff and individuals served demonstrate proactive assertion of the individual's right to learn to exercise his or her rights. §483.450(a)(1) GUIDELINES: "Conduct between staff and clients" refers to the language, actions, discipline, rules, order, and other types of interactions exchanged between staff and individuals or imposed upon individuals by staff during an individual's daily experiences and which affect the quality of an individual's life. These policies and procedures must- - W268 (i) Promote the growth, development and independence of the client; W269 (ii) Address the extent to which client choice will be accommodated in daily decision-making, emphasizing self-determination and self-management, to the extent possible; W270 (iii) Specify client conduct to be allowed or not allowed; and W271 (iv) Be available to all staff, clients, parents of minor children, and legal guardians. W272 (2) To the extent possible, clients must participate in the formulation of these policies and procedures. W273(3) Clients must not discipline other clients, except as part of an organized system of self-government, as set forth in facility policy.	The Policy and Procedure on Maltreatment Prohibition, Prevention, Reporting and Investigation (Policy 3004-I) identifies four ways in which the HDC's will ensure proper conduct towards clients: 1. Screening: Screen potential employees for a history of maltreatment, as defined by applicable requirements. 2. Training: Train employees, through orientation and through on-going sessions, on issues related to maltreatment prohibition practices such as: • Rights of clients • Recognition of events that may precede or trigger certain behaviors • Early intervention techniques for positive behavioral support • Approved interventions to deal with aggressive and/or catastrophic reactions • Recognizing signs of staff burnout, frustration and stress that may lead to maltreatment; • Definition of maltreatment, and • Reporting suspected maltreatment. 3. Prevention: Provide clients, families, and staff information on how and to whom they may report concerns, incidents and grievances; and how they may receive feedback regarding the concerns that have been expressed. Identify, correct and	The guidance specifically tasks surveyors to look for "Written policies describe how self-determination, as defined by free choice of one's own acts and decisions without external coercion or direction, to the extent possible and self-management, as defined by control of one's own routine and daily responsibilities, to the extent possible, are incorporated into the development of program plans and daily routines." W269 There may be other documents, such as House Rules, in the HDC's, which would address this section.

	intervene in situations in which maltreatment are more likely to occur. This includes an analysis of: • Features of the physical environment that may make maltreatment and/or neglect more likely to occur, such as secluded areas of the facility; • Failure to recognize and respect client rights. • The deployment of staff on each shift in sufficient numbers to meet the needs of the clients, and assure that the staff assigned have knowledge of the individual clients' care needs; • Inappropriate staff behaviors, such as: • derogatory language, • rough handling, • ignoring clients while giving care, • directing clients who need toileting assistance to urinate or defecate in their beds; and • use of items for staff convenience (i.e., disposable briefs, restraints) • The assessment, care planning, and monitoring of clients with needs and behaviors which might lead to conflict or neglect. 4. Identification: Identify events, occurrences, patterns, and trends, such as bruising of clients, or a change in behavior that may suggest maltreatment.

483.450(b)(1) (W 275 – W284). • the use of a functional behavior assessment in the development of behavior management programs; • a hierarchy of least to most intrusive measures; and • incorporation of behavior management programs into the IPP. The facility policy for unexpected behavioral incidents must provide direction for the staff in the utilization of the hierarchy. For clients not on a behavior plan, staff must apply the appropriate level of intervention per the established hierarchy, including emergency measures to prevent harm to self or others. Policies must be implemented to ensure that all restrictive procedures begin at the lowest level of the hierarchy unless there is documented evidence that less intrusive interventions have been tried and have been found to be ineffective. The facility is not required to justify discontinuing the use of a more restrictive technique before initiating a less restrictive technique, since the intent of the	The policy and procedure from the Jonesboro HDC, Policy # BH-3, provides a representative view of how the Arkansas HDC's and DDDS Central Office address the specific expectations in the Conditions of Participation related to the management of inappropriate client behavior. Relevant portions of the policy and procedure are found below: Functional Assessment of Behavior (FAB): A problem-solving process for evaluating client inappropriate behavior(s) that looks beyond the behavior itself and identifies the purpose of the specific behavior(s). The focus is on identifying the primary client-specific social, affective, cognitive, environmental, and/or psychiatric factors associated with the occurrence (and non-occurrence) of specific behaviors Positive Techniques may include but are not limited to the following: - Positive Reinforcement - Redirection Technique used to focus the client's attention to an appropriate activity and away from potential trigger or source of agitation. - Graduated Guidance Technique	Policy and Procedure BH-3 provides a clear structure which meets the expectations of the federal Condition of Participation for the Management of Inappropriate Client Behavior. The definitions of the Functional Assessment of Behavior (FAB in the Arkansas regulations, FBA or Functional Behavior Assessment in Appendix J) are clear and easy to understand. The different methodologies identified to teach replacement behaviours, such as Positive Reinforcement, Redirection Technique, etc. are also clear. The only portion of the relevant Conditions of Participation missing is the requirement for a hierarchy of interventions from least to most intrusive. For the sake of comparison a separate section on the Hierarchy of Interventions follows this discussion.

regulation is to use the most positive, least intrusive technique possible. In emergency situations where an unanticipated behavior requires immediate protection of the client or others, the technique chosen is the least restrictive appropriate technique possible. All interventions for the management of inappropriate client behaviors which are approved for use in the facility are clearly stated and described in its policy. Examples of positive interventions include, but are not limited to, verbal praise reward systems, and prompting.	- Modeling – a technique used by staff to teach the replacement behavior by demonstrating it for the client. - Differential Reinforcement Technique used to develop and maintain an appropriate behavior by paying attention to and reinforcing the occurrences of the appropriate behavior while ignoring minor occurrences of the inappropriate behavior. - Precision Requests The client is presented a choice and reminded of consequences of the choice as pre determined by the client's IDT. The goal is to help the client learn to consider consequences of their actions and to make the more appropriate choice. - Separation to Allow Calming The client is encouraged to move to an area away from the individual and/or situation that is causing the client to be agitated in order for the client to calm.

Use of Aversive Techniques – Hierarchy of Interventions
ICF/DD Conditions of Participation	Arkansas HDC Policies and Procedures	Comparison Notes
Examples of negative interventions include, but are not limited to, removal of a privilege, implementation of restraint, and/or the use of exclusionary time out. Policies and procedures must include a clear progression as to how staff implement interventions to manage inappropriate client behavior. Facility policy and procedures must define the entire hierarchy of possible interventions from the most positive, functionally appropriate approaches to most intrusive approaches authorized. The facility determines at what level in the hierarchy the IPP will begin for each client based on their individual assessment. The plan must still begin at the least intrusive technique shown effective for that client. Individual plans should specify the specific techniques that have been determined through assessment to be least restrictive for each client.	The Arkadelphia HDC Policy and Procedure on Behavior Health , #IF-5, provides a representative example of how the HDC's meet this specific portion of the Condition of Participation on the Management of Inappropriate Client Behavior. The policy and procedure lays out three categories of behavioral interventions, from least to most restrictive. They are: Category 1 Interventions: These interventions may be used without consent/approvals and without a formal Behavior Support Plan (BSP). With the exception of Verbal Interventions, any use of Category I interventions requires documentation on a Behavior Report (BR) regardless of whether such interventions are part of an implemented Behavior Support Plan. Frequent use of these interventions will be determined by the client's IDT, and the IDT will consider if a formal BSP is needed. Category 1 Interventions are: Separation from Activity up to 30 Minutes Separation from Setting/Separation Time Out up to 30 Minutes. Assignment of Additional Chores –	While the Policy and Procedure on Behavior Health does comply with the requirement to utilize a hierarchy of interventions from least to most restrictive, there are significant questions about several of the interventions and the rationale for their inclusion. The identified interventions which should be examined for use in a hierarchy of interventions designed to manage inappropriate behavior are: Assignment of Additional Chores Positive Practice Overcorrection Withholding privileges Response Cost Restitution Overcorrection Contingent Personal Property Removal (up to 24 hours) Sensory Deprivation Personal Restraint There is sufficient evidence in peer reviewed research to call the efficacy of these interventions into question. Personal restraint should not be included in a listing of behavioral interventions as it is clearly identified as an intervention of last resort for the safety of the individual and/or others.

	Restitution of the environment Financial Restitution Withholding Privileges Removal of personal property for less than one (1) hour. Category II Interventions: These interventions may only be used as part of a formal Behavior Support Plan (BSP) designed by the client's IDT. Once the client's IDT has identified the target behavior(s), a referral is made to the licensed behavioral health professional (LBHP) for the development of the BSP. The BSP is written by the LBHP and must be consented to and approved by the following: client or guardian, IDT representative (QIDP/Program Coordinator), physician, superintendent, licensed psychologist, and Human Rights Committee. The IDT will document the attendant risks of the intervention and the potential risks of the target behavior if allowed to continue without intervention. Category II interventions are: Response Cost Restitution Overcorrection Positive Practice Overcorrection

	Category III Interventions: These interventions may only be used as part of a formal Behavior Support Plan (BSP) designed by the client's IDT. Once the client's IDT has identified the target behavior(s), a referral is made to the licensed behavioral health professional (LBHP) for the development of the BSP. The BSP is written by the LBHP and must be consented to and approved by the following: client or guardian, IDT representative (QIDP/Program Coordinator), physician, superintendent, licensed psychologist, and Human Rights Committee. The IDT will document the attendant risks of the intervention and the potential risks of the target behavior if allowed to continue without intervention. Separation Time Out (Activity or Setting) Contingent Personal Property Removal up to 24 Hours Maximum Sensory Deprivation Physical Restraint

ICF/DD Conditions of Participation	Arkansas HDC Policies and Procedures	Comparison Notes
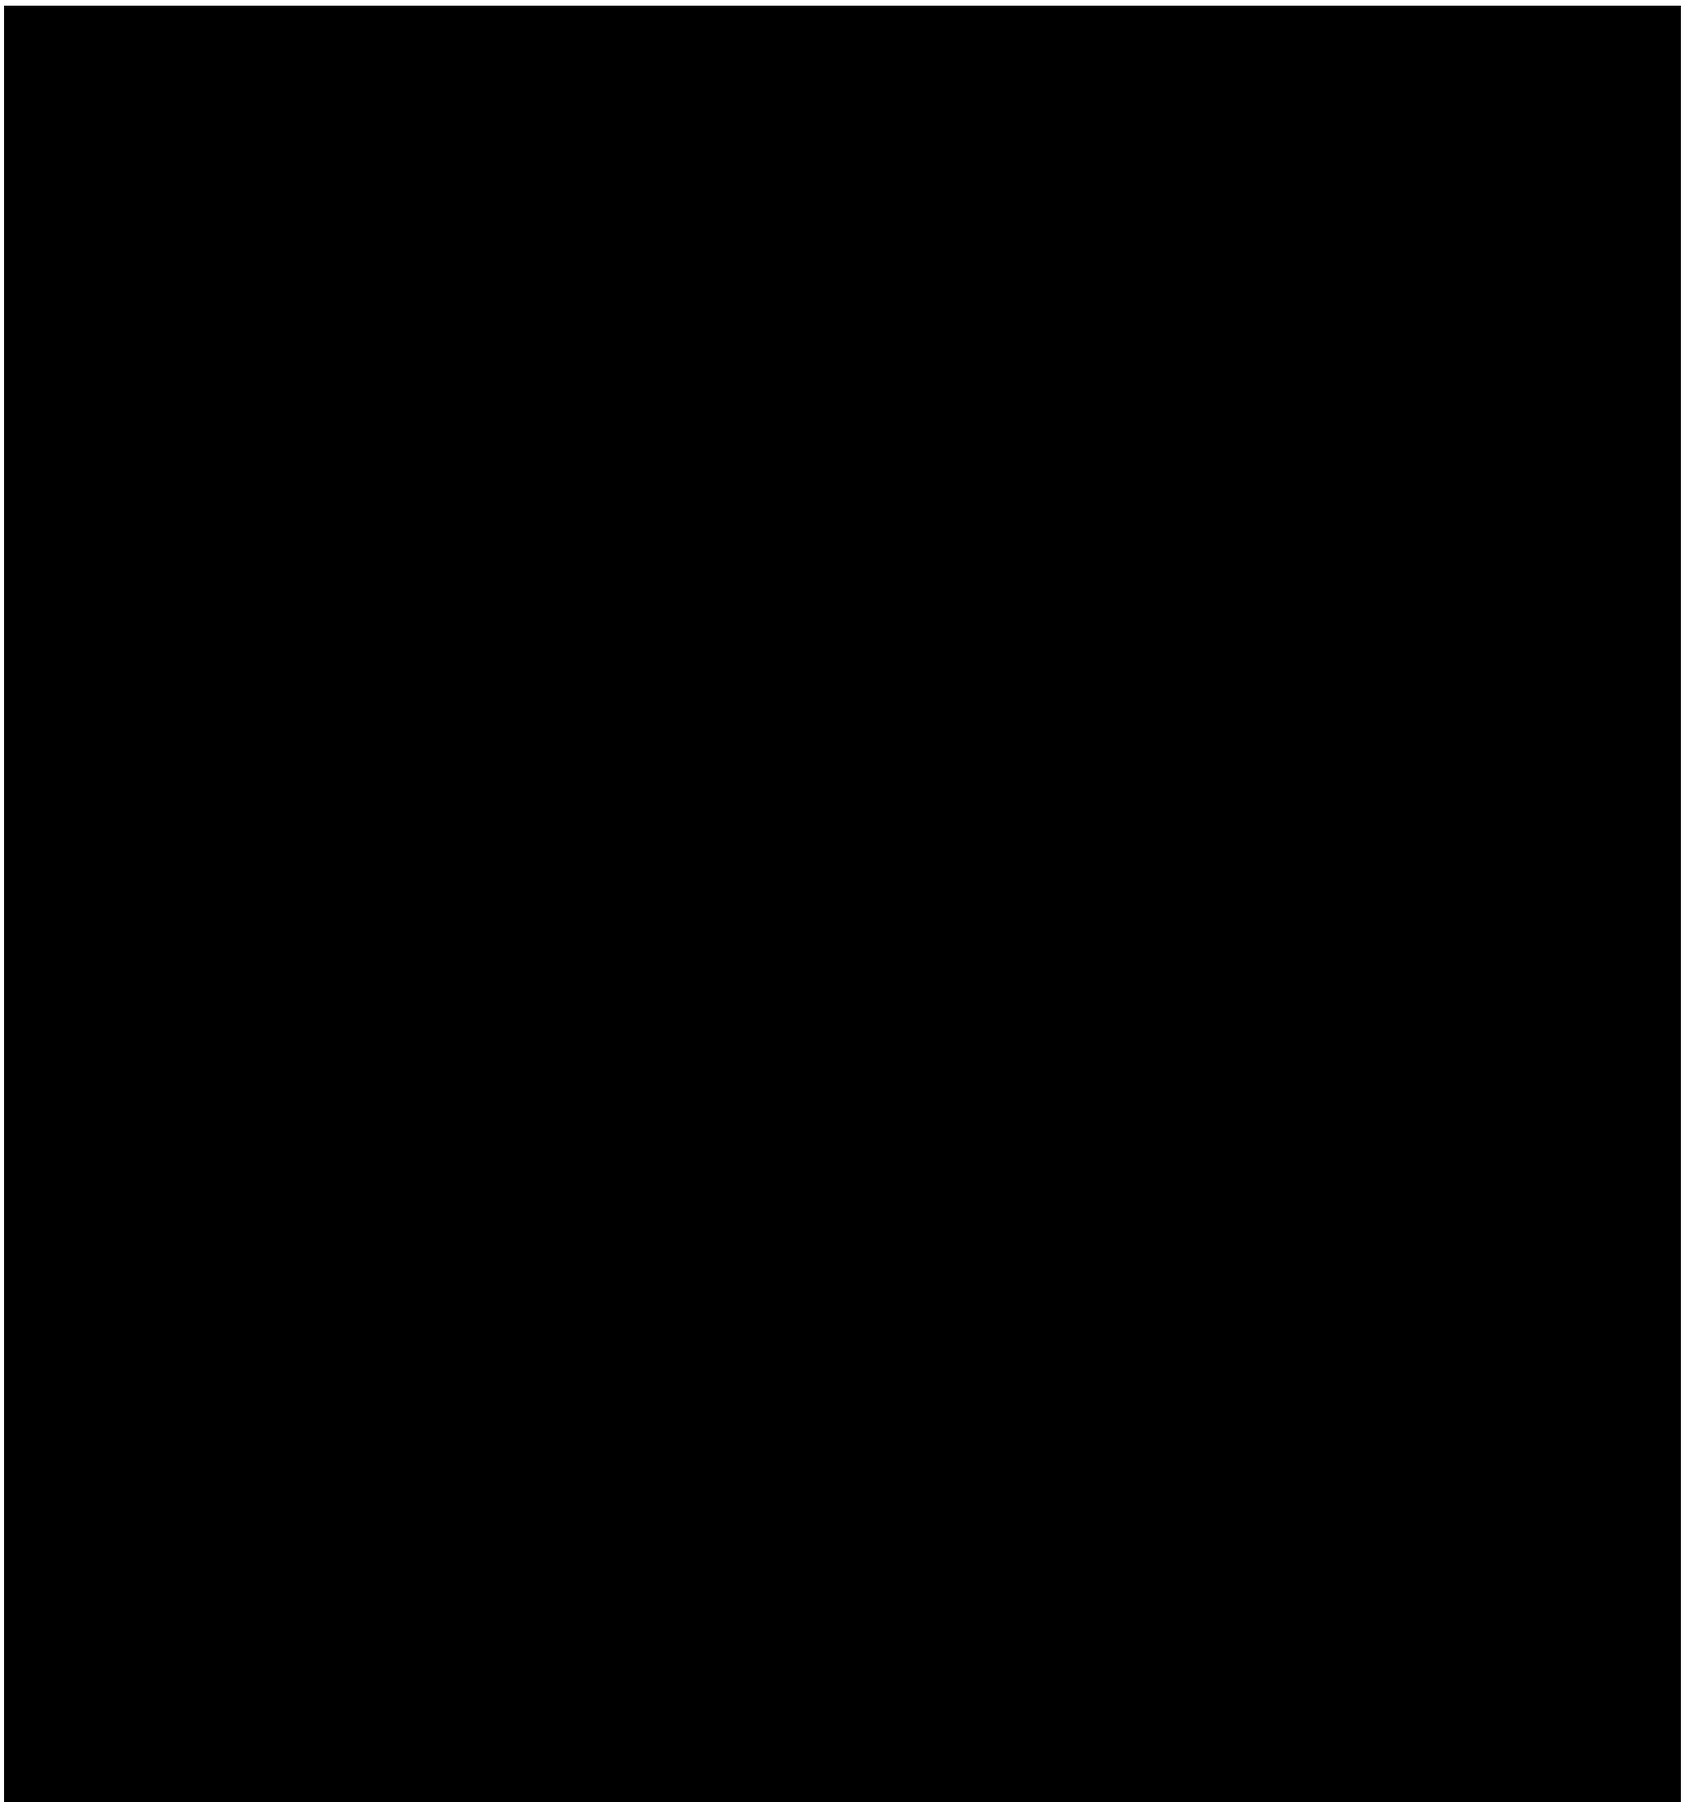
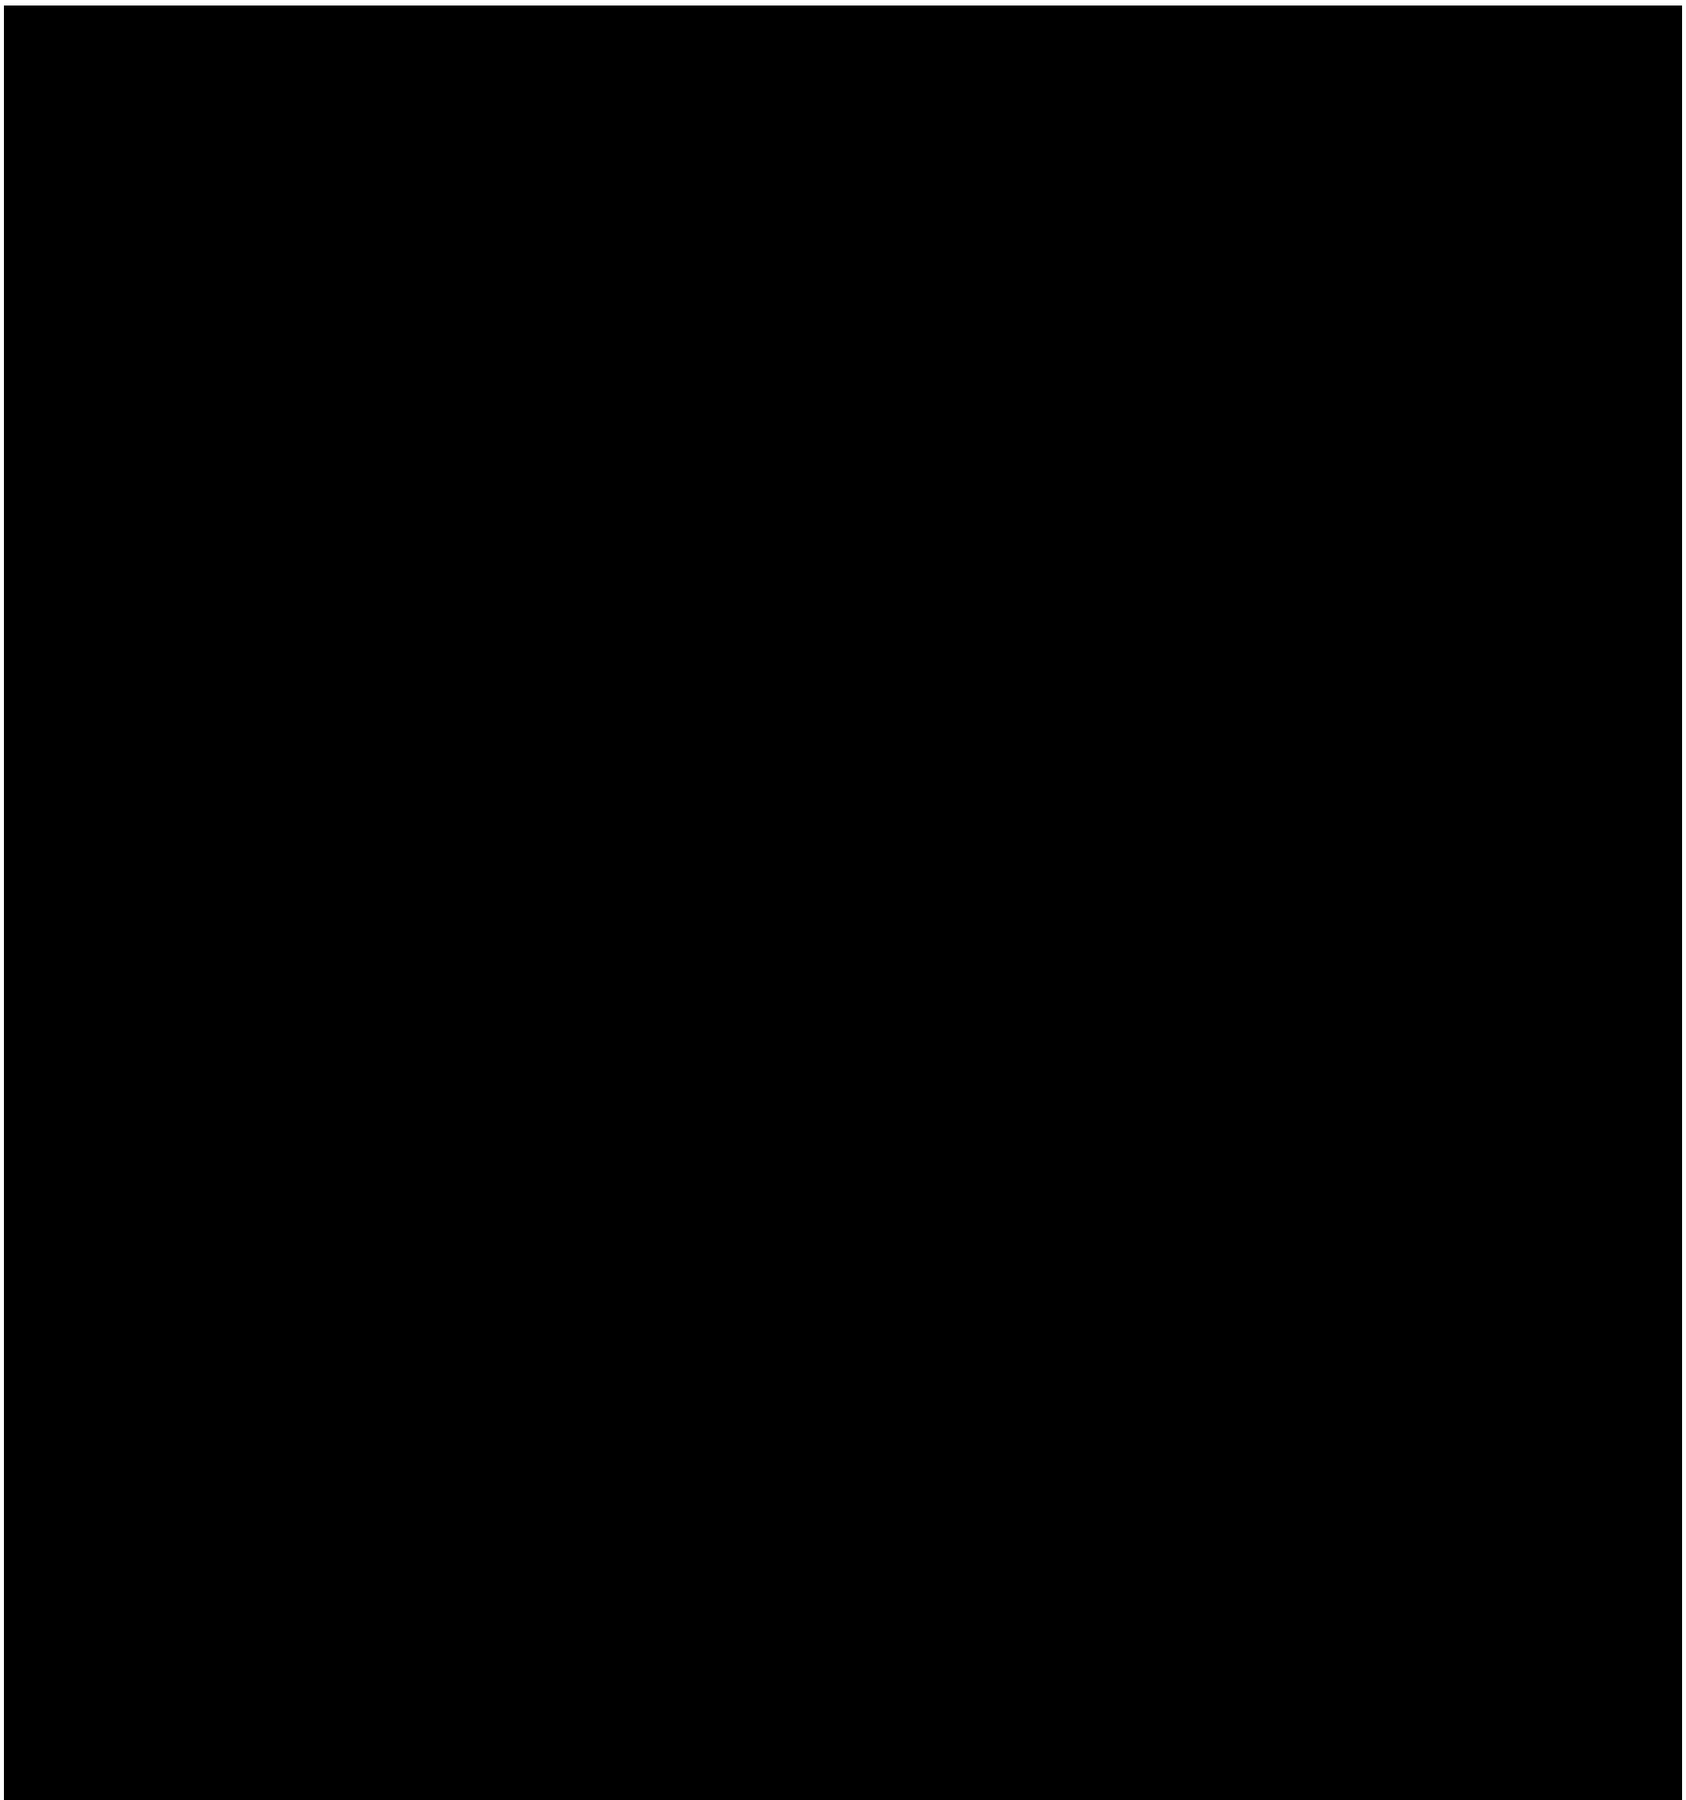
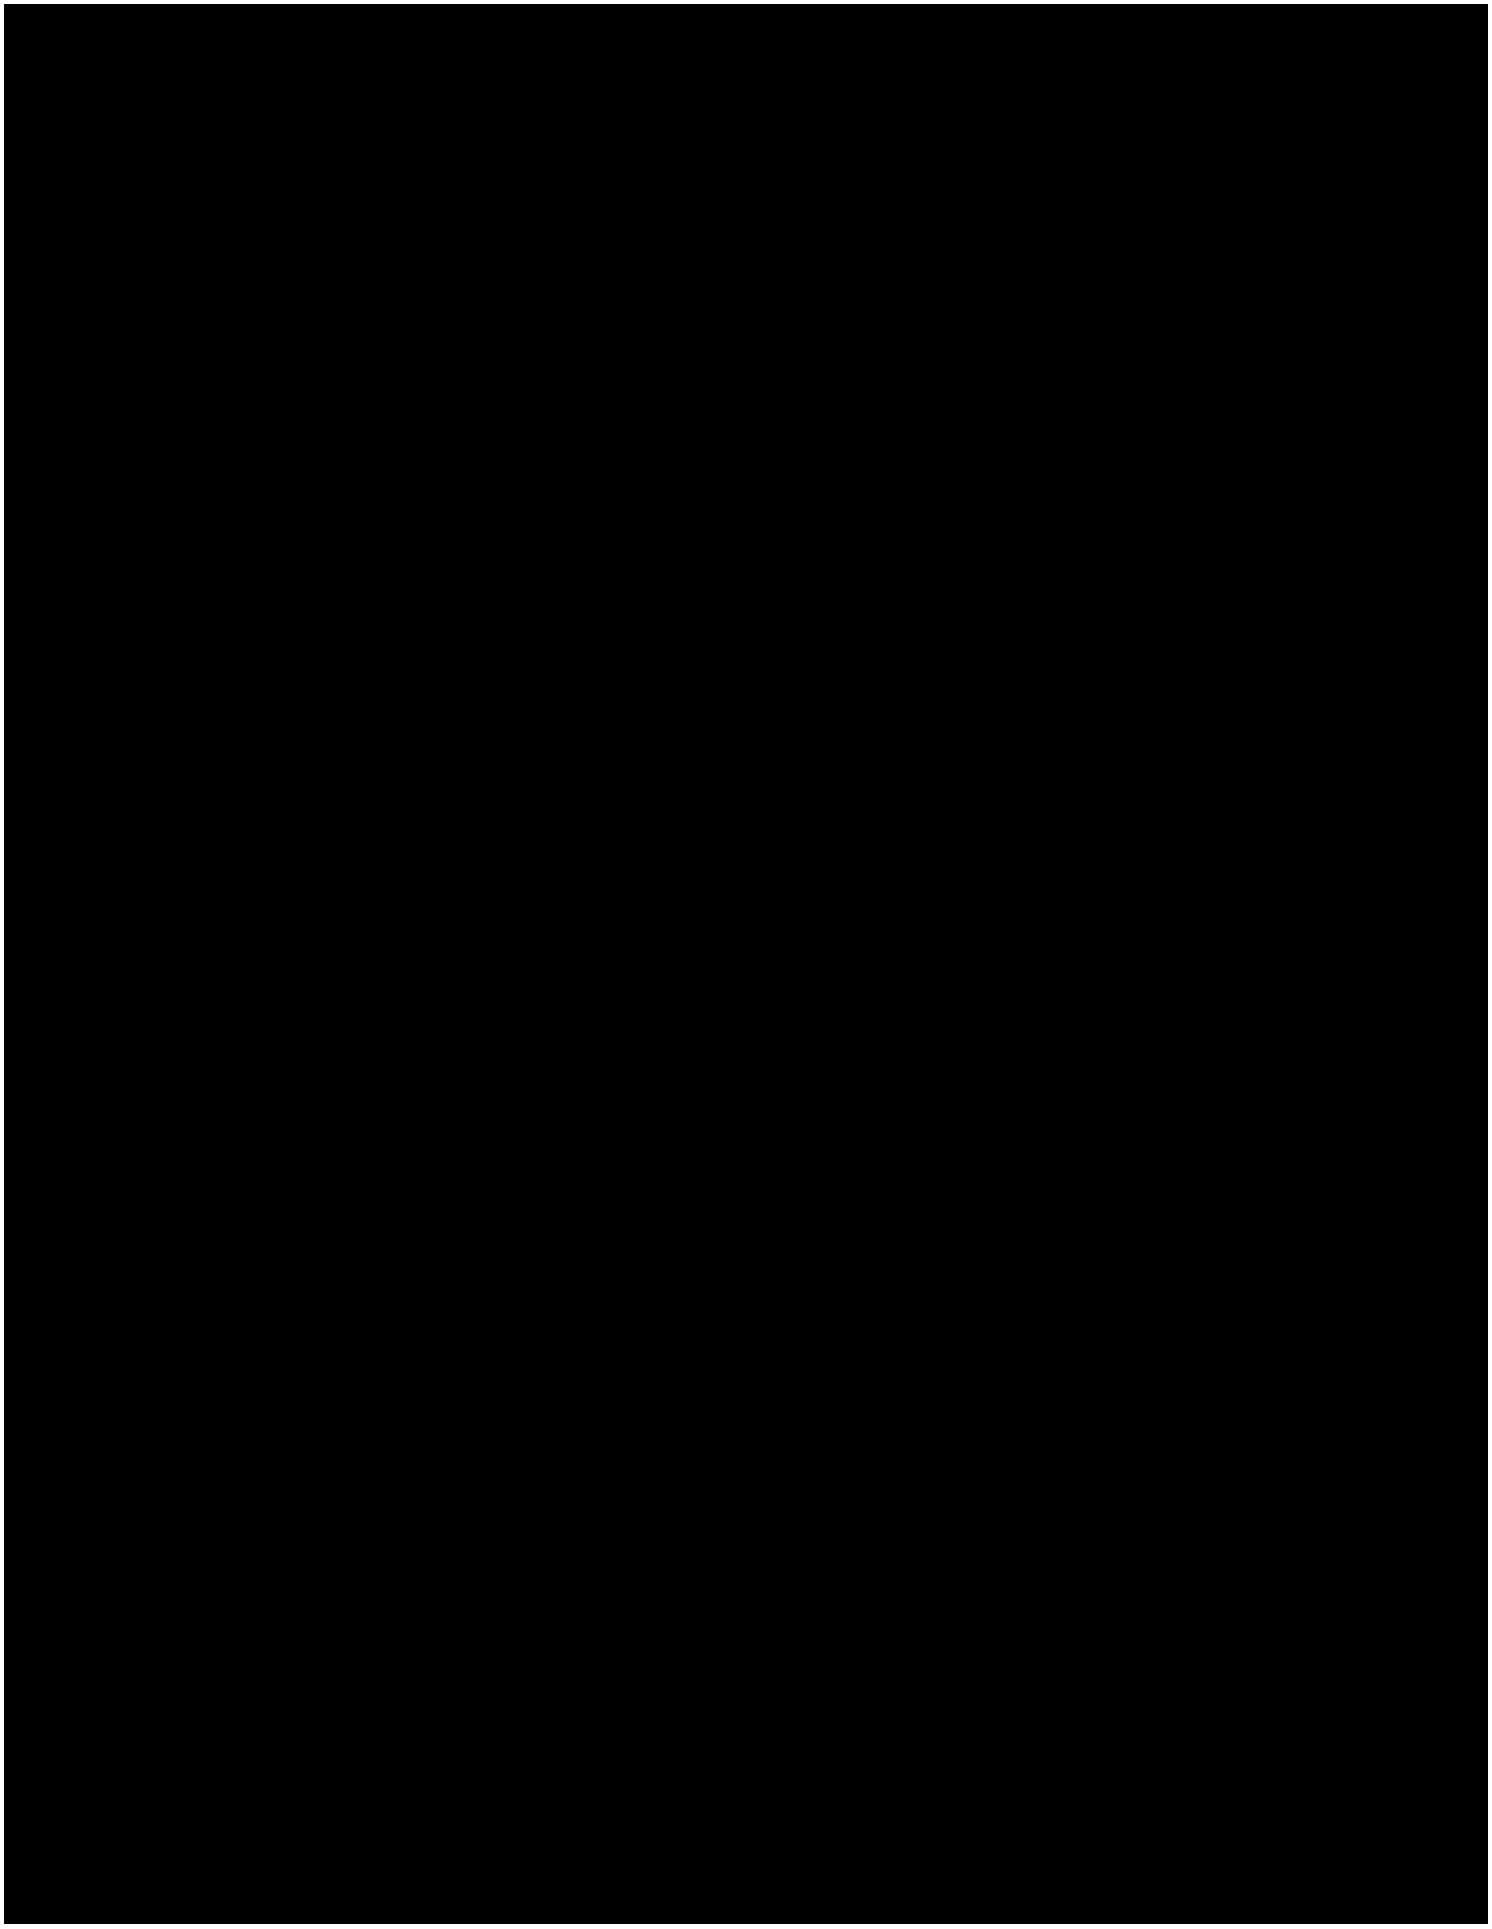
W285 - Interventions to manage inappropriate client behavior must be employed with sufficient safeguards and supervision to ensure that the safety, welfare and civil and human rights of clients are adequately protected.	The Jonesboro HDC Policy and Procedure on Behavior Intervention and Emergencies, Policy #BH3, provides a structure requiring approval of the QIDP or the Supervisor on Duty, integration of restraints into the client's IPP, and approval of the Human Rights Committee with monthly monitoring of each restraint. A debriefing process is in place for all restraints.	The safeguards in the policies and procedures reviewed appear to be consistent with those delineated in the Conditions of Participation.
Physical Restraint
§483.450(b)(1)(iv)(B) The use of physical restraints; "Physical restraint" is defined as any manual method or physical or mechanical device that the individual cannot remove easily, and which restricts the free movement of, normal functioning of, or normal access to a portion or portions of an individual's body. Examples of manual methods include therapeutic or basket holds and prone or supine containment. (d)Standard: Physical restraints. (1) The facility may employ physical restraint only- - W295 (i) As an integral part of an individual program plan that is intended to lead to less restrictive means of managing and eliminating the behavior for which the restraint is applied; W296 (ii) As an emergency measure, but	The Jonesboro HDC Policy and Procedure on Behavior Intervention and Emergencies, Policy #BH3, lists three types of restraint: Personal Restraint – the actual physical holding of a client by staff using manual methods that restrict the free movement of the client or restrict movement of or access to a portion or portions of the client's body until the client reaches a state of calm and cooperation, signaling the dangerous behavior has ended and safety is no longer at immediate risk. Mechanical Restraint – restricting the free movement of or access to a portion or portions of the client's body until the client reaches a state of calm and cooperation, signaling the dangerous behavior has ended and safety is no longer at immediate risk.	The federal regulations do not differentiate between physical restraint and mechanical restraint. The Arkansas HDC and Central Office policies and procedures do differentiate between the two types of restraint. This makes tracking the use of different types of restraint easier and results in data that reflects, as closely as possible, the actual use of the different types of restraint. The definition of mechanical restraint does not specify that it uses mechanical rather than human force to accomplish the aims of the restraint. The definition of Preventive Restraint incorporates what the federal regulations define as mechanical restraint.



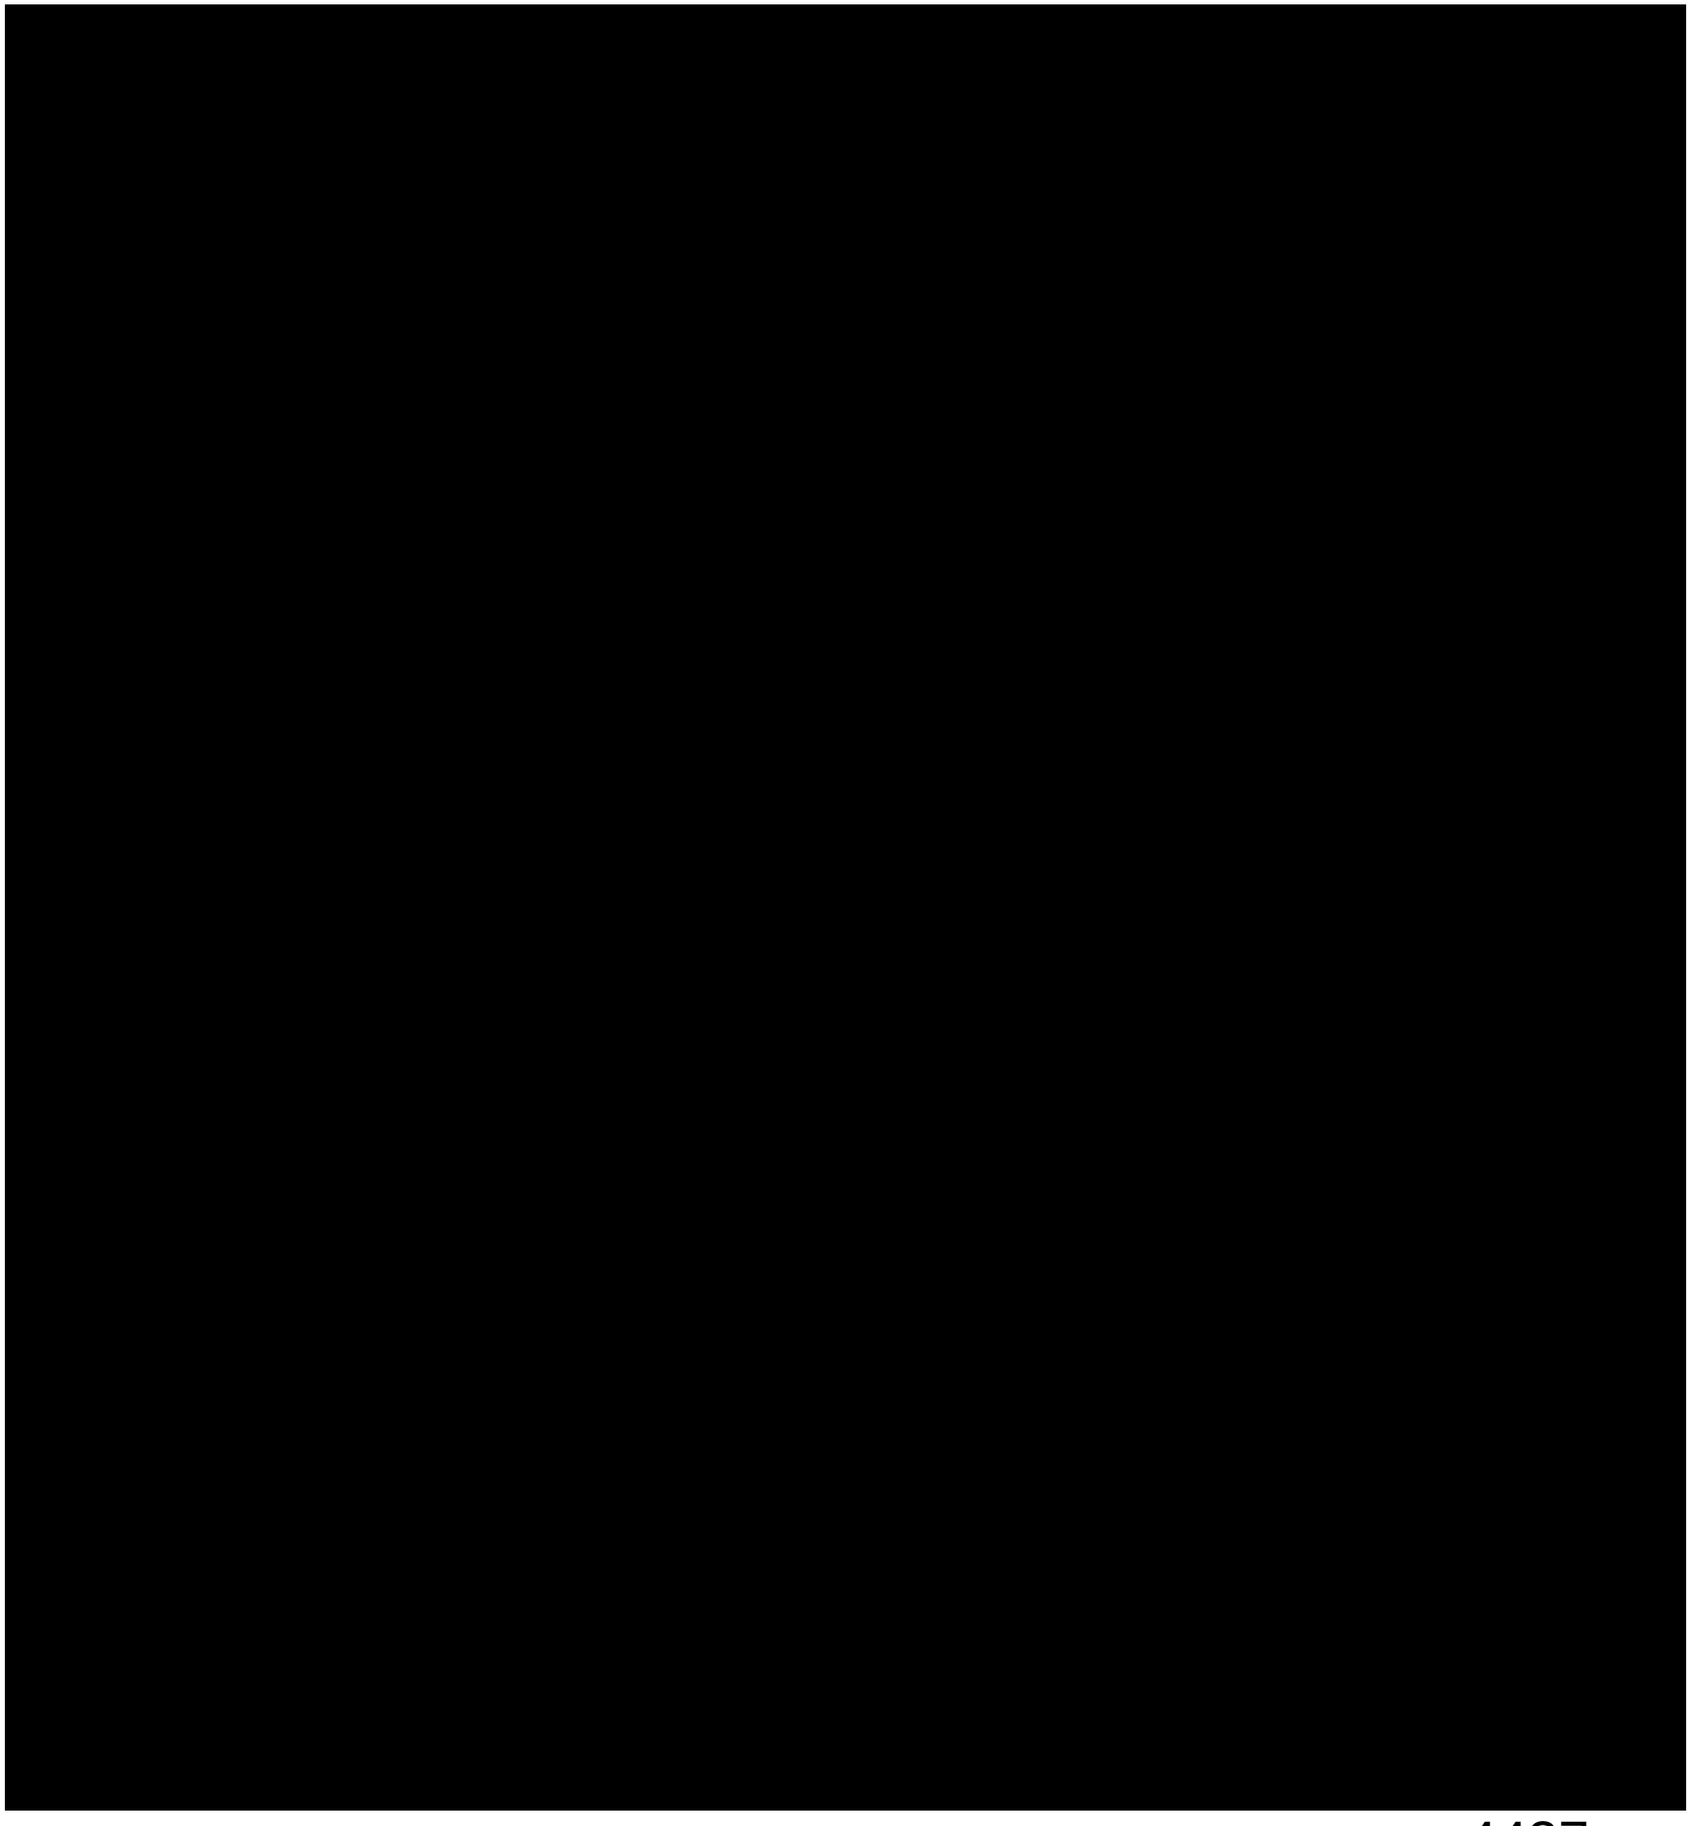
only if absolutely necessary to protect client or others from injury; or W297 (iii) As a health-related protection prescribed by a physician, but only if absolutely necessary during the conduct of a specific medical or surgical procedure, or only if absolutely necessary for client protection during the time that a medical condition exists. (2) Authorizations to use or extend restraints as an emergency measure must be: W298 (i) In effect no longer than 12 consecutive hours; and W299 (ii) Obtained as soon as the client is restrained or stable. W300 (3) The facility must not issue orders for restraint on a standing or as needed basis. W301 (4) A client placed in restraint must be checked at least every 30 minutes by staff trained in the use of restraints W302 released from the restraint as quickly as possible, and W303 a record of these checks and usage must be kept. (5) Restraints must be designed and used W304 so as not to cause physical injury to the client W305 and so as to cause the least possible discomfort. (6) Opportunity for motion and exercise must be provided W306 for a period of not less than 10 minutes during each two hour period	Preventive Restraint – primary purpose is to prevent or inhibit maladaptive behavior; while these typically do not restrict movement, they do restrict or limit normal functioning to a portion or portions of a client's body	The Arkansas HDC and DDDS Central Office policies and procedures provide for the face to face monitoring, release and monitoring requirements specified in the federal regulations.



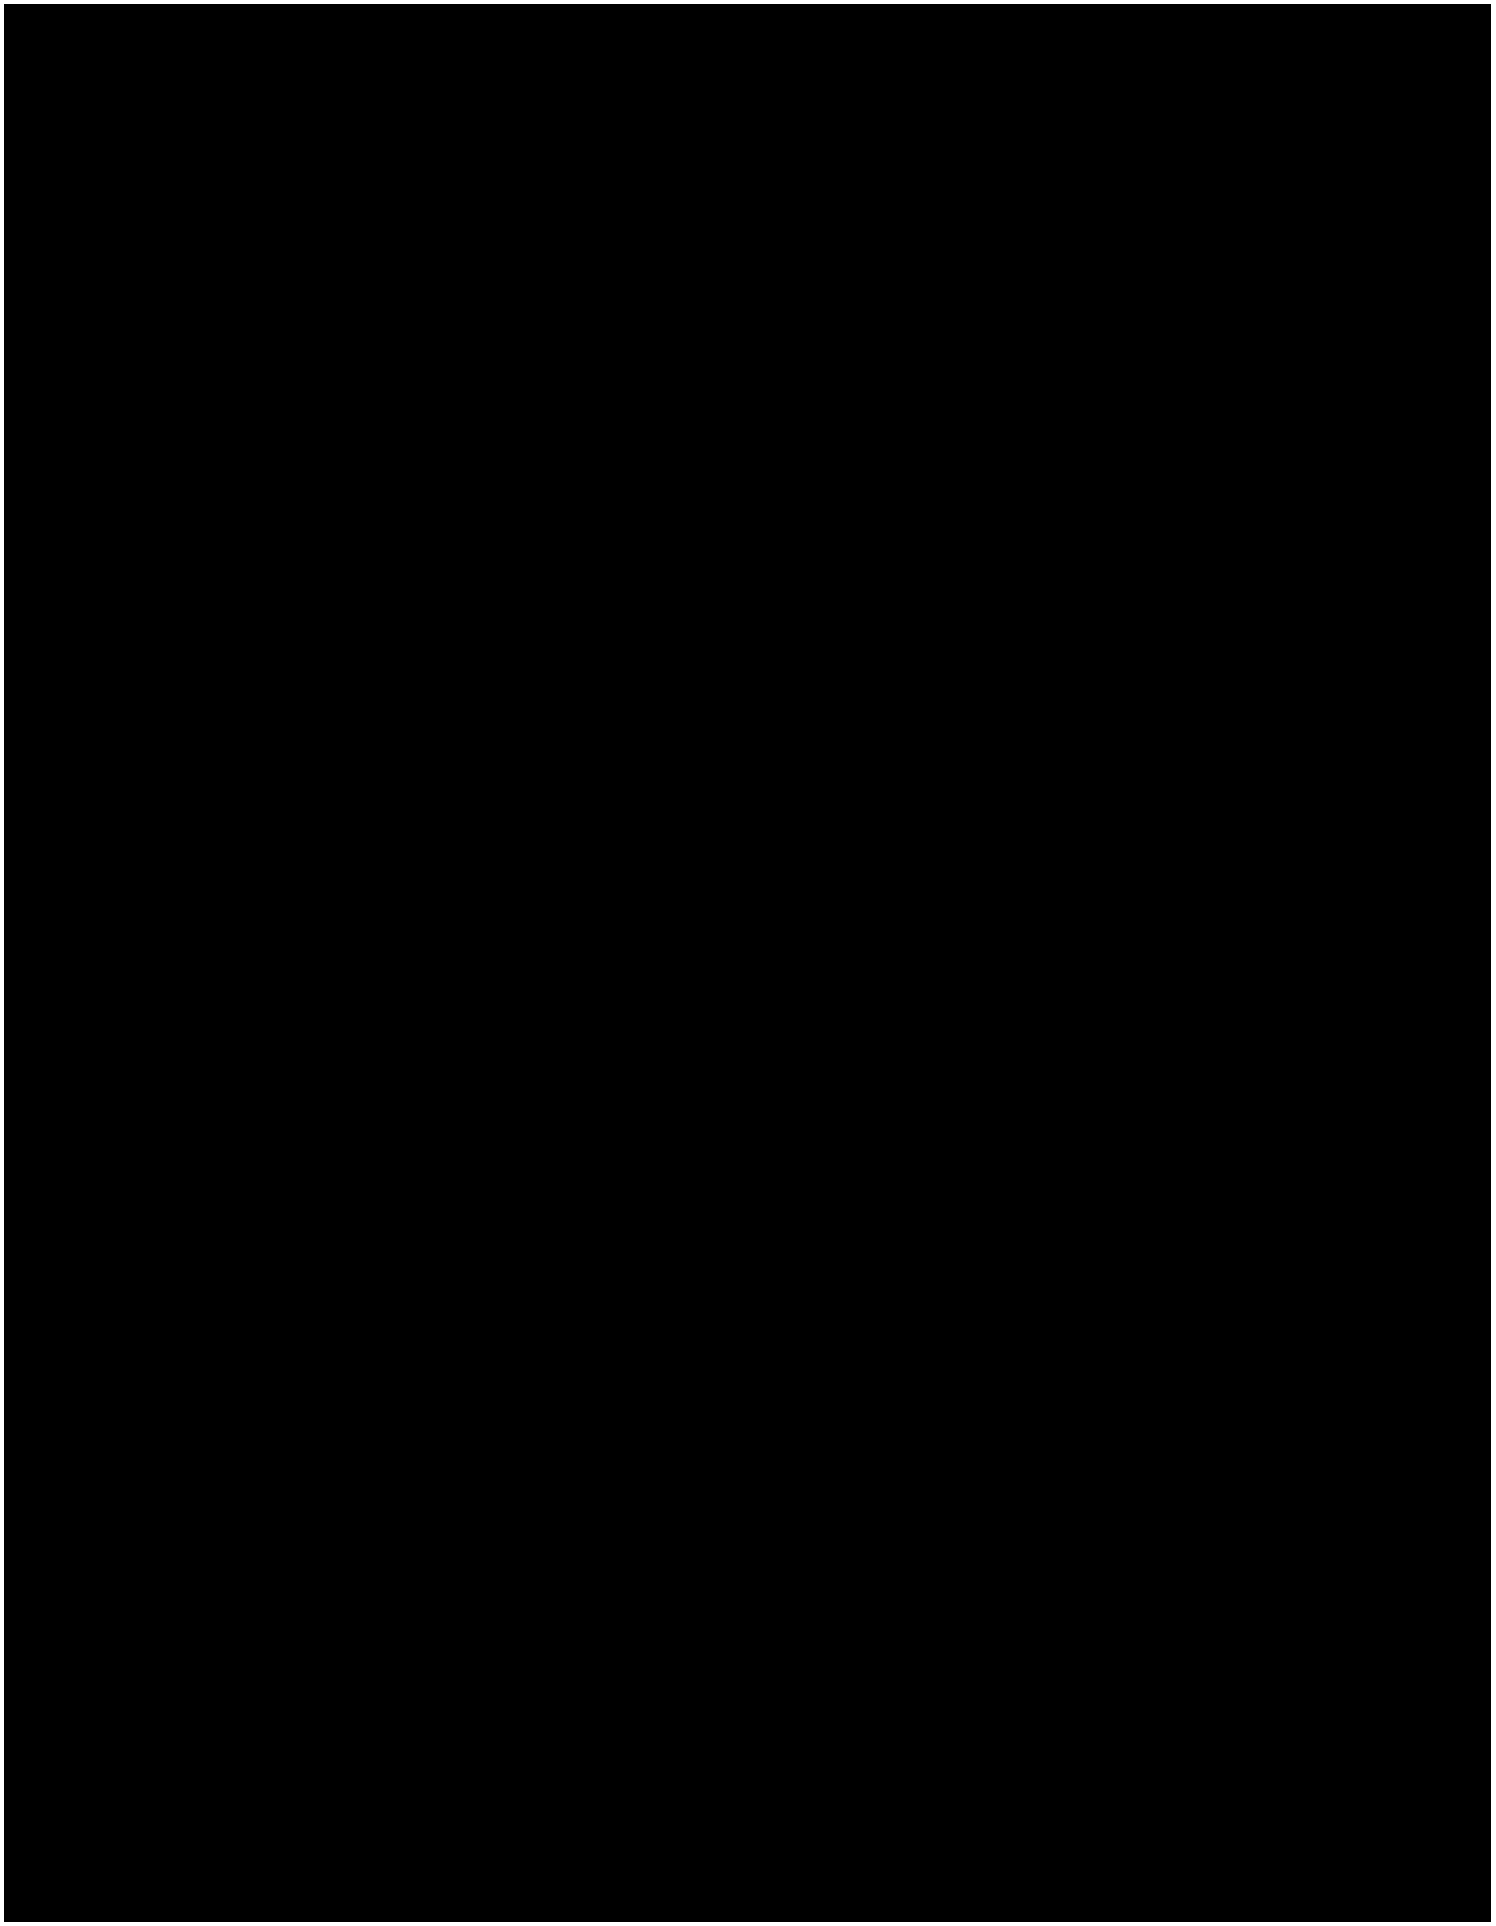
Comments



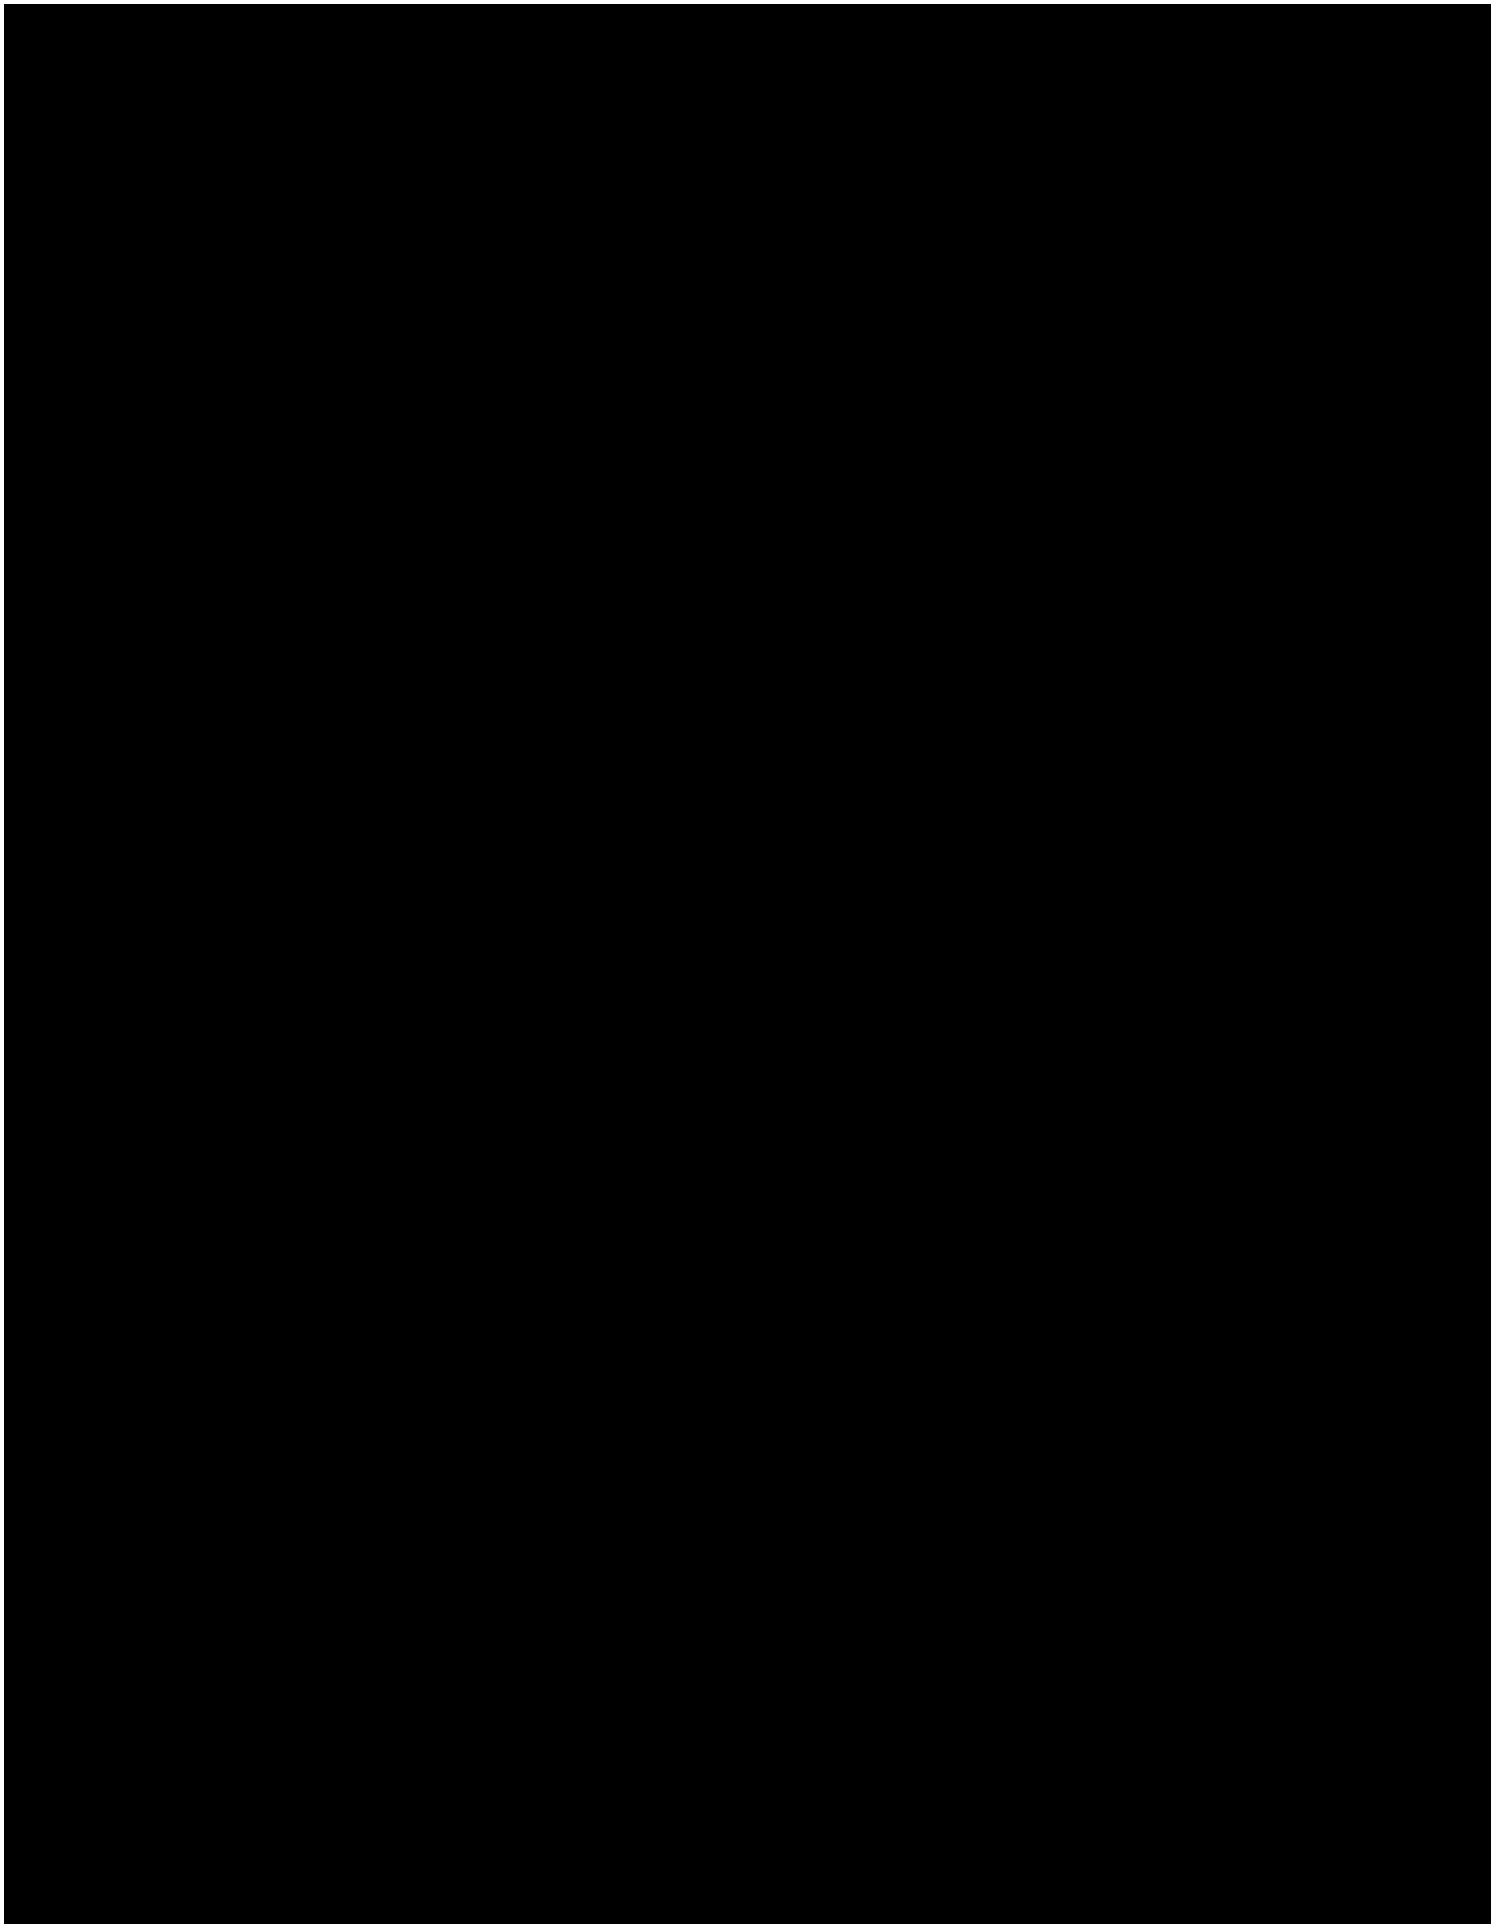
This review of the ICF/DD regulations and the Arkansas regulations governing the use of restraint demonstrate the continuity of both sets of regulations in most instances. The state and local policies and procedures differentiate mechanical restraint from physical restraint, unlike the federal regulations. The distinctions should be made as data collection and analysis is easier when definitions are clear.

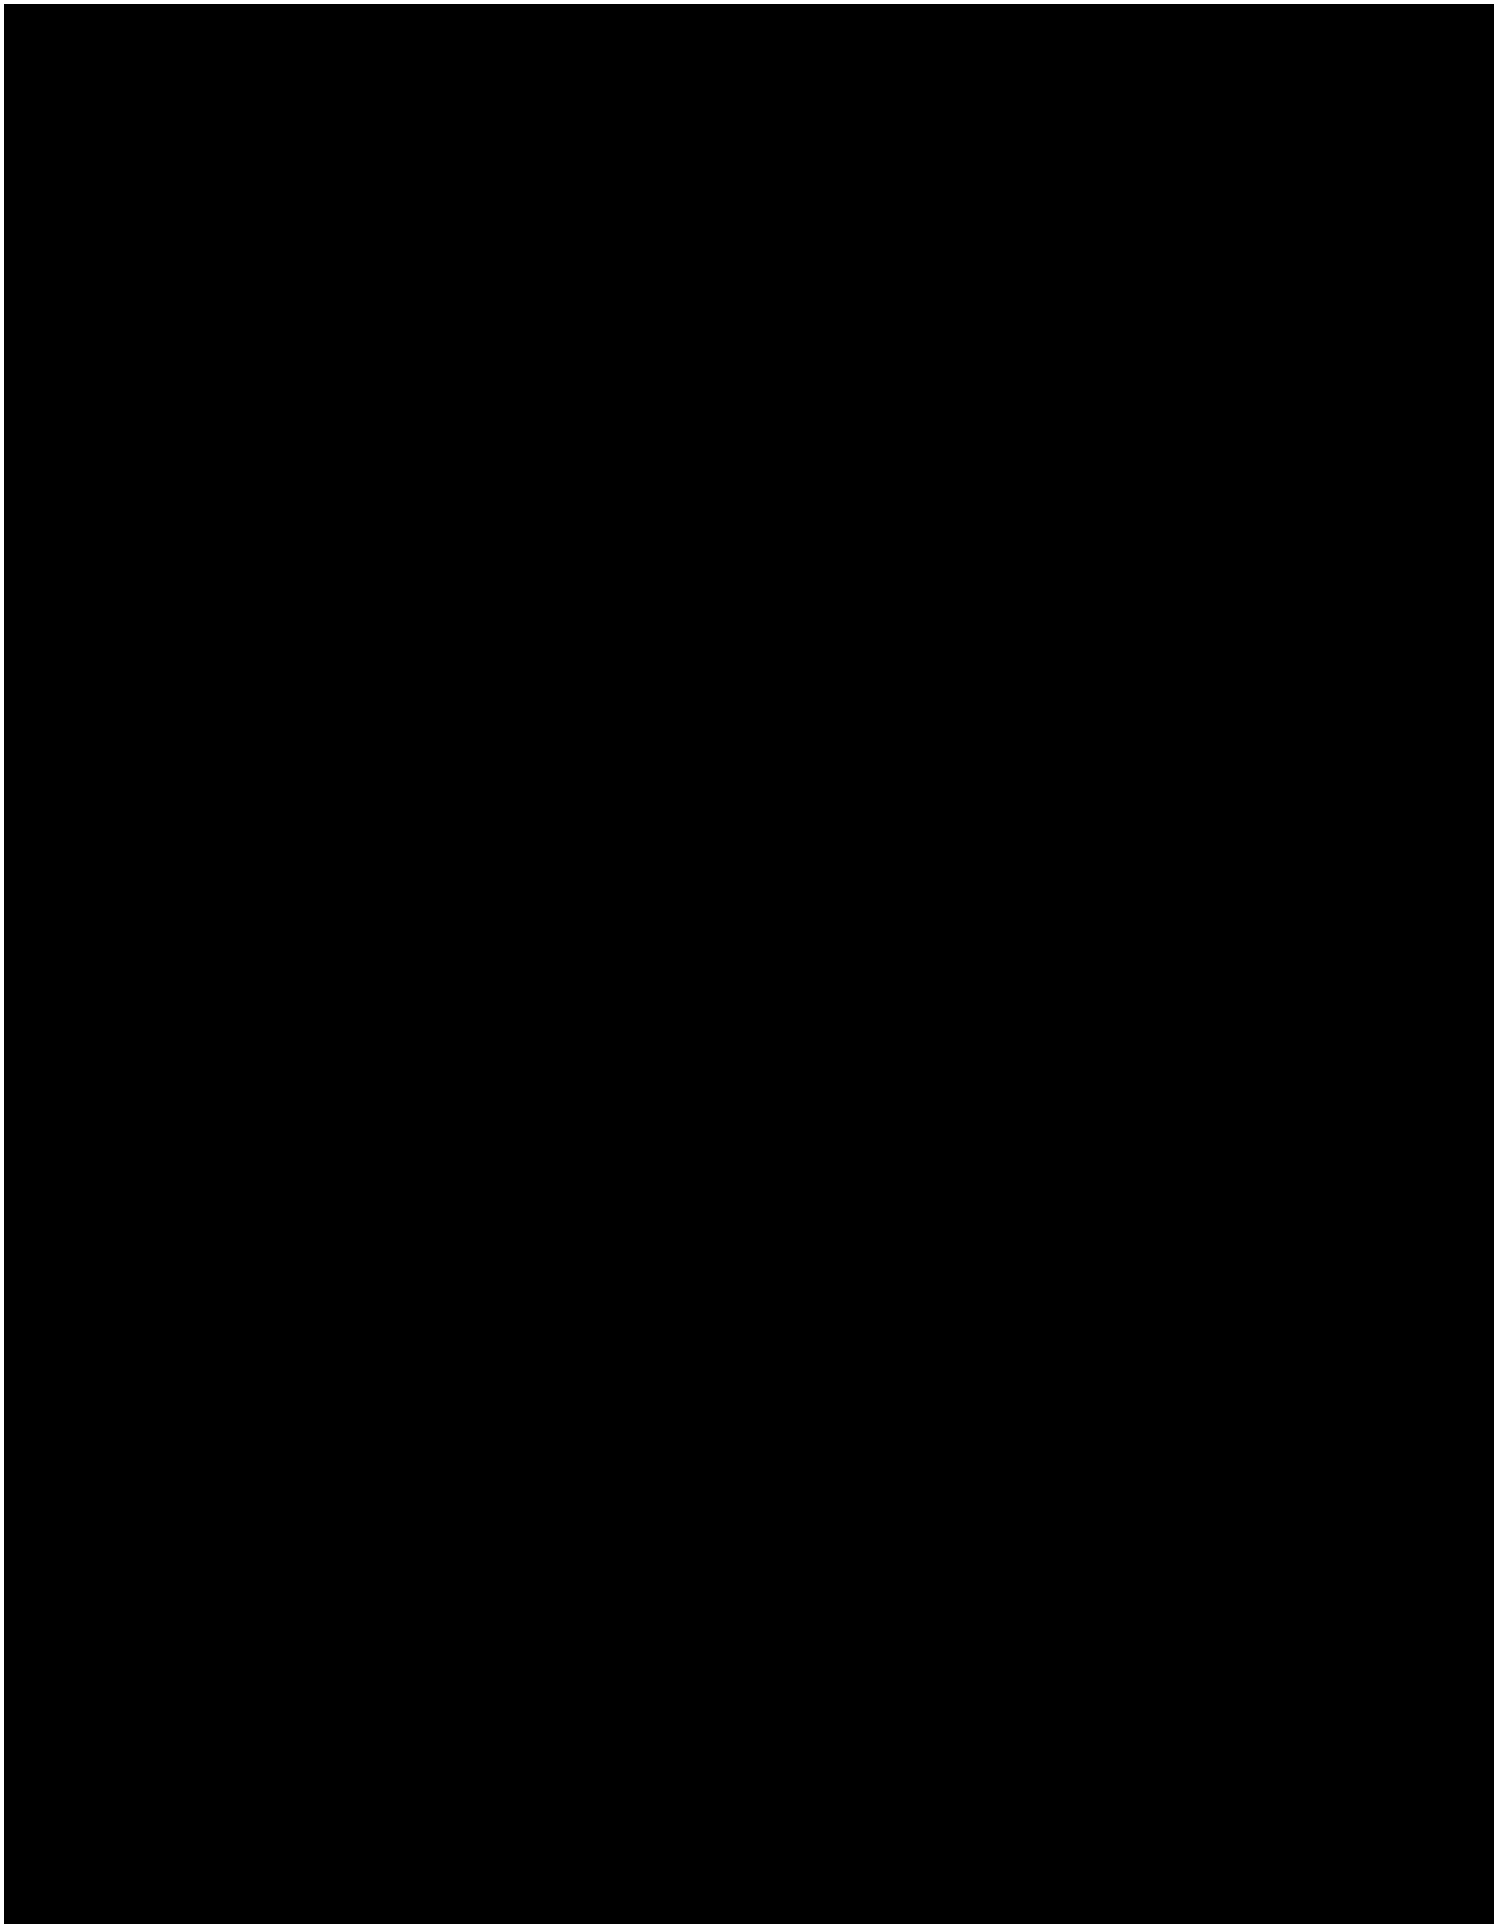


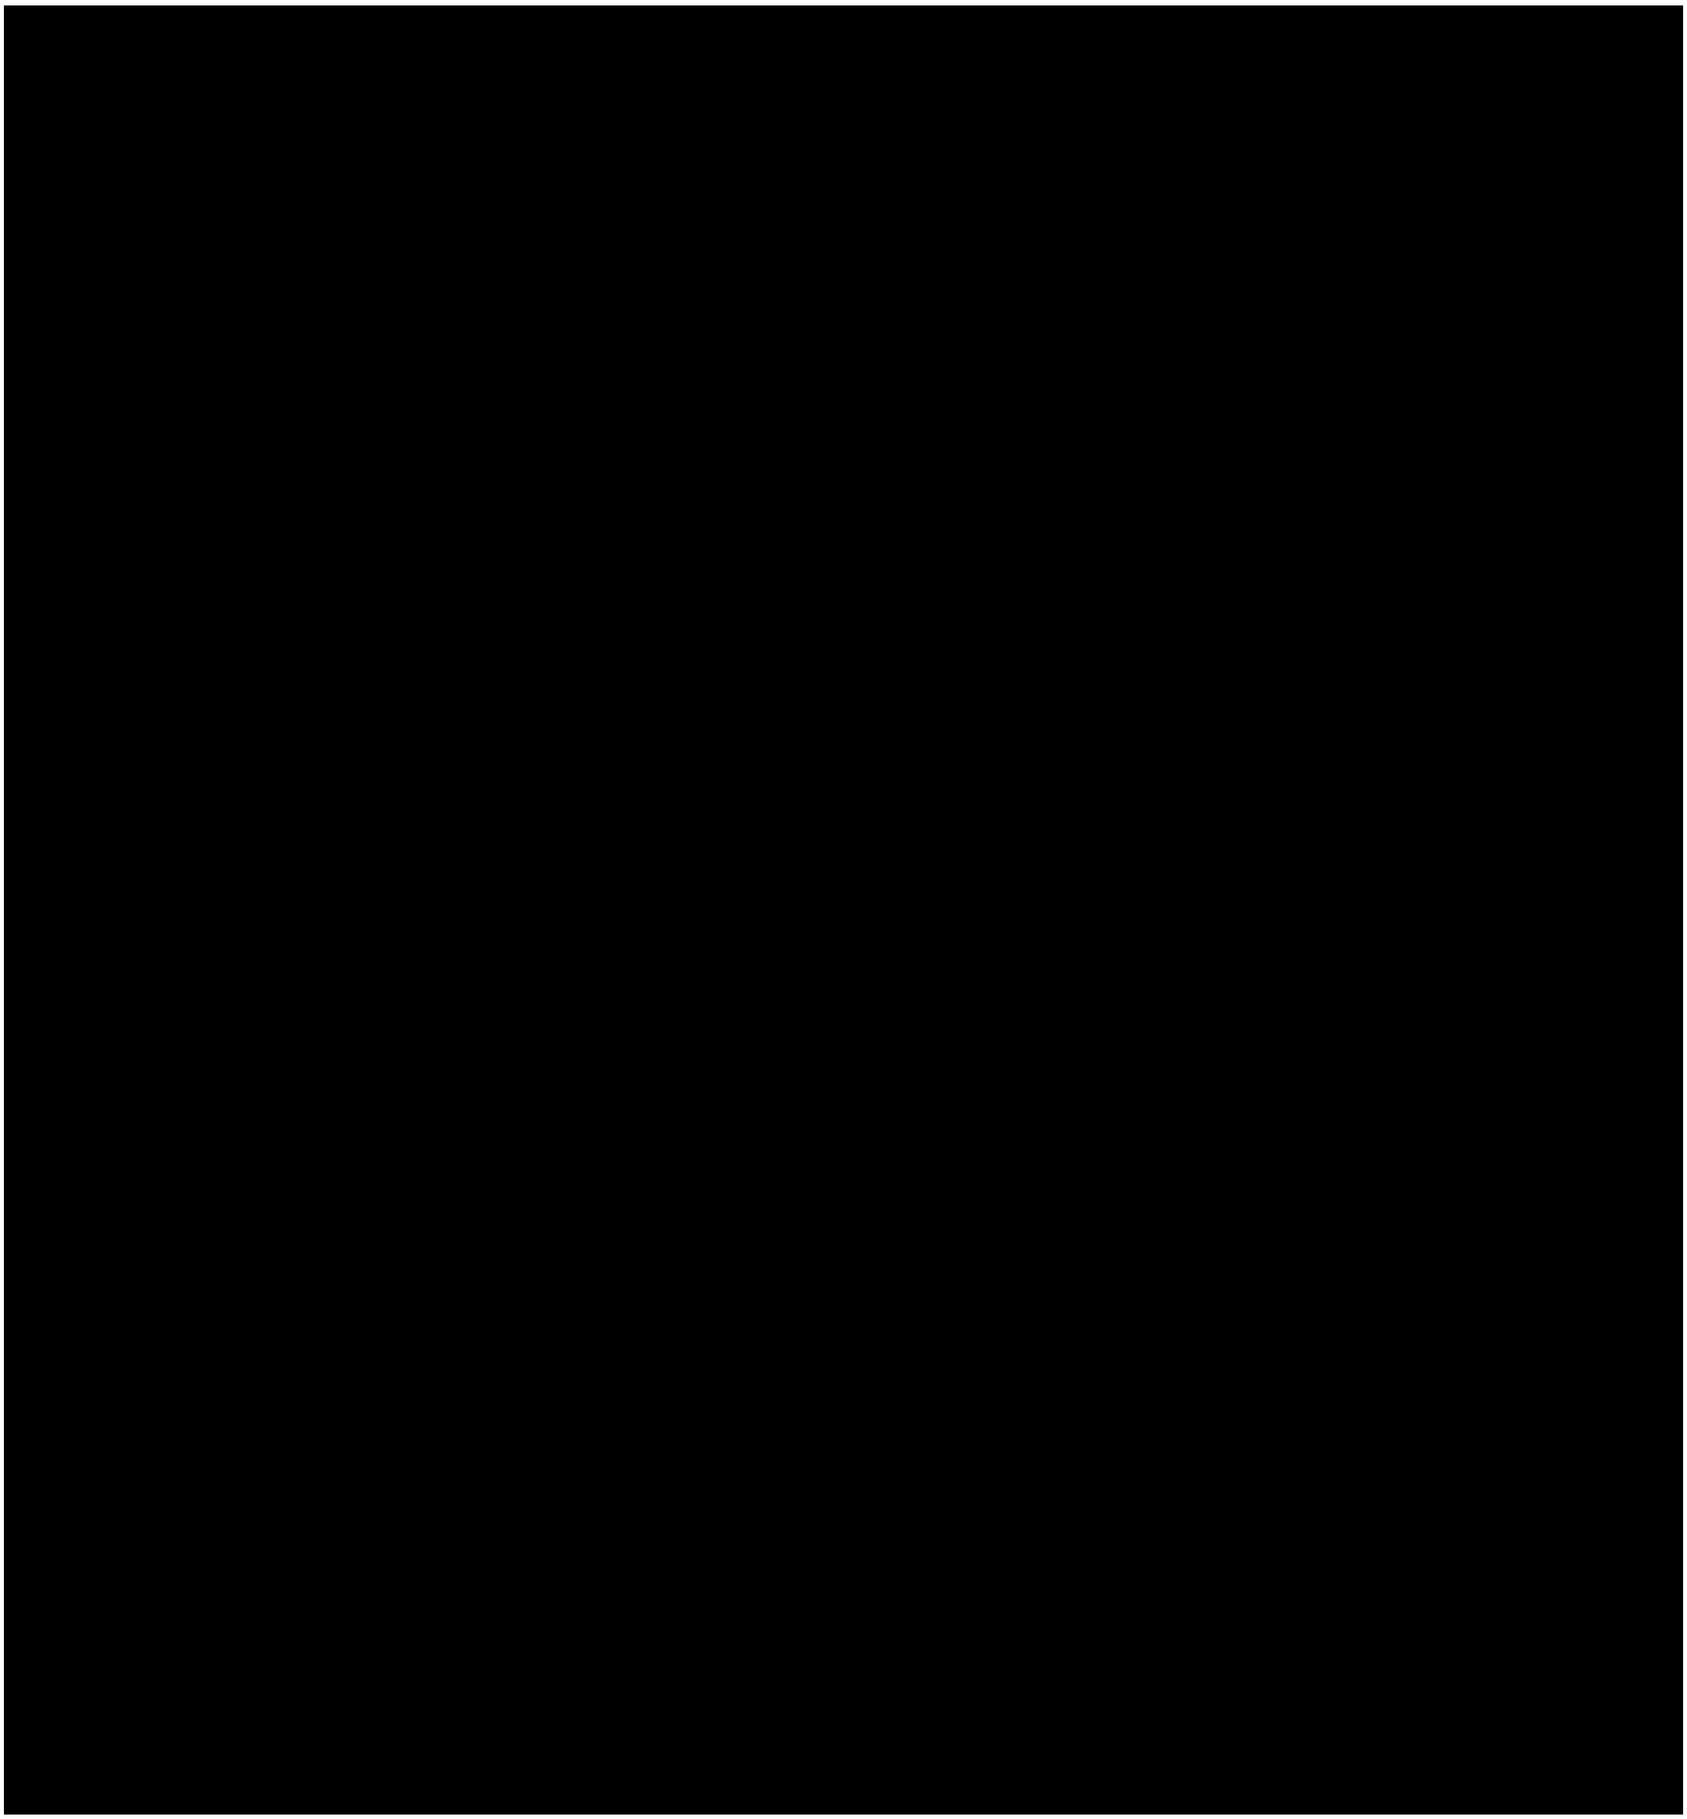
The areas of most concern are the Hierarchy of Interventions, which appear to utilize techniques not supported by current research, and the inclusion of physical restraint as a behavioral intervention.

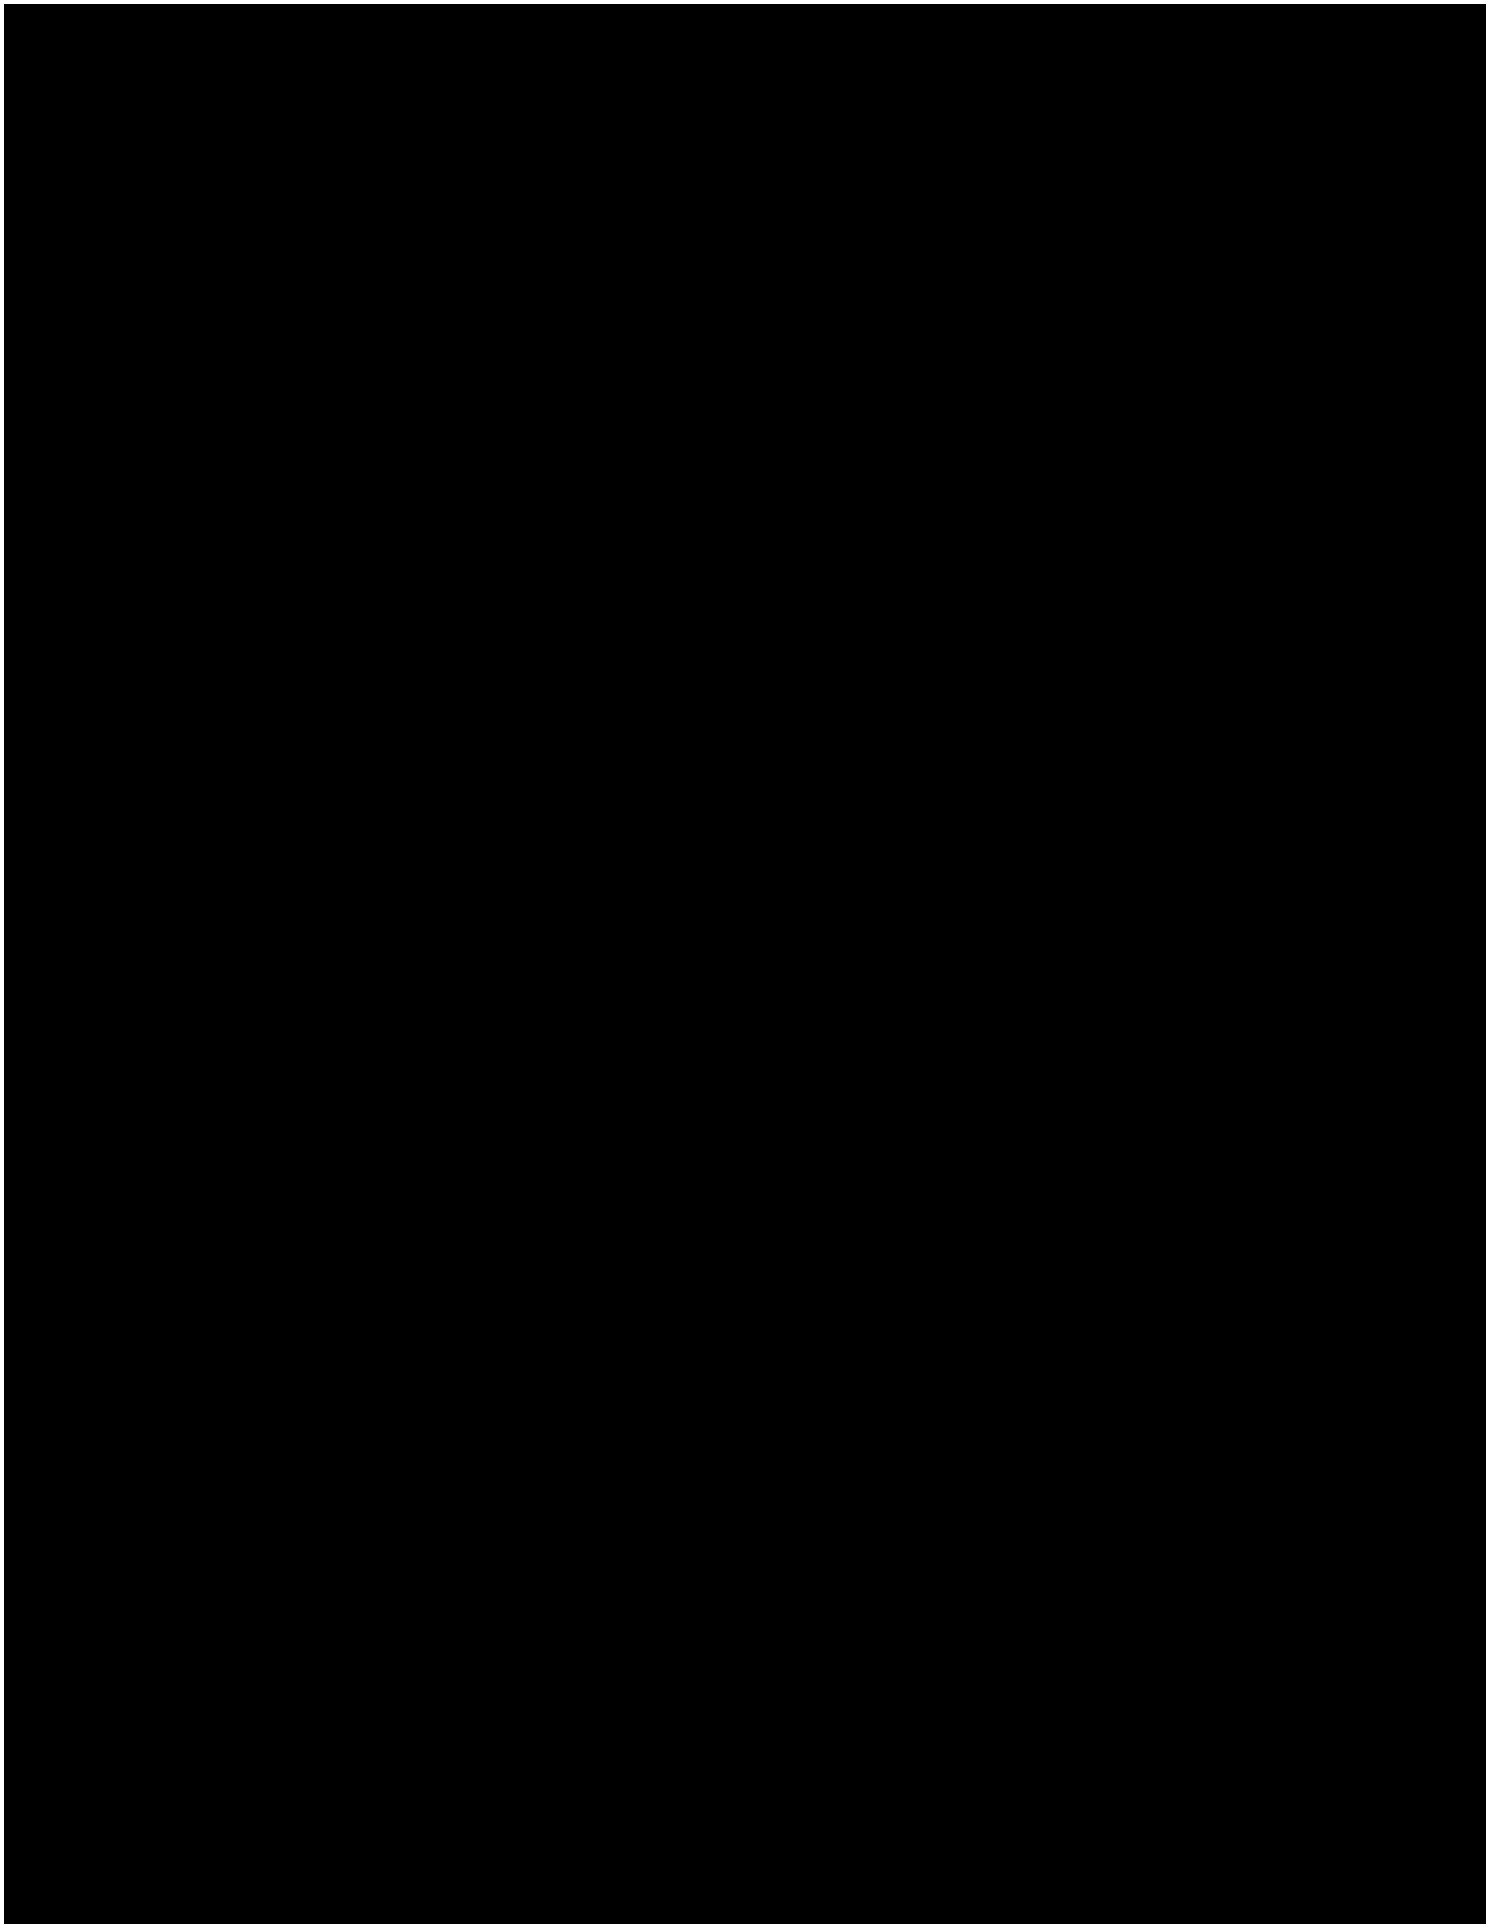


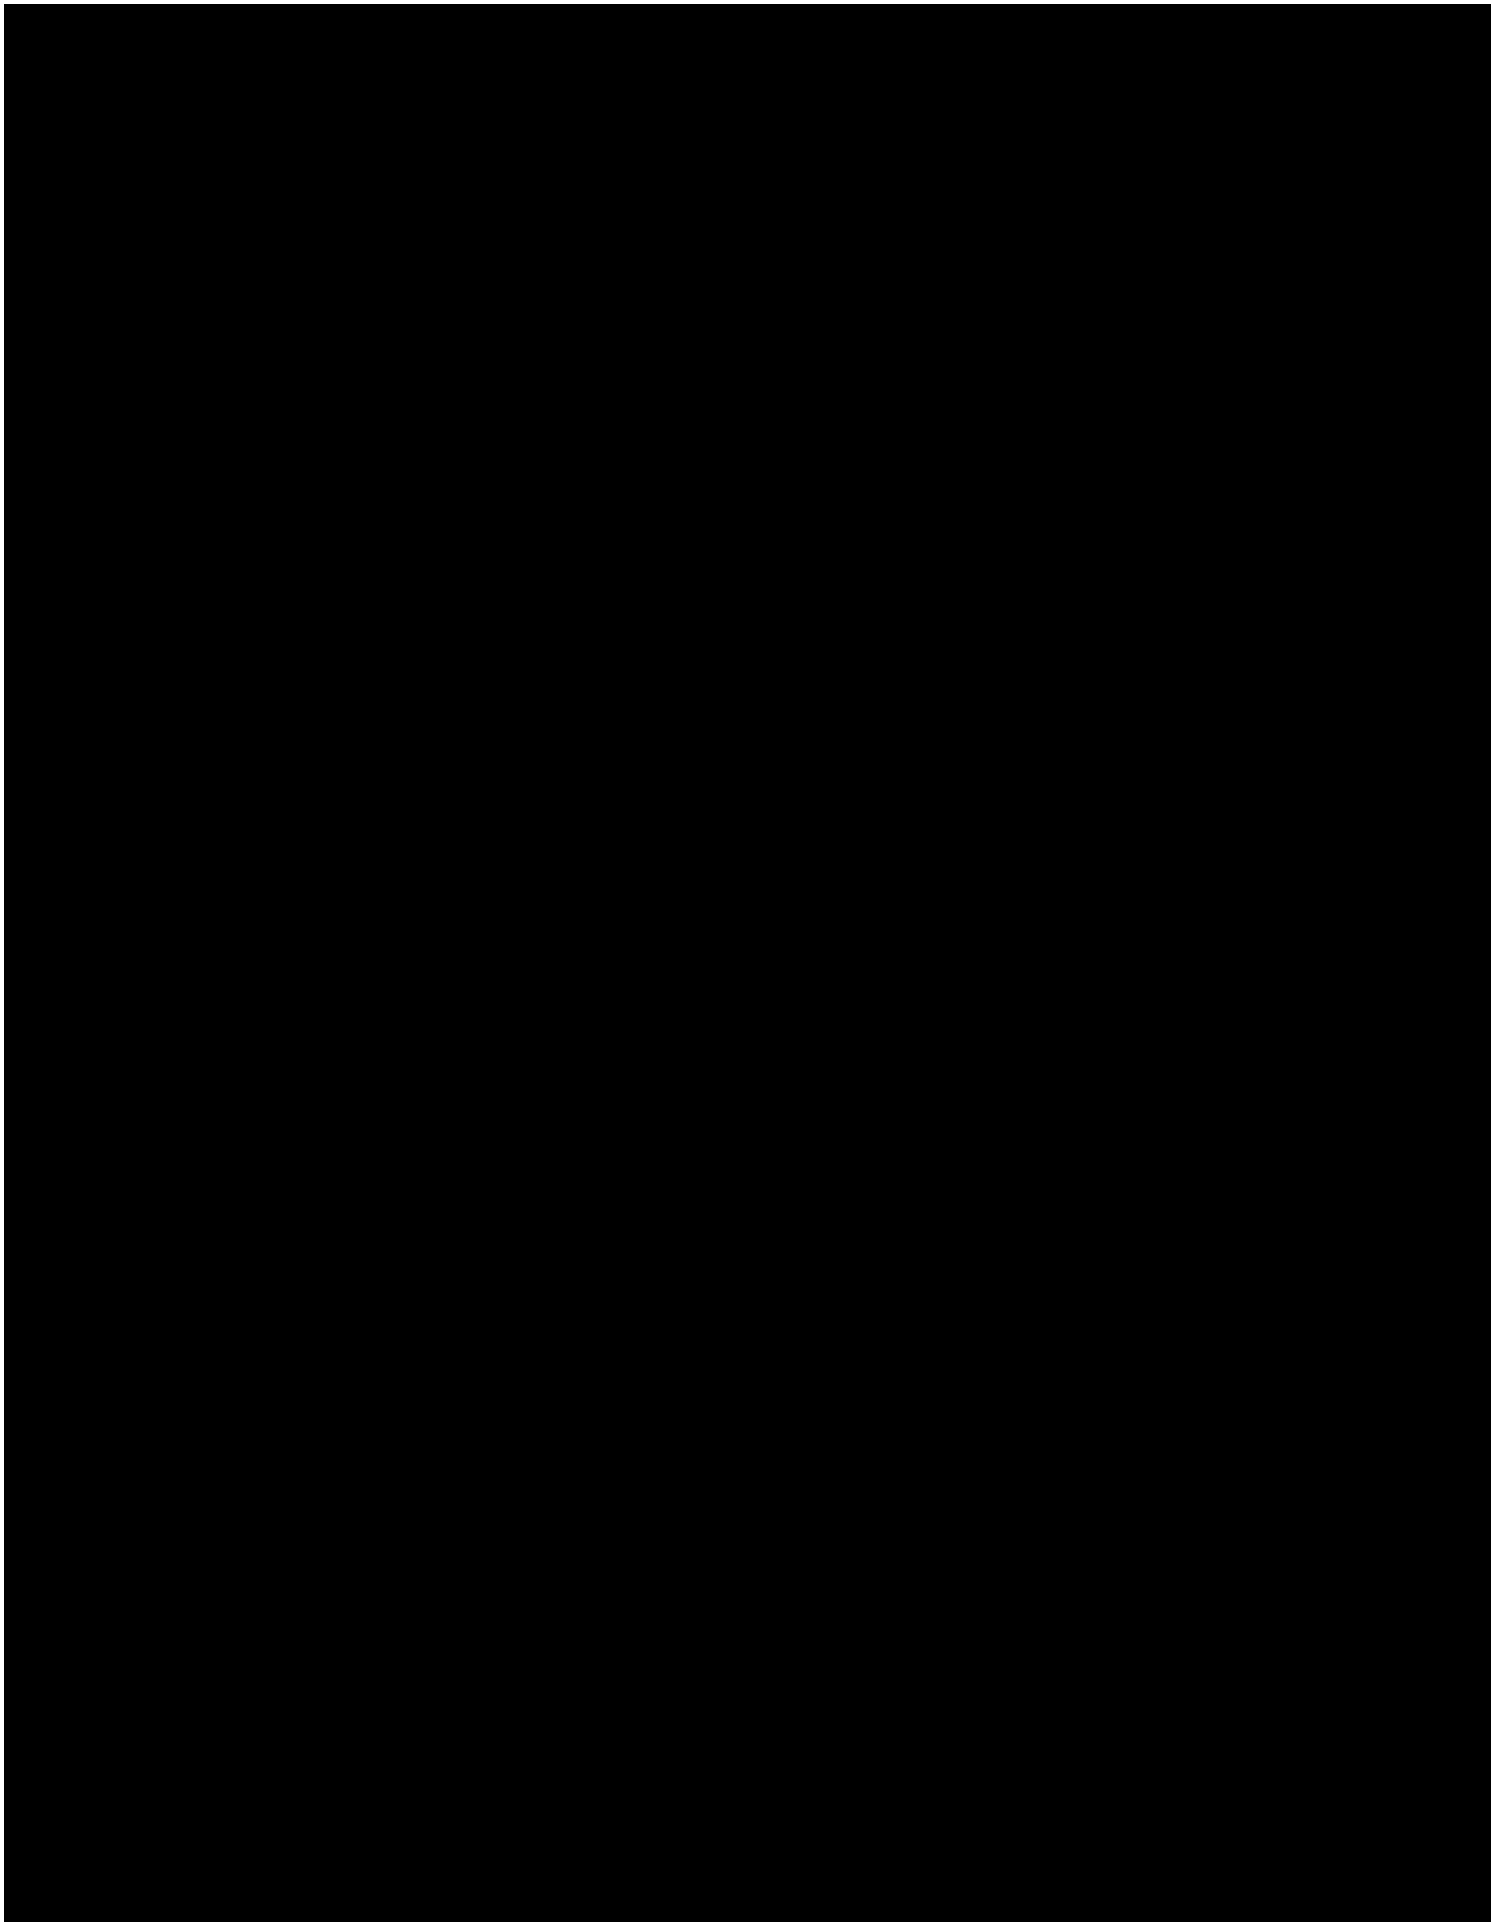
The differences between the various policies and procedures of the five Human Development Centers and the DDDS Central Office should be reviewed. Rather than attempt to update the different policies and procedures, it is recommended that the state and local policies and procedures be updated using Appendix J as a starting point.

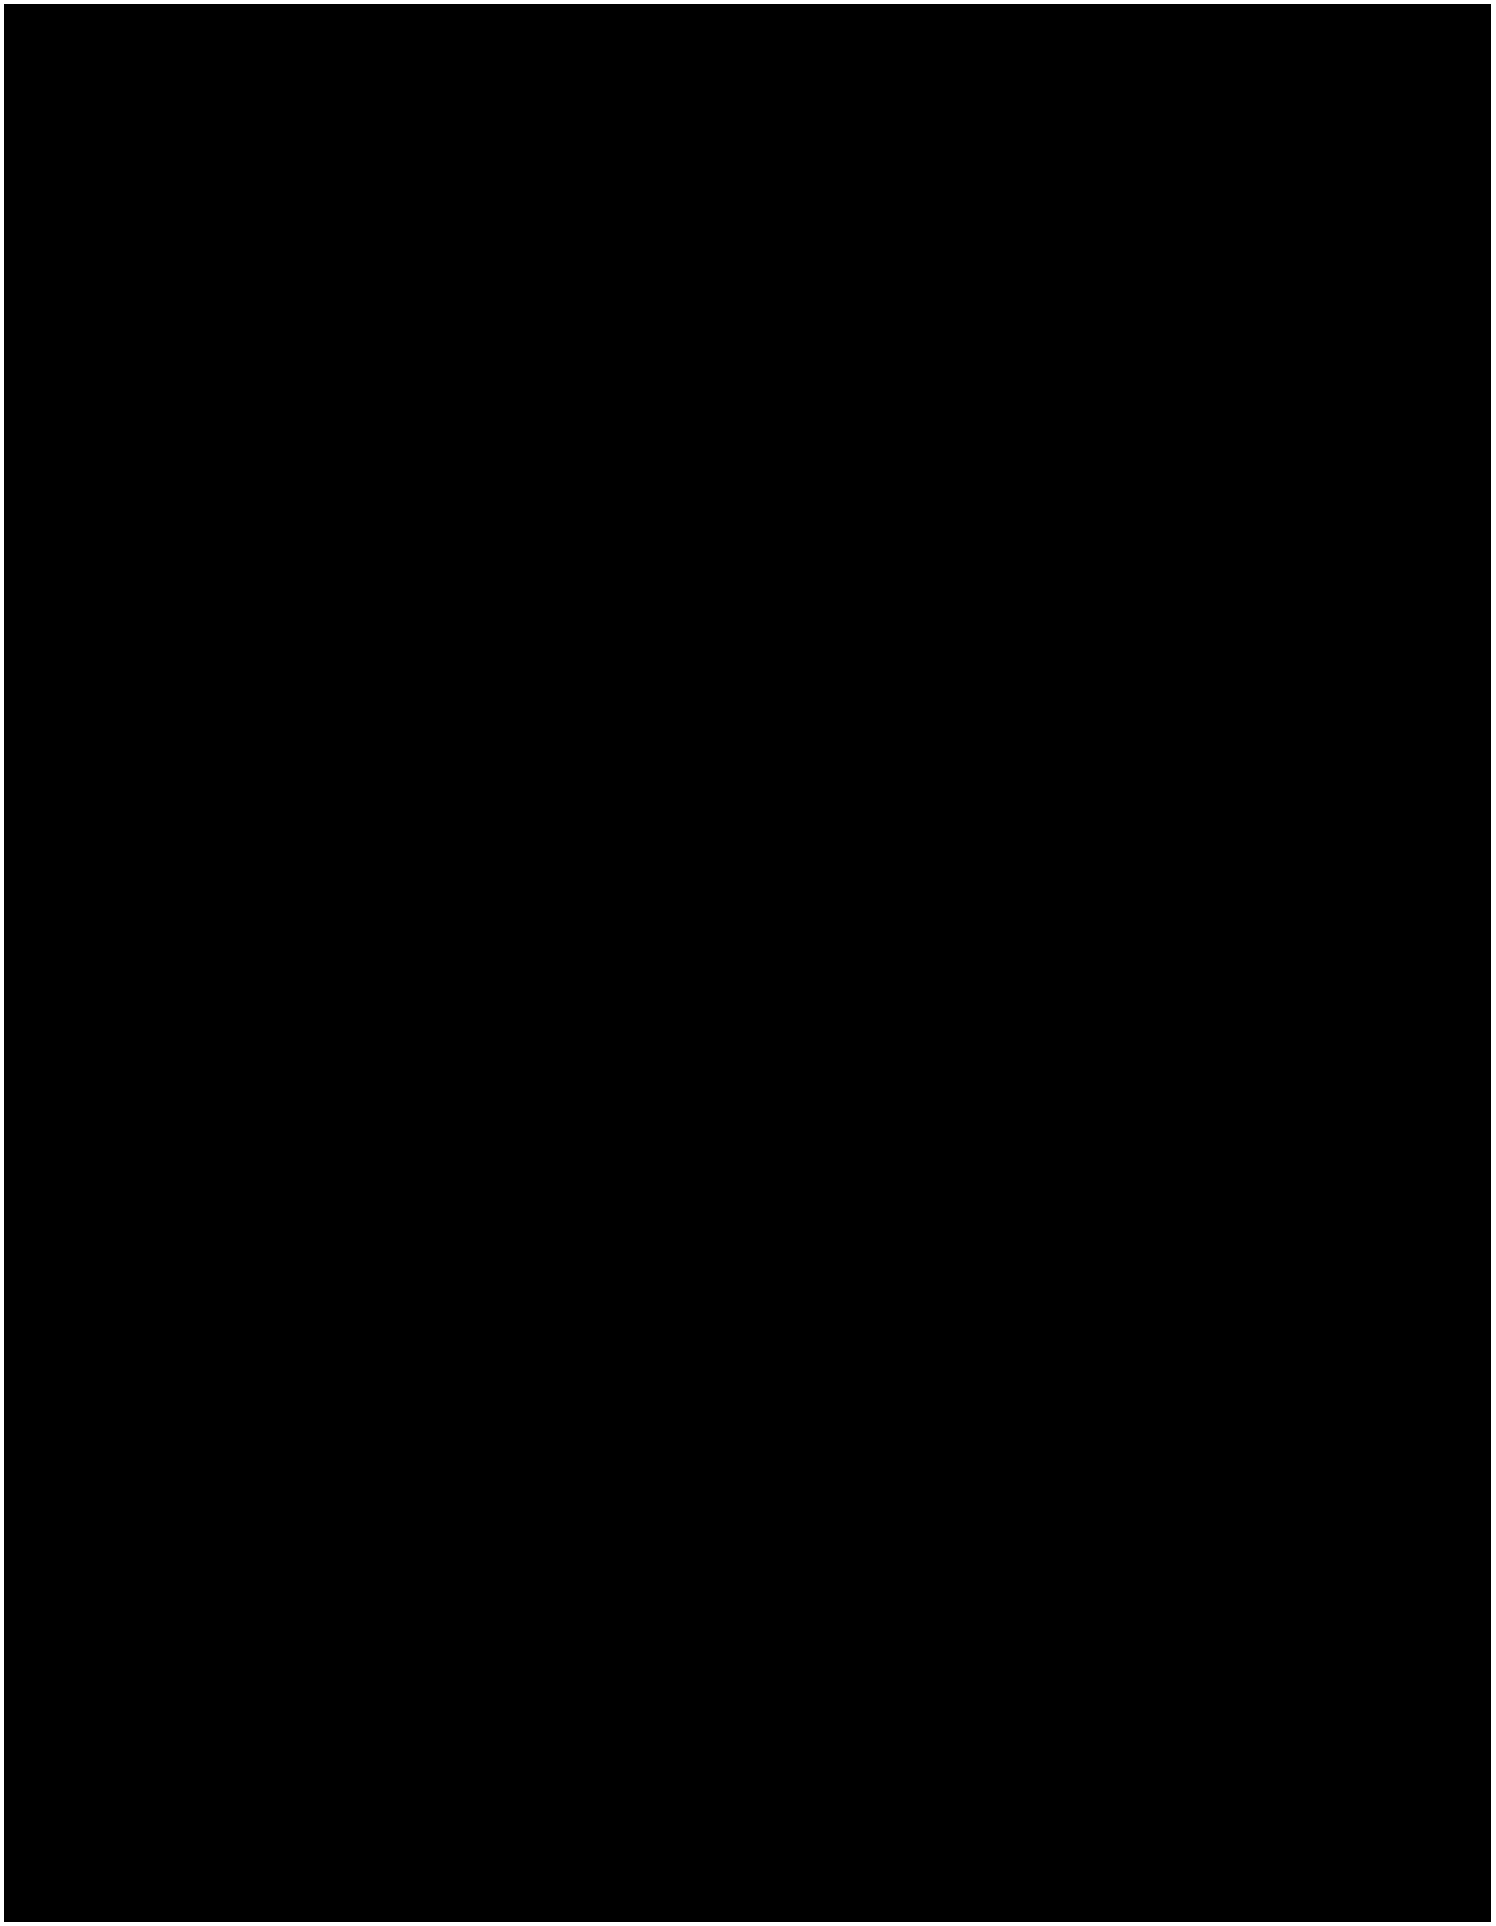


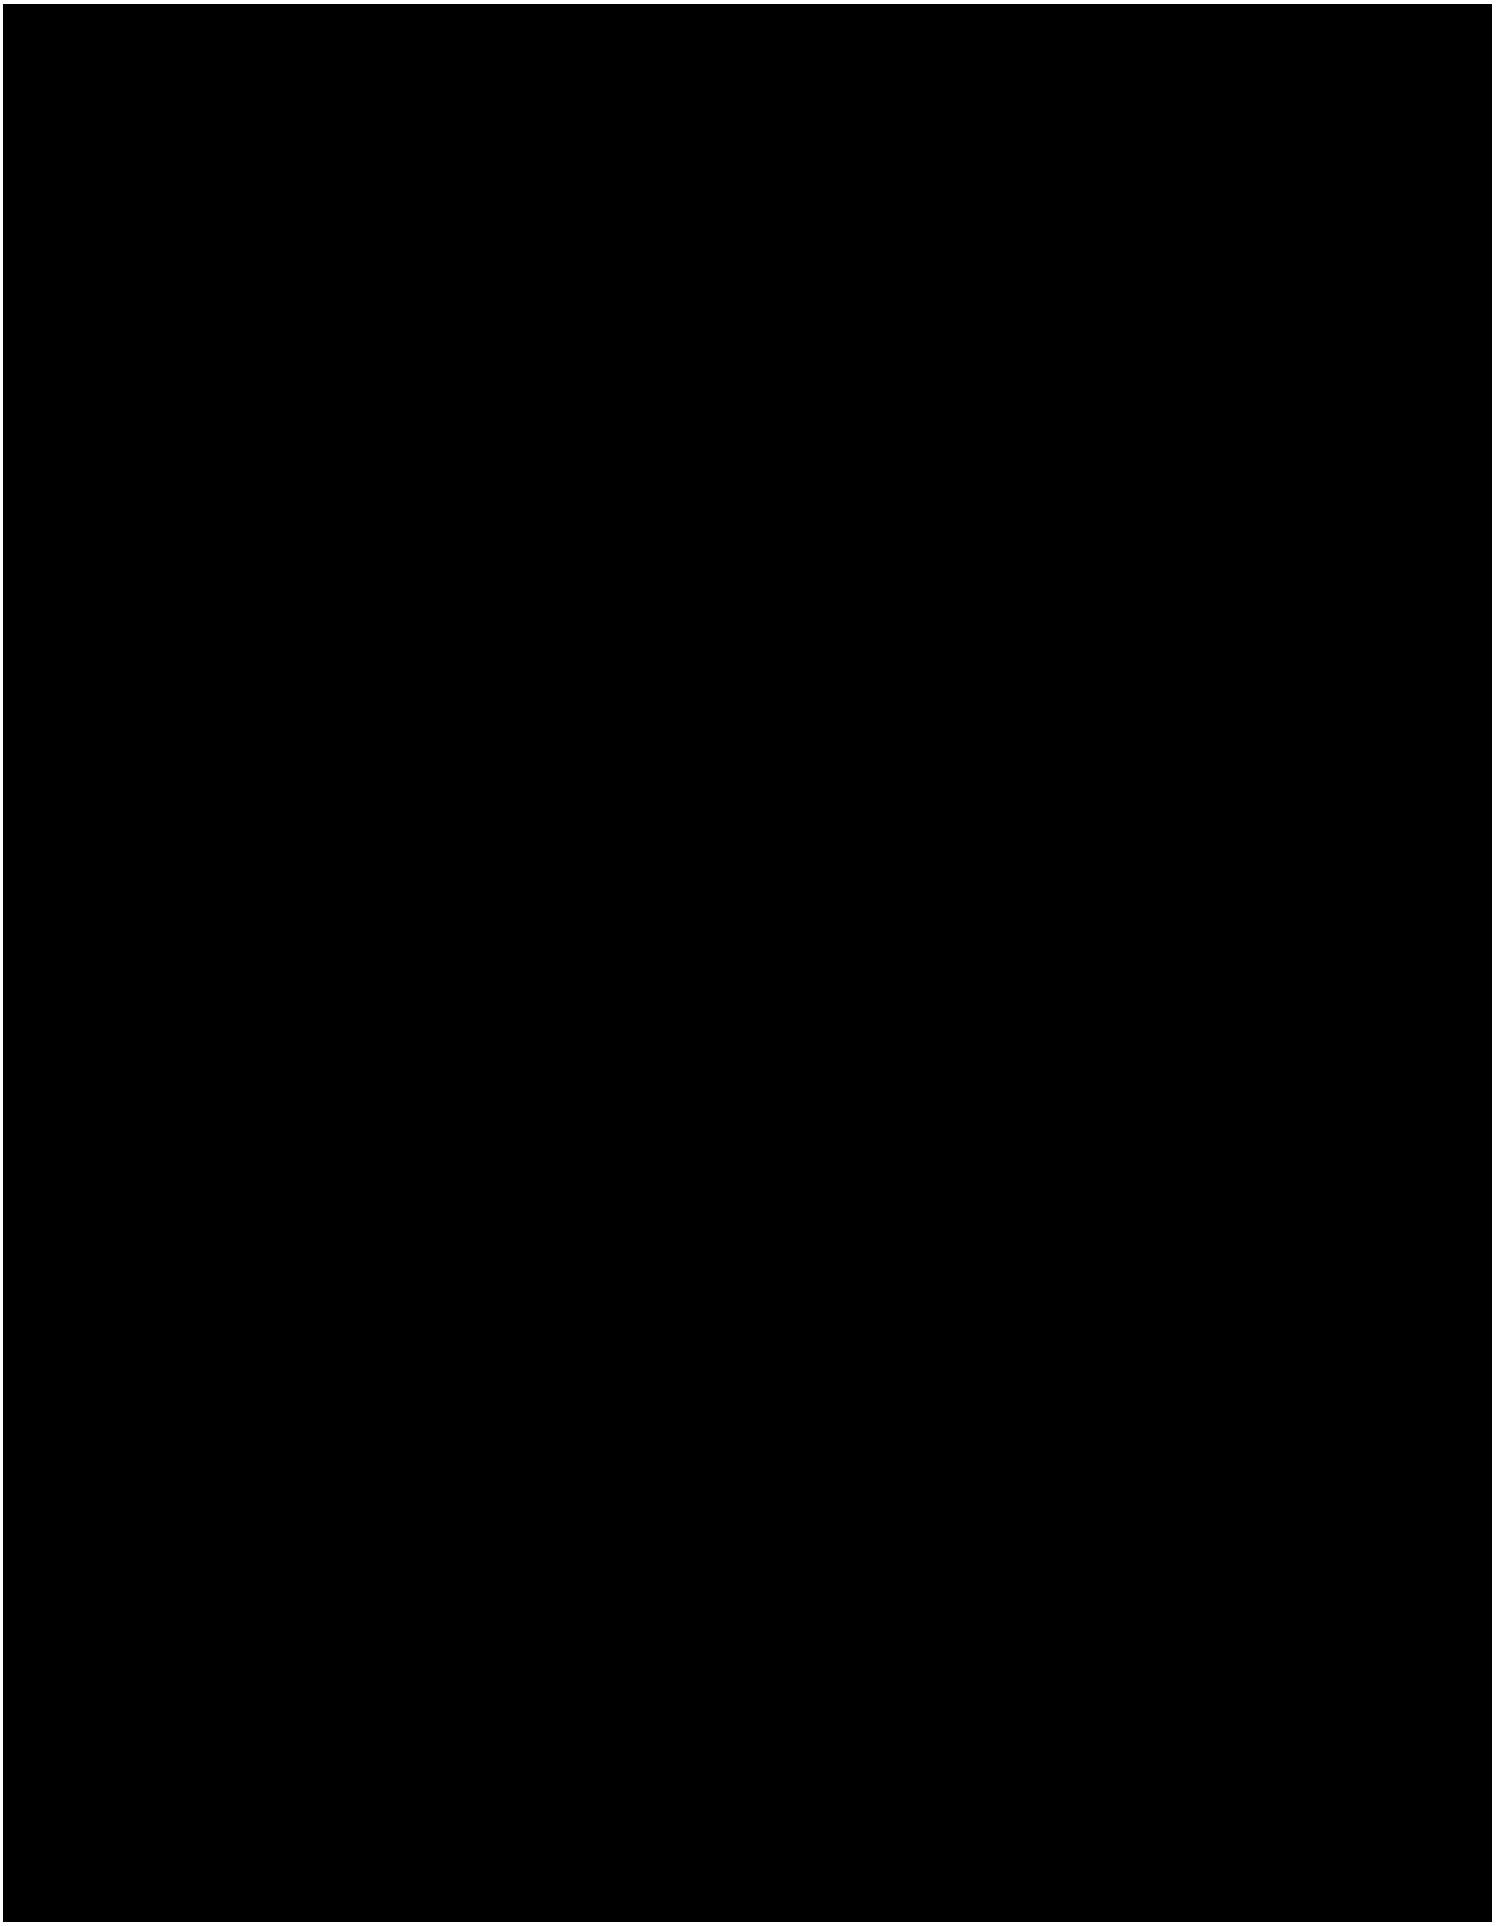


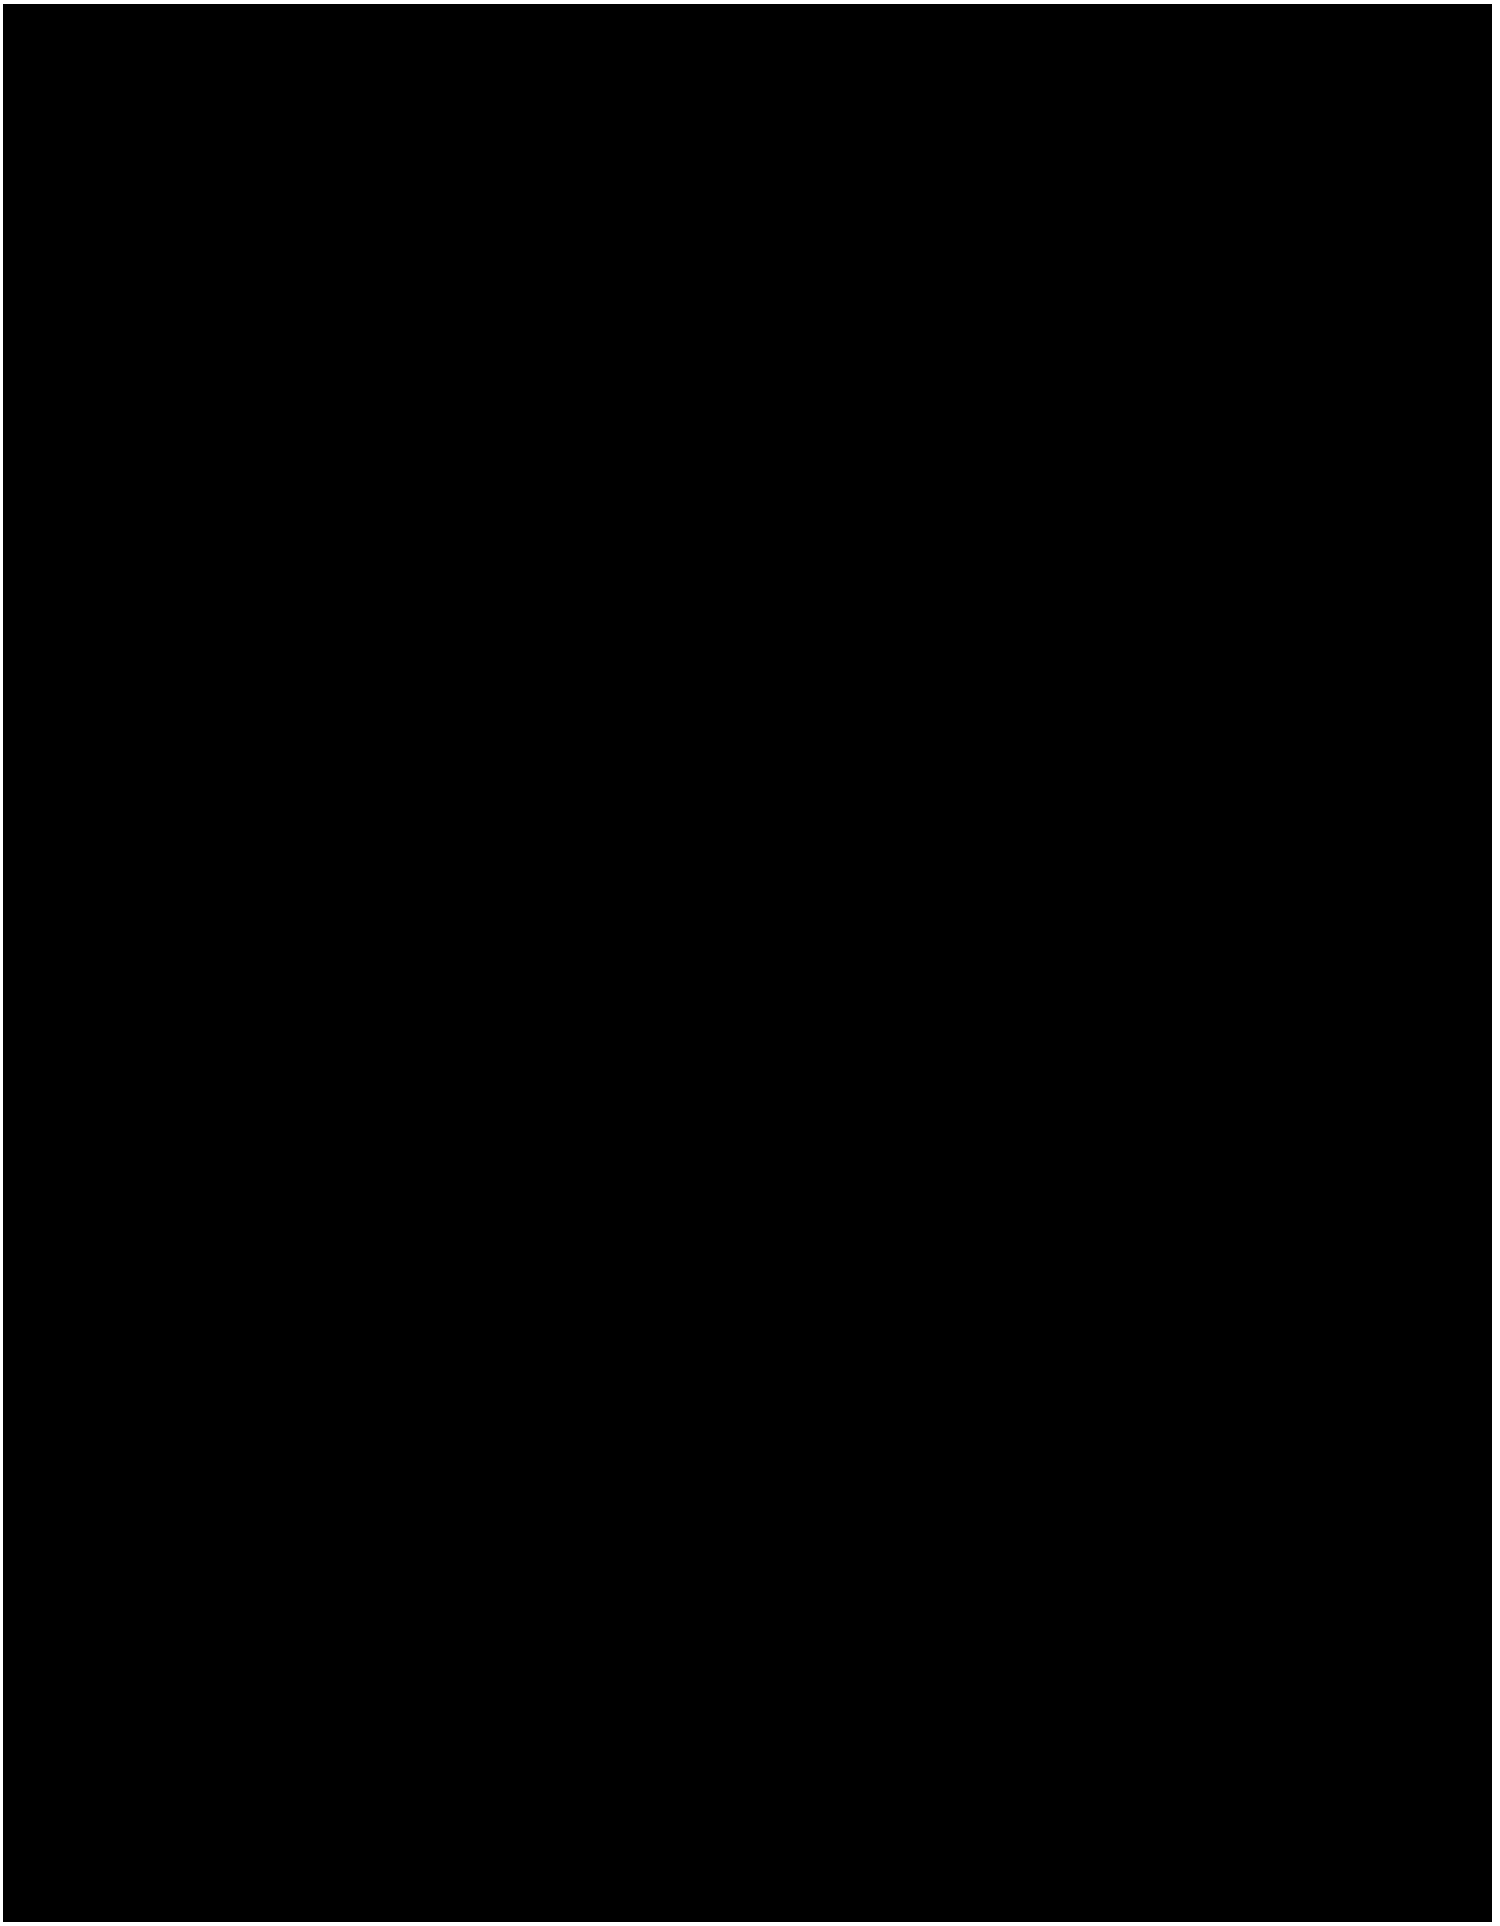


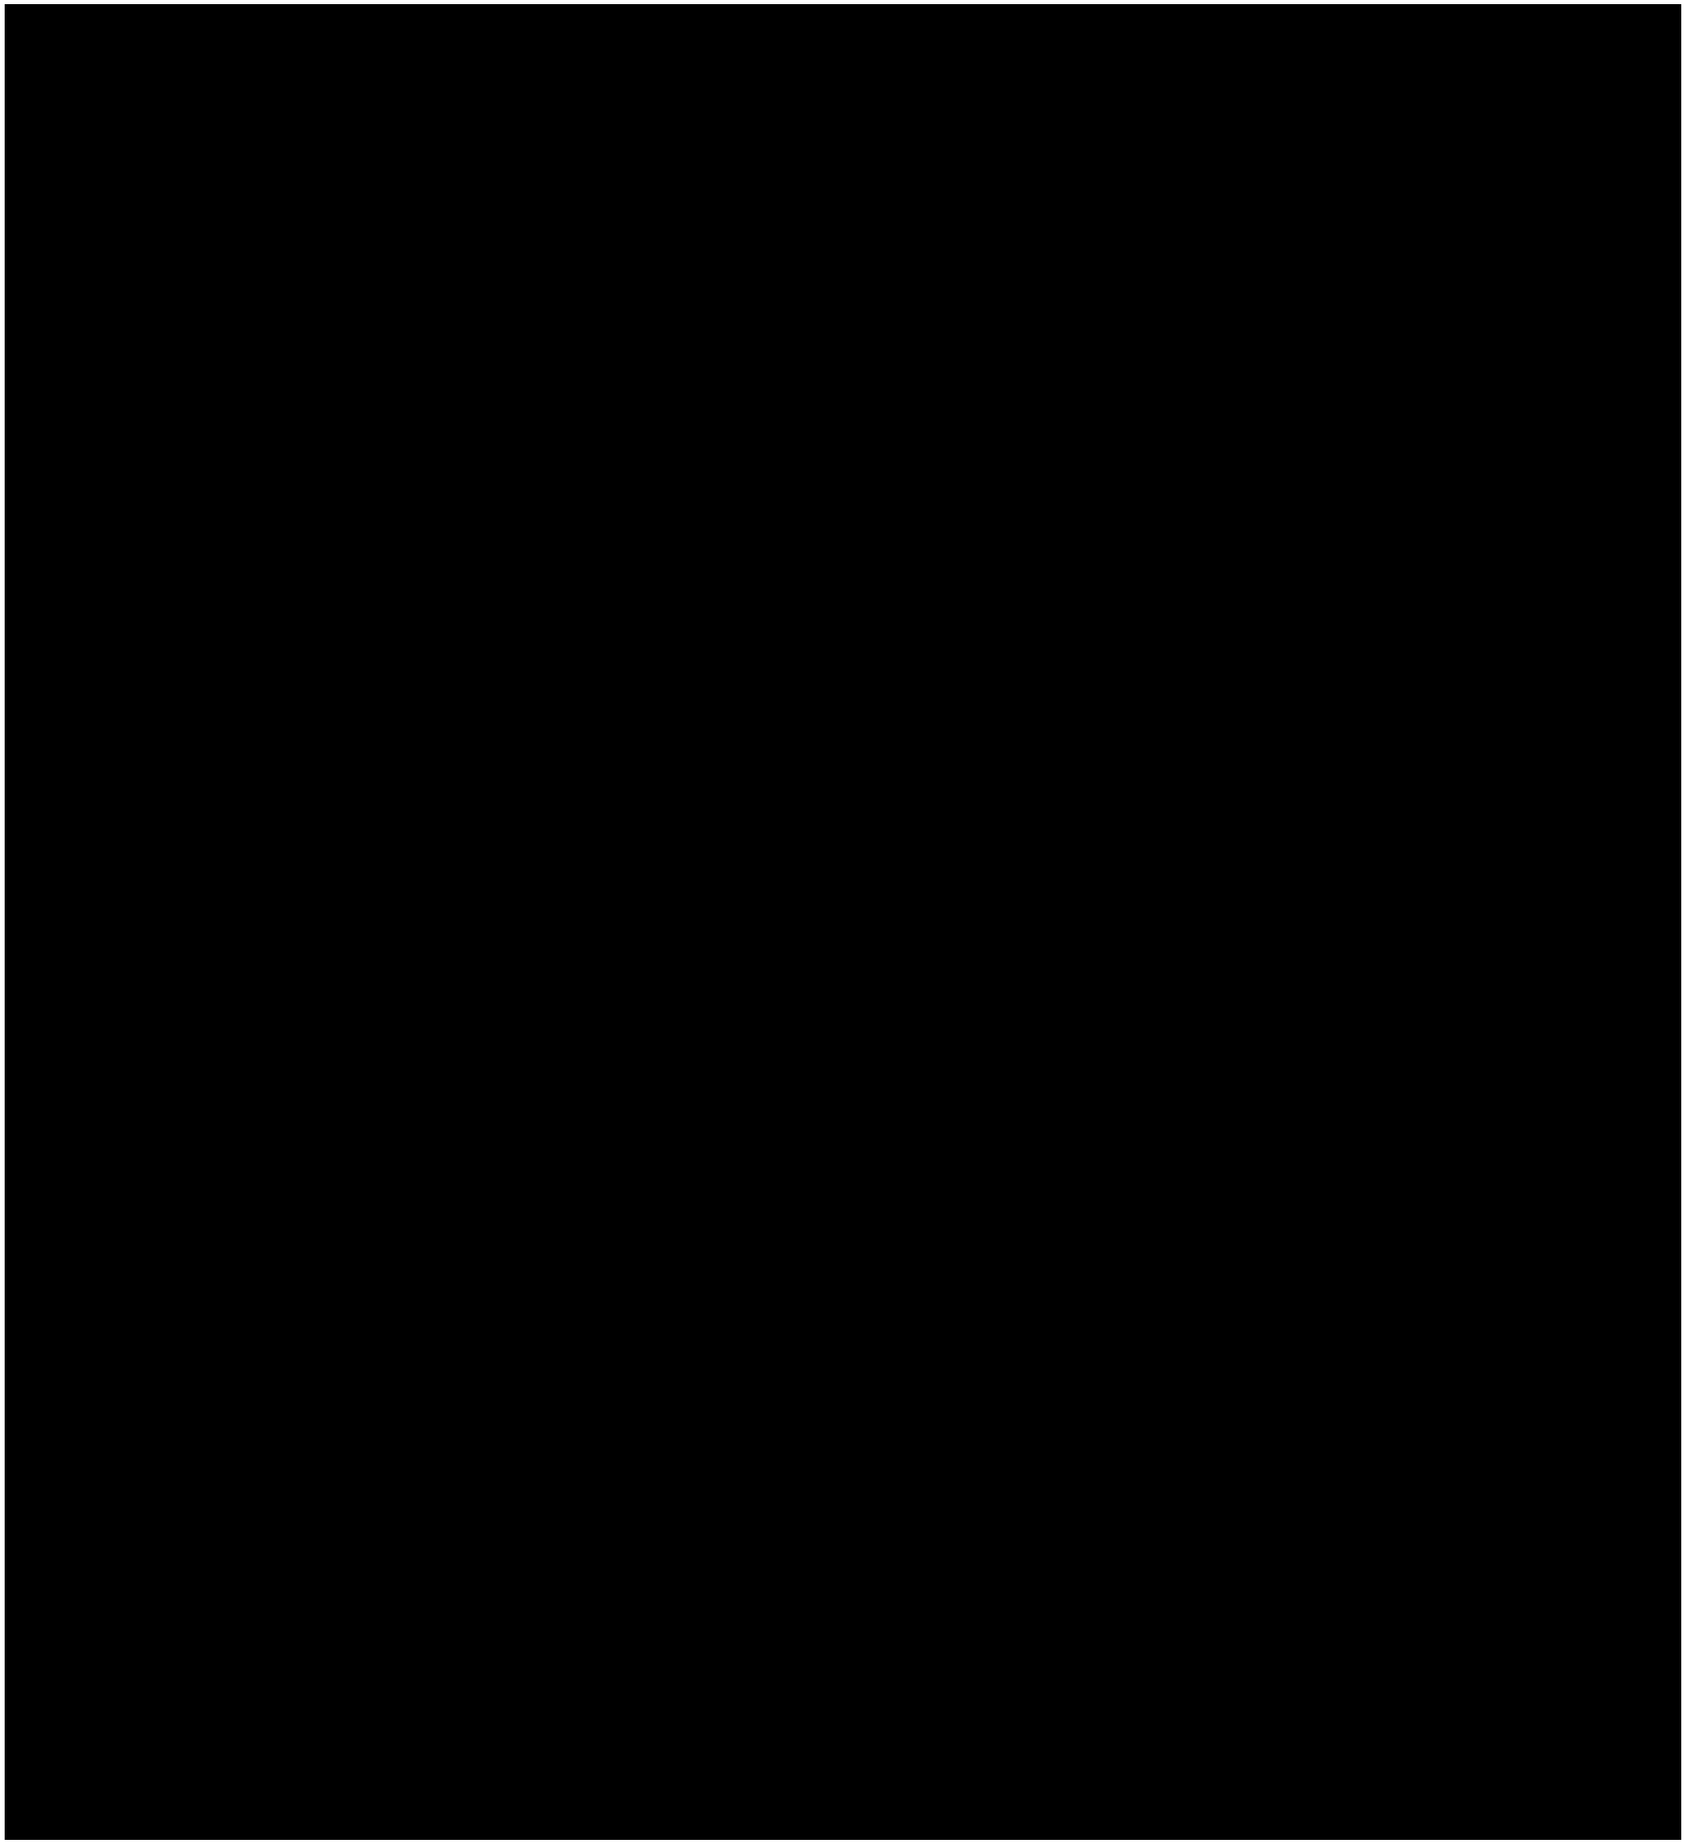


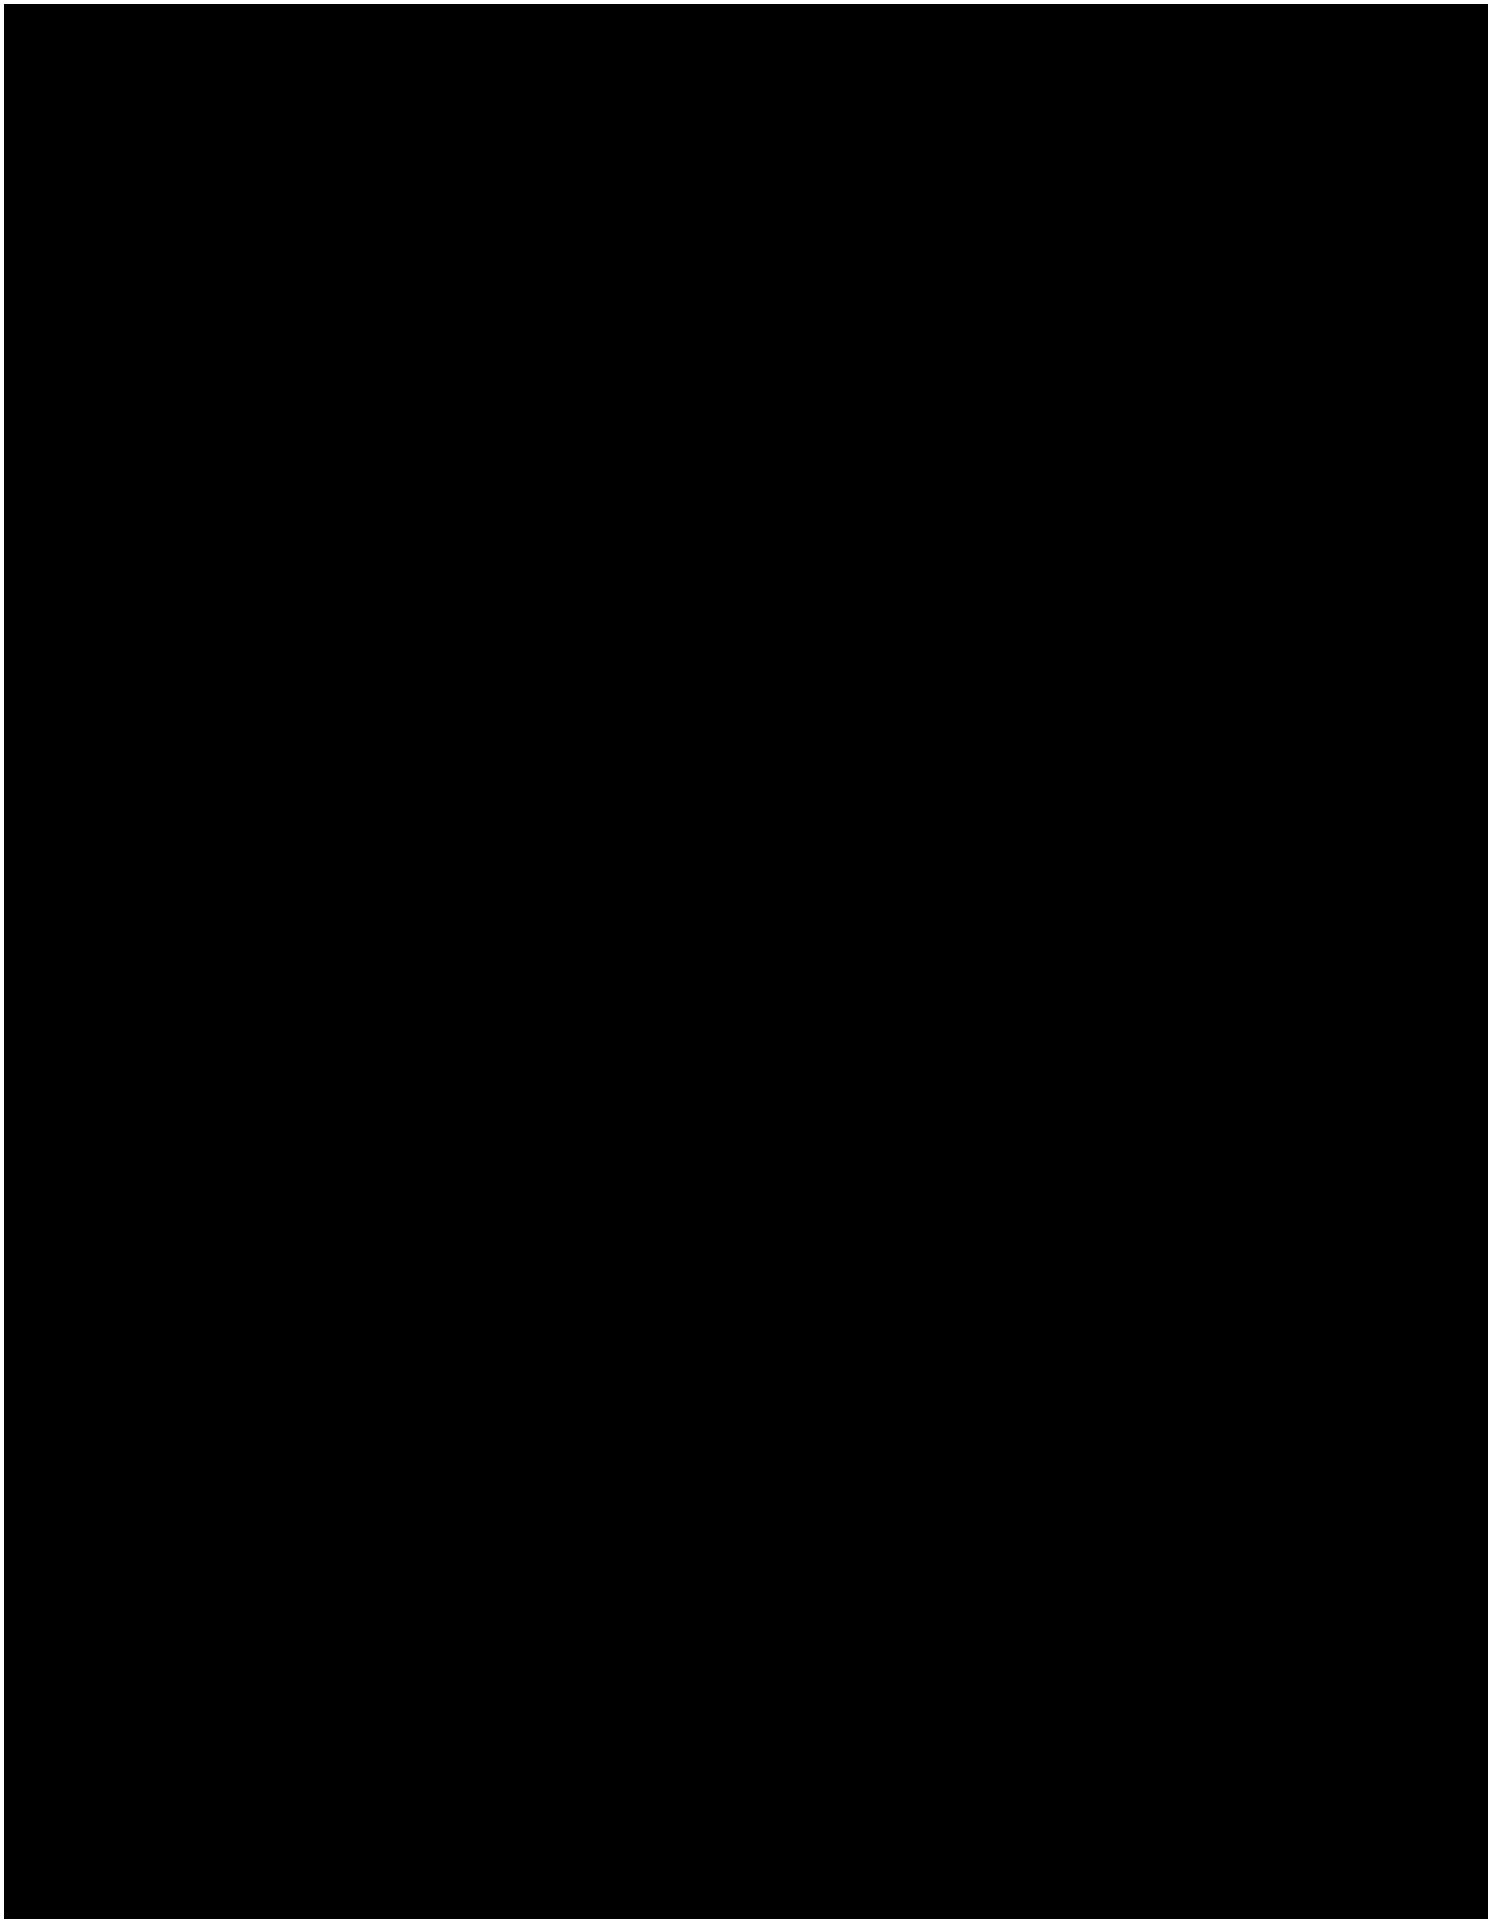


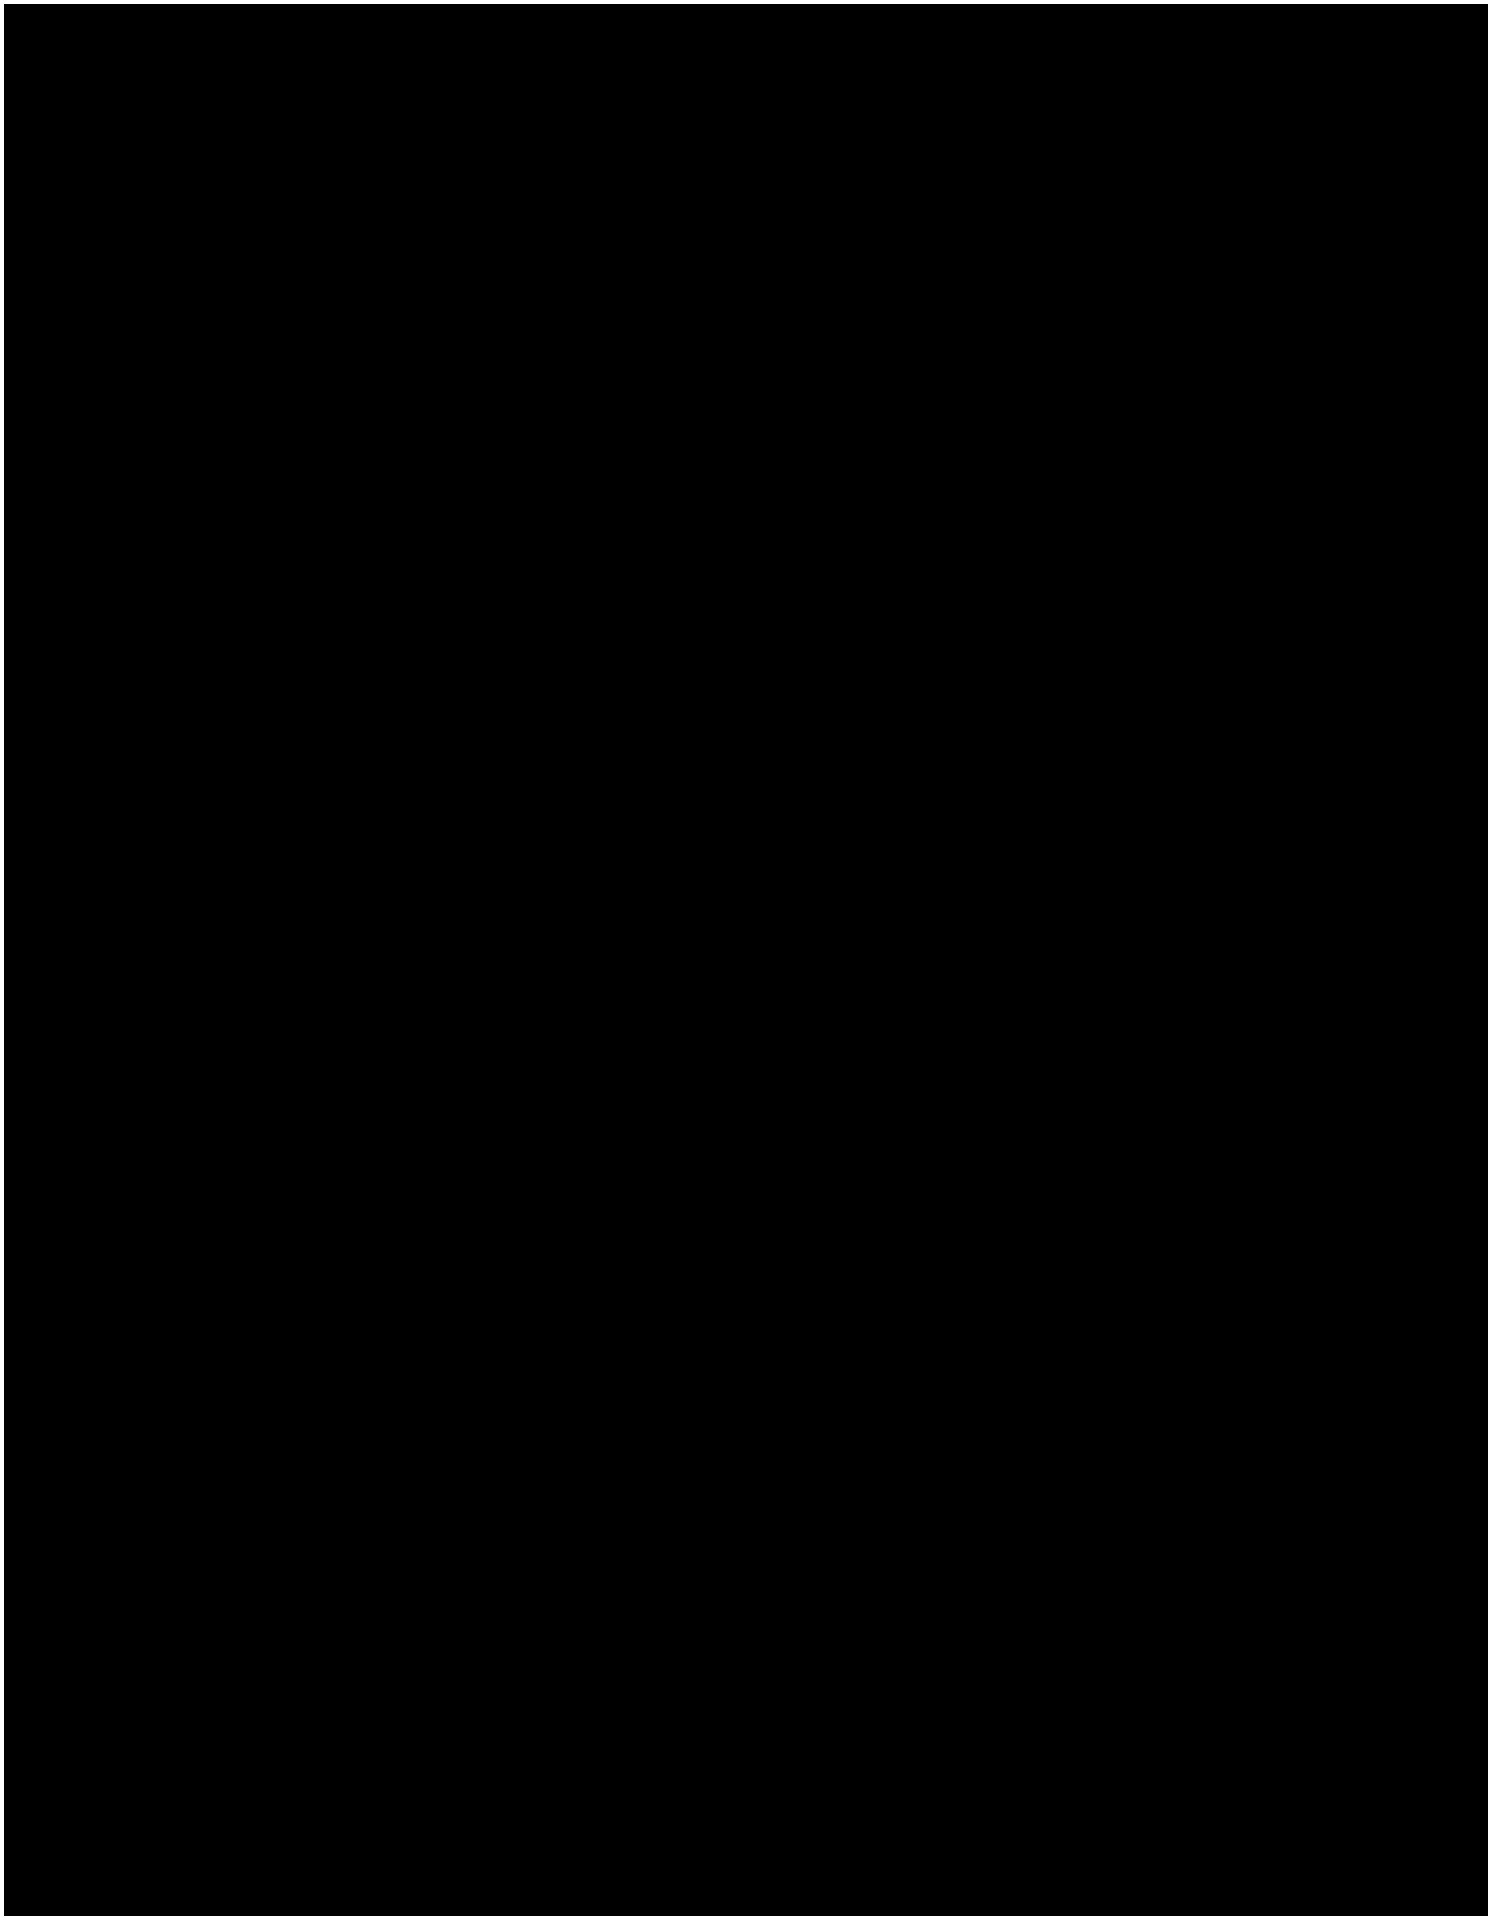


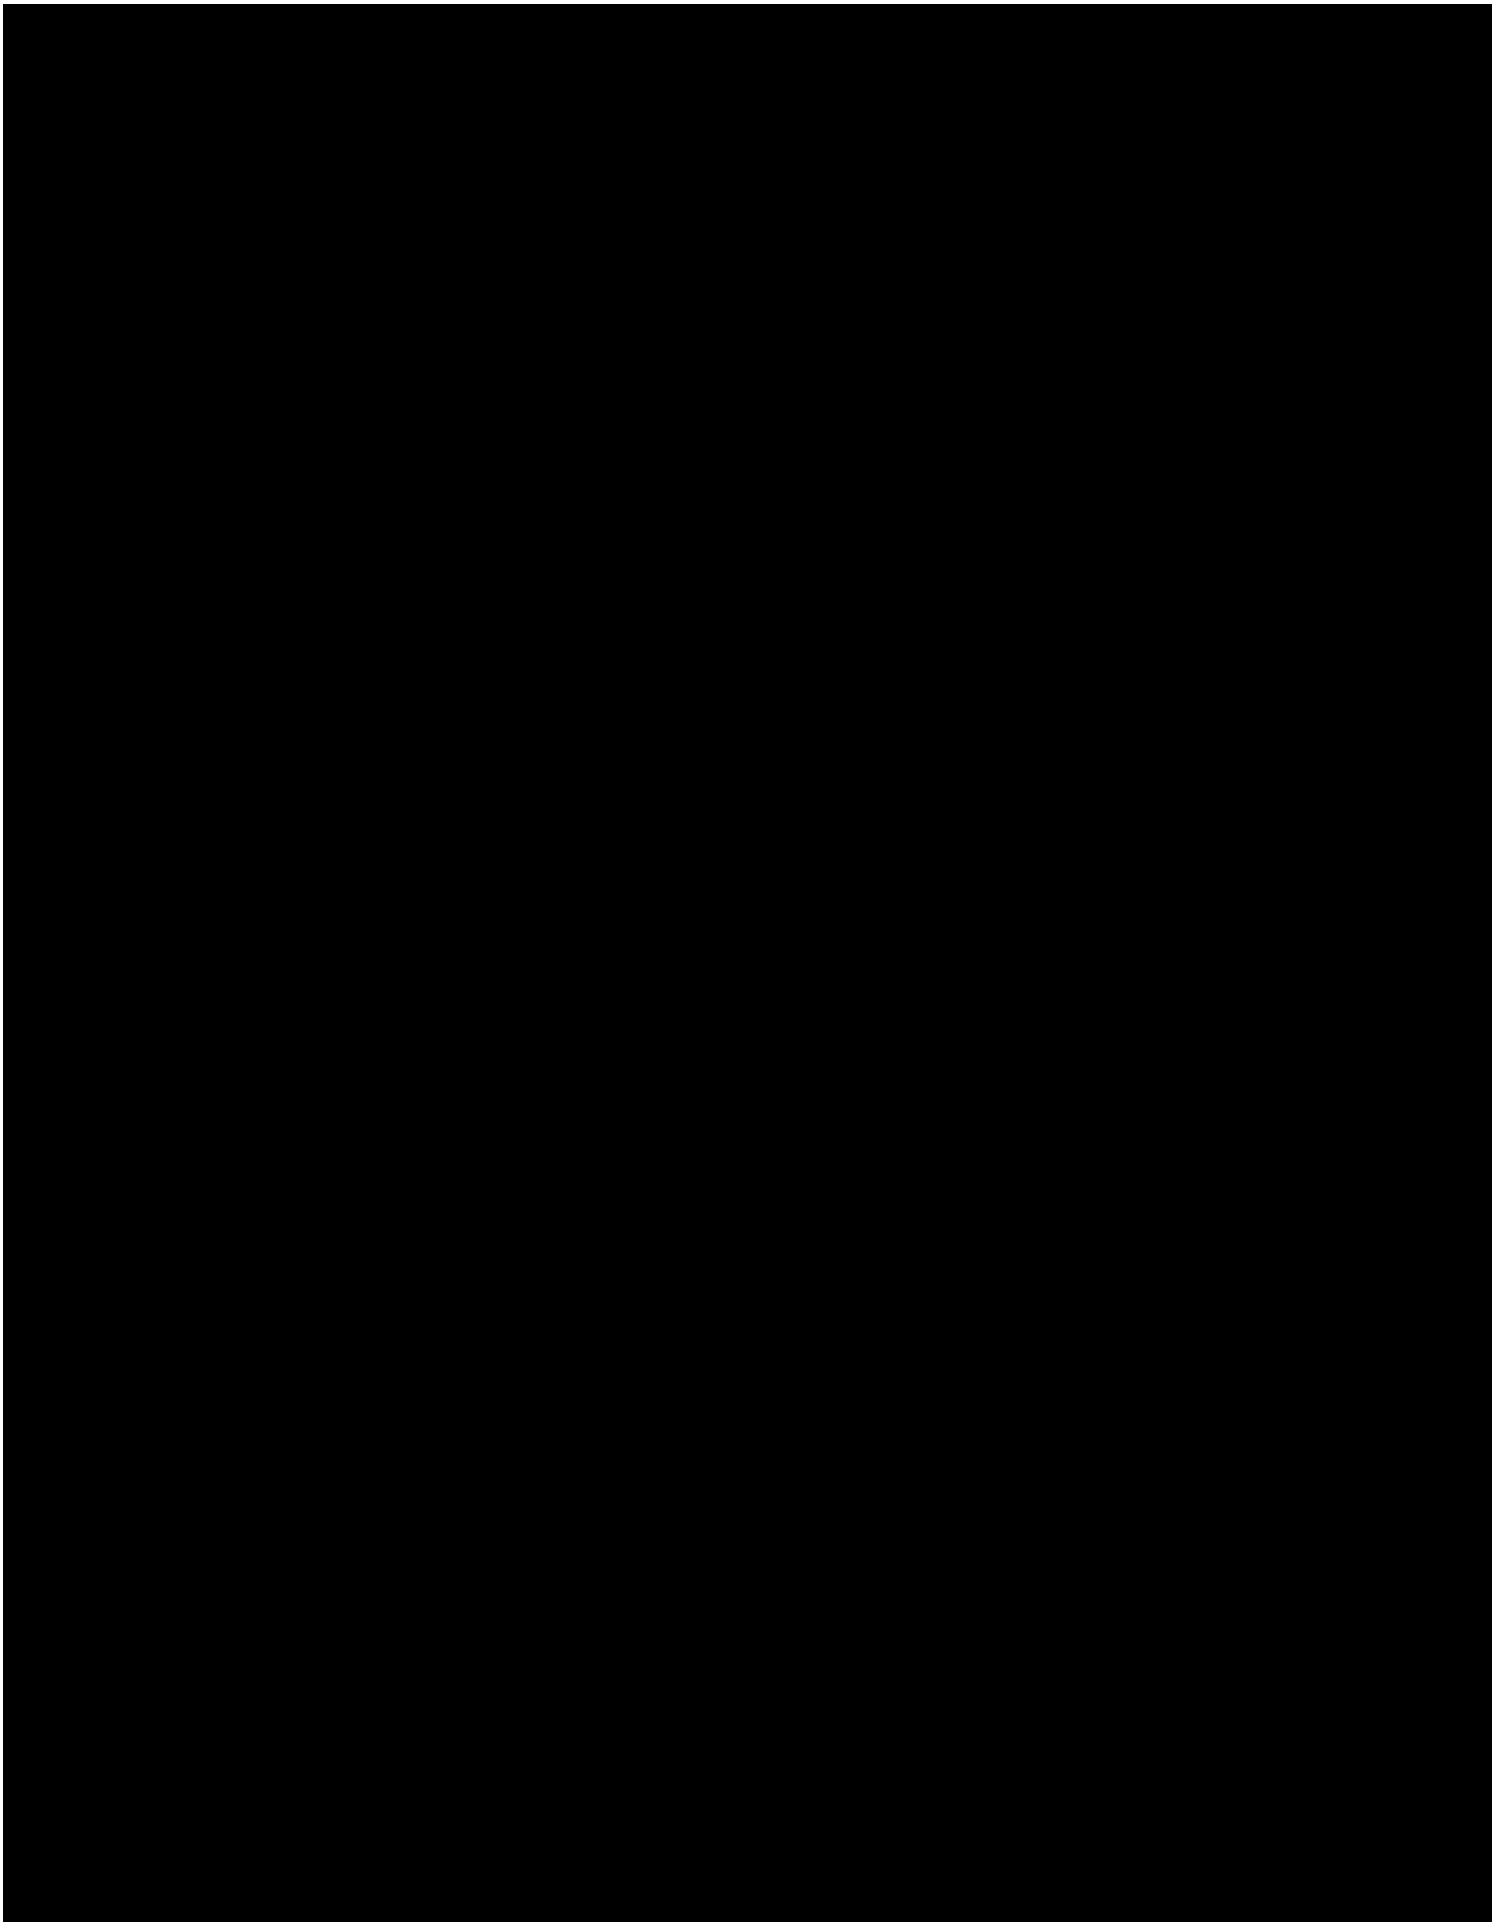


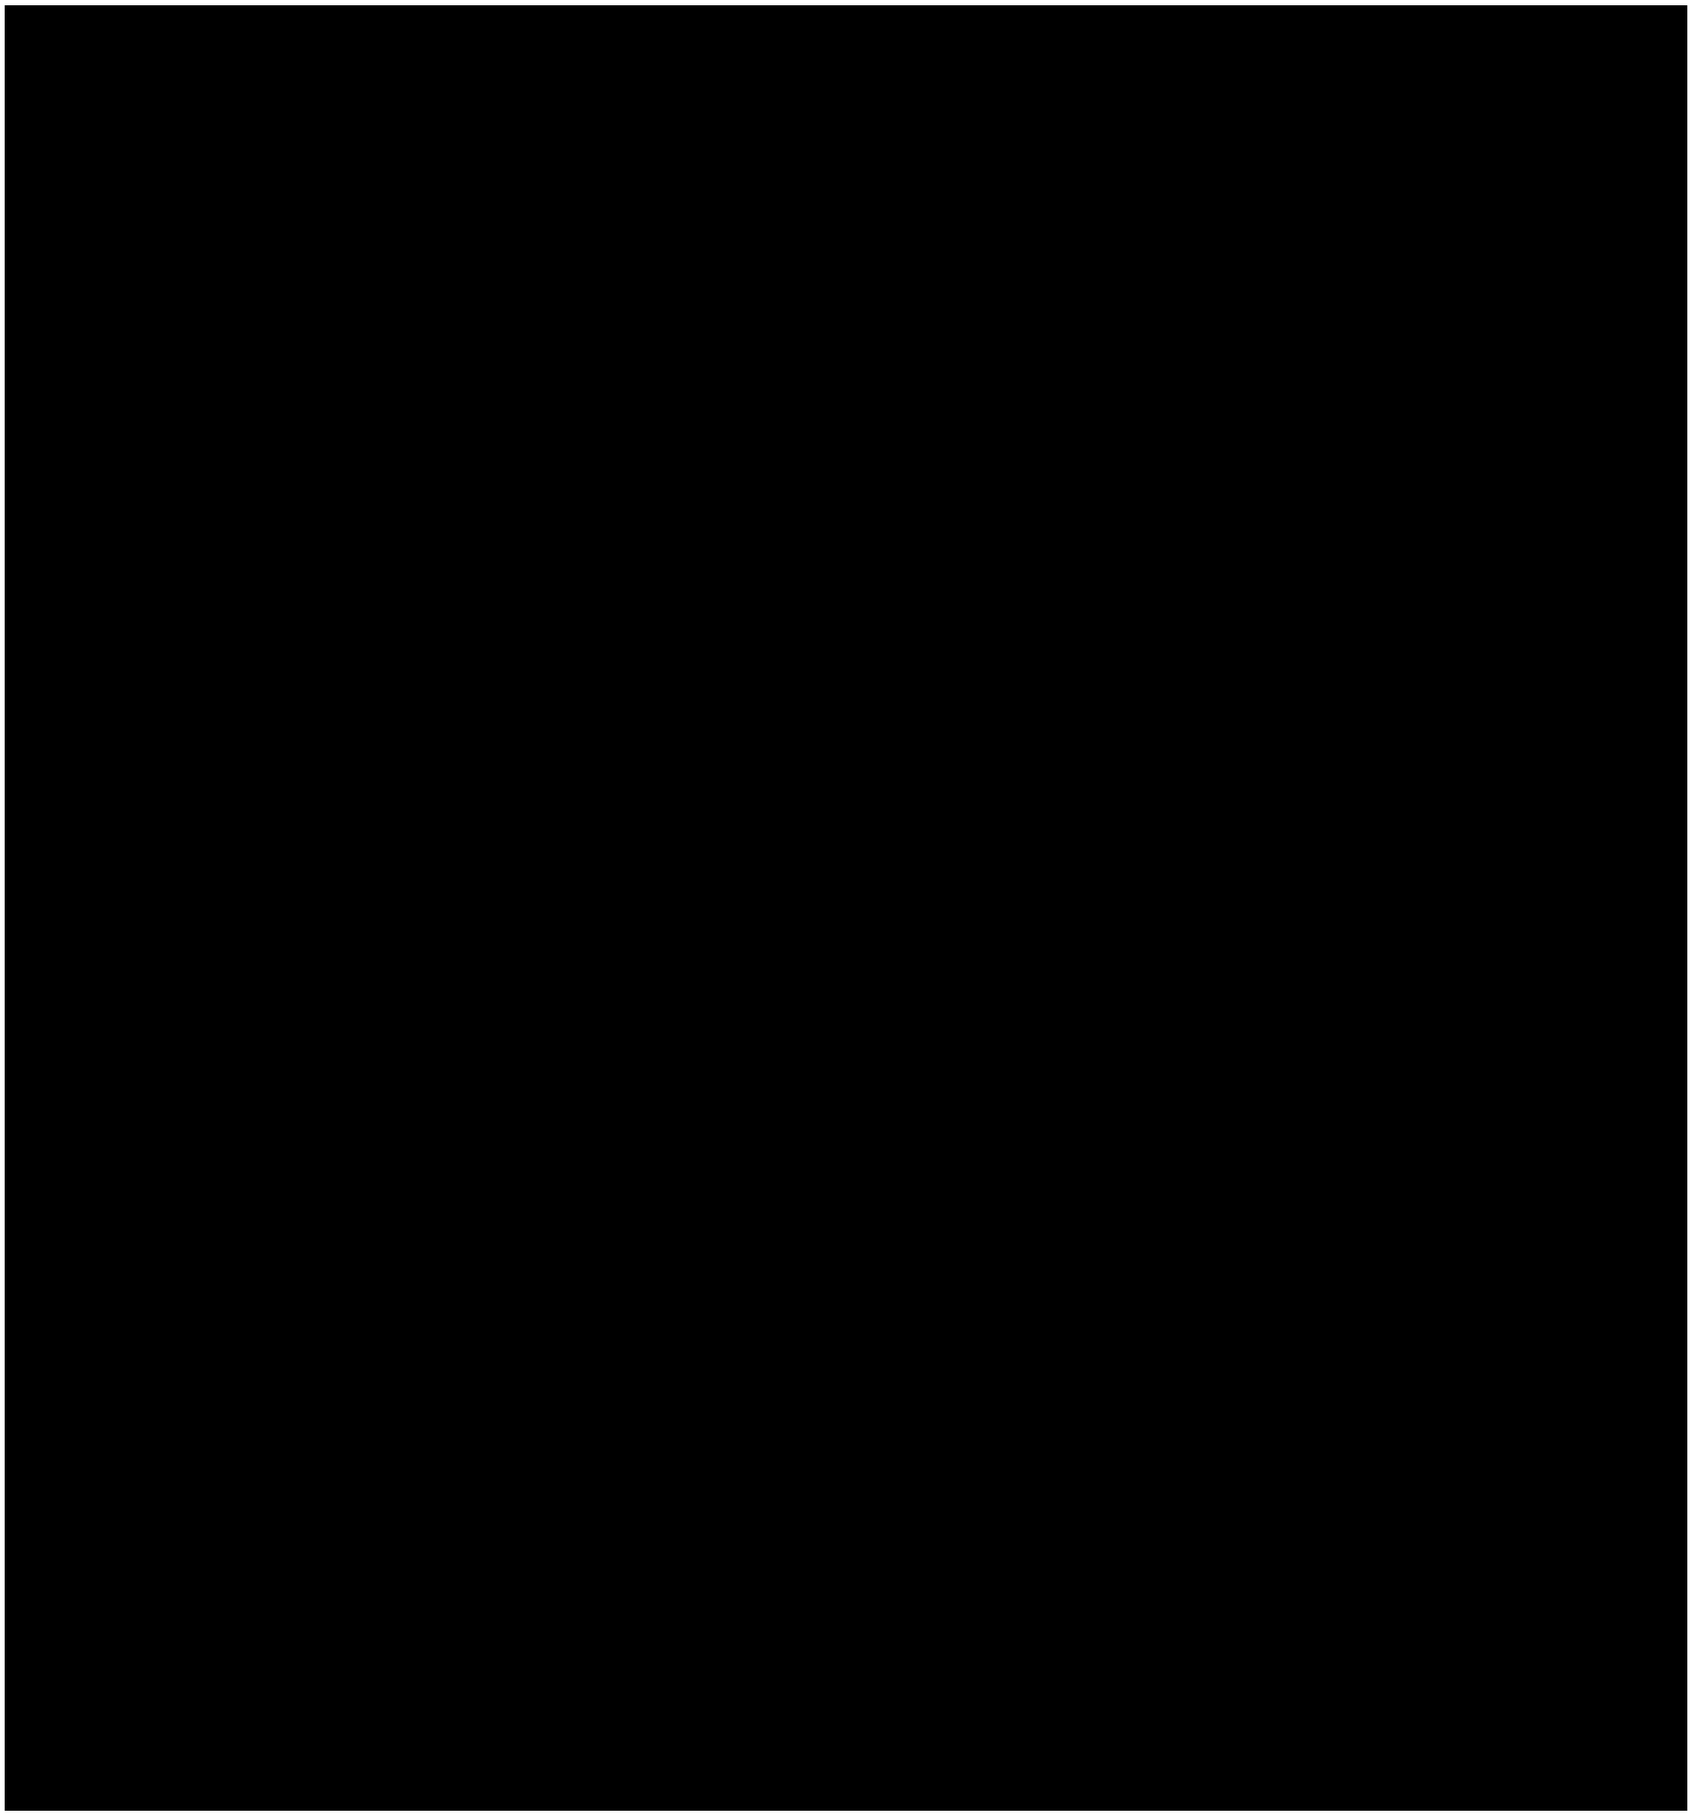


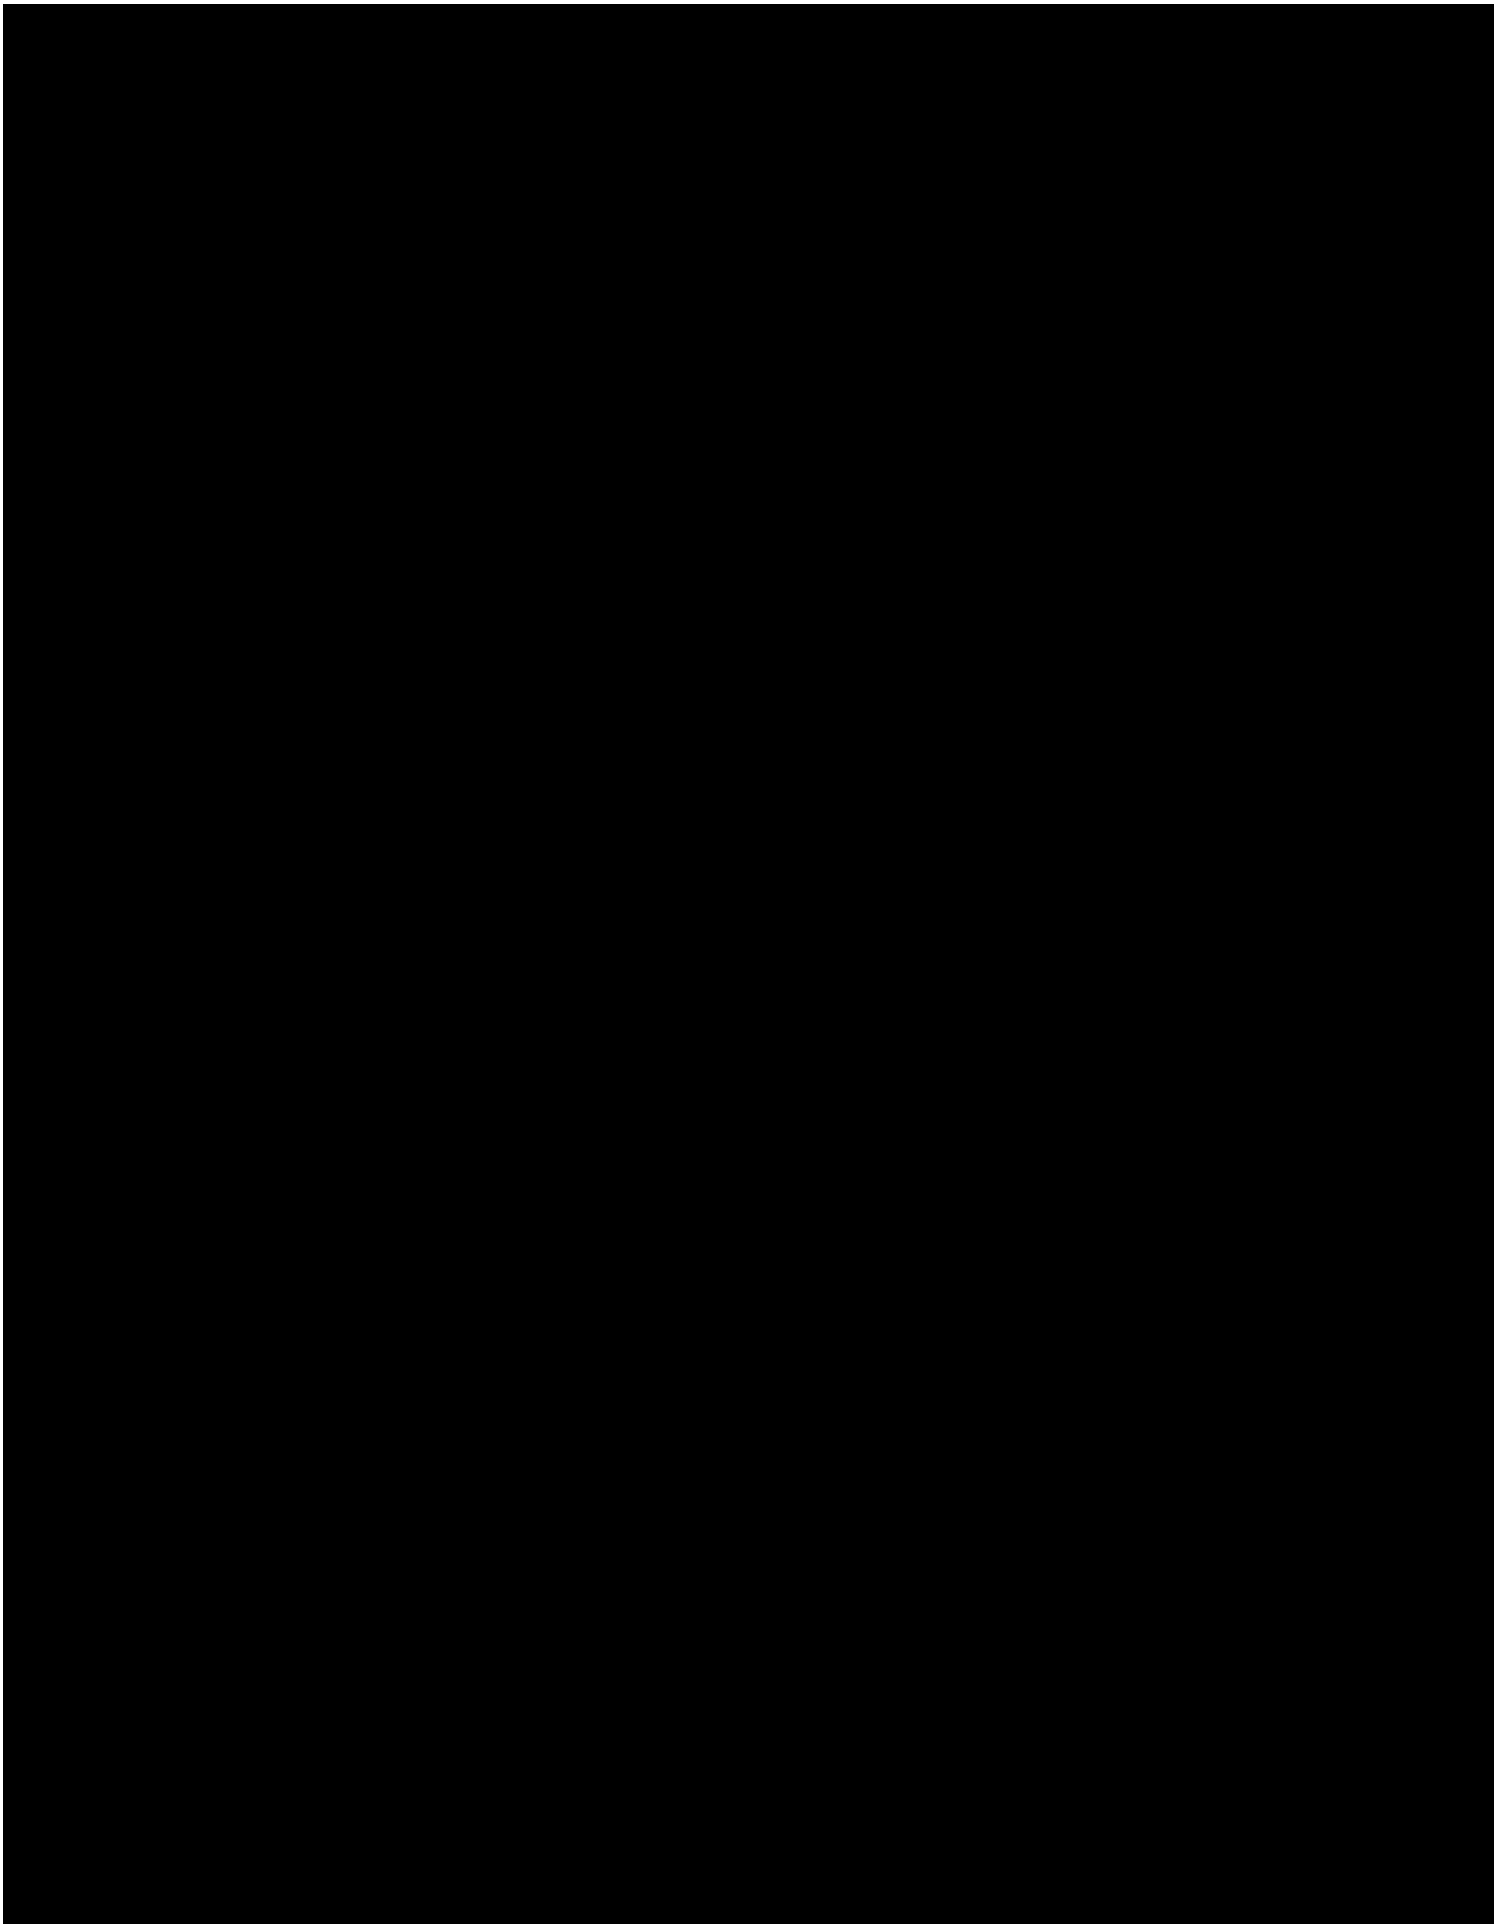


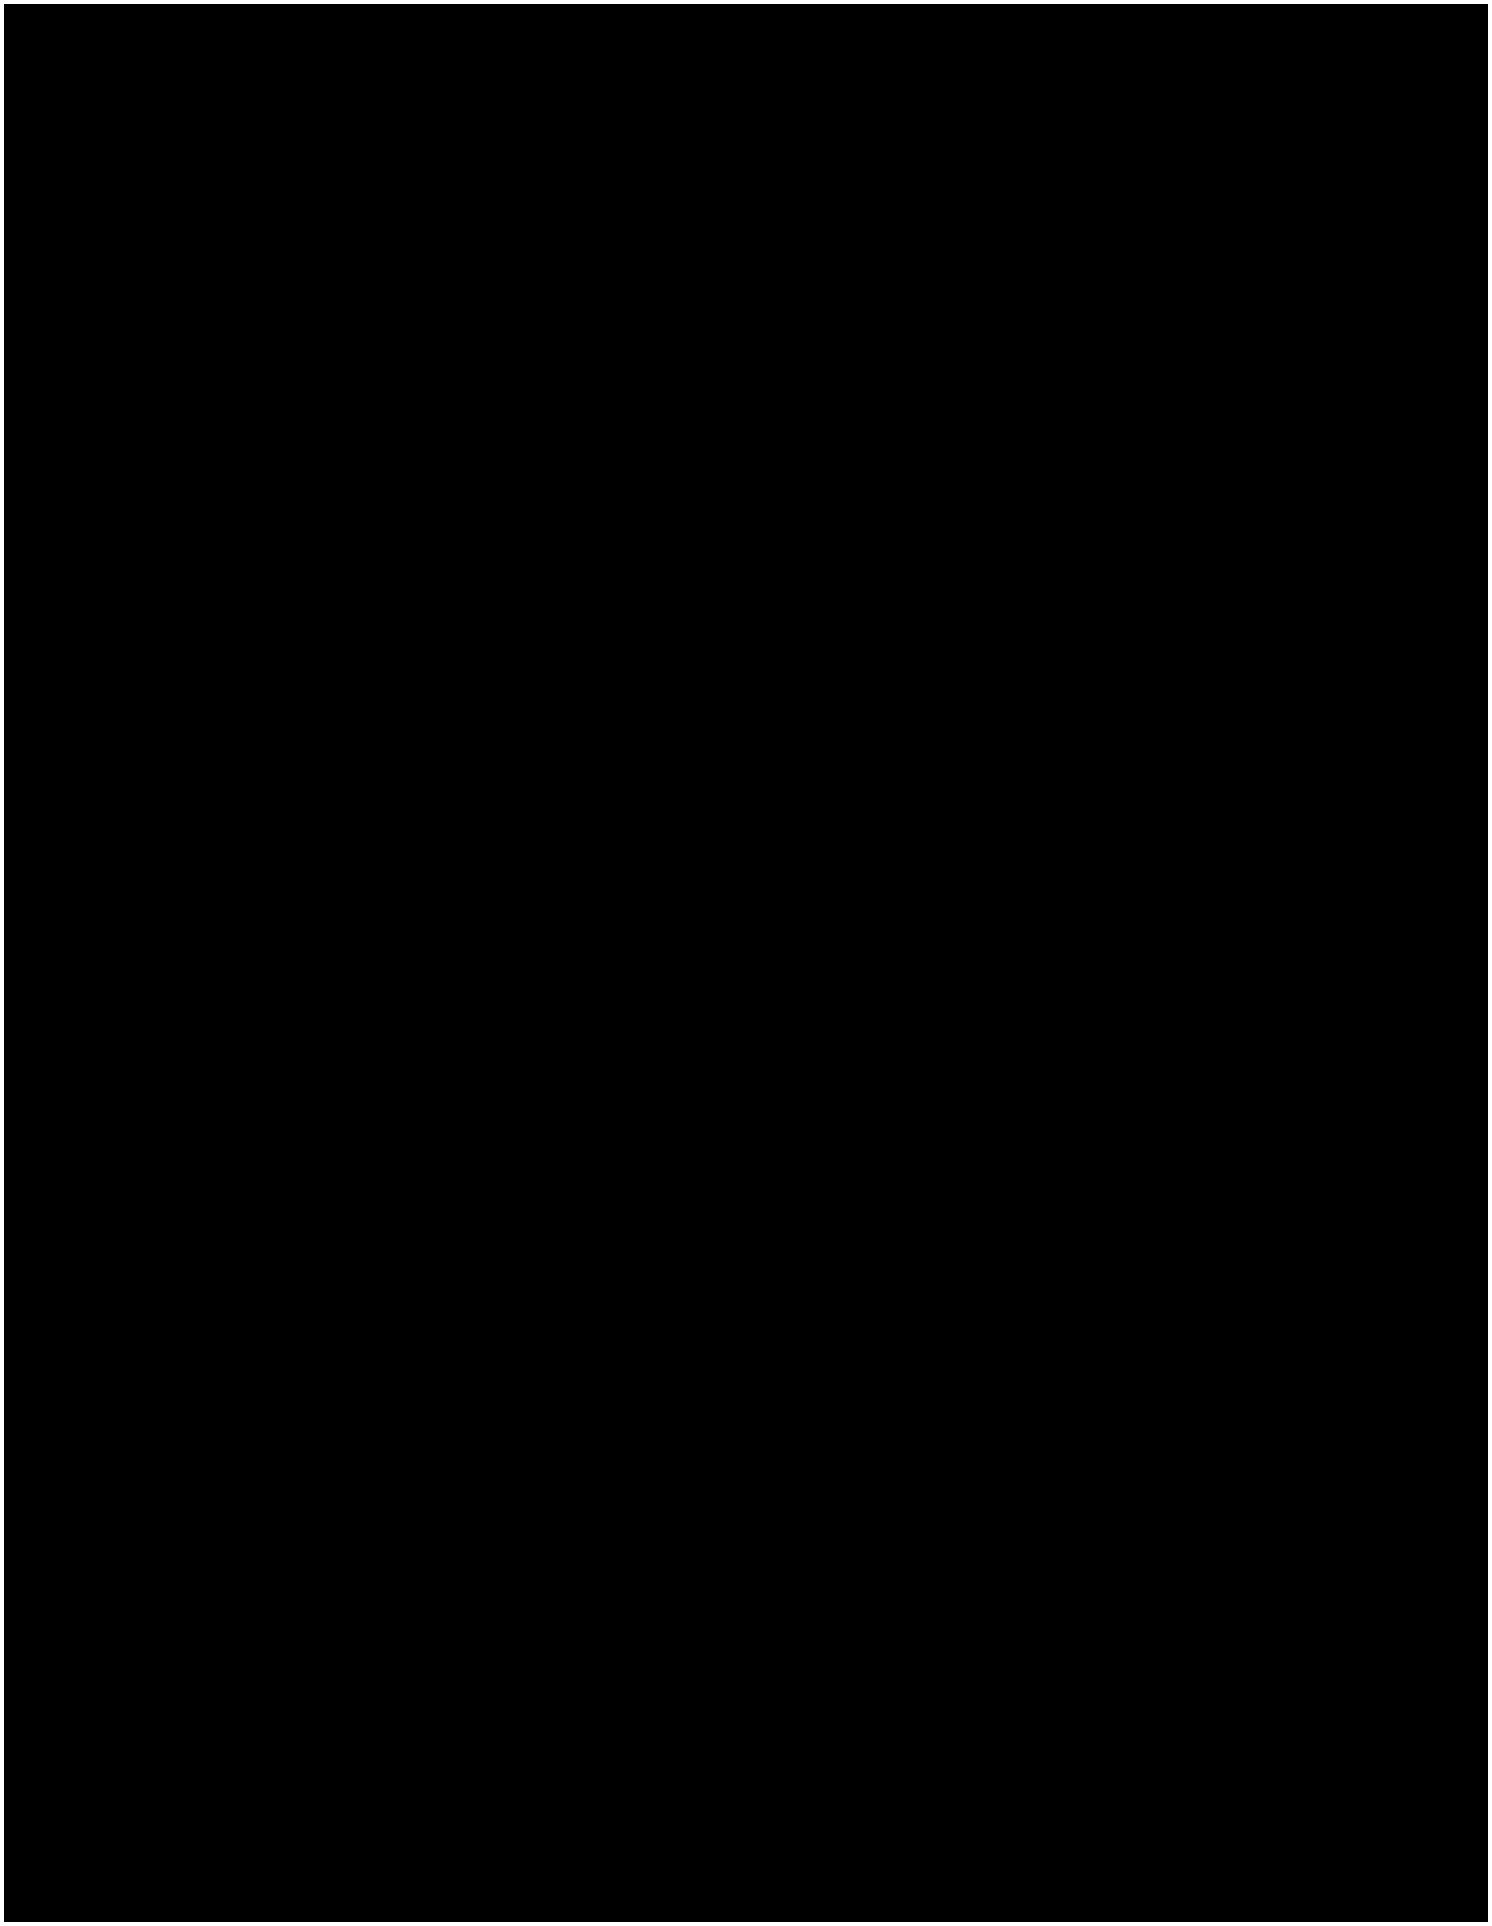


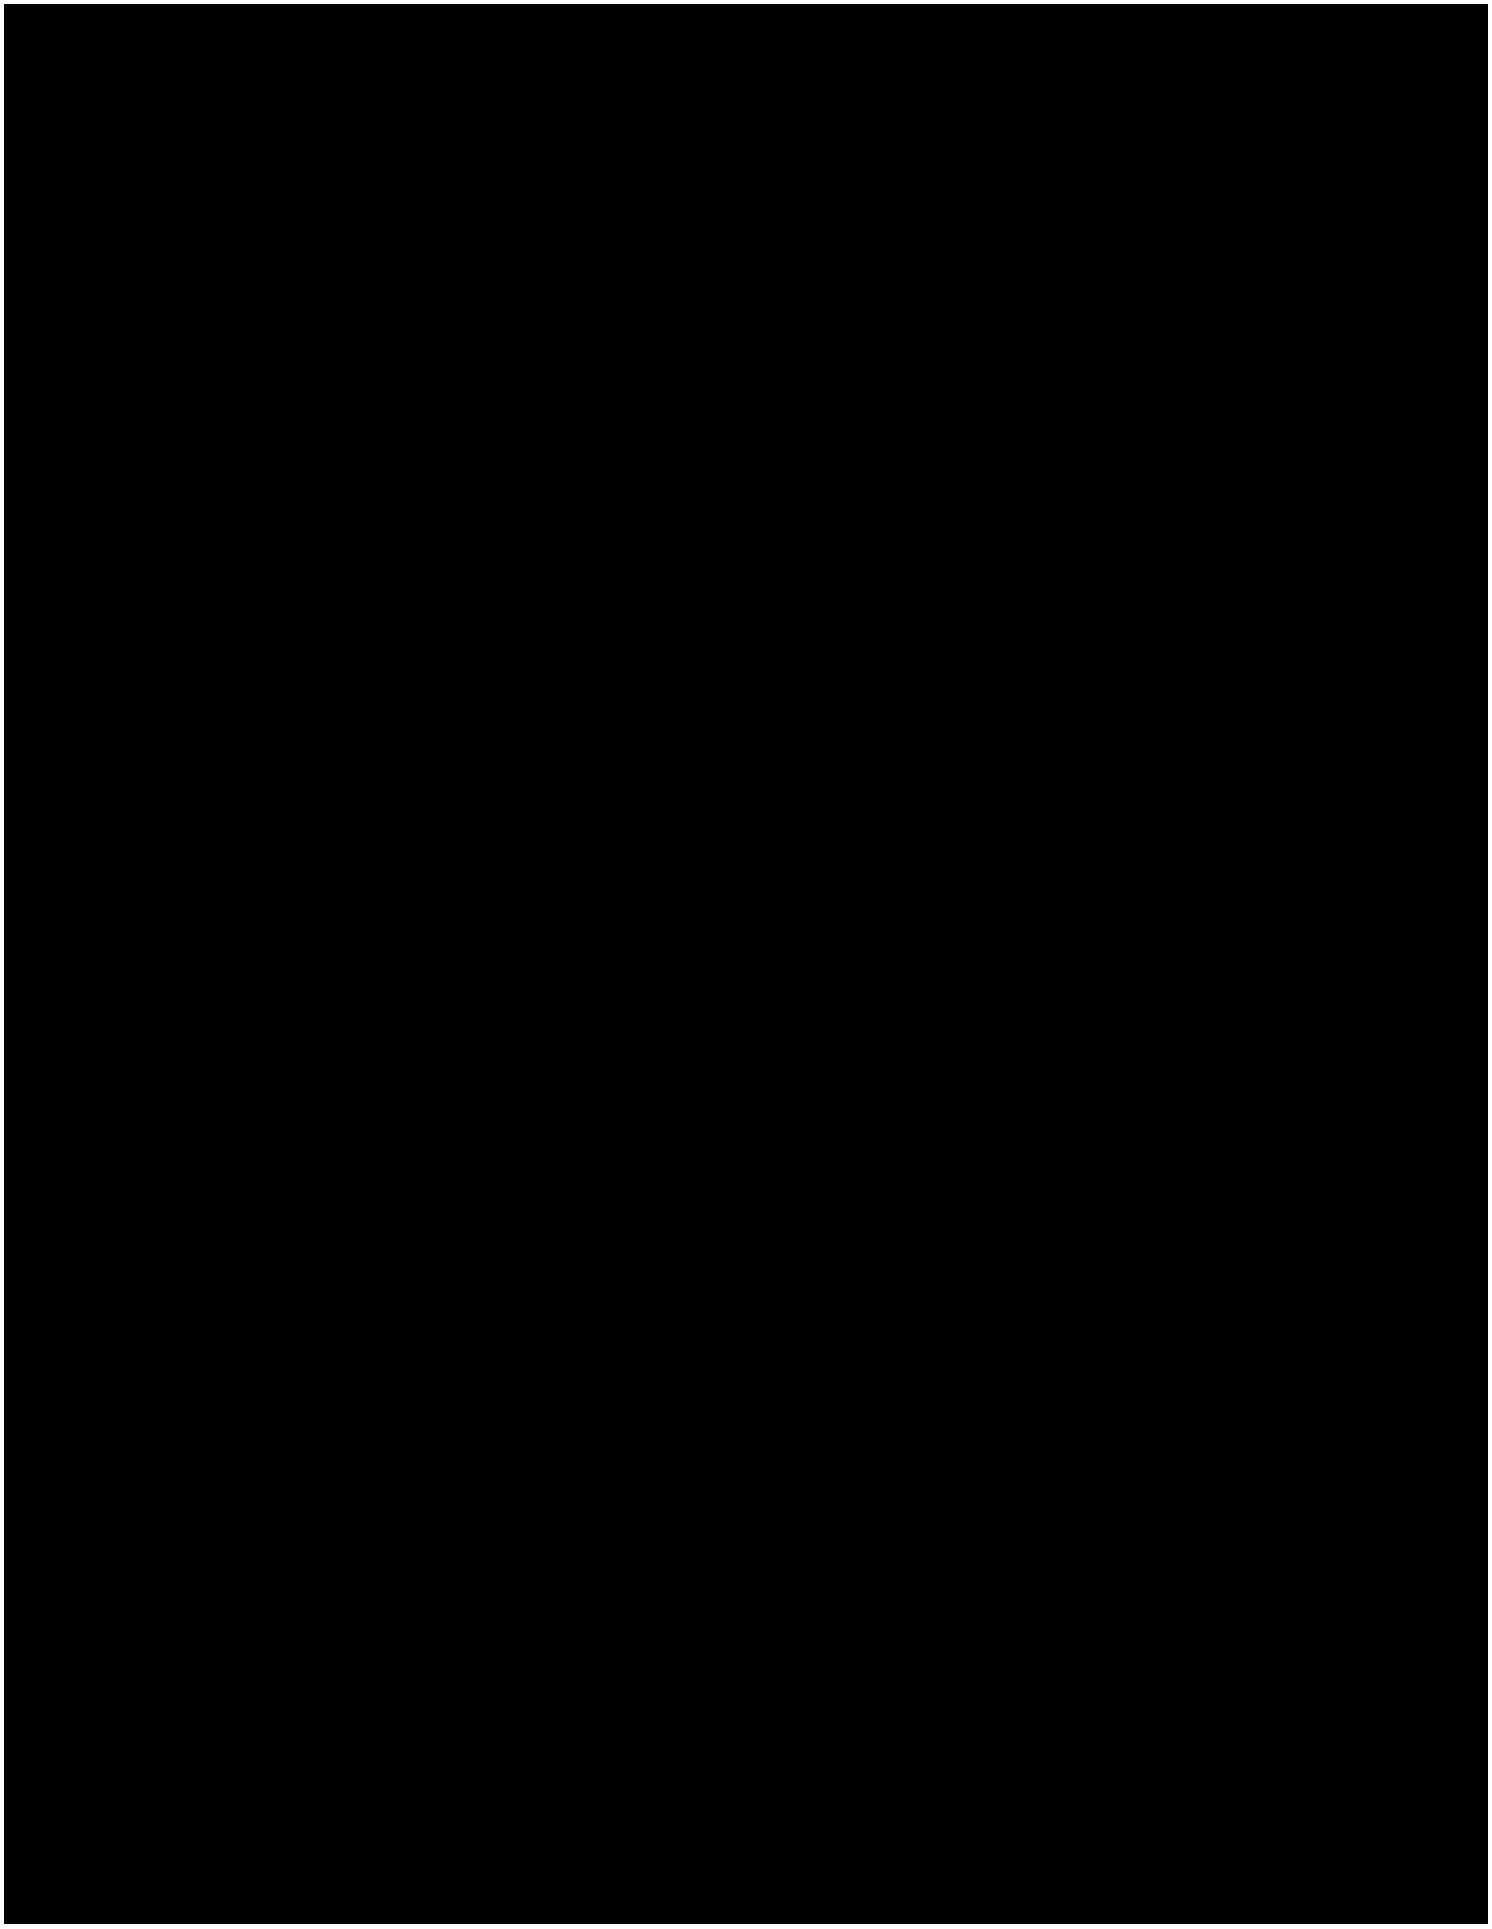


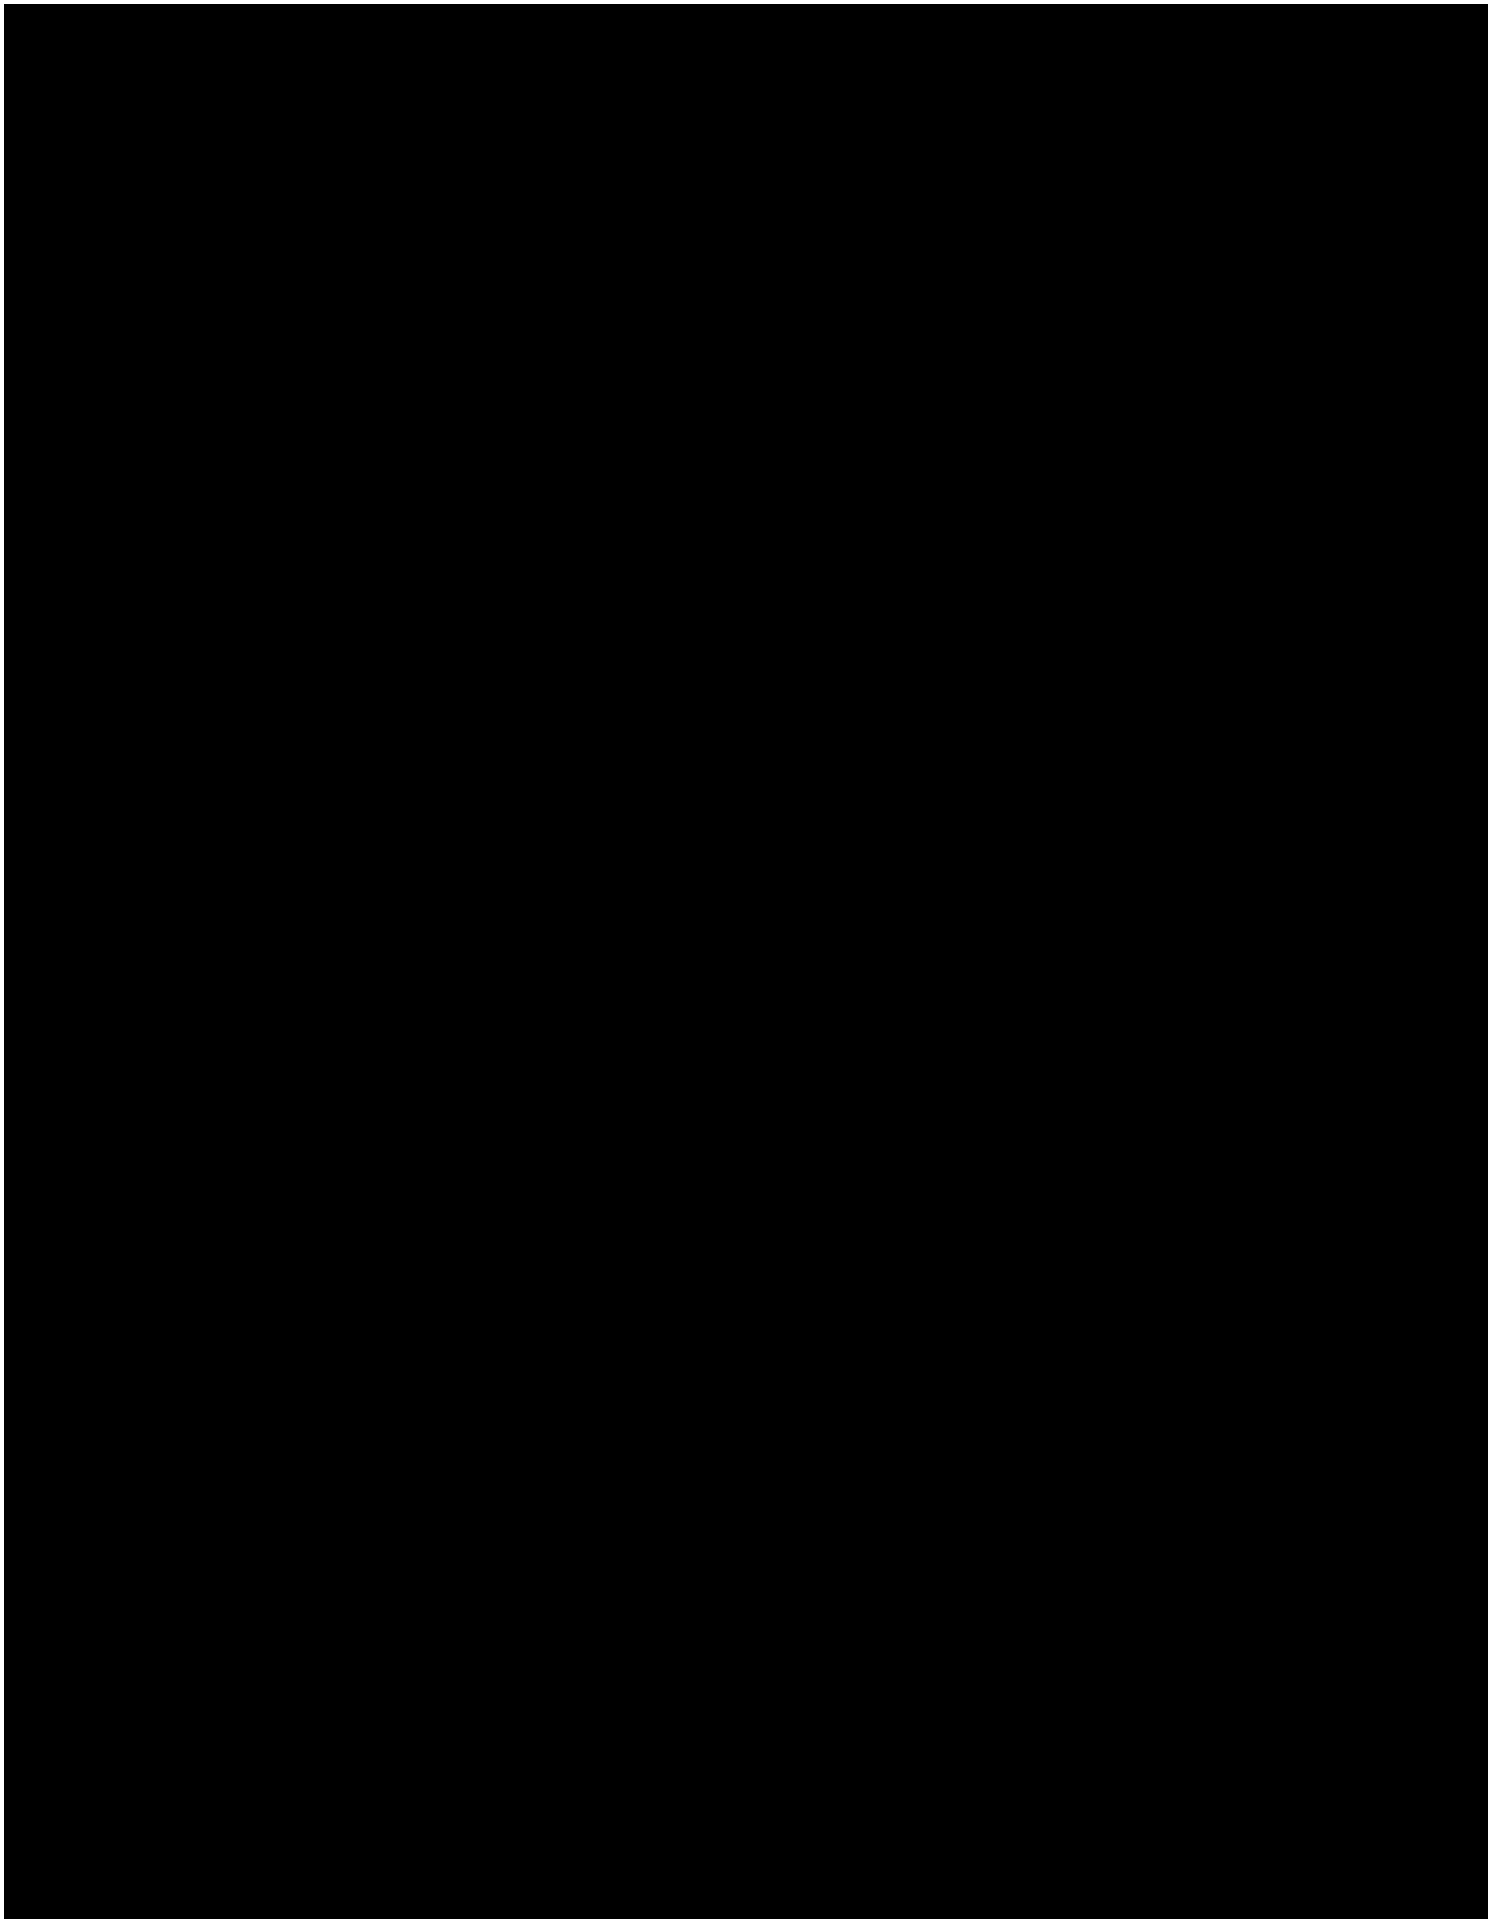


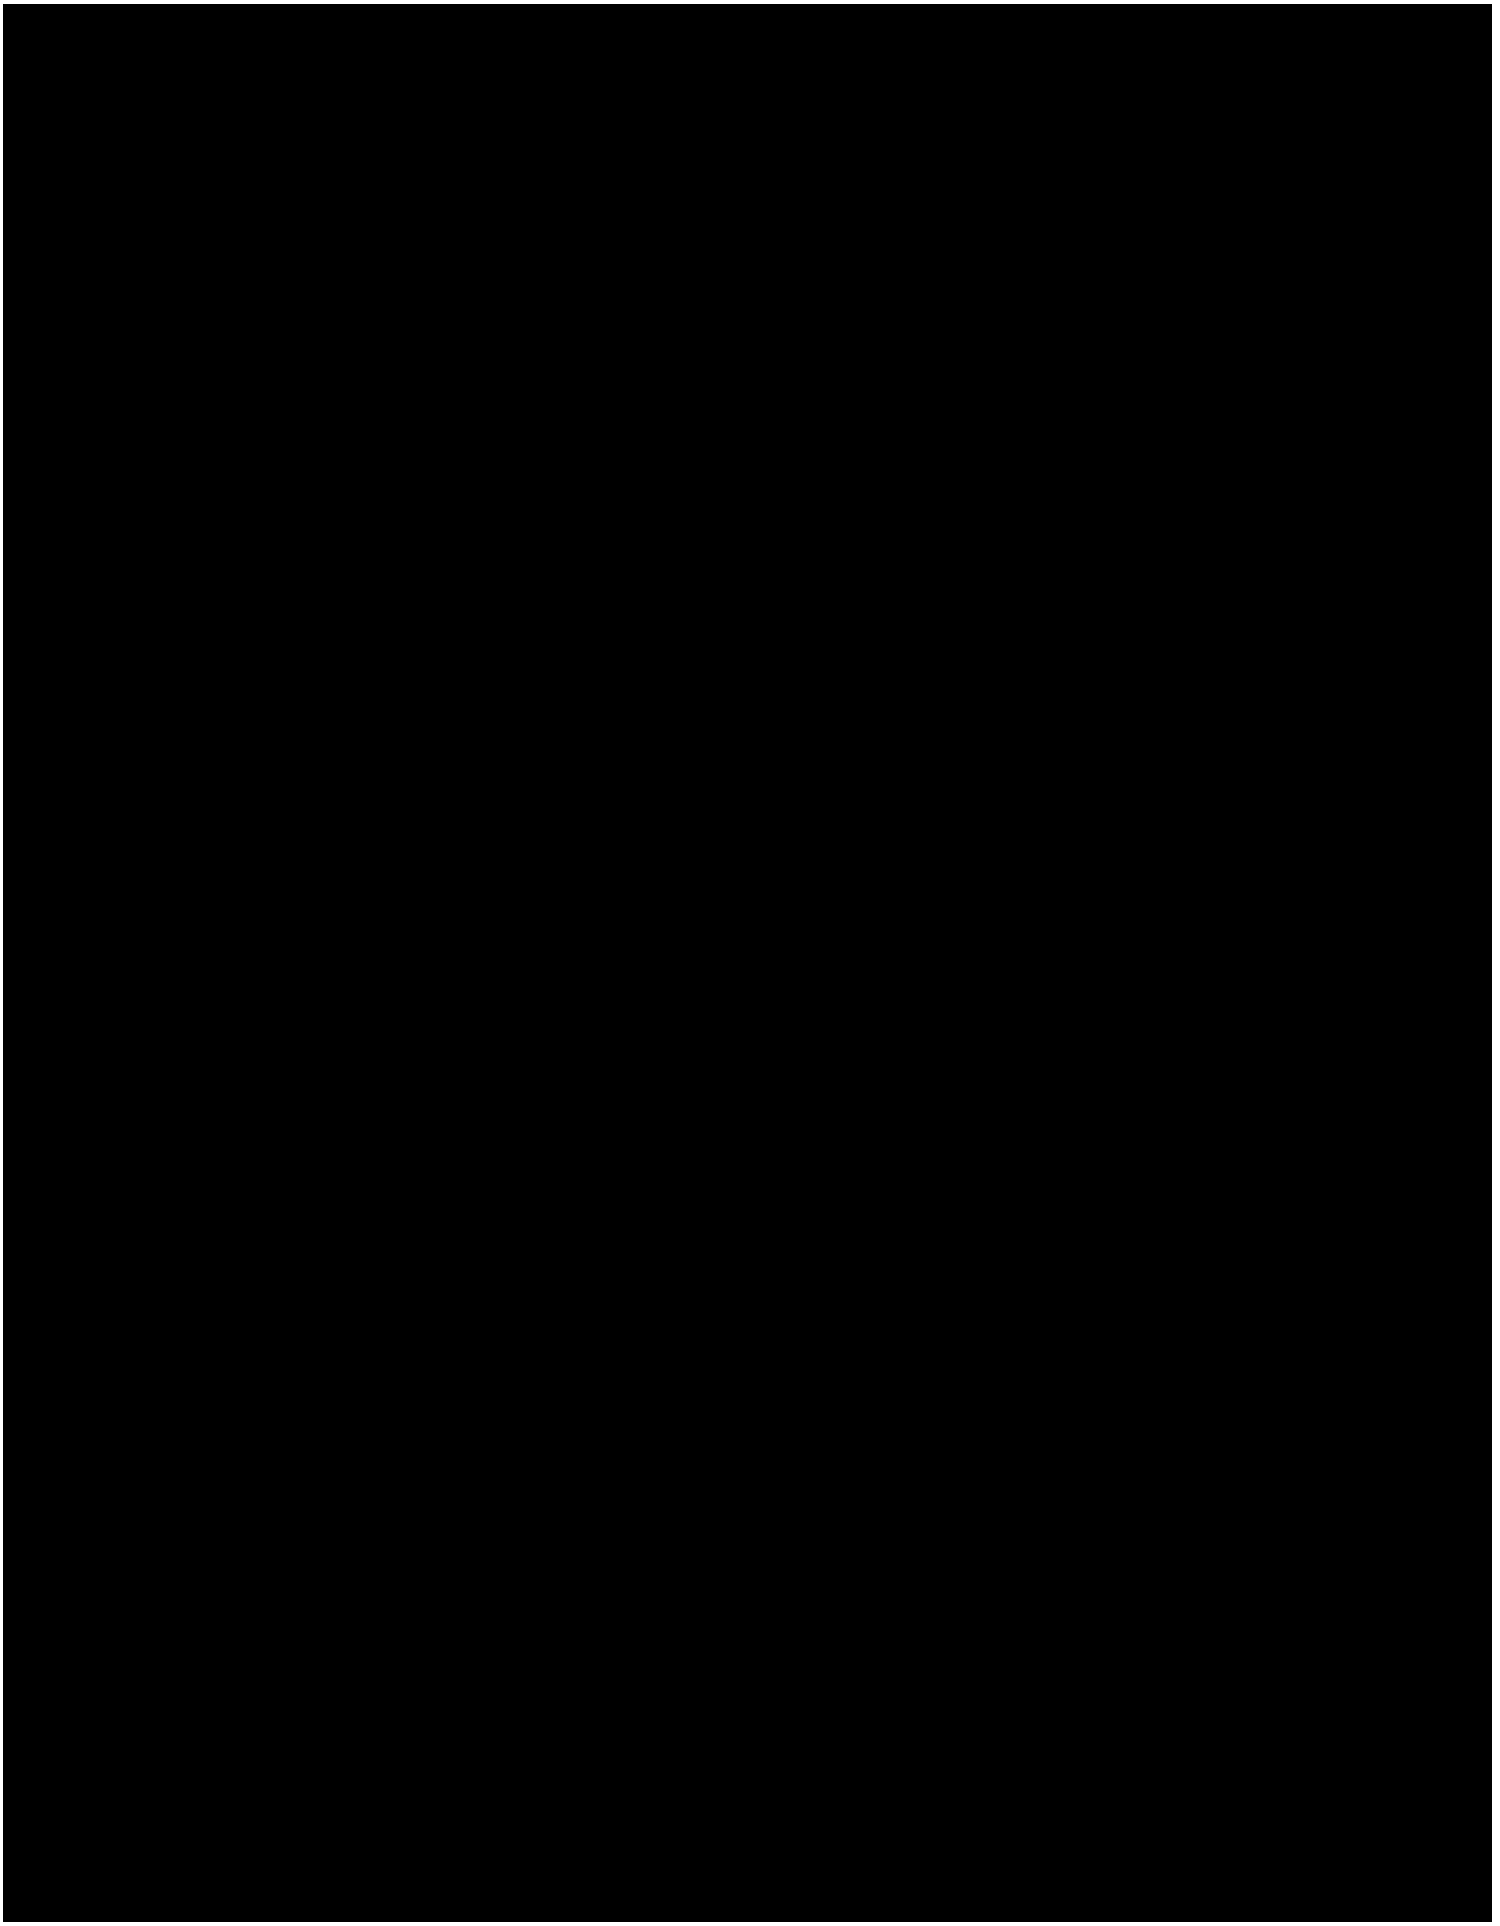


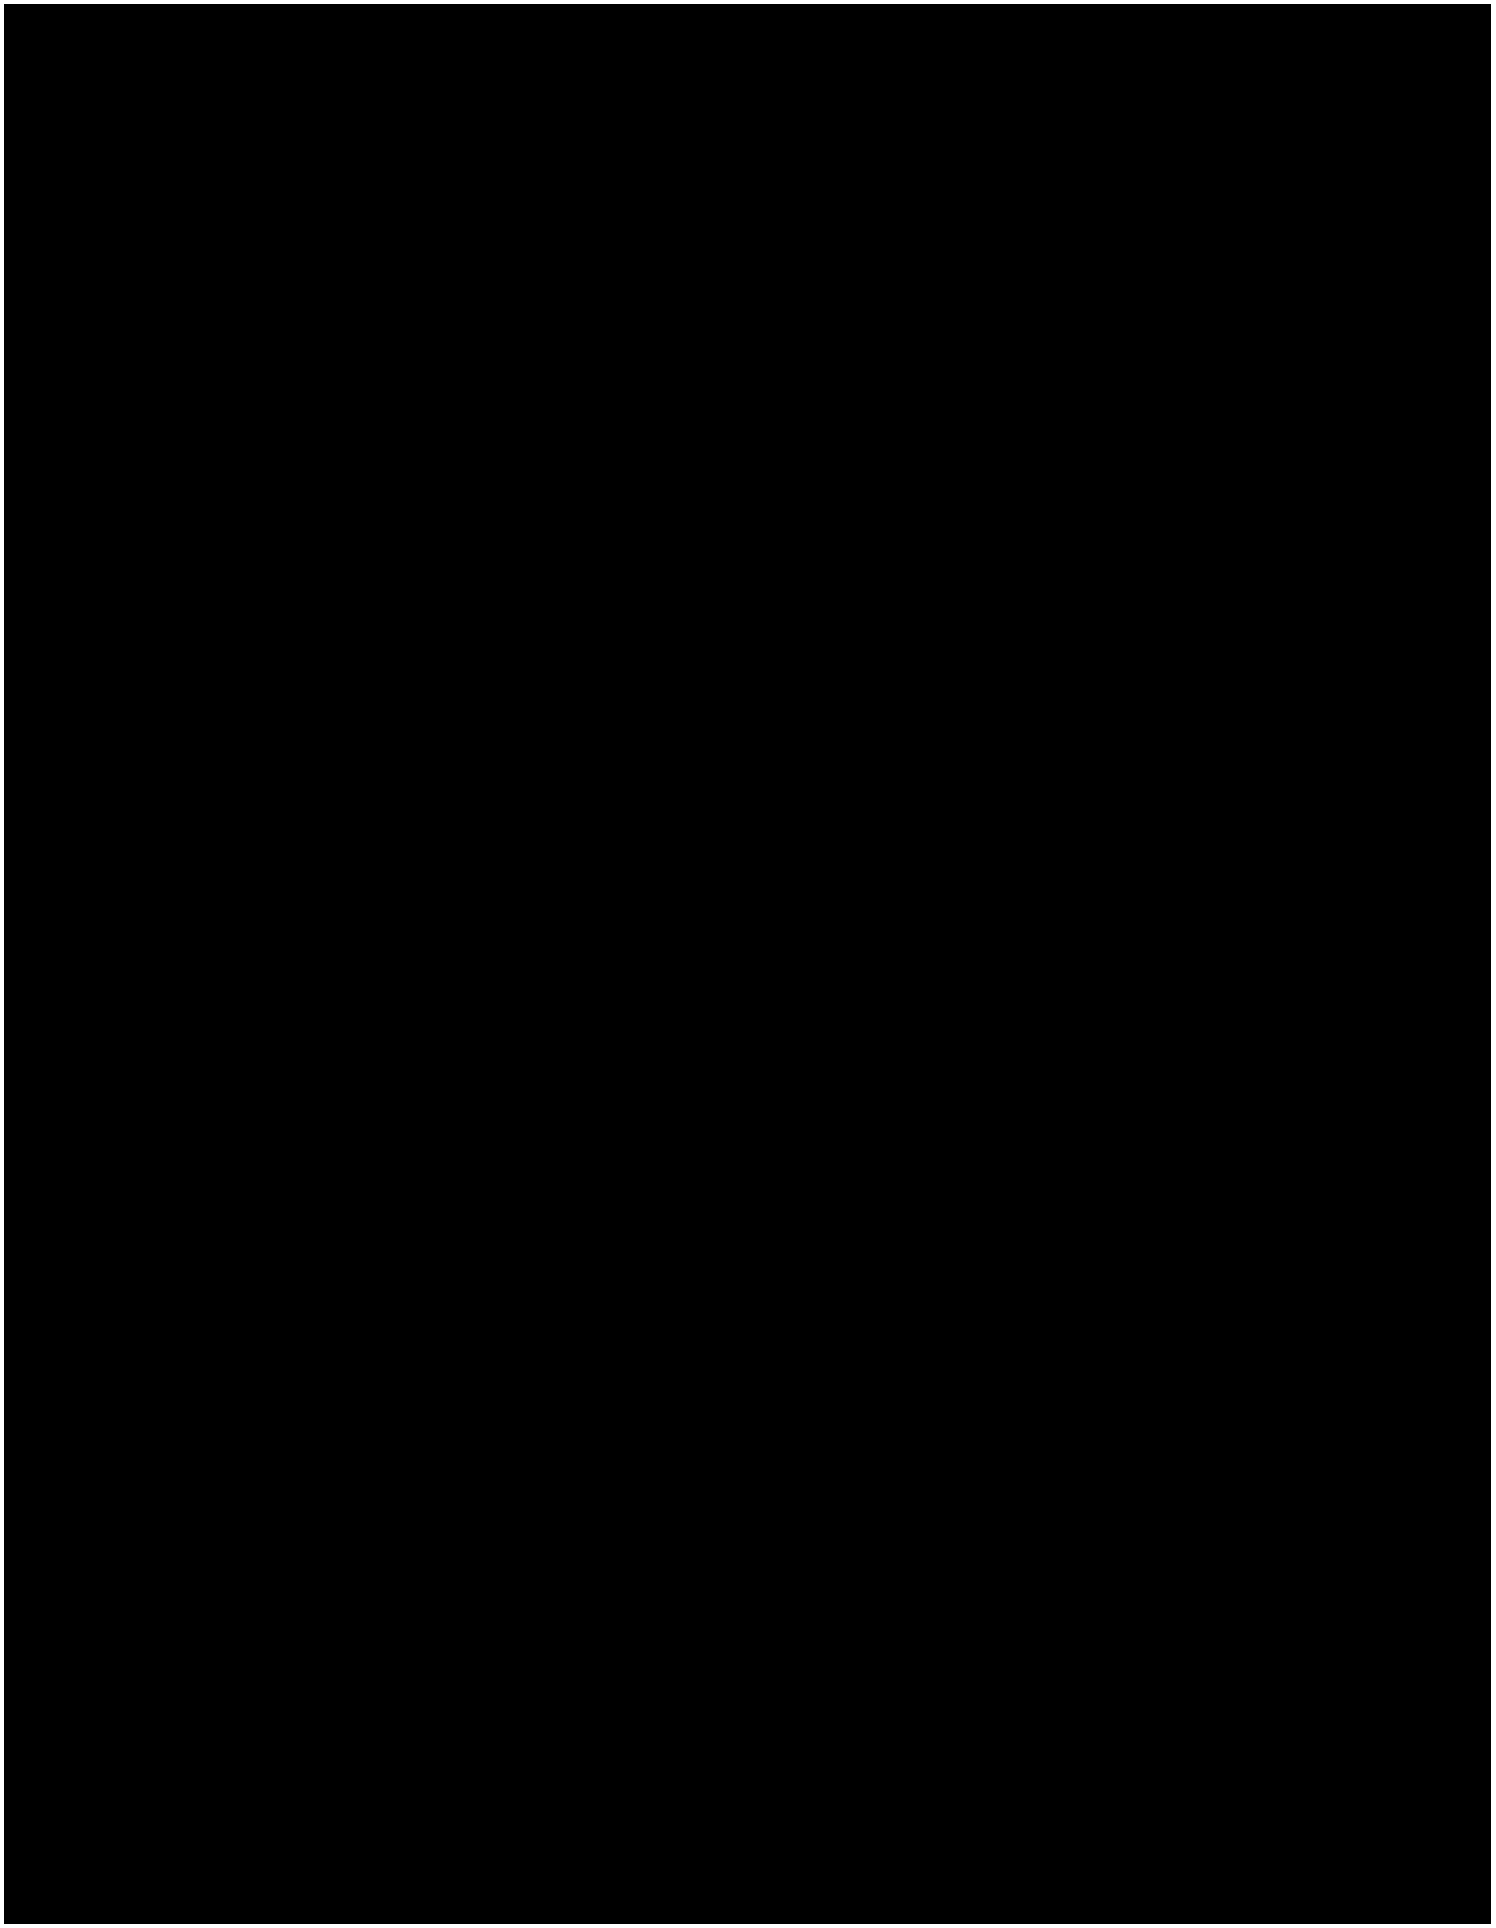


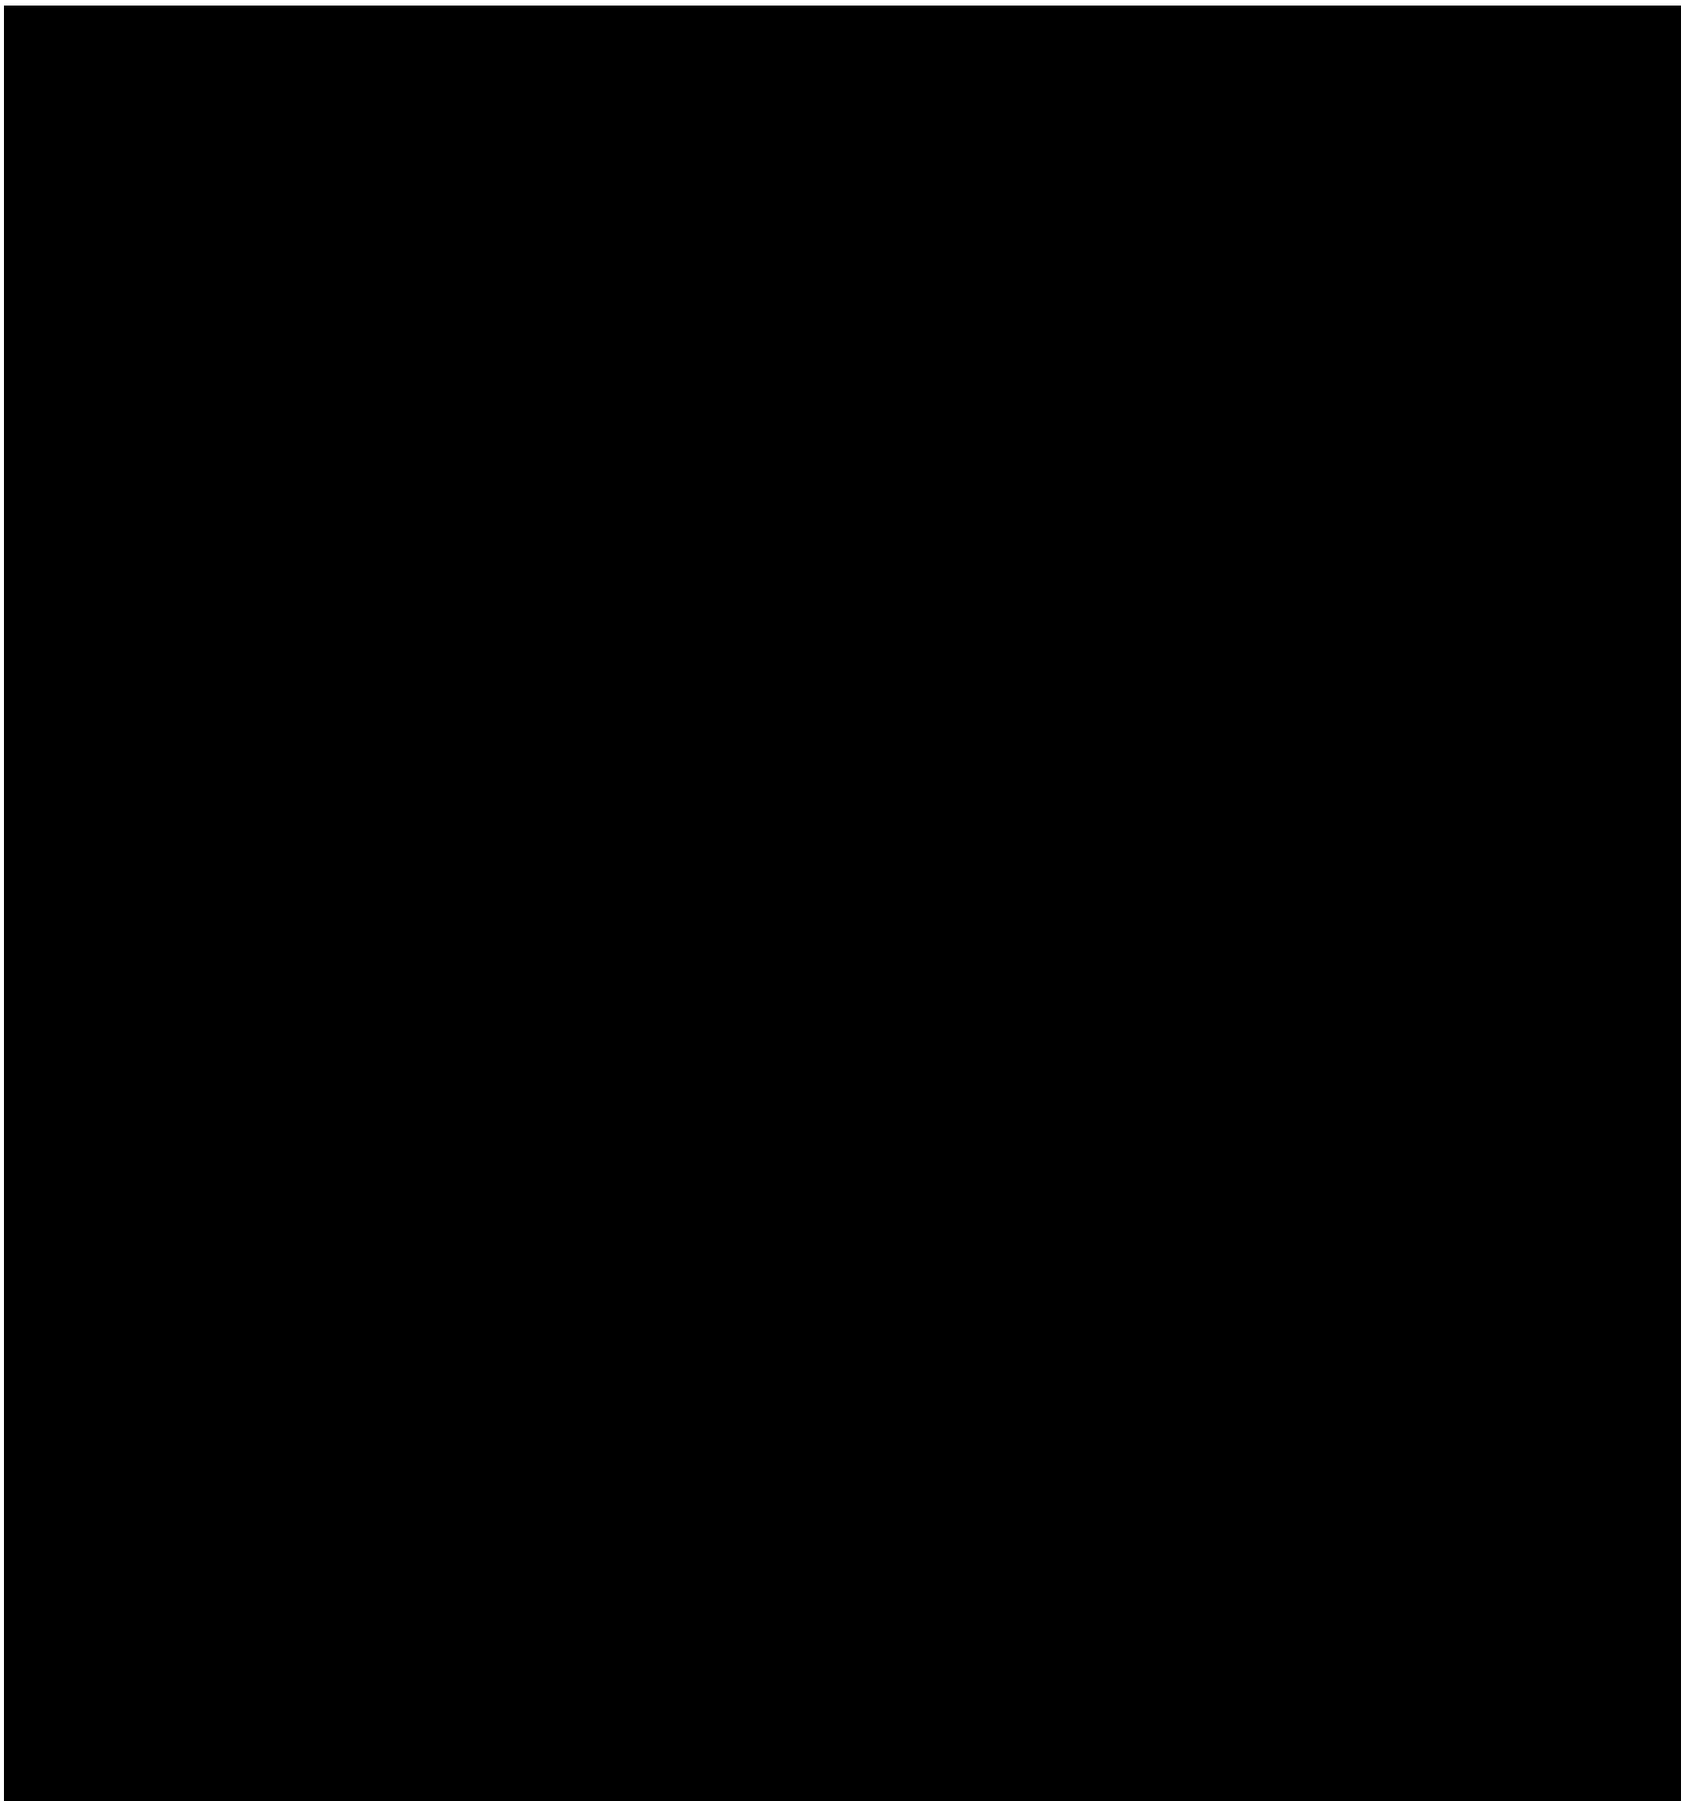


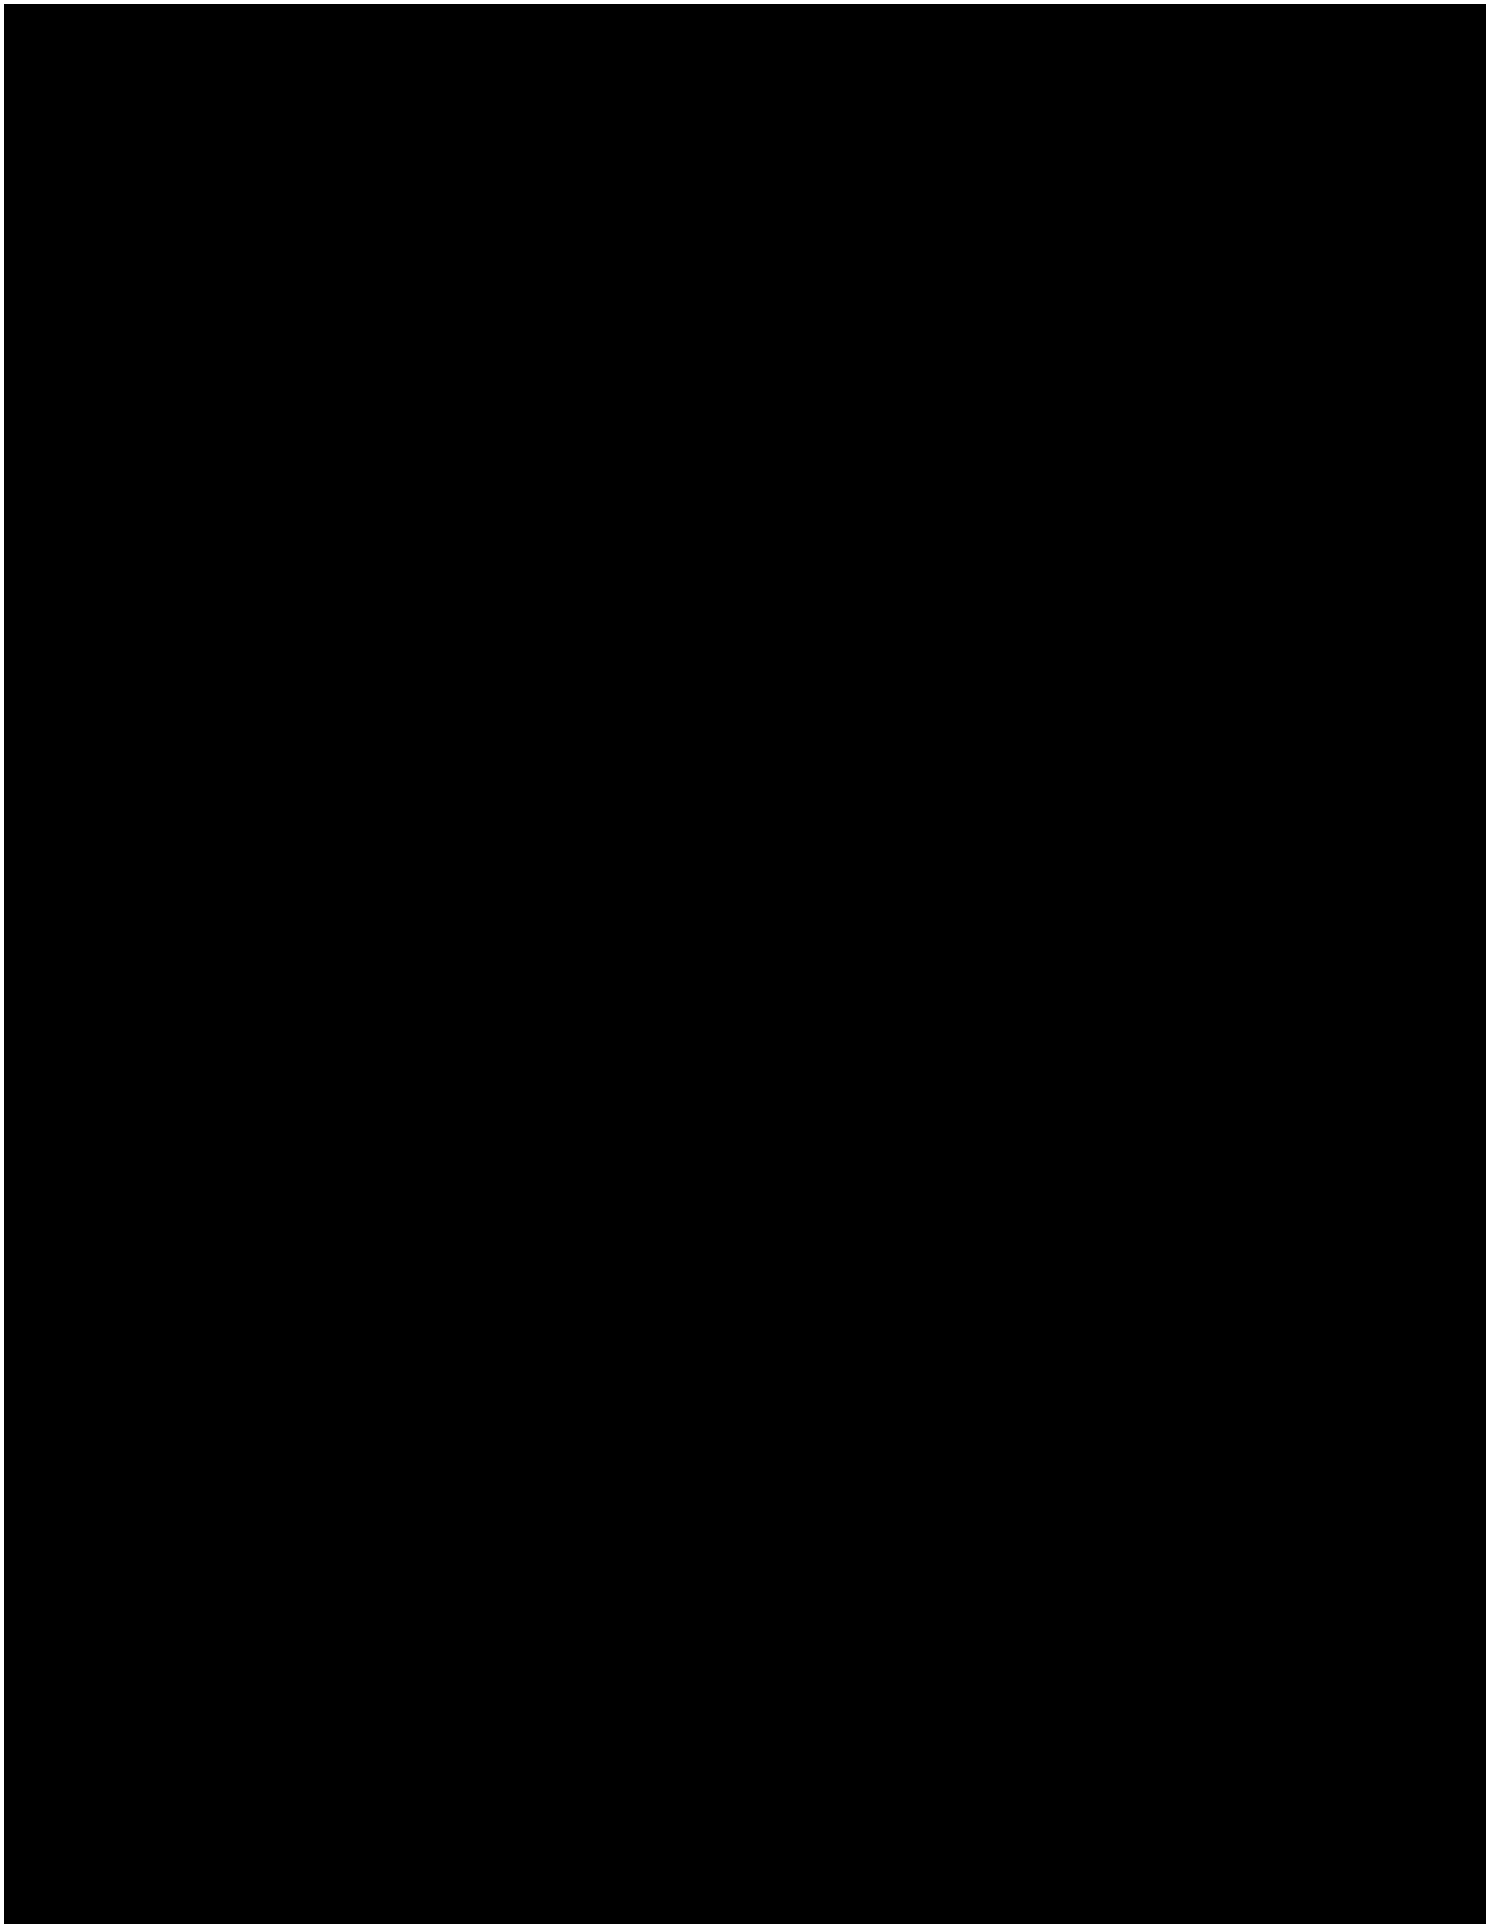


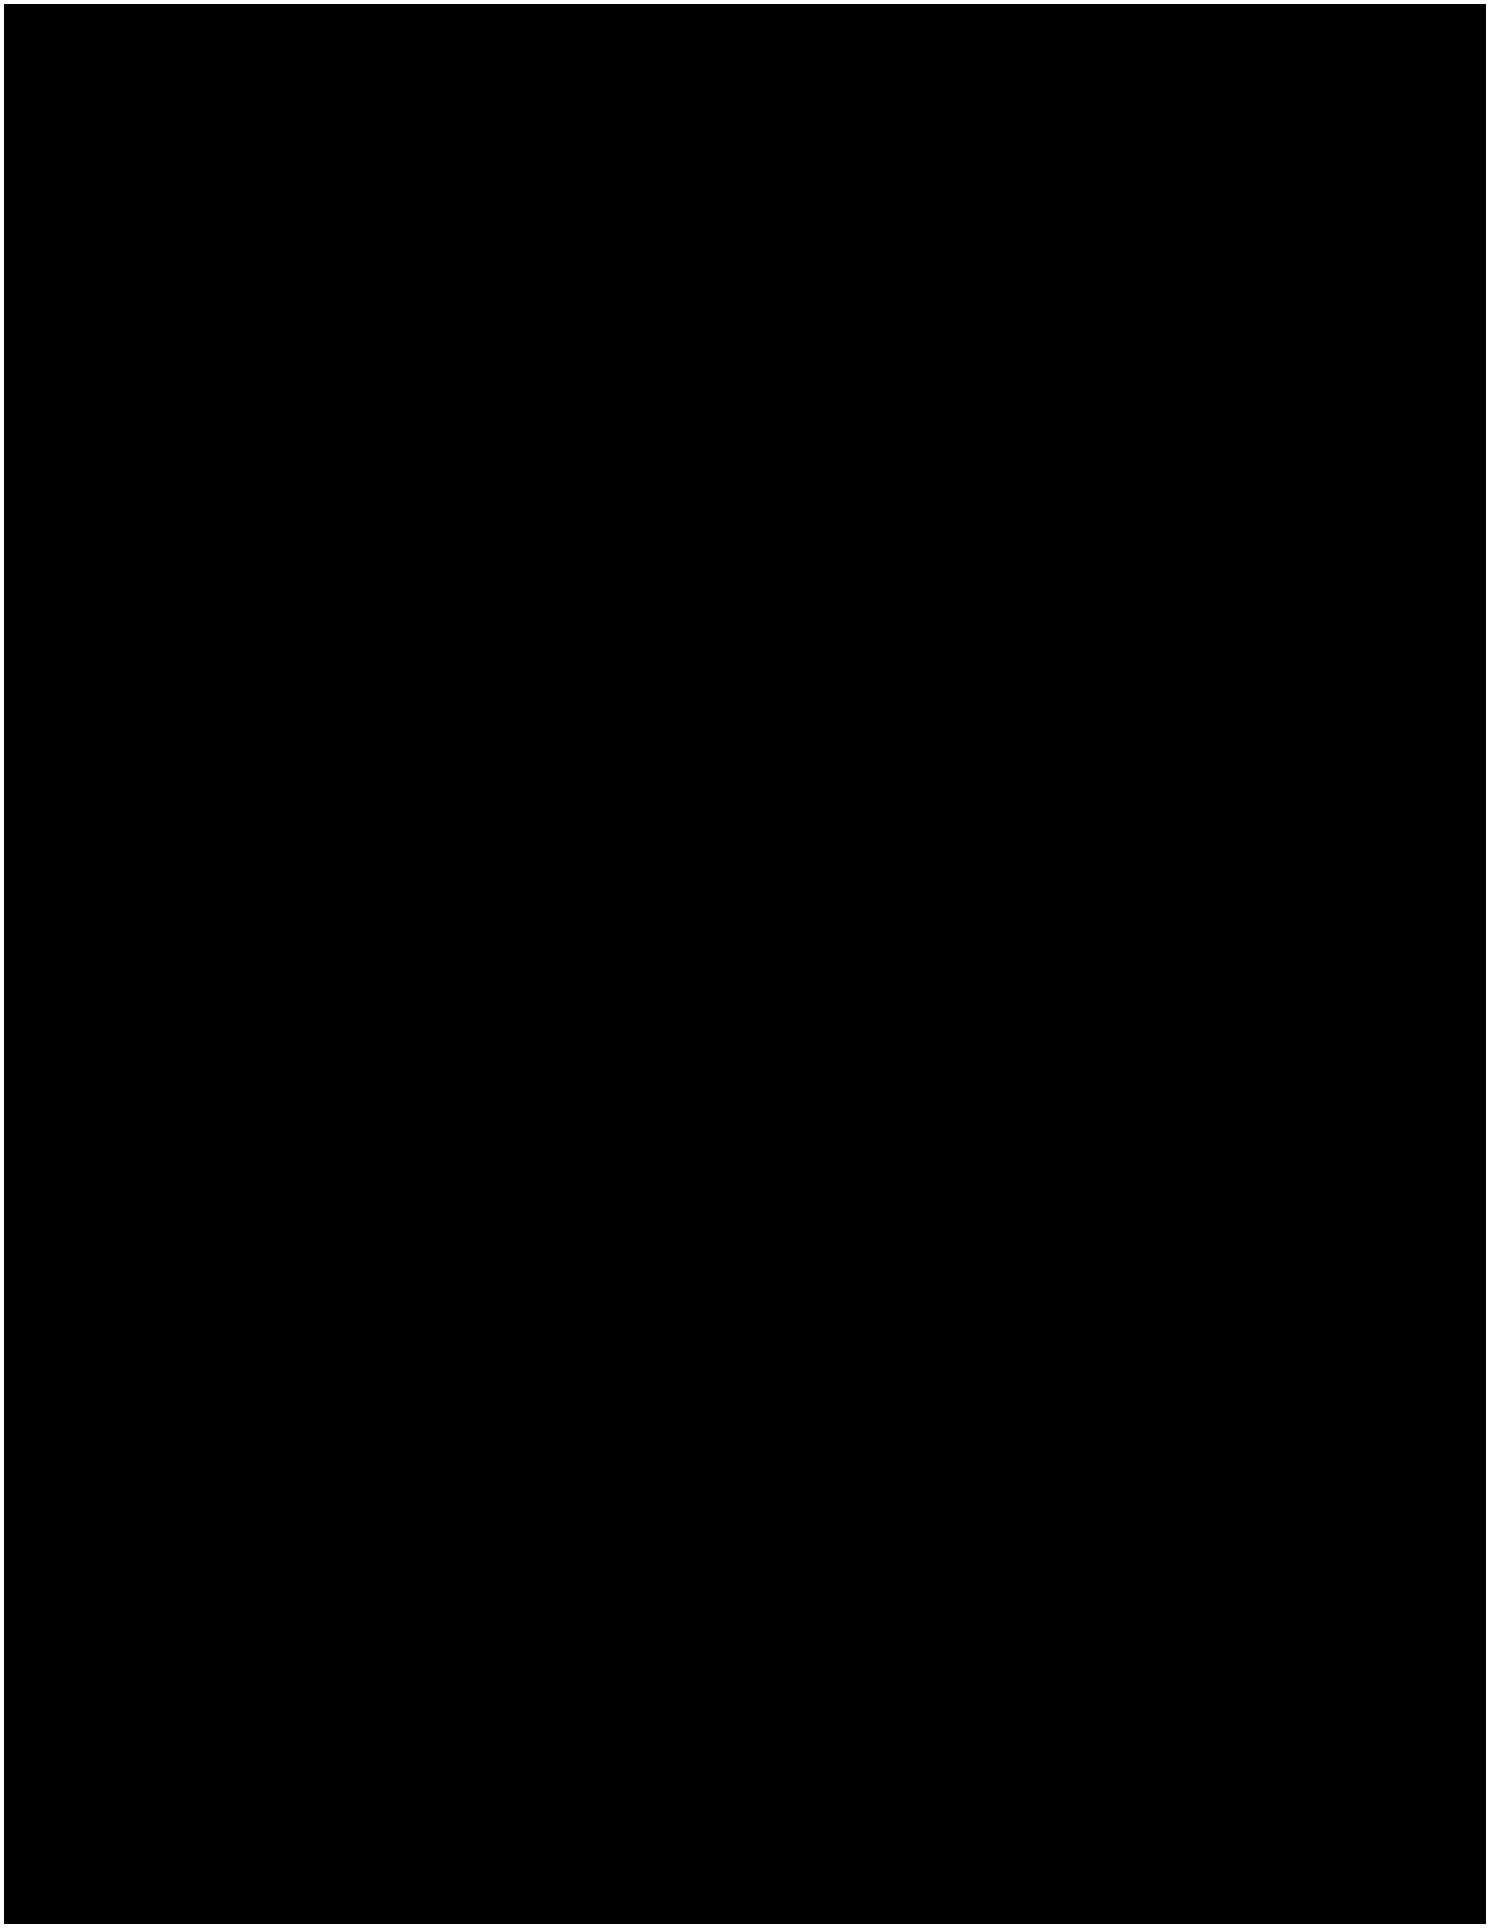


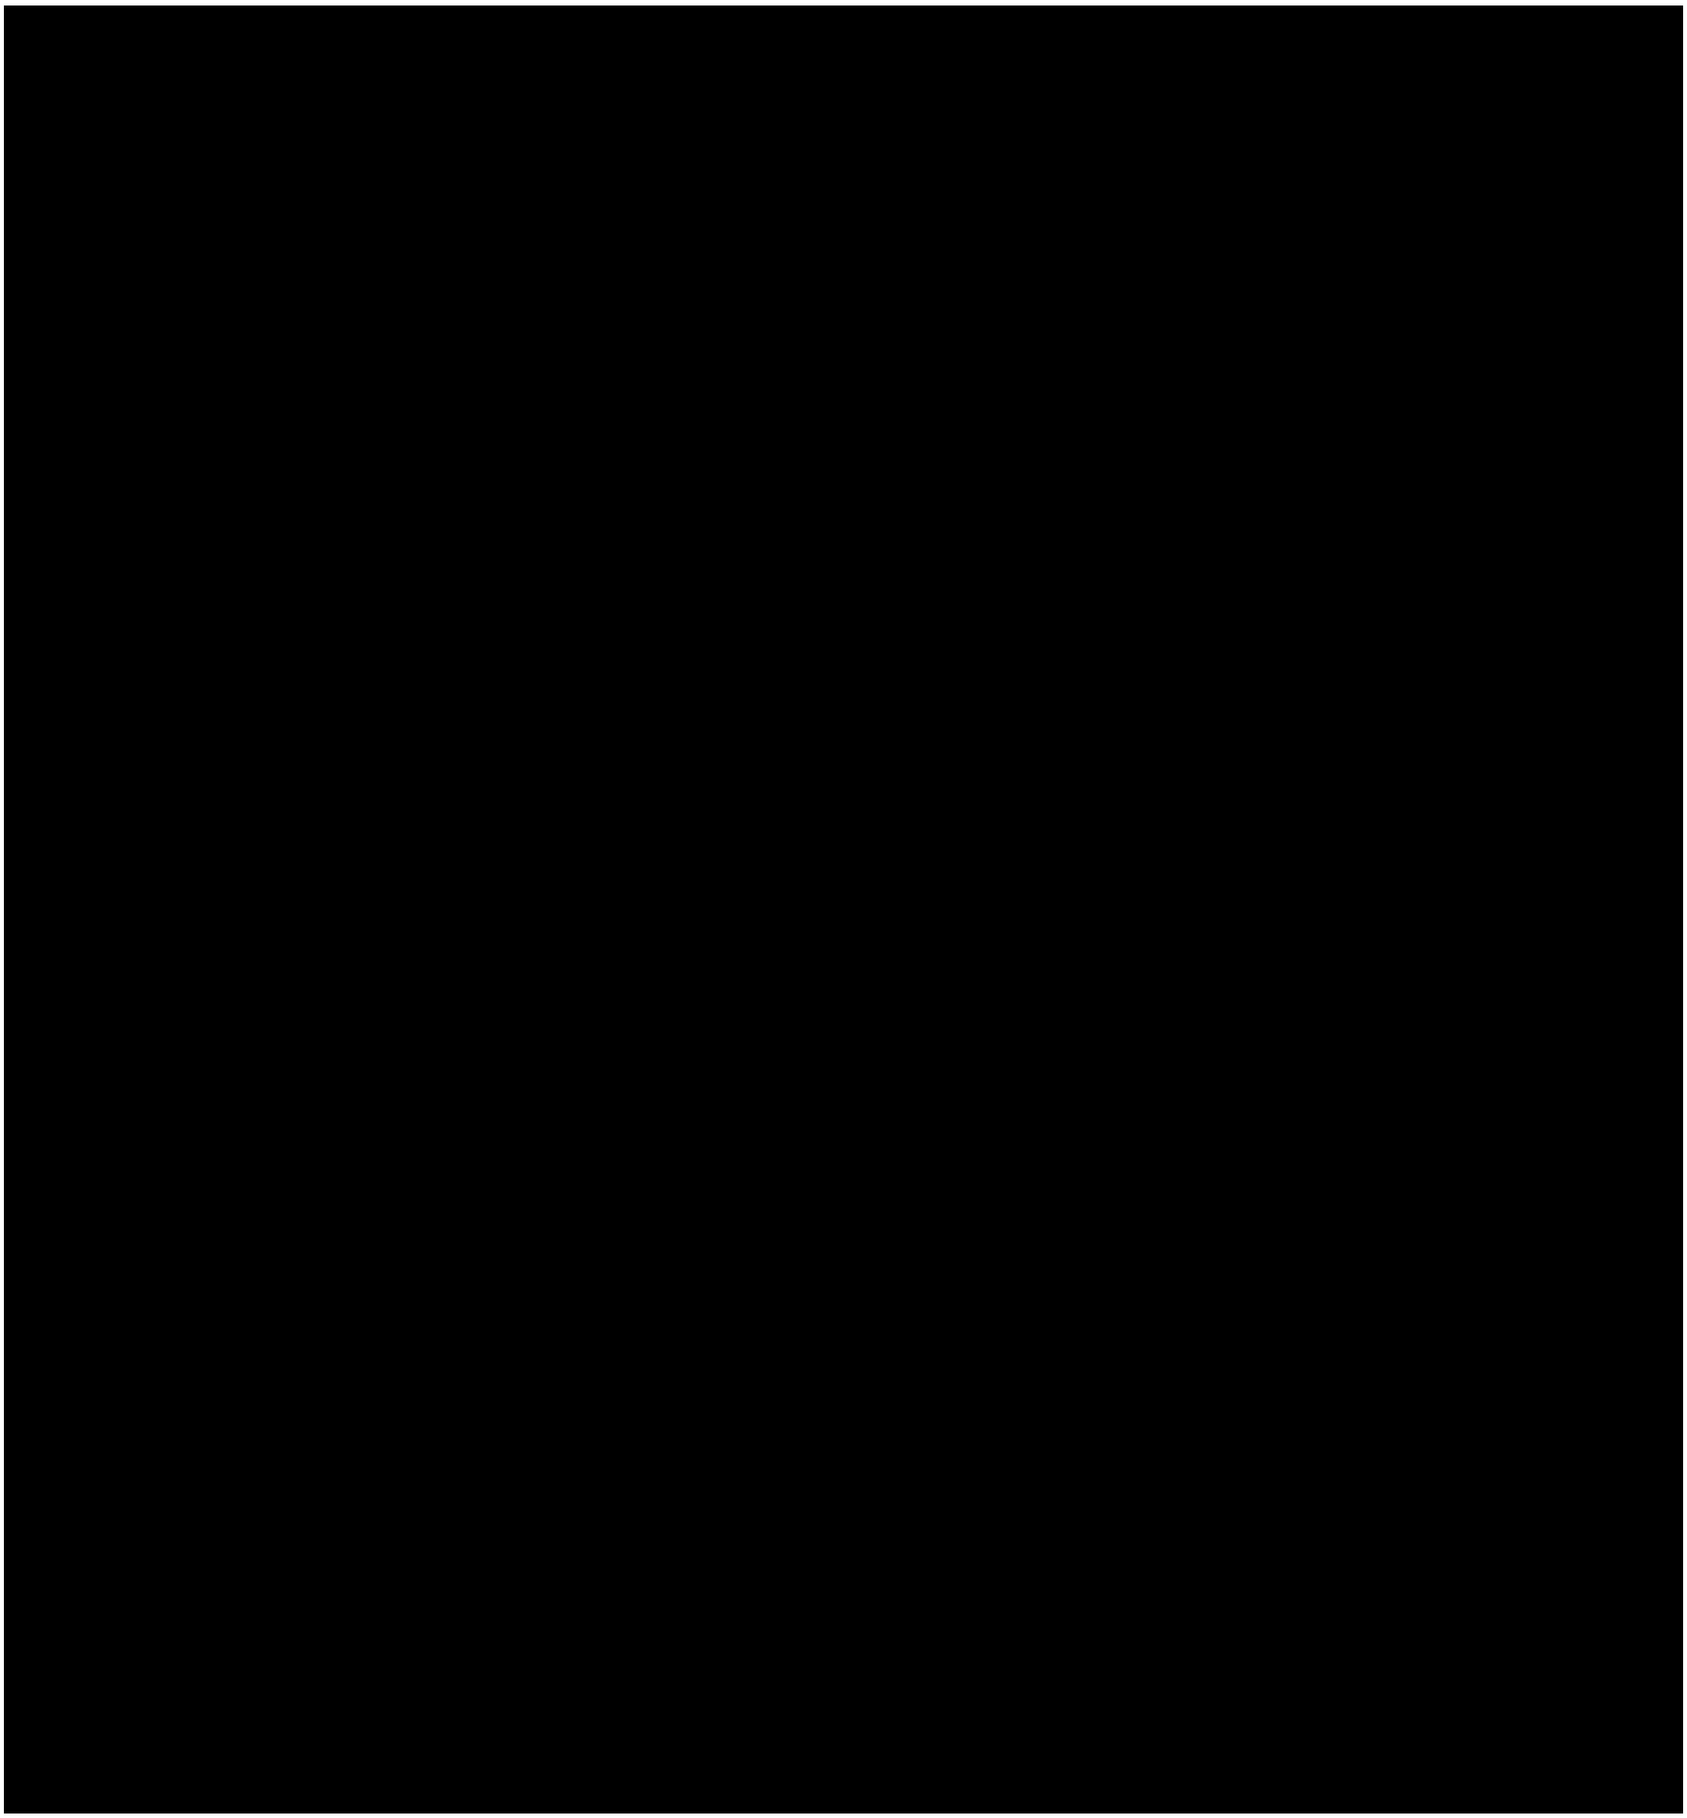


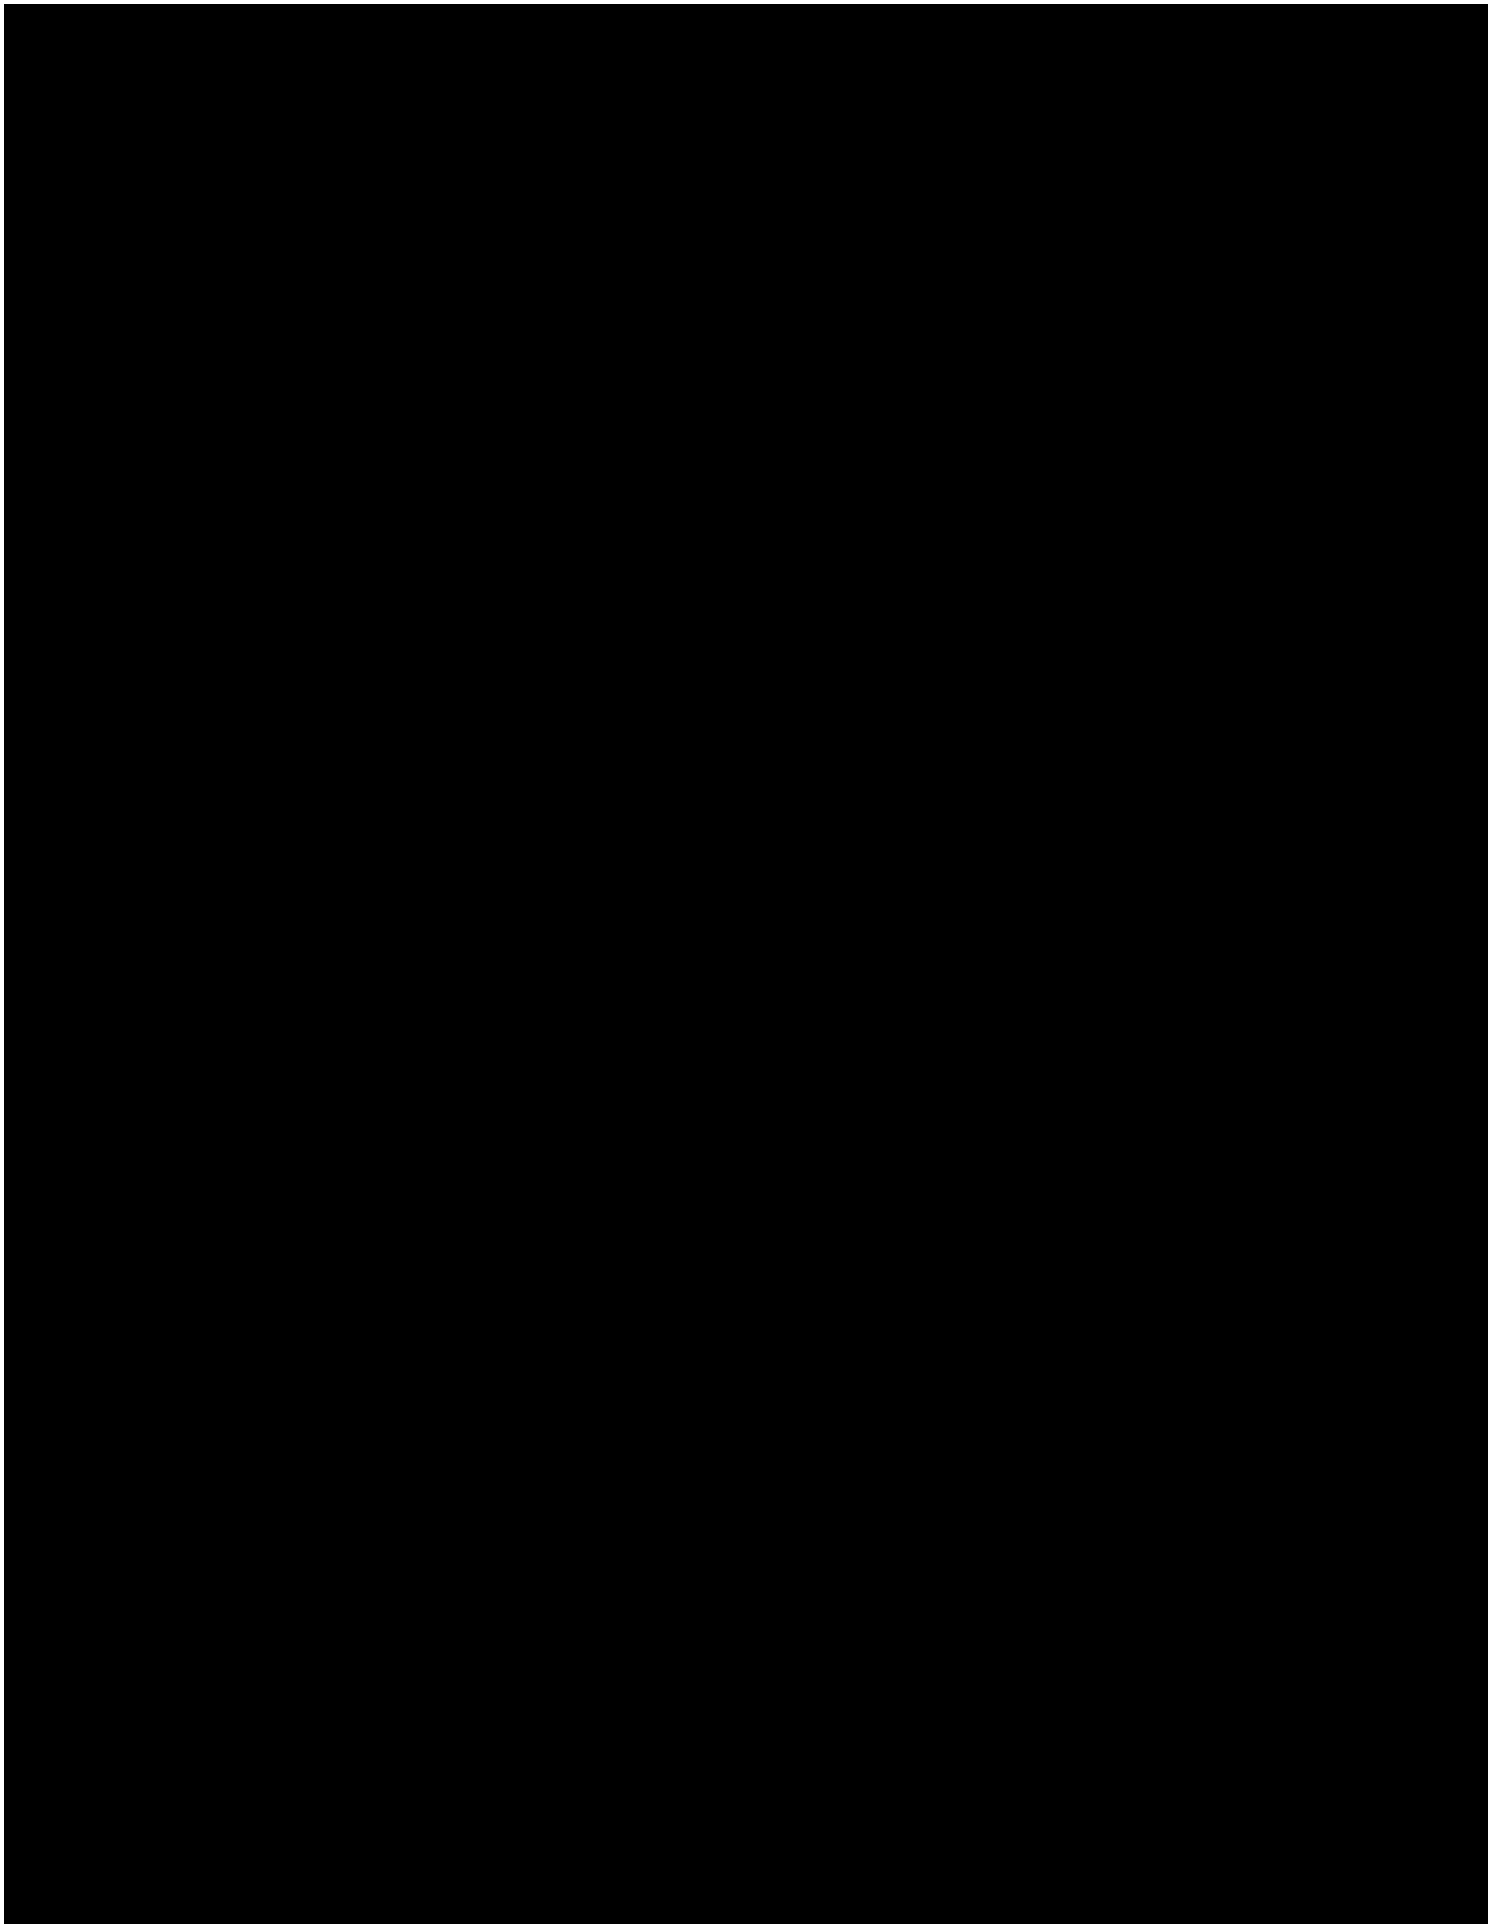


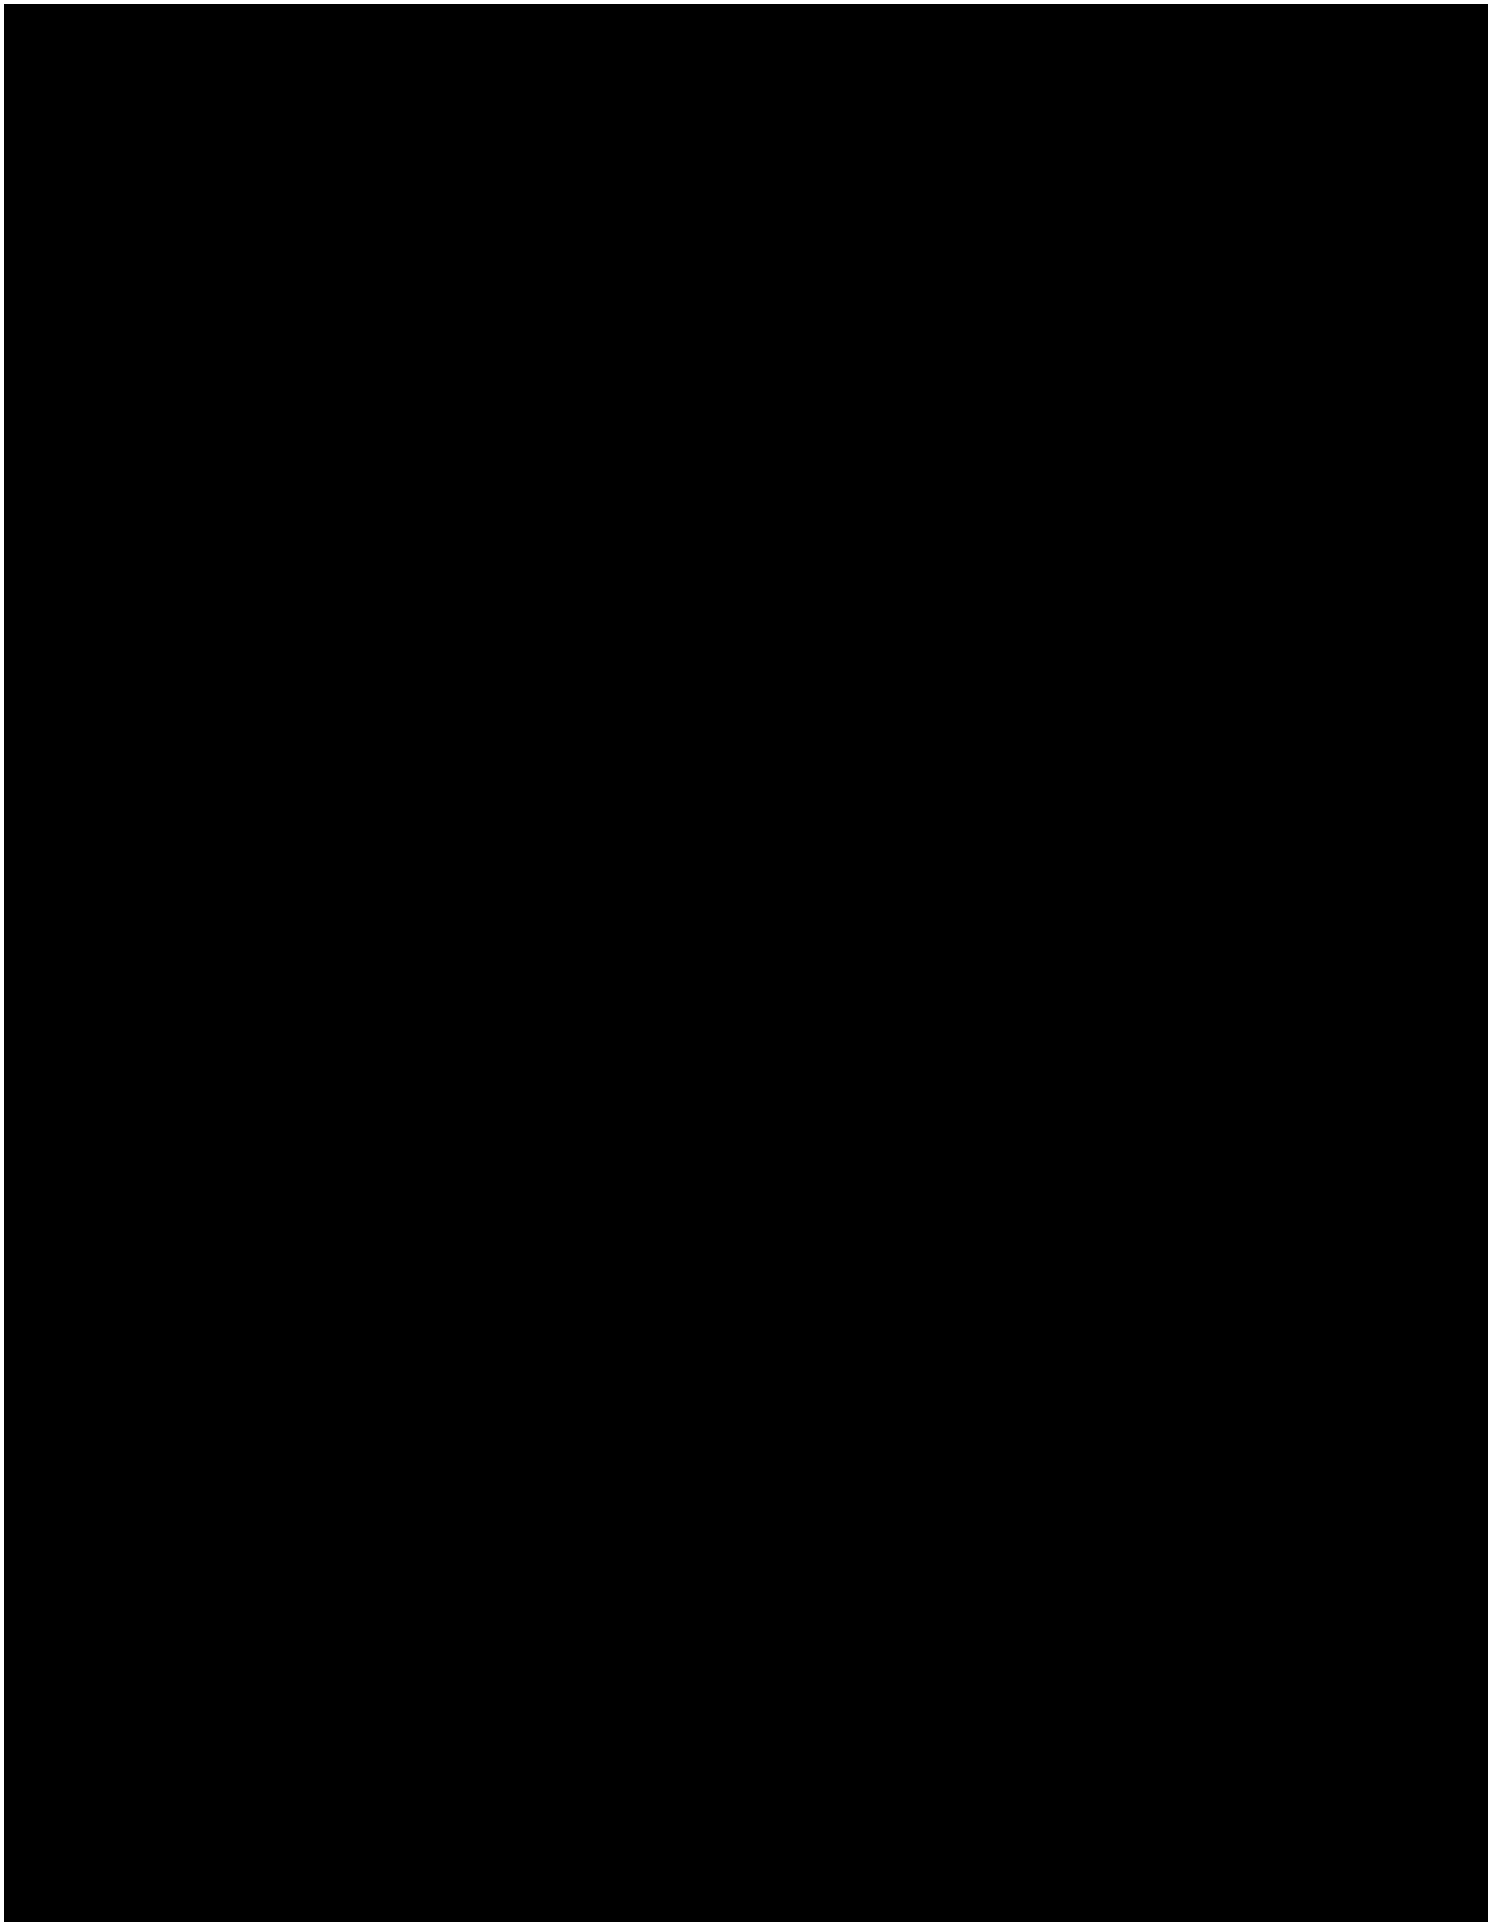


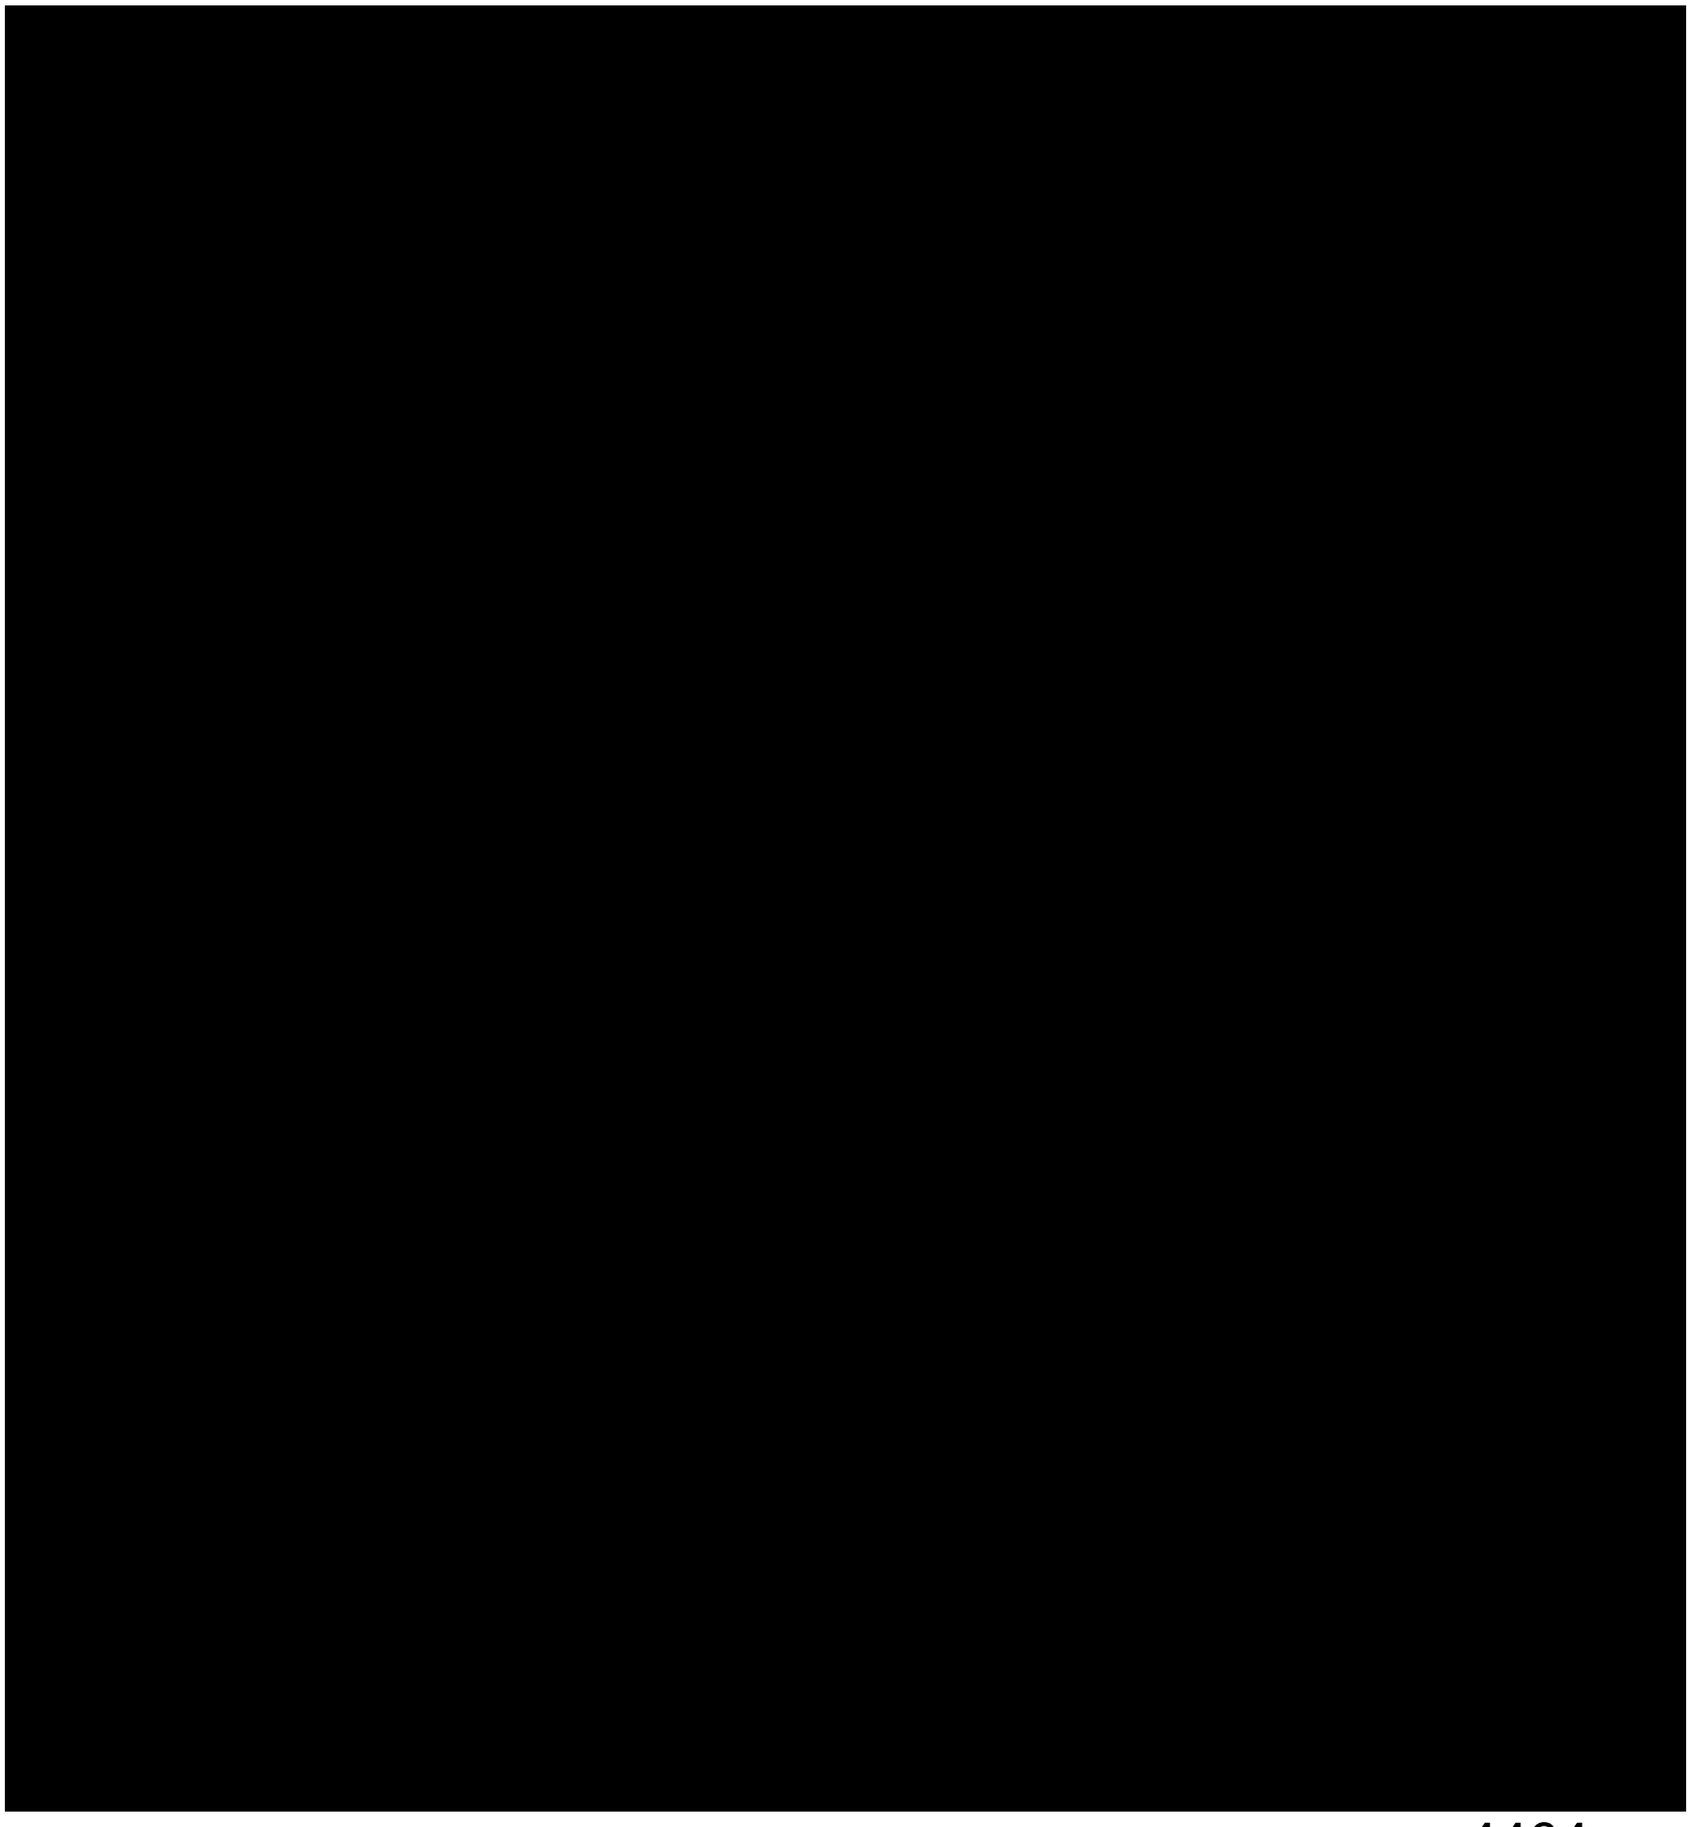


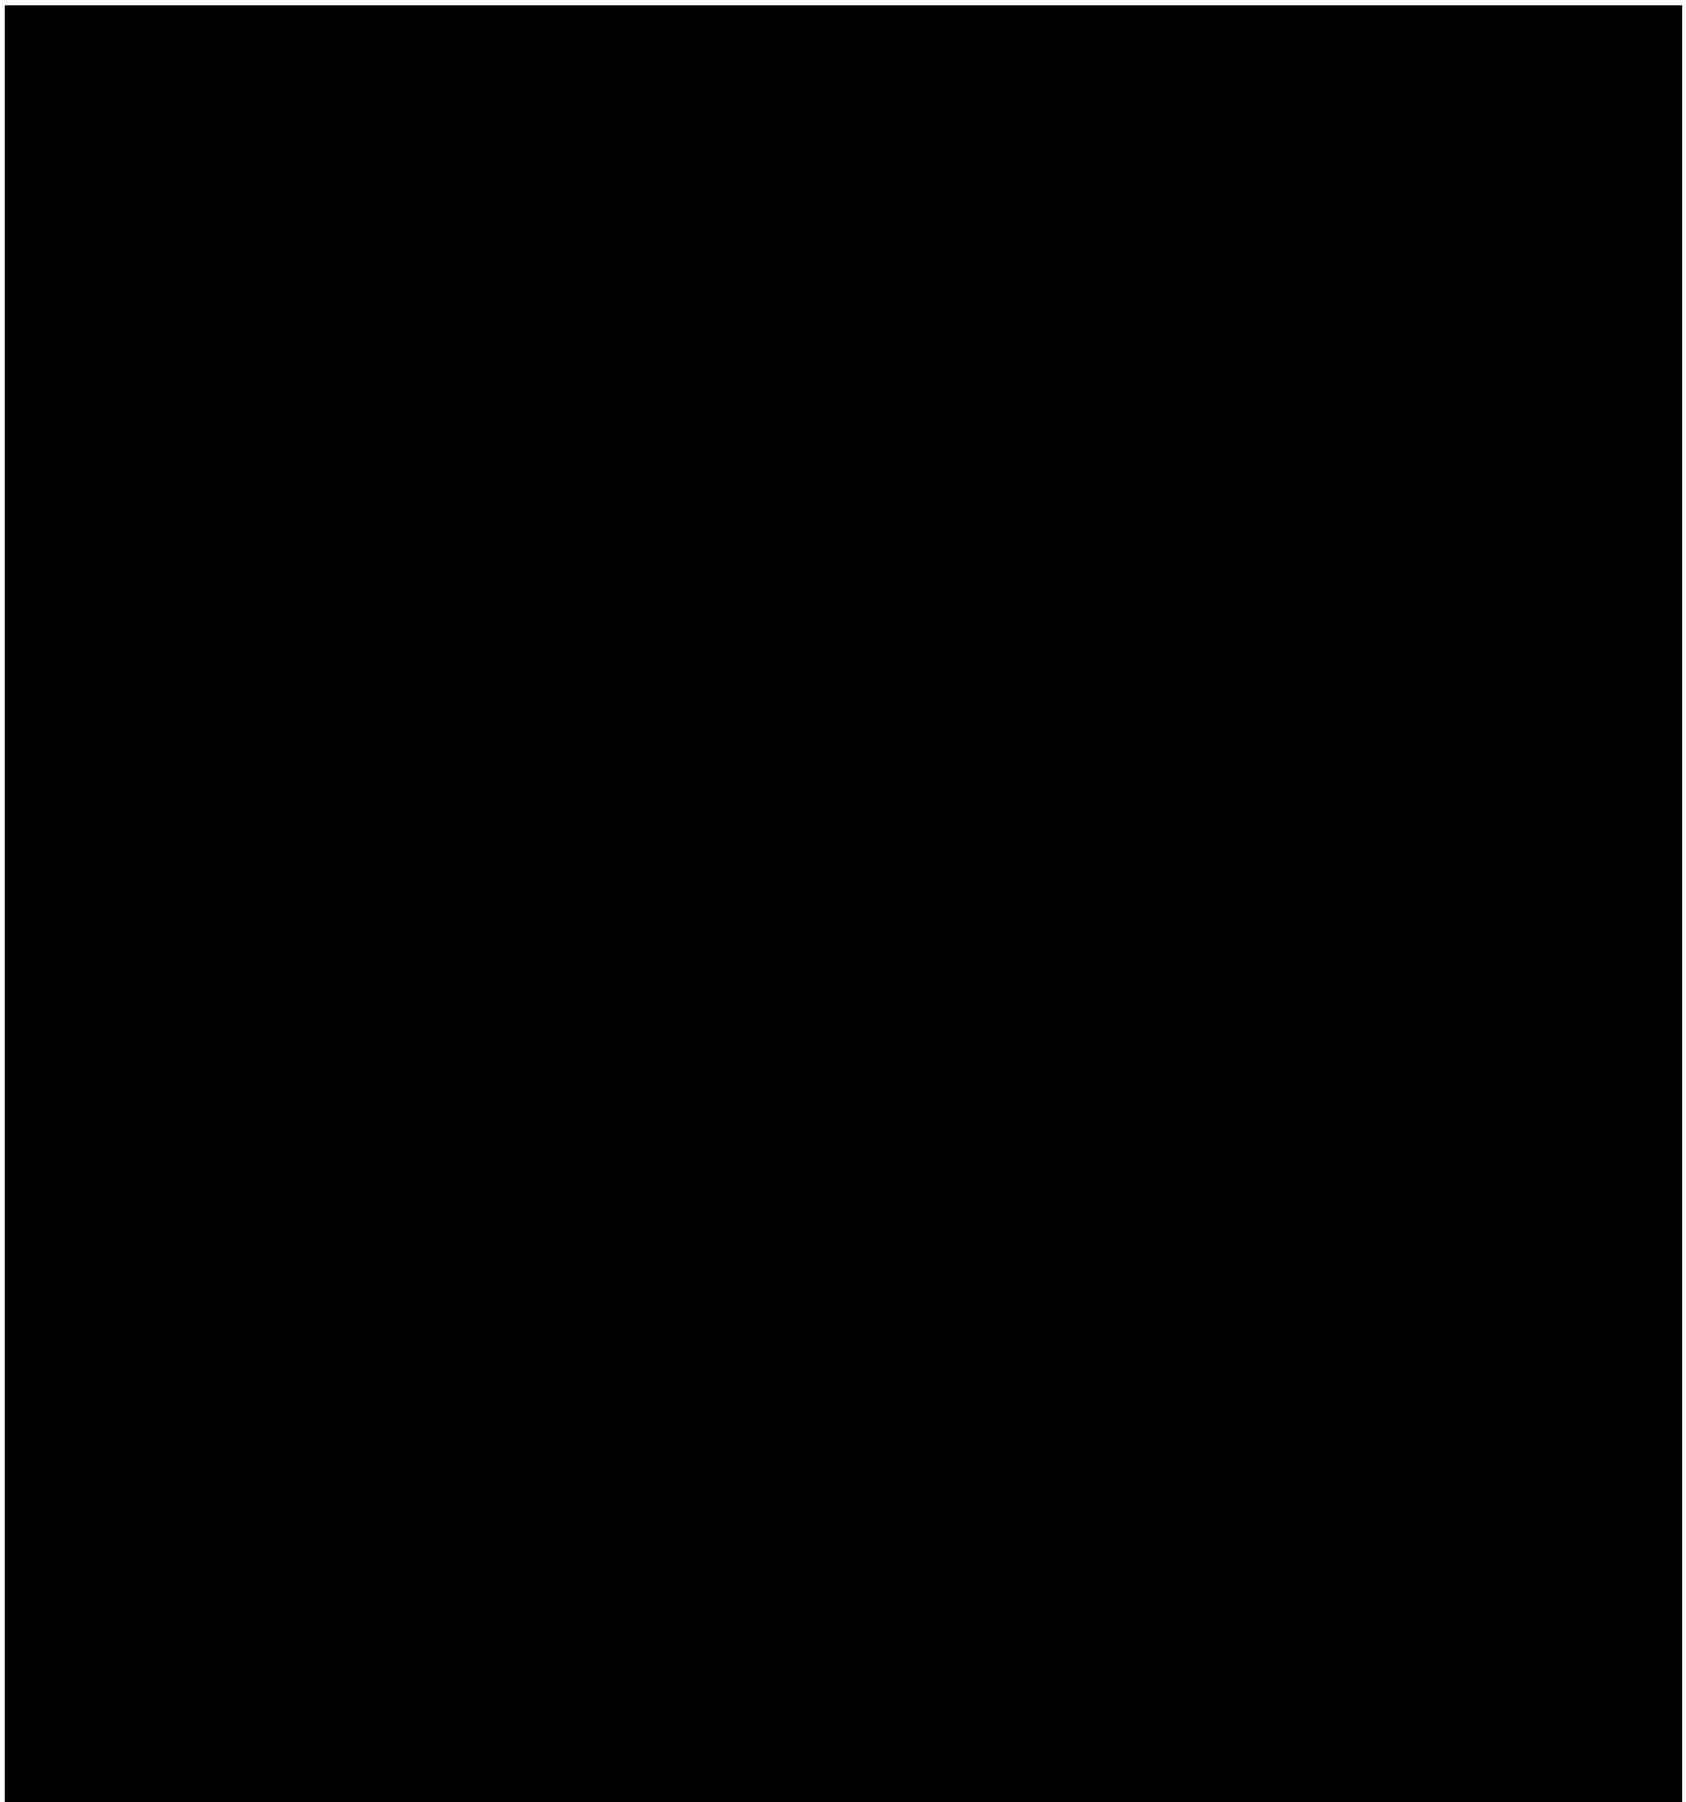


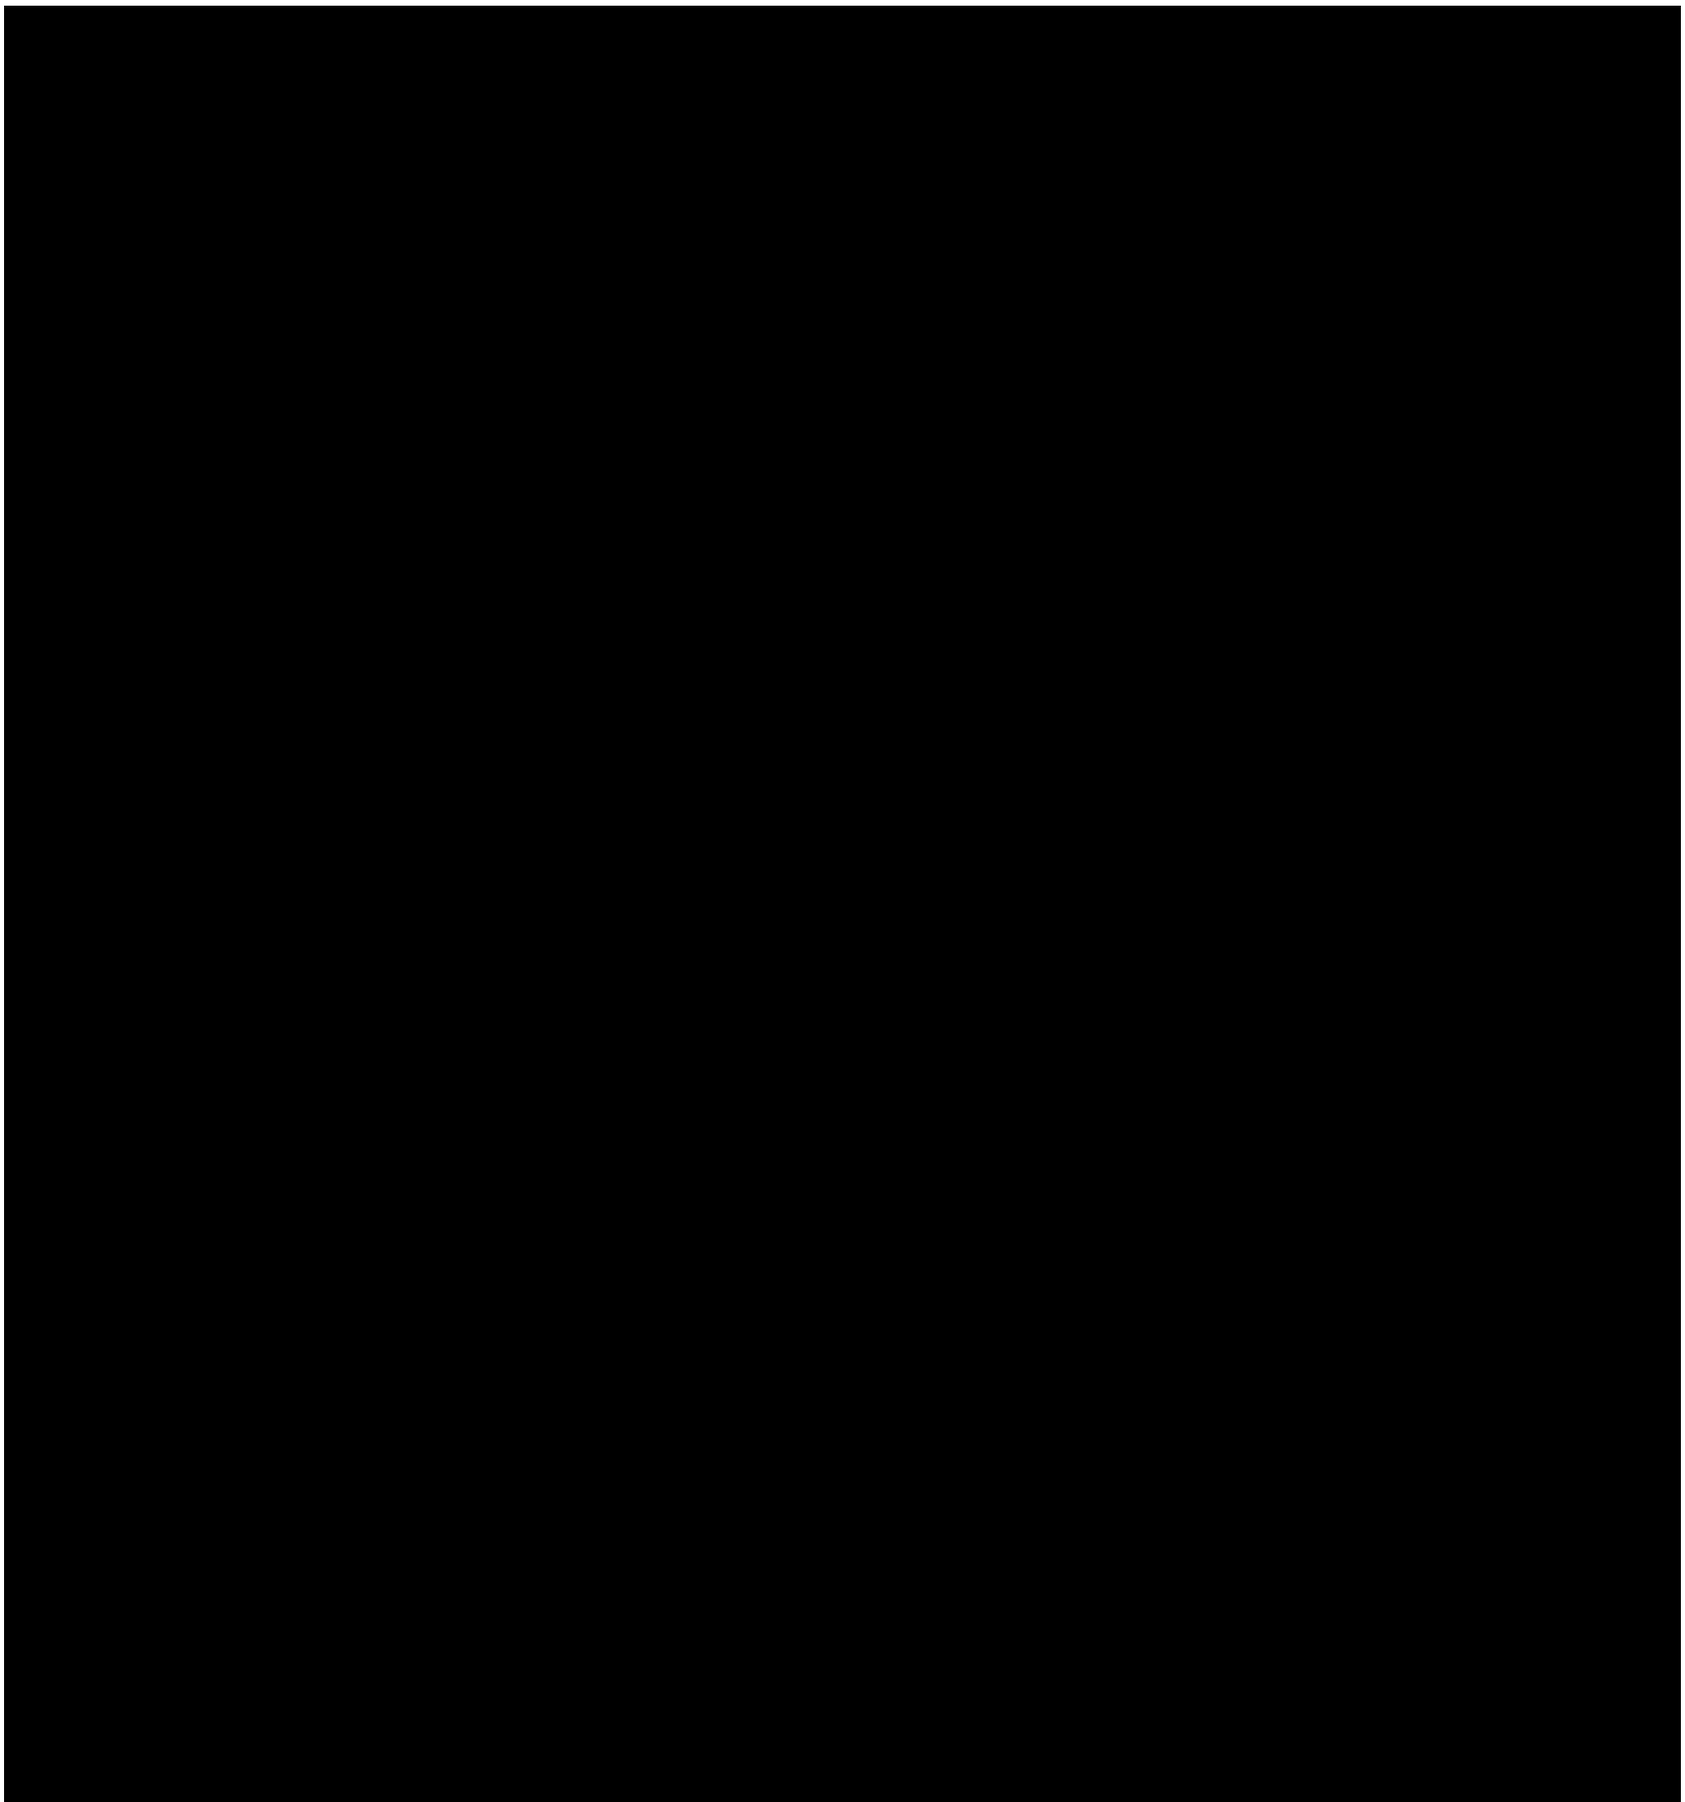


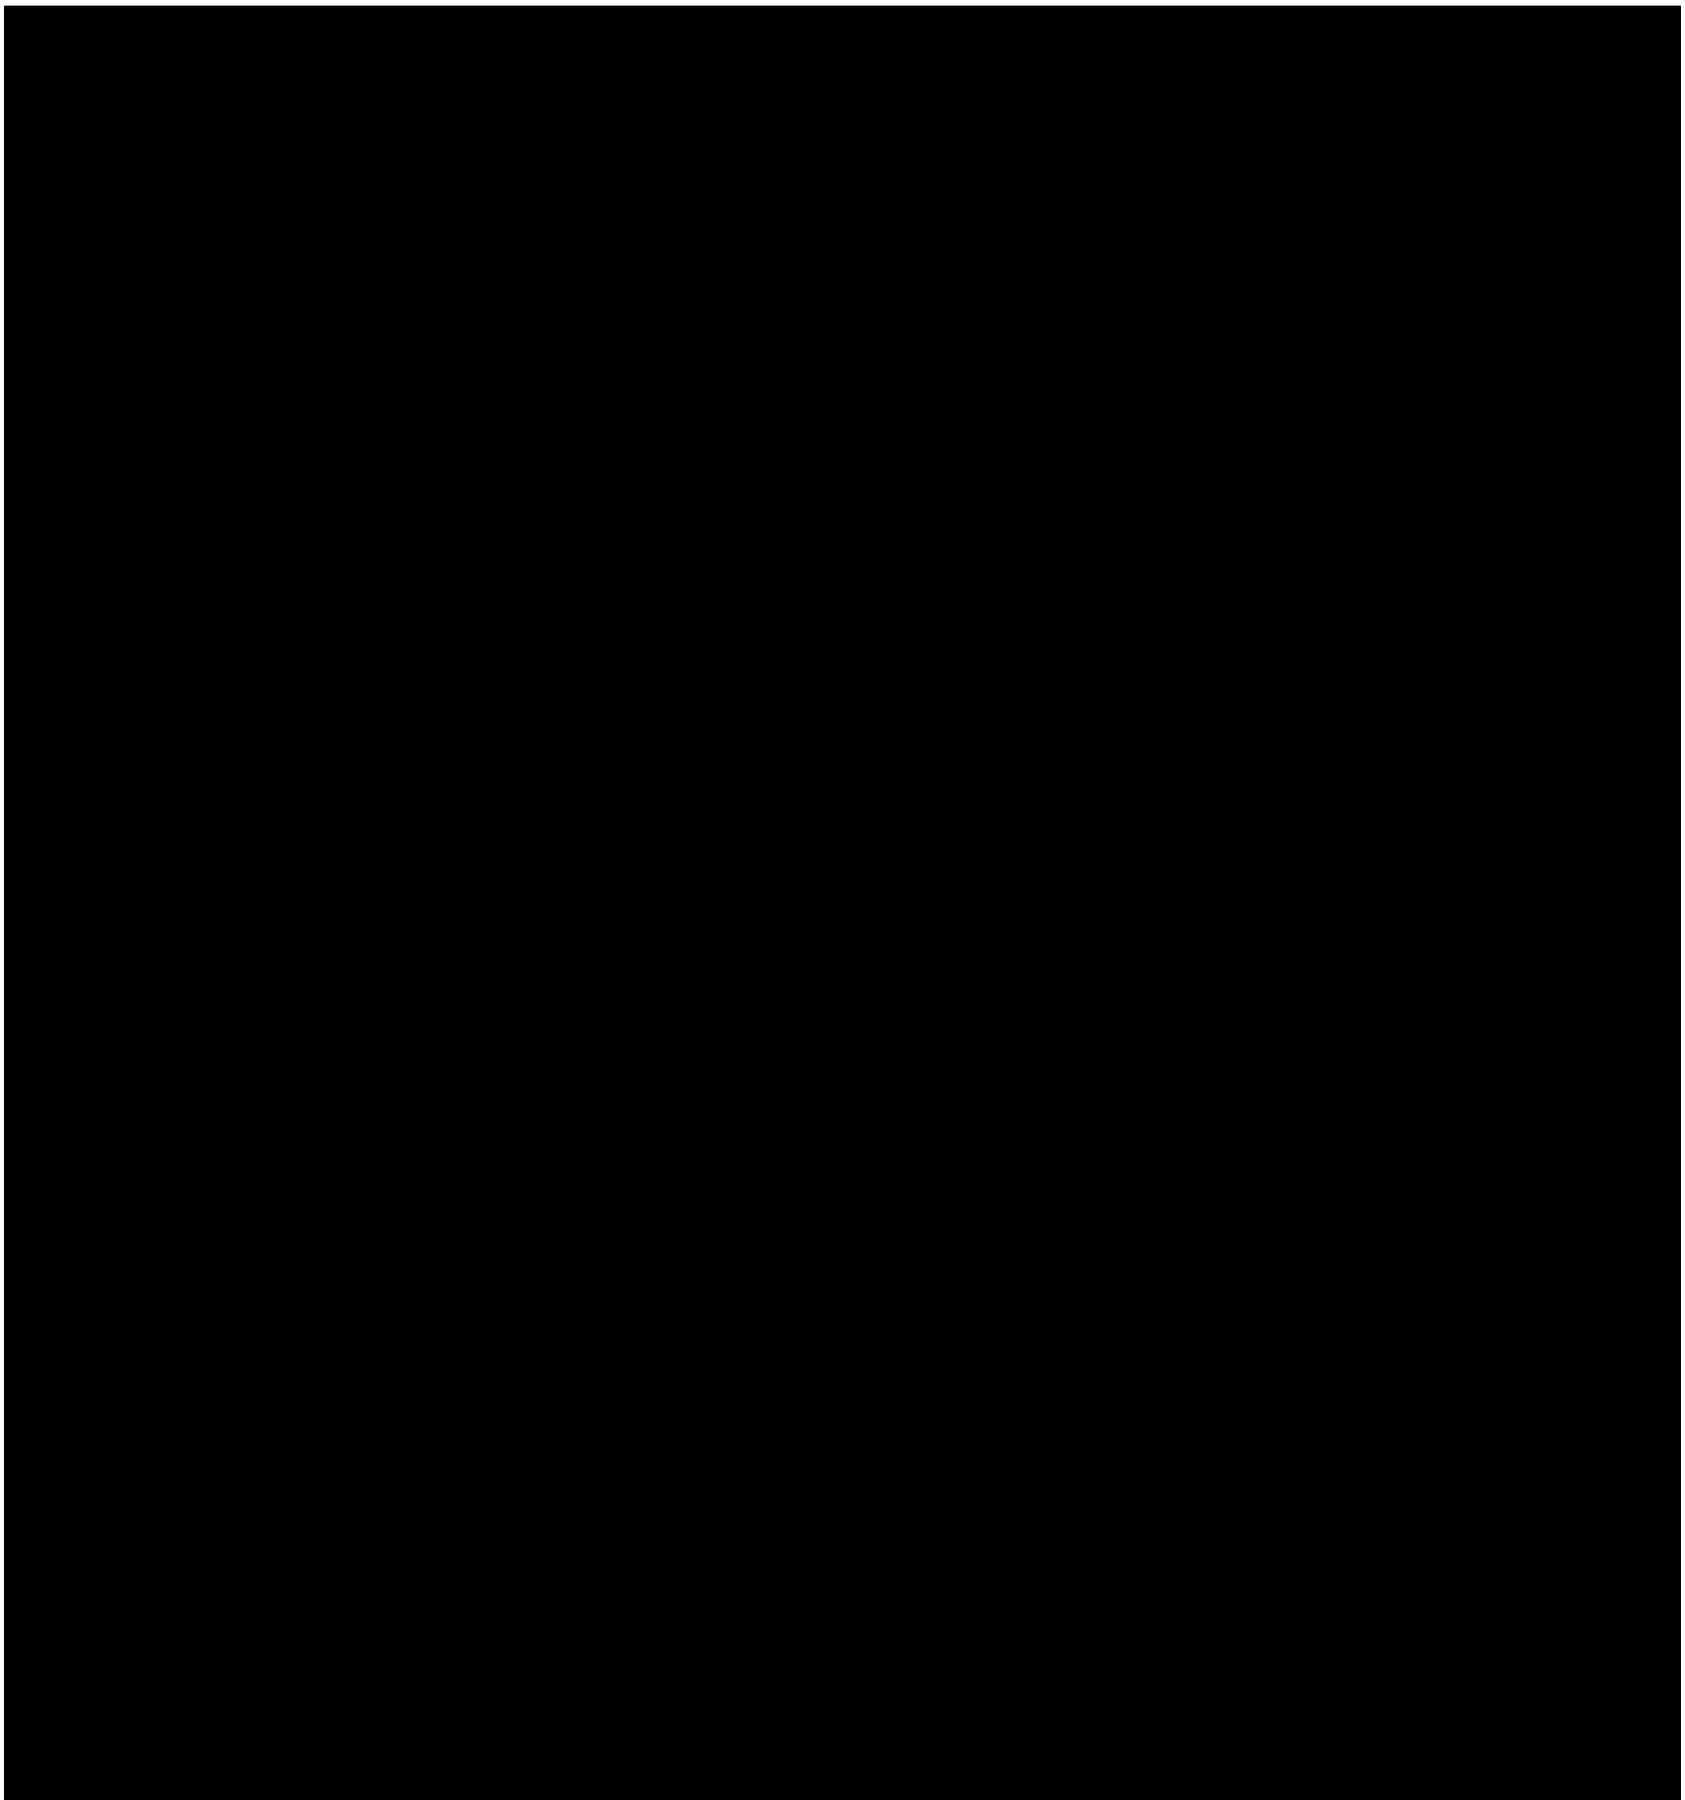


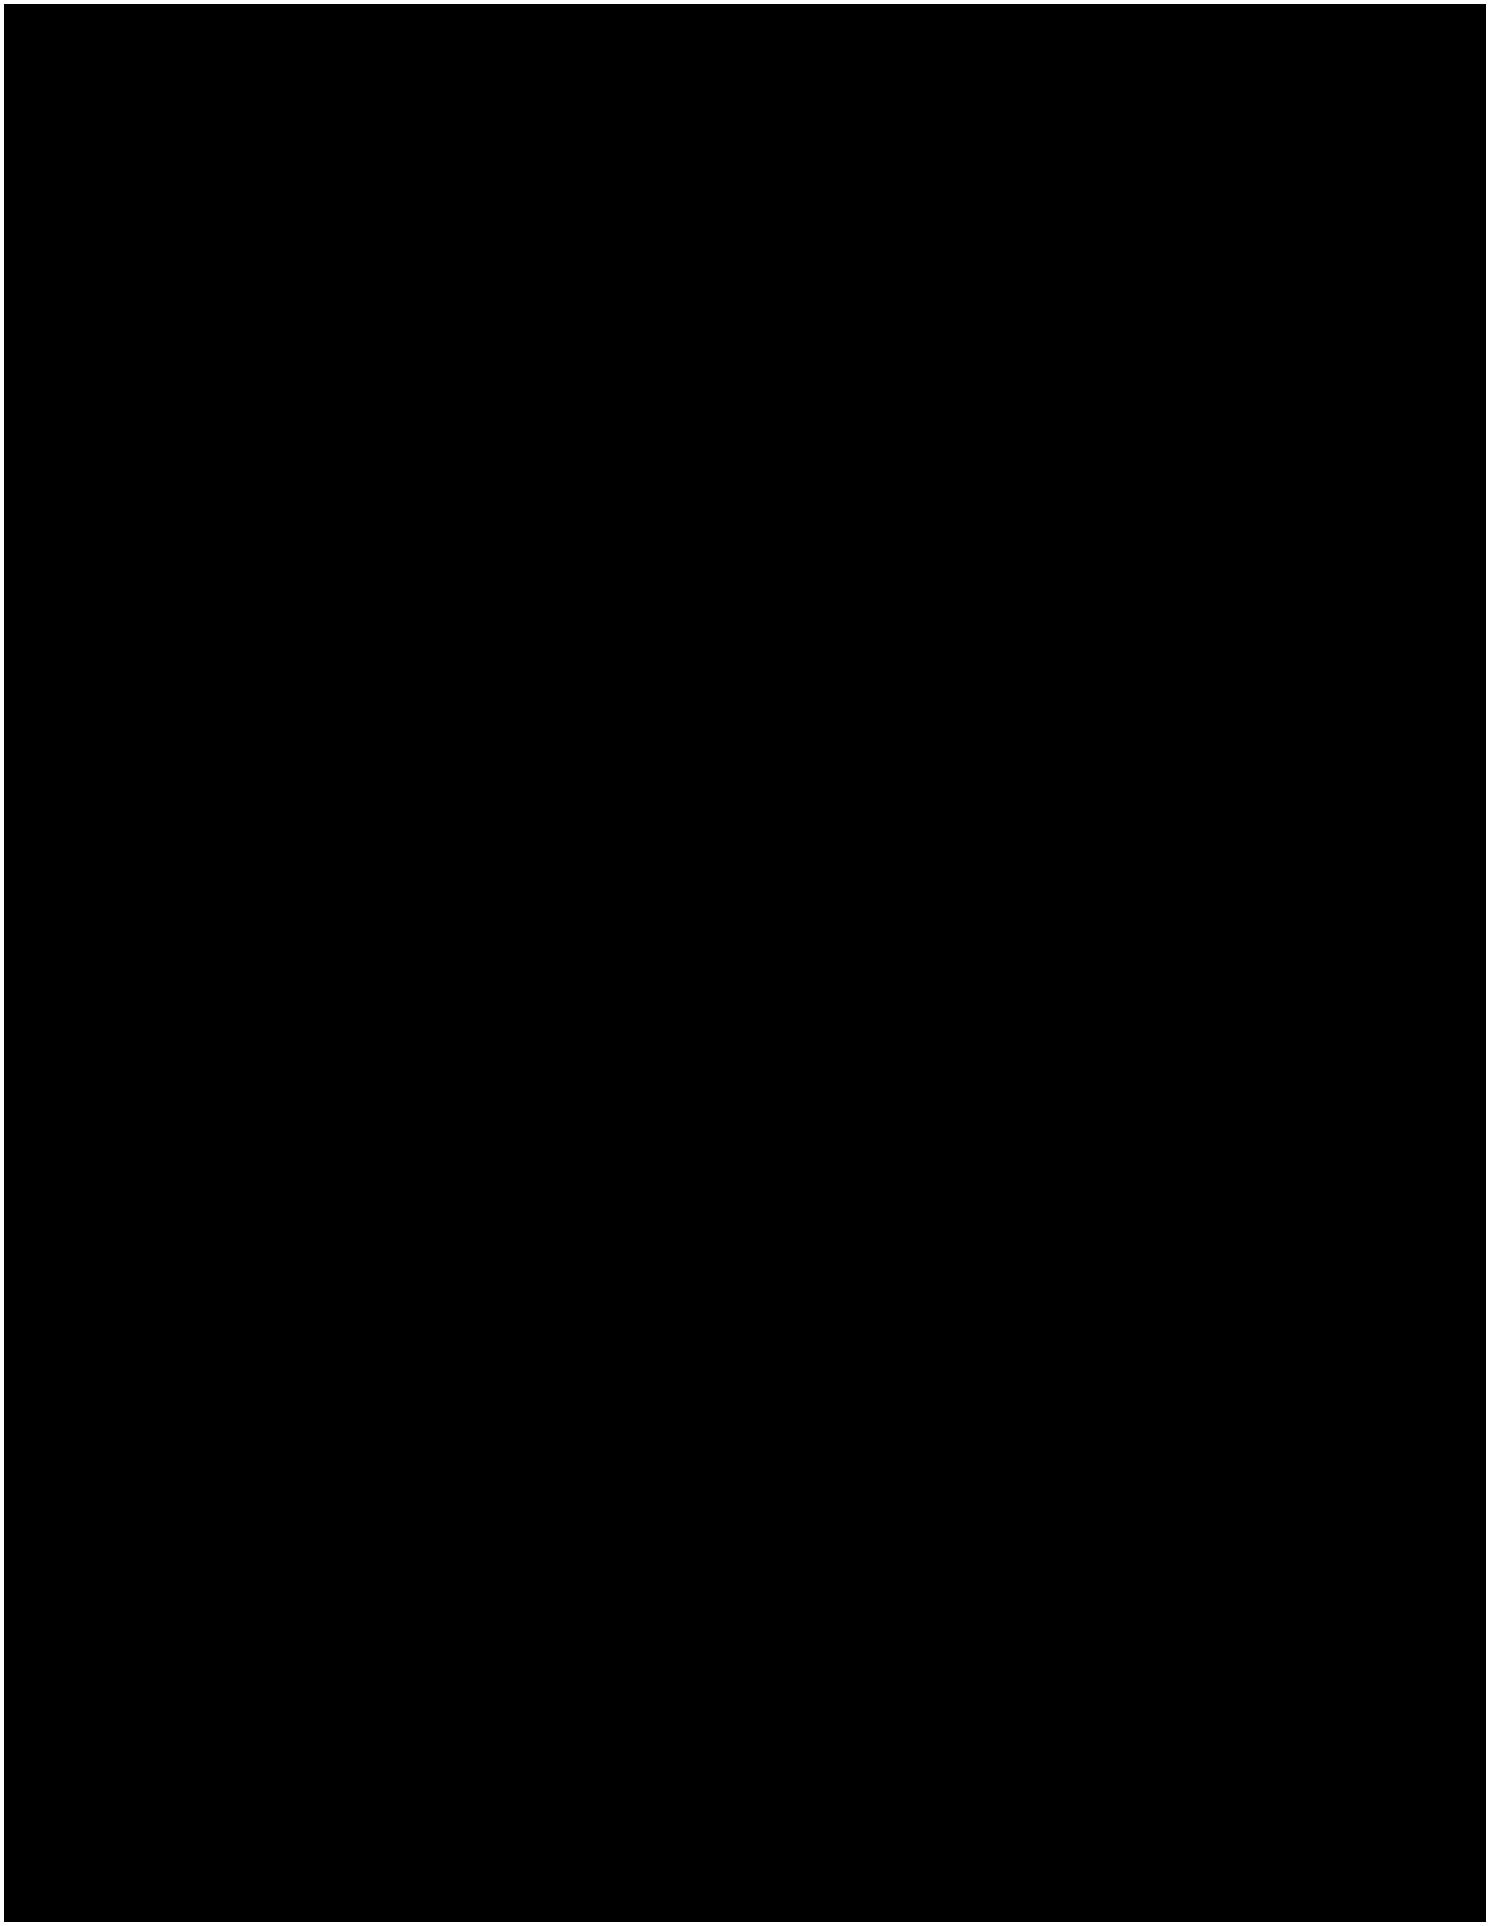


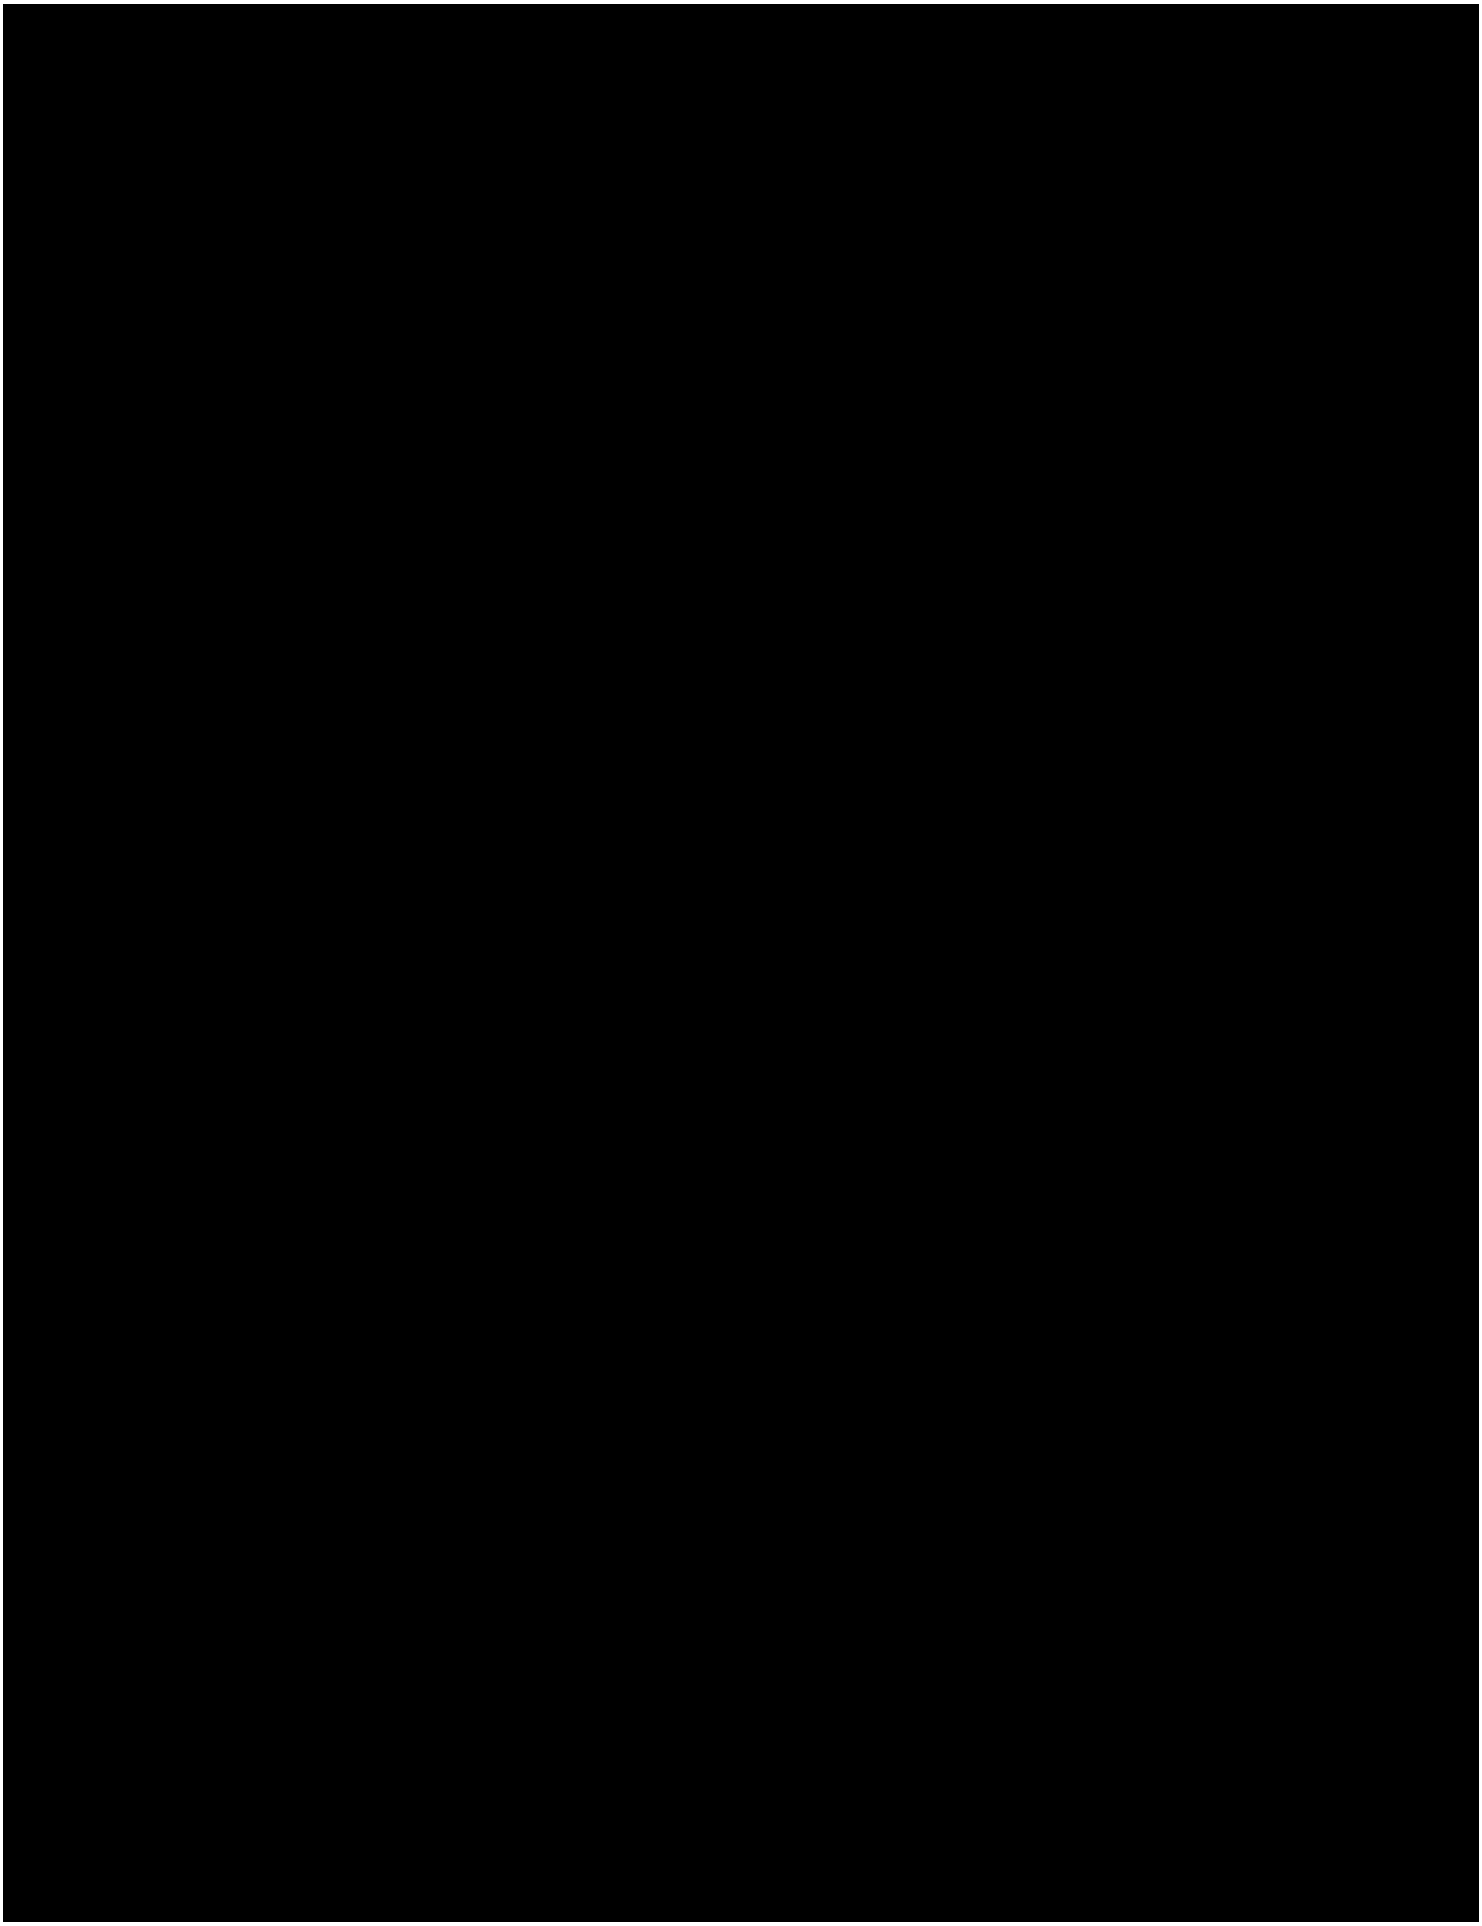


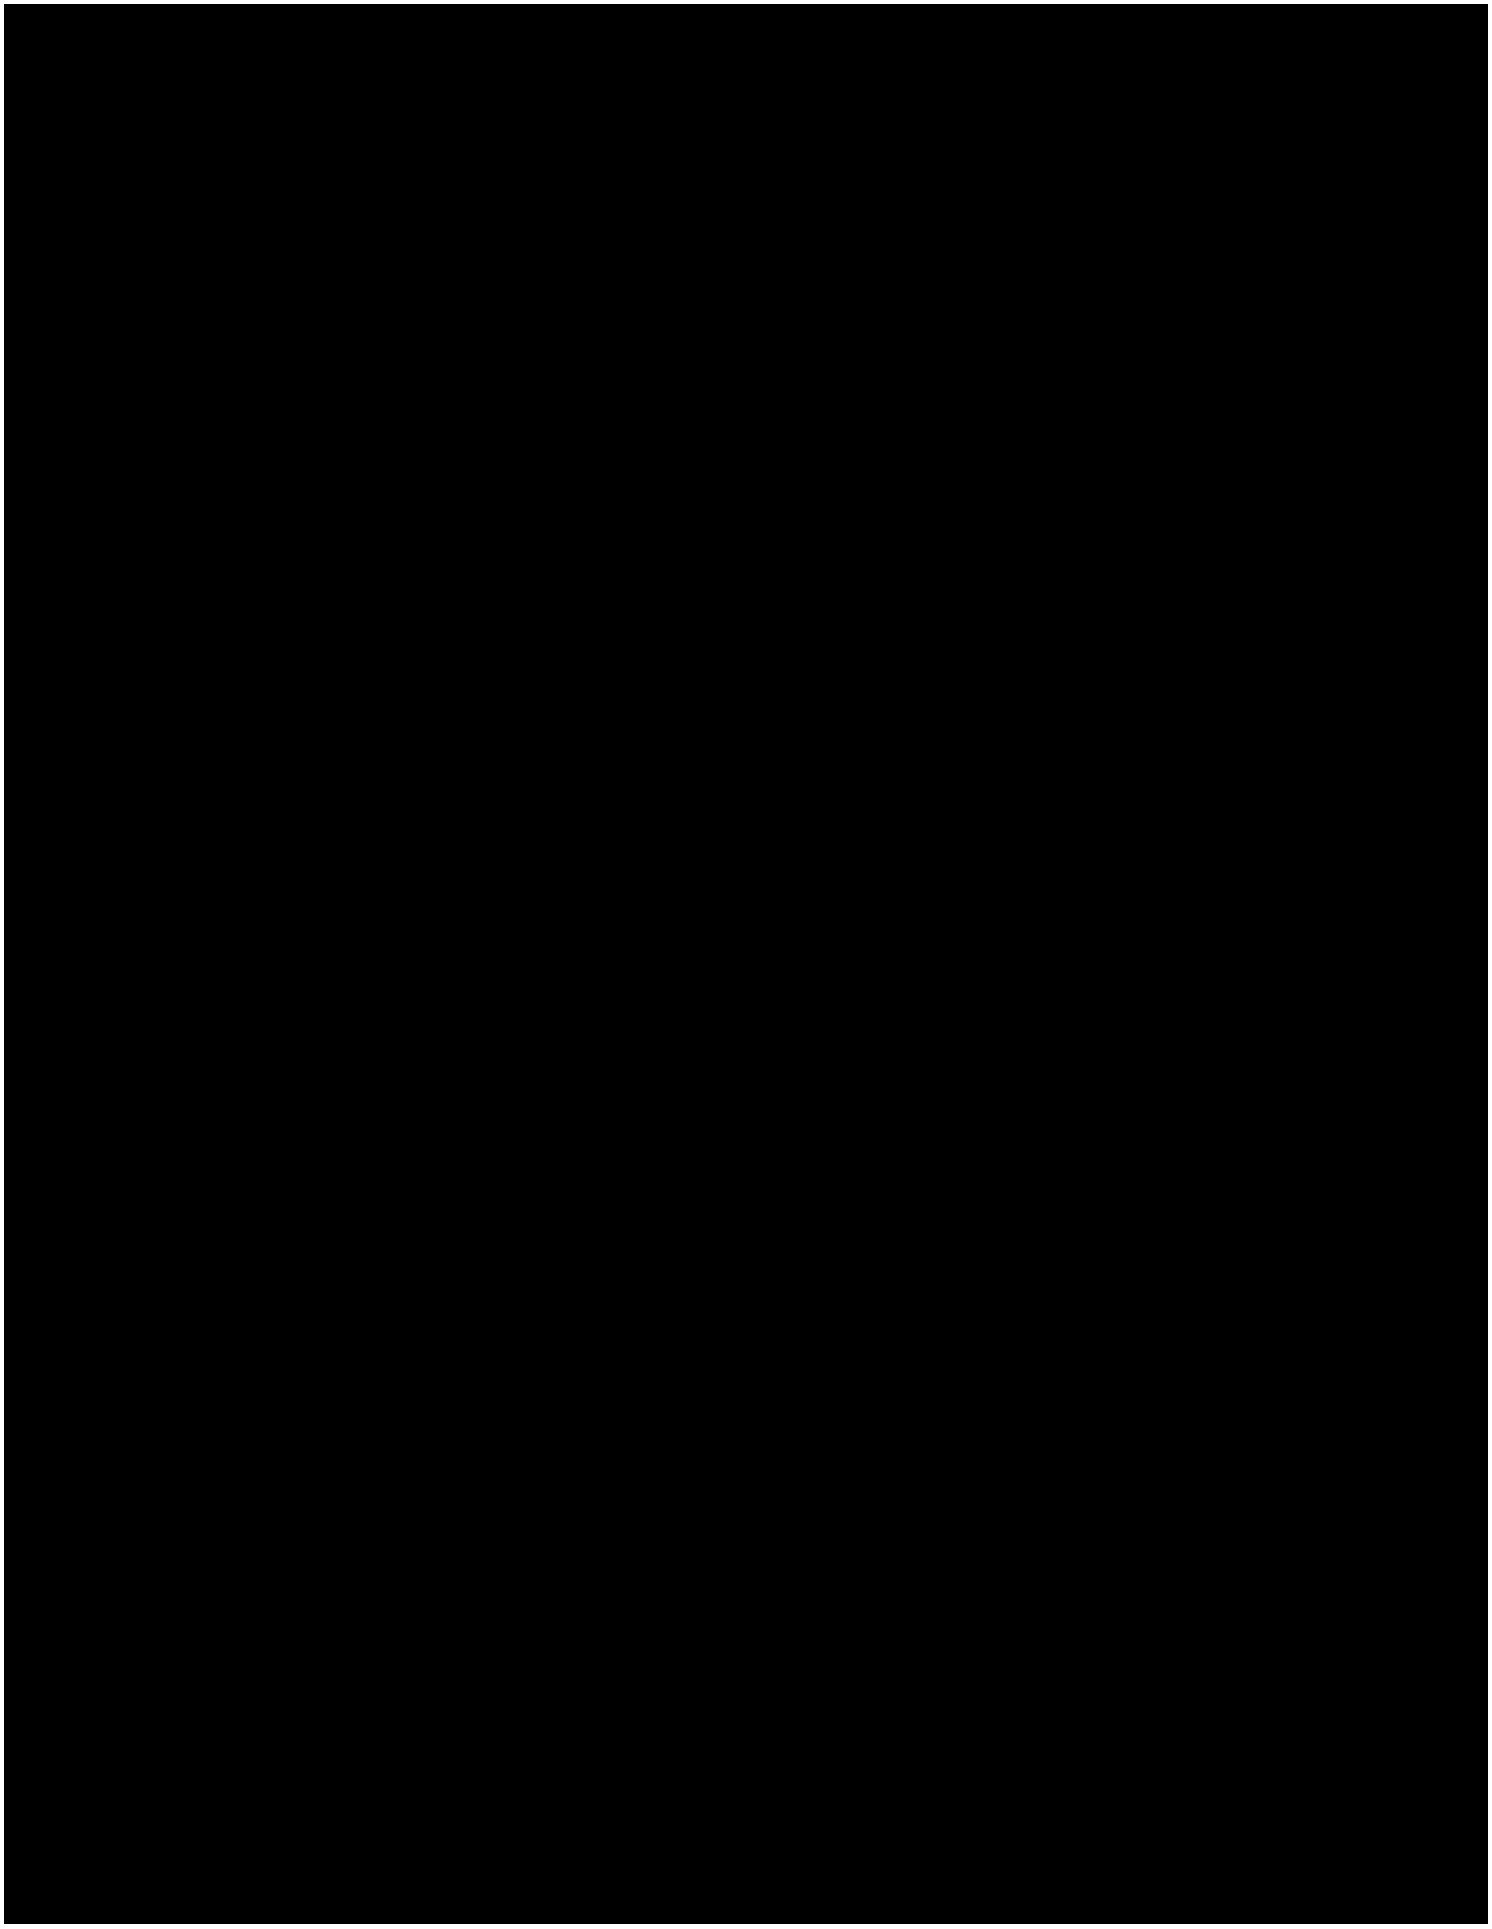


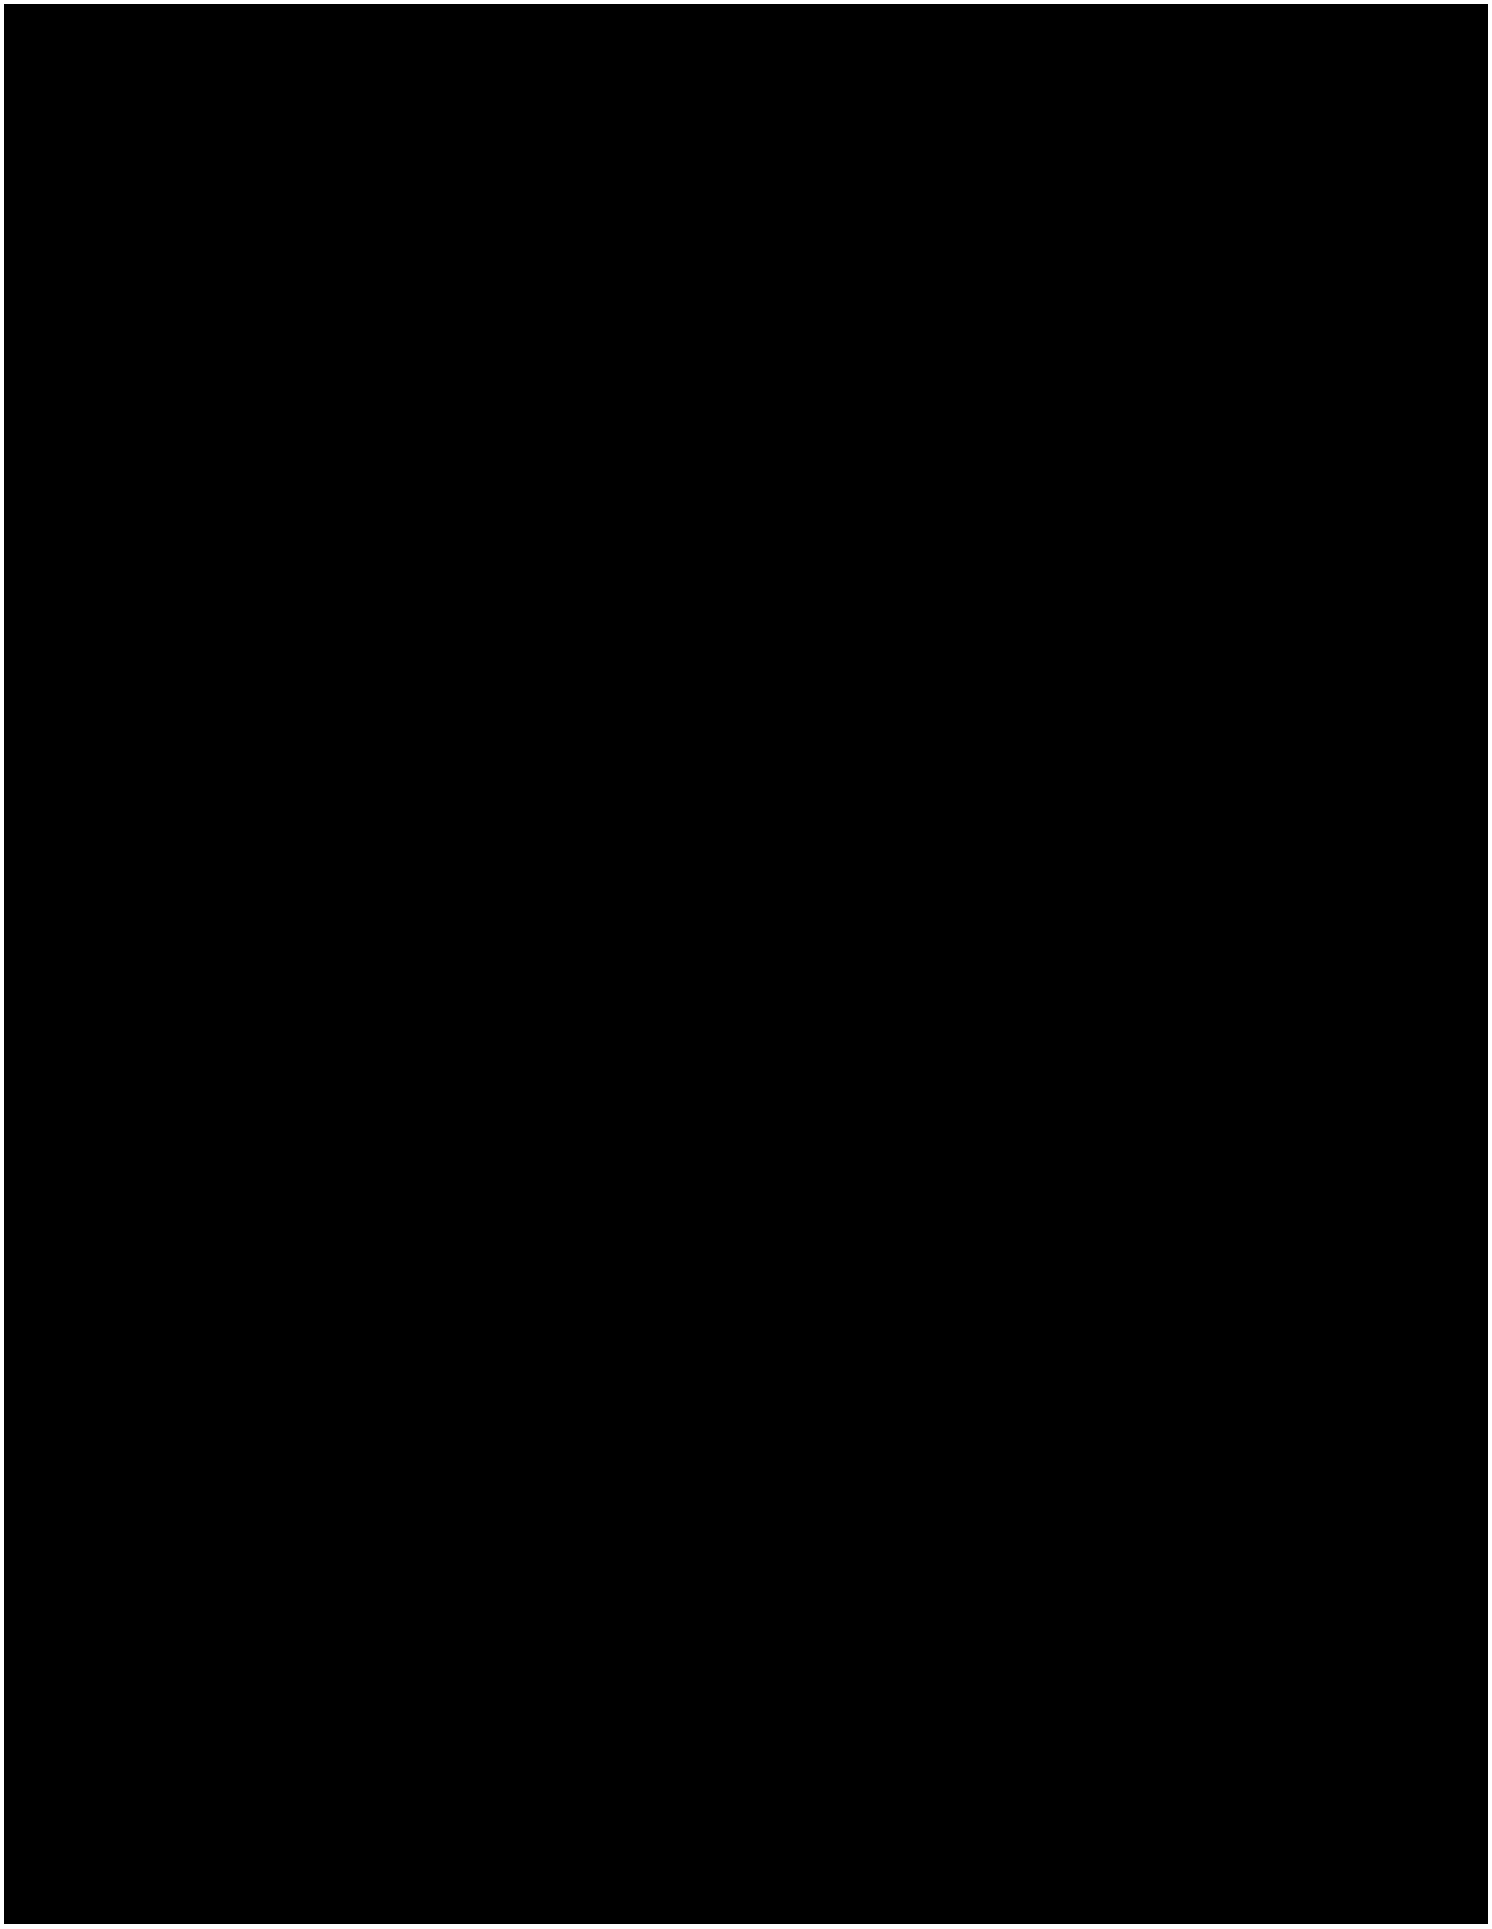


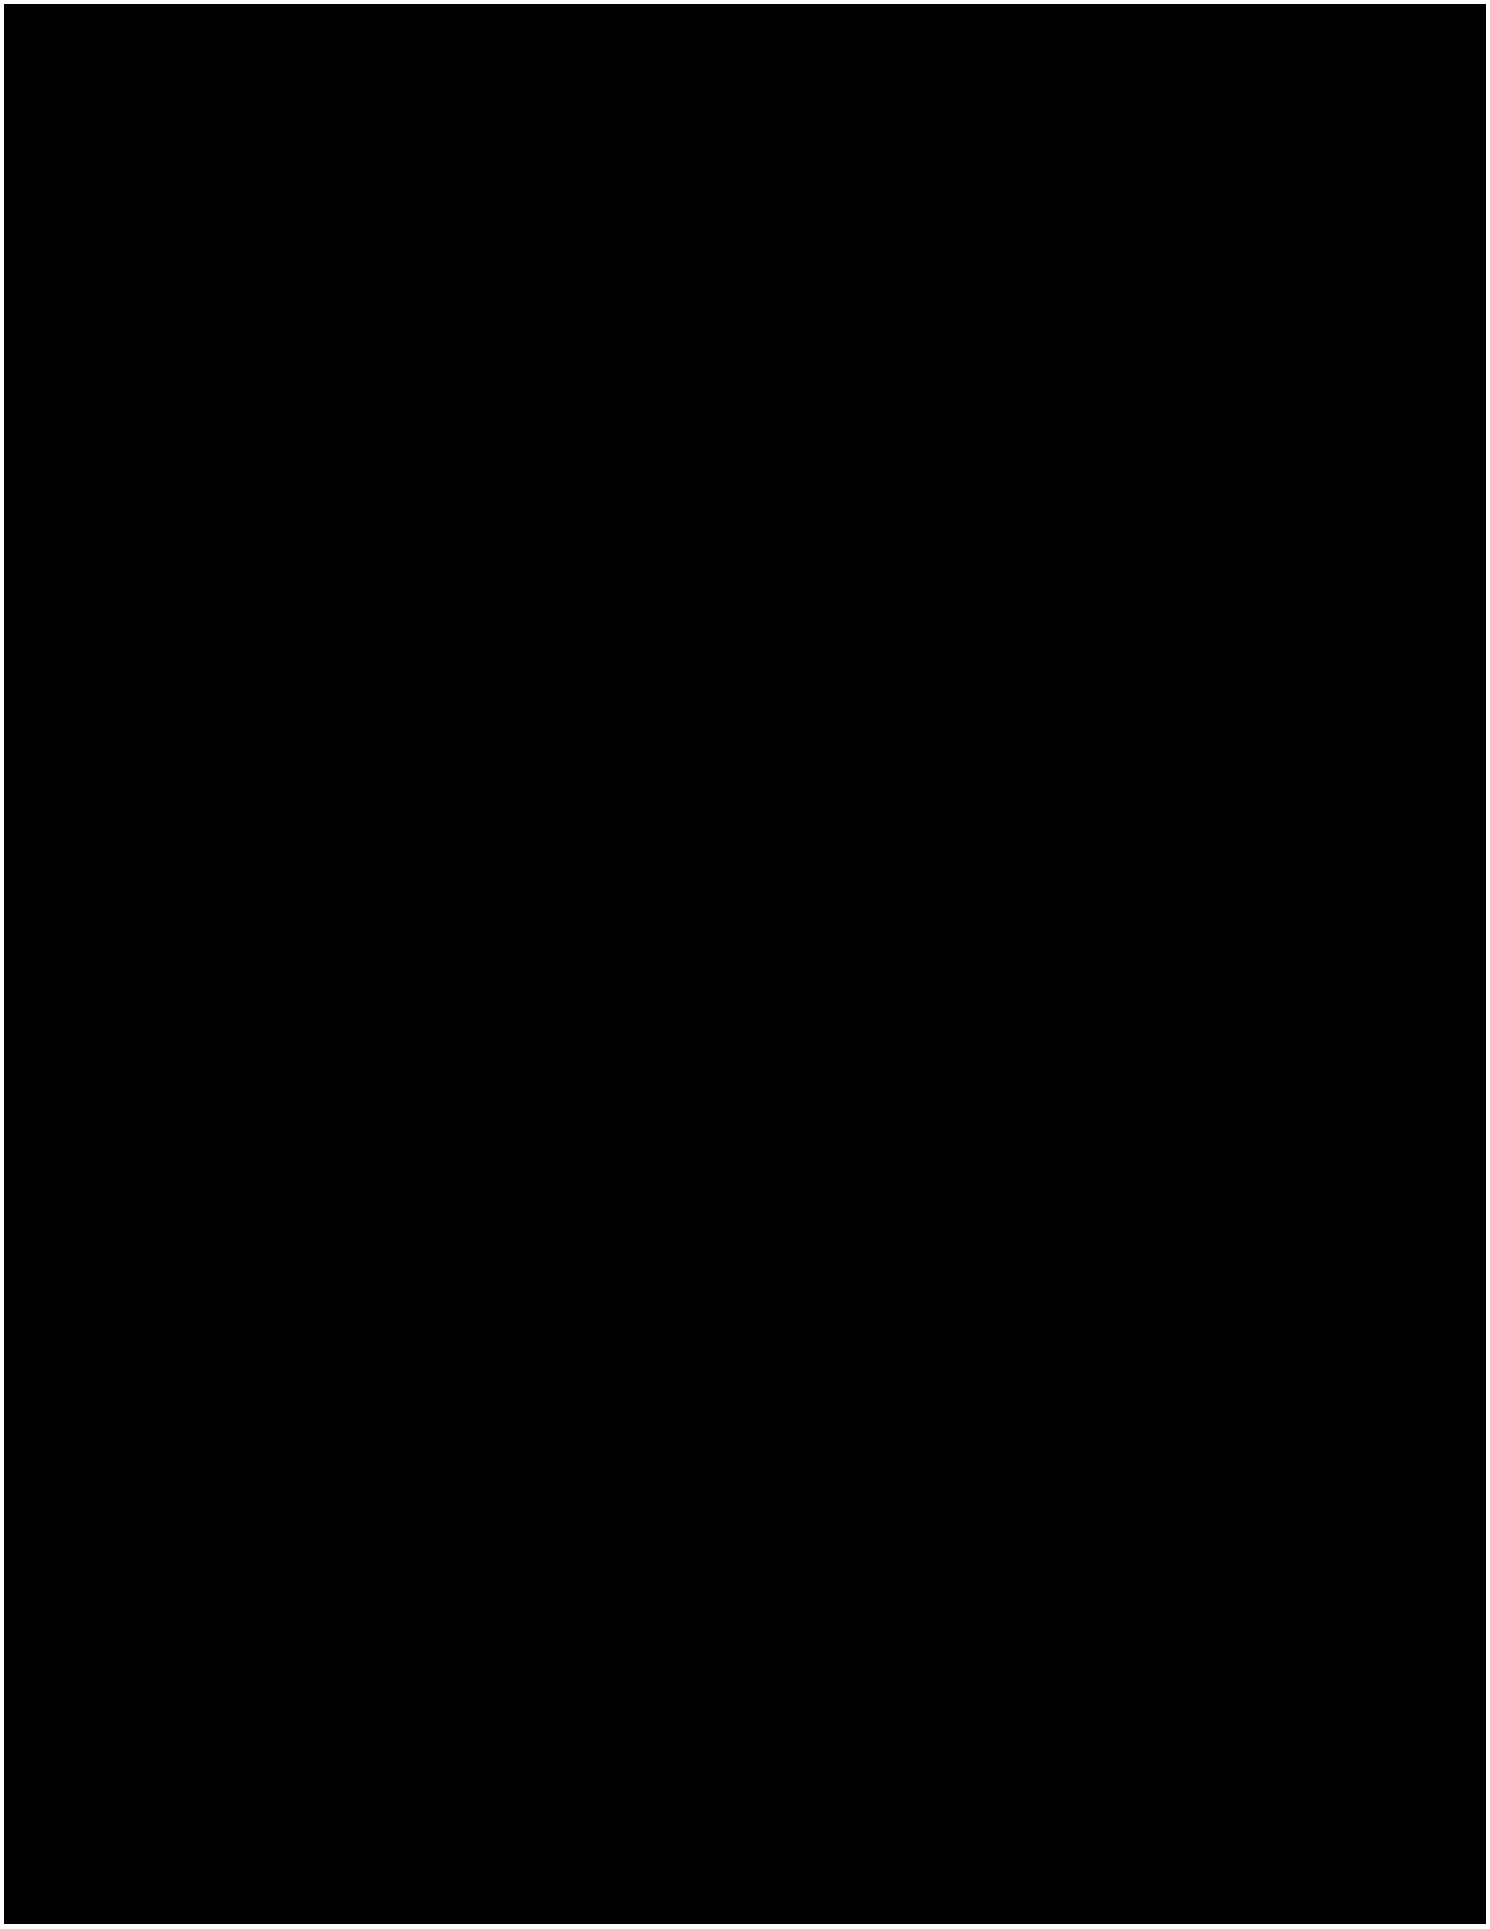


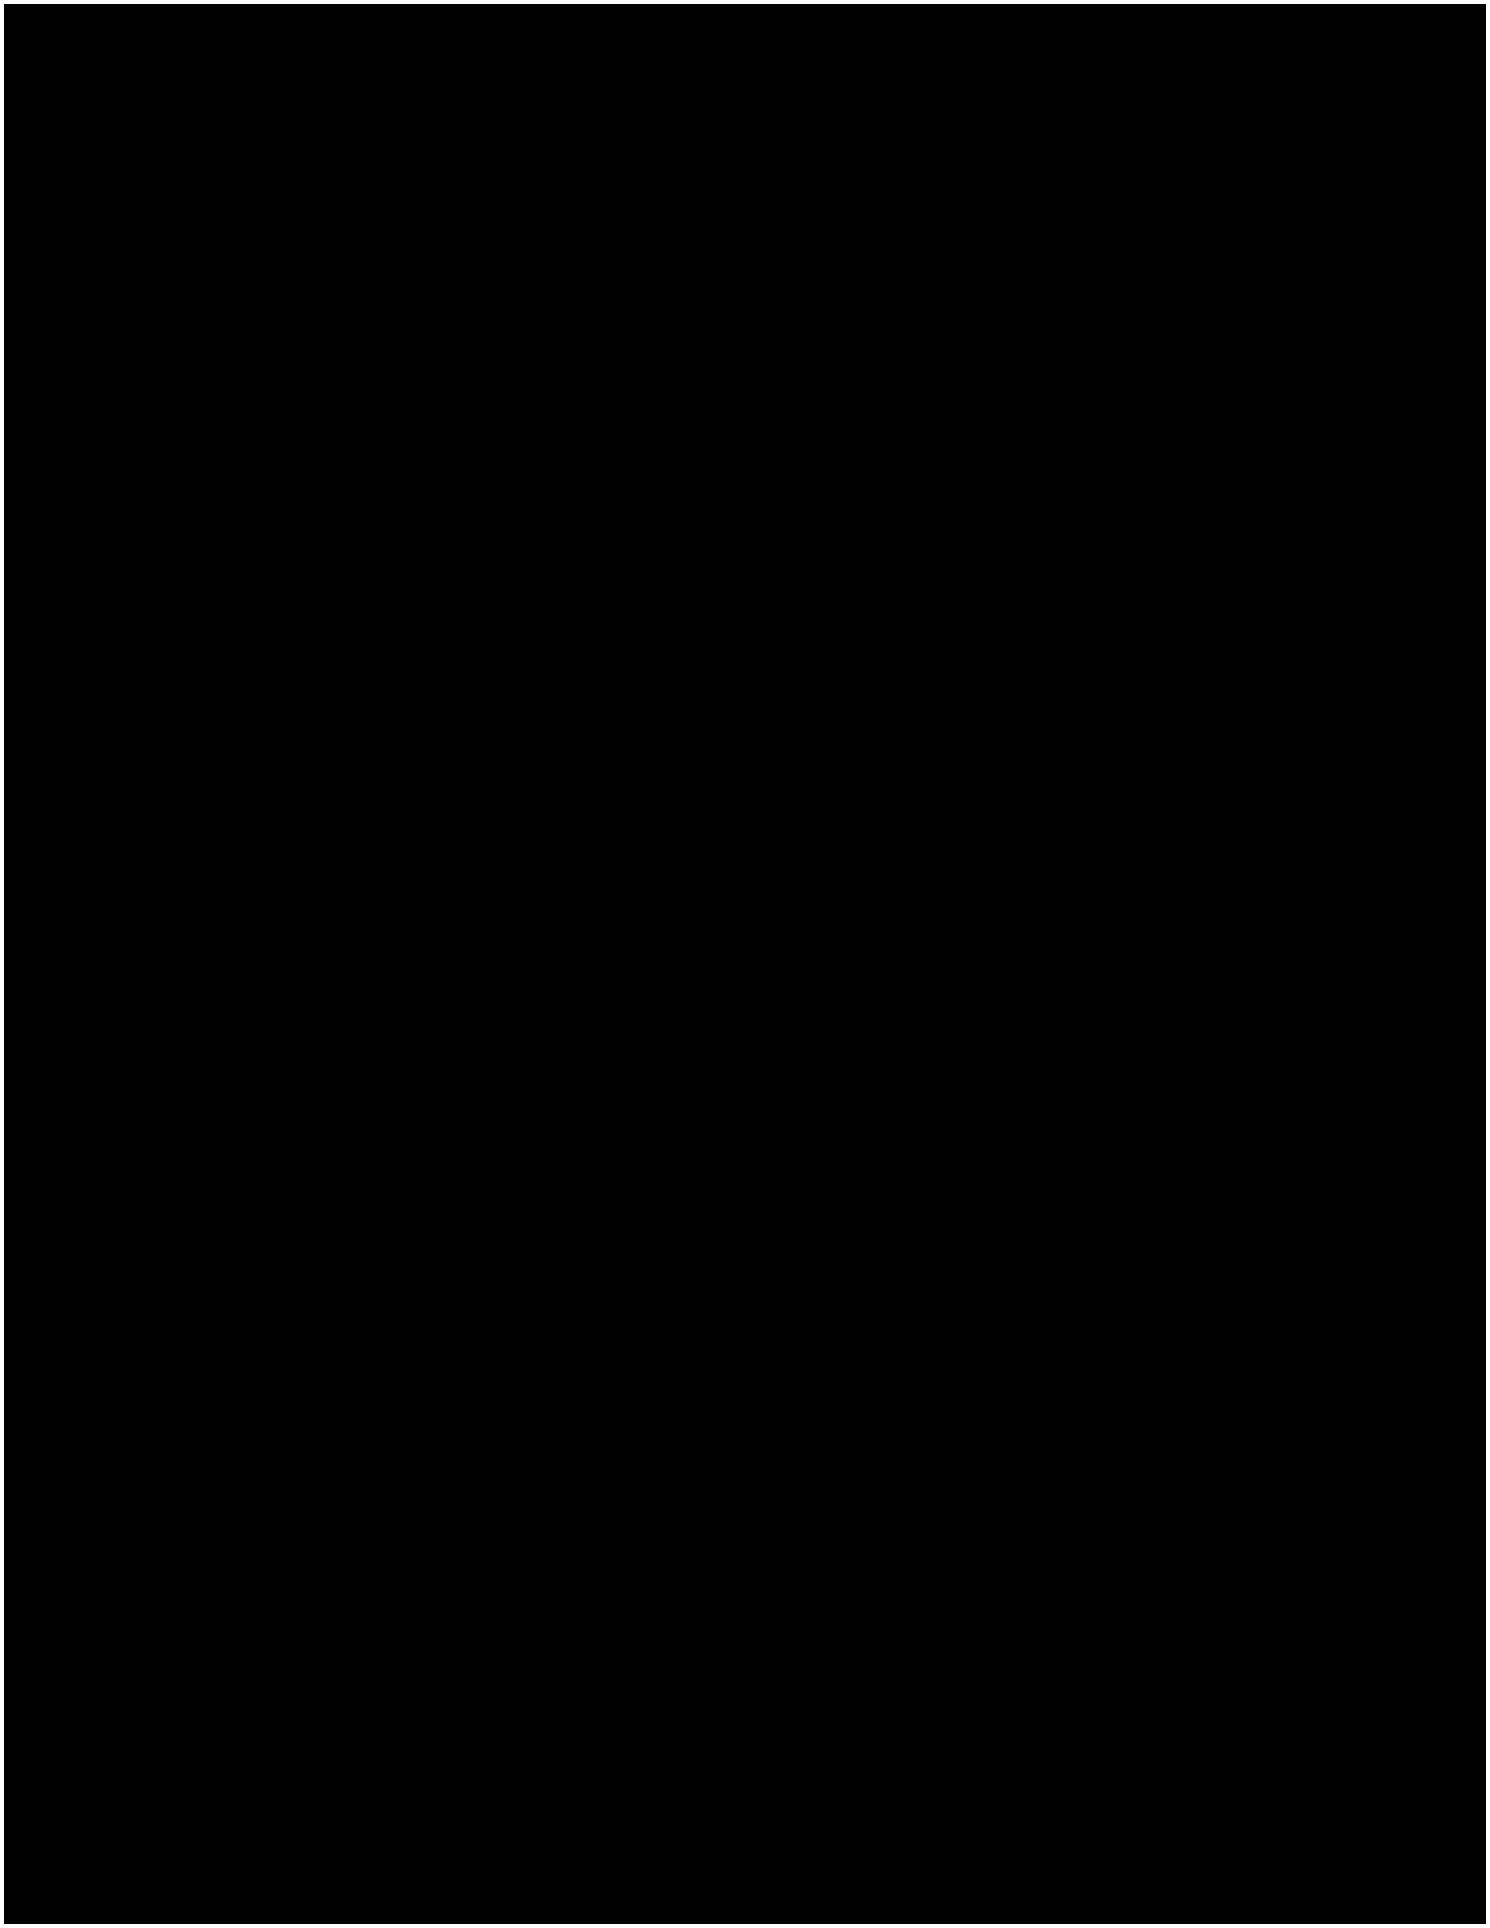


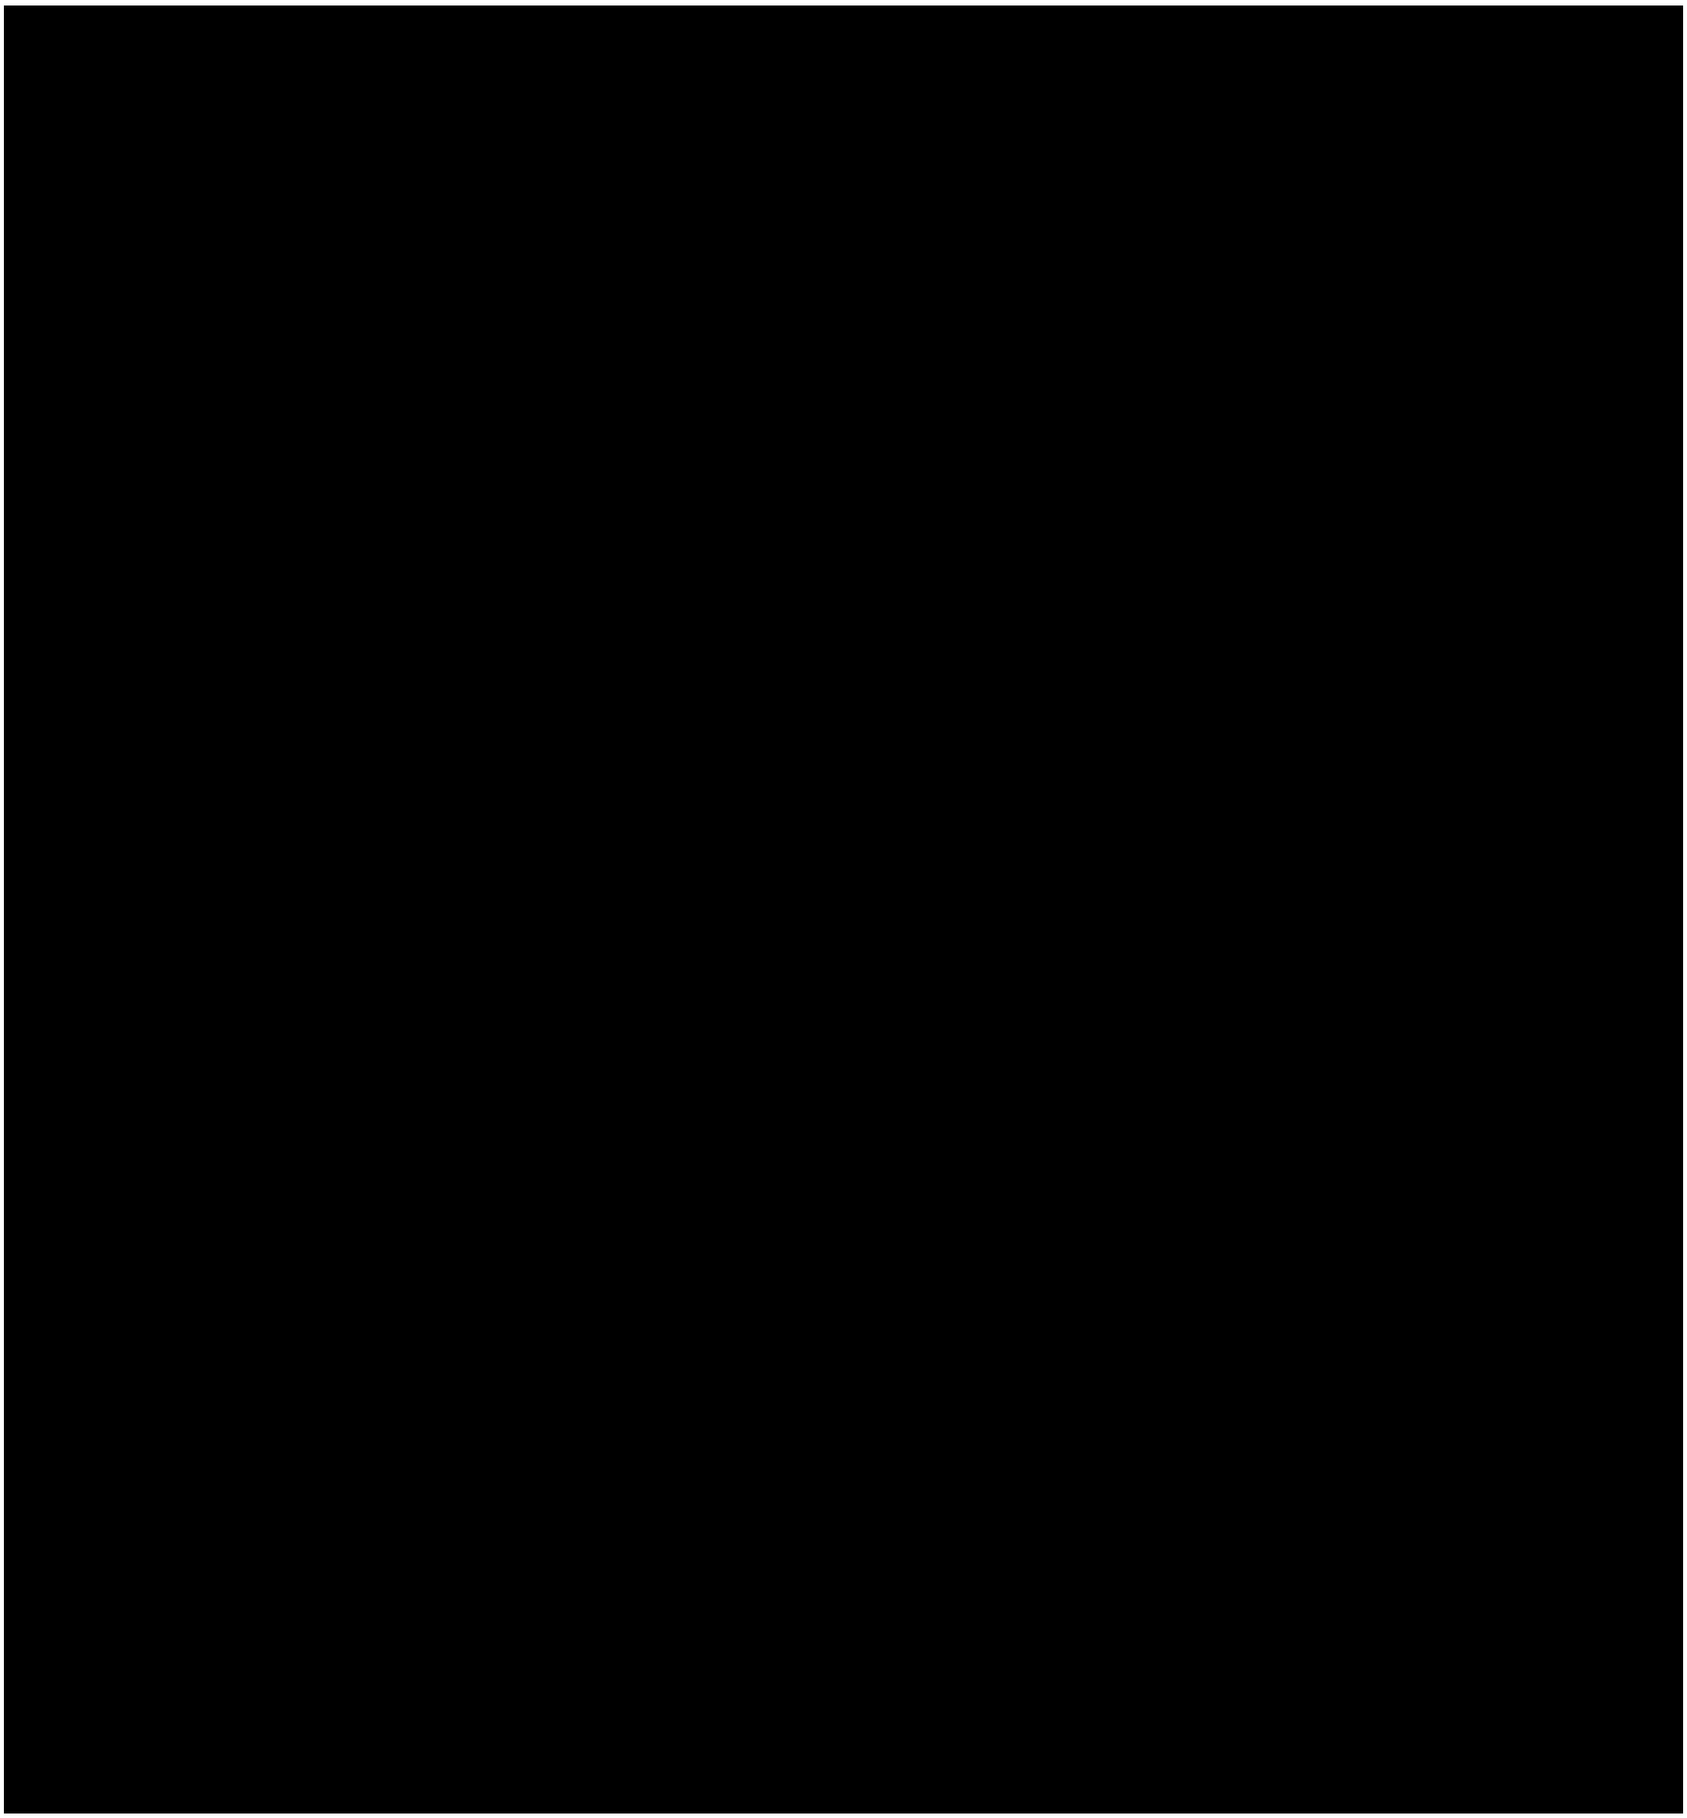


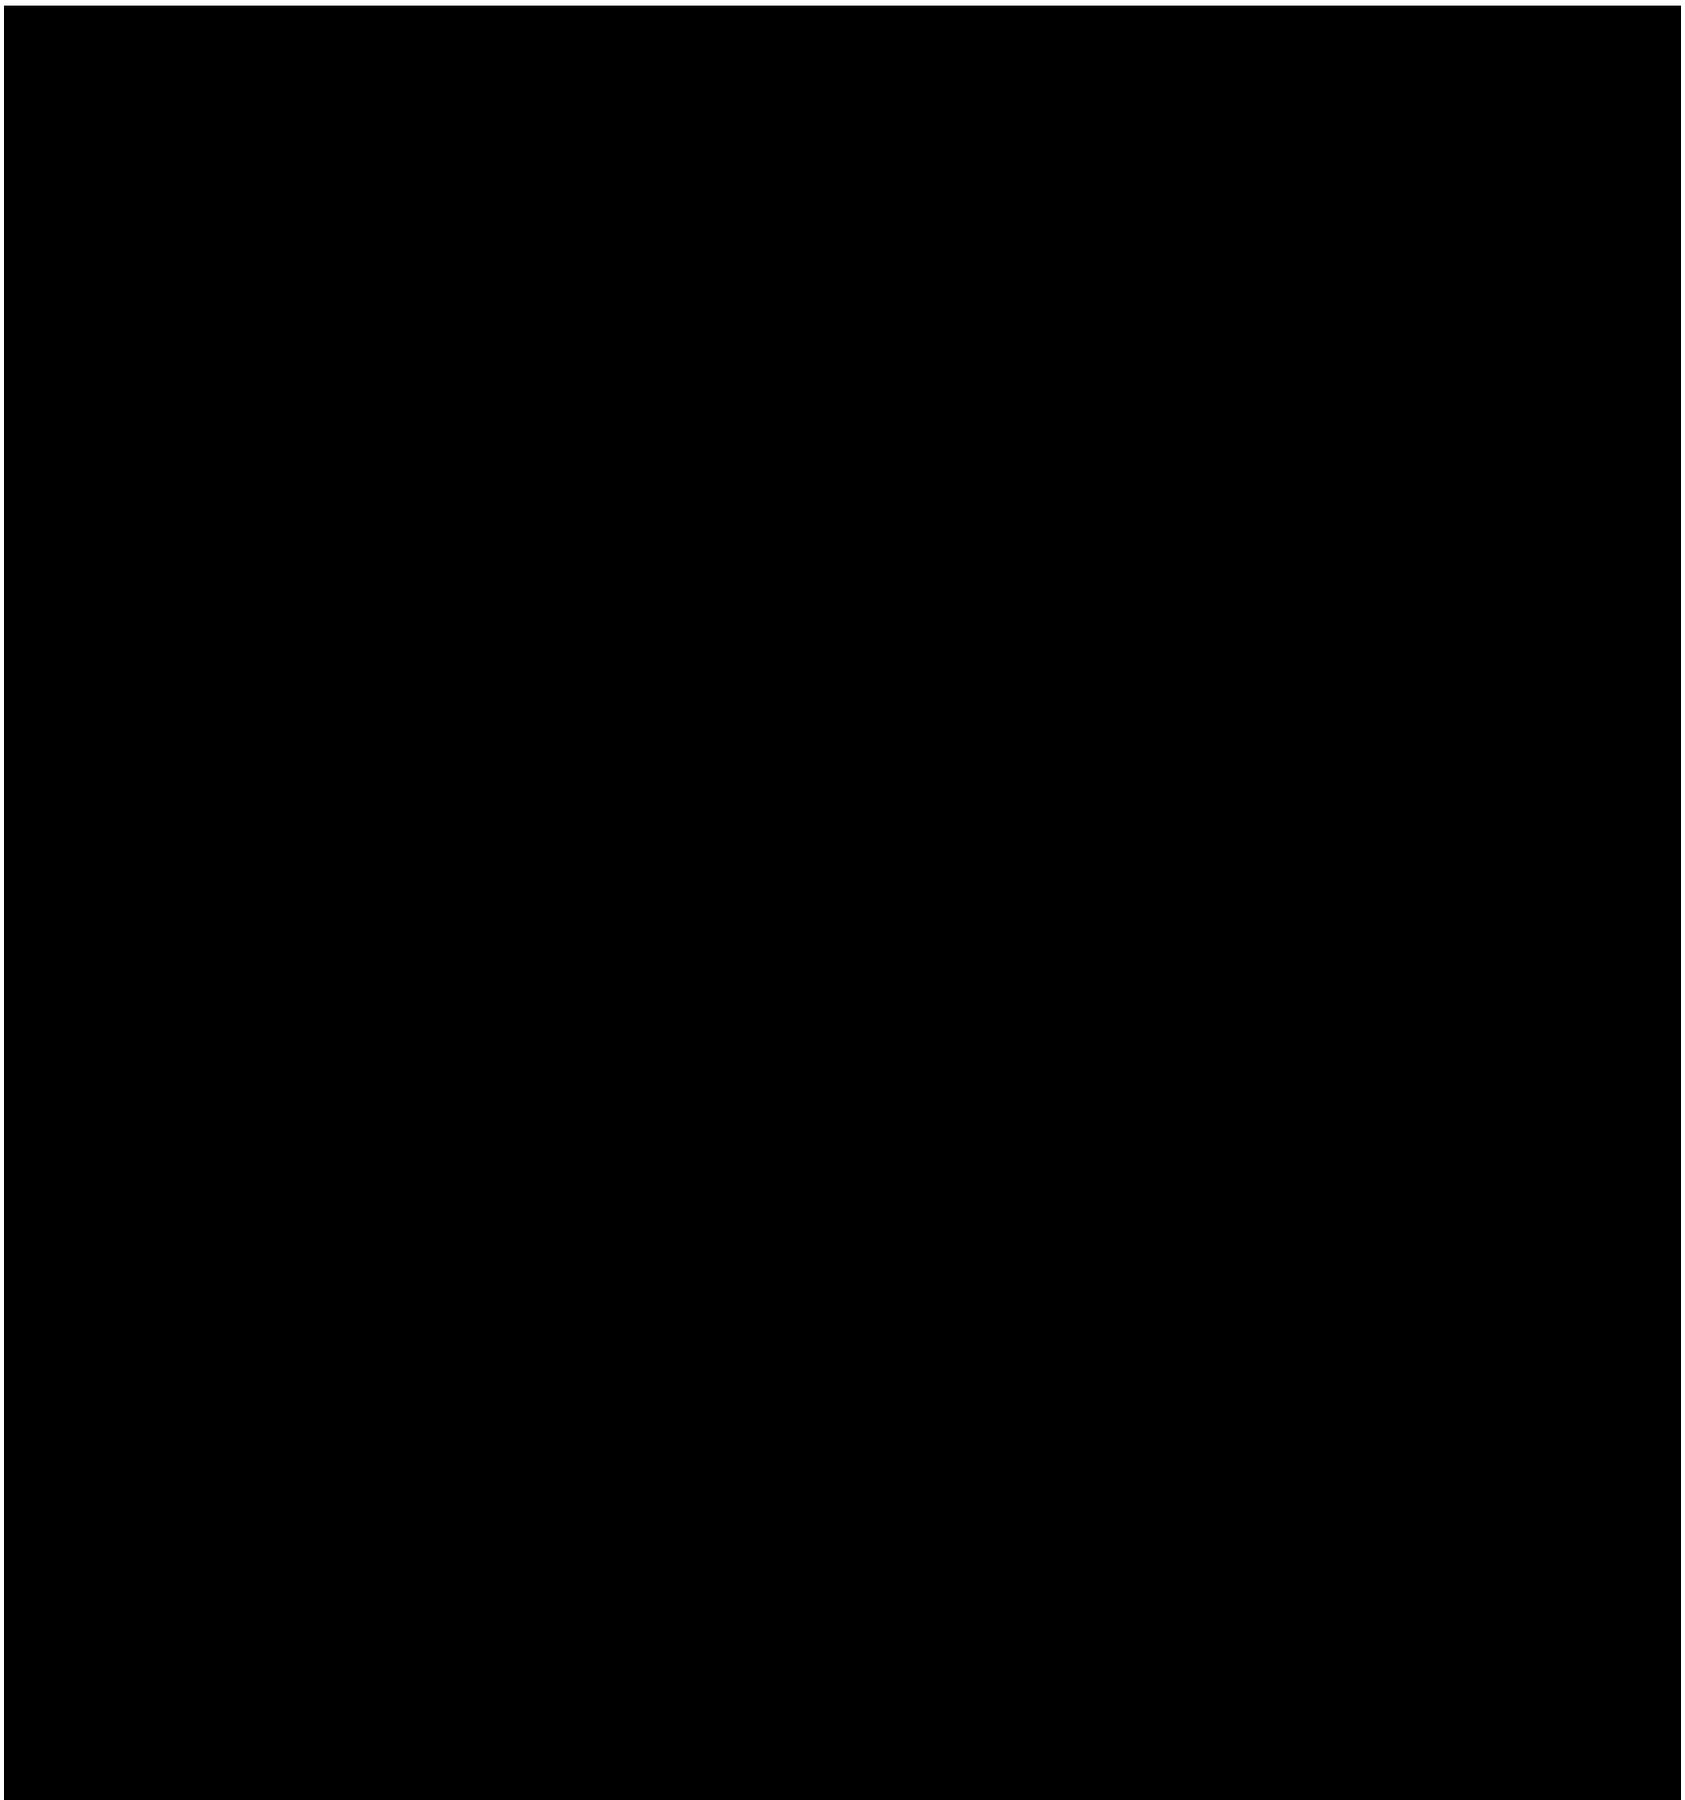


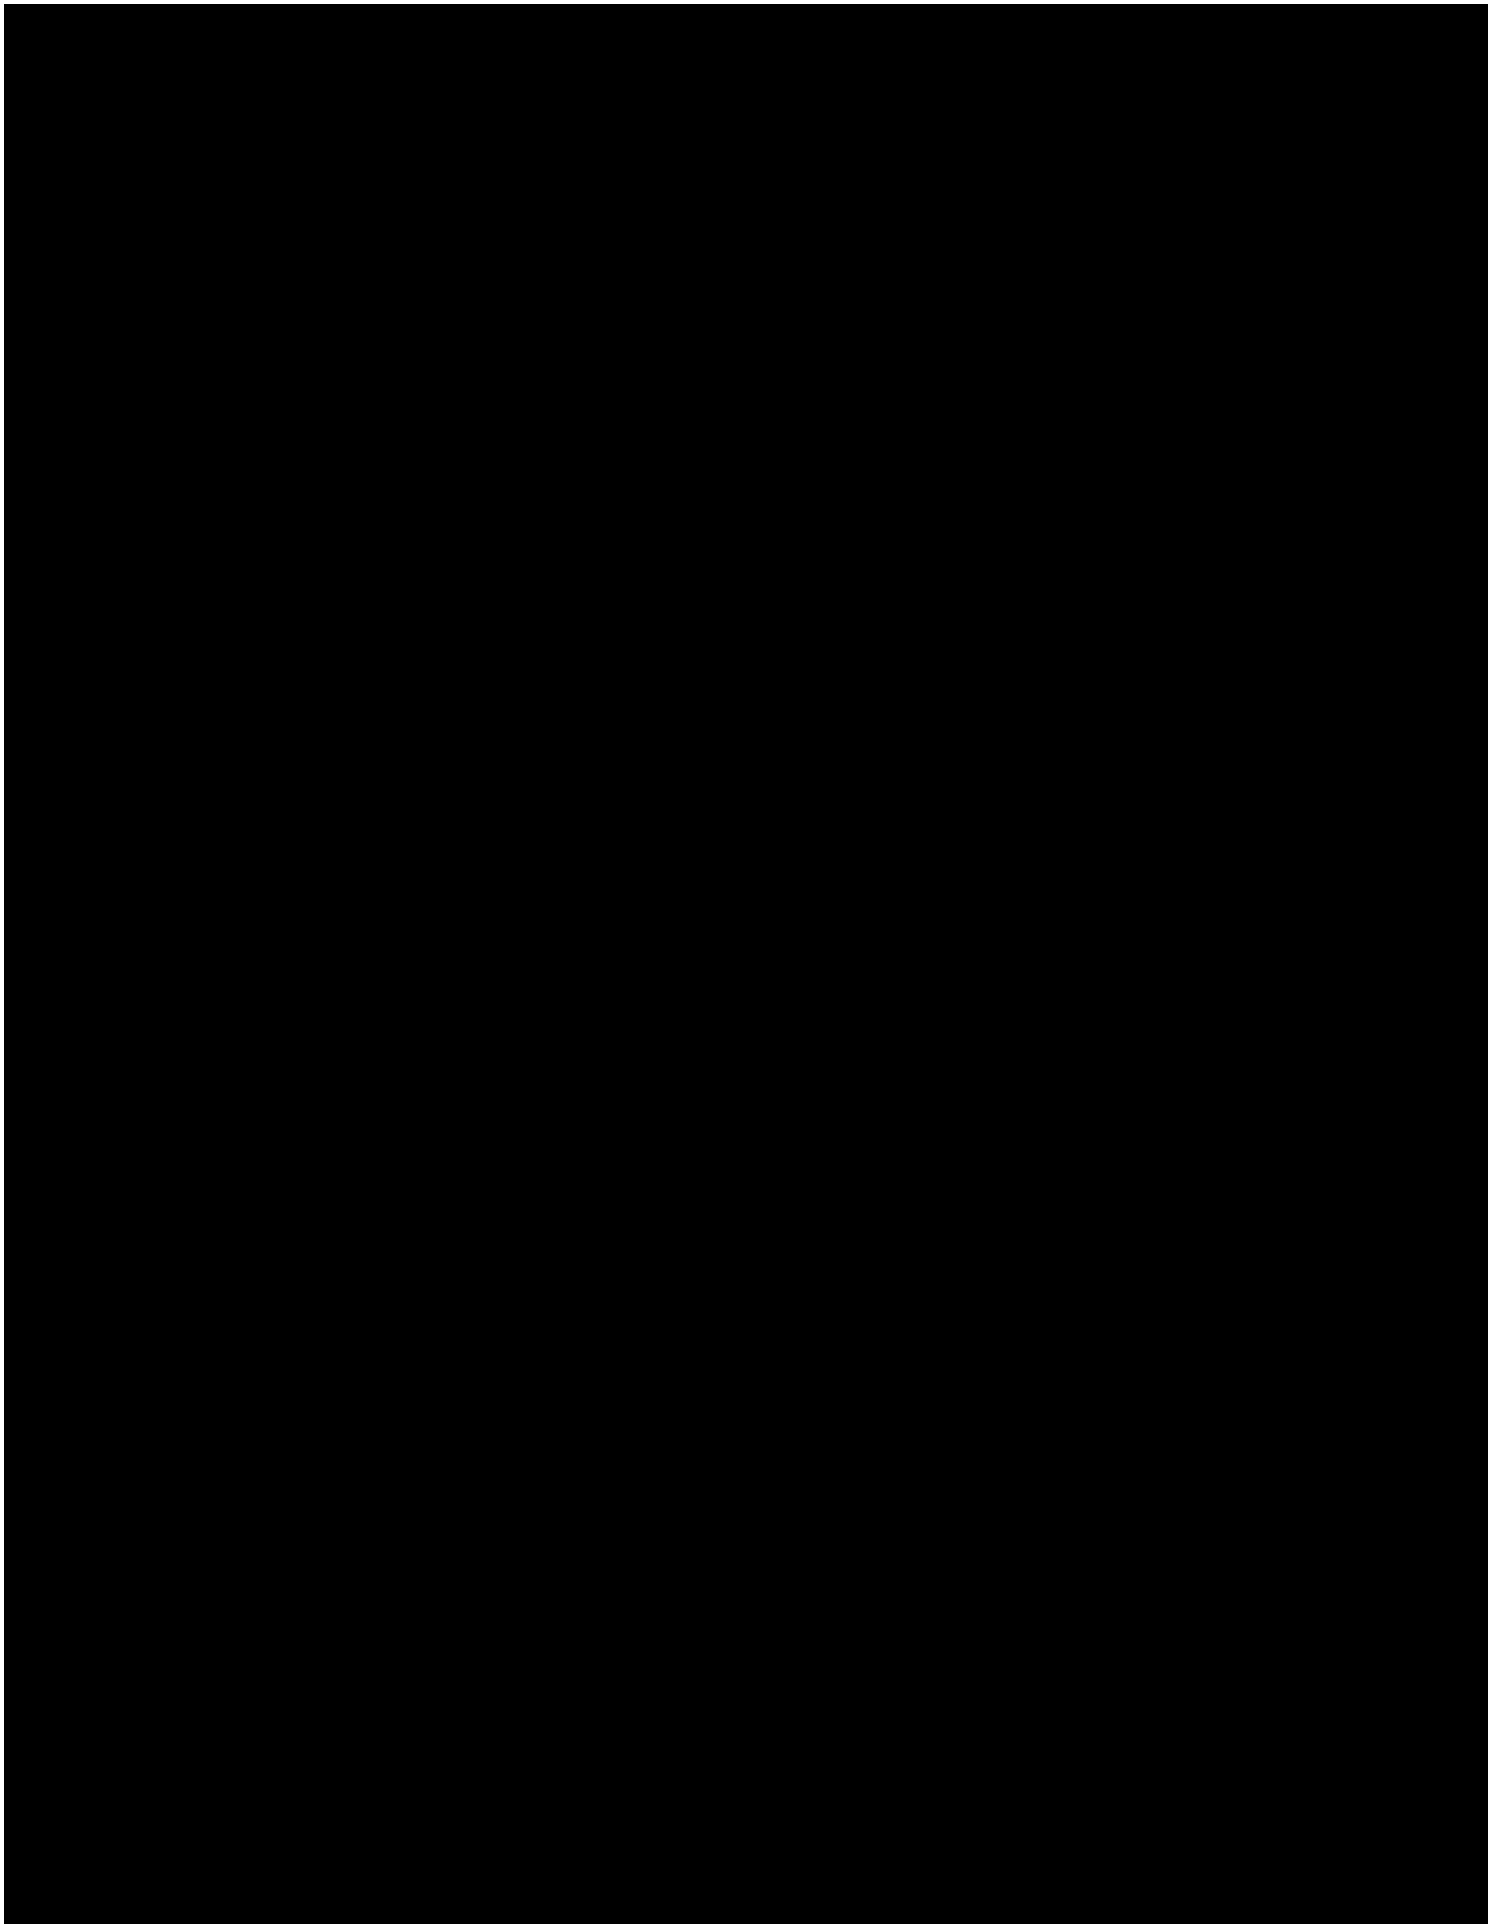


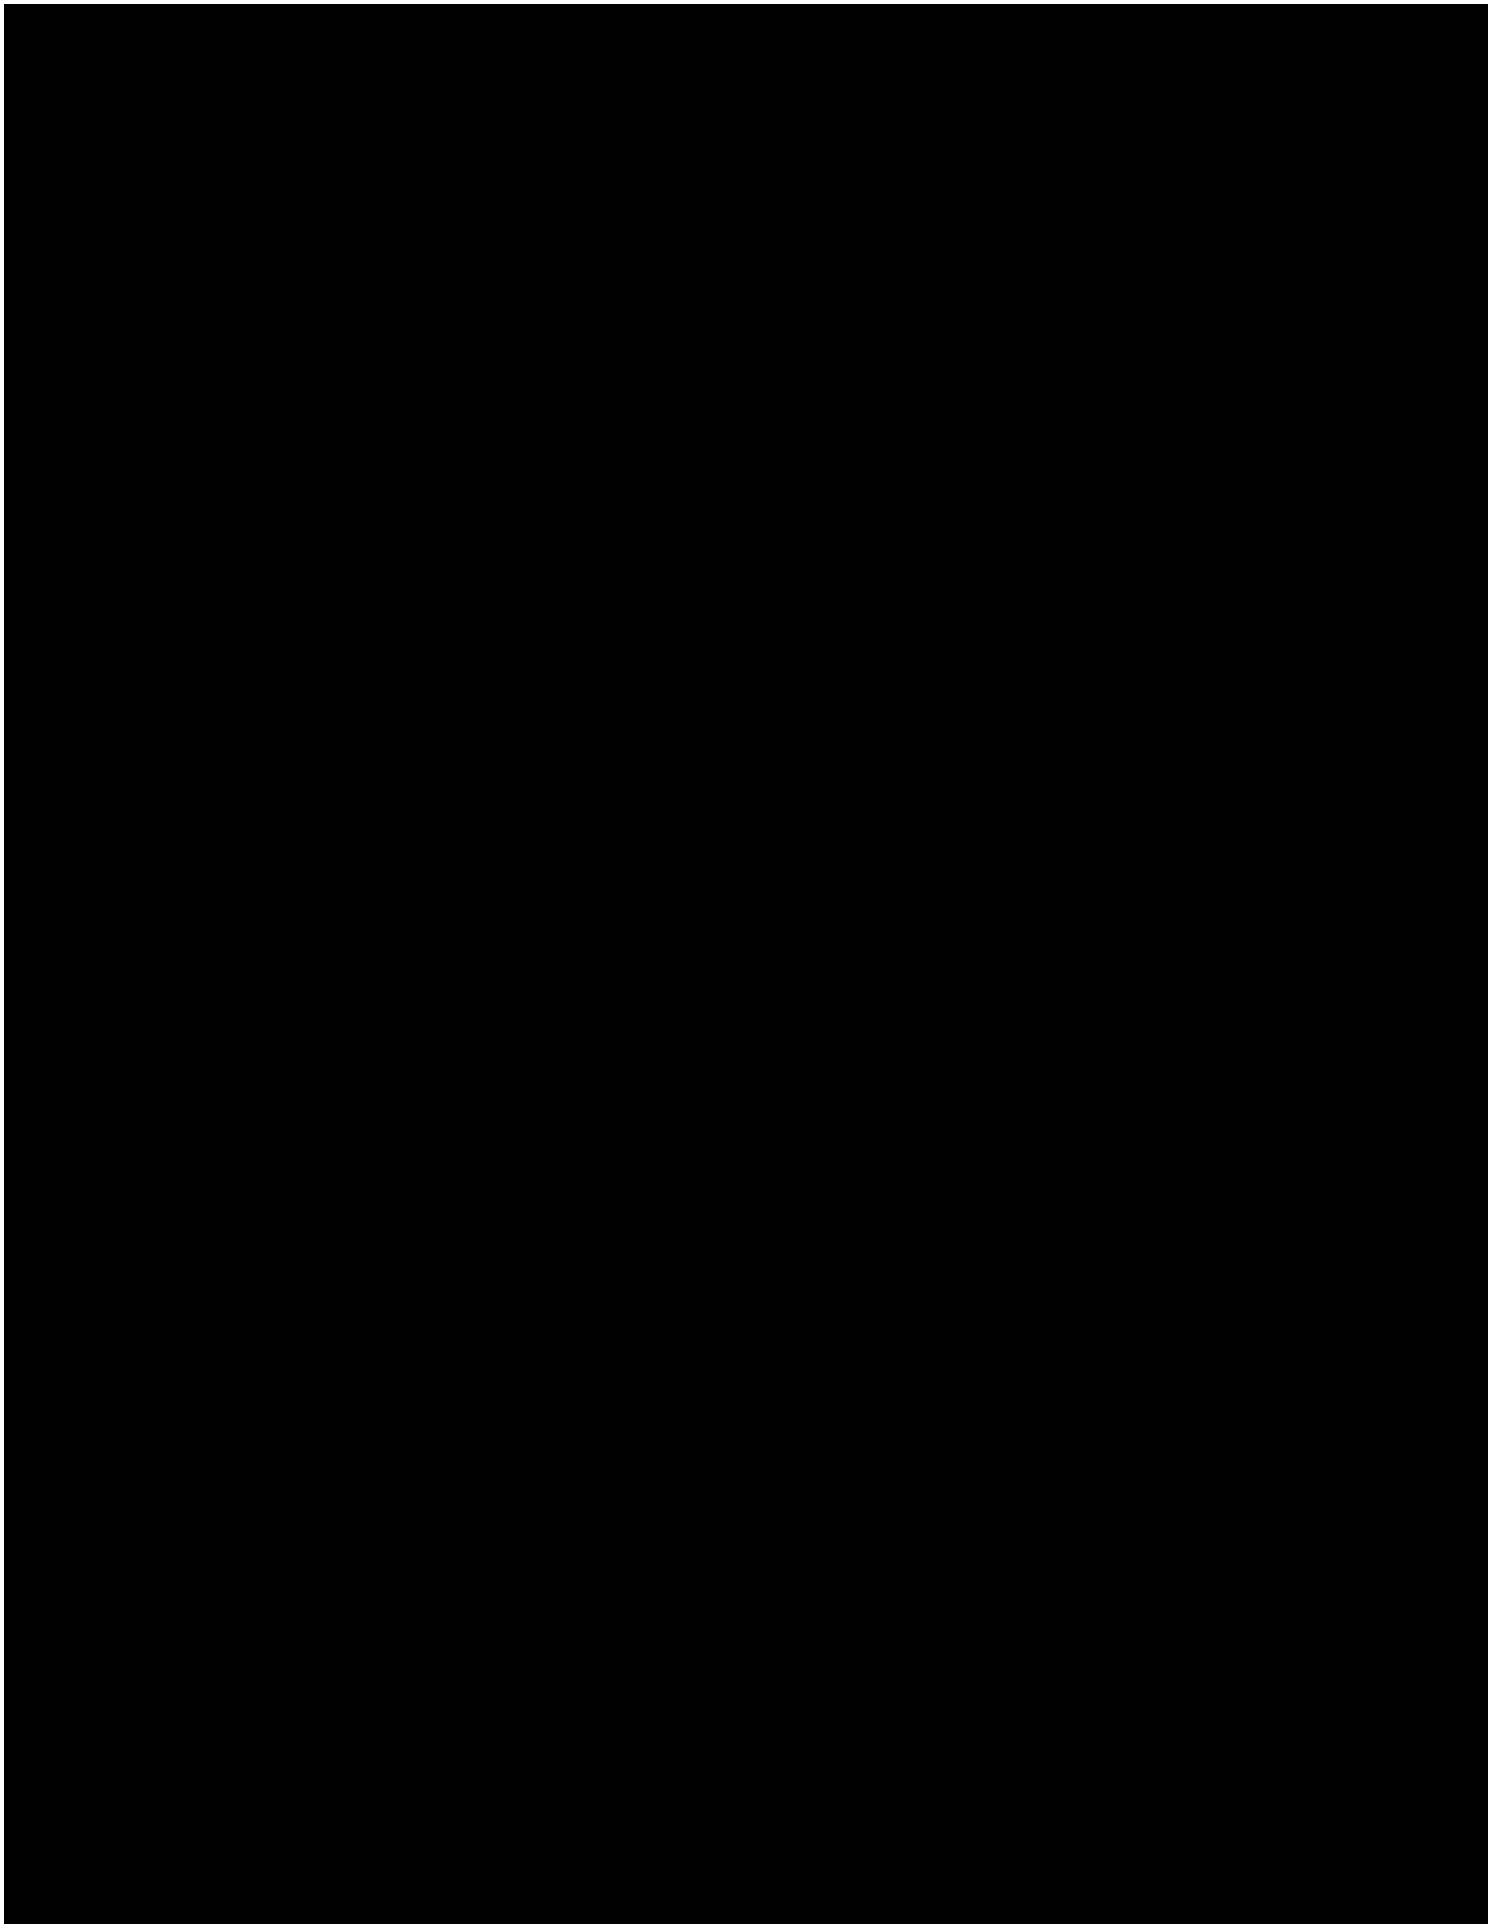


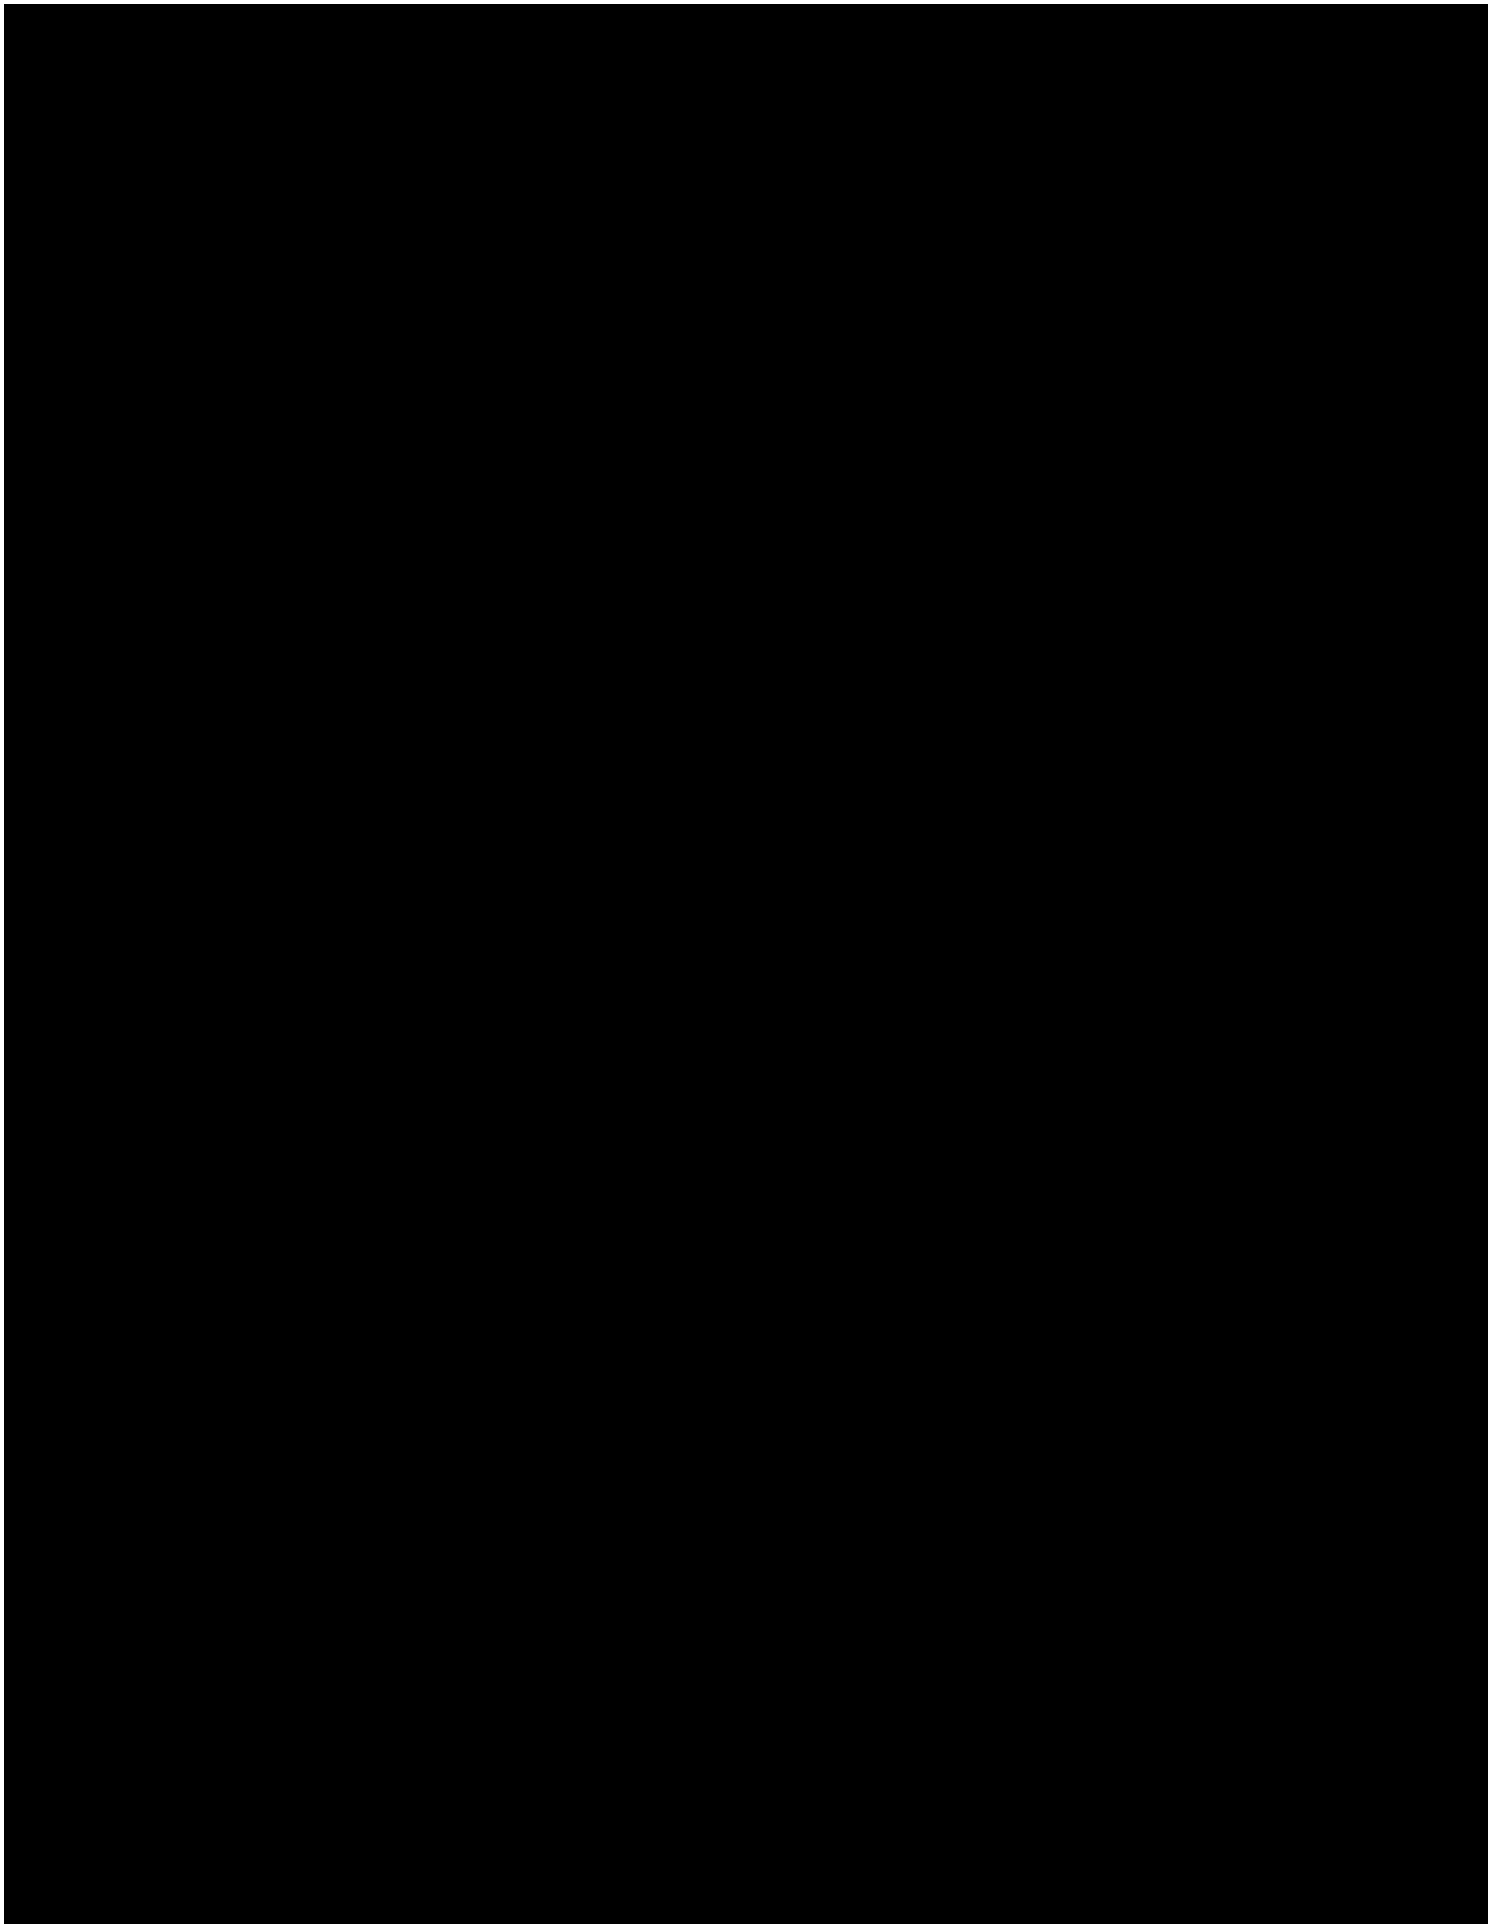


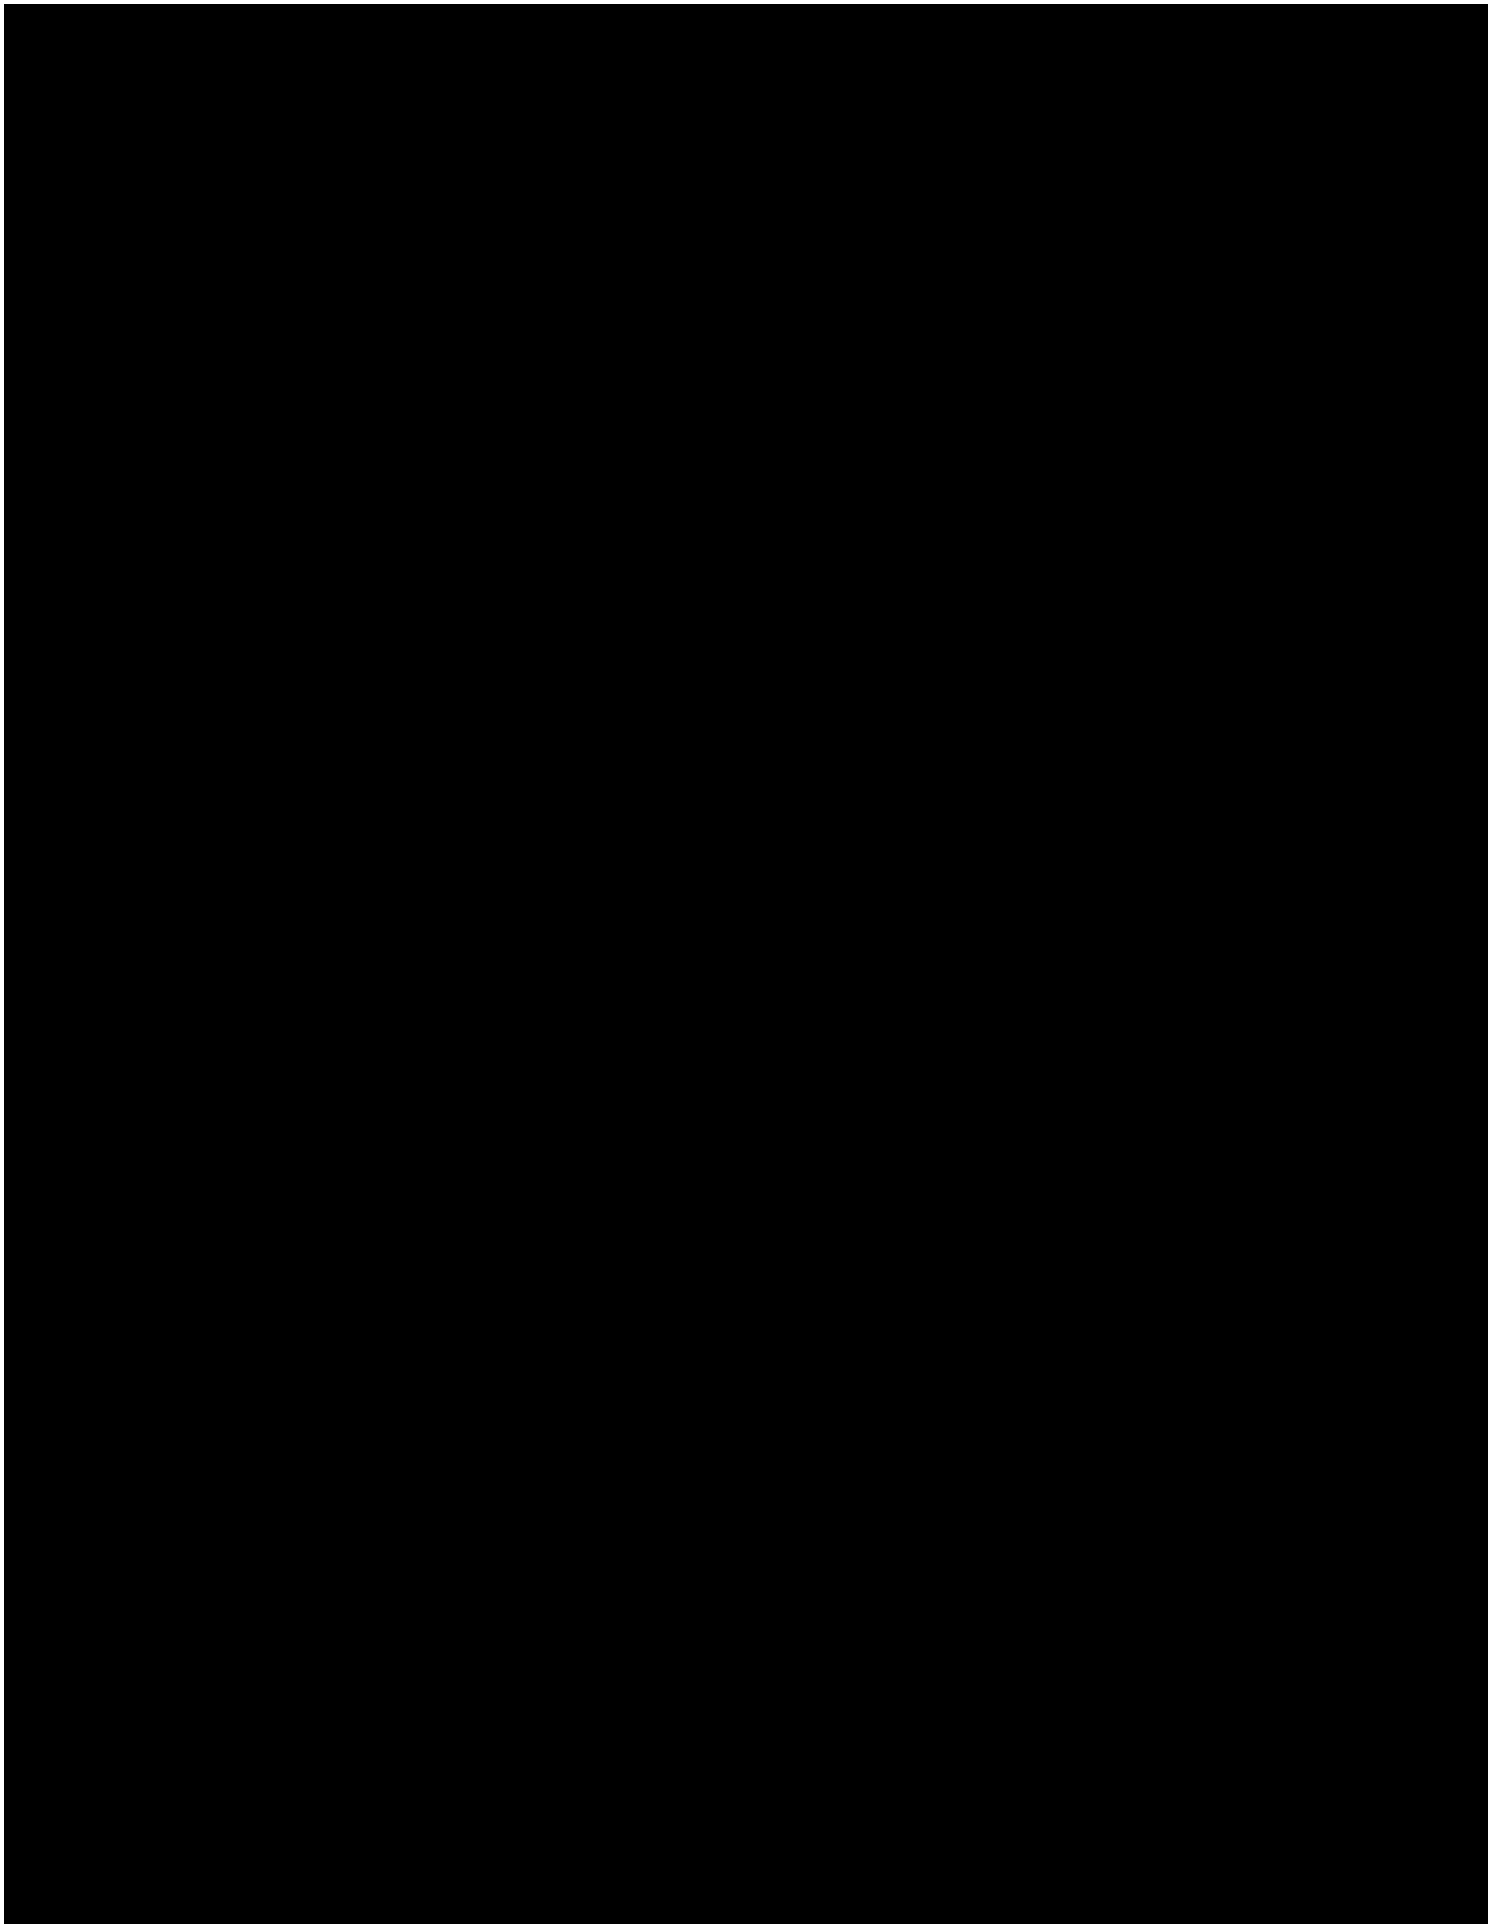












STATEMENT OF PHILOSOPHY

The Booneville Human Development Center (BHDC) is organized as a public institution to serve persons with developmental disabilities in the State of Arkansas under statutory authority of Act 320 of the 69th General Assembly of Arkansas. BHDC is committed to the philosophy of equal rights, human dignity and freedom for all.

The Interdisciplinary Team (IDT) approach to individualized program plan development, and the monitoring of the client's progress is employed. The full participation of clients, parents and advocates in the programming process is encouraged and desired. This participation includes full and open communication and visits to campus.

It is the intent of BHDC to provide active treatment for adults with developmental disabilities. Programming is based on the "developmental model", which is a principle and an awareness of the client's ability to progress toward established goals.

The behavioral model for programming and discipline is used at BHDC. The ultimate aim of BHDC is to foster those behaviors that maximize the human qualities of the client, increase the complexity of his/her behavior, enhance his/her ability to cope with his/her environments and provide opportunities to make choices. This approach will enable the client to grow by experiencing both successes and failures.

It is, therefore, our purpose to:

1. Provide a residential and training environment that will foster the development of the client's physical, intellectual and social capabilities to the fullest extent possible.

2. Provide emotional maturity and to develop skills, habits and attitudes essential for either the return to or successful placement in the community.

3. Provide and protect constitutional rights guaranteed to all American citizens, both staff and clients. Persons with developmental disabilities will be encouraged to exercise the same human and civil rights enjoyed by all citizens. Using due process, these rights, if limited or modified, will be only to the extent necessary based on the client's abilities.

4. Provide each client a comprehensive assessment to identify his/her present developmental level; strengths, abilities and developmental needs; and the conditions that impede development. This includes physical, sensorimotor, cognitive, communicative, emotional and social areas. Based on results of the assessment, an adequate program plan will be established to meet the individual needs of each client as determined by an appropriately constituted IDT.

5. Provide a warm, stimulating atmosphere for living and training which reflects age-appropriateness and respect for the client in the least restrictive environment.

6. Provide a positive programming approach for training skills and adaptive behaviors.

Fulfillment of the above-stated purpose will be provided in an ethical atmosphere as stated in BHDC Code of Ethics (See Attachment # 1).

BOONEVILLE HUMAN DEVELOPMENT CENTER

CODE OF ETHICS

As an employee of the Booneville Human Development Center (BHDC) I commit to conduct myself in accord with this code and I subscribe to the following statements:

I will uphold and advance the values, ethics, philosophy and mission of BHDC.

I will contribute my knowledge, skills and support to the programs of BHDC and to the clients served.

I regard the welfare of the clients served as my primary obligation.

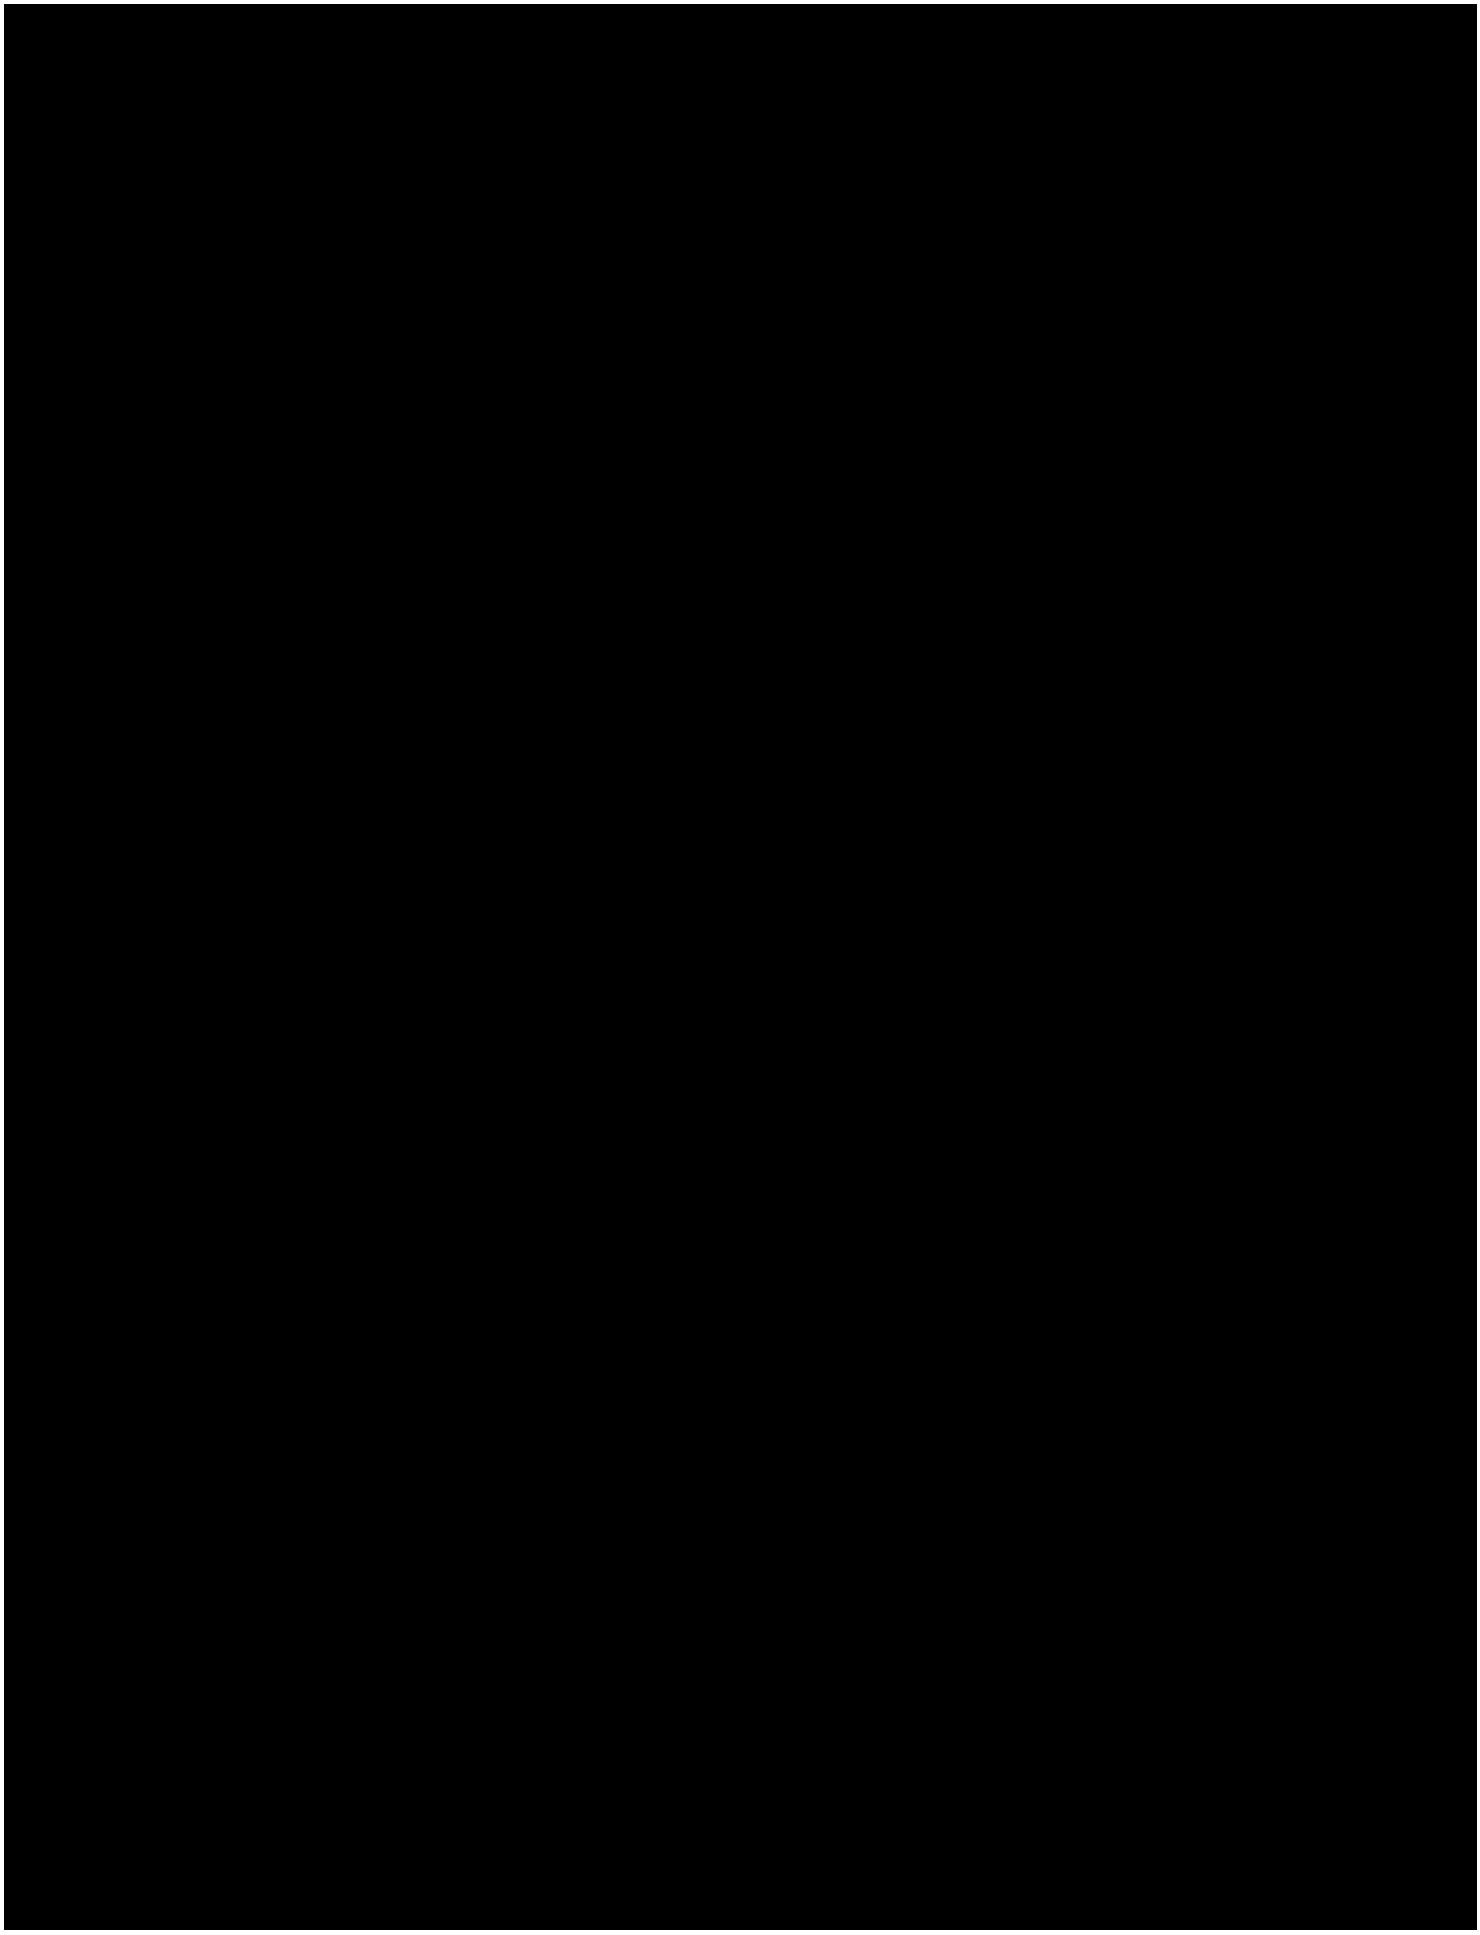
I will treat clients and other employees with respect, courtesy, good faith, and without bias or prejudice.

I will respect the privacy of the clients I serve.

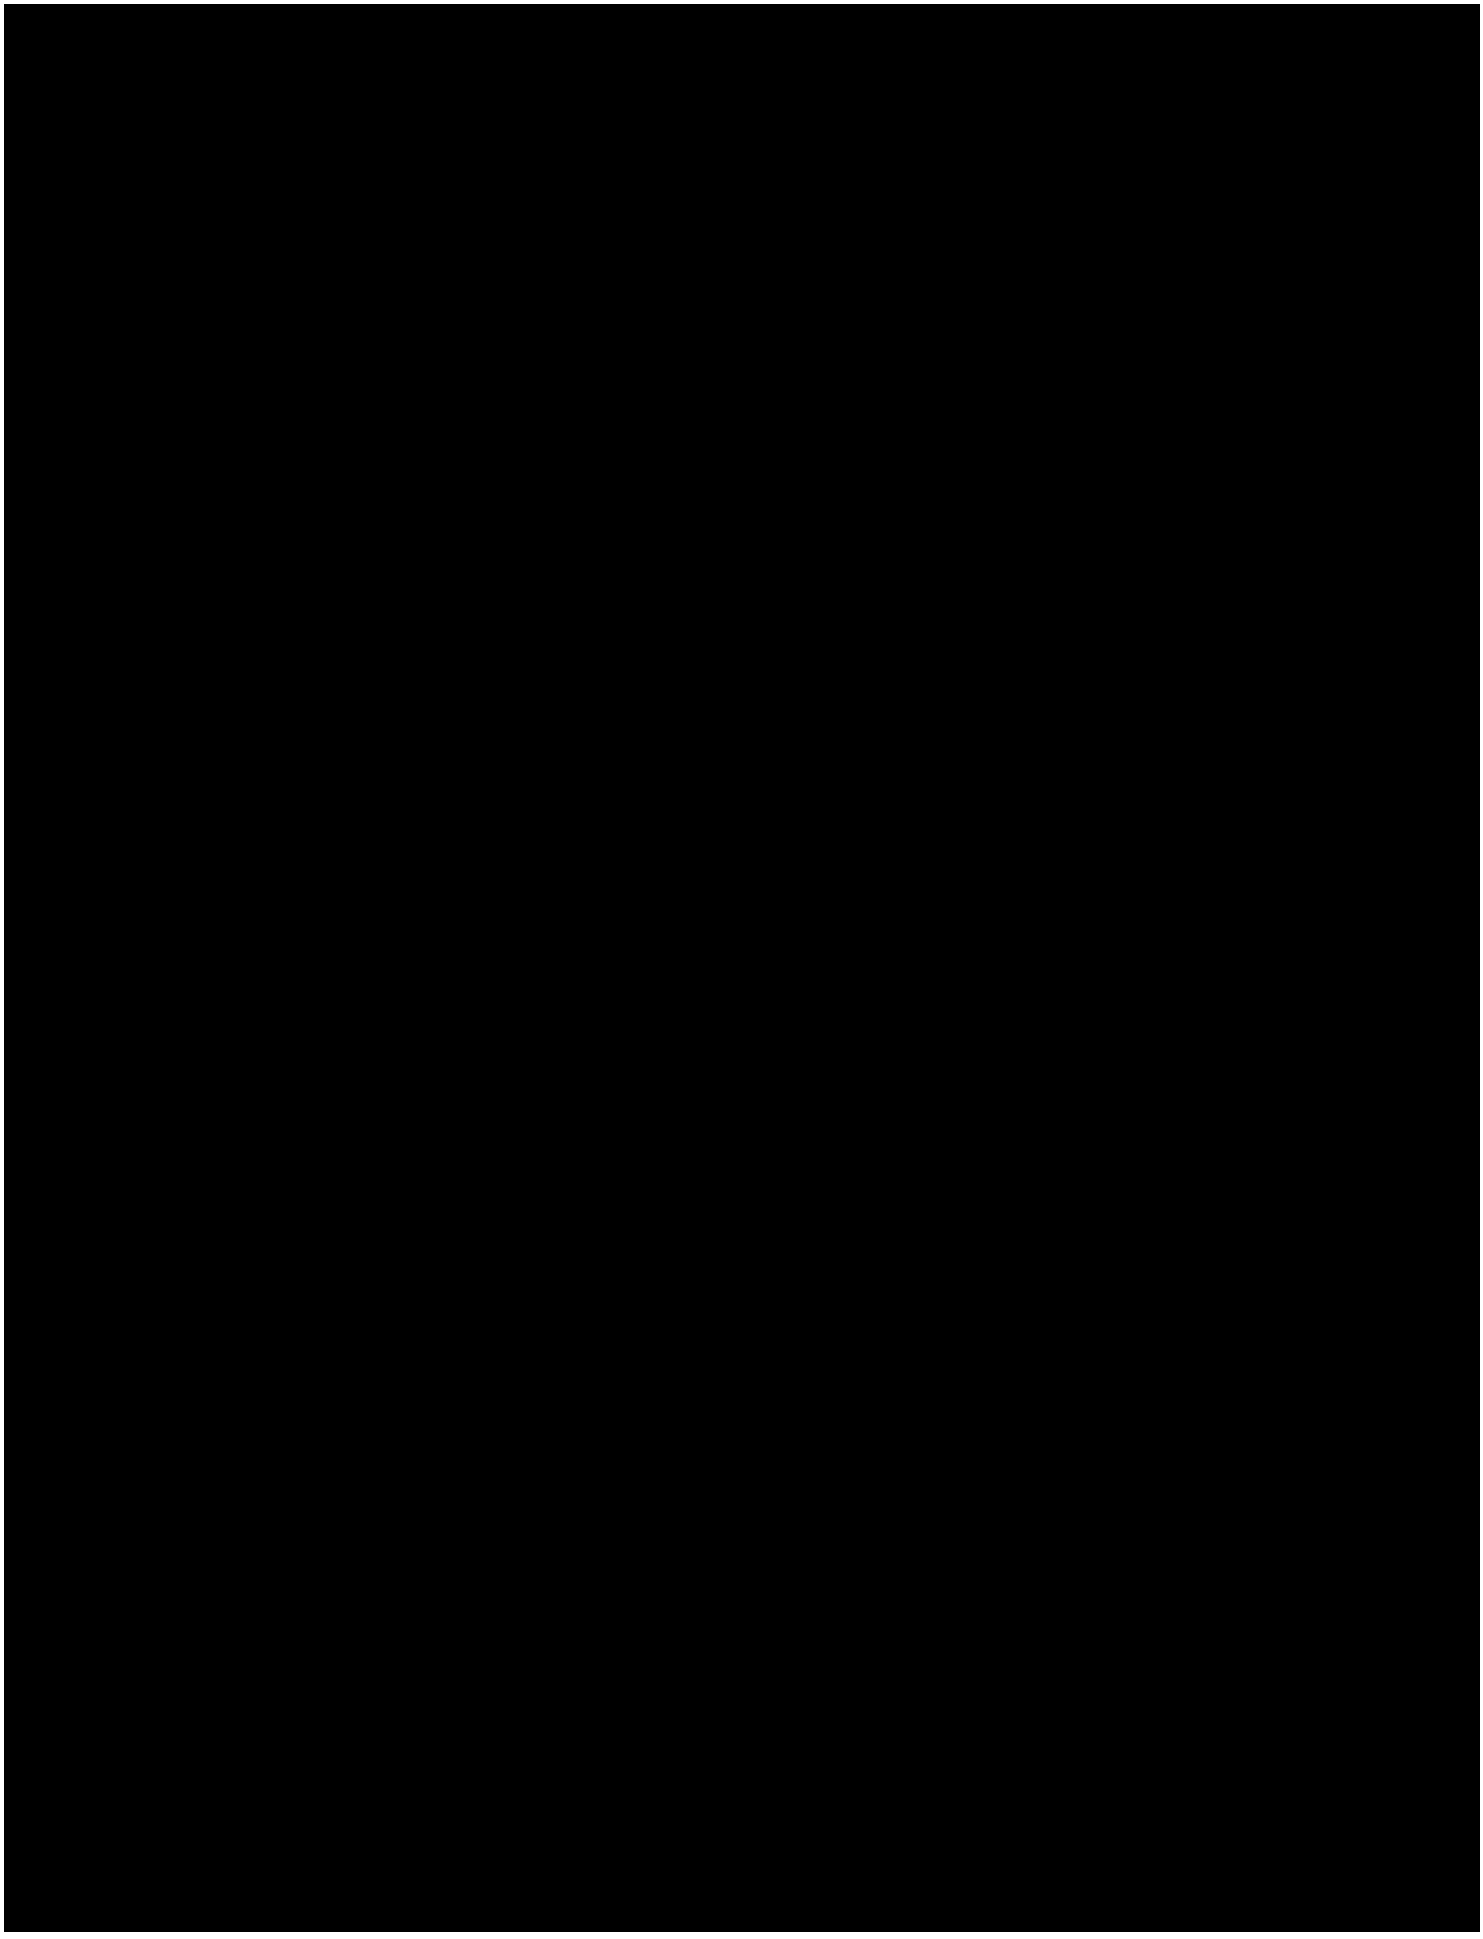
I will maintain client confidentiality.

I will do no harm to the clients I serve.

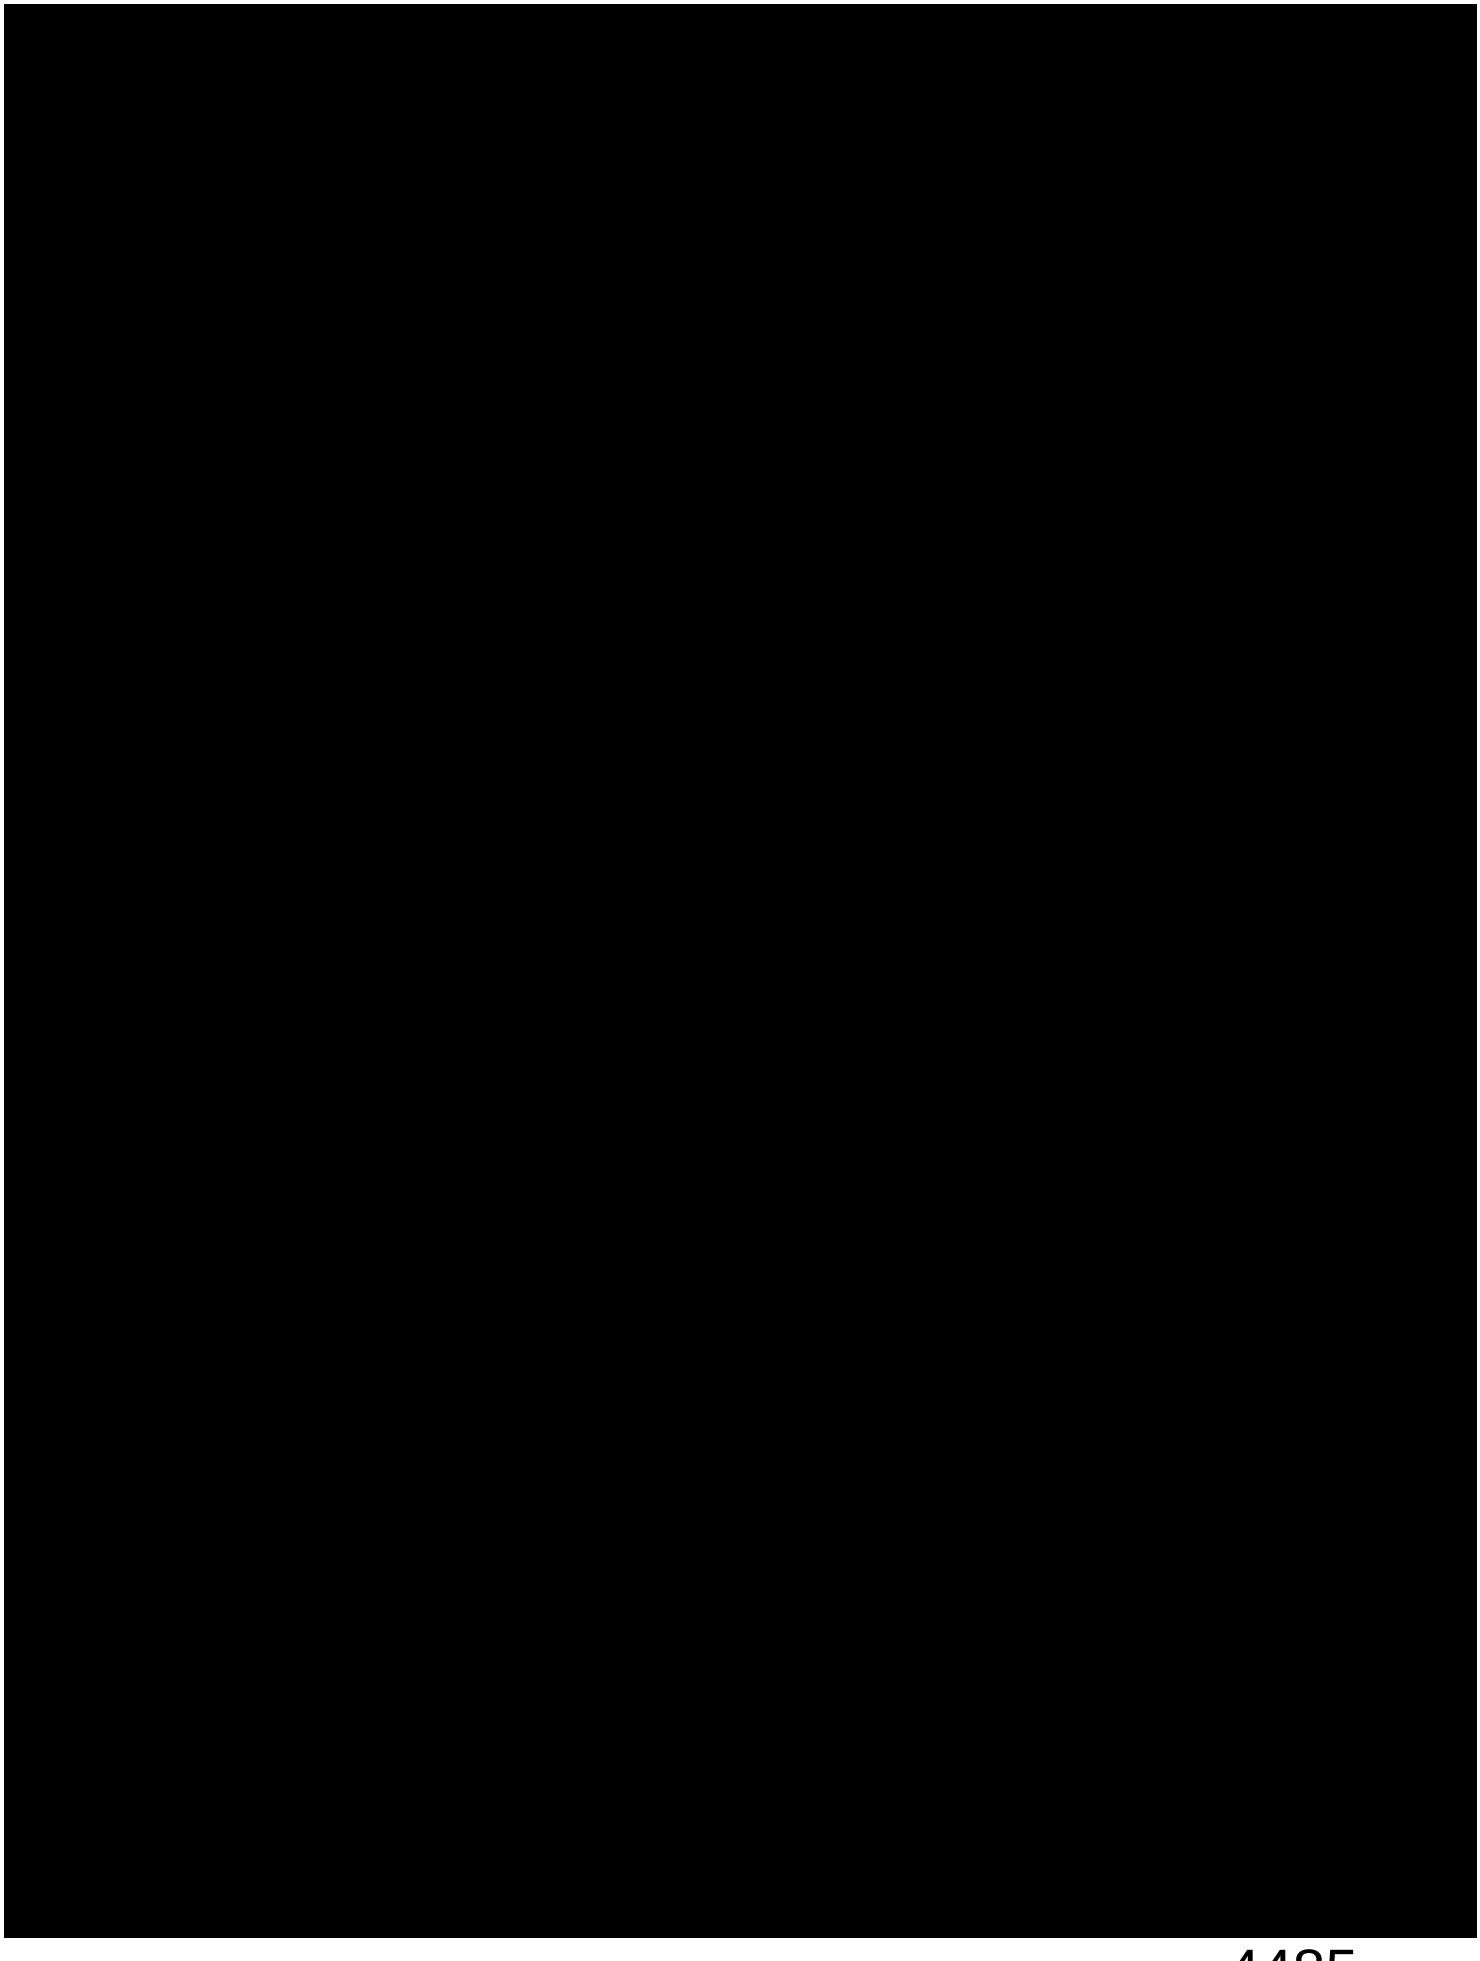
I will use appropriate channels to express my opinions.



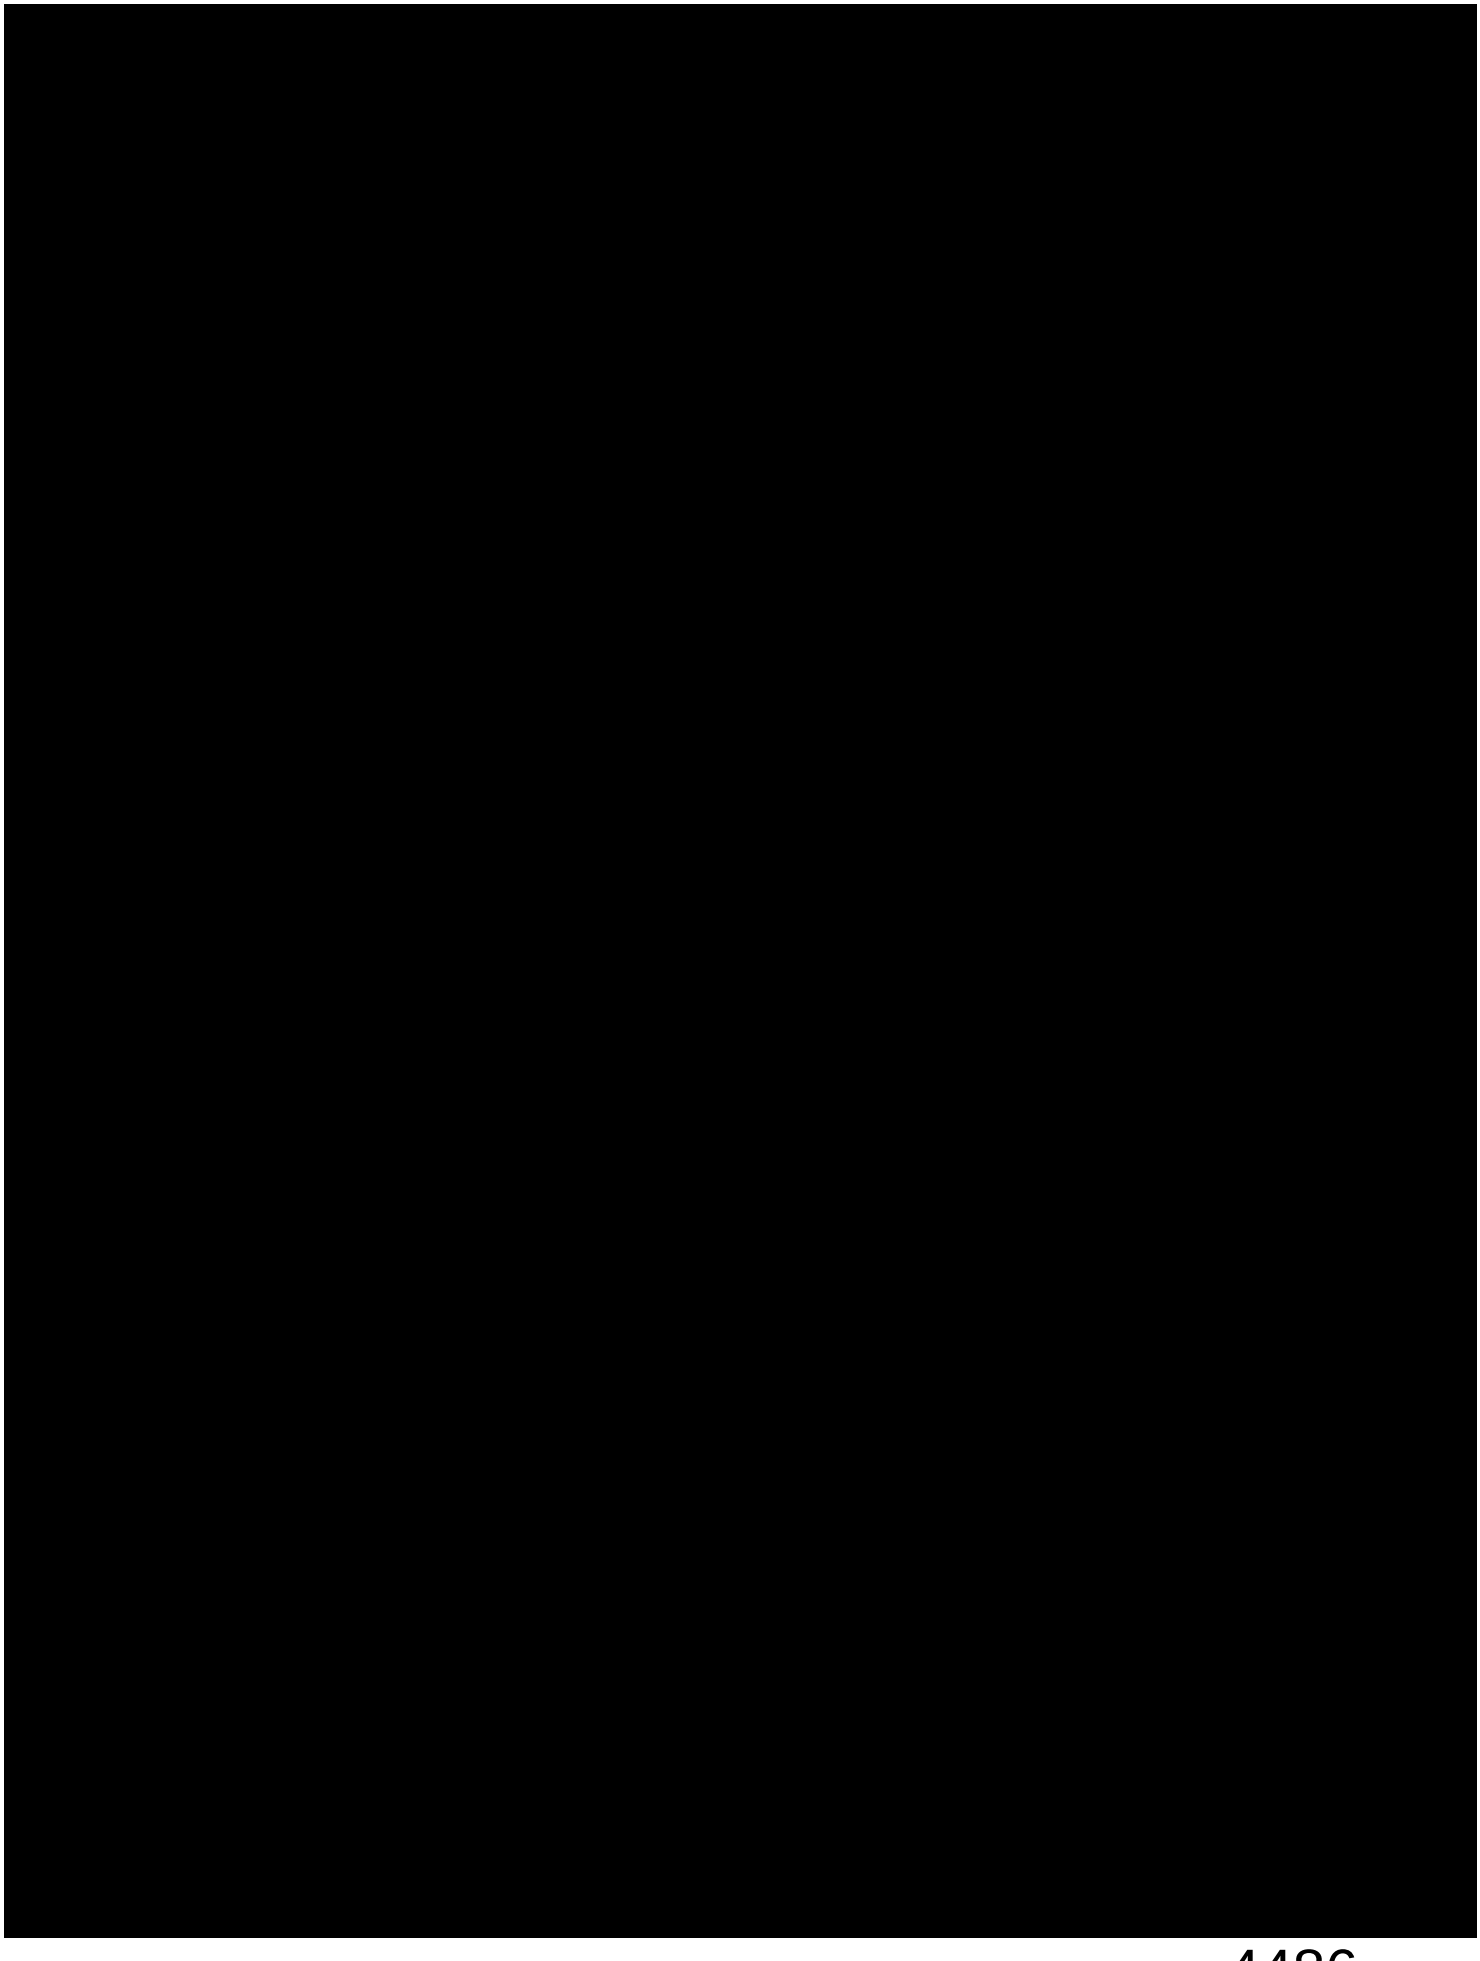
I will accept responsibility to protect BHDC against unethical practice by others.



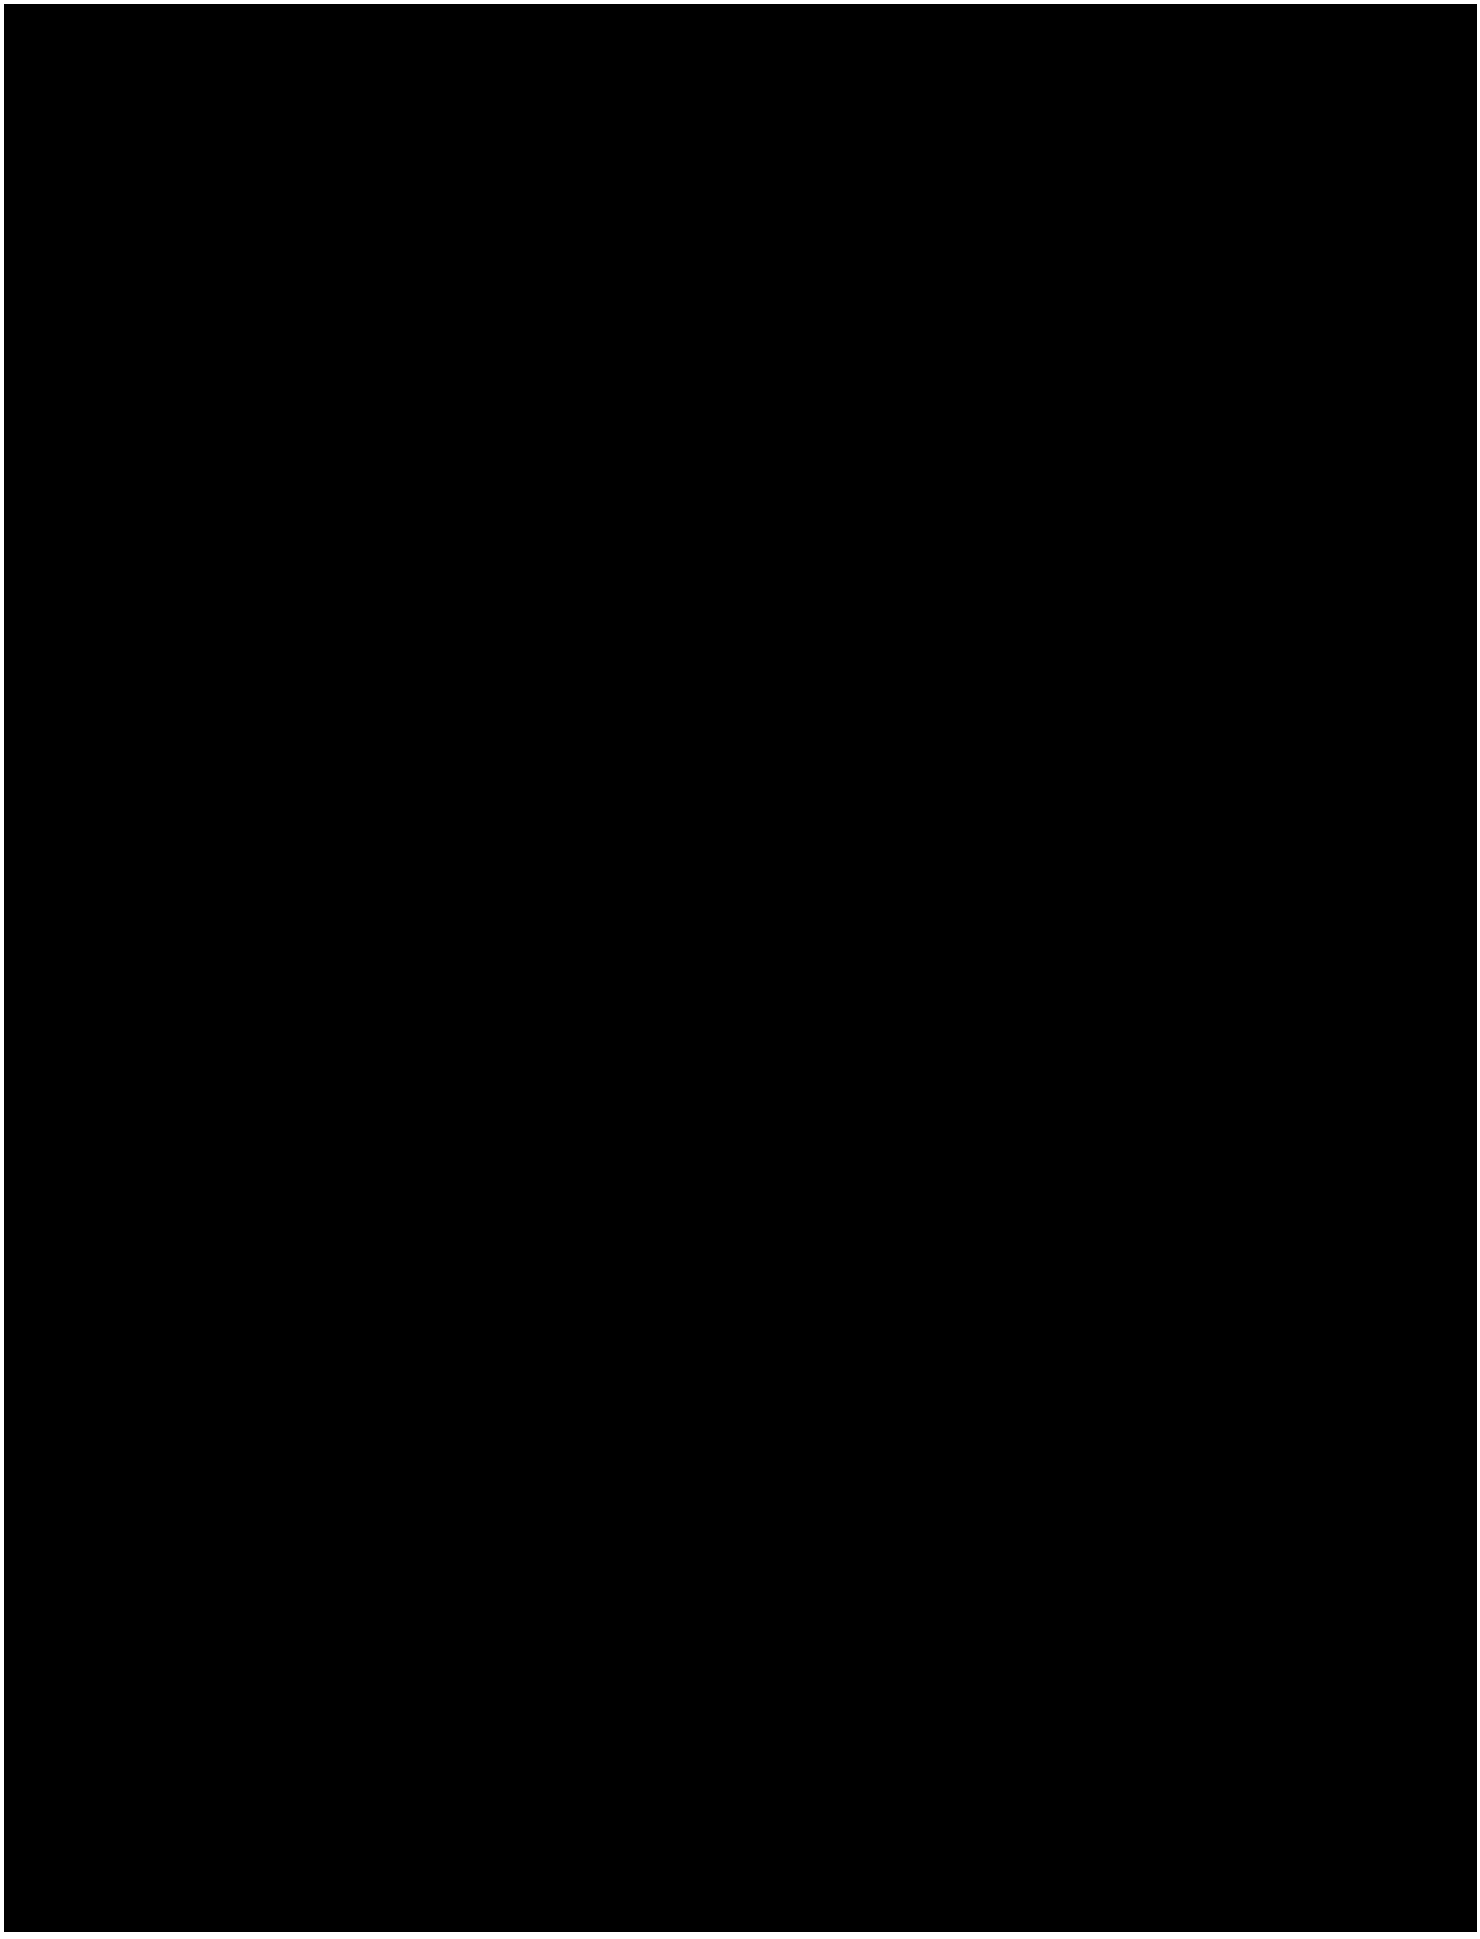
I will distinguish clearly, in public, between my statements and actions as an individual and as an employee of BHDC.



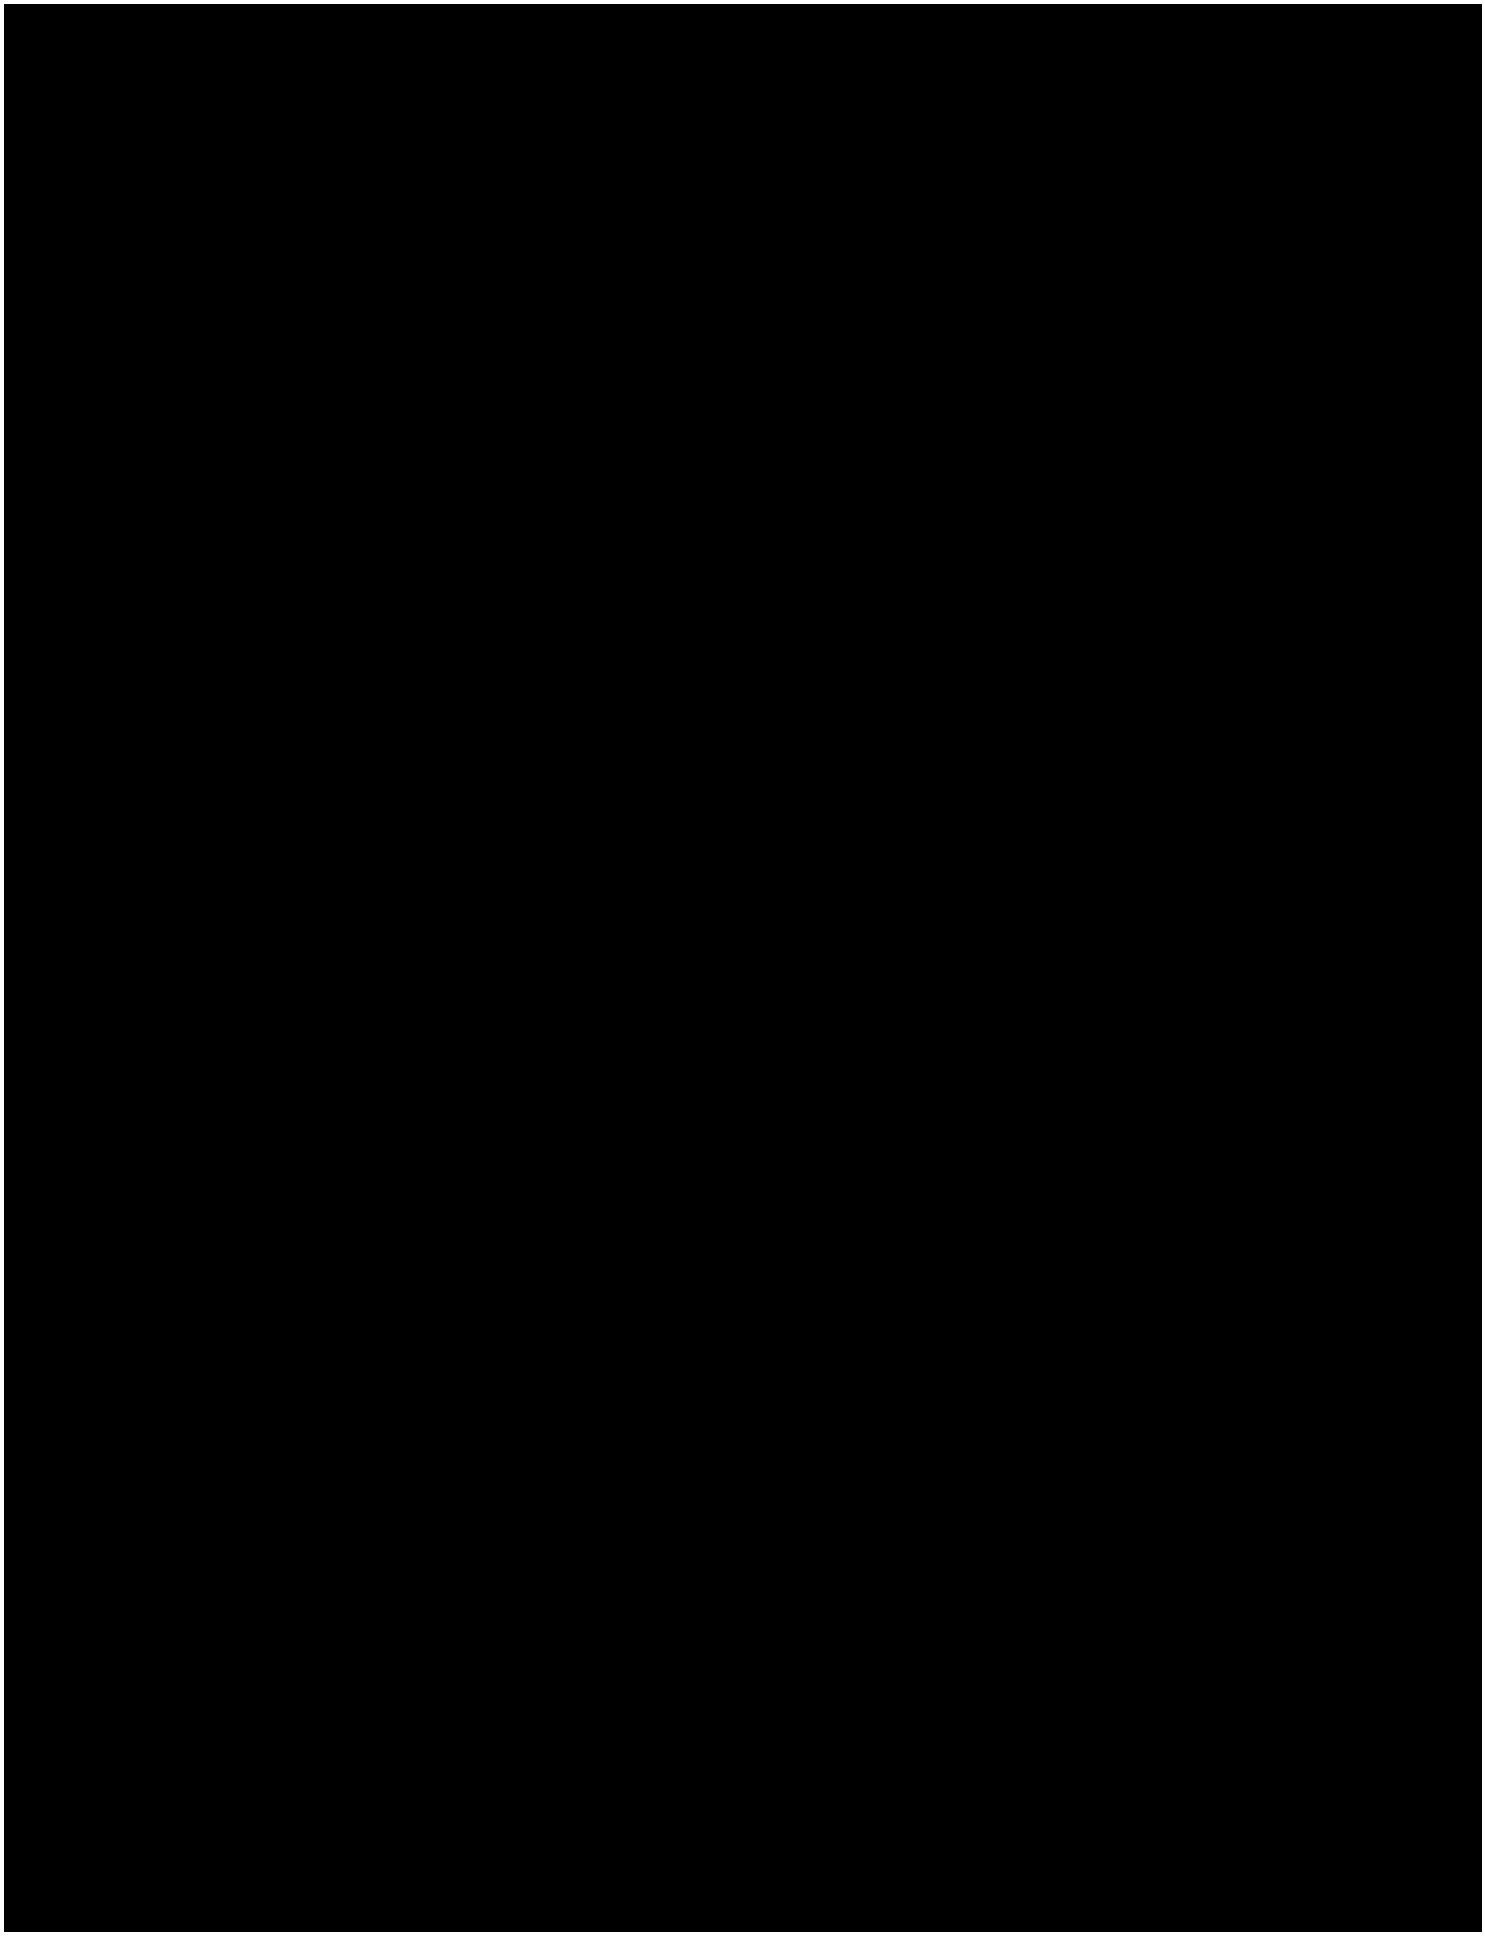
I hold myself responsible for the quality and extent of the duties I perform.

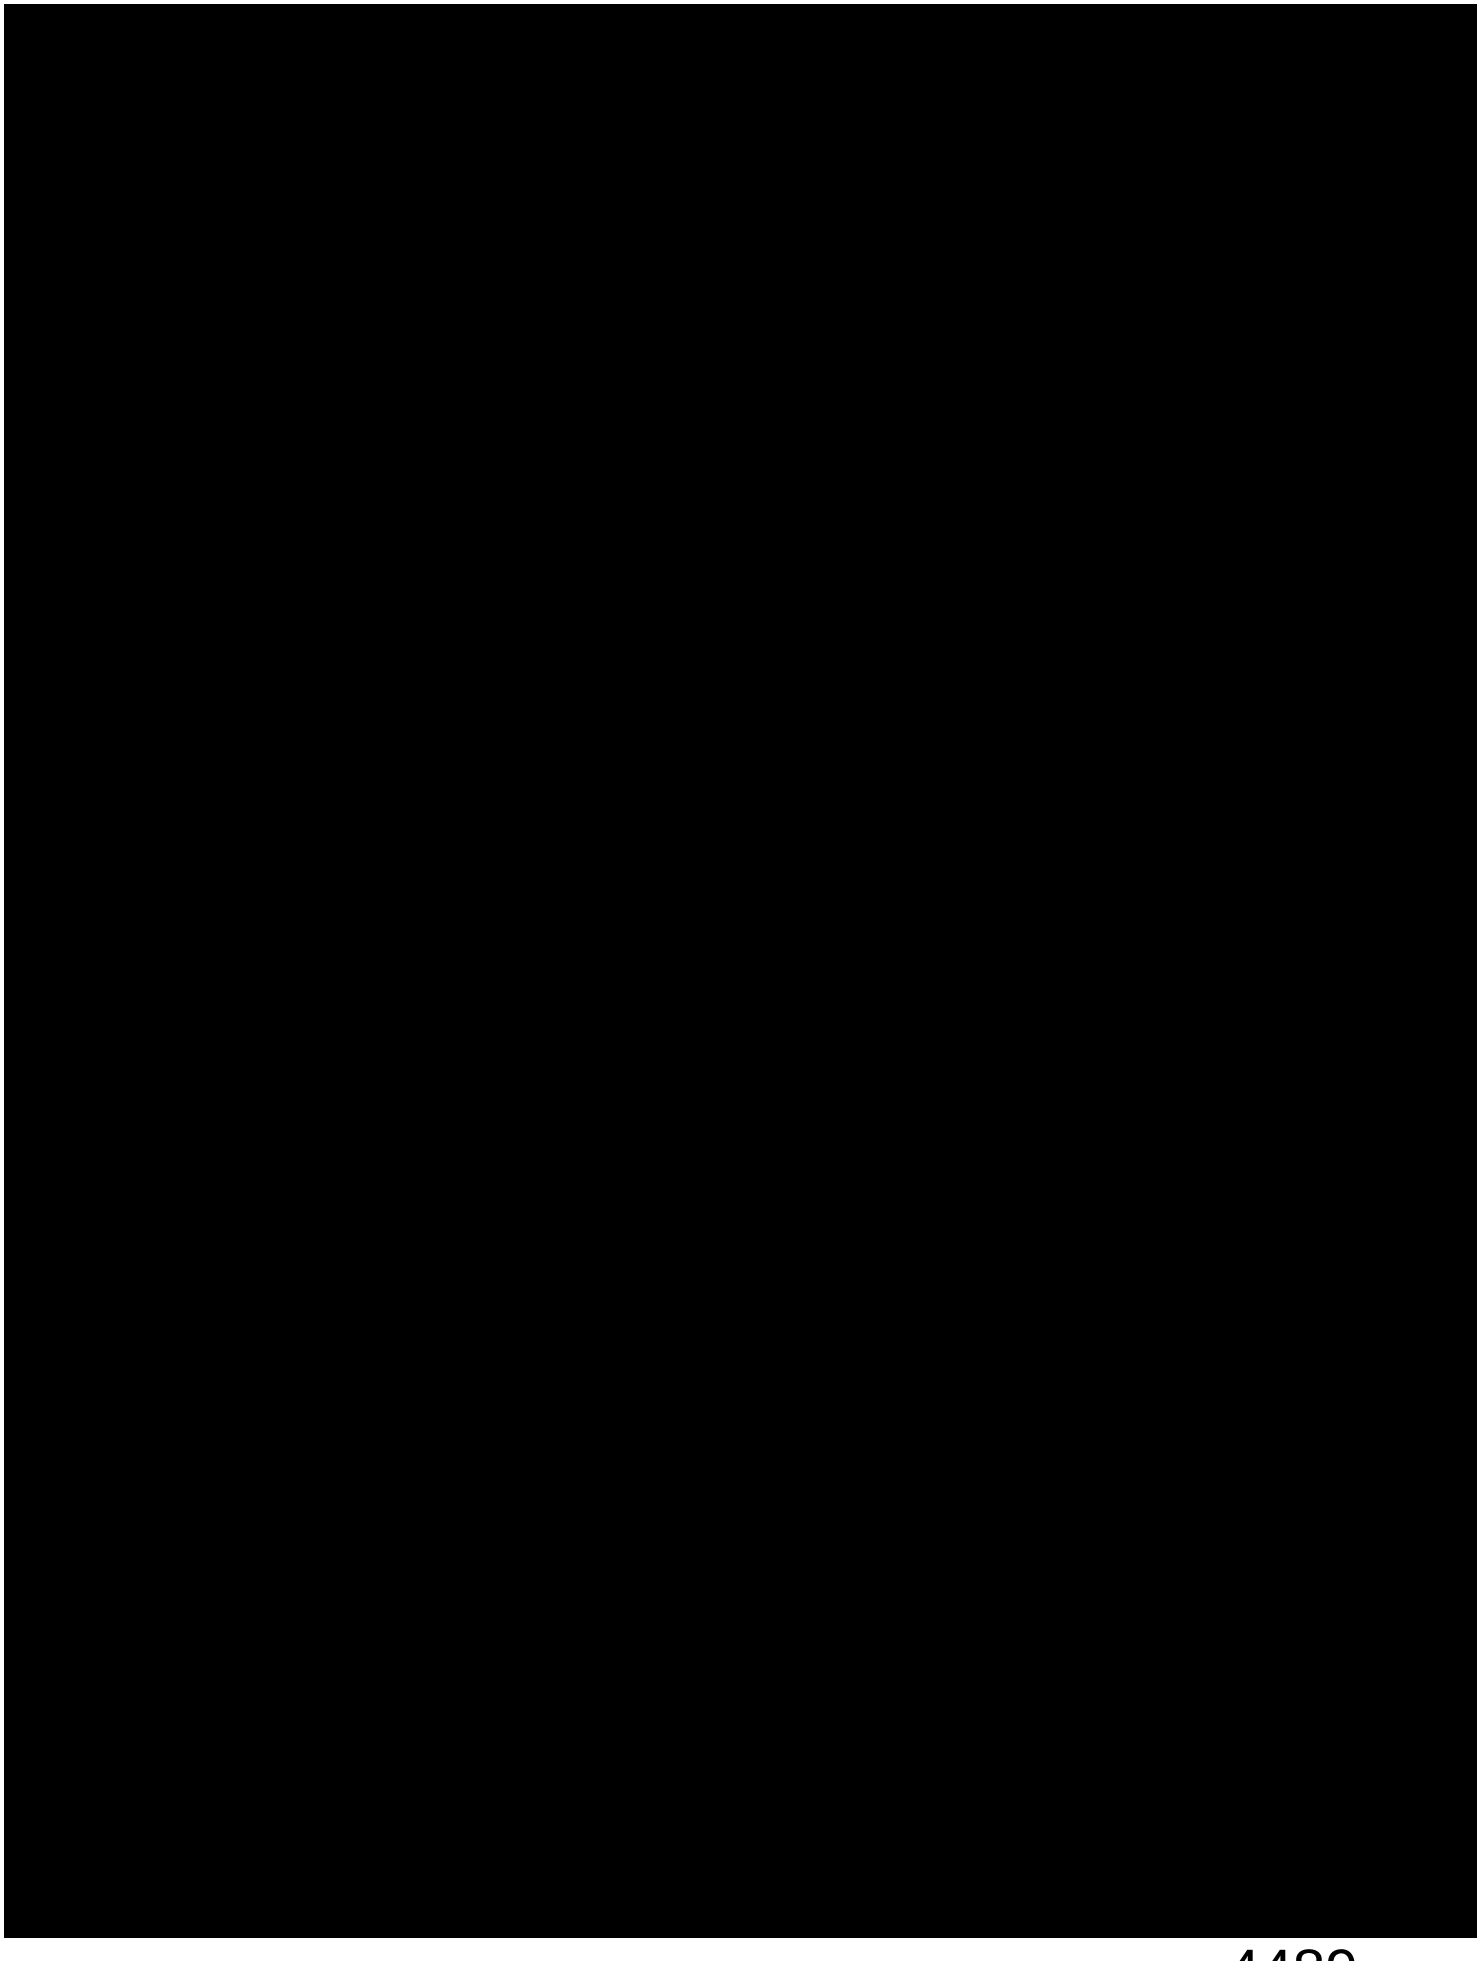


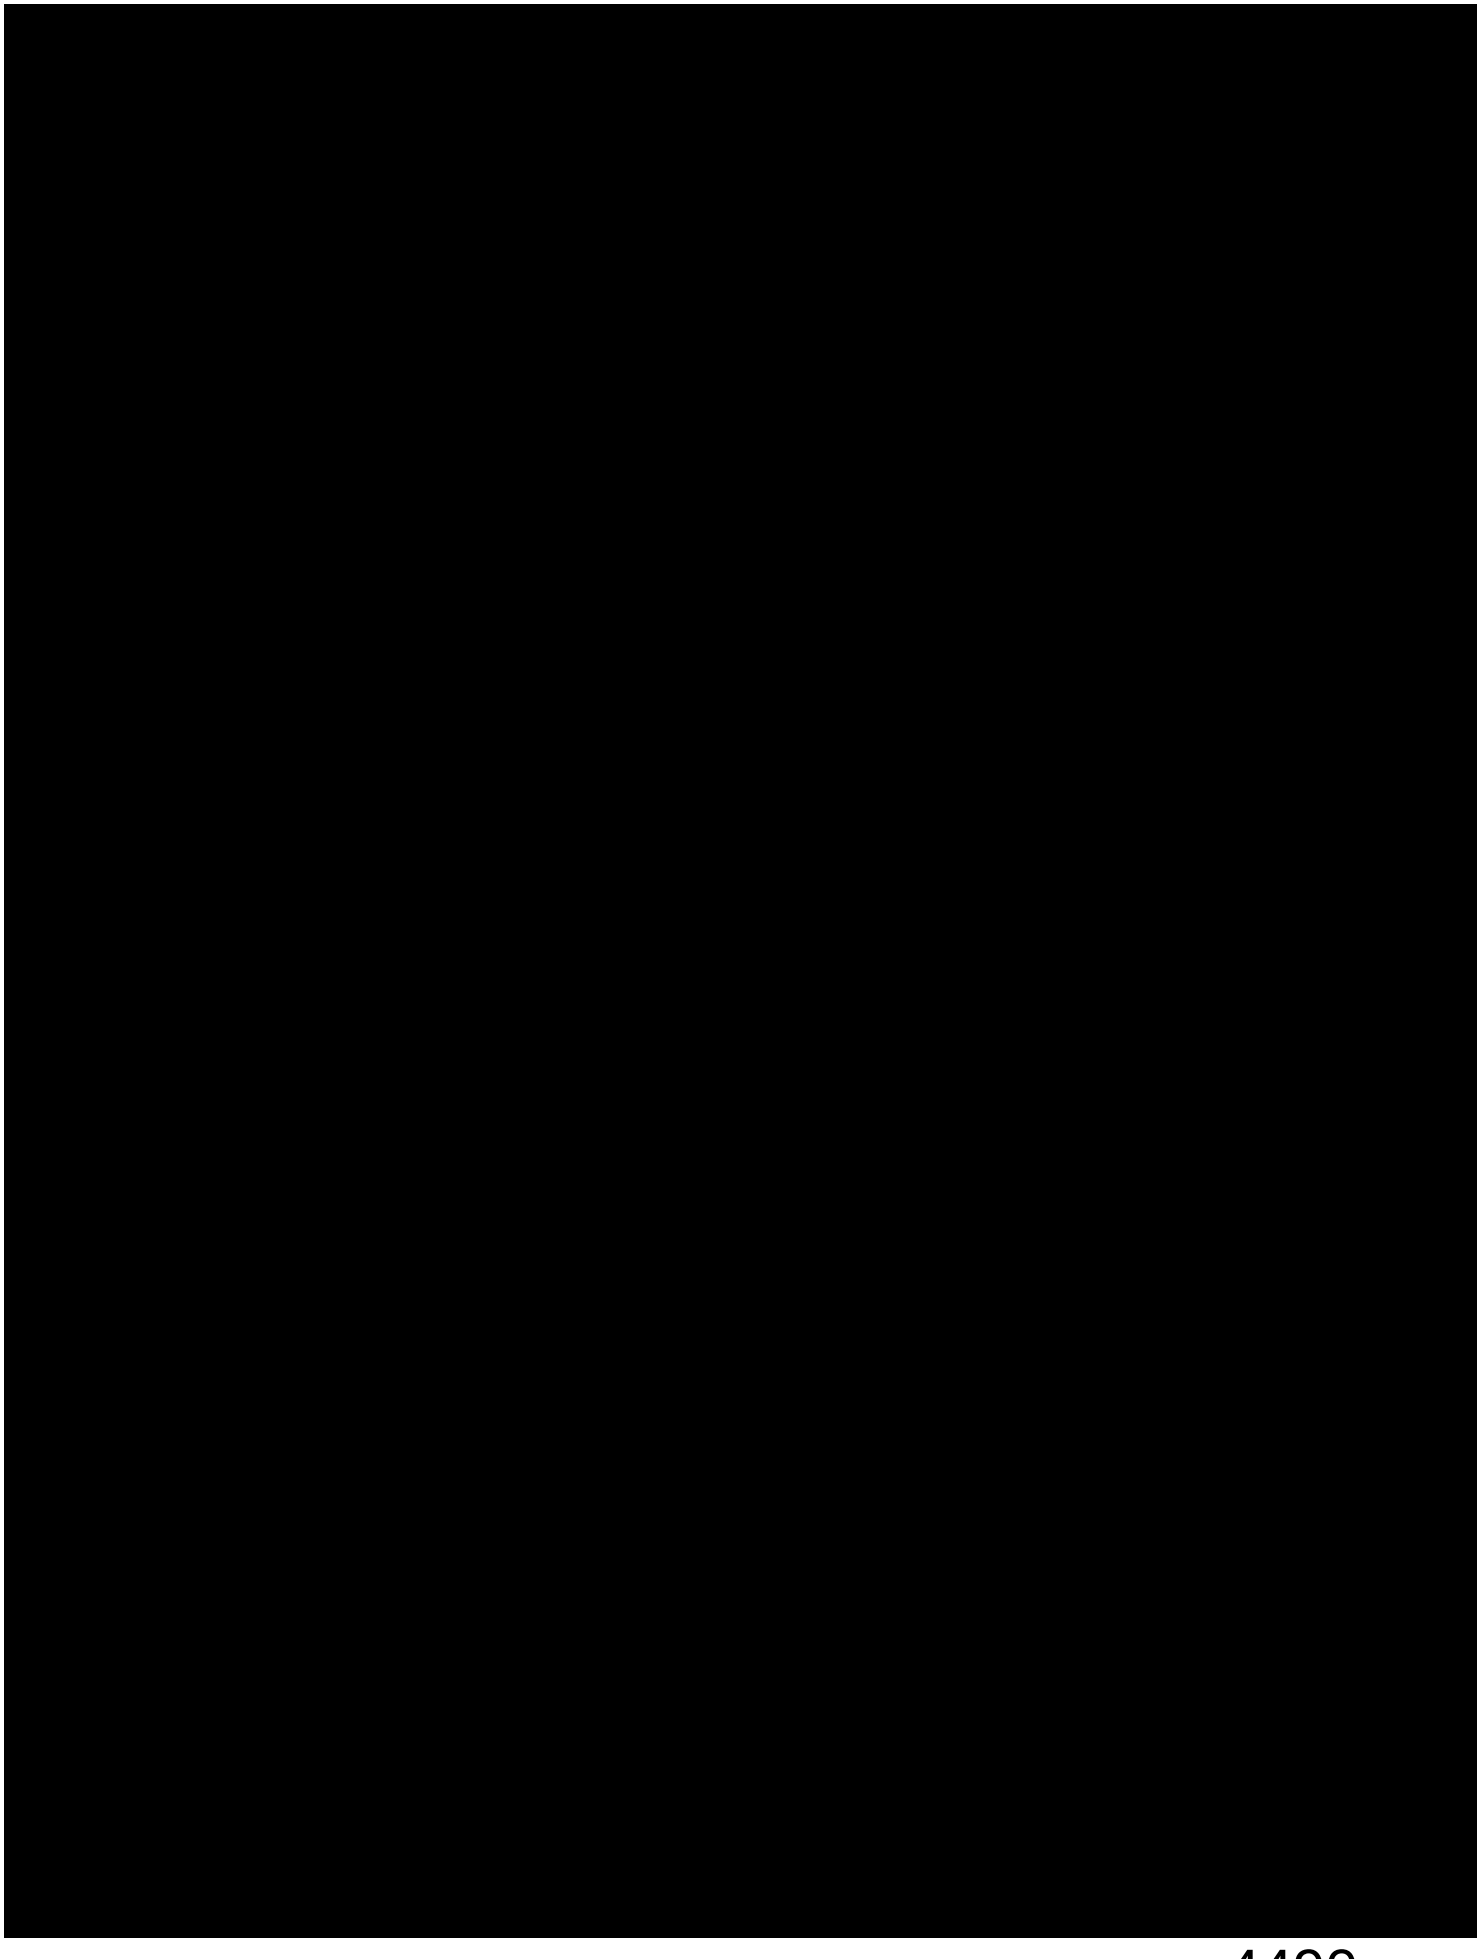
I will perform my job duties proficiently and competently.

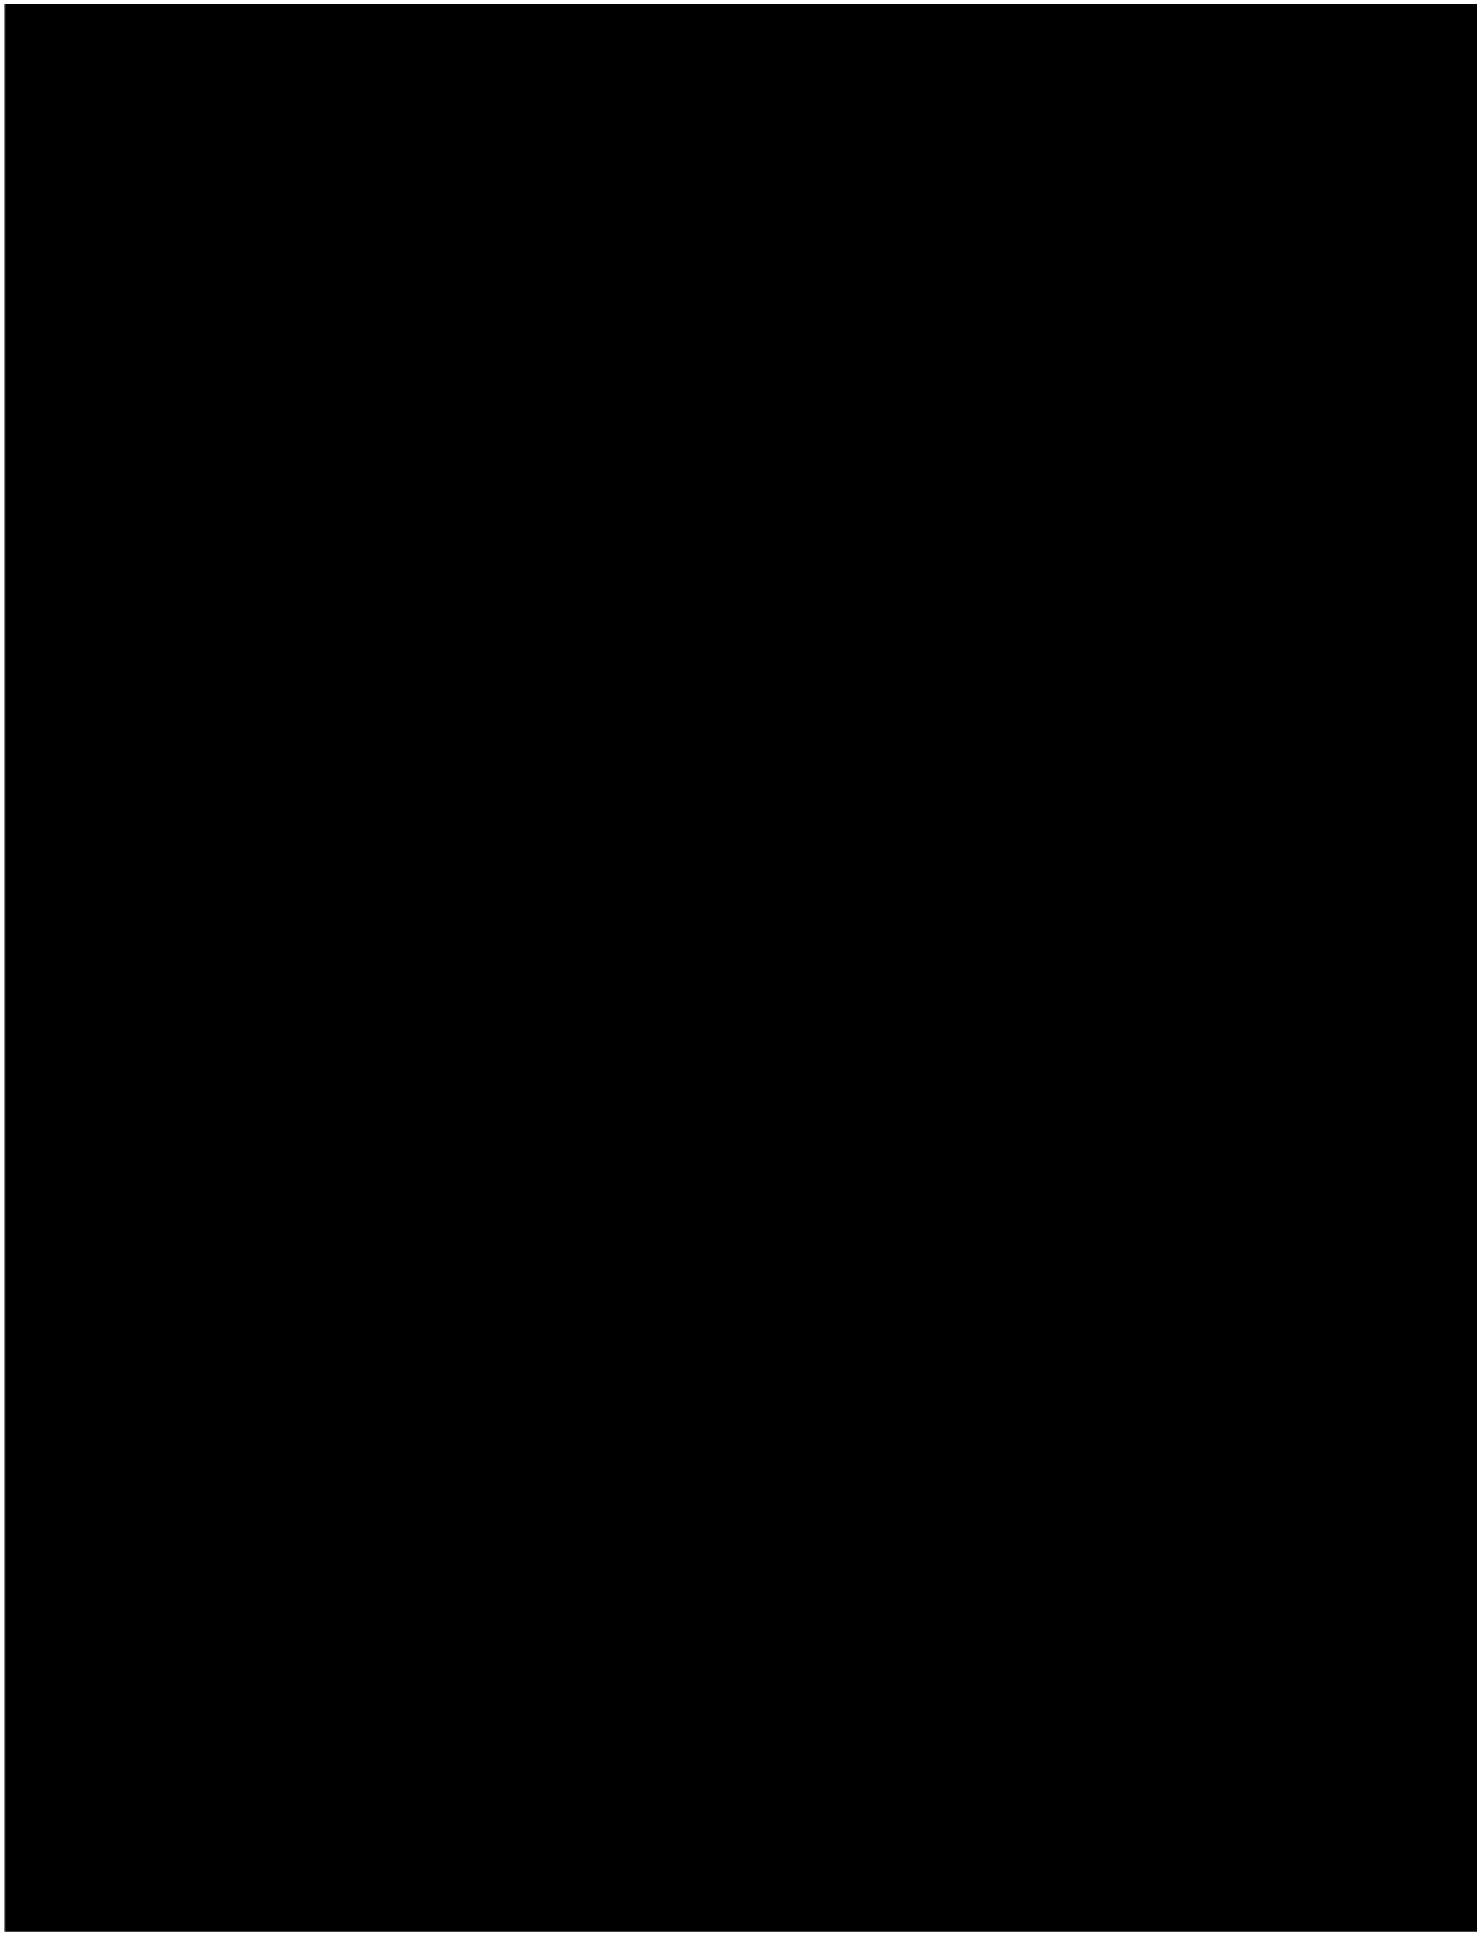


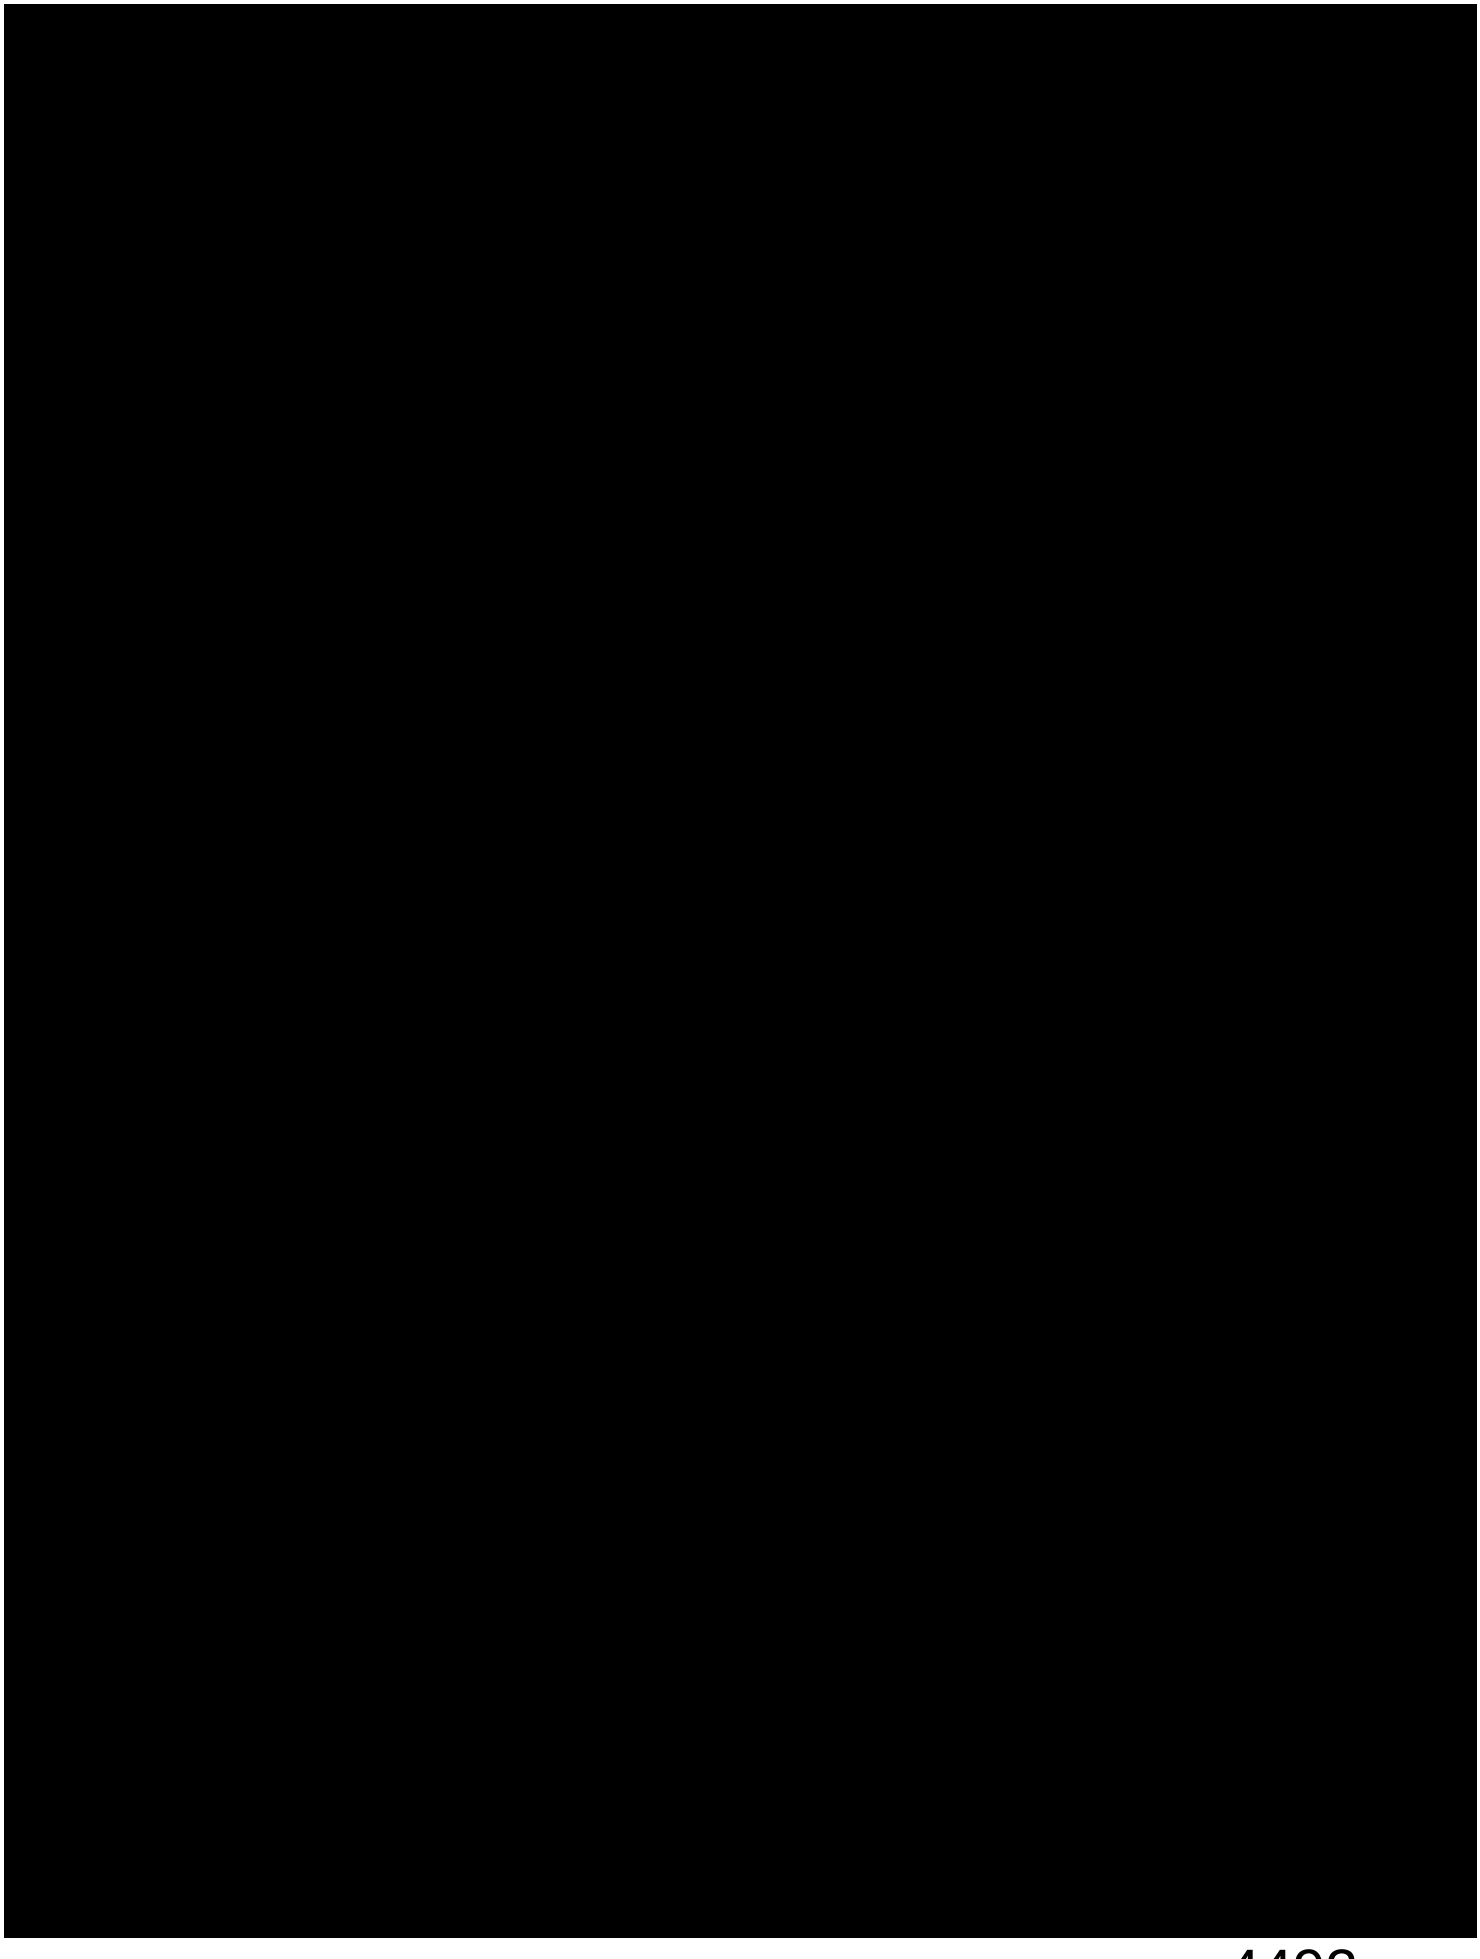
I will stand ready to give appropriate service in emergencies.

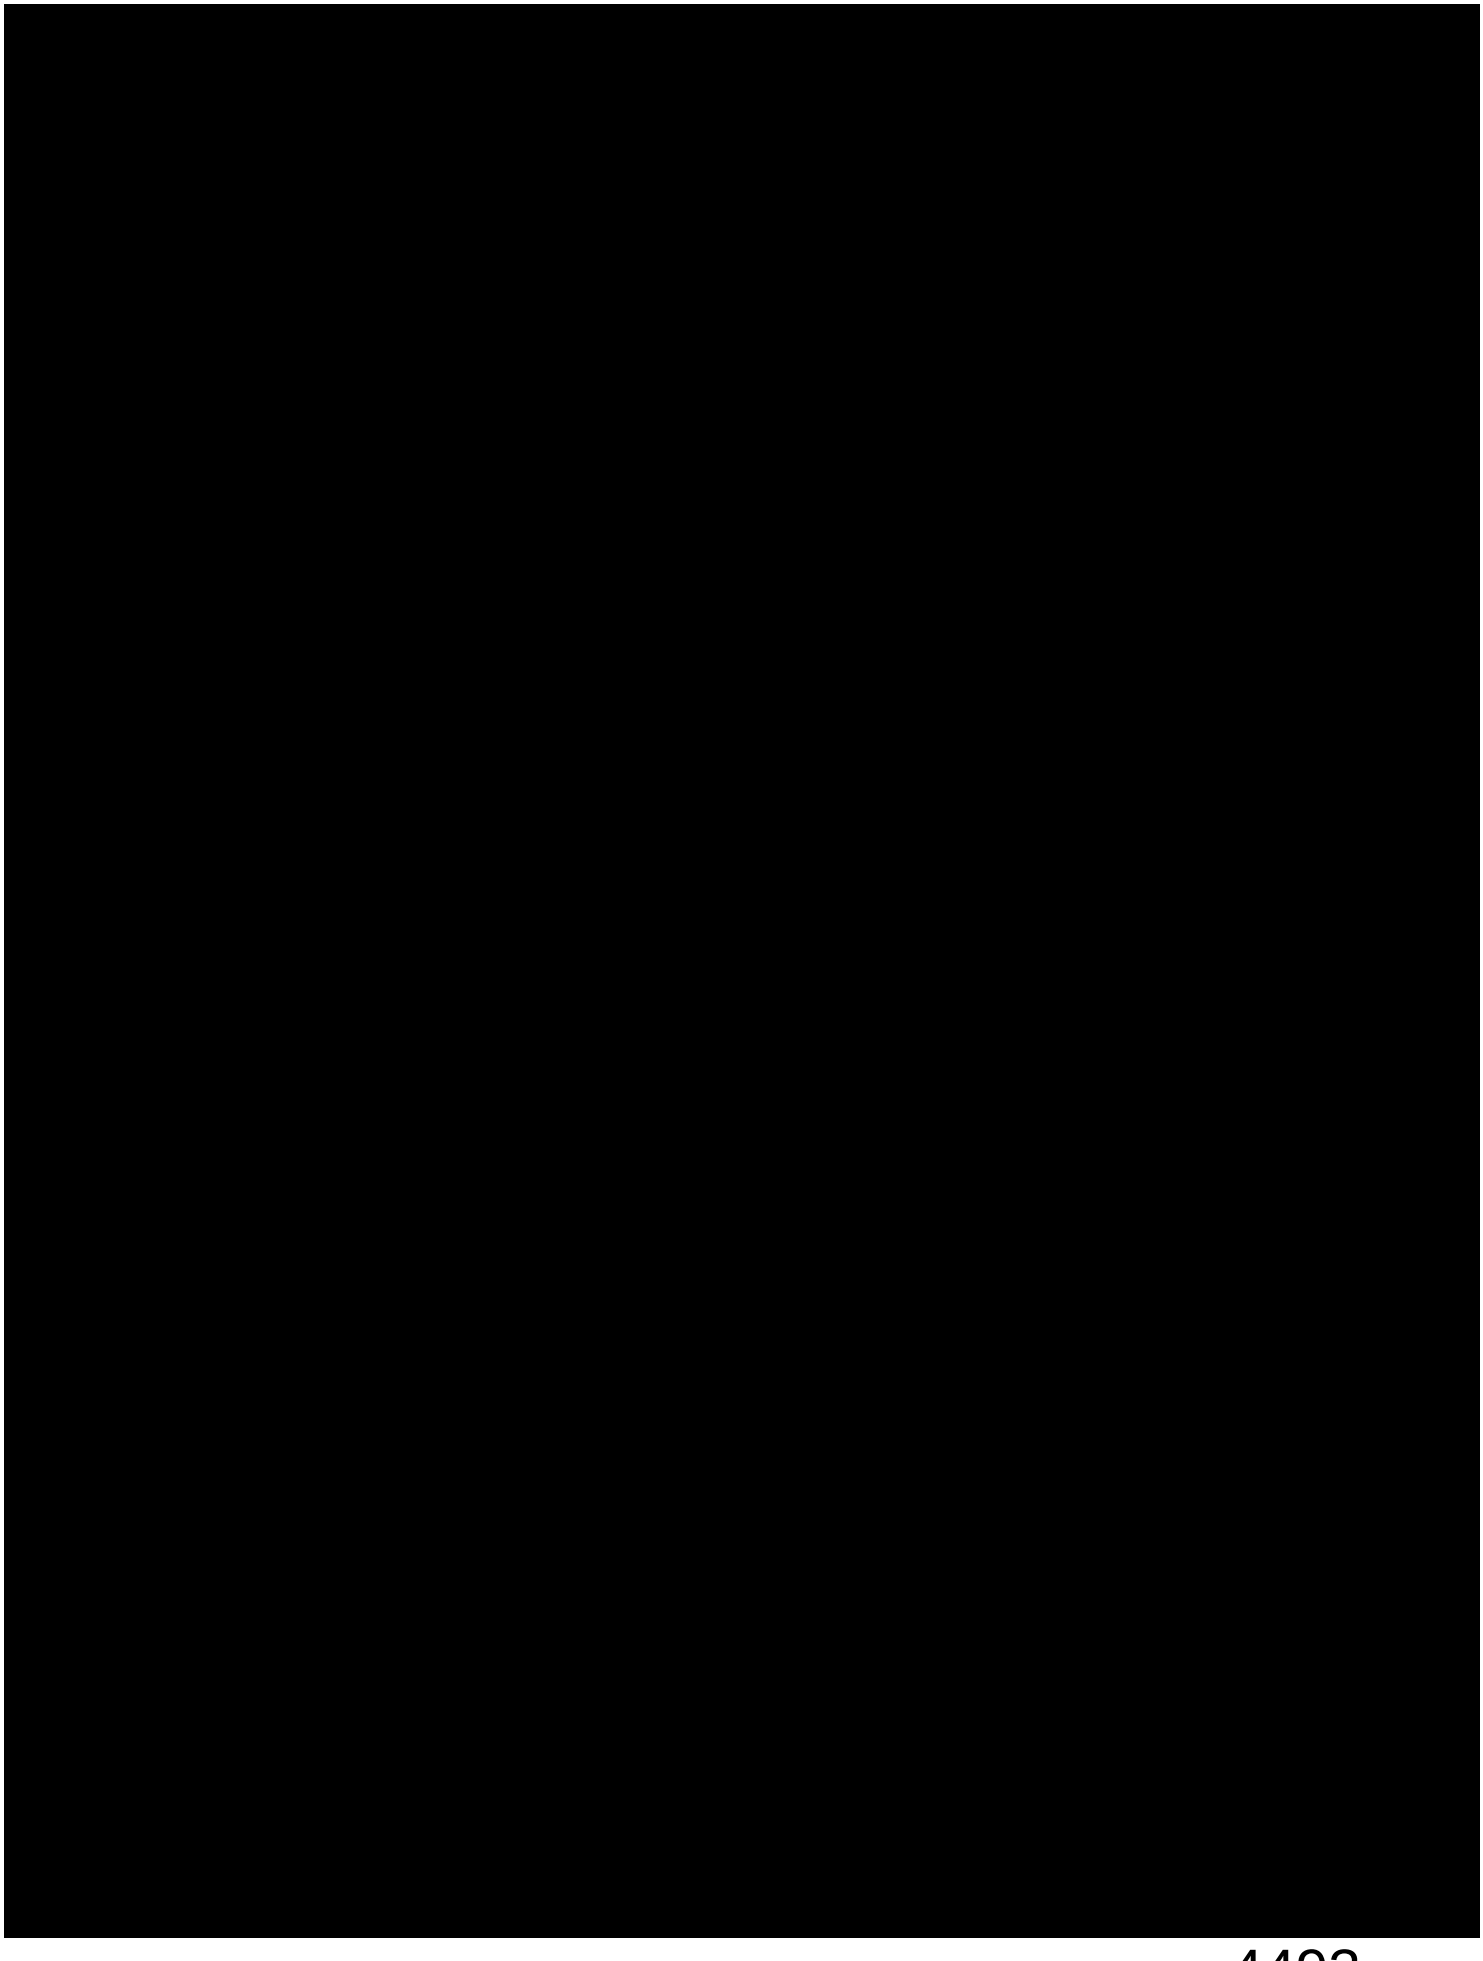


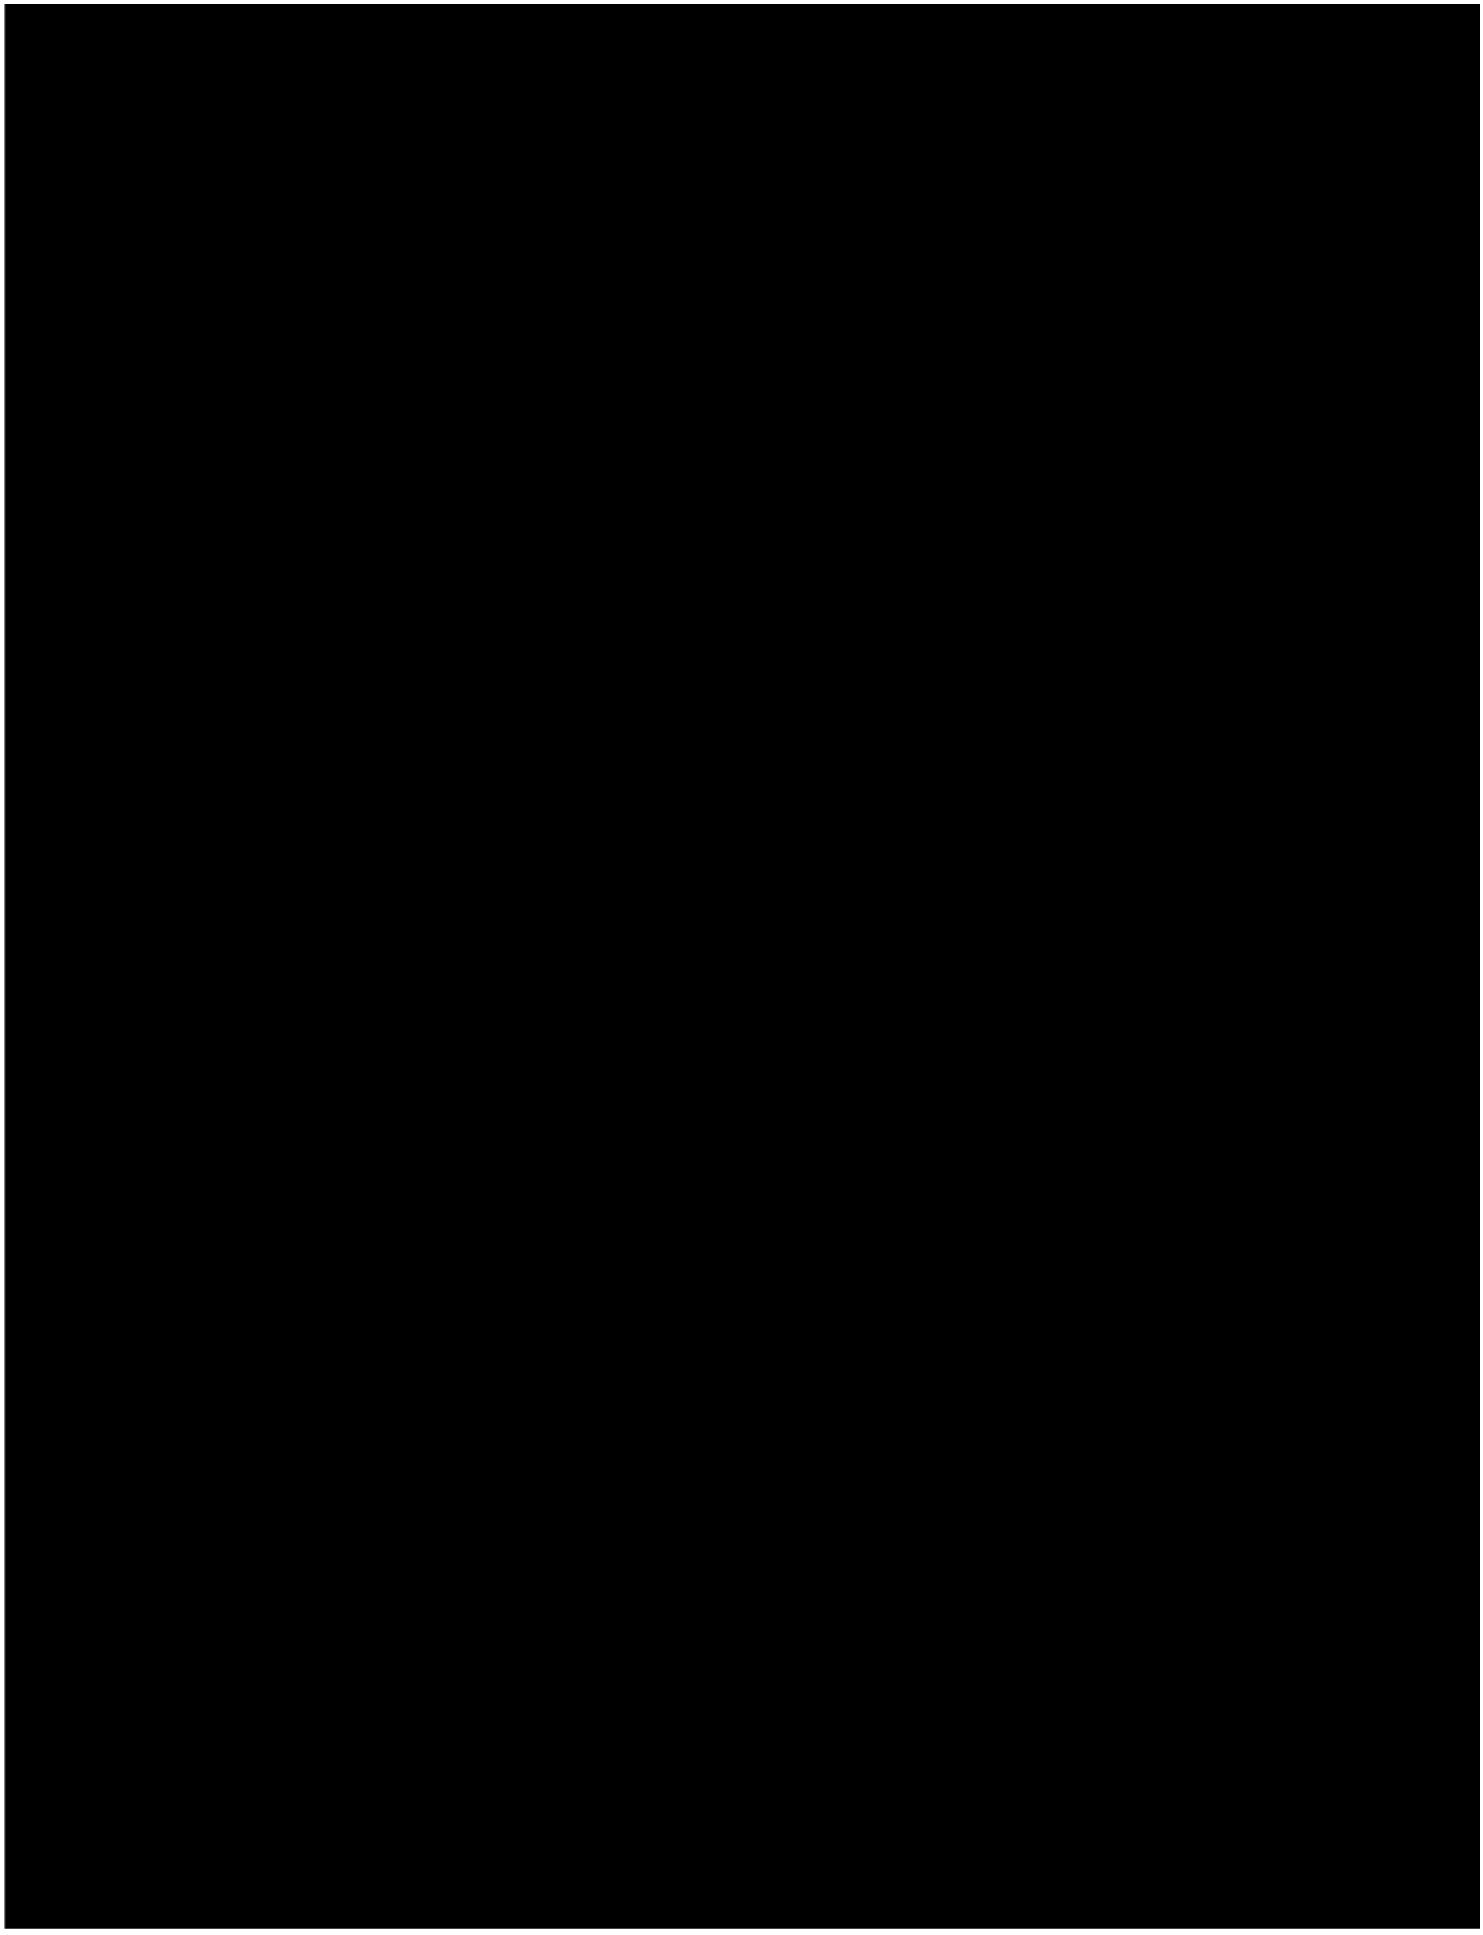


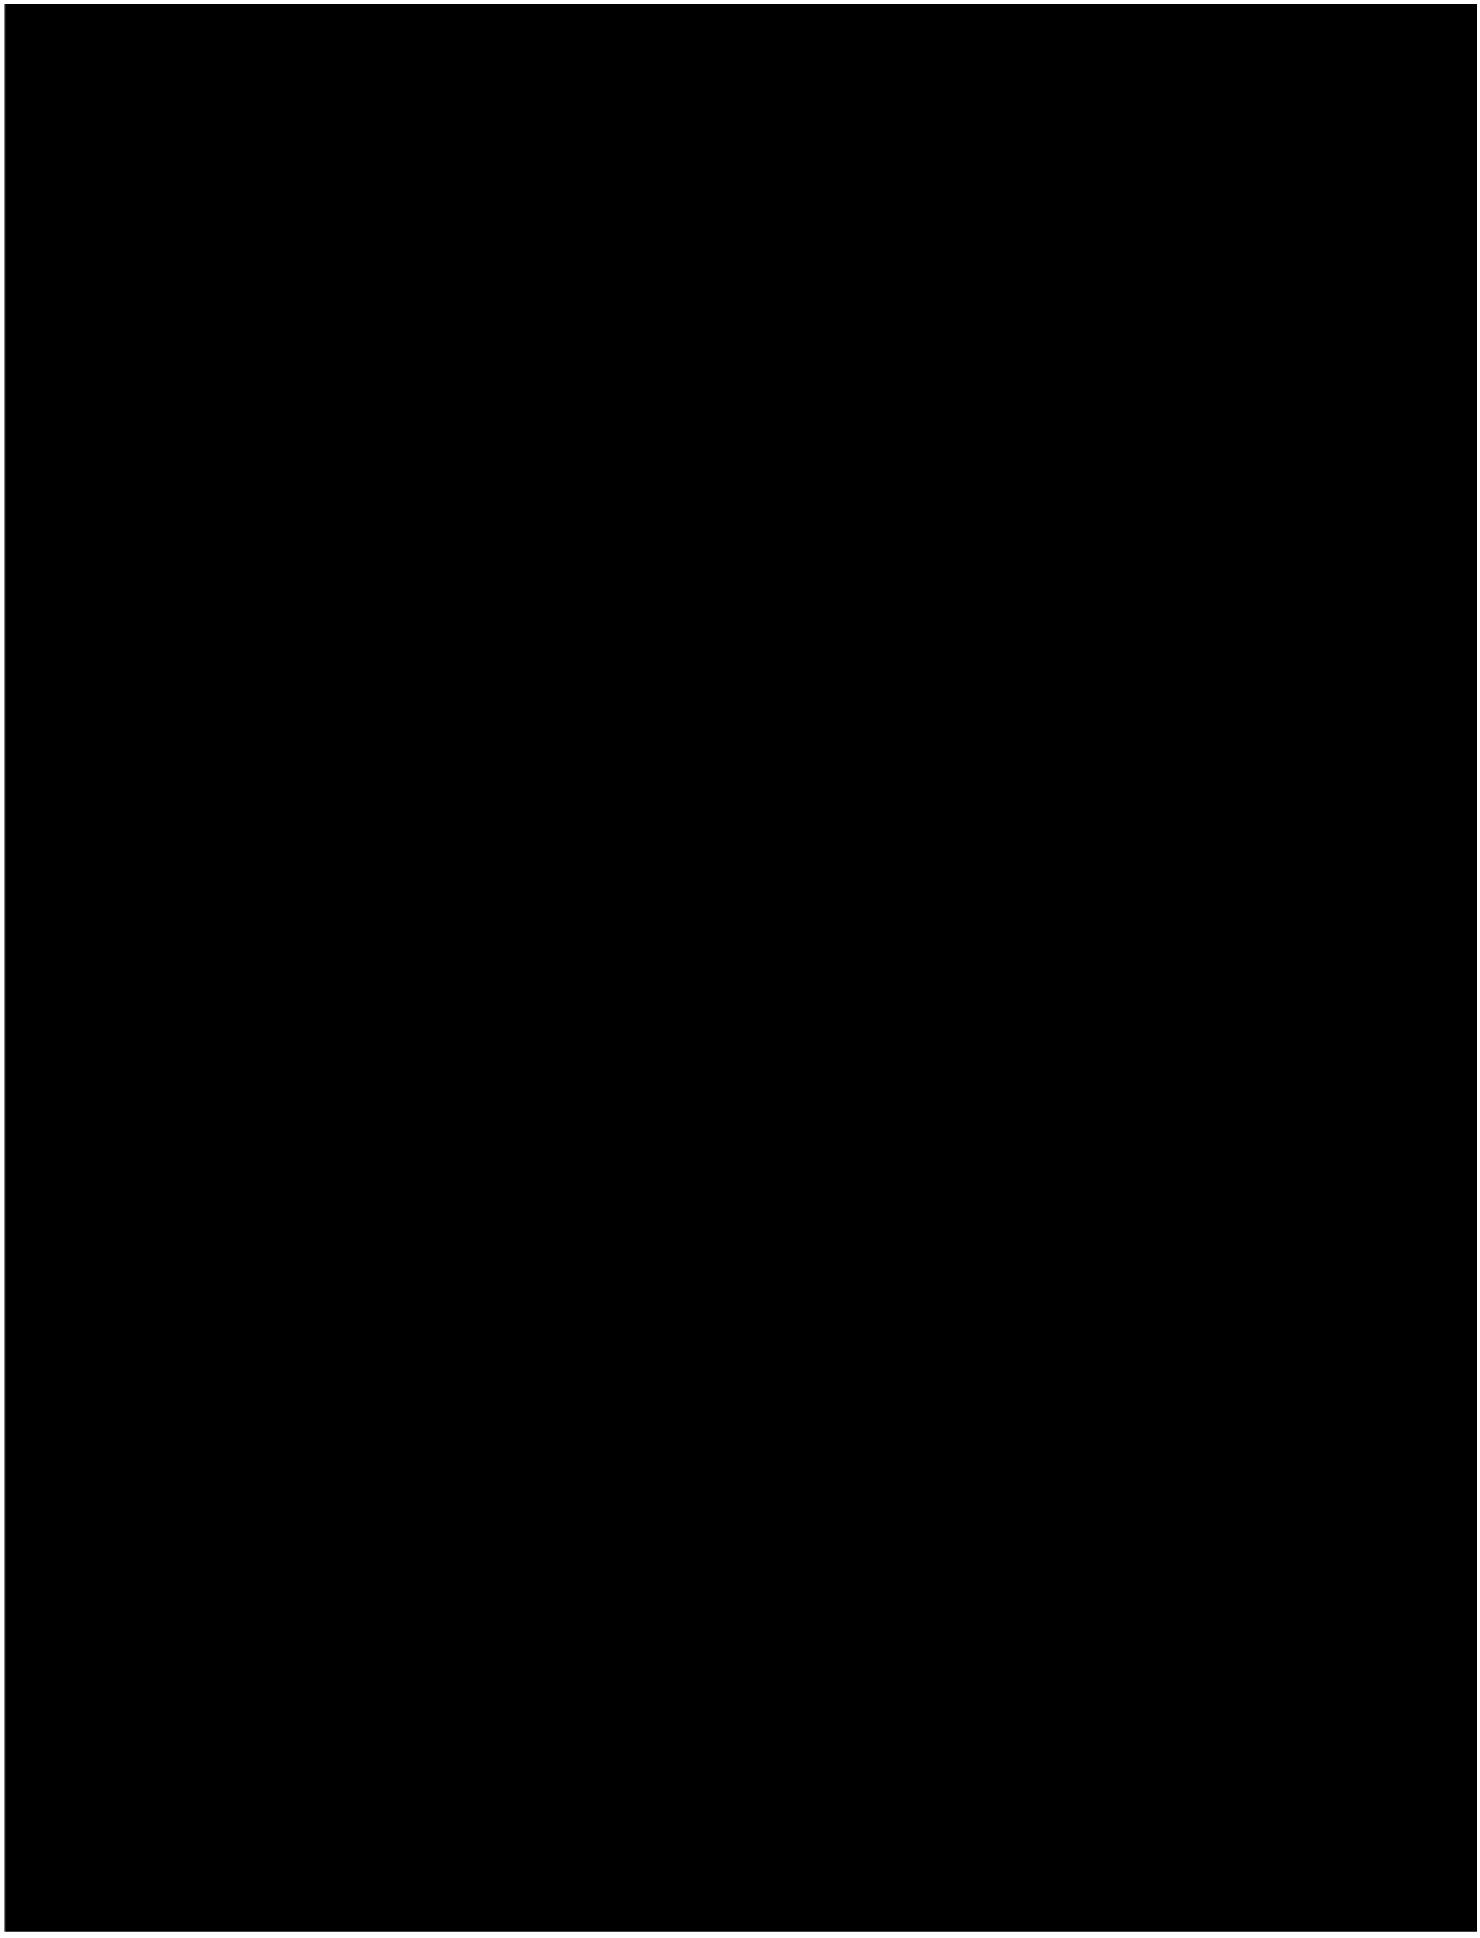


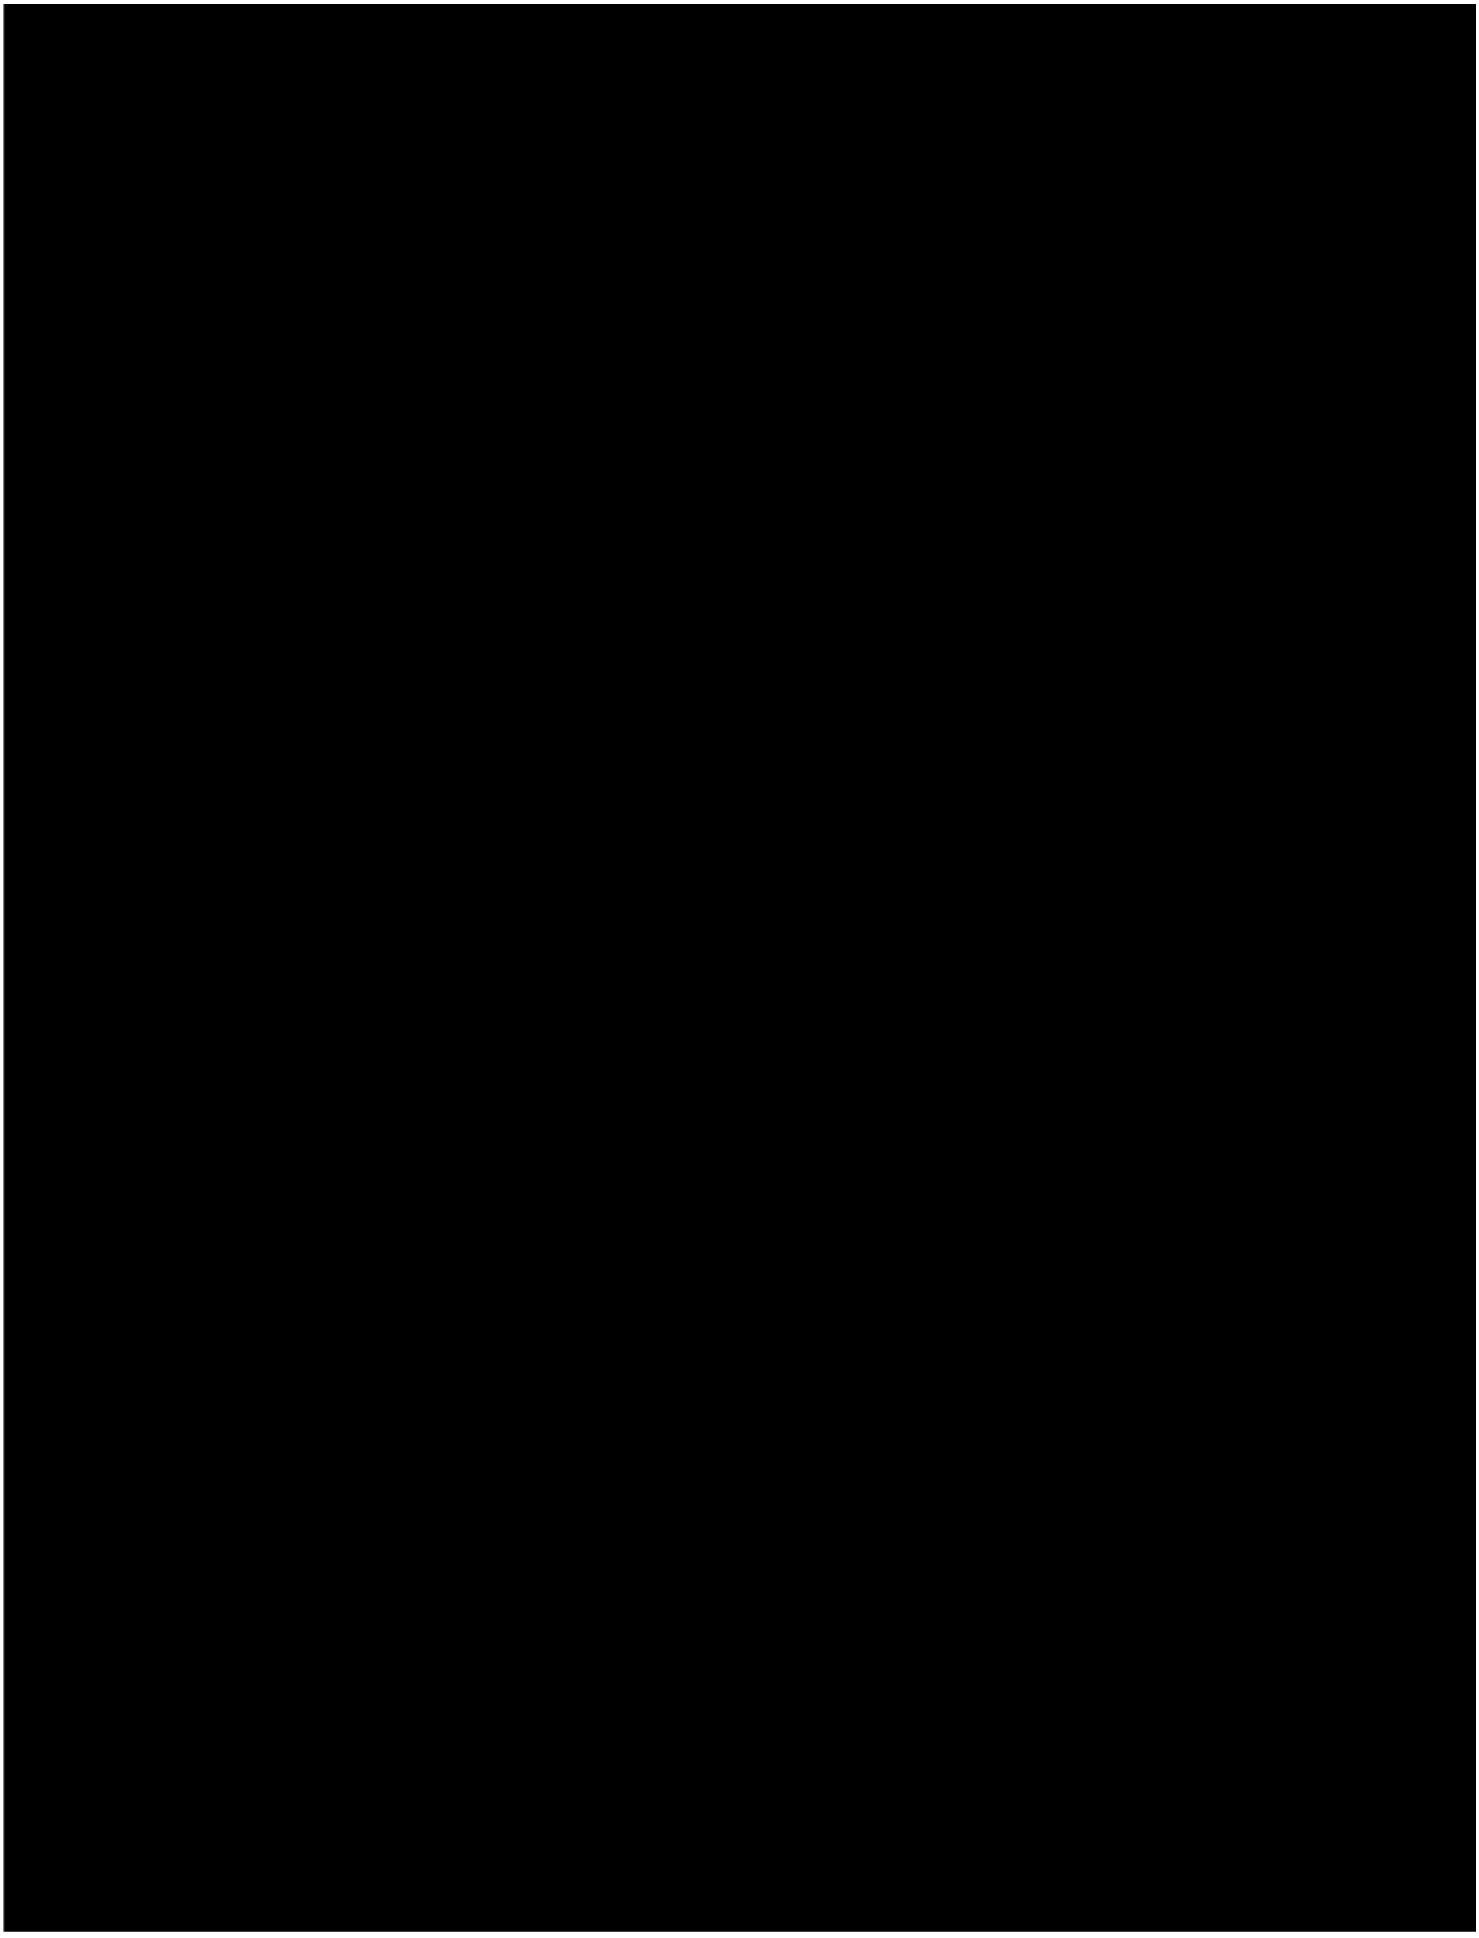


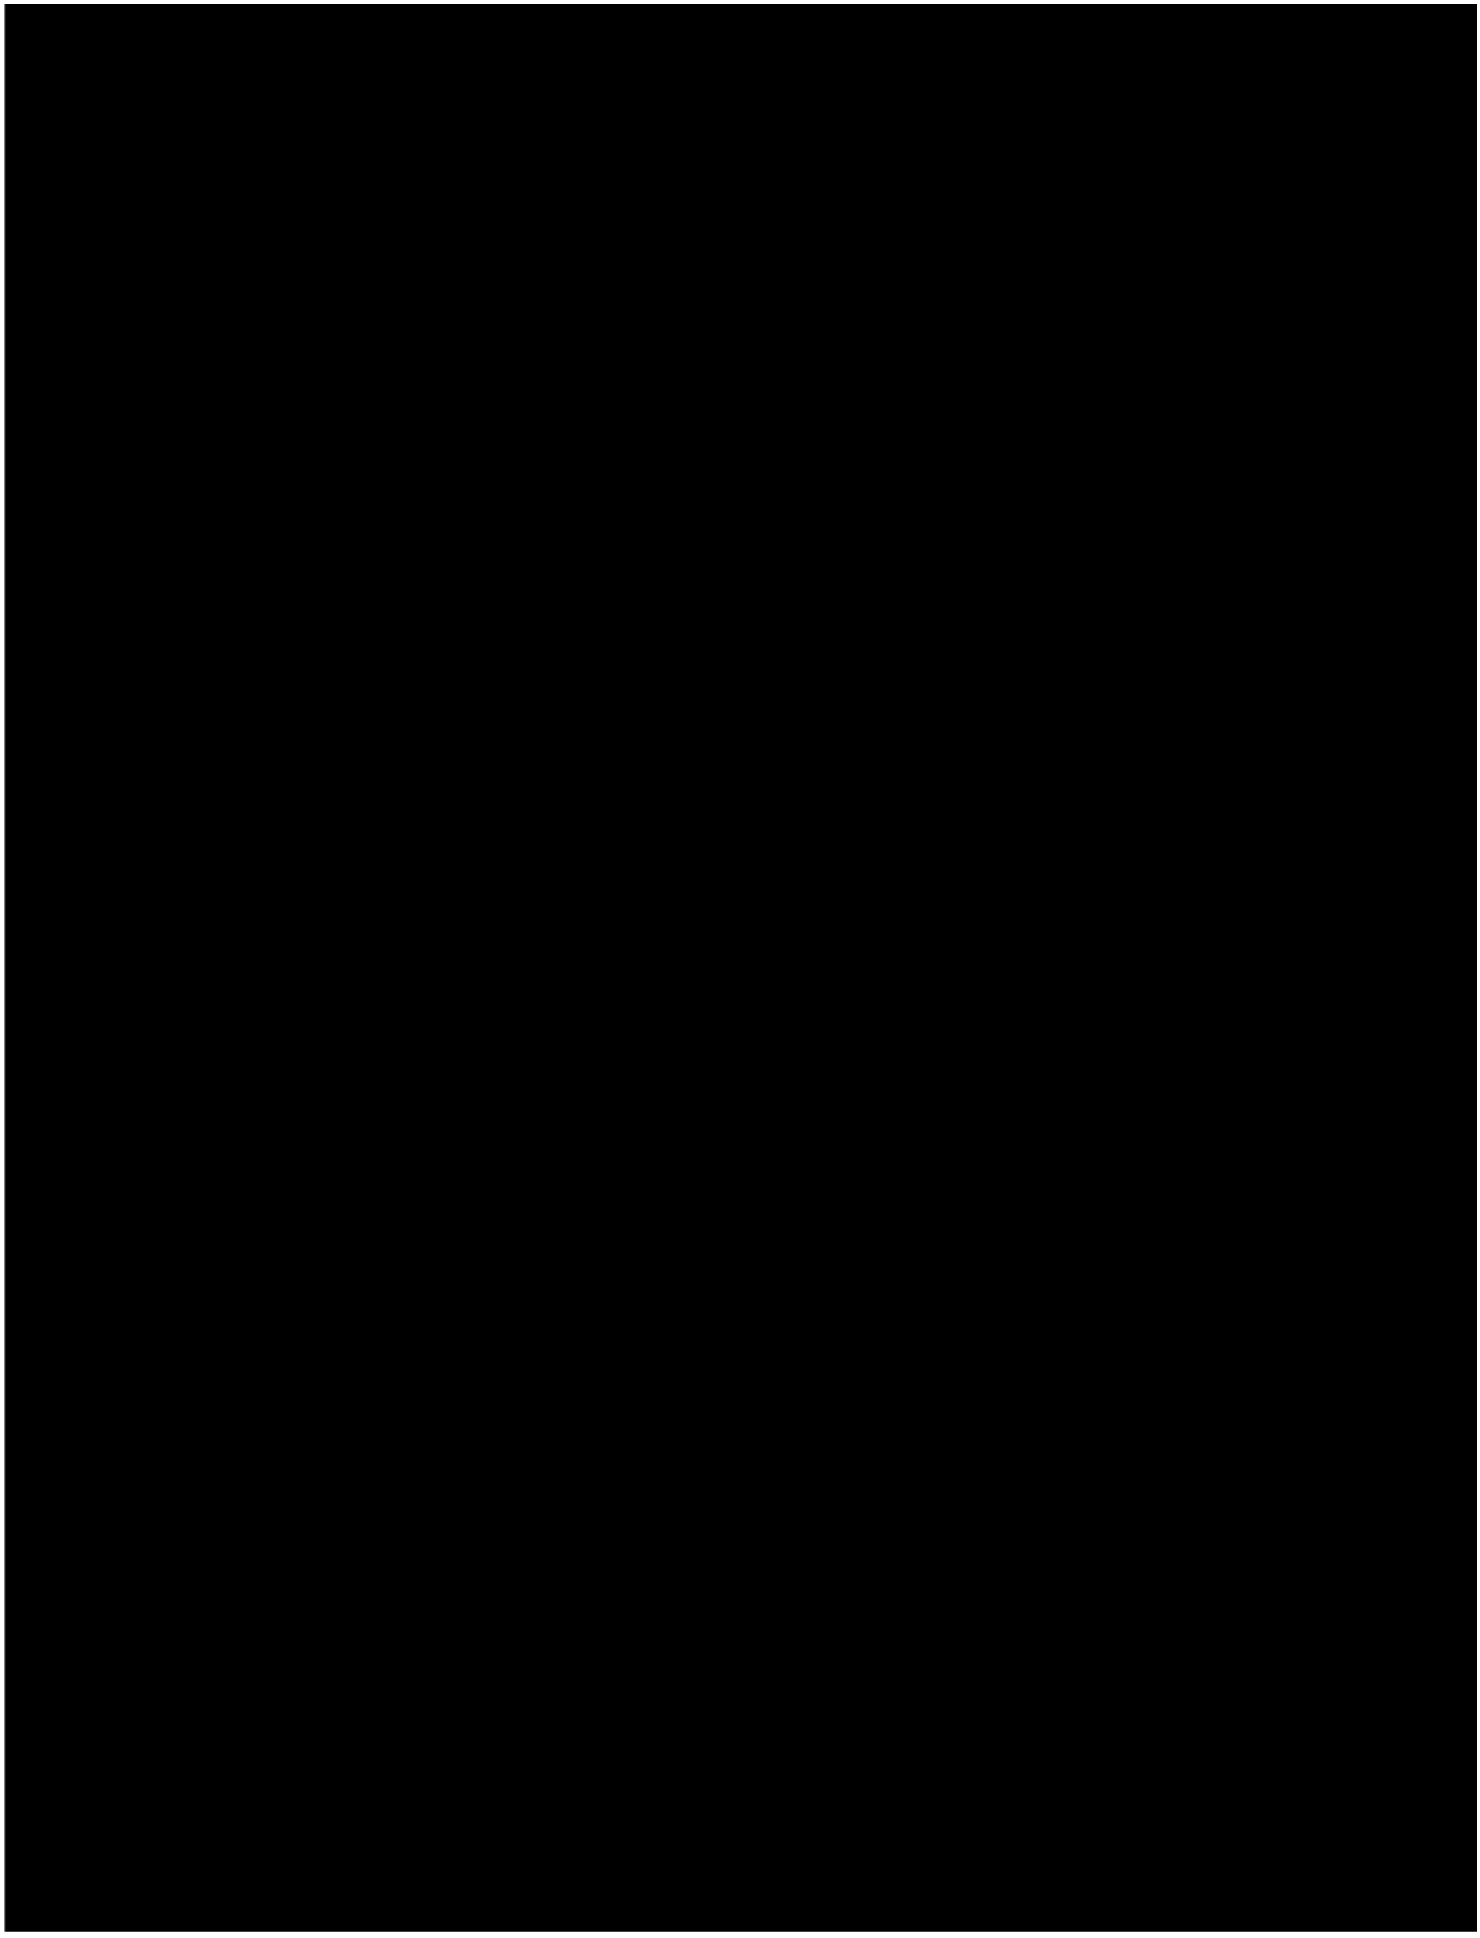


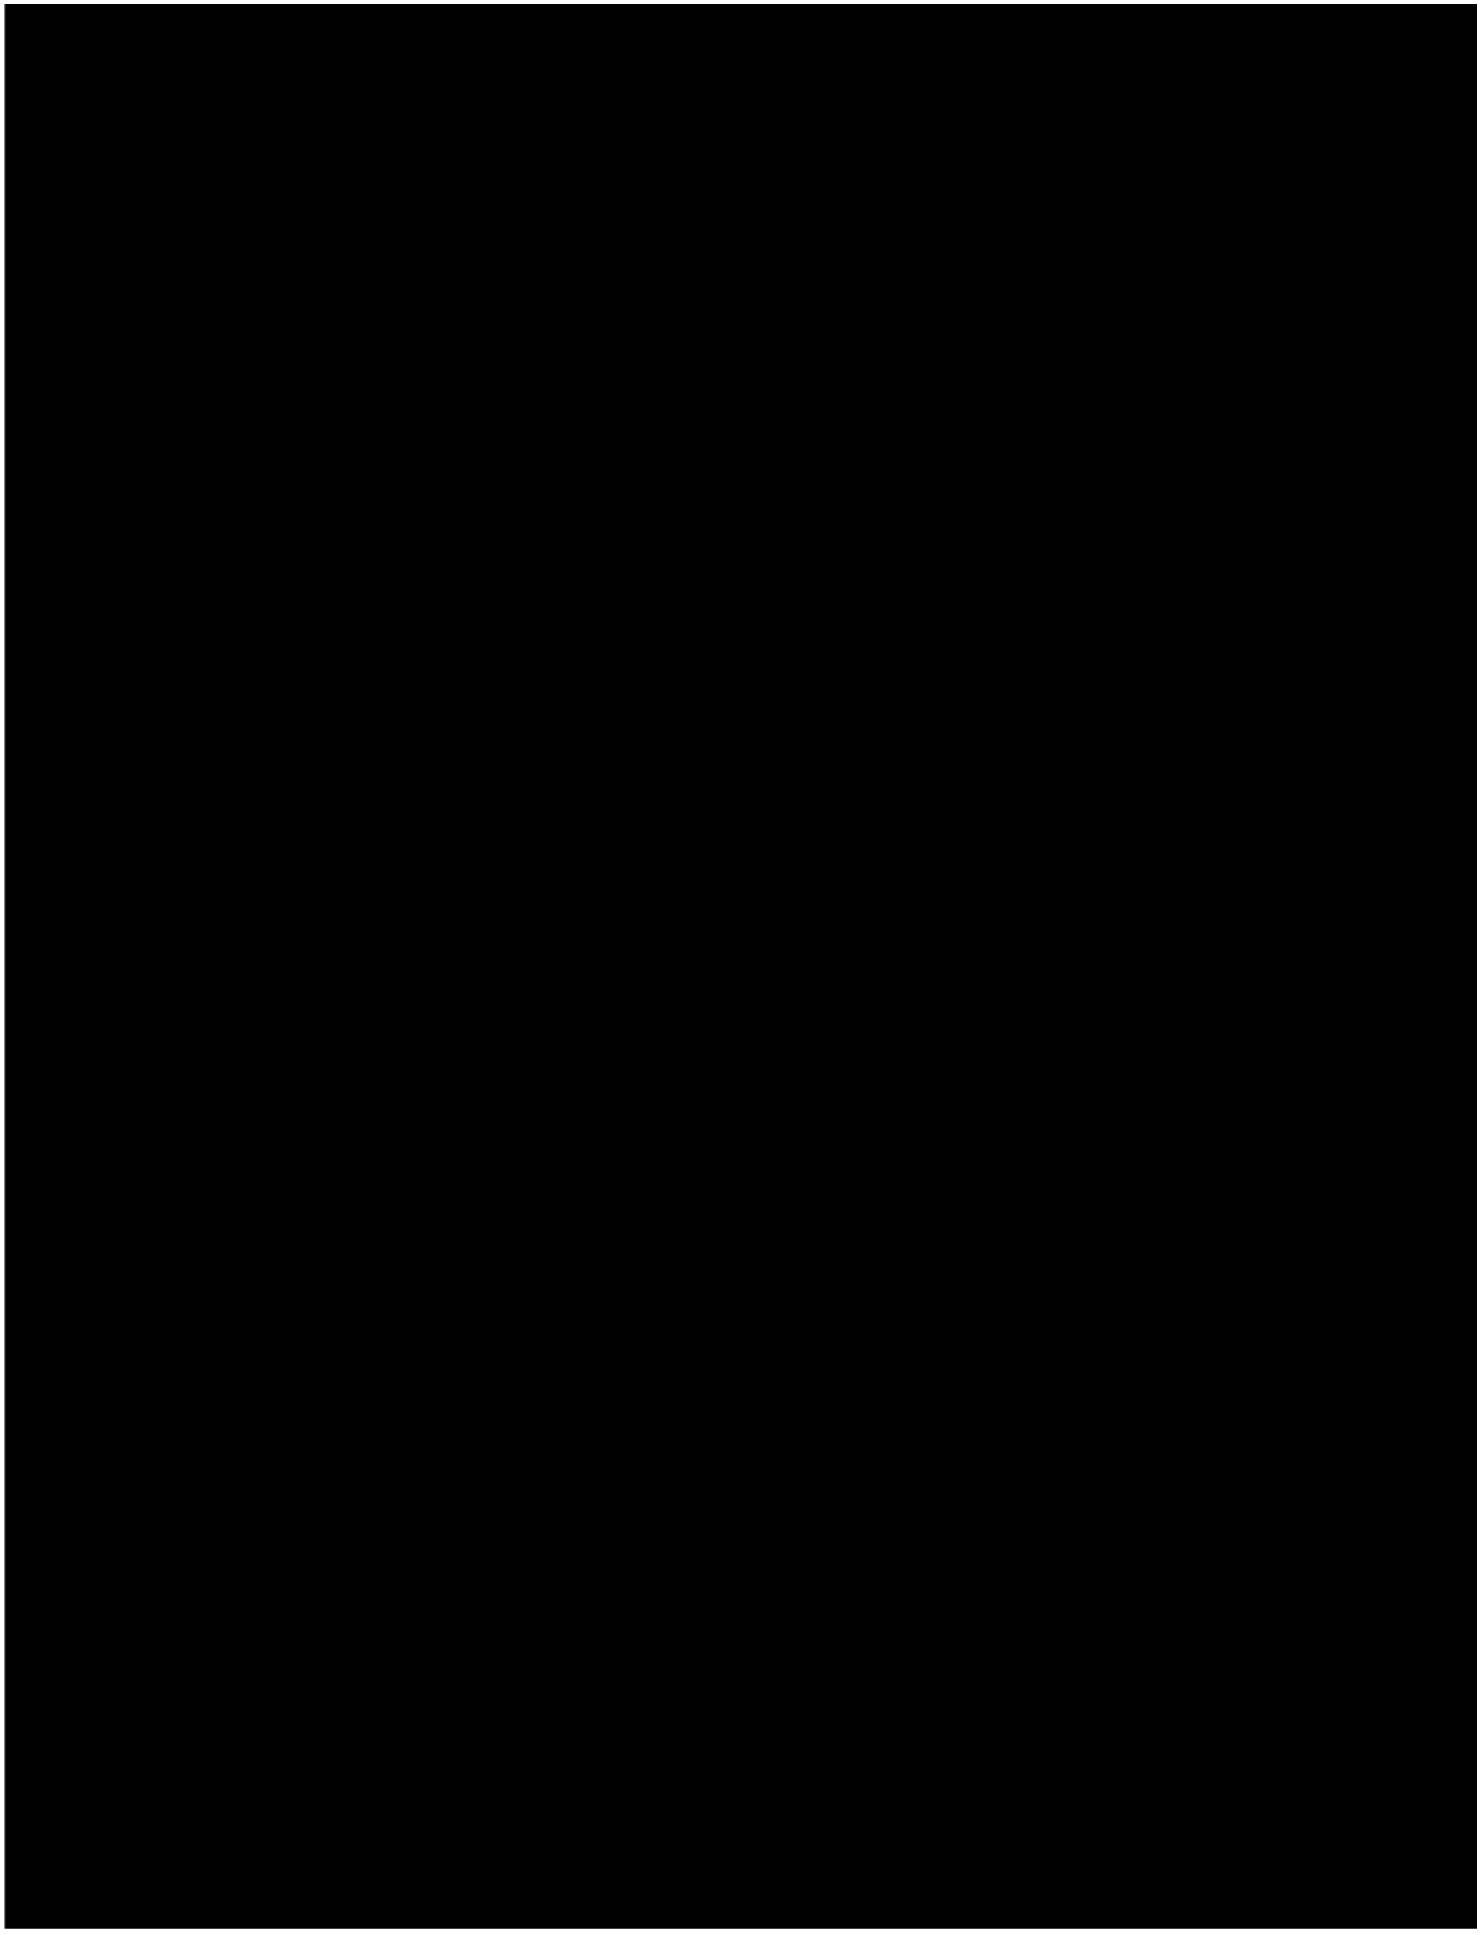


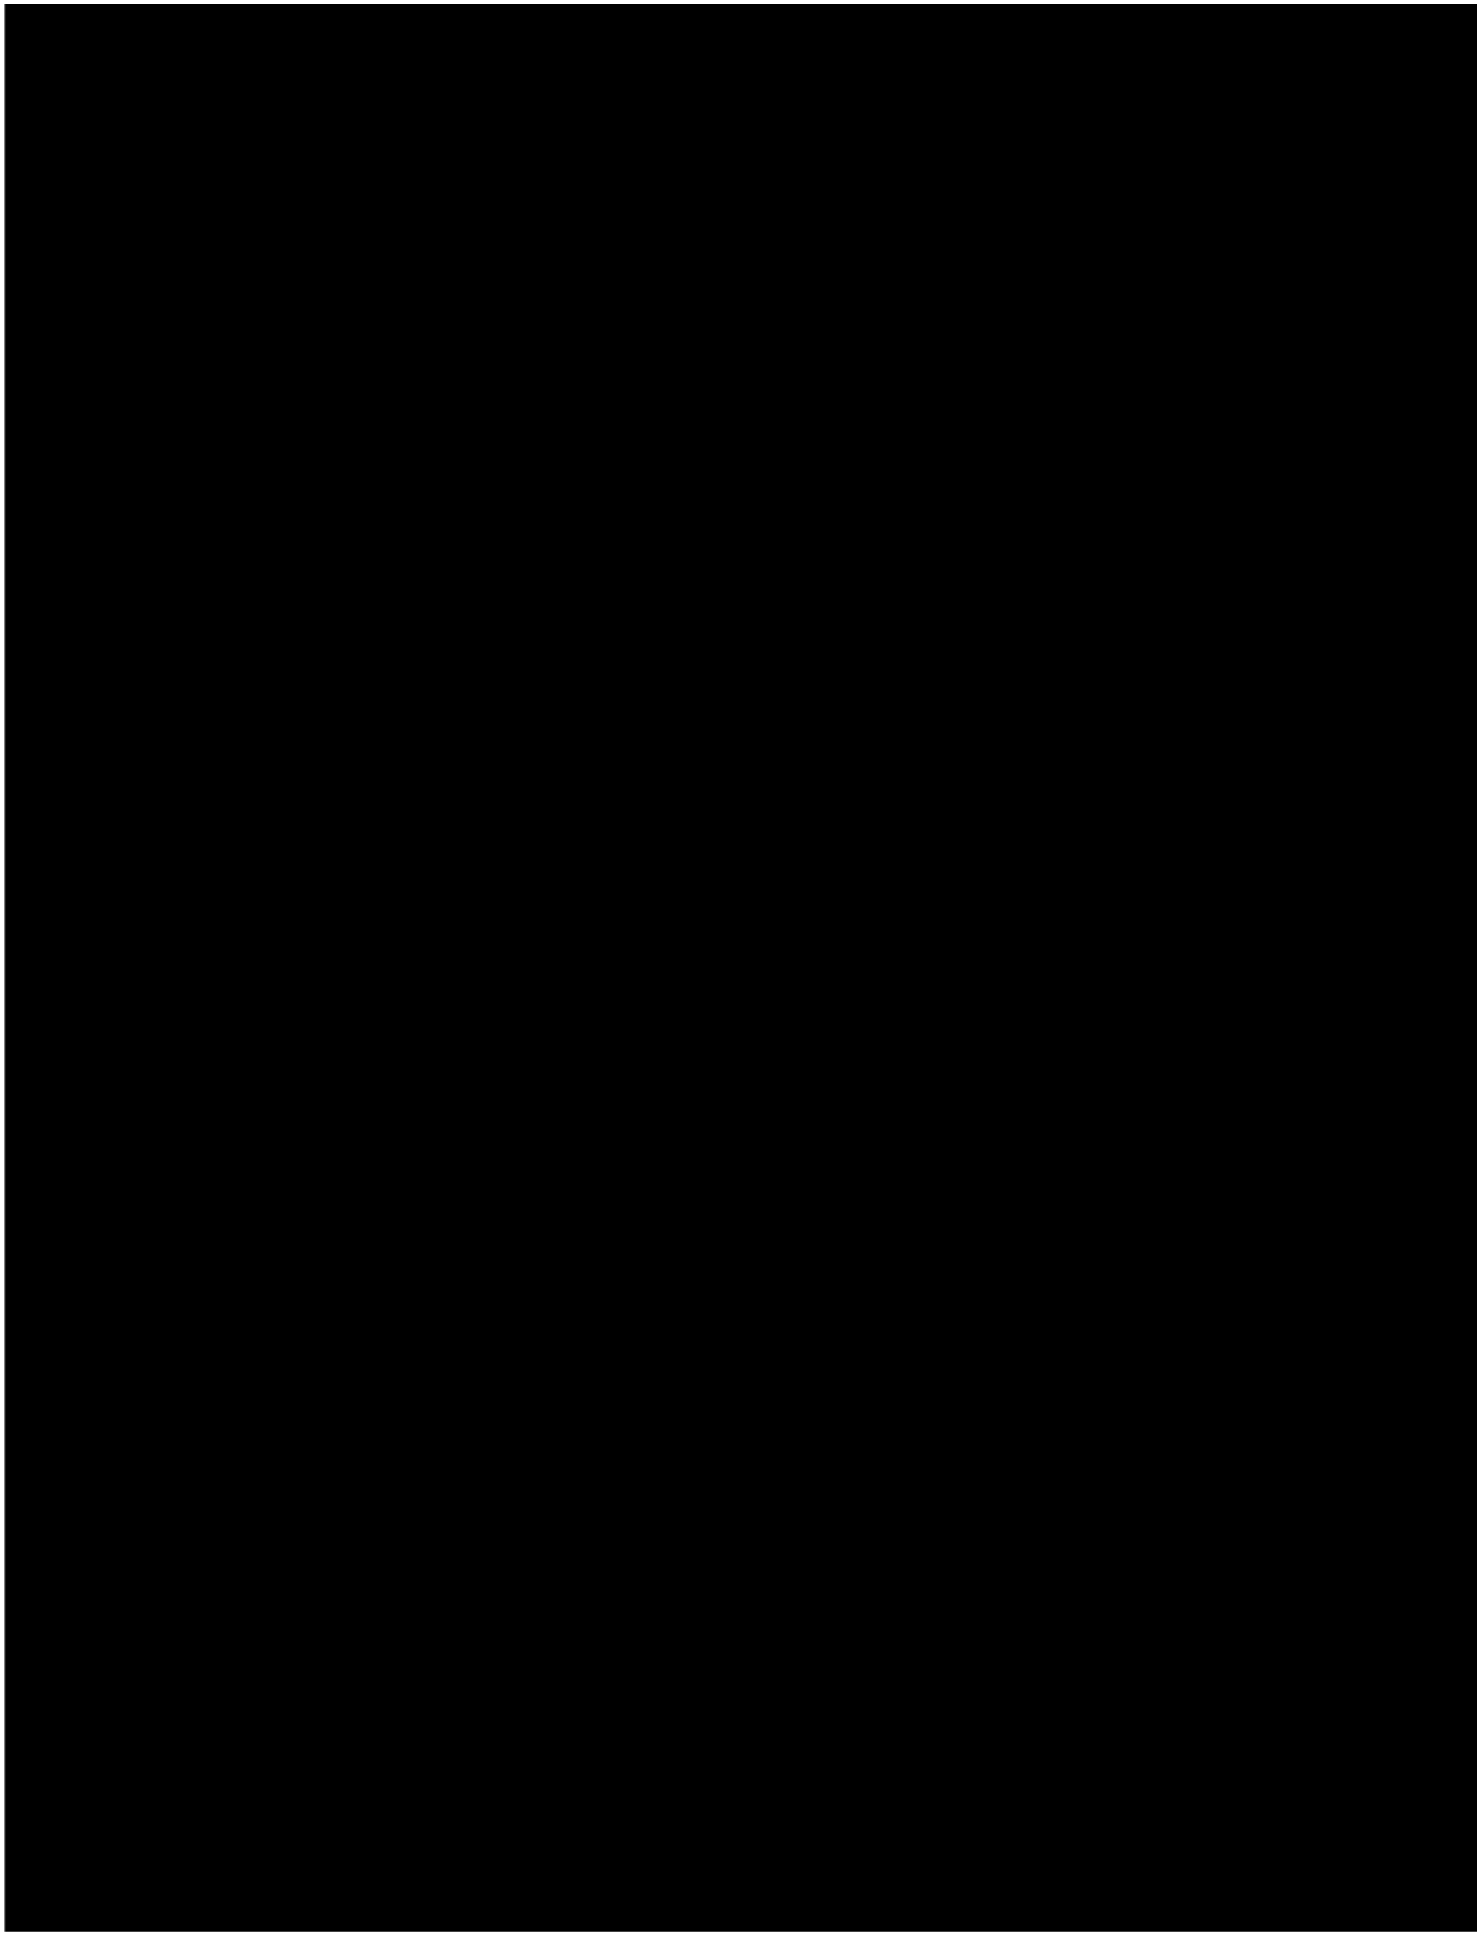


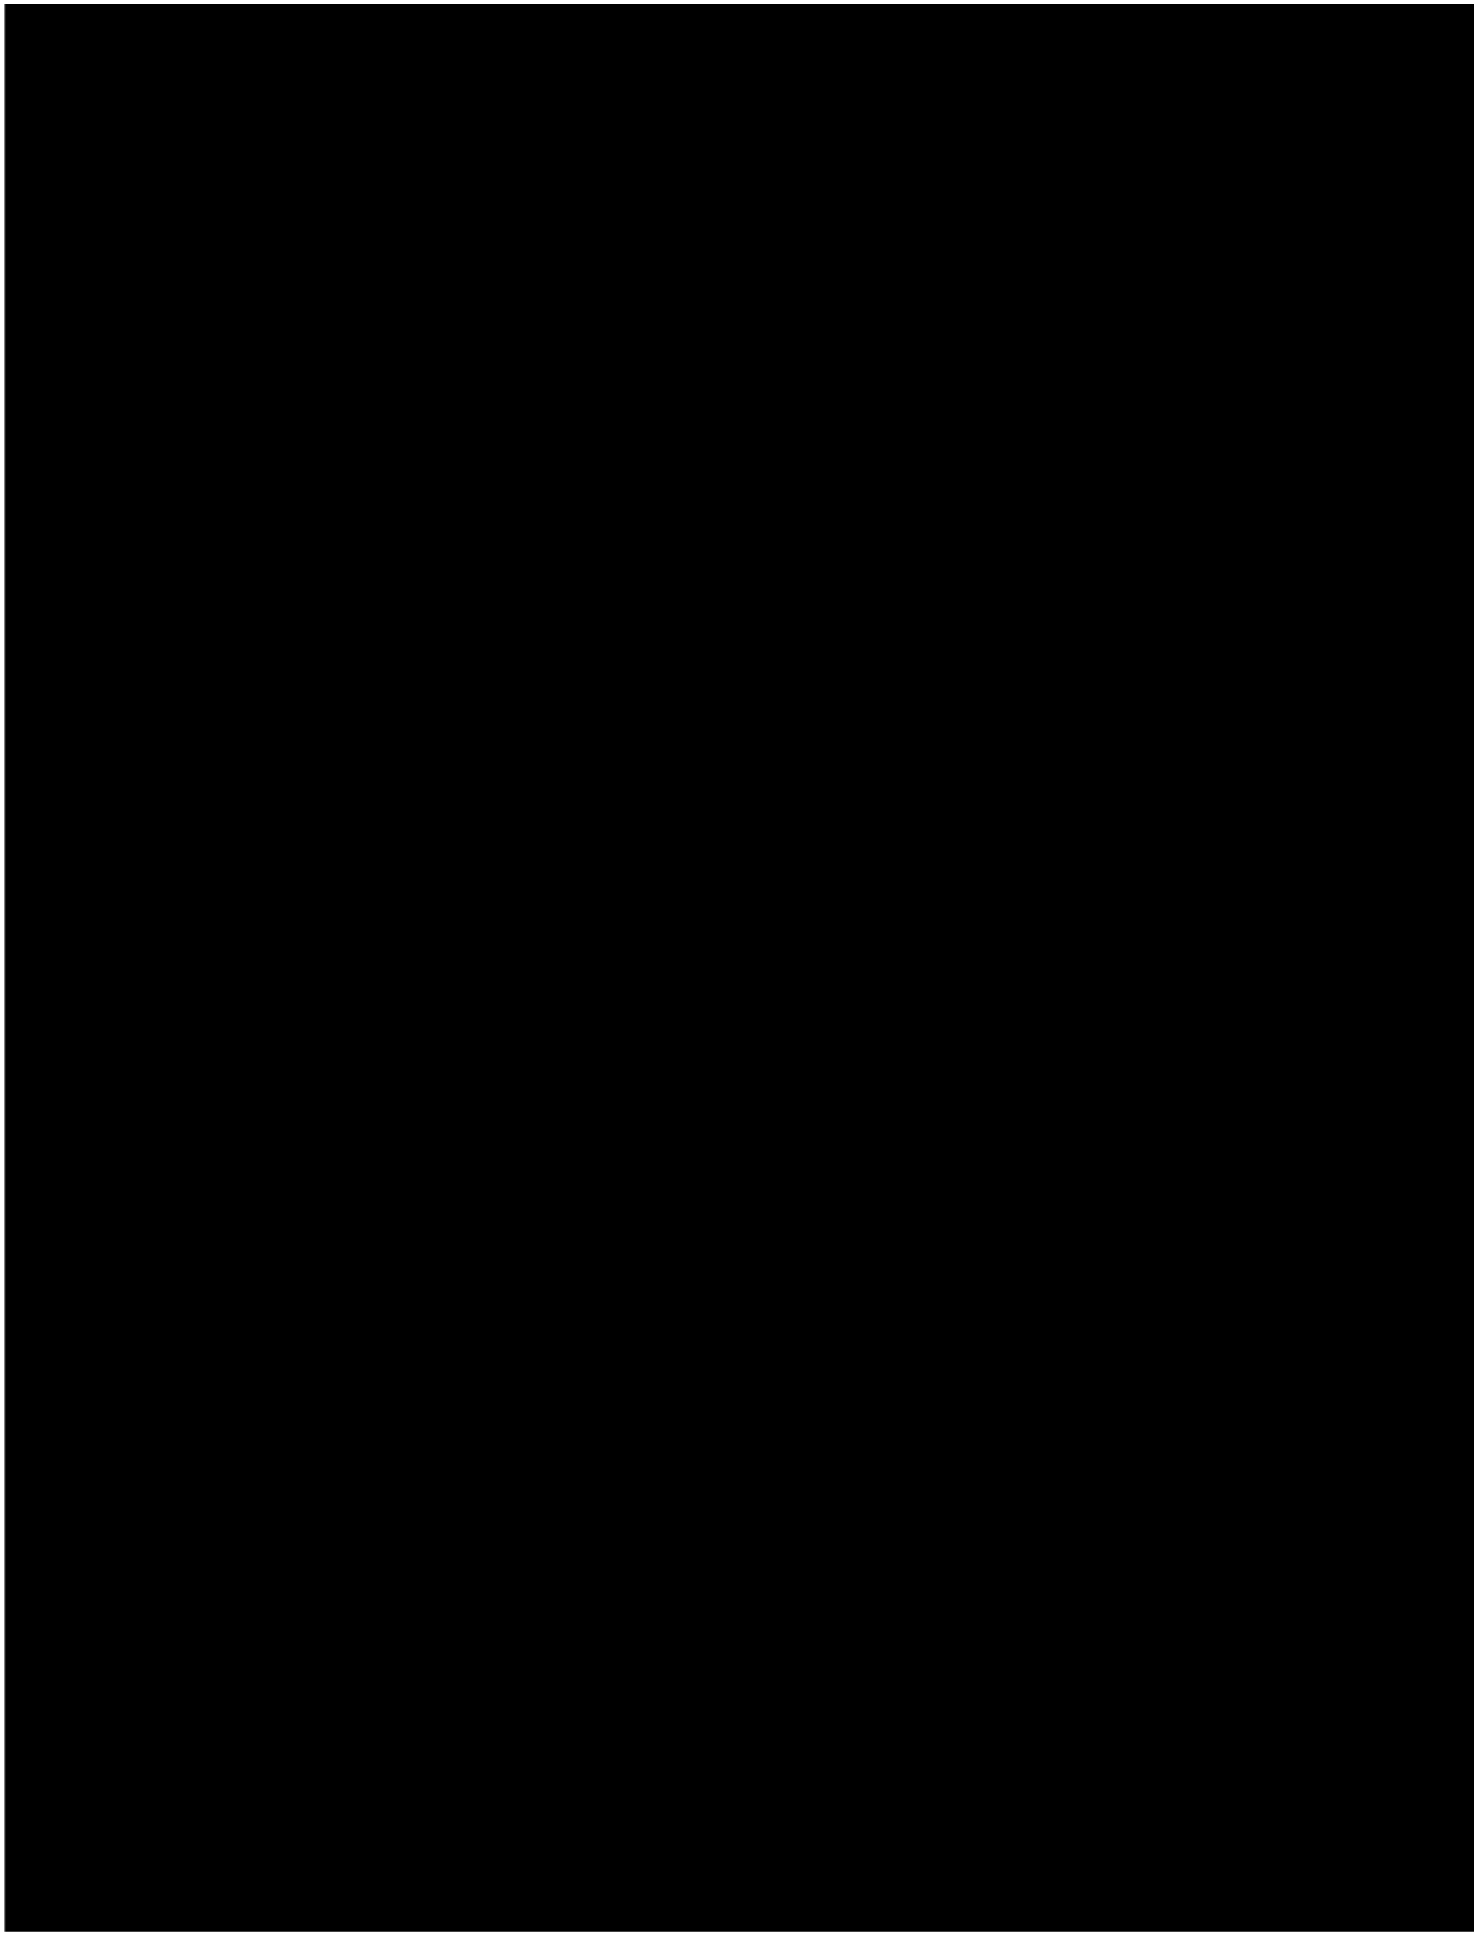


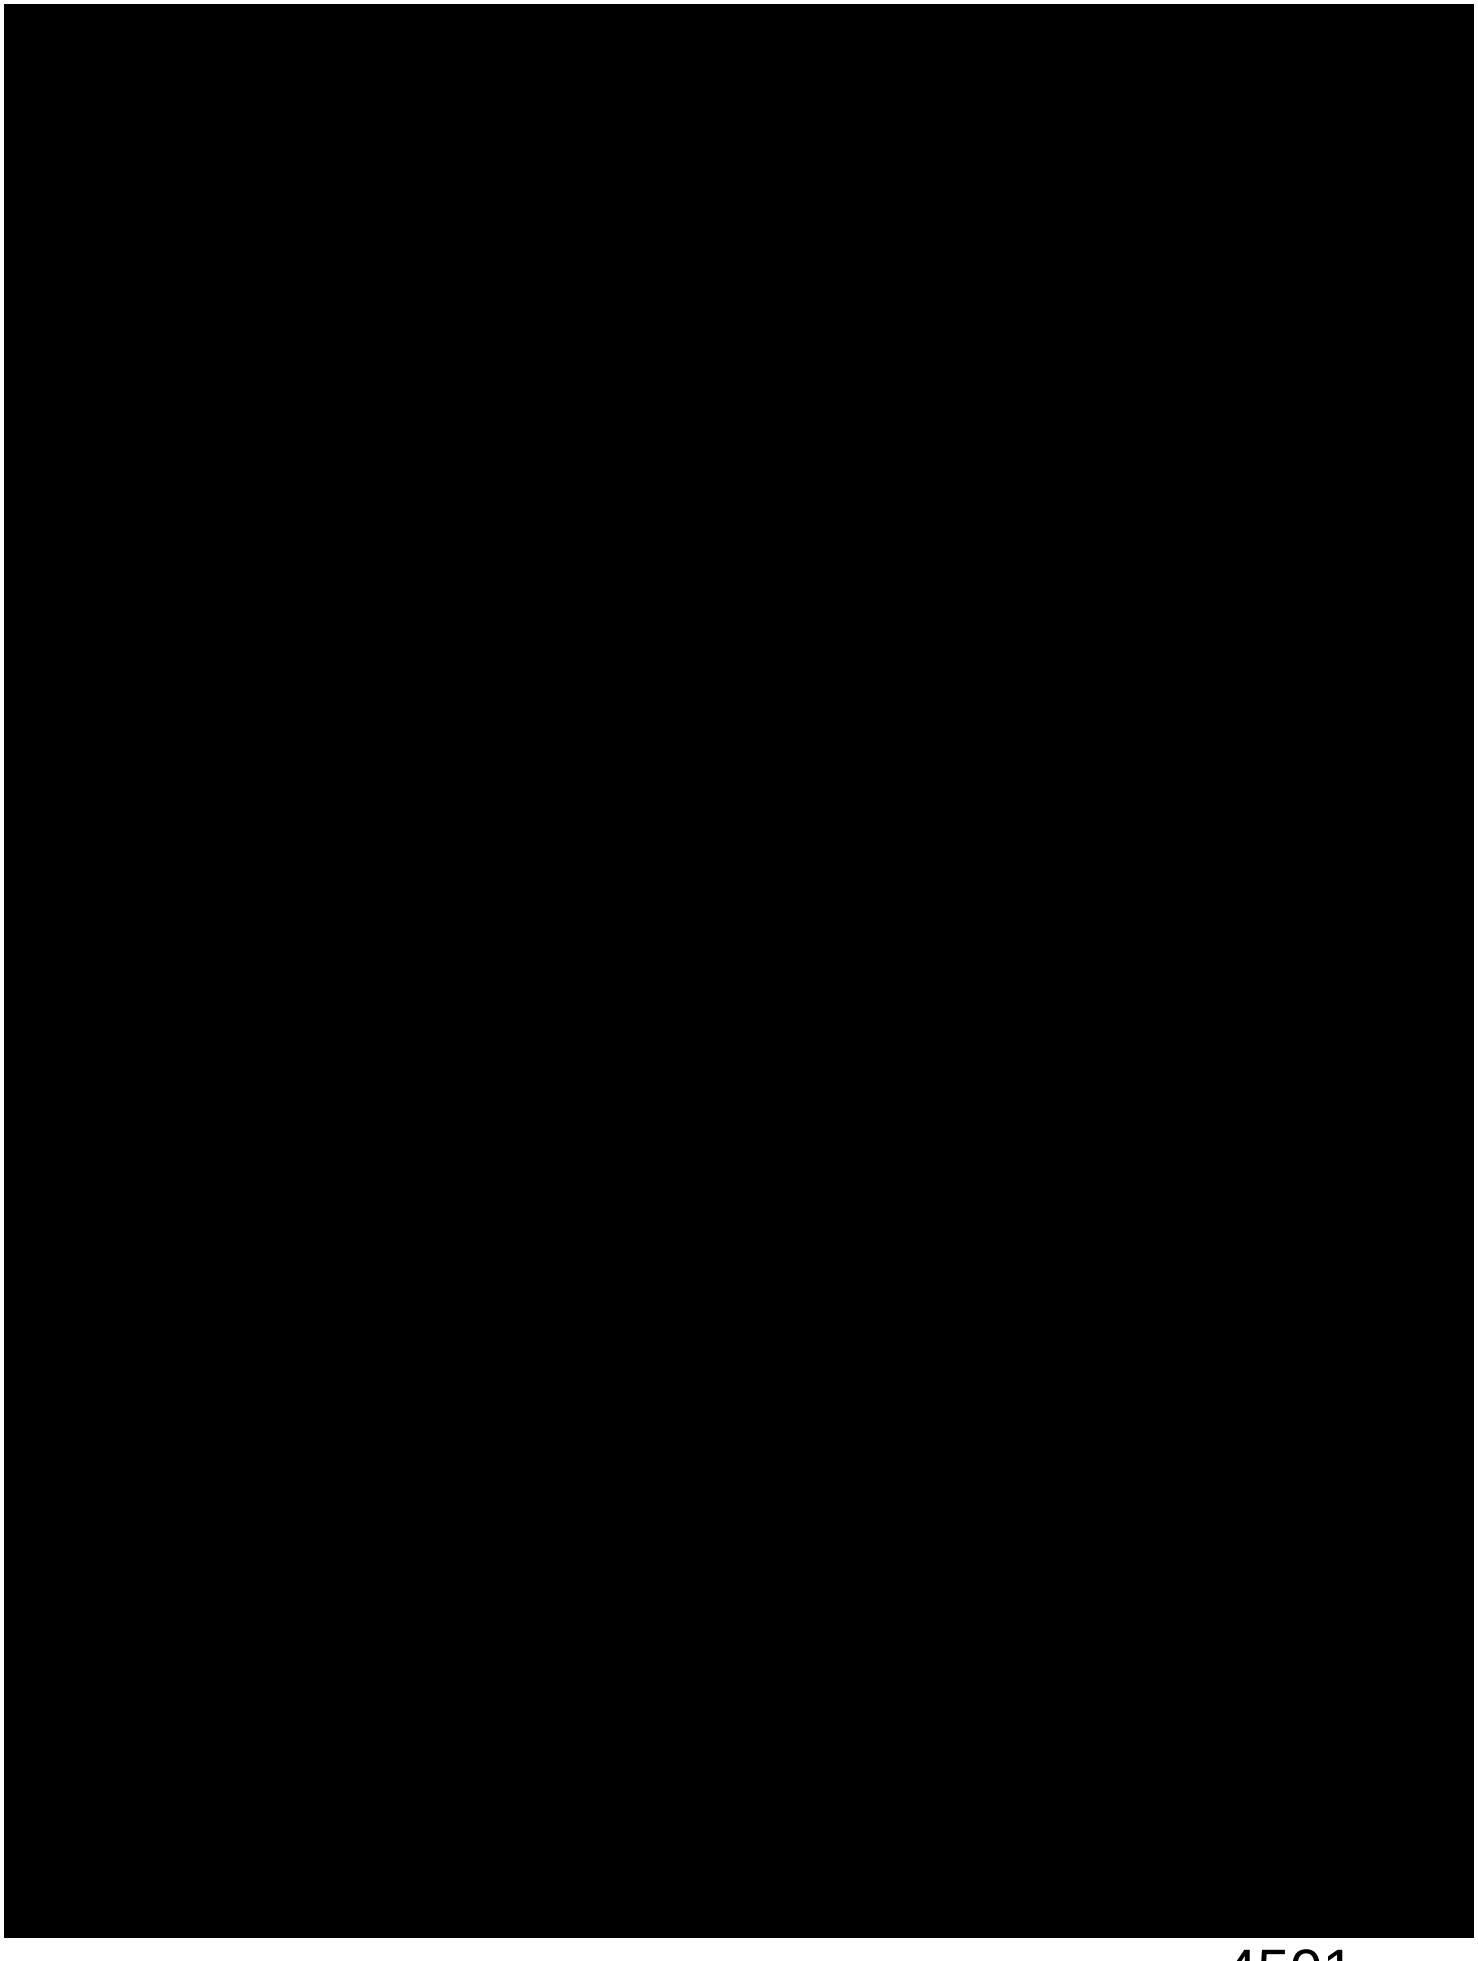


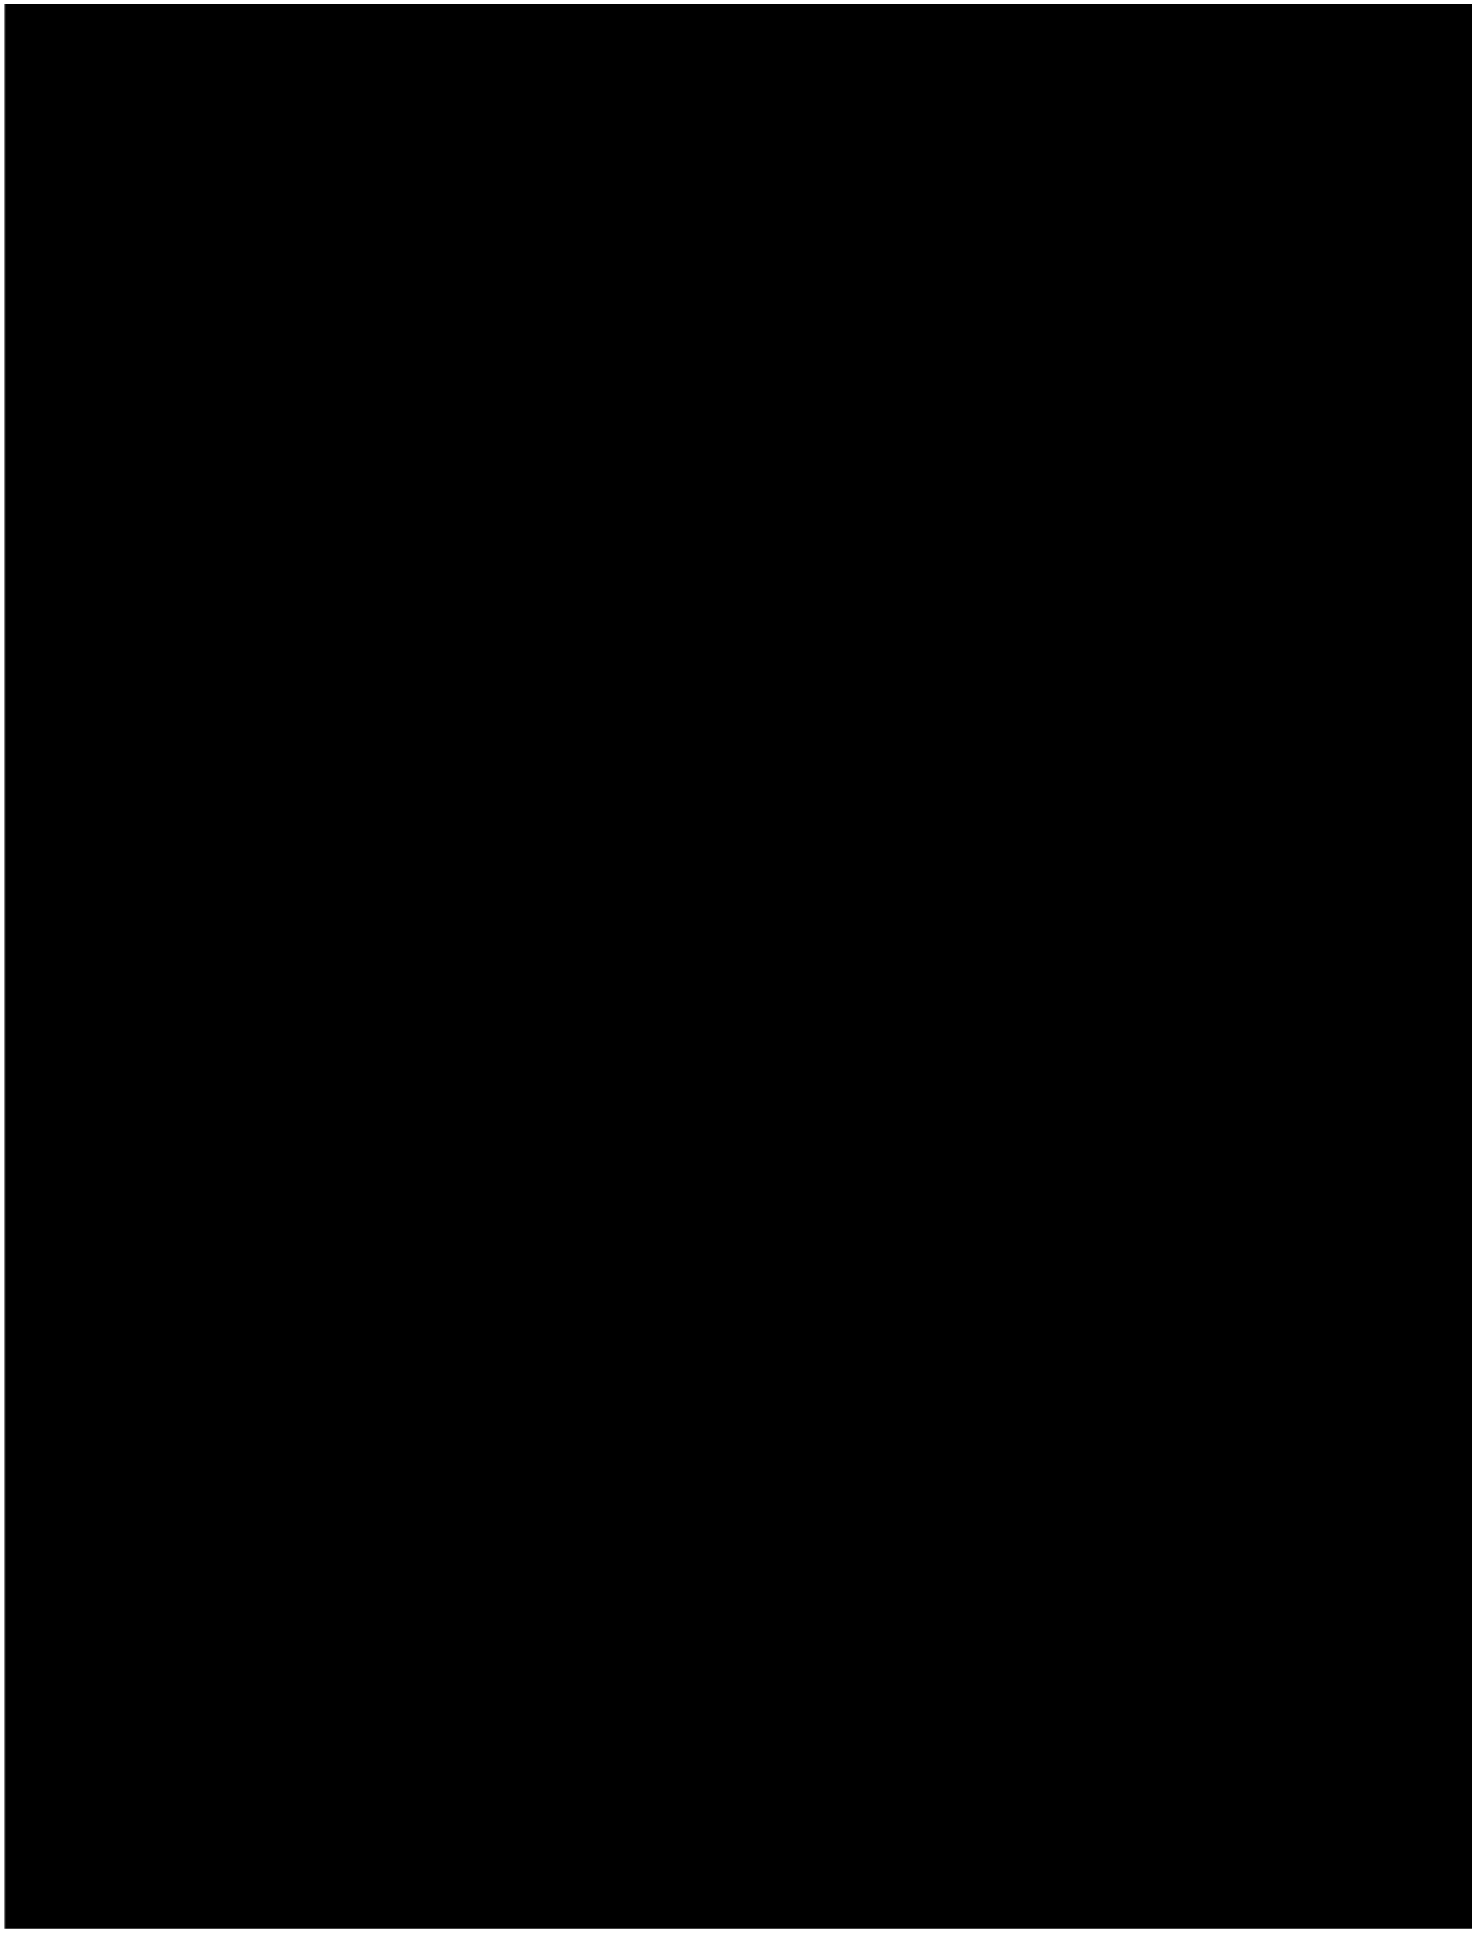


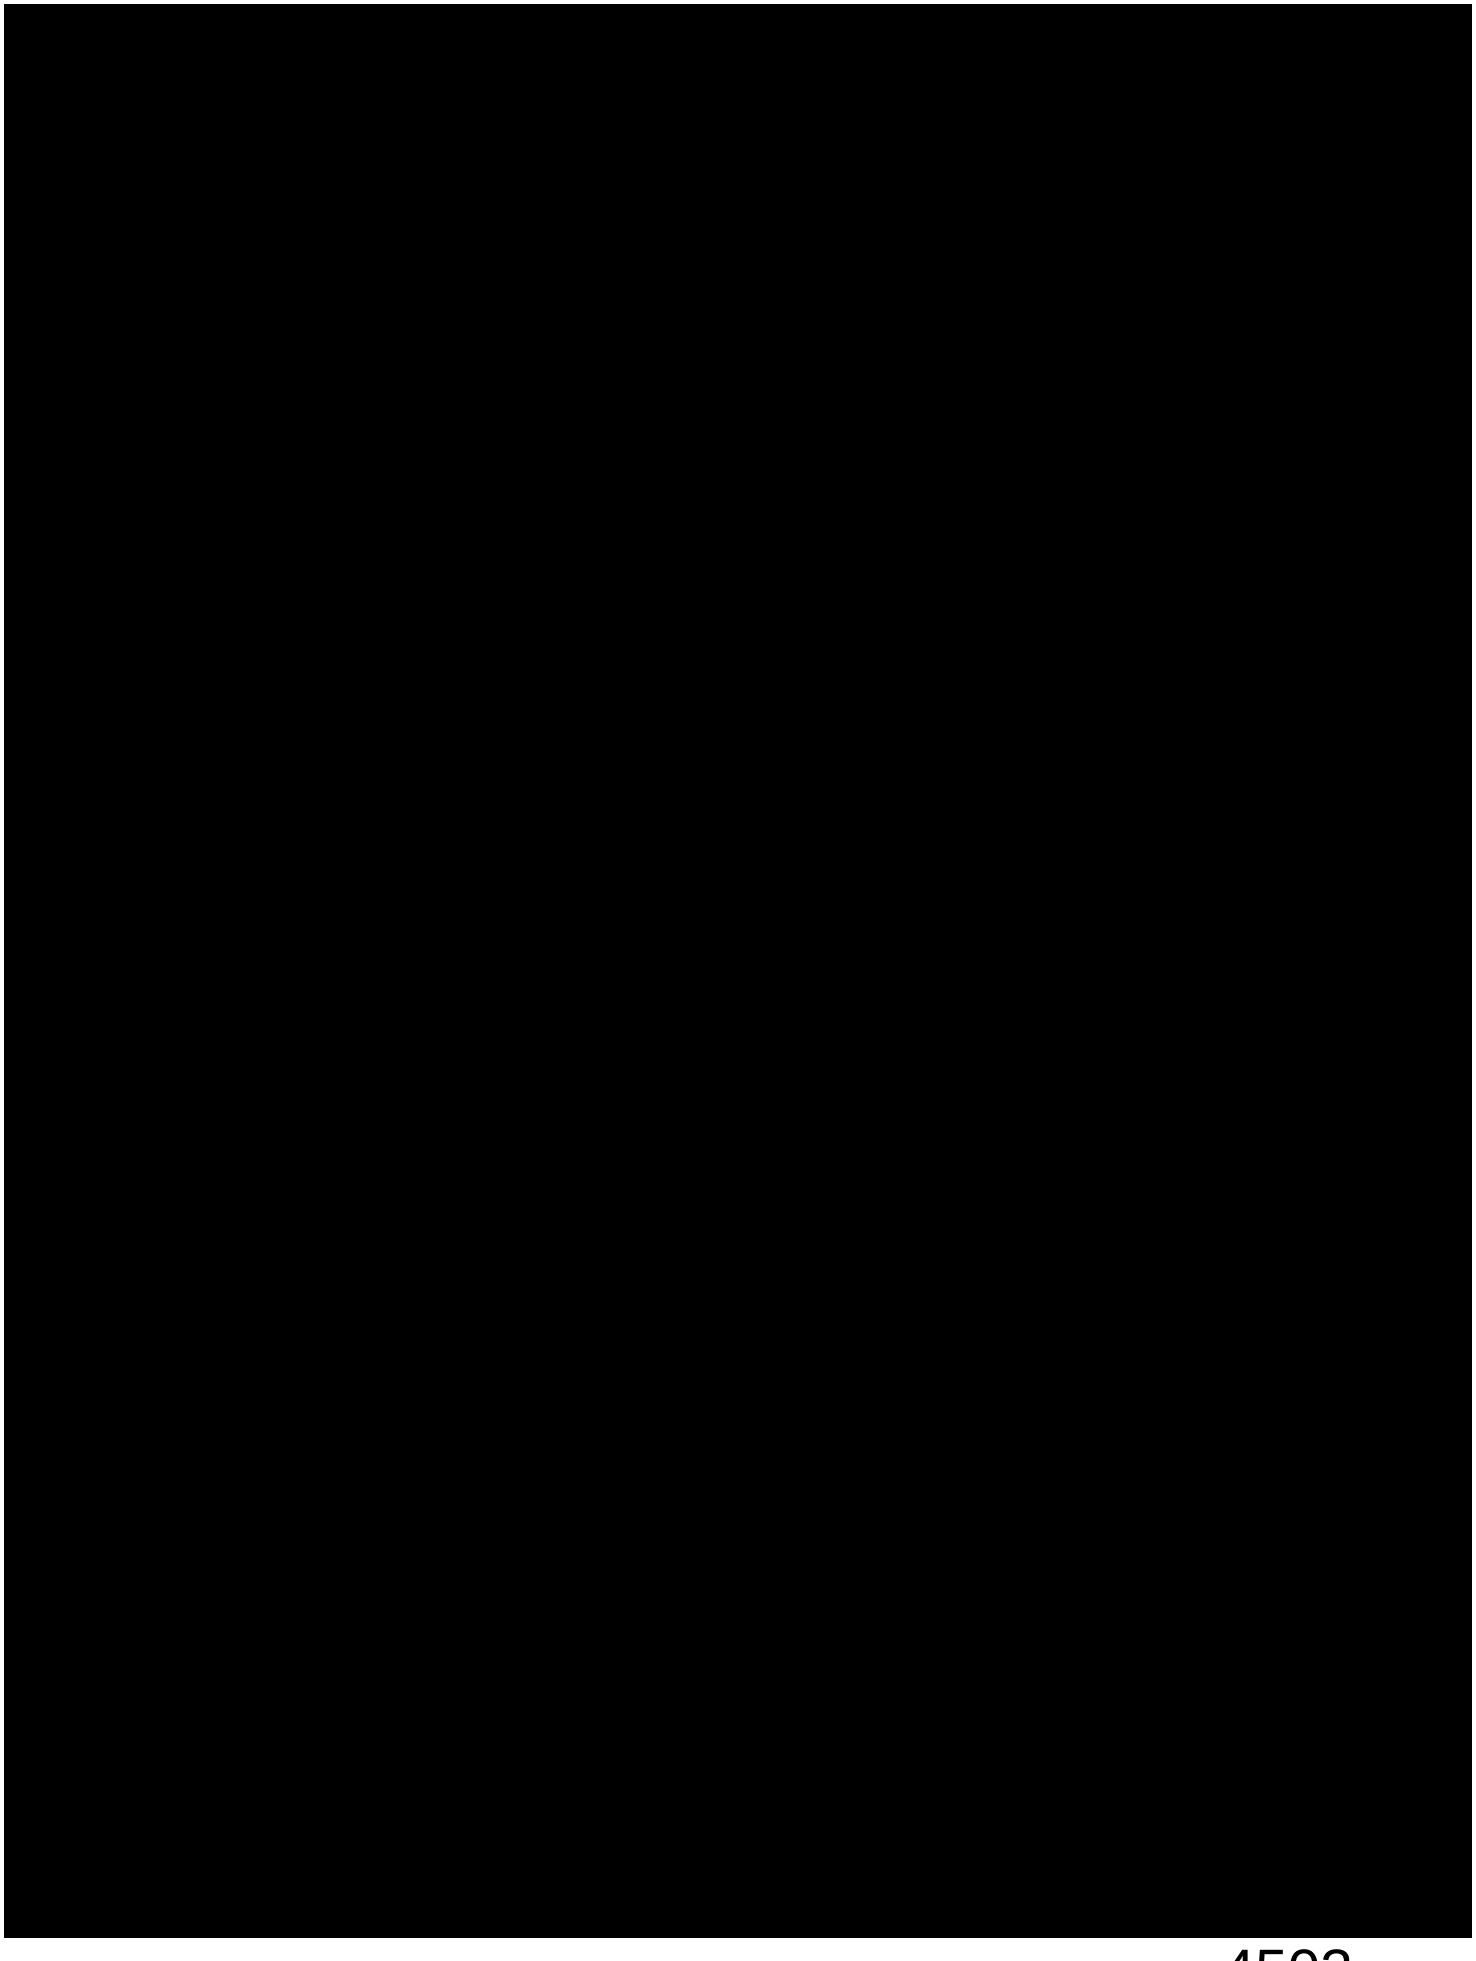


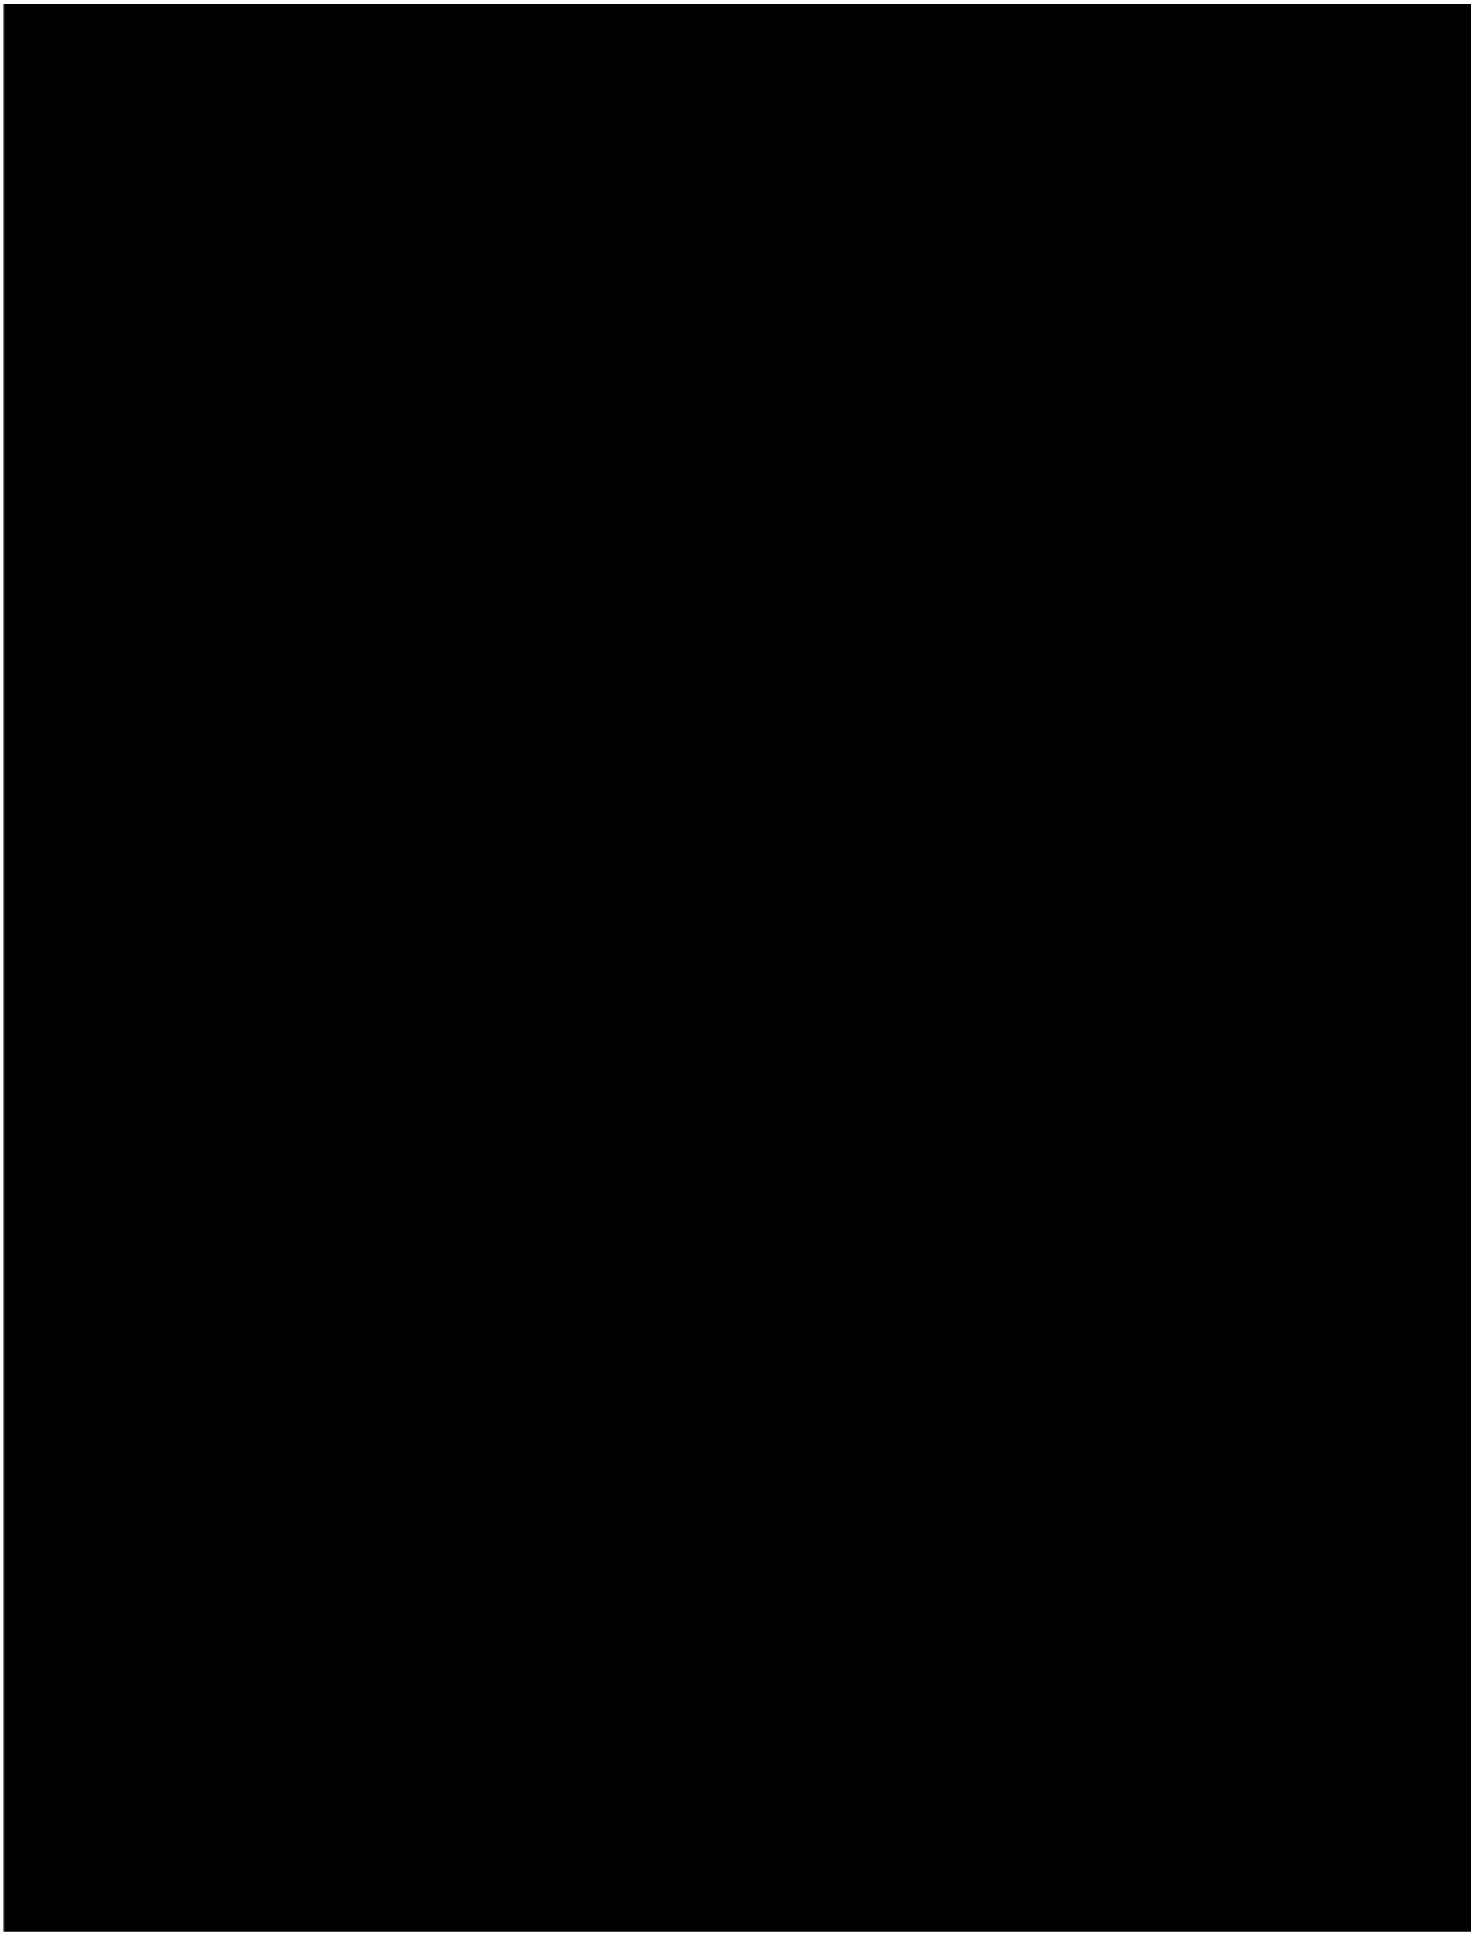


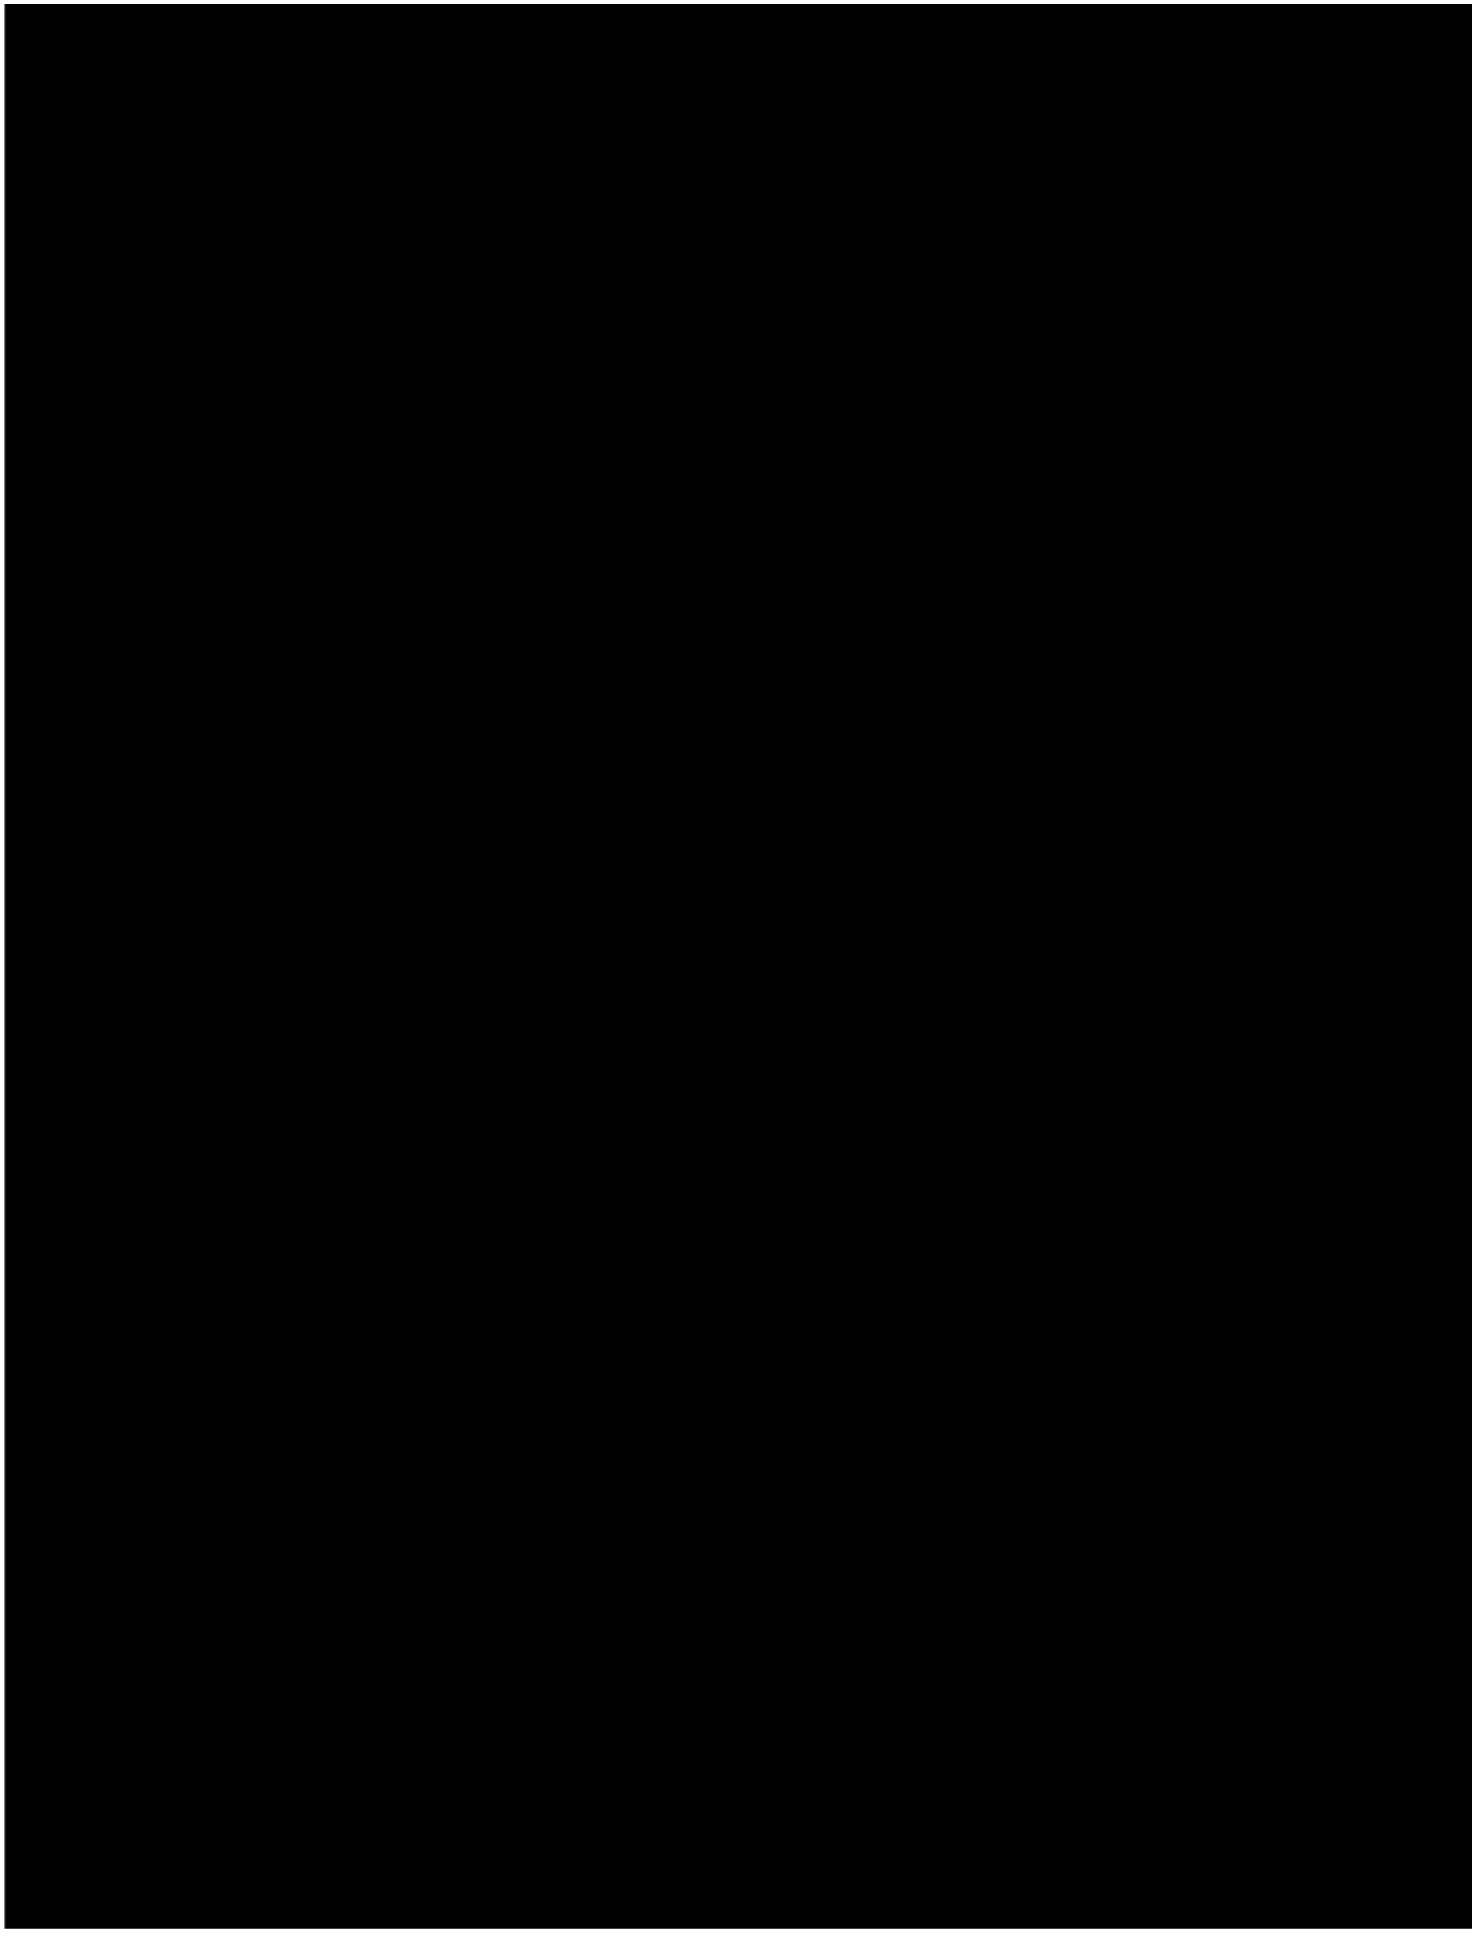


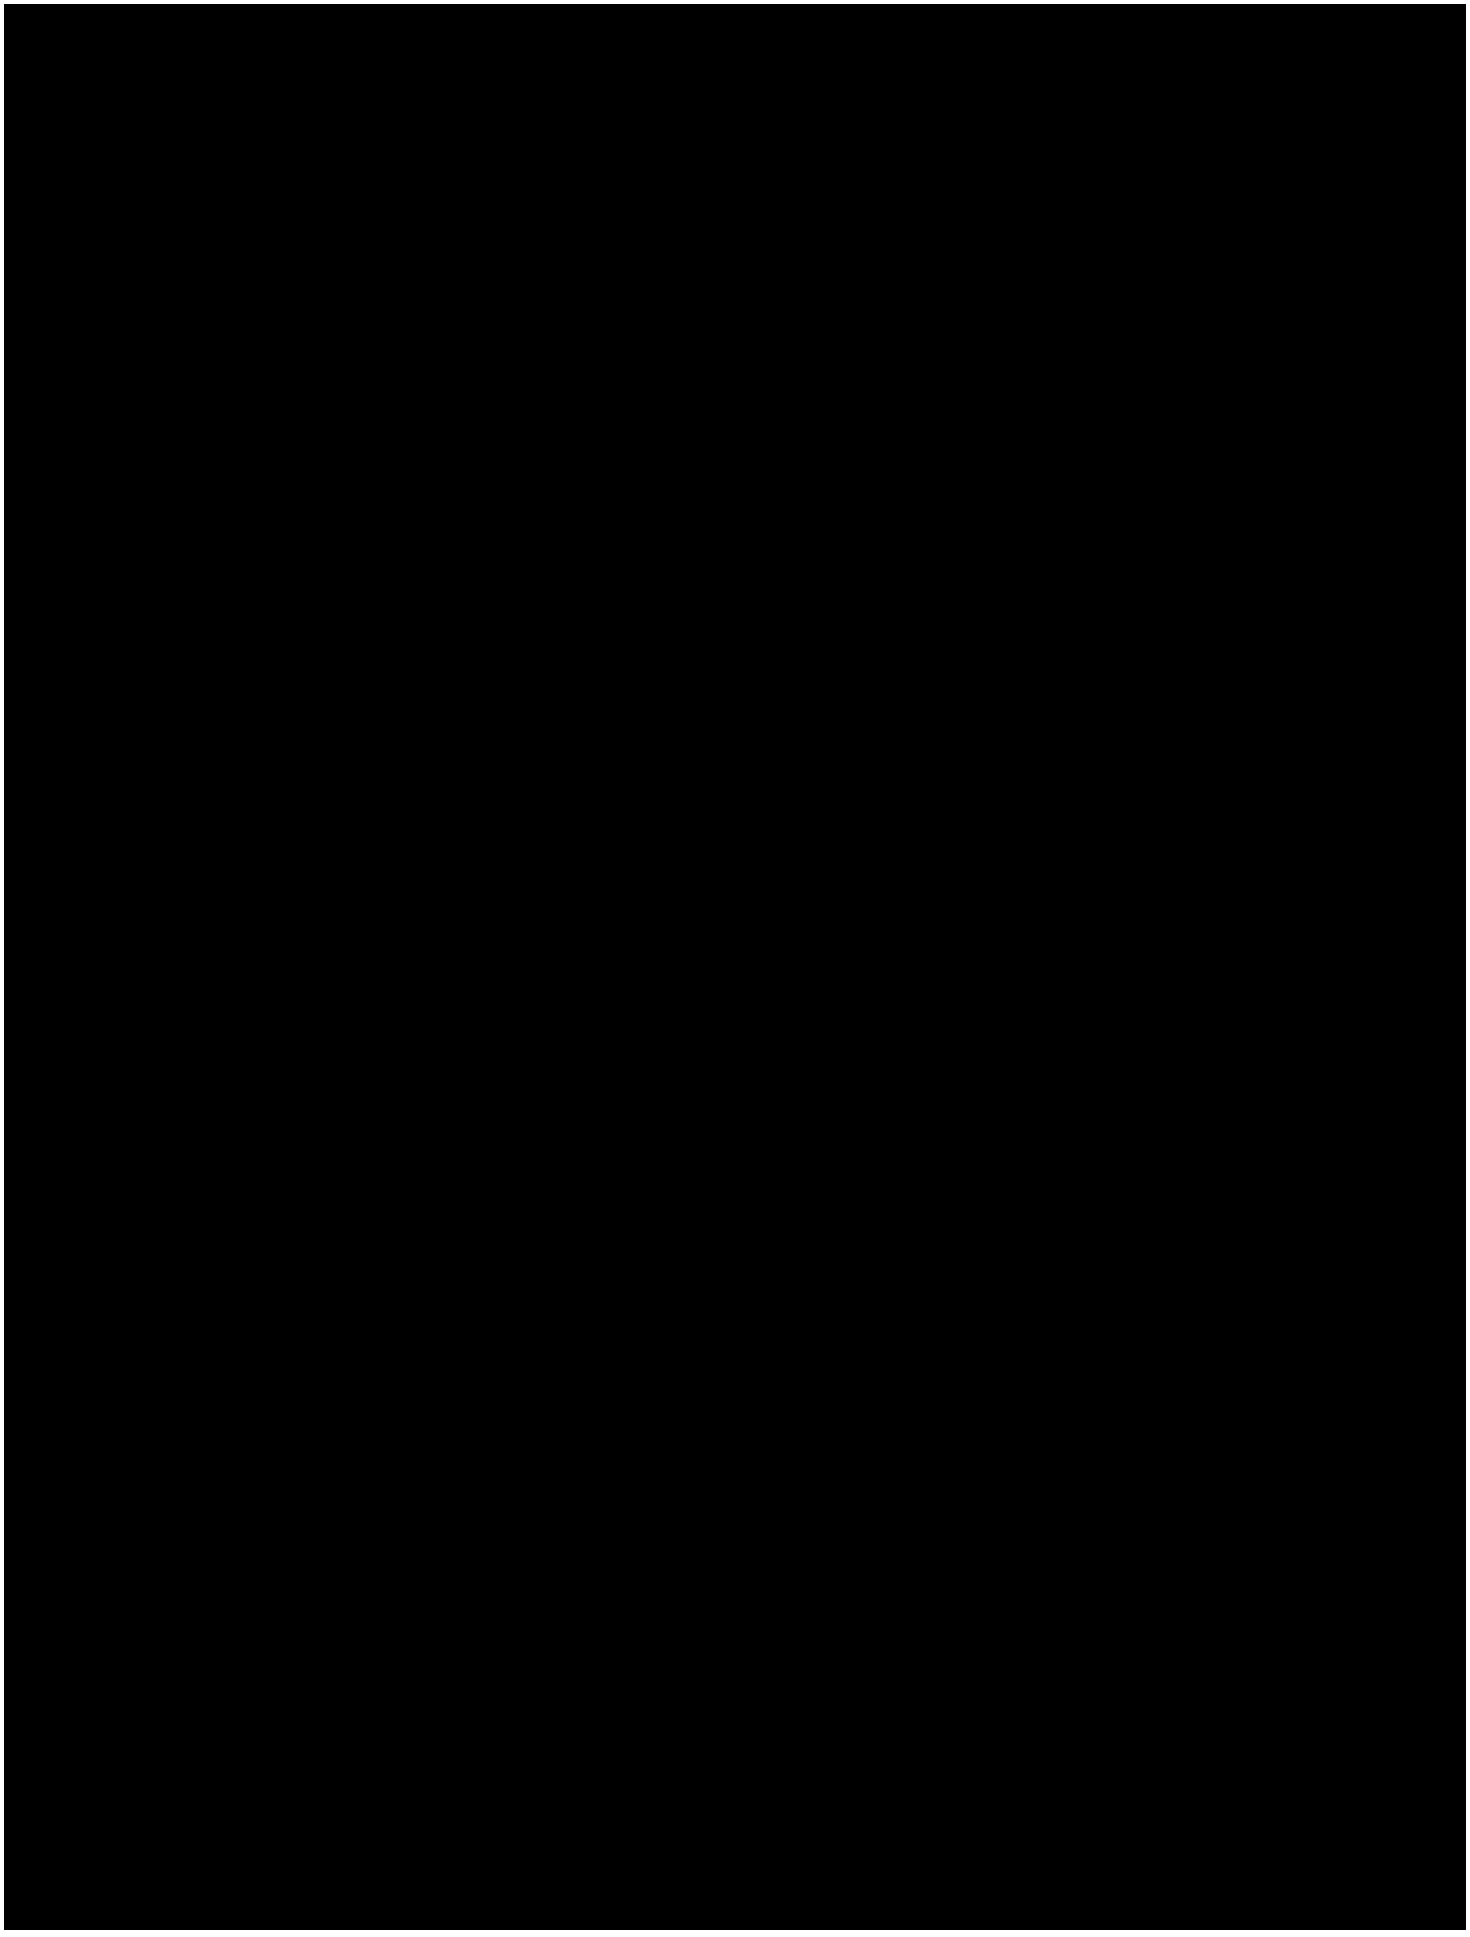


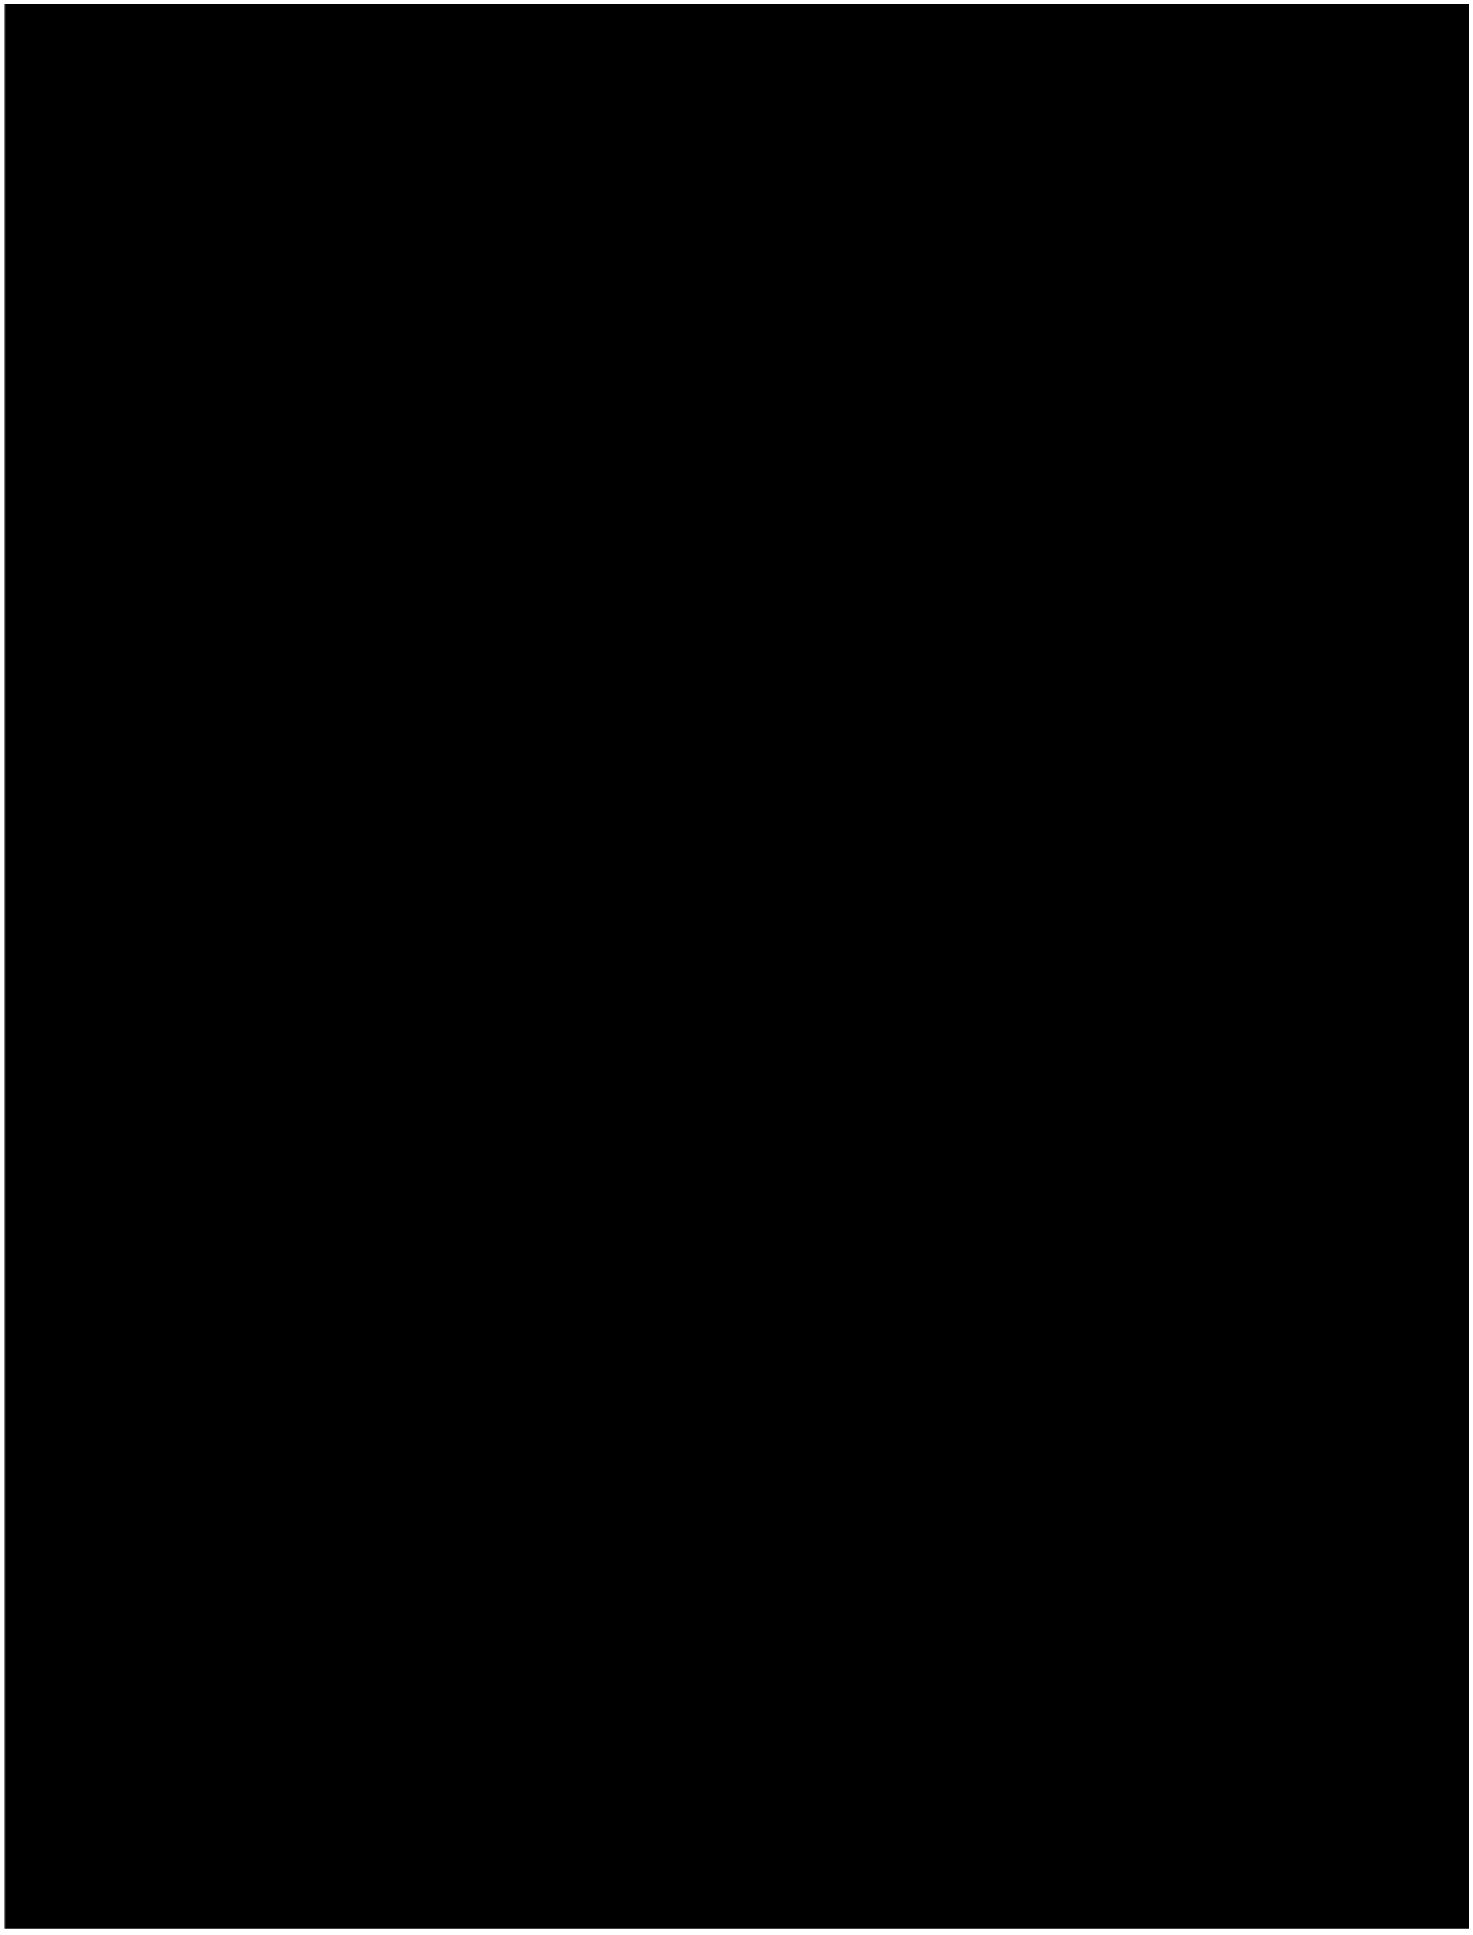


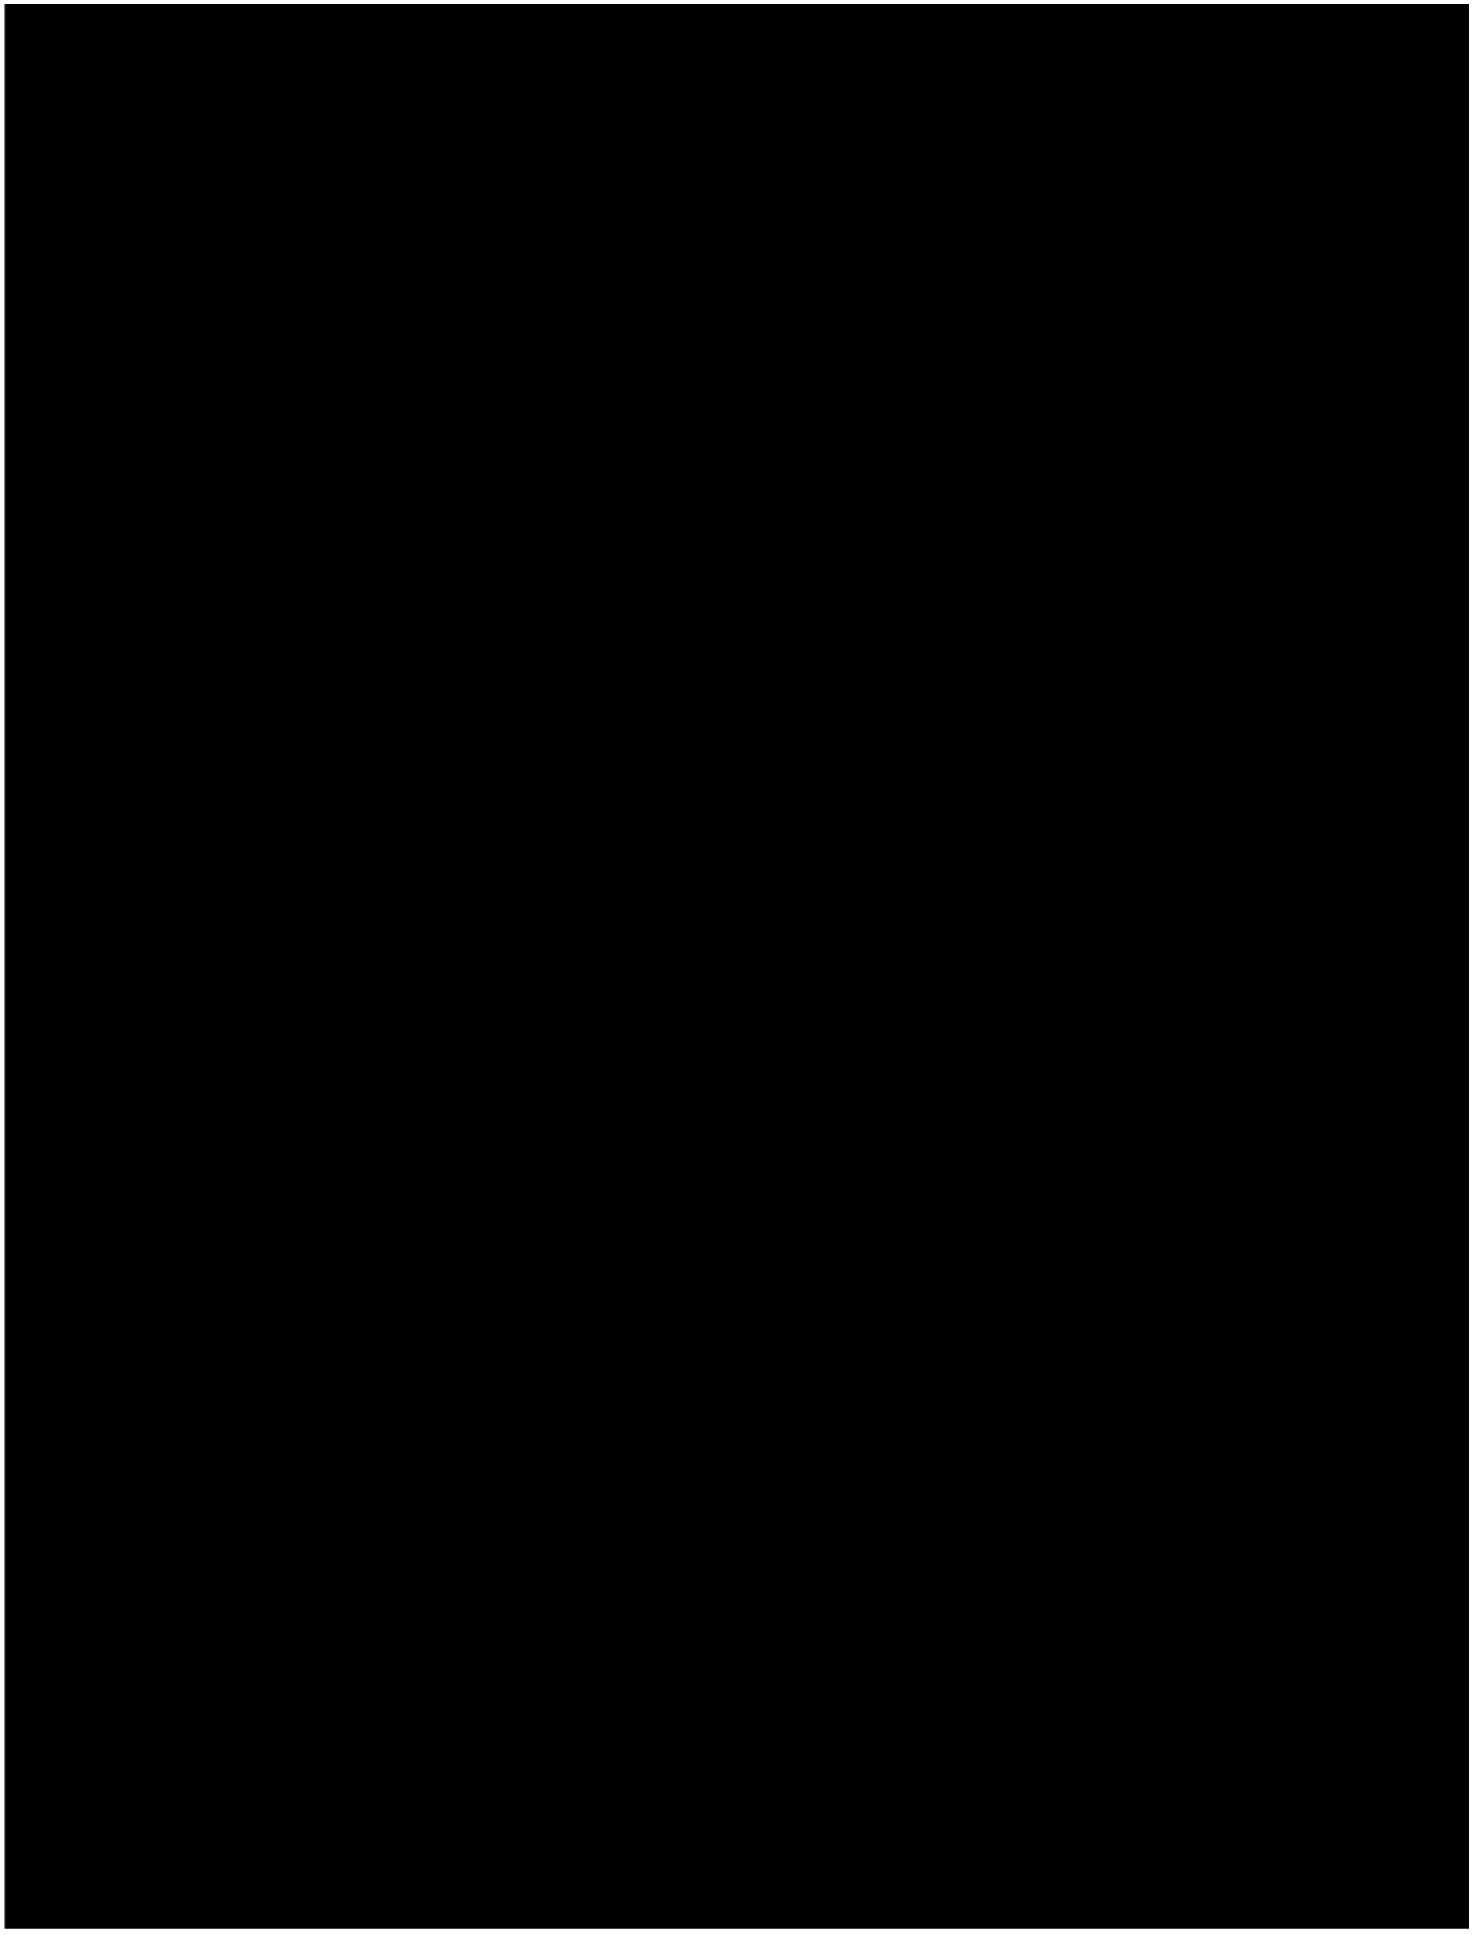


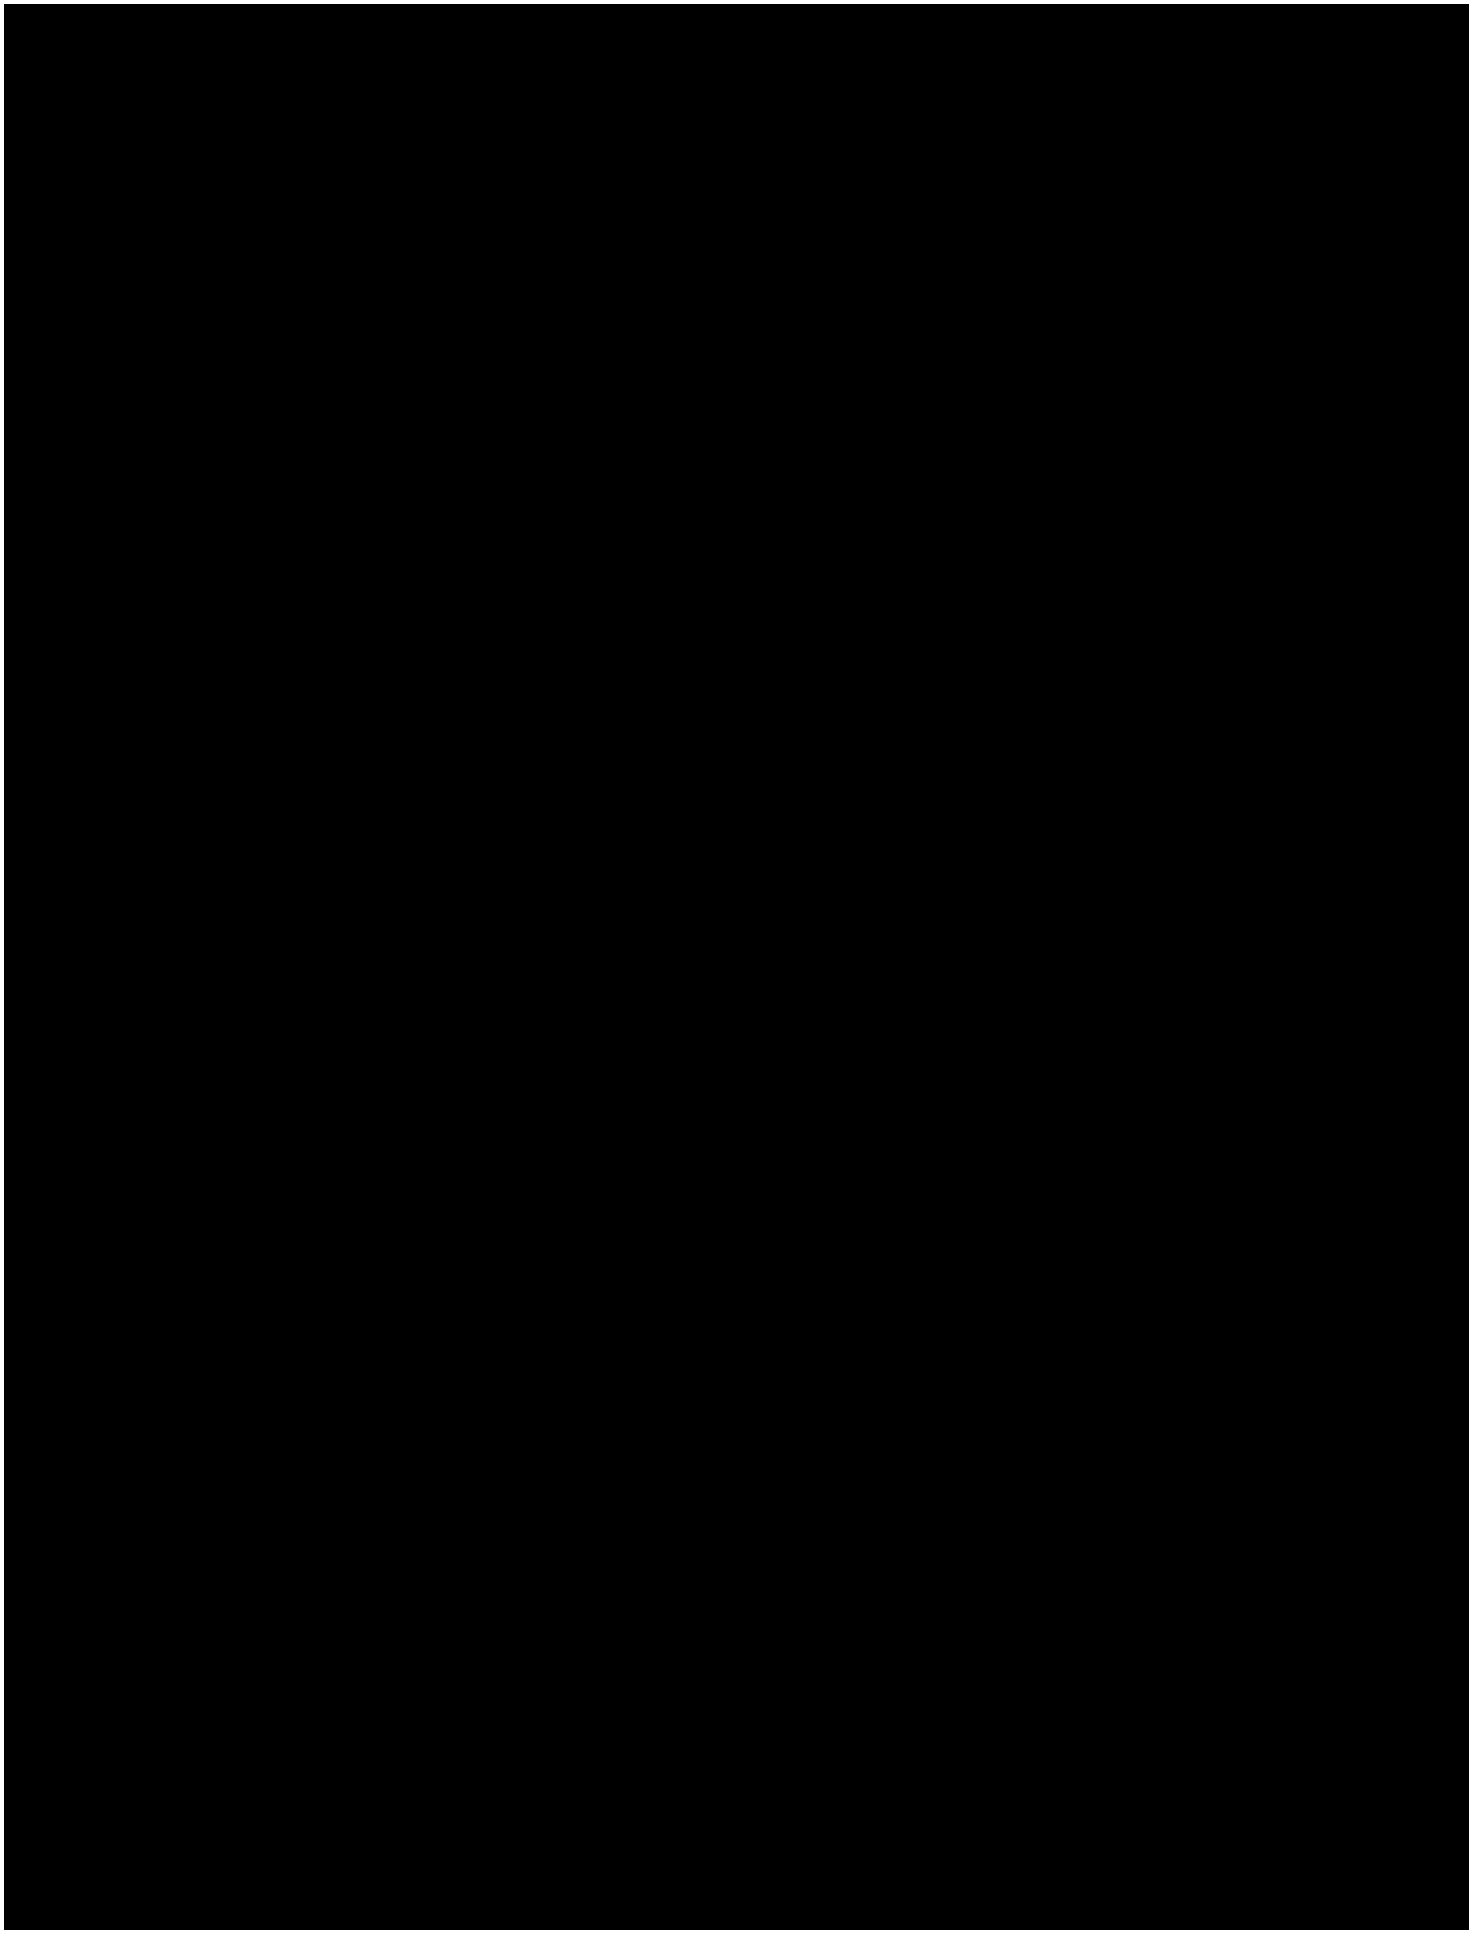


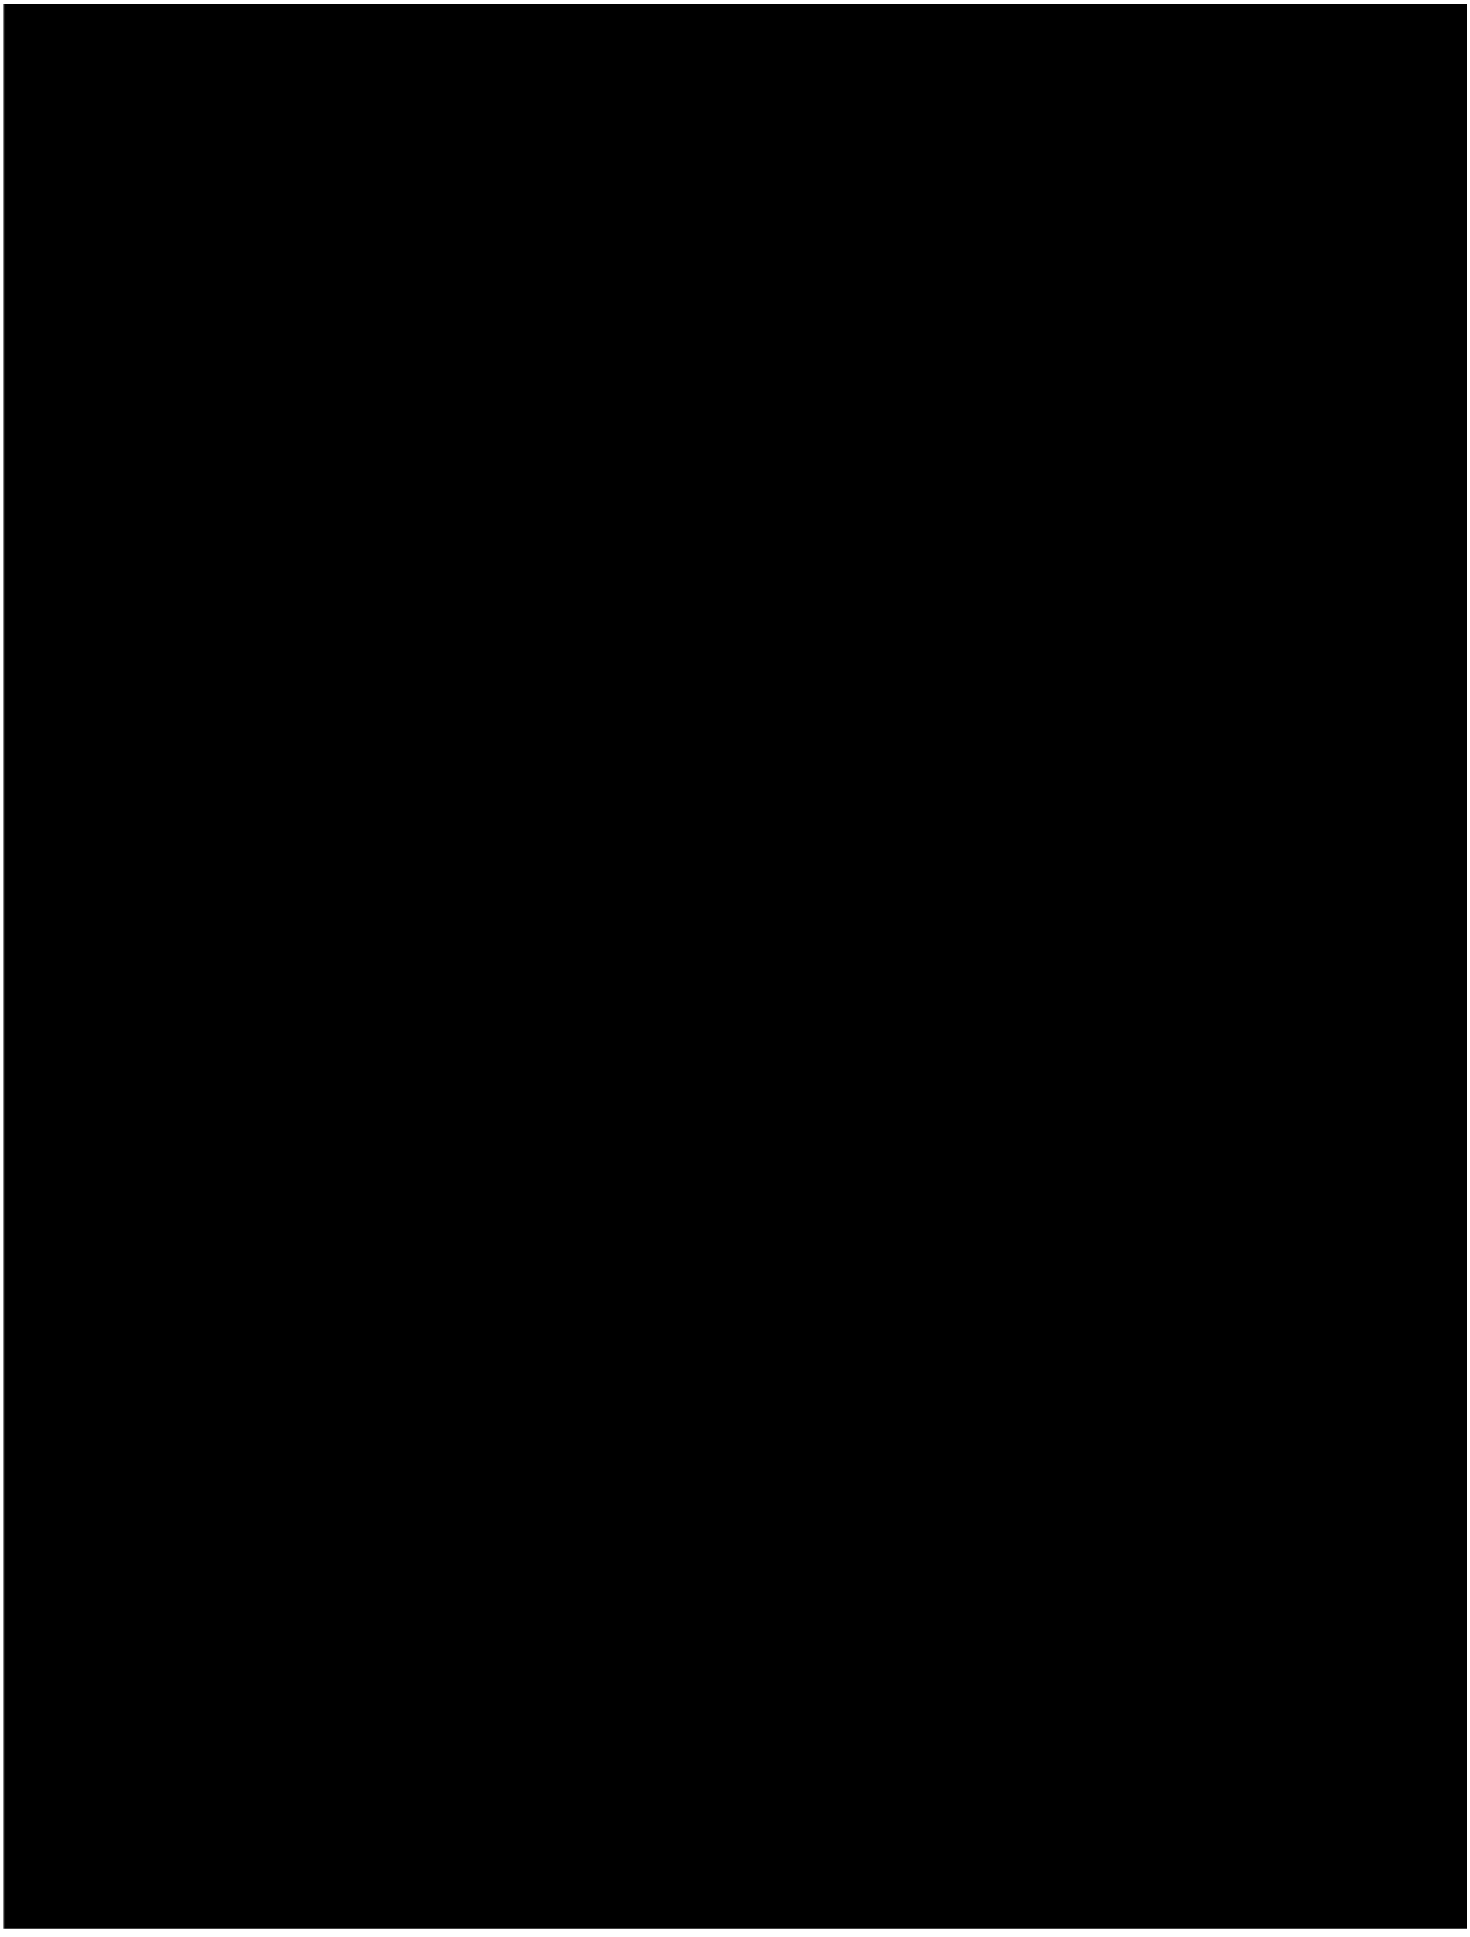


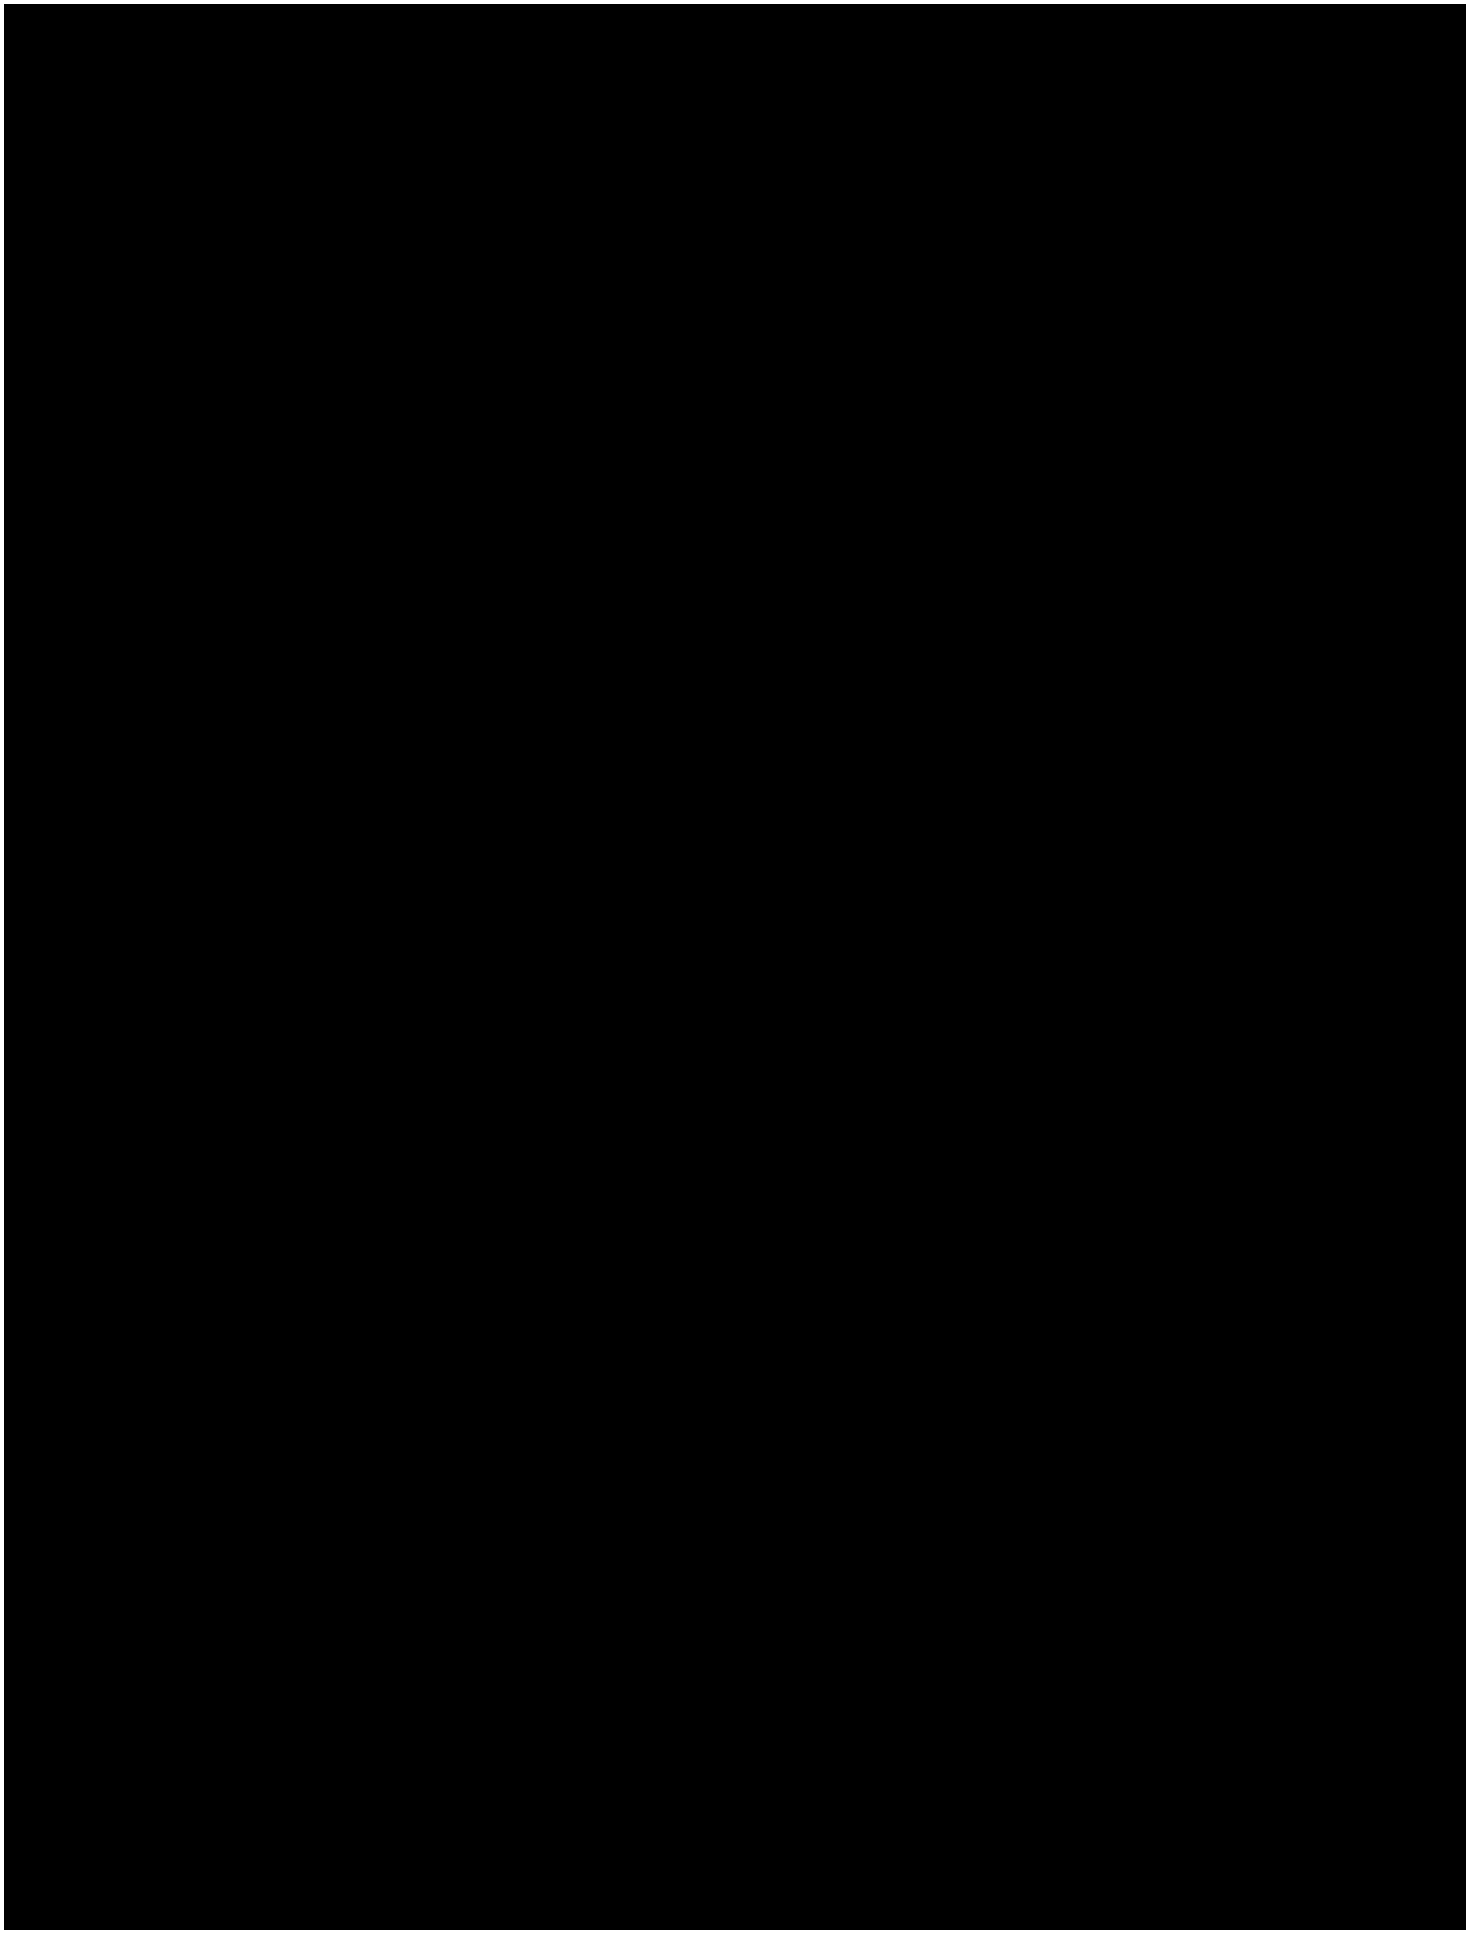


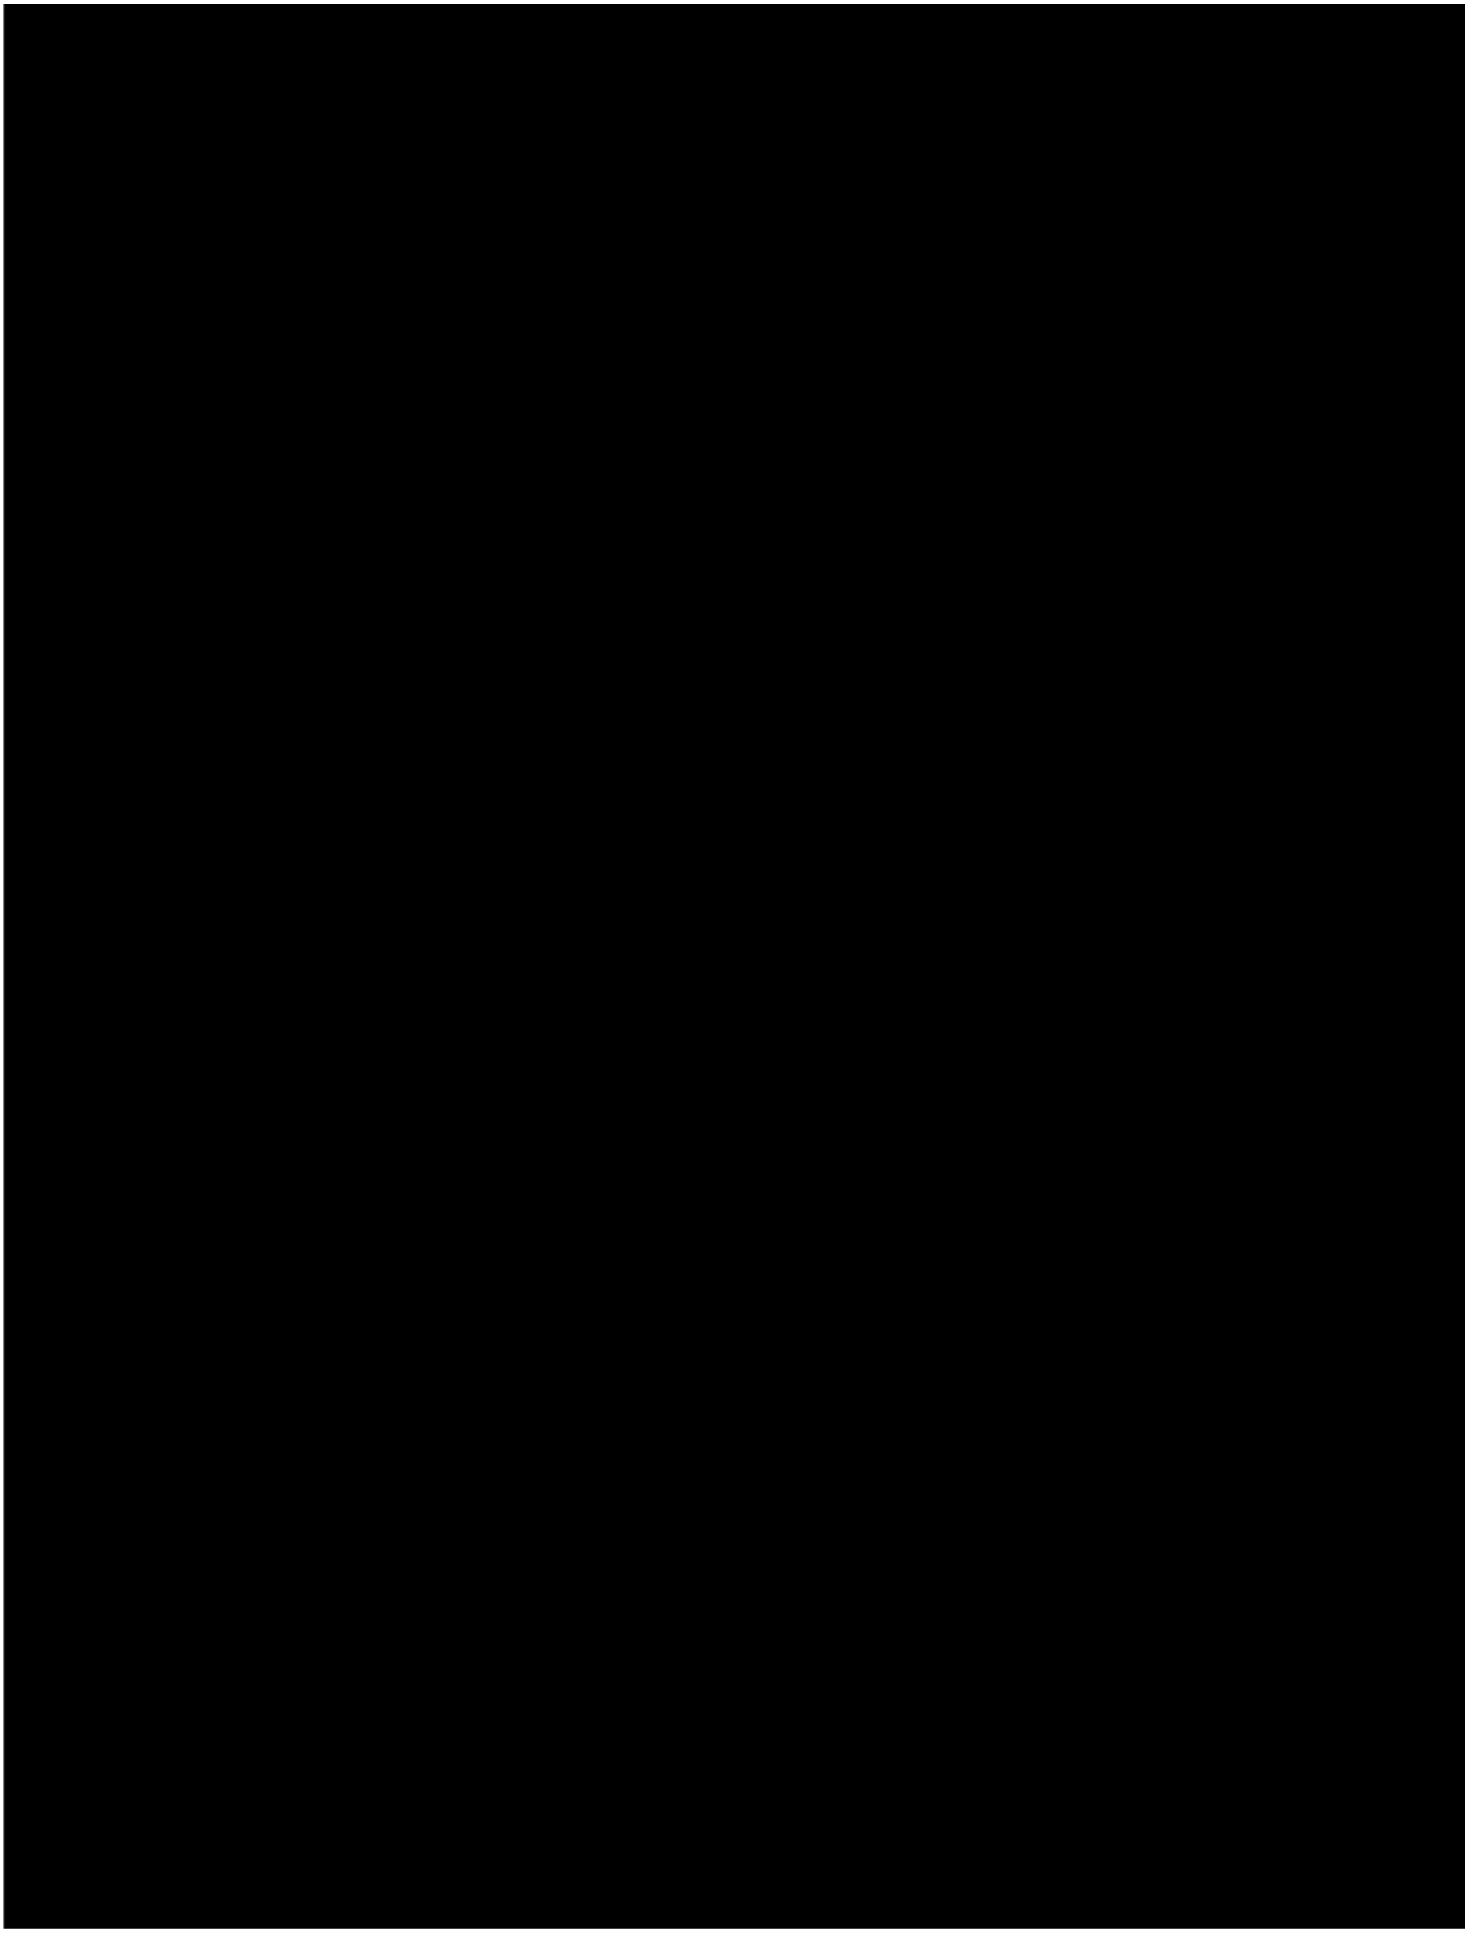


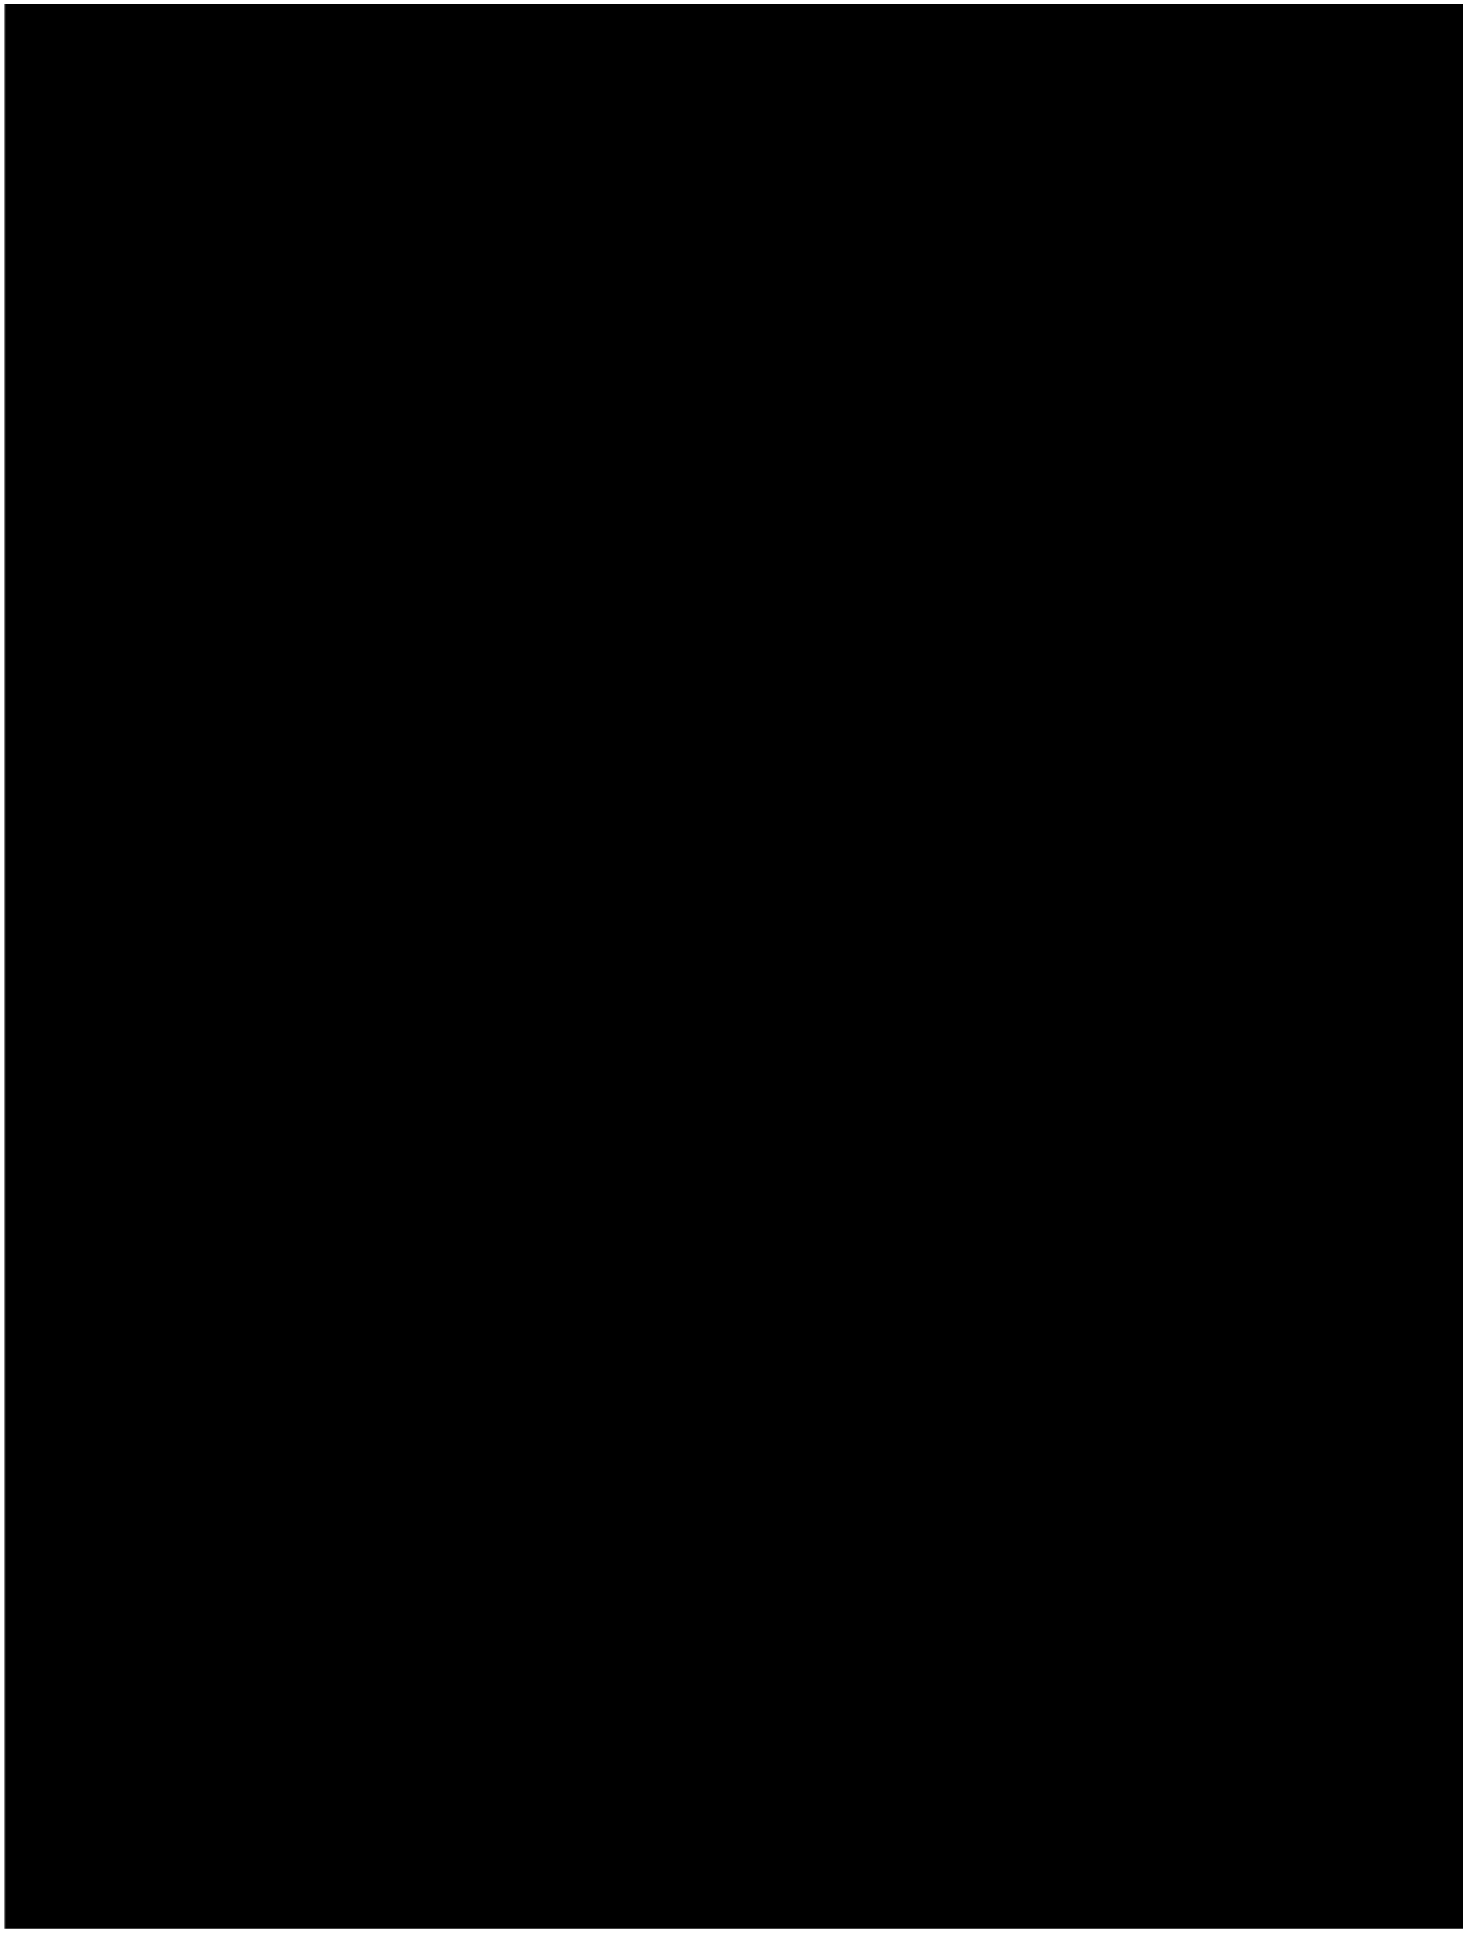


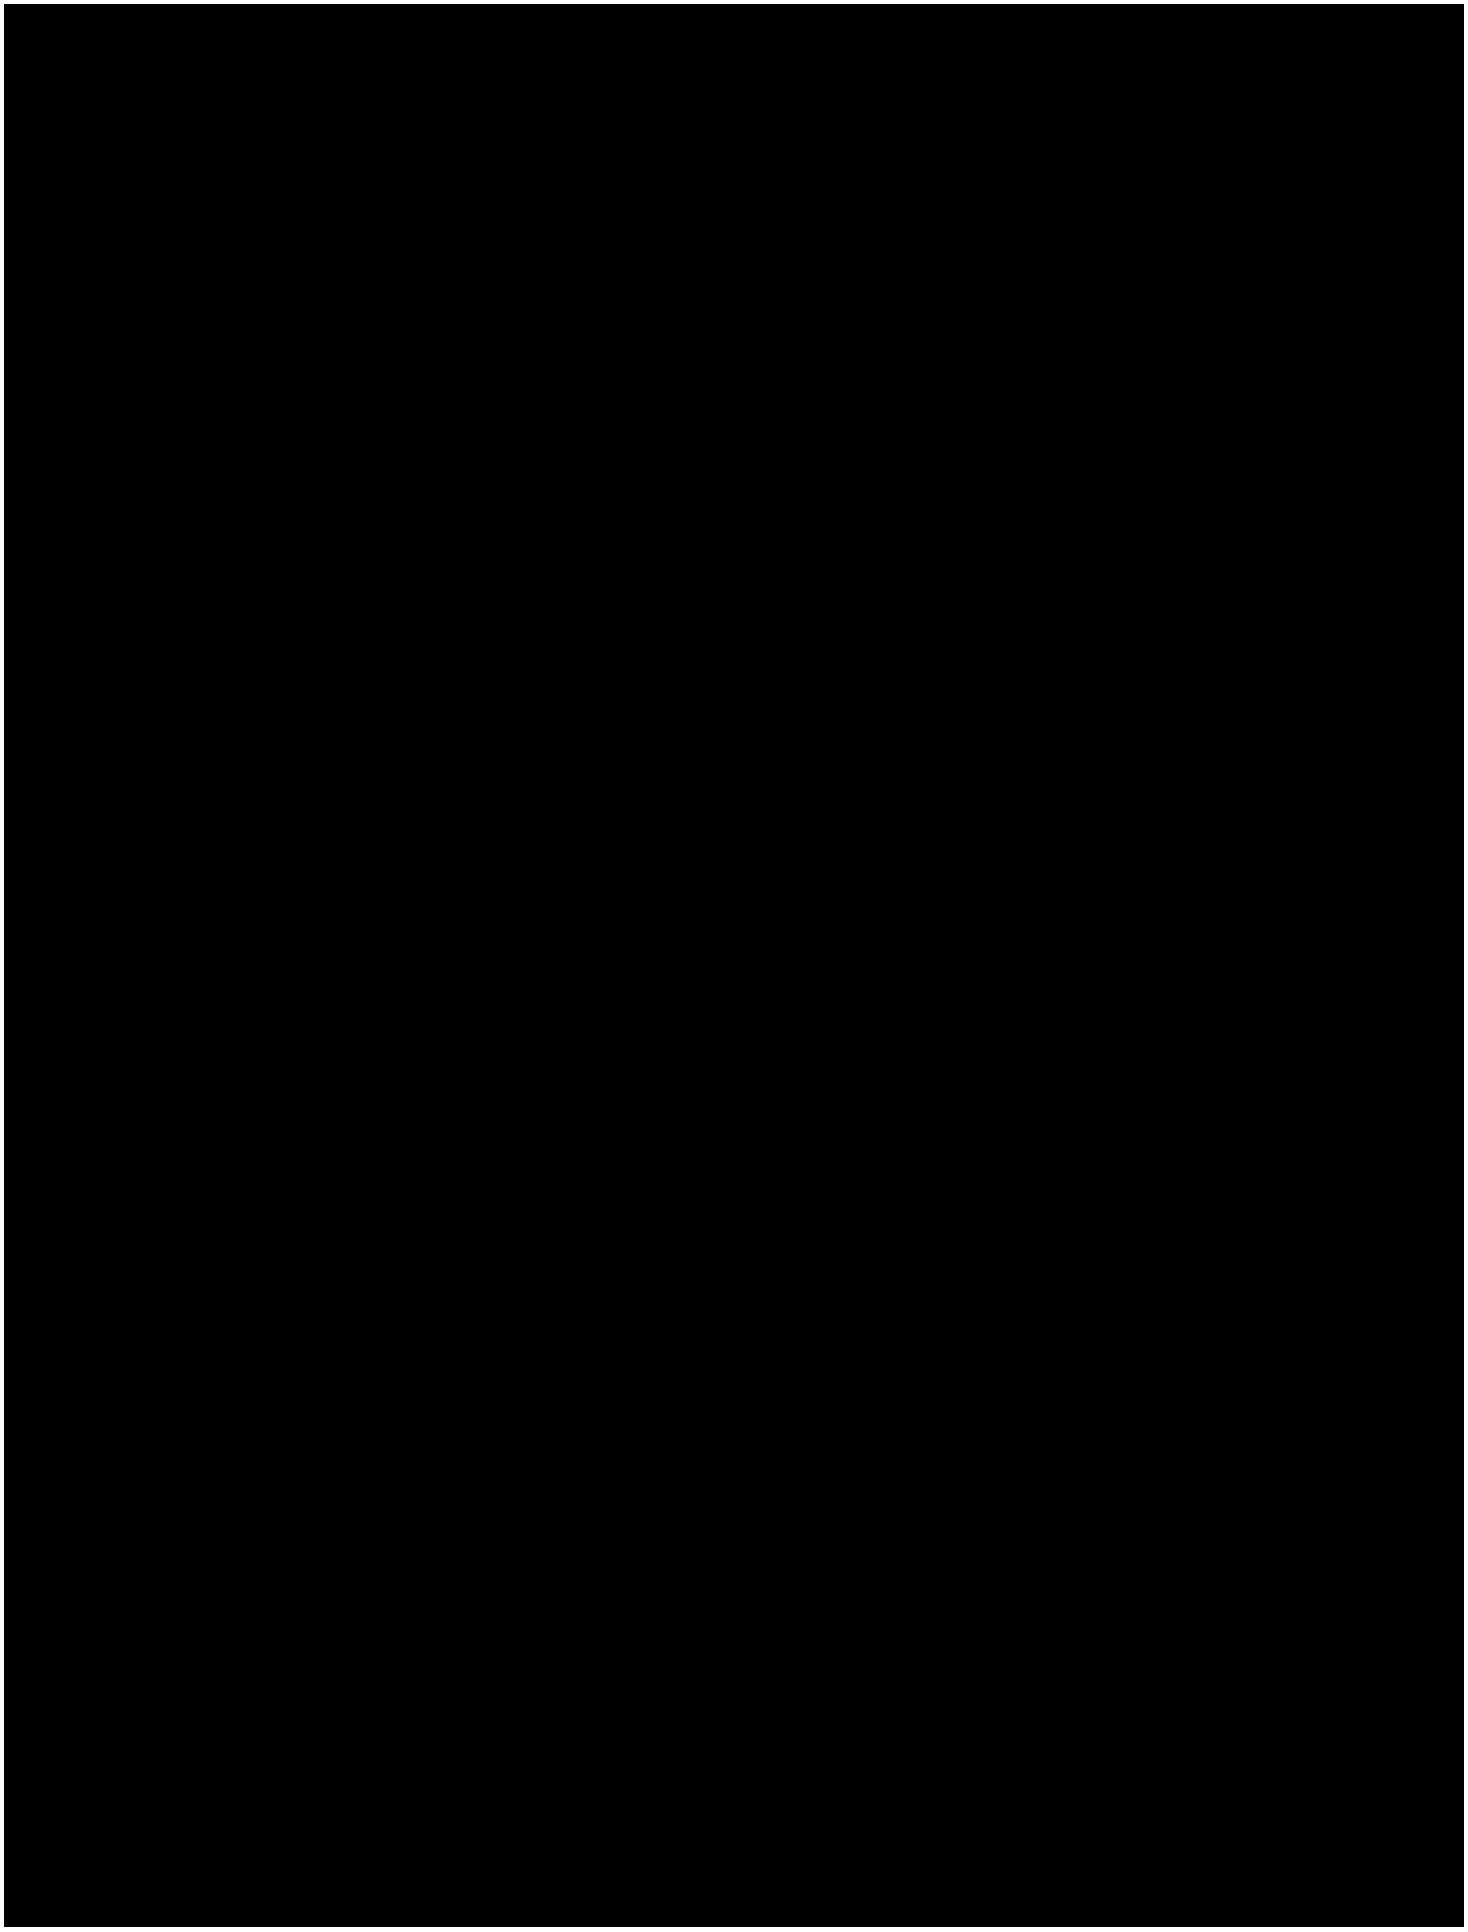


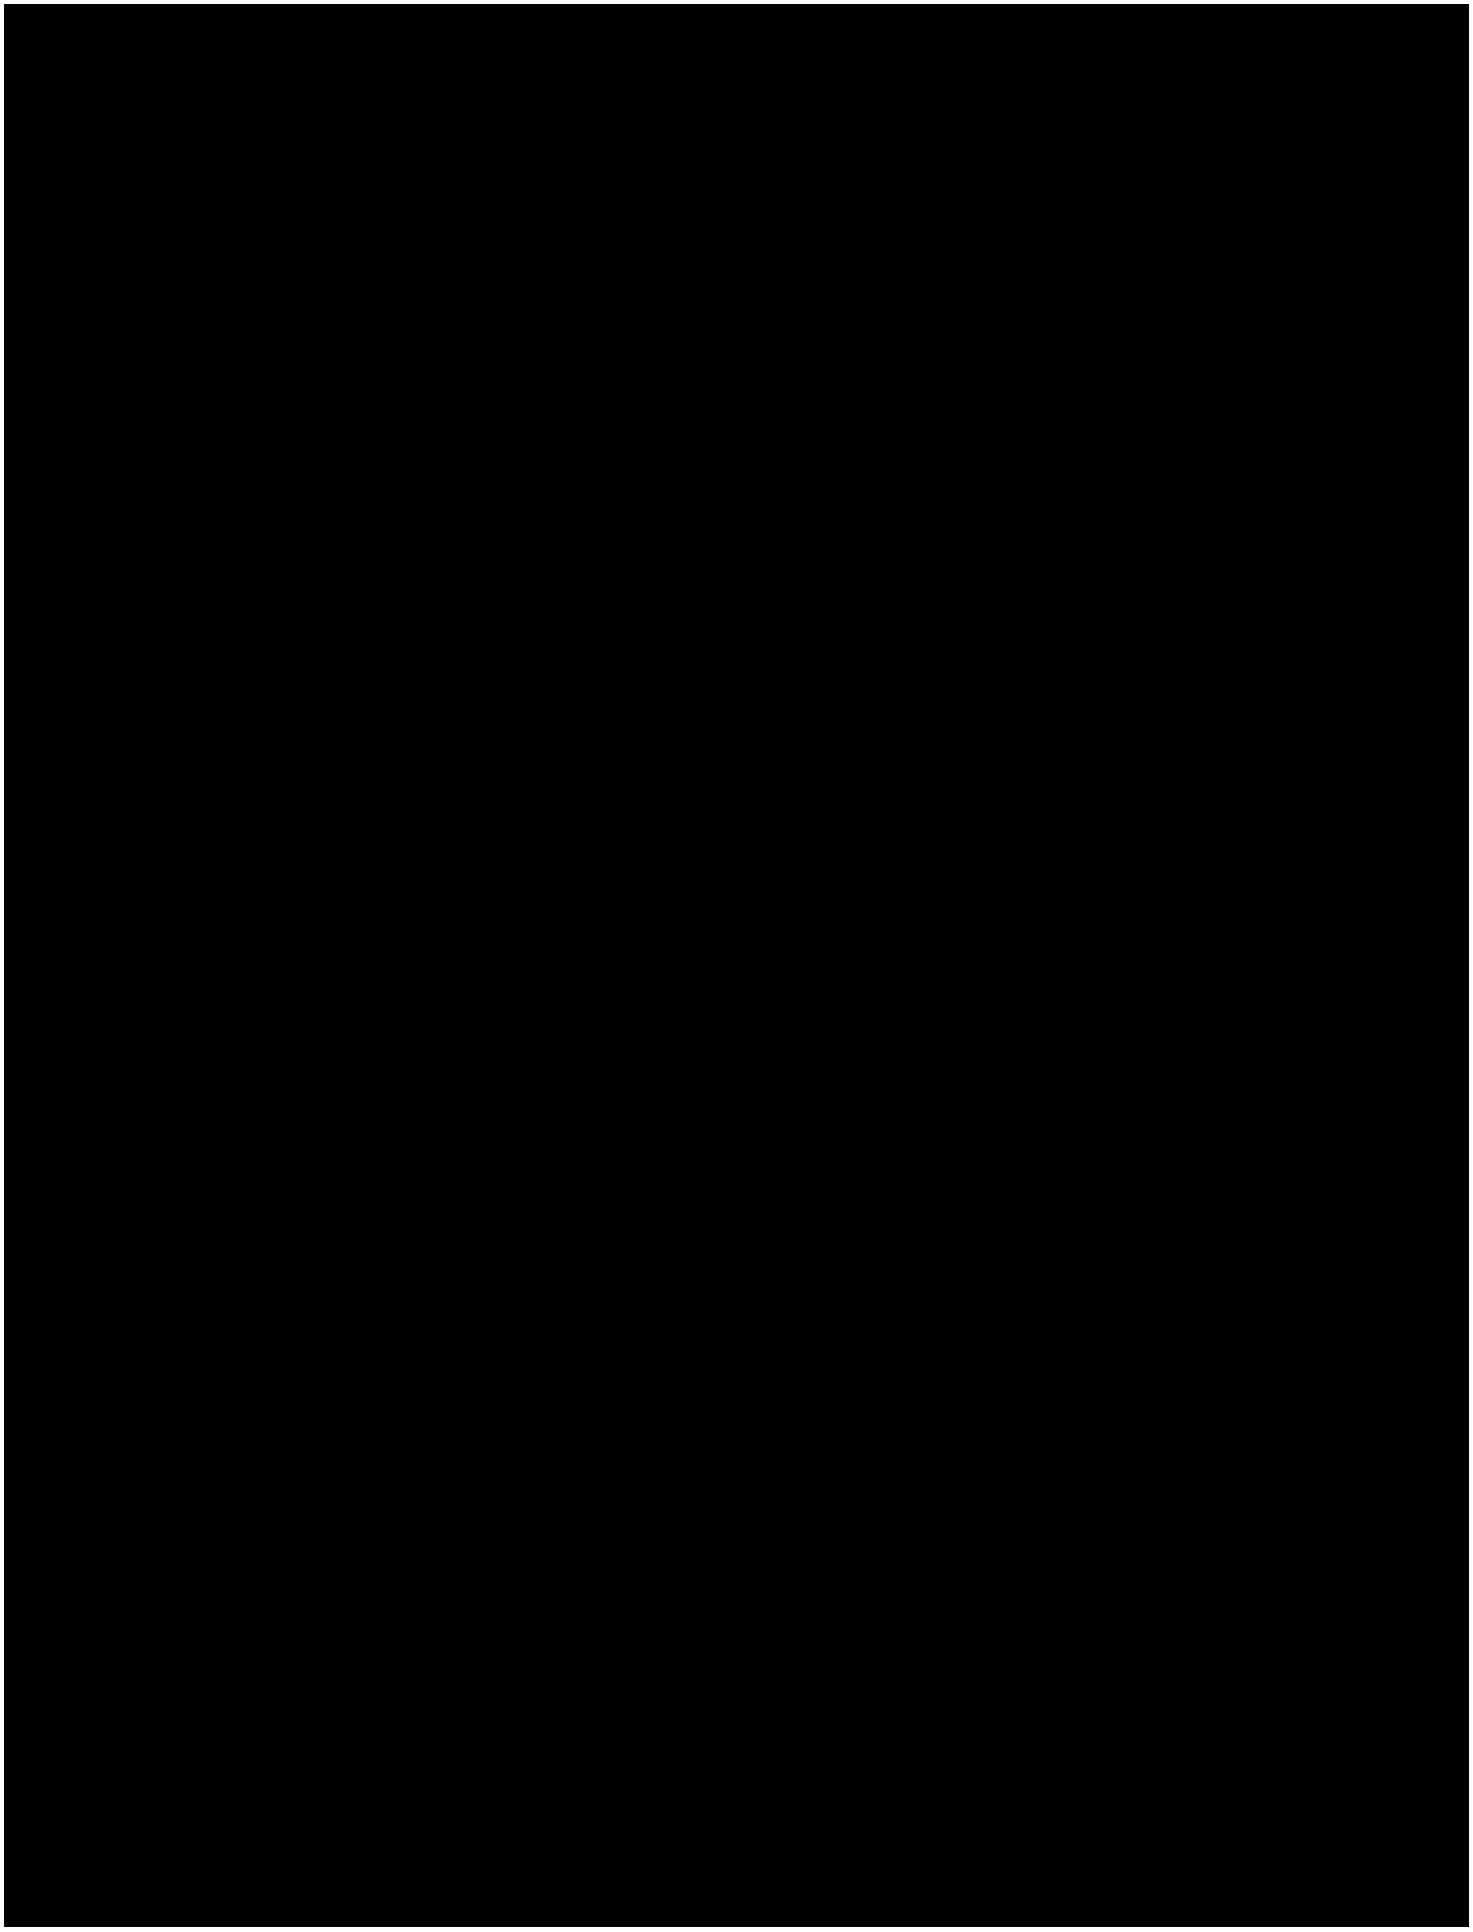


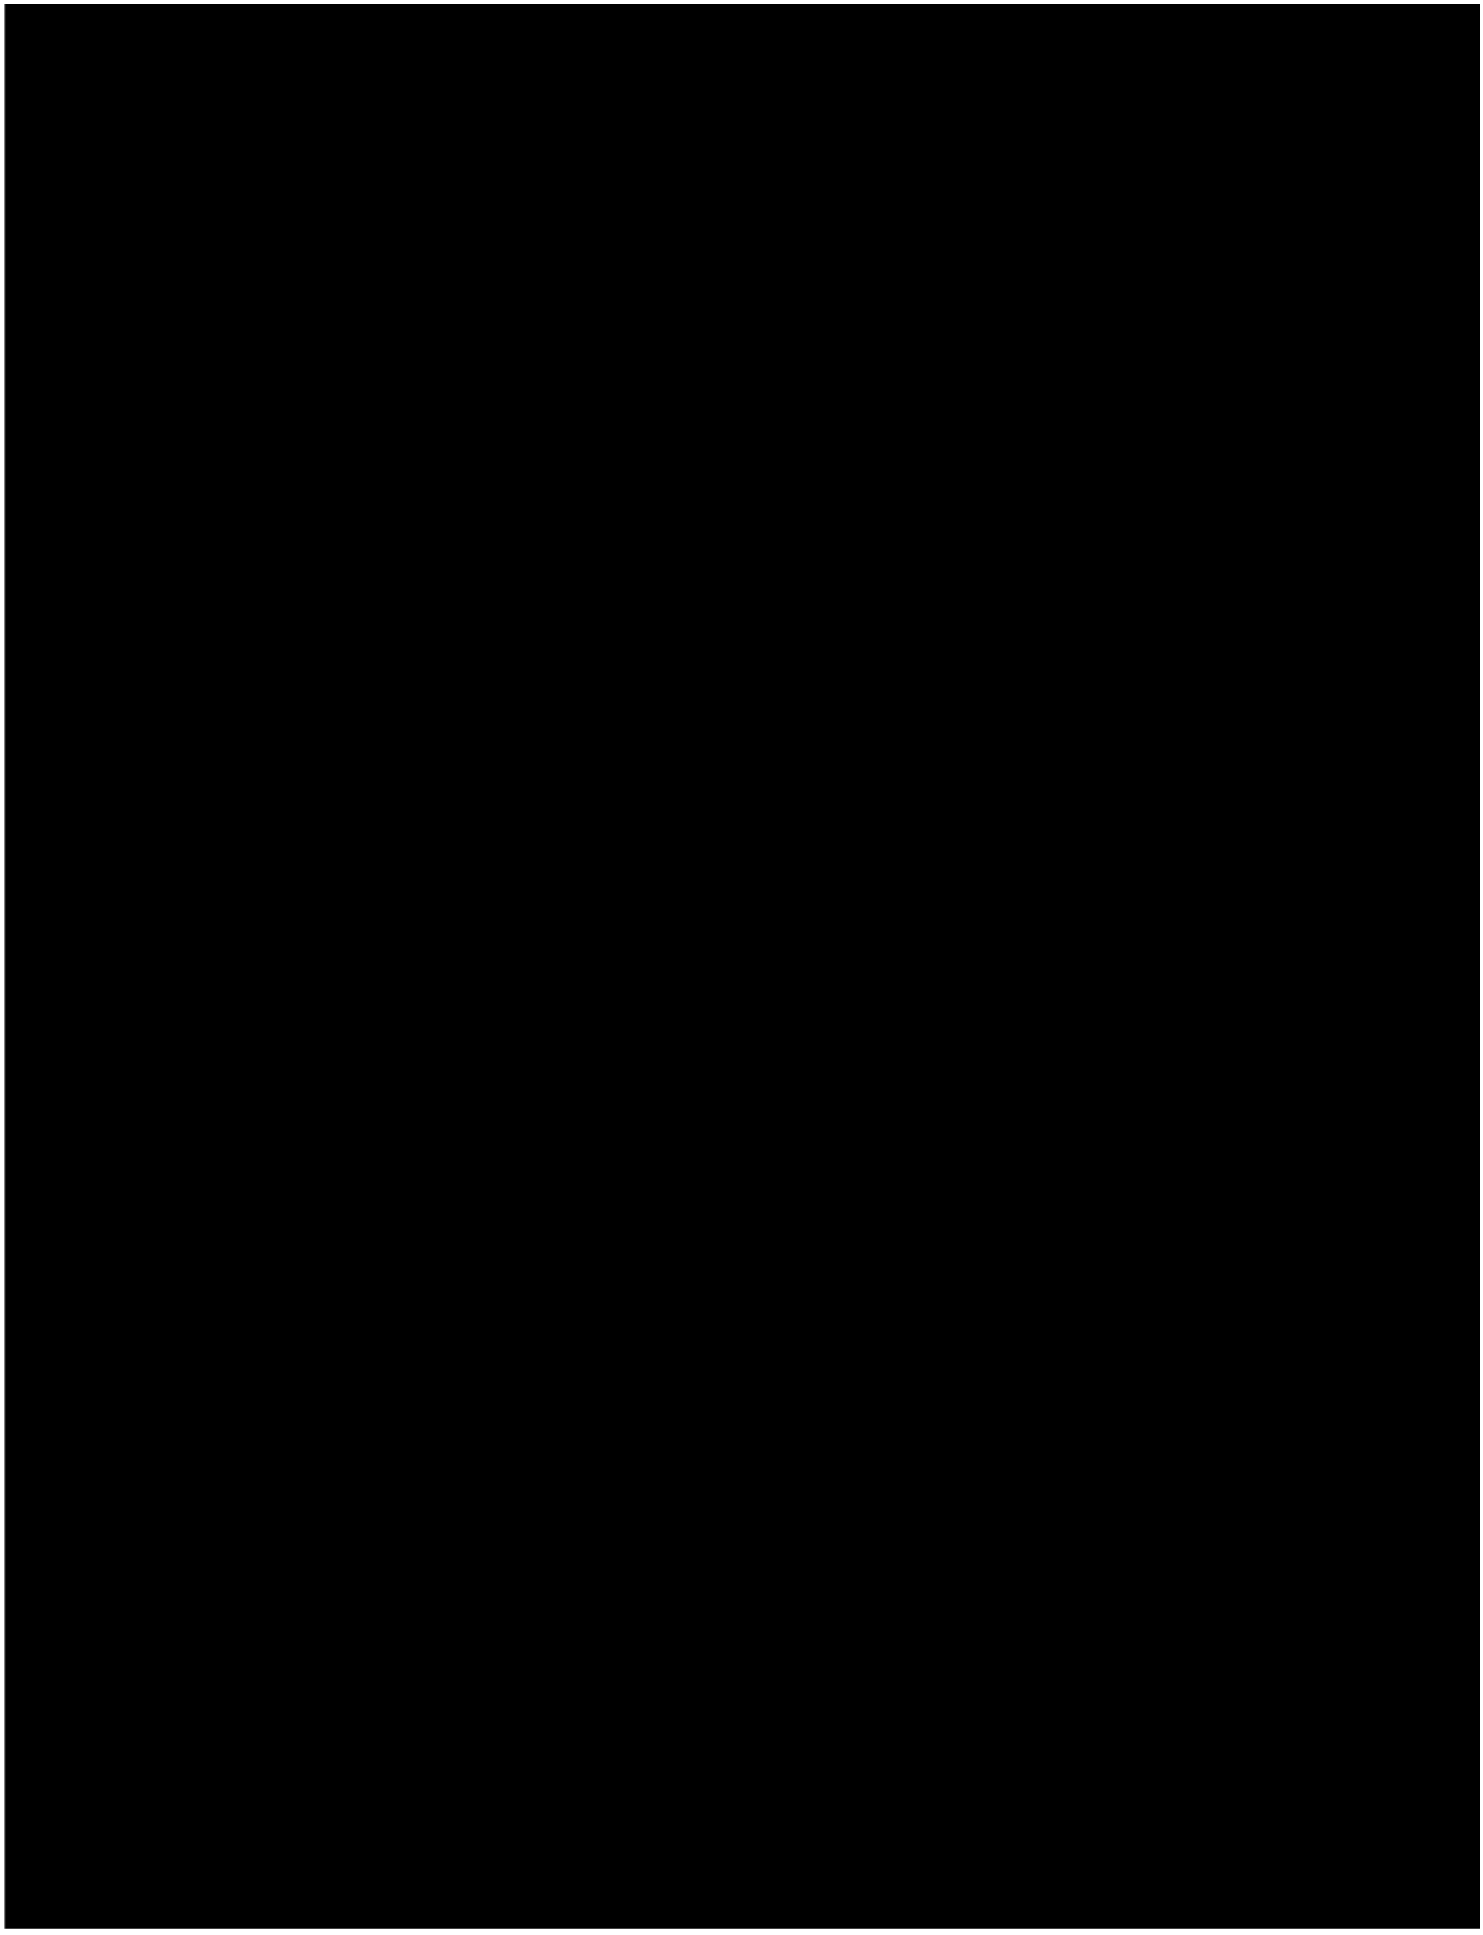












PROHIBITION OF HARMFUL ACTS TO CLIENTS SERVED

POLICY STATEMENT (Philosophy): Each person served by the Booneville Human Development Center (BHDC) has the right to be free from treatment or conduct that is harmful to them physically or psychologically. BHDC strictly prohibits inappropriate treatment in any form or of any nature to individuals receiving services.

Maltreatment Prohibition, Prevention, Reporting and Investigation
DHS Policy #1090
Incident Reporting

1. Purpose: BHDC will do everything in its control to prevent inappropriate treatment of those served at the facility and to report, investigate, and address instances of such activity. This policy establishes a protocol and defines responsibilities for reporting and investigating instances where a person served by BHDC is potentially subjected to improper treatment.

   This policy does not replace or remove the legal responsibility of any person or organization to report maltreatment or of any external organization to conduct investigations as required by law. Because of the nature of acts which constitute a violation of this policy, all allegations of harmful acts to clients served at a facility must be reported immediately as possible maltreatment and reviewed as such. Upon completion of the review, investigative findings will be forwarded to the Office of Long Term Care (OLTC) for a determination regarding whether employee actions rise to the level of violating the Arkansas Adult Long Term Care Facility Resident Maltreatment Act and Child Maltreatment Act. A facility review may determine inappropriate conduct or acts that do not rise to the level of maltreatment. Such conduct or acts shall be addressed through a personnel action up to and including termination.

   An OLTC finding is in addition to the facility determination regarding a violation of Department of Human Services (DHS) Policy 1084, Employee Conduct Standards. The OLTC determination is apart and separate from the facility findings, and relates to the question of whether the infraction of policy also constituted a violation of state law. The OLTC finding is not indicative of employee innocence regarding DHS policy and does not impact the facility determination that an action violated policies of the Department of Human Services.

2. Scope: Compliance with this policy is the responsibility of all staff, consultants and volunteers at the facility or any other person as determined by the facility administrator. It is the responsibility of the facility administrator to ensure overall compliance with this policy and to take all necessary precautions to prevent the occurrence of harmful acts against residents of a facility. (Persons outside the scope of this policy suspected of harmful acts against a person served at the facility will be reported to the appropriate state protective agencies according to OLTC guidelines.)

REVIEWED: 12/04/19
VERSION: 12/29/17

3. Definitions:

Harmful Acts - Actions which include, but are not limited to, inappropriate/harmful physical, verbal, psychological, sexual, or neglectful acts, exploitation, misappropriation of property, and violation of the rights or dignity of individuals receiving services.

Founded charge – A preponderance of credible evidence exists that supports the allegation that a harmful act to an individual by a BHDC employee has occurred.

Facility administrator – The licensed administrator or designee.

A. Prohibition of harmful acts to clients served

The facility administrator is responsible for implementing this policy in a manner to lessen the potential that harmful acts to clients served by the BHDC occur. Implementation measures will include, but are not be limited to, the areas of employee screening/training/prevention.

1. Screening:
Pre-employment screening of potential employees for a history of committing harmful acts to others. Screening includes:
   - Attempting to obtain information from previous employers and/or current employers,
   - Checking with the appropriate licensing boards, registries, and DHS personnel offices, and
   - Performing criminal record background checks.

2. Training:
Training employees, through orientation and on-going educational sessions, on issues related to the prohibition of harmful acts against people served at the facility. Areas of training may include:
   - Rights of clients
   - Recognition of events that may precede or trigger certain behaviors
   - Early intervention techniques for positive behavioral support
   - Approved interventions to deal with aggressive and/or catastrophic reactions
   - Recognizing signs of staff burnout, frustration and stress that may lead to maltreatment
   - Definition of harmful acts and maltreatment, and
   - Reporting suspected harmful acts.

3. Prevention:
Providing the people served at the facility, their families, and staff information on how and to whom they must report concerns, incidents and grievances; and how they may receive feedback regarding the concerns expressed.

Staff should immediately intervene when suspected maltreatment is witnessed to ensure client protection.

Identify, correct and intervene in situations in which harmful acts are more likely to occur. This includes an ongoing analysis of:

- Physical environments
- Supports in place to encourage recognizing and respecting client dignity and rights
- Deployment of staff
- Reports of inappropriate staff behaviors related to harmful acts
- Care planning and monitoring of people served at the facility who have challenges that might lead to conflict or neglect.

4. Identification:
Identify and respond to events, occurrences, patterns, and trends that may suggest harmful acts are being committed against a person or persons served at the facility.

B. Reporting

1. All alleged, suspected, and witnessed harmful or inappropriate acts will be immediately reported by all persons having knowledge of the alleged incident to the facility administrator.

2. All alleged, suspected, and witnessed harmful acts will be reported as required by policy to the appropriate abuse reporting hotlines by the facility administrator.

   NOTE: Nothing in this policy removes the right and obligation of a person reporting a harmful act to immediately report an incident directly to the appropriate abuse reporting hotline, as well as to the facility administrator.

3. Reporting shall not be delayed for any type of investigation.

4. Incidents shall be reported in accordance with DHS Policy 1090, Incident Reporting.

5. Reports of allegations shall also be made by the facility administrator/designee to local law enforcement and to the individual's parent/guardian/advocate. Documentation of these notifications should be maintained as part of the IRIS/investigative report.

C. Protection of Individuals During Investigations

The facility administrator will ensure staff accused or suspected of committing harmful acts as defined in this policy leave the center campus and have no contact with any persons served at the facility until an investigation has been completed. Under no circumstances will the subject(s) of an investigation resume regular duties or assume new duties at the facility until investigative results are final. The facility administrator or designee may allow employees who are alleged to have committed harmful acts to be on the facility campus under the supervision of management staff when being interviewed as part of an investigation.

D. Investigations

1. Investigations will begin promptly after an incident is reported and be conducted by a person trained in the area of performing investigations and reviews.

2. The facility administrator shall notify the facility Human Rights Committee of all founded cases of harmful acts and may also request the committee to make recommendations on current investigations.

3. As mandated by statute, the facility administrator will defer investigations to the proper entity (law enforcement, protective service agencies, Office of Attorney General, etc.) when requested. In such cases, however, a completed review of the matter by the facility is still required.

4. Officials outside BHDC who are authorized to conduct/review investigations may request and obtain a copy of relevant documents from the facility administrator.

E. Investigation Reports

1. The facility administrator must submit a report of findings to the Office of Long Term Care (OLTC) within five (5) working days of the facility's knowledge of the incident to comply with OLTC regulations. The submitted report should contain all information collected (photos, witness statements, medical documentation, etc.) during the investigation.

2. If circumstances prevent a findings report from being completed within five (5) working days, a status report must be submitted to OLTC at the conclusion of that five-day period.

F. Discipline

1. Founded charge of harmful acts
The employee is immediately terminated as outlined in DHS Policy 1084, Employee Discipline, and is designated as "not eligible for rehire" by DHS.

2. Failure to report or delay in reporting alleged, suspected, or witnessed harmful acts
The facility administrator will utilize discipline as noted in DHS Policy 1084, Employee Discipline, unless the documented circumstances call for a deviation from the guidelines, due to aggravating or mitigating facts.

The facility administrator will utilize discipline as noted in DHS Policy 1084, Employee Discipline, unless the documented circumstances call for a deviation from the guidelines, due to aggravating or mitigating facts.

3. Other Involvement

An employee alleged to have committed a harmful act and who is not terminated will be required to attend training that at a minimum covers prevention of harmful acts and reporting requirements. The facility administrator will identify, based on factors identified in a harmful act investigation, other staff required to attend retraining. The facility administrator shall specify the training course(s) and ensure that documentation of training is maintained.

G. Record Keeping

BHDC shall maintain in a secure location a copy of all files related to cases of alleged, suspected, or witnessed harmful acts. The following items will be maintained in this file:

- The original incident report and all follow-up reports
- The facility investigation report and findings
- Any correspondence regarding the allegation
- Any documentation of supporting evidence (photos, etc.)
- Documentation of corrective actions taken by the facility administrator

A summary report of investigations of all alleged, suspected, and witnessed harmful acts conducted at the HDCs and subsequent outcomes shall be submitted to the DDS Director by January 15 of each year for the previous calendar year. Individual identifier information shall not be used. Victims shall be identified by case number and staff shall be identified by job title. Investigative files will be maintained at the facility for a minimum of 10 years.

H. Release of Maltreatment Investigative Files

Maltreatment investigative files will not be released without prior consultation with the DHS Office of Chief Counsel.*

*NOTE: When an investigation results in a disciplinary action that is grieved, relevant portions of a maltreatment investigation report will be provided to the grievant through the DHS Office of Equal Opportunity. The names of people served at the facility must be deleted from the record before it is released. Aspects of the report that are prohibited from release by law will not be included in the information submitted.

I. Confidentiality

All aspects of allegations, reports, and investigations of harmful acts to people living at an HDC are confidential. Verified violations of confidentiality will be subject to discipline under DHS Policy 1084, Employee Discipline.

J. Appeals

Employees who have been disciplined as a result of violations of this policy may appeal utilizing DHS Policy 1086, Employee Grievance Procedure.

QUALIFIED INTELLECTUAL DISABILITY PROFESSIONAL PROCESS

POLICY STATEMENT: Every client will have an assigned QIDP (Qualified Intellectual Disability Professional), as defined in ICF/IID Regulation 483.430. The Program Coordinator/QIDP has an assigned caseload. They are responsible for chairing the interdisciplinary team and completing Individual Program Plans for clients on their respective caseload.

The Program Coordinator/QIDP monitors the implementation of training objectives and the delivery of services for clients on their assigned caseloads, as determined in each client's IPP. They do on-site observations (tracking) for each of their clients in the living areas and training areas at least once a month. They may also observe their clients in other areas.

The Program Coordinator/QIDP also reviews Monthly Progress Notes and other documentation relevant to each client. They submit Monthly Plan Reviews to summarize information from their observations and their record reviews. Monthly Plan Reviews document monthly observations/tracking and are submitted on a monthly basis. The original Monthly Plan Reviews are filed in the client's master file.

PROCEDURES:

1. PROGRAM COORDINATOR/QIDP ASSIGNMENTS

   a. Each Program Coordinator/QIDP works with an assigned caseload or group of clients. A master list of Program Coordinator/QIDP caseload assignments is maintained on the secure drive.

   b. Each client is assigned a Program Coordinator/QIDP when he/she is admitted to BHDC. Changes in Program Coordinator/QIDP caseload assignments are generally made if a client moves to a different living area, but may be appropriate for other reasons. Team Leaders are responsible for making the caseload assignments.

2. DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES OF PROGRAM COORDINATOR/QIDP

   a. The Program Coordinator/QIDP functions as advocate for the client by assuring he/she receives the maximum benefit of active treatment.

   b. The Program Coordinator/QIDP is chairman of the client's interdisciplinary team. As chairman he/she is responsible for scheduling and conducting 30-day reviews and annual reviews, and for conducting special meetings to discuss various problems or concerns that may occur throughout the year. IPPs are to be completed by the 15th working day after a given 30-day review or annual review. However, an additional requirement is that 30-day IPP's must be completed and distributed within 30 days after admission. Annual review IPP's must be completed and distributed within 365 days after the previous annual review and by the 15th working day following an annual review.

c. The Program Coordinator/QIDP observes actual delivery of services by randomly visiting the living areas, as well as the training areas or work areas each month to observe each client on his/her caseload. These observations, along with any problems noted, are documented on the Monthly Plan Review.

d. If a change of caseload assignment is made, the current Program Coordinator/QIDP completes the documentation for the current month and then forwards that client's file to the new Program Coordinator/QIDP. The majority of the file is available on the secure drive. File information includes the client's IPP and their activity schedule, as well as other information pertaining to that client.

e. The Program Coordinator/QIDP reviews Progress Notes and data posted on the secure drive, monitors progress on objectives, and works with service providers to make any necessary modifications in training objectives and service objectives.

f. The Program Coordinator/QIDP completes the Monthly Plan Reviews, as outlined in the BHDC policy. These reports include documentation of their monthly observations (tracking), follow-up, and/or other significant information. Monthly Plan Reviews for each client are to be completed monthly and are due by the 15th working day after the end of the month.

g. The Program Coordinator/QIDP must guide the interdisciplinary team and assure that team decisions comply with established policies, as well as ICF regulations.

3. INTERNAL REVIEW OF INDIVIDUAL PROGRAM PLANS

Every IPP will be reviewed by Residential Services managerial staff prior to publication/distribution. The reviewer will complete an IPP Proofing Sheet and will include any questions they have, or any corrections that are needed by the Program Coordinator/QIDP. The Program Coordinator/QIDP will make any necessary corrections, post the IPP to the secure drive, and send the original IPP to the master file. Guiding Principles

Excellence, effectiveness, enthusiasm and ethical behavior are the guiding principles of my human services career. Having had the experience of being recruited, developed and mentored by great leaders, it is my goal to provide future leaders with the same opportunities to become their best selves professionally and personally. My experiences as an Adjunct Assistant Professor of Psychiatry at the University of Rochester for 10 years, a CEO of an international consulting firm, and experiences in the administration of residential supports for people affected by disabilities give me the ability to integrate my passion for knowledge with compassion for people to close the gap between research and practice, and most importantly improve the quality of life of all people with and for whom I work. Inviting rather than coercing behaviour change is the foundation upon which I enter relationships, seeking ways to eliminate the barriers that prevent full participation in the life of the communities in which we live, learn, work and play.

Current Employment

Prag Consulting: Disability Complex Supports, Balwyn East, VIC, Australia – Independent Contractor as a Senior Associate, Positive Behaviour Support, providing behaviour support services to people with multiple complex support needs, including mental health, inter-personal trauma, and human relations.

Current Projects

The Journal of Aggression, Conflict and Peace Research, published by Emerald Insights, has asked me to edit a Special Issue of the Journal focused on Workplace Violence and Workplace Incivility, to be published in January 2024.

Synopsis
Class of developmentally disabled and mentally retarded individuals in Massachusetts nursing homes, who entered into settlement agreement with state defendants which obligated state to provide specialized services under Nursing Home Reform Act (NHRA), filed motion for further relief concerning specialized services. The District Court, Neiman, United States Magistrate Judge, held that: (1) plaintiff class had a privately enforceable right to specialized services under NHRA; (2) active treatment standard was applicable in measuring state defendants' compliance with settlement agreement; (3) state defendants were not in compliance with their obligations under settlement agreement; and (4) remedy would be designed to ensure that plaintiff class members properly received specialized services in a manner required by law, while respecting defendants' responsibilities to design the particular mechanisms by which those ends would be accomplished.

Motion allowed.

MEMORANDUM AND ORDER WITH REGARD TO PLAINTIFFS' AMENDED MOTION FOR FURTHER RELIEF CONCERNING SPECIALIZED SERVICES (Docket No. 243)

NEIMAN, United States Magistrate Judge.

Presently before the court is Plaintiffs' amended motion for further relief concerning specialized services. Plaintiffs comprise a class of developmentally disabled and mentally retarded individuals in Massachusetts nursing homes. Their motion arises directly from this court's March 27, 2001 finding, that Defendants, various state officials, had failed to substantially comply with that part of the parties' settlement agreement governing the provision of specialized services to members of Plaintiffs' class. As a result of its finding, the court lifted the stay imposed by the settlement agreement and agreed to address the propriety and extent of further relief. As 27 described below, the court believes that certain relief is necessary to ensure that Plaintiffs are provided services to which they are entitled under the settlement agreement. It will, therefore, allow Plaintiffs' motion.

I. BACKGROUND

The court will not describe the factual and procedural background of this matter, it having done so in prior memoranda. See Rolland v. Cellucci, 164 F.Supp.2d 182 (D.Mass.2001); Rolland v. Cellucci, 191 F.R.D. 3 (D.Mass.2000); Rolland v. Cellucci, 52 F.Supp.2d 231 (D.Mass.1999).[1] Suffice it to say for purposes here that on June 4, 1999, the court denied Defendants' motions to dismiss Plaintiffs' class action, which was brought pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983 ("section 1983") and the Nursing Home Reform Act ("NHRA"), 42 U.S.C. § 1396r. See Rolland, 52 F.Supp.2d 231. Then, on January 10, 2000, the court approved the parties' settlement agreement (Docket No. 115), thus making it an order of the court. The implementation of certain aspects of the agreement, over which the court has retained jurisdiction, is currently at issue.

By its own terms, the settlement agreement, although approved by the court, is "not ... enforceable by contempt or by a breach of contract action in state or federal court." (Settlement Agreement ¶ 27.) Rather, the agreement obligates Plaintiffs to attempt mediation and, if unsuccessful, to "file a motion with the Court seeking a judicial determination that Defendants are not substantially complying with the Agreement." (Id. ¶ 32.) If the court so finds, "it may lift the stay otherwise imposed under paragraph [twenty-eight] and the Plaintiffs may seek injunctive and other relief based upon the then existing facts and law." (Id. ¶ 32.)[2]

The present issue concerns Defendants' compliance with paragraphs fifteen and sixteen of the settlement agreement. Taken together, these two paragraphs obligate Defendants to provide class members specialized services identified through a process known as preadmission screening and annual resident review ("PASARR").[3] The PASARR process prohibits nursing facilities participating in the federal Medicaid program from admitting an individual who is mentally ill or retarded unless the state has first determined, before admission, that the prospective resident requires the level of services provided by the facility and whether the individual requires "specialized services." See 42 U.S.C. § 1396r(b)(3)(F). PASARR applies to all potential residents whether or not they are Medicaid-eligible. See 57 Fed.Reg. 56450, 56452 (Nov. 30, 1992). The PASARR process 28 also requires regular reviews of all such residents. See 42 U.S.C. § 1396r(b).

On September 26, 2000, after mediation with respect to paragraph fifteen and sixteen of the settlement agreement proved unsuccessful, Plaintiffs filed a Motion for Further Relief Concerning Specialized Services (Docket No. 159) in which they argued that a significant number of class members were not receiving all, and that some class members were not receiving any, of the specialized services they were determined to need. On March 27, 2001, the court allowed the motion to the extent it sought a finding of substantial noncompliance as of June 30, 2000, and lifted the stay with respect to paragraphs fifteen and sixteen of the settlement agreement. See Rolland, 138 F.Supp.2d at 120. The court also granted Plaintiffs leave to "seek injunctive and other relief based upon the then existing facts and law." Id.

Plaintiffs filed the instant motion for further relief—which technically amends their September 26, 2000 motion—on August 26, 2001. In November of 2001, following an agreed-upon period of discovery, the court held a four day evidentiary hearing. Thereafter, the parties filed proposed findings of fact and additional memoranda of law and the court heard oral argument on January 23, 2002. In some contrast to Plaintiffs' initial motion for further relief, the parties agreed that August 31, 2001, should be the measuring date with respect to the present motion.

II. DISCUSSION

As discussed in part B infra, the court makes specific findings of fact and conclusions of law with respect to Defendants' compliance with federal law concerning the provision of specialized services. In summary, the court believes that Defendants have not adequately provided specialized services and, therefore, further relief is appropriate. The particulars of that relief are spelled out in part C. Before describing the ordered relief, however, the court will address in part A a number of preliminary matters.

A. PRELIMINARY ISSUES

Although Defendants assert in their memorandum that "[t]he sole issue in this case is whether the Commonwealth is in compliance with federal law concerning the provision of specialized services," (Docket No. 316, Defendants' Trial Brief ("Defs.' Brief"), at 1), they have raised five preliminary challenges to Plaintiffs' motion which go well beyond this narrow scope: (1) whether Plaintiffs even have a privately enforceable right to specialized services under the NHRA; (2) whether the NHRA's implementing regulations go too far beyond the statute; (3) whether the NHRA is even subject to judicial enforcement; (4) whether an "active treatment" standard is so ill-defined as to make Defendants' obligations with respect thereto impossible to discern; and (5) whether certain evidentiary "failures" eviscerate Plaintiffs' position. The court will consider these five questions in turn.

1. Do Plaintiffs have a privately enforceable right to specialized services under the NHRA?

Defendants first assert that Plaintiffs do not have a privately enforceable right to specialized services under the NHRA. Relatedly, Defendants contend that the term "specialized services" is too vague and amorphous to be enforceable. The court rejected these same arguments in its decision denying Defendants' motions to dismiss. In essence, the court found that section 1983 was an appropriate vehicle for Plaintiffs to vindicate their NHRA-based right to specialized services. See Rolland, 52 F.Supp.2d at 234–36. To leave no lingering 29 doubt, the court revisits these matters, albeit briefly.

There are three factors to consider in determining whether a particular statutory provision gives rise to a federal right: (1) whether Congress intended the provision to benefit the plaintiffs; (2) whether the right "is not so 'vague and amorphous' that its enforcement would strain judicial competence" and (3) whether the provision unambiguously imposes a binding obligation on the states. Blessing v. Freestone, 520 U.S. 329, 340–41, 117 S.Ct. 1353, 137 L.Ed.2d 569 (1997). As for the first factor, there is no question but that Congress intended that the NHRA benefit members of Plaintiffs' class. Defendants do not contend otherwise.

With regard to the second factor, the right to specialized services, in the court's view, "is not so 'vague and amorphous' that its enforcement would strain judicial competence." Id. at 341, 117 S.Ct. 1353. See Rolland, 52 F.Supp.2d at 235–36. As the court previously noted, and as remains true now, Defendants' very assertion that they comply with the "specialized services" standard is proof enough "that the term ... is [not] so nebulous and ill-defined" as to preclude judicial enforcement. Rolland, 52 F.Supp.2d at 235.

Finally, as for the third factor, it is clear that the NHRA unambiguously imposes a binding obligation on the states. See id. at 234–36. As Plaintiffs point out, the NHRA was informed by a history of states neglecting and warehousing persons with mental disabilities in nursing facilities. See H.Rep. 100–391(I) at 459, 100th Cong. 1st Sess. (1987), 1987 U.S.C.C.A.N. 2313–1, 2313–279, 1987 WL 61524 (Leg.Hist.) (documenting that "substantial numbers of mentally retarded and mentally ill residents [in Massachusetts and other states] are inappropriately placed" in nursing facilities and "do not receive the active treatment or services that they need"). To prevent the indiscriminate transfer of individuals with mental retardation to nursing homes, Congress mandated that states provide active treatment to such nursing facility residents deemed in need. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 1396r(e)(7)(A), (B)(ii) and (C).

Defendants' present reliance on Alexander v. Sandoval, 532 U.S. 275, 121 S.Ct. 1511, 149 L.Ed.2d 517 (2001), decided after Defendants' motions to dismiss were denied, does not convince the court otherwise.[4] Sandoval involved the private enforceability 30 of certain agency regulations promulgated pursuant to the Civil Rights Act of 1964. The Supreme Court found that because the regulations proscribed what the statute permitted, Congress could not have intended to create a private right of action to enforce them. See id. at 281–82, 121 S.Ct. 1511. This conclusion was reinforced by the fact that the regulations directly addressed actions by federal agencies, not benefits or entitlements of private individuals. See id. at 289–90, 121 S.Ct. 1511. In addition, the Court found that the existence of elaborate restrictions belied any inference that Congress intended to create a private right of action with respect to the promulgated regulations. See id. at 289–92, 121 S.Ct. 1511.

These rationales are inapposite here. First, the NHRA, in obligating states to provide specialized services to certain nursing home residents, does not preclude what its regulations permit. See Rolland, 52 F.Supp.2d at 235. Rather, the regulations clarify and amplify what Congress imposed, i.e., an obligation on states to provide specialized services to residents of nursing facilities who have been determined to need that level of care by the statutorily mandated assessment procedures. Second, as indicated, there is little question but that the NHRA was intended to protect individuals with disabilities. The NHRA was designed to ensure that persons with mental disabilities were not inappropriately admitted to, or retained in, nursing facilities by the states and, to accomplish that end, afforded individualized protections for those determined to be in need of specialized services. See 42 U.S.C. § 1396r(7)(C). Third, the absence of an agency enforcement mechanism with respect to the provision of specialized services supports rather than undermines the inference of a private right of action. Compare Frazier v. Fairhaven Sch. Comm., 276 F.3d 52, 68–69 (1st Cir.2002) (no private right of action under Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act in light of specific remedy accorded Secretary of Education).

Any remaining doubt about Sandoval's inapplicability is dispelled by the fact that Plaintiffs' claims were also brought pursuant to section 1983 which, of course, provides an independent avenue for private enforcement of a federal law such as the NHRA. See Evans v. Avery,

100 F.3d 1033, 1036 (1st Cir.1996); Boulet v. Cellucci, 107 F.Supp.2d 61, 71–73 (D.Mass.2000). The plaintiffs in Sandoval, in contrast, did not advance a section 1983 cause of action.[5] In short, for the reasons stated, the court still believes that Plaintiffs have a privately enforceable right to "specialized services."

2. Do the administrative regulations go beyond the statute?

The court is equally disinclined to accept Defendants' renewed argument that the implementing regulations go beyond the NHRA and are, therefore, ultra vires. Accordingly, the court's prior conclusion—that Congress did not foreclose, and the Secretary of Health and Human Services ("Secretary") properly construed Congressional intent to impose, a duty to provide specialized services to all nursing facilities 31 residents found to be in need—will stand. See Rolland, 52 F.Supp.2d at 235.

In order to prevent the denial of adequate care, Congress mandated that all persons with mental retardation and related conditions be screened before admission to a nursing facility, see 42 U.S.C. § 1396r(e)(7)(A), and that a determination be made whether the individual requires specialized services, see 42 U.S.C. § 1396r(e)(7)(B)(ii)(II). Moreover, states were obligated to provide such services to persons who were not in need of nursing facility services only. See 42 U.S.C. § 1396r(e)(7)(C). Congress also required that persons who had been in a nursing facility for less than thirty months, and those who had resided there longer and who chose to leave, be provided not only specialized services but a discharge to an appropriate placement. See id. In effect, Congress prioritized its goals by obligating states to facilitate an alternative placement of persons who needed specialized services and to provide specialized services in the interim. Finally, Congress specifically entrusted the Secretary to promulgate regulations which gave meaningful and practical application to its intent. See 42 U.S.C. § 1396r(f). In the court's opinion, the Secretary's regulations appropriately reflect these statutory mandates, many of which, by the way, are reflected in the parties' settlement agreement.

3. Is the statute subject to judicial enforcement?

As a third line of defense, Defendants point to the court's statement in its ruling on their motion to dismiss—that "the question of judicial enforcement of the NHRA is for another day"—as justification for its reconsidering now the enforceability of Plaintiffs' rights. This argument reads too much into the court's remark.

What the court reserved for another day was not whether the NHRA was enforceable by private citizens—the court having concluded that it was—but what remedy might be appropriate were Plaintiffs to prove that Defendants were not in compliance with their statutory and regulatory obligations. However, even that question faded when the parties entered into their settlement agreement which, as indicated, became an order of the court on January 10, 2000.

As far as the court is concerned, Defendants, when executing the settlement agreement, not only recognized their duty to provide class members with specialized services under the NHRA, but Plaintiffs' right to enforce that duty as well. By its very terms, the agreement recognized that the parties entered into their settlement in order "to resolve the issues raised in the Plaintiffs' Amended Complaint and the Defendants' Answer by providing specialized services and residential supports to the plaintiff class members pursuant to the provisions [here]of." (Settlement Agreement ¶ 1.) At the present time, the court "can discern no sound reason that [Defendants] like any other litigant who knowingly and voluntarily stipulates to judgment, should not be bound by the obligations undertaken in the [settlement agreement], which obligations plainly constituted the consideration that prompted [Plaintiffs] to settle their ... action against [Defendants]." Whitehouse v. LaRoche, 277 F.3d 568, 578 (1st Cir.2002).

4. Is an "active treatment" standard so ill-defined as to make Defendants' obligations with respect thereto impossible to discern?

Yet another roadblock which Defendants attempt to construct to defeat Plaintiffs' motion is their claim that an "active treatment" standard, as distinct 32 from "specialized services," is so ill-defined as to make their obligations with respect thereto impossible to discern. This argument has several layers, none of which, in the court's view, precludes a finding that Defendants have failed to provide services in the manner contemplated both by the NHRA and the parties' agreement.

As an initial matter, Defendants argue that the use of the active treatment standard by the Massachusetts Department of Mental Retardation ("DMR"), through its designated agent, MetroWest, ought not be deemed any sort of admission on their part. Indeed, throughout the course of their opposition to Plaintiffs' motion, Defendants have tried their best to distance themselves from MetroWest. In any case, Defendants assert, the interpretation of NHRA requirements is not a factual issue amenable to such an admission, but a legal issue to be determined by the court.

In pursuing this argument, Defendants fail to acknowledge that the court, when issuing its March 27, 2001 ruling, concluded as a matter of law that the "active treatment" standard was required not only by the NHRA but by the terms of the settlement agreement. See Rolland, 138 F.Supp.2d at 115–17. To be sure, as Defendants note, the court's finding of noncompliance was based on the narrower definition of "specialized services." That approach, however, was simply a matter of convenience to the court, for Defendants' own data demonstrated that, as of June 30, 2000, they were in substantial noncompliance with their obligations to provide specialized services as they themselves defined it. See id. at 121. Thus, little more was needed for the court to find noncompliance with paragraphs fifteen and sixteen of the settlement agreement. Even so, the court opined that, had the active treatment standard been applied, Defendants' noncompliance was likely more serious. See id. at 115–17.

In any event, at the time it ruled on Plaintiffs' original motion for further relief, the court thought it appropriate, if not necessary, to provide guidance to the parties as to how future compliance would be measured. The court concluded that Plaintiffs did indeed have the right to "active treatment." See id. at 117. In so ruling, the court rejected Defendants' argument, repeated here, that active treatment means something different for persons with mental retardation or developmental disabilities in nursing facilities than it does for such persons in all other settings. See id. The court also rejected Defendants' further argument, pursued here again, that specialized services "analogous to active treatment" is the appropriate standard to apply to eligible individuals in nursing facilities. See id. at 116–17.[6]

Given this guidance, Defendants' continuing resistance to the "active treatment" standard concerns the court. For one thing, Defendants must concede that DMR's agent, MetroWest, incorporated the active treatment standard into its measuring instrument for over a decade. (See Docket No. 314, Plaintiffs' Proposed Findings of Fact ("Pls.' Facts"), ¶¶ 19 and 20.) MetroWest completed the PASARR forms during the period of time relevant here, i.e., through August 31, 2001, recorded the specialized services deemed needed for each individual and thereafter assessed whether such services were being provided. (See Docket No. 315, Defendants' Proposed Findings of Fact ("Defs.' Facts"), ¶¶ 180, 181.) Whether or not this 33 amounts to an admission on Defendants' part, it is certainly evidence that "active treatment" can not only be discerned but implemented.

Moreover, the evidence reveals that MetroWest did not employ the active treatment standard in a vacuum. When training its staff, DMR itself used a document which incorporated the federal criteria for active treatment. (See Plaintiffs' Exhibit ("Pls.' Ex.") 40. See also Docket No. 311, November 6, 2001 Transcript ("Tr.Vol.II"), at 121–22.) In addition, DMR, the Department of Medical Assistance ("DMA") and the Department of Public Health ("DPH") created a joint training program which mirrored active treatment criteria. (Pls.' Ex. 44 at 3.) Similarly, DMA's day habilitation regulations mandated that services provided at nursing facilities, as well as other settings, comply with the active treatment standard. (See id.) Furthermore, the independent expert chosen by the parties left no doubt that she employed an active treatment standard. (See Tr.Vol. II at 201–02.) She also testified that the active treatment standard is appropriate for, and commonly used at, nursing facilities which have residents with mental retardation or developmental disabilities. (Id. at 203.)

Although Defendants disparage the active treatment standard as ambiguous, they themselves claim to meet the requirements of "active treatment" in addition to the requirements of "specialized services," the term their counsel preferred to use. (See Docket No. 310, November 8, 2001 Transcript ("Tr.Vol.IV"), at 129; Docket No. 309, November 5, 2001 Transcript ("Tr.Vol.I"), at 69–70.) Granted, Defendants condition their claim on "any kind of reasonable definition" of the term "active treatment." (Tr.Vol. I at 69–70. See also Tr.Vol. IV at 129.) However, nowhere do Defendants provide a more reasonable definition than that utilized by the court—a "continuous, aggressive program that is designed to enable a client with optimal independence and to guard against the loss of that ability." Rolland, 138 F.Supp.2d at 116 (citing 42 C.F.R. § 483.440(a)(1)). At best, Defendants suggest that only qualified professionals can define such terms as "continuous" and "aggressive" and thereby give meaning to "active treatment." (Tr. Vol. IV at 130.) At worst, Defendants fear that the court might adopt "some extreme version of active treatment" without factoring in "accepted professional standards." (Id.)

Defendants' assertions to the contrary, the regulatory definition of active treatment, on which the court has relied, is anything but extreme. Moreover, in measuring Defendants' compliance with that standard, the court has had the opportunity, in accord with Defendants' suggestion, to consider the professional testimony offered by both sides. In particular, the court has considered the testimony of Dr. Theodore Kastner, one of Defendants' experts, who appears to have best articulated their position. Dr. Kastner has worked exclusively in the field of health care with regard to persons with mental retardation and developmental disabilities, has managed related hospital programs, and has served as a consultant to the Department of Justice, the President's Committee on Retardation and the Surgeon General. (See Docket No. 308, November 7, 2001 Transcript ("Tr.Vol.III"), at 107.) Dr. Kastner testified that "[a]ctive treatment is a slippery concept to evaluate in the context of a nursing home community" and suggested that the better standard was services "analogous to active treatment." (Id. at 127–28.) "To require active treatment to be provided in the nursing home," Dr. Kastner opined, "means that a nursing home is no longer a nursing home. The nursing home then becomes an [intermediate 34 care facility ('ICF/MR')]," which, he noted, has to provide active treatment. (Id.)

Despite his criticism, Dr. Kastner utilized the active treatment definition identified in PASARR forms in his own written report, never once using the word "analogous." (See id. at 150, 153.) This PASARR definition, in the court's estimation, is indistinguishable from the federal regulatory standard. Although the court seriously doubts whether the individual cases analyzed by Dr. Kastner actually reflect the active treatment he found (see id. at 155 (noting that "[a]ll of the identified patients are in receipt of active treatment to the degree that they consent for [sic] treatment")), the important point for purposes here is his ready use of the standard (see Pls.' Facts ¶ 24).

To be sure, Dr. Kastner attempted to modify that standard during his testimony by using the word "analogous." He acknowledged, however, that he has never seen an instrument which uses such a modified standard, (see Vol. III at 178; Pls.' Facts ¶¶ 30, 73), nor have Defendants offered one. "The only instrument I have seen that is used to assess whether active treatment is present or not," Dr. Kastner conceded, "is defined" in relation to standards employed by "HCFA," the Health Care Financing Administration. (Id.) As it turns out, these are the same regulatory standards which the court cited when concluding that "active treatment" was not only applicable, but enforceable as well. See 42 C.F.R. § 483.440(a)(1).[7]

In contrast to Dr. Kastner, Lynn Rucker, one of Plaintiffs' experts, explained the relative ease with which active treatment could be measured for nursing home residents. Ms. Rucker directed case management services for a sixteen-county program in Nebraska for fifteen years and thereafter was state director of developmental disabilities services in Arizona. (Tr.Vol. 1 at 166–67.) She is presently a consultant on health care for people with disabilities. (Id. at 168.) Citing 42 C.F.R. § 443.440(a)(1), Ms. Rucker described in detail the ways in which active treatment could be appropriately measured. (Tr.Vol. I at 176–182. See also Pls.' Ex. 4 at 6–9.) As Ms. Rucker testified, "active treatment is active treatment": "The issue isn't location. The issue is, is this active treatment? Is the person receiving it." (Tr.Vol. I at 182.)

In sum, the court is not inclined to apply anything other than an active treatment standard to measure Defendants' compliance, as it indicated it would on March 27, 2001. This is not to say that providing active treatment to class members in nursing facilities is simple. For example, as Defendants point out (see Defs.' Facts ¶¶ 111, 121), nursing facilities have an independent obligation to provide medically-related services to their residents. See 42 U.S.C. § 1396r; 42 C.F.R. §§ 483.12, 483.15, 483.25, 483.40, 483.45 and 483.70. These medically-related services ought not be confused with the state's obligation to provide "specialized services." (See Defs.' Facts § 115.)

For present purposes, however, Plaintiffs make no claim with respect to the quality of medically related nursing services. (See. Tr.Vol. III at 201–07.) Thus, the court has assumed for purposes here that such services as are provided to class 35 members meet applicable regulatory standards. Accordingly, any alleged failure in that respect has not played a part in assessing Defendants' compliance with the settlement agreement and, to the extent that one or more of Plaintiffs' experts may have addressed the adequacy of medical services, the court has disregarded that testimony.

5. Are there evidentiary "failures" which eviscerate Plaintiffs' position?

Finally, Defendants attack the strength of Plaintiffs' evidence in three ways. First, Defendants assert that Plaintiffs failed to qualify several of their experts and, accordingly, cannot meet their burden of proving their case. Second, Defendants challenge the statistical validity of Plaintiffs' sampling method. Third, Defendants question the methodology by which Plaintiffs' experts gathered their underlying data.

Defendants' first assertion can be dealt with in short order. As Defendants know, the court denied both sides' motions in limine with respect to the various experts and indicated that it would thereafter consider arguments only as to the weight to be accorded such testimony. (See Docket Nos. 291, 292 and 293. See also Tr.Vol. IV at 147.) That issue has been adequately addressed in the parties' memoranda of law and proposed factual findings.

Defendants' second contention is unsuccessful as well, but requires some explanation. Noting that one of Plaintiffs' experts, Dr. James Conroy, acknowledged a margin of error of fourteen percent with respect to Plaintiffs' sampling methodology, Defendants claim that the actual margin is at least twice that. (See Defs.' Facts ¶ 155.) Moreover, Defendants assert, Plaintiffs' sample size of thirty-nine was simply too small to permit conclusions to be drawn on class-wide service delivery. (See id. ¶ 159.)

It is certainly true that, had Plaintiffs had the resources, Dr. Conroy would have recommended a larger sample. (See Tr.Vol. I at 158–59). That would have been preferable to the court as well. But, as Dr. Conroy testified, a larger sample is most important when one is "looking for the prevalence of something rare." (Id. at 150.) Dr. Conroy continued:

> If you're looking for a common event for a dominant or prevalent pattern in something, small samples work very well. If you find a big dominant pattern, then the small sample is going to be fine. If you find something very rare and only a couple instances out of 39, then you might have to find a bigger sample.

(Id. at 150–51.) As will be shown, Plaintiffs' experts in the case at bar found dominant patterns. Accordingly, the court is satisfied that the margin of error is acceptable for purposes here.[8]

Third, Defendants assert that Plaintiffs' experts were highly, and therefore improperly, individualistic in performing their reviews. For example, as Dr. Walsh testified, it was not always clear how Plaintiffs' experts translated their observations into subjective judgments about service delivery. (See Tr.Vol. II at 270.) Moreover, 36 Dr. Walsh suggested, the court should treat with scepticism any conclusion that no individuals were receiving specialized services. (See id. at 270–72.)

Defendants' third argument has merit. Unfortunately, Defendants' criticism can as easily be directed at the methodology used and subjective conclusions drawn by their own experts. For example, Dr. Walsh opted to rely on inferences drawn from Dr. Conroy's methodologies in 1999 and 2000, not Dr. Conroy's explanation of his 2001 sampling. (See Defs.' Ex. 1–A at 32.) In addition, although Defendants' review was designed to test the methodology used by Plaintiffs' experts, their critique was limited principally to Plaintiffs' year 2000, not 2001 findings. (See Tr.Vol. III at 12–13.)[9] Defendants' experts also intentionally eliminated from their review all class members residing in the western part of Massachusetts, as well as all nursing homes in which there was only one class member. (See Tr.Vol. II at 308, 311–12; Tr.Vol. III at 48, 50.) Finally, and perhaps more problematically, Defendants' experts were willing to opine, in direct contradiction of Plaintiffs' experts, that all class members were in receipt of active treatment. The court, therefore, must be as skeptical of Defendants' conclusion as they urge it be of Plaintiffs'.

At bottom, however, Defendants' final attack misses the mark. While inadequacies on both sides have proven problematical, the court believes that enough information was gathered and presented to measure Defendants' ongoing compliance. As Dr. Walsh himself indicated, "the issue of what ... people are getting for services is fairly discernible to professionals," (Tr.Vol. II at 286), and the court has had the benefit of professional testimony adequate to make its findings.

B. THE MERITS OF PLAINTIFFS' MOTION

Having addressed Defendants' preliminary challenges, the court turns to the core issue: whether Defendants are in compliance with their obligations to provide specialized services. For the reasons which follow, the court concludes that, as of August 31, 2001, the measuring date chosen by the parties, Defendants remain in substantial noncompliance with the specialized services portion of the settlement agreement and that further relief is necessary. In reaching this conclusion, the court makes the following findings of fact and conclusions of law.

1. Specific Findings of Fact[10]

When an individual is recommended for specialized services through the PASARR process, he or she is assessed in relation to identified specialized service need areas, in some cases participating in services on a trial basis. (Defs.' Facts ¶ 1.) The resulting assessment is then used in an individualized planning process. (Id. ¶ 2.) Generally, an individual's service plan describes the objectives established to address the assessed need areas. It also describes the activities (including intensity, frequency and duration) to be implemented that will assist the individual in attaining the goals within a particular time line. (Id. ¶ 3.) DMR is supposed to assess and monitor progress; rapid progress, or absence 37 thereof, is to be identified and modifications to the service plan may occur in order to achieve or revise goals. (Id. ¶ 4.) An assessment should not only involve the review of available records, but also interviews with the individual's family and nursing facility staff, as well as observation and analysis of the individual's capabilities. (Id. ¶ 5.)

The selection of specialized services may be affected by different clinical judgments. (Id. ¶ 6.) Moreover, there may be individuals who refuse one or more services. (Id. ¶ 7.) In addition some individual class members may have died, moved from the nursing facility, or simply experienced a medical event such that services are no longer appropriate. (Id. ¶ 8.)

There are four primary models which are used to deliver specialized services to class members: day habilitation, in-facility day habilitation, individual support and pediatric model services. (Id. ¶¶ 9, 12, 14 and 15.) "Day habilitation" offers services in one setting outside the nursing home. (Id. ¶ 9.) It is a Medicaid state-plan service that is governed by federal and state regulations and is available to Medicaid eligible individuals who are determined to have a need for this service. (Id.) As of 2001, there were day habilitation programs located throughout Massachusetts servicing over four thousand total individuals: ninety-one day habilitation programs have the capacity to serve up to seventy-five individuals each, five serve between seventy-five and one hundred individuals and four serve between one hundred and one hundred and fifty individuals. (Id. ¶ 10.)

"In-facility day habilitation" was developed by DMR and DMA to deliver services at nursing facilities to individuals with complex medical presentations, those choosing not to leave their nursing facility to obtain specialized services, or where community day habilitation is not available. (Id. ¶ 12.) Of the class members identified to need specialized services, approximately eighty-five percent receive them primarily through the day habilitation models, half of whom receive specialized services primarily through the in-facility model. (Id. ¶¶ 12, 13.) A small percentage receive services in both settings either because of personal preference or because they are undergoing a transition from in-facility to community day habilitation. (Id. ¶ 13.)

The "individual support" model of service delivery addresses a discreet number of individuals. Thus, an individual may have a need which is not a covered service in a day habilitation program but which can be met through the provision of a staff person at the nursing facility or another location. (Id. ¶ 14.) In the case of individuals with developmental disabilities, there may be a particular provider with extensive experience in treating a particular set of physical limitations (such as those associated with traumatic brain injury) that is retained under contract to provide individual treatment. (Id.) Of class members identified to receive specialized services, approximately ten percent are receiving services primarily through this model. (Id.)

Finally, DMR and DMA created a "pediatric model" for delivering services to meet the specialized service needs of class members residing in Massachusetts' four pediatric nursing facility units. (Id. ¶ 15.) These class members, admitted prior to age eighteen, have complex medical needs and were provided special educational services until they lost eligibility upon turning twenty-two years of age, although they remained in the pediatric nursing facility. (Id.) Of the one hundred and fifteen residents of pediatric facilities identified to receive specialized services, eighty-eight (or seventy-seven percent of the total) receive 38 them through the pediatric model. (Id. ¶ 16.)[11]

For two hundred and thirty-eight class members who are developmentally disabled but not mentally retarded, their specialized service needs while they reside in nursing facilities are provided through services arranged through a University of Massachusetts project team. (Id. ¶ 18.) The needs of this group often can be provided through one of the models described above. (Id.) At other times, for example, individuals suffering from brain injury, these models are not appropriate to the needs of the individual and arrangements must be made with providers with appropriate expertise. (Id.)

As required by the settlement agreement, DMR must regularly report upon the status of specialized service delivery. (Id. ¶ 19.) These reports describe the services to be arranged to meet specialized service needs, as well as various types of situations and circumstances that may affect their delivery. (Id.) DMR training materials for the provision of specialized services incorporate the components of active treatment: development of specific goals by an interdisciplinary team, individualized objectives and strategies, staff training, carry-over and documentation. (Tr.Vol. II at 121–22, 126–28; Pls.' Exs. 40, 44.) These are the same standards used at an ICF/MR facility. (Tr.Vol. II at 122.)

2. Conclusions of Law

For convenience sake, the court divides its five legal conclusions as follows: (a) only a few class members are receiving specialized services; (b) specialized services are not being provided in a timely manner; (c) Plaintiffs' experts independently confirm Defendants' noncompliance; (d) over three hundred class members may have been erroneously rejected for specialized services; and (e) there are problems with the dichotomy between nursing homes and day habilitation programs.

a. Only a few class members are receiving specialized services.

The evidence is clear that only a few class members are receiving specialized services individually tailored to address their needs. (See Pls.' Exs. 4 at 90–95, 5 at 39–43, 8 at 50–54, and 11 at 38–42.) DMR's own checklists of day habilitation participants reveal that significant numbers of class members do not have habilitation plans that address all identified areas of specialized services. (See Tr.Vol. II at 128–29; Pls.' Ex. 48 at 2.) Among other things, DMR's draft report in July of 2001 indicates that thirteen percent of those receiving on-site or off-site services were not receiving all the services identified as needed. (Tr.Vol. II at 128–30; Pls.' Ex. 48.)

To be sure, Defendants try to explain away this data as neither comprehensive nor individualized. (Defs.' Facts ¶ 96.) Even assuming the draft nature of the report, however, DMR checklists derived from MetroWest data reveal a lack of adequate day habilitation plans and a failure to implement these plans for many class members. (Pls.' Ex. 48 at 1–3; Pls.' Facts ¶ 57.) Moreover, Defendants have never offered a final version of the document.

Similarly, DMR's semi-annual report of August 17, 2001, reveals that nearly six hundred class members—more than seventy-five percent of the class with identified specialized service needs—had at least one finding of a "needed but not provided" service. (Pls.' Facts ¶ 53; Pls.' Ex. 76.) To be sure, as Defendants' experts noted, 39 MetroWest's review process could result in errors.[12] These inadequacies, however, do not explain the majority of cases found by MetroWest where services were not being provided in accord with stated objectives. Even taking into account those individuals who referred services, the number of individuals not receiving all the services deemed necessary for them was still exceptionally high.

MetroWest's review process—to determine whether specialized services that had been identified as needed were in fact received—was conducted by qualified mental retardation professionals. (Tr.Vol. I at 107–09.) Evaluators would make an appointment with a particular individual, or the nursing home if the individual was not able, and then spend an hour or two reviewing the clinical record, conducting interviews and making their own observations. (Id. at 108.) Evaluators were also required to follow specific criteria and to record their views on appropriate PASARR forms. (Id. at 110–11.)[13]

Granted, MetroWest evaluators did not visit day habilitation programs, that not being part of their contract and DMR having specifically requested that they not do so. (See id. at 112.) However, the evaluators would either review such day habilitation records as were included in nursing facility records or request those records from DMR service coordinators or University of Massachusetts case managers. (Id. at 112–13.) "[O]ne way or another," Ellen Zarek testified, "we generally get the opportunity [to review the day habilitation records] before we make a decision." (Id. at 113.) In light of this evidence, it is impossible to accept Defendants' contrary claim that "all" class members—excluding those who had died, moved or no longer needed services, or those whose services were in the process of being arranged—"were receiving all the specialized service[s] recommended for them [and to] which they consented." (Defs.' Facts ¶ 20.)

b. Specialized services are not being timely provided.

Even if the data provided by MetroWest was inaccurate at times, as claimed by Christine Oliveira, DMR's PASARR Director, (Tr.Vol. II at 150), there was sufficient independent testimony to confirm that specialized services were not being provided in a timely manner. Ms. Oliveira herself acknowledged that an individual identified as "DS," who needed day habilitation, had not received those services in a timely manner. (Id. at 112–15.) Similarly, the report for "Ms. M" indicated that the services she needed as of June 30, 2001, would not be provided until February 15, 2002, over seven months later. (40 Id. at 115.) Likewise, Ms. Oliveira acknowledged that services due by December 21, 2000, to an individual identified as "FB" had not been provided nearly five months later. (Id. at 116–17; Pls.' Ex. 42.) Ms. Oliveira also acknowledged that a "JB," for whom services were due in 1995, did not have those services as of May, 2001, over five years later. (Id. 117–118. See also Pls.' Ex. 42.) As it turns out, Defendants were not even aware of JB's presence in the nursing home until May of 2001. (Id. at 152–53.) This meant, Ms. Oliveira testified, that specialized services, "active treatment" aside, were simply not being provided. (Id. at 118.) In short, all too often specialized services were not being provided in a timely manner.

c. Plaintiffs' experts independently confirm Defendants' noncompliance.

Even were the court to ignore DMR's own findings, Plaintiffs' expert witnesses provided independent confirmation that, as of August 31, 2001, Defendants were failing to substantially comply with their obligations to provide specialized services to class members. To be sure, Defendants, relying on their own experts' testimony that the PASARR reports were unreliable, (see Defs.' Facts ¶ ¶ 180–99), assert that Plaintiffs' experts relied too much on PASARR findings. This assertion, in the court's opinion, is not accurate. Although Plaintiffs' experts used PASARR findings as a starting point, they each made individual observations, interviewed staff and family members and utilized multiple sources of information, including nursing home notes, patient files and day habilitation progress notes. (See, e.g., Tr.Vol I at 171–73, 183, 211–12, 217 and 223; Pls.' Ex. 4.) They each found that numerous class members simply were not receiving active treatment.

Ms. Rucker, who reviewed twenty-one cases, found no instance in which active treatment was being provided. For example, she described "JM," a thirty-four year old woman, as receiving some services, but not active treatment. The day program was trying to increase JM's awareness of nutritional values, Ms. Rucker testified, but the nursing home provided no carryover services. (Tr.Vol. I at 185–88. See also Pls.' Ex. 4 at 47–52.) The same problem was found with respect to "RM," a forty-four year old man for whom there was no apparent continuity between the day habilitation program and the nursing home. (See Tr.Vol. I at 188–90; Pls.' Ex. 4 at 59–63. Compare Tr.Vol. IV at 30–31 (testimony of Defendants' expert, Karen Williams, that RM is only able to tolerate a few hours of support).)

Barbara Pilarcik, another of Plaintiffs' experts, is a registered nurse who had previously worked for DMR as an appeals mediator and had managed intermediate care facilities for the Association for Community Living ("ACL"). (Tr.Vol. I at 214.) She presently directs ACL's specialized home care program for one hundred and thirty individuals with developmental disabilities and mental retardation. (Id. at 215.) In preparation for her testimony, Ms. Pilarcik reviewed thirteen individuals, eleven of whom she had reviewed at an earlier stage of this litigation. (Id. at 217.) She too found that active treatment was not being provided.[14] Although there were 41 exceptions (see Tr.Vol. II at 11–12), Ms. Pilarcik attributed such problems to a consistent lack of trained staff at nursing homes qualified in serving people with mental retardation and developmental disabilities (see Tr.Vol. I at 229–30).

Another of Plaintiffs' experts, Elizabeth Jones, testified similarly. Ms. Jones has twenty-eight years of experience in the field of mental retardation and developmental disabilities. (Tr.Vol. II At 19.) She was the director of staff development at the Belchertown State School from 1977 until 1982, during which time she was responsible for ensuring compliance with court orders. (Id. at 19–20.) For one year thereafter she was the acting superintendent responsible for insuring that active treatment was provided to residents. (Id. at 20.) Thereafter she was district manager for western Massachusetts.

With respect to the case at bar, Ms. Jones reviewed eleven class members, eight of whom she had visited during an earlier stage of the litigation, often following the particular client to the day habilitation program. (Id. at 22–23.) She, too, concluded that clients were not receiving active treatment. (Id. at 29.) With the exception of two instances, she found that the frequency and intensity of services were weak. (See id. at 30.) "JL," for example, spends all her time stringing plastic beads, while "GM" was engaged in a Sisyphean cycle of filling clay flower pots with soil, only to have them quickly emptied by staff. (Id. at 30–31.) Ms. Jones also found a lack of carryover between day habilitation programs and nursing homes, calling it "one of the most serious problems underlying this entire set of circumstances." (Id. at 32.) She continued:

> And I saw it in virtually every case, even—even where I thought this might not be a problem. Certainly > in nursing homes where the day programs are located in the nursing home where I thought for sure staff would be talking to each other, in fact, there was no evidence of carry-over between day program staff and nursing home staff.

(Id.)

To be sure, Defendants point to some "success stories." For example, Frederick Huntington, DMR's area director for Berkshire County, testified about "EA," a forty-nine year old woman who has lived in a nursing home for thirty-one years. Mr. Huntington averred that, Plaintiffs' expert's views to the contrary, EA has had work opportunities, e.g., volunteering at Berkshire Community College. (Tr.Vol IV at 13. See also Defs.' Facts ¶¶ 78–81.) Nonetheless, Mr. Huntington was unable to counter the crux of Ms. Jones' testimony, namely, that EA was not able to utilize an electric wheelchair at her nursing home, although she thrived with such use at the day habilitation center. (Id. at 14.) Mr. Huntington also acknowledged that nursing staff was actively discouraging EA from leaving the nursing facility. (Id. at 18.)

It may well be, as Defendants argue, that Plaintiffs' experts have set a high bar for measuring Defendants' compliance. (See Tr.Vol. II at 270–73.) But, in the court's opinion, Defendants' ability to question certain aspects of Plaintiffs' experts' testimony does not undermine their 42 basic findings, namely, that all too often class members are simply not receiving the active treatment to which they are entitled.

This should come as no surprise to Defendants. As described, they have resisted the very notion that active treatment applies to Plaintiffs' class. Indeed, despite the fact that the active treatment standard had been used historically by Defendants, their experts disregarded that standard when analyzing Plaintiffs' experts' reports. They saw "no worth in evaluating active treatment using HCFA standards," having concluded that such standards "are not applied to nursing homes." (Tr.Vol. III at 97.) Rather, they looked only "at specialized services." (Id.)[15]

d. Over three hundred class members may have been erroneously rejected for services.

Yet another troubling shortcoming of Defendants' provision of specialized services is the real possibility that, during the time period in question, more than three hundred additional individuals failed to receive treatment because they had been erroneously rejected for all specialized services. Evidence of this comes from the independent expert called for in paragraph nine of the settlement agreement, Karen McGowan.

Ms. McGowan was required by the agreement to review the negative determinations of class members' needs for specialized services when the rate of such determinations fell below seventy-five percent of individuals reviewed in a particular quarter. (See Tr.Vol. II at 197; Pls.' Ex. 61 at 2; Pls.' Facts ¶ 109.) She conducted her initial reviews for the first and second quarters of 2000 on October 2 through 10, 2000, and submitted a report on January 27, 2001. (Pls.' Ex. 61 at 1; Pls.' Facts ¶ 110.) She reviewed a fifteen percent sample of the total number of individuals determined not to be appropriate for specialized services by MetroWest. (Tr.Vol. II at 200; Pls.' Ex. 6 at 3; Pls.' Facts ¶ 112.) For the first quarter of 2000, she determined that nine of the nineteen individuals sampled were in need of specialized services, representing more than a forty-seven percent disagreement rate with the PASARR evaluations. (Pls.' Ex. 61 at 11; Pls.' Facts ¶ 113.)

Ms. McGowan also submitted reports for the third and fourth quarters of 2000 and the first and second quarters of 2001. (Pls.' Exs. 62–64; Pls.' Facts ¶ 117.) These subsequent reports used a similar sampling procedure and resulted in disagreement rates with the PASARR evaluations ranging from forty-three to seventy-six percent. (Pls.' Exs. 62–64; Pls.' Facts ¶ 118.)

At bottom, Ms. McGowan's reports indicate a unacceptably high rate of error in the so-called "negative recommendations" for specialized services by MetroWest. She testified that more than three hundred class members had likely been without specialized services to which they were entitled. (See Tr.Vol. II at 206; Pls.' Facts ¶ 122.)

The parties treat Ms. McGowan's findings in significantly different ways. Plaintiffs assert that, prior to August 31, 2001, DMR, at a minimum, had not begun to provide specialized services for any of the forty-four class members determined by Ms. McGowan to have been erroneously 43 denied services during the first and second quarters of 2000. (Pls.' Facts ¶ 123; Pls.' Ex. 41.) Moreover, Plaintiffs contend, DMR has not established a systematic process to review erroneous determinations concerning the need for specialized services and could not identify one class member as of August 31, 2001, who had been provided specialized services where there had been an erroneous negative determination of the need for such services. (Pls.' Facts ¶¶ 119, 120.)

Defendants, on the other hand, see Ms. McGowan's reports as confirming DMR's previous decision to assume from MetroWest the responsibility for the PASARR screening process. (Defs.' Facts ¶ 144.) Moreover, they consulted with Ms. McGowan as they undertook the task of redesigning the PASARR screening tool. (Id. ¶ 145.) In addition, Defendants decided as of August 31, 2001, to provide services to the particular individuals found by Ms. McGowan to have been erroneously determined not to need such services. (Id. ¶ 147.)

There is little doubt that Plaintiffs welcome the effort undertaken by Defendants to provide service to those individuals, belated though that effort may be. Still, for purposes here, the information provided by Ms. McGowan demonstrates that many class members went without specialized services prior to August 31, 2001.

e. There are problems with the dichotomy between nursing homes and day habilitation centers.

Another fundamental flaw in Defendants' approach to the delivery of specialized services is their evident willingness to date to permit class members to exist in parallel universes, nursing homes and day habilitation centers, with neither world adequately communicating with the other. Indeed, Defendants' experts' own report concludes by noting the very different missions of nursing homes and day habilitation programs. (See Defs.' Ex. 1–A at 81–82. See also Tr.Vol. II at 59–60.) Unfortunately, as Ms. Jones testified, nursing homes focus on "basic management of health needs, like the taking of temperatures [and the administration of] medications" and do not themselves "have a very strong focus at all on issues like learning or development." (Tr.Vol. II at 59.)

The court believes, at least with respect to provision of specialized services, that the mission of nursing homes and day habilitation centers needs to be the same, i.e., to provide active treatment so that individual class members have the opportunity, as Ms. Jones described, "to grow and develop and learn and enjoy life to the greatest degree possible." (Id. at 41.) Without that, opportunities will be missed and resources wasted. This is particularly true since class members in nursing homes often have "more skills and in some ways [are] less disabled than the people [Ms. Jones saw] at Belchertown and who are now in community based programs." (Id. at 58.)

Defendants appear to agree that this lack of coordination between service providers can no longer be tolerated. John Riley, DMR's Deputy Assistant of Operations, testified about recent efforts by DMR and DMA to improve such coordination, including communicating the content of day habilitation individual service plans to nursing facility staff and facilitating joint meetings between service providers and nursing facilities. (See Defs.' Facts ¶ 126.) In addition, Defendants point to a letter dated December 20, 2000, to administrators of long term care facilities which indicates that DPH would be "increas[ing] its scrutiny of services provision to residents in nursing facilities who have mental 44 retardation or developmental disability." (Defs.' Ex. 8; Pls.' Ex. 53.) Defendants also cite a September 21, 2001 letter reminding long term care facilities of their obligation to complement and reinforce specialized services chosen through the PASARR process. (Pls.' Ex. 54.) This letter suggests several "initial steps" that long term care facilities "should take" to meet these requirements, including "inviting the DMR Service Coordinator/[University of Massachusetts] Case Manager to the annual MDS/Care Planning Meeting for each MR/DS resident; ensuring that the Specialized Service Plan is available to LTCF staff for the purpose of ongoing resident care planning; and ensuring that care plan interventions complement, reinforce and are consistent with the Specialized Services Plan." (Id. at 2.)

Other than coming too late, Defendants' missives merely suggest, but do not require, the incorporation of specific goals, objectives and strategies into nursing home plans. (See also Tr.Vol. IV at 116.) There is no requirement that day habilitation, whether within or outside the facility, and nursing facilities develop and abide by a single plan. (Id. See also Tr.Vol. III at 228 (testimony of Kelly Lawless, DMA's special compliance coordinator).) Indeed, Defendants' draft day habilitation review checklist reveals that, as of August 19, 2001, nearly twenty percent of the 566 day habilitation program participants had no plan at all or an inadequate plan for specialized services. (Pls.' Facts ¶ 180; Pls.' Ex. 48.) More importantly for purposes here, DPH surveys at nursing home facilities found some class members with no individual service plan on file, others whose plans did not incorporate goals and strategies from the day habilitation plan, and yet others whose services were so poorly documented that it is unclear what services were provided and when. (Pls.' Facts ¶ 181.)

At bottom, the evidence confirms the unfortunate parallel tracks which Defendants appear intent on pursuing. While greater coordination in the general sense is no doubt helpful, a significantly more formal coordination is needed to ensure Defendants' compliance with their obligations to provide specialized services to class members. Nursing homes should not become new backwards in terms of the delivery of such services.

C. RELIEF

Plaintiffs propose a number of steps which they believe will provide a meaningful remedy for Defendants' noncompliance with respect to the provision of specialized services. For their part, Defendants argue that, there being no violation, no remedy is appropriate. Alternatively, Defendants argue that, should the court find a lack of substantial compliance, court-ordered relief should be limited, that is, the court ought not become the "superintendent" of DMR with respect to the delivery of specialized services, as they argue many of Plaintiffs' suggestions would entail. As will be evident, the relief ordered by the court falls somewhere between the parties' positions.

1. Overview

On March 27, 2001, the court found Defendants in noncompliance as of June 30, 2000, with their obligations under paragraphs fifteen and sixteen of the settlement agreement. Rolland, 138 F.Supp.2d at 121. Despite efforts on Defendants' part, this noncompliance has continued, as described, in large part because they have been willing to have the class members' services governed by a divided administrative regime, enhanced by their resistance to an active treatment standard. Granted, it is DPH, not DMR, which has certain 45 oversight responsibilities for nursing homes. But the defendant agencies cannot act in isolation, as Defendants themselves would concede. Neither can they simply communicate at times, as if such communication is sufficient to ensure that class members receive their services in a manner required not only by law, but by the settlement agreement itself.

Accordingly, certain relief proposed by Plaintiffs is more than appropriate in accord with the court's power under paragraph thirty-two of the settlement agreement. As District Judge Keeton recently observed: "It is well established by tradition and practice in the American Legal System that a court may make orders in aid of enforcement of its Judgment." Atlantic Research Marketing Systems, Inc. v. G.G. & G., L.L.C., 167 F.Supp.2d 458, 475 (D.Mass.2001). See Rufo v. Inmates of Suffolk County Jail, 502 U.S. 367, 380, 112 S.Ct. 748, 116 L.Ed.2d 867 (1992) ("[S]ound judicial discretion may call for the modification of the terms of an injunctive decree if the circumstances, whether of law or fact, obtaining at the time of its issuance have changed, or new ones have since arisen.") (citation omitted).

However, given the particulars of Defendants' noncompliance to date, some of Plaintiffs' suggestions are simply too broad and intrusive. For example, the court finds inappropriate Plaintiffs' suggestion that the court should increase the number of individuals placed yearly in community settings. The parties' settlement agreement, as the court understands it, was carefully negotiated with respect to community placement and, for the moment, the court will not use Defendants' failure to comply with their specialized services obligations to expand their community placement obligations.

Similarly, the court will not order Defendants to pay for an independent expert to review all individuals who had been determined not to require specialized services. The role of Ms. McGowan, the present independent expert, with respect to such determinations is set forth in a part of the settlement agreement not directly in issue (paragraph nine), and, at most, Defendants are required only to consider that expert's recommendations in good faith. (See Settlement Agreement ¶ 10.) To be sure, the court has considered the independent expert's findings pursuant to paragraph nine as further proof that many class members went without specialized services prior to August 31, 2001. But the court does not believe that a remediation is mandated with respect to paragraph nine, particularly in light of Defendants' representations that, without further assessments, services would be provided to those individuals who the independent expert determined to be in need. (See Defs.' Facts ¶¶ 147–48.)

Likewise, the court is not going to appoint a special master to oversee Defendants' implementation of specialized services. The settlement agreement is comprehensive enough at this time to ensure, and Plaintiffs' attorneys skilled enough to monitor, Defendants' ongoing compliance.[16]

2. Relief Summary

"[I]njunctive relief should be no more burdensome to the [enjoined party] 46 than necessary to provide complete relief to the [parties complaining of violation of their right]." Atlantic Research Marketing, 167 F.Supp.2d at 475–76 (quoting Califano v. Yamasaki, 442 U.S. 682, 702, 99 S.Ct. 2545, 61 L.Ed.2d 176 (1979)). Thus, although the court is obviously reluctant to redesign the entire structure of service delivery, there are five specific changes which must be made in order to remedy Defendants' noncompliance. Defendants shall promptly seek and consider Plaintiffs' views with respect to designing and implementing each of the changes.

First, the fragmented assessment of class members' needs can no longer be tolerated. Each class member must have a coherent, integrated treatment plan which guides his or her services across all settings. Accordingly:

> 1. Within sixty days Defendants shall establish and implement a system for (a) a DMR coordinator and one individual service plan for each class member with mental retardation, and (b) a case manager and an interdisciplinary treatment plan for each class member with other developmental disabilities.

Second, as described, the court has interpreted both federal law and the Settlement Agreement as requiring active treatment. Given Defendants' resistance, it is necessary to spell out their obligations in greater depth and require as follows:

> 2. Within sixty days, Defendants shall establish and implement a clear policy of "active treatment" to be provided to all class members who need specialized services. See 42 C.F.R. §§ 483.120(b) and 483.440(a)(1). Active treatment shall be comprised of the provision of services which are: (a) relevant to meet assessed needs; (b) sufficient in intensity and frequency to promote growth or prevent deterioration; (c) individualized and integrated; and (d) continuous and which carry over from community programs and settings to nursing facilities. Specialized services determined to be needed pursuant to this policy shall be provided regardless of whether or not they are covered in Massachusetts' Medicaid plan.

Third and fourth, given Defendants' failure to fully implement the active treatment standard, the court will also require the following:

> 3. Within sixty days, Defendants' reports pursuant to ¶ 24(b) of the settlement agreement shall incorporate measuring devices in compliance with the active treatment standard; and
> 4. Within one hundred and twenty days, DMR and nursing facilities staff shall be trained in the requirements of the settlement agreement as well as in the policies and structures implemented as a result of this order.

Fifth, the court orders as follows:

> 5. Defendants shall immediately utilize the services of the independent expert to evaluate the accuracy, validity and reliability of their new PASARR instrument. The evaluation shall be completed no later than sixty days from the date hereof. If the evaluation suggests further changes but such changes are not implemented within forty-five days thereafter, Plaintiff may return to court for further relief.

After all, it was at the recommendation of the independent expert that Defendants decided to amend the instrument so as to address the problems described herein. Finally, the court orders Defendants to certify and file with the court a detailed report regarding compliance with respect to paragraphs one, two, three and five within sixty days and with respect to paragraph four within one hundred and twenty days.

47 In the court's estimation, the ordered relief falls well within its powers under paragraph thirty-two of the settlement agreement. As importantly, the relief is designed to ensure that Plaintiff class members properly receive specialized services in a manner required by law, while respecting Defendants' responsibilities to design the particular mechanisms by which those ends will be accomplished.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

III. CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, Plaintiffs' Amended Motion for Further Relief Concerning Specialized Services is hereby ALLOWED as described.

[2] The settlement agreement's stay provision, paragraph twenty-eight, simply states that "[f]urther proceedings in [this action] will be stayed, subject to the [agreement's enforcement] provisions." (Id. ¶ 28.)

[3] In their entirety, the paragraphs provide as follows:

> 15. Of the 858 nursing facility residents, according to the PASARR evaluators, who were not receiving all specialized services recommended in their PASARR evaluations as of July 1, 1998, the Defendants shall provide or arrange for those specialized services to all such residents by December 31, 1999.
> 16. For all other Massachusetts residents who are class members whose PASARRs recommend specialized services, Defendants shall provide or arrange for the provision of those specialized services by April 30, 2000, or within 90 days of the individual's admission to a nursing facility, whichever is later.

(Id. ¶¶ 15, 16.)

[4] Sandoval, by the way, presents the only grounds upon which Defendants may appropriately argue that a "change" in the law requires the court to take a second look at its previous conclusions. In this regard, the following colloquy between the court and Defendants' attorney is instructive:

> MR. WECHSLER: And there are, of course, various enforcement provisions that the plaintiffs have if they're dissatisfied with the implementation of this agreement. One is to confer. A second is mediation. And then they have the various rights to go back into this court if they're dissatisfied.
> THE COURT: Right, and I think that it's within those paragraphs that I saw something that could be interpreted, then existing facts and law, something along those lines that take that at least kinds of changes into account.
> MR. WECHSLER: Right, so that the agreement is between the parties. But if the plaintiffs were dissatisfied and believed that the defendants are not carrying out their obligations, they have the right to go back into court. And at that point, to argue that there's a violation of then applicable law. So, for example, if the defendants don't meet the schedule for placement within a period, the plaintiffs can go back on that basis and reopen the case > with the state and argue that the defendant's practices violate the law.

> So that it places them in the same position that they would be absent an agreement in terms of enforceability. They could make that claim at that time. And the court would, of course, be considering any changes in facts or law, for example, but facts may well change at that point in terms of who's already been placed and there may be legal developments.

(Docket No. 118, Transcript of October 20, 1999 Conference at 23–24 (emphasis added). See also id. at 42–43.)

[5] The Sandoval dissent suggested that, on remand, the plaintiffs might be able to invoke section 1983 in order to obtain relief, see id., 532 U.S. at 300–01, 121 S.Ct. 1511 (Stevens, J., dissenting), but the majority did not address that point.

[6] As the court noted, the sole reference to "analogous" services is limited to a data-gathering process, see 42 C.F.R. § 483.136(a), which in no way alters the definition of active treatment. See Rolland, 138 F.Supp.2d at 116.

[7] Dr. Kastner also noted that it is "extremely important" to observe both the nursing home side and the day habilitation side of the service delivery system "to see what services people are receiving and to be able to conclude whether they have achieved specialized services or active treatment." (Tr.Vol. III at 168.) This very point was made by the court in its memorandum and order of March 27, 2001. See Rolland, 138 F.Supp.2d at 116–17.

[8] Interestingly enough, Defendants' experts also claim to have found dominant, albeit contradictory, patterns, even though their sampling technique was admittedly at risk. (See, e.g., Tr.Vol. II at 267.) Defendants restricted their initial sample pool to the thirty individuals reviewed by Plaintiffs' experts in the summer of 2000, ended with only eight members from that pool and handpicked an additional eight classmembers from those same nursing facilities. (See id. at 237–38; Docket No. 281, Defendants' Exhibit ("Defs.' Ex.") 1–A at 8; Tr.Vol. III at 43; Tr.Vol. II at 237–38; Defs.' Facts ¶ 26.)

[9] Dr. Walsh's criticism of two of Plaintiffs' experts in particular was based on their outdated September and November affidavits. (See Tr.Vol. II at 269–71. See also Defs.' Ex. 1–A at 39–43.) Dr. Kastner, too, did not review three of Plaintiffs' experts' 2001 reports. (See Tr.Vol. IV at 147–48.)

[10] Additional factual findings are either interspersed in the court's conclusions of law or have been mentioned in the previous discussion of Defendants' preliminary arguments.

[11] Approximately five percent of the total active specialized services population receives specialized services through other service delivery models combined. (Id. ¶ 17.)

[12] For example, as conceded by Ellyn Zarek, MetroWest's director of state-wide assessments since July of 1989, the absence of documentation could often result in a finding that services were needed, but not provided. (See Tr.Vol. I at 119.) Similarly, an individual's need to obtain services sequentially could result in a finding that certain services were not being provided and an individual who refused services would be shown as not receiving them. (See id. at 124, 127. See also Tr.Vol. III at 23–24 (testimony regarding individual who was not receiving services because his guardian did not consent) Tr.Vol. IV at 24–25 (similar).)

[13] It is also noted that MetroWest used an active treatment standard which DMR had agreed to in 1993. (Id. at 115–16; Pls.' Ex. 29.) As Ms. Zarek testified, "it seemed the fair thing to do to give [individuals] credit for receiving specialized services when they're going to a full-time program that is supposed to be providing active treatment." (Tr.Vol. I at 116.) Unfortunately, Ms. Zarek concluded in May of 2001 that "few day habilitation programs or nursing facilities seem to understand specialized services or how to write objectives." (Id.; Pls.' Ex. 29.)

[14] For example, with respect to "WD," a forty-four year old developmentally disabled woman, the nursing home was not able to follow through on day habilitation activities. (Id. at 224–25. Compare Tr.Vol. IV at 27–28.) Similarly, "SB," a sixty-seven year old mentally retarded man who suffered from gastroesophageal reflux disease, failed to have implemented at his nursing home the swallowing and communication programs developed for him at the Stone Educational Collaborative Program (Tr.Vol. I at 225–28); a nursing home aide was simply unaware of the swallowing program (id. at 228–29). (Compare Tr.Vol. IV at 32–33 (testimony of Karen Williams that nursing staff had been trained in a feeding protocol).) Ms. Pilarcik also testified with respect to "BG," a seventy year old woman with Down's syndrome (who repeatedly showed up at day habilitation with feces under her fingernails), that staff members at the nursing home were completely unaware of her needs. (See Tr.Vol. I at 230–33.)

[15] The court notes that while Dr. Walsh, one of Defendants' experts, initially designed an instrument to measure Plaintiffs' experts' reports through use of an active treatment standard (see Tr. Vol. II at 250–52, 281–83), the standard was not included in his final guidelines (see id.; Pls.' Exs. 71 and 72).

[16] The court is also not yet convinced of the necessity of still other remedies offered by Plaintiffs, e.g., requiring sufficient numbers of trained professionals be placed in nursing facilities, mandating the provision of specialized services in settings other than nursing facilities, barring the admission of class members into nursing facilities in favor of intermediate care facilities, shortening the agreed upon time limit for the provision of specialized services, or barring the admission of class members into nursing facilities deemed unable to provide all recommended services.

Mr. Tom Masseau
Executive Director
Disability Rights Arkansas
400 West Capitol Avenue, #1200
Little Rock, AR 72201

Mr. Masseau,

I'm writing to formally respond to an investigation conducted by Disability Rights Arkansas that you provided me on October 23, 2020. As I stated in my initial email response that day, I do appreciate you sending the report and including additional recommendations that can be applied across all five Human Development Centers. I also appreciate your involvement with the Behavioral Consultation Committee and your attendance at the meeting held on November 5, 2020. I also appreciate the feedback you provided me yesterday ensuring that all recommendations were included in the subcommittee projects.

I reviewed your investigation surrounding the death and then went back and read through the internal reports, witness statements, hospital records, and his social and medical history. When a death occurs, the records not only detail the death but you also get to read about the person. He had lived at Booneville for thirteen years. He liked the Dukes of Hazard. He liked listening to music by the Monkeys. He didn't like to be alone. He had a mother and a sister and I am sorry for their loss.

This response isn't intended to argue with your report or point out discrepancies. I agree with you that people with disabilities, whether they live at a facility or out in the community, deserve the best possible care. I agree that we need to renew our effort to actively reduce restraints. I am committed, with your help and other members of the Behavioral Consultation Committee, to change the culture and significantly reduce restraint usage. Below I have included the four focus areas for the subcommittees that we will tackle over the next several months. I think we can bring about real change.

Behavioral Consultation Committee Subcommittee Project Plans

Data-Informed Practices

Co-Chairs: Dr. Julie Howard and Dr. Jeremy Thompson

Goal: Develop a project plan, timeline and recommendations for the collection and use of data to inform restraint practices, as well as, consistent and effective use of the data to reduce restraint usage

Action #1: Review and update how we report, categorize and define restraints

Action #2: Review current metrics and methods used for tracking personal, mechanical and chemical restraints, as well as entire episodes involving individual clients.

Action #3: Update how incidents involving restraints are tracked on the HDC Statistical Report. Improve the report's restraint tracking methodologies and terminology.

Action #4: Develop a template for collecting, reviewing and utilizing data that will be utilized throughout the strategic process.

DRA Recommendation and Action #5: Ensure that the use of restraint is regularly monitored, including careful evaluation and scrutiny of the reasons staff utilized restraint, alternatives to restraint, and follow-up actions in response to restraint. This includes requiring that clinical and senior administrative staff be more involved in the day-to-day activities of residents to ensure that individualized treatment or behavior plans are effective, and that adequate active treatment is provided. A process for this oversight should be included in the project plan.

Preferred Restraint and Communication Options while working to reduce restraint usage

Chair: Shannon Roberts

Goal: Develop a project plan, timeline and recommendations for implementing the best devices, including communication devices.

Action #1: Review current mechanical restraint devices used at each human development center.

Action #2: Research and recommend improved devices.

Action #3: Develop action plan for phasing out obsolete devices while implementing improved, standardized devices.

DRA Recommendation and Action #4: Ban the use of the papoose board as a form of restraint at the HDCs.

Restraint Reduction Methods

Chair: Dr. Carl Reddig

Goal: Develop a project plan, timeline and recommendations for reducing the use of restraints. *will need incorporate items from Dr. Howard and Dr. Thompson's project plan.

Action #1: Identify and recommend alternative tools and intervention methods for reducing restraint use.

Action #2: Review client behavioral support plans and identify minimal language required to allow restraint usage as a last resort.

Action #3: Develop an action plan for reviewing and modifying all client behavioral support plans. Ensuring specific restraint language is removed, all support plans have all intervention methods, and support plan templates do not revert back to having specific restraint language.

DRA Recommendations and Action #4: evaluate mental health and other treatment service for clients at each HDC and make recommendations on needed services.

External Advocate Recommendations

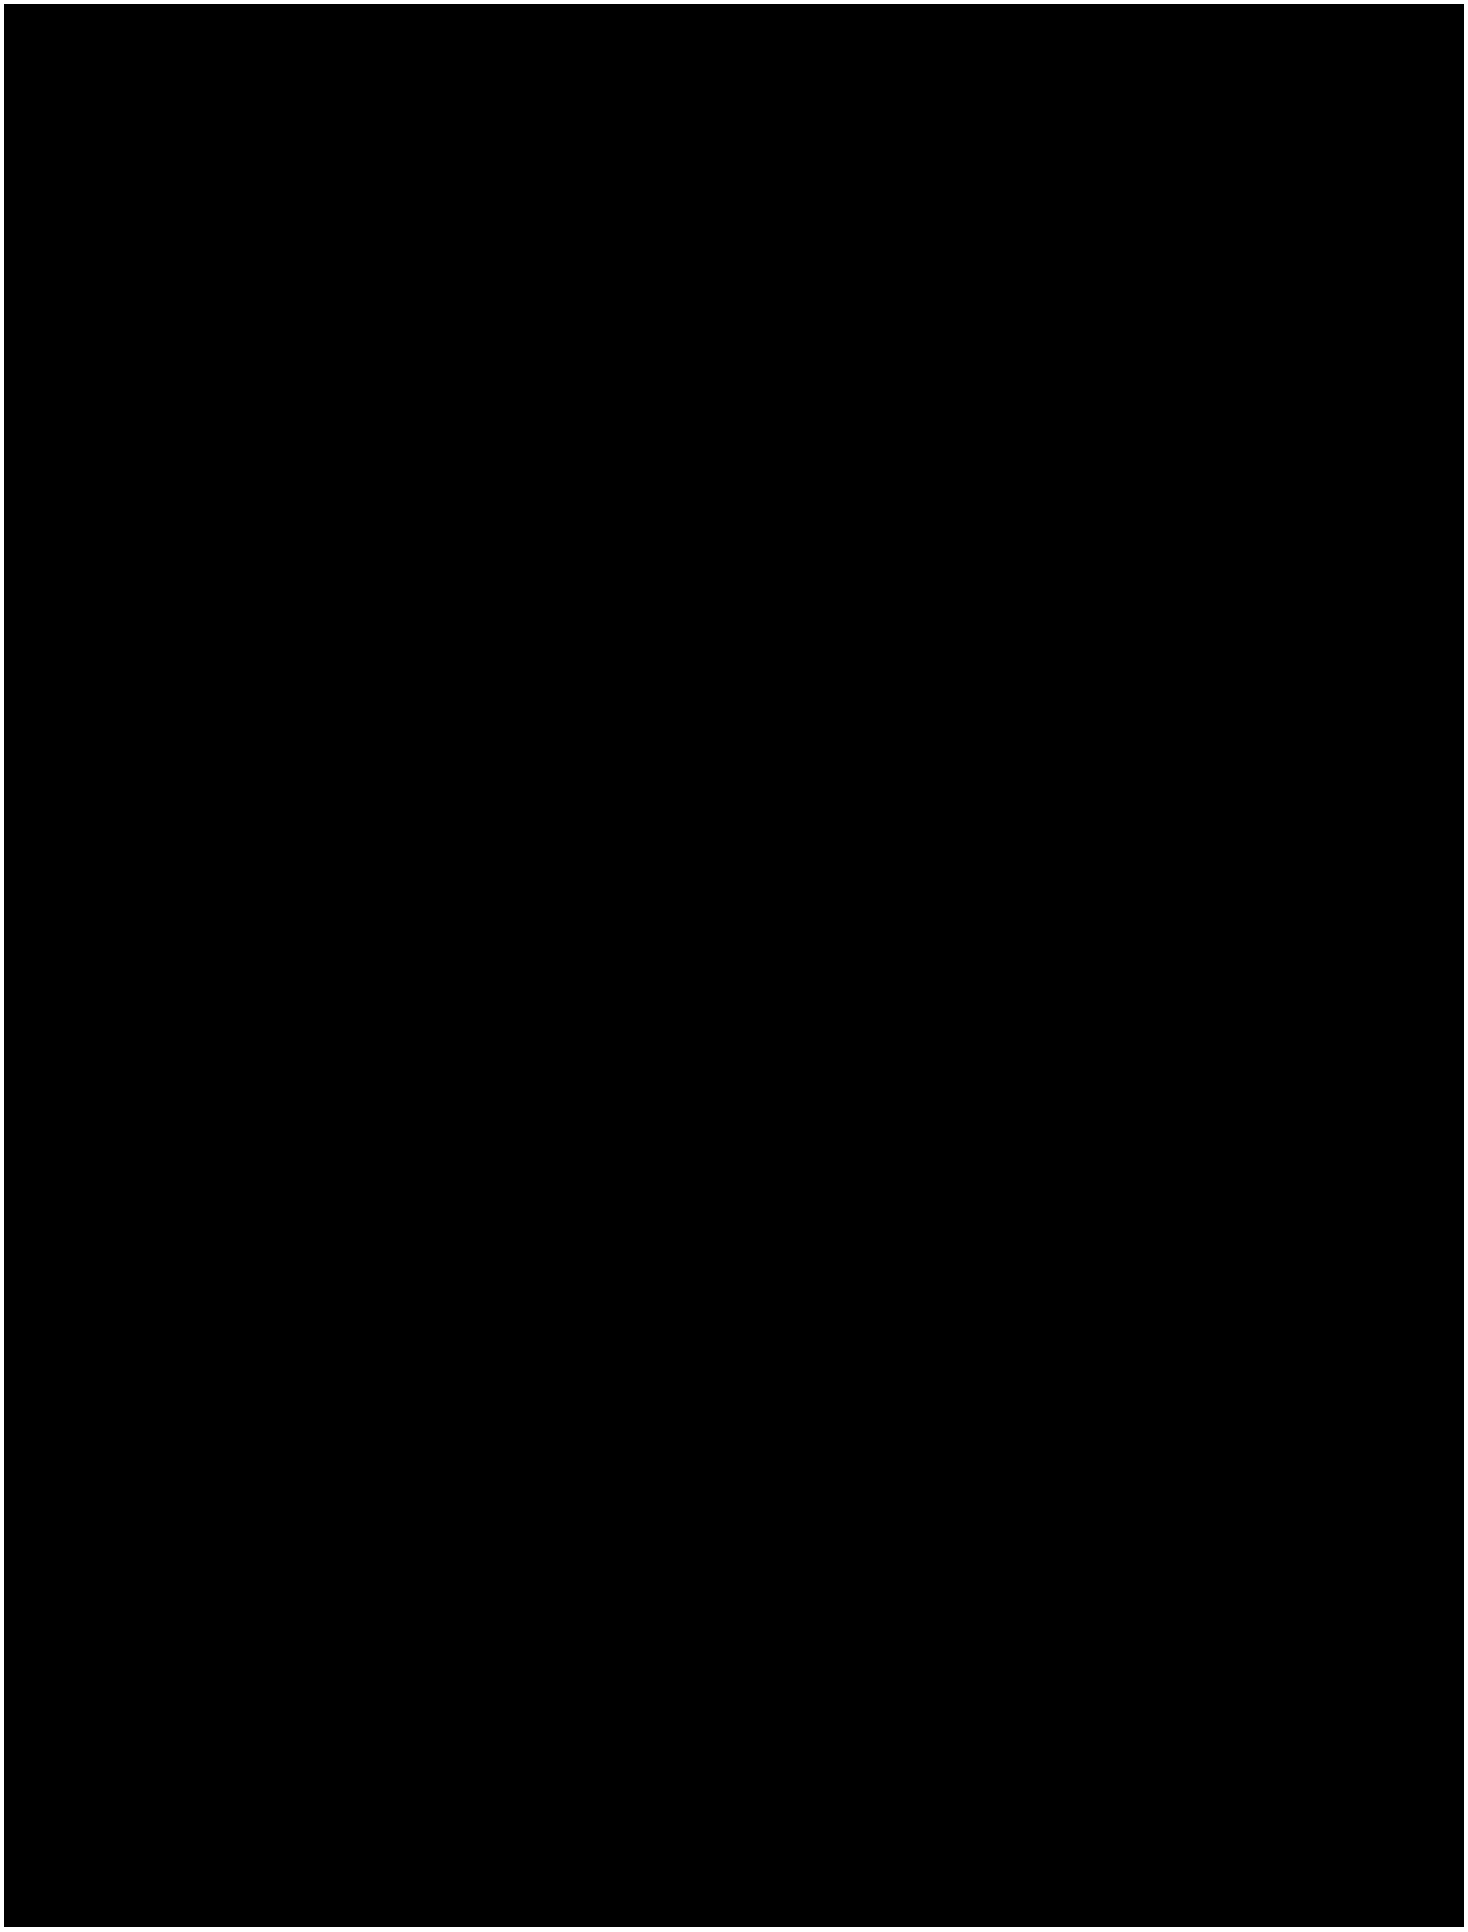
Chair: Tom Masseau, Disabilities Rights Arkansas

Goal: Develop a project plan and timeline for implementing recommendations made by Disabilities Rights Arkansas not included in the project plans listed above.

Action #1: Research the use of independent experts with expertise in working with facilities to develop and implement current evidence-based best practices to significantly reduce and/or eliminate the use of restraint at the facility. Outline appropriate options that includes how an expert would be utilized.

Action #2: Research the best comprehensive training on person-centered and trauma-informed, recovery-oriented, evidence-based services and supports. Outline recommendations on who should be trained, including frequency.

Action #3: Develop a plan to increase the frequency of NCI/CPI training with all staff, while incorporating, where appropriate, the comprehensive training recommended in Action #2.



Action #4: Clarify or Modify policy to permit staff to contact 911 in response to emergency medical situations. Staff must have permission to identify and respond in an emergency.

Action #5: Research the use of independent investigators to complete investigations on all deaths.

Thank you for agreeing to lead the External Recommendations Team. You and I may not always agree but I know that we both want people with disabilities to be safe and respected and live their best possible life.

Sincerely,

Subject: Booneville Human Development Center (BHDC) Death Investigation Importance: High

[EXTERNAL SENDER]
Melissa,

I wanted to send this investigative report to you myself, since we previously communicated about your office's efforts to reexamine the use of restraint at the HDCs. Preventing events like this is a necessary goal and we hope that this galvanizes your effort to do so. The use of restraints on individuals at the Human Development Centers has been an issue we have been asking the state to address for over eight years with little to no progress.

This death at Booneville Human Development Center (BHDC) was a tragedy that arose from a dangerous and barbaric practice and should have never occurred. Aside from this gentleman's death itself, the way the investigation and this gentleman's family were treated was unacceptable. I am astounded that this death did not result in any findings from any agency tasked with investigation. The conclusion from the administrator that nobody could have done anything differently and that there was no need to reevaluate policies or practices is a short-sighted, if not lazy evaluation of this event. Yet the most important aspect of the death, the use of restraint, was never mentioned to EMS or those who might have investigated this incident outside of DHS. We can only speculate as to the motivation behind such a cursory review of this death, but we do not have to guess whether the BHDC residents and their families deserved better than this. David deserved better than this.

In January 2016, we issued a report on the use of restraint at Booneville Human Development Center and DDS spent more time defending the Center and the state than doing something about the use of restraint. For the sake of David and others within the Human Development Centers, I certainly hope DDS will spend more time implementing new procedures on the use of restraints, conducting more thorough investigations and holding individuals accountable for the lack of reporting.

Once again, I want to state that if this incident happened in the community within the confines of someone's home there would be different outcome in the reporting and accountability. Individuals entrusted in the care of DDS deserve the same amount of dignity and respect as those living in private homes.

I certainly hope that you will give serious consideration to these recommendations. I look forward to hearing from you.

Thank you,

Tom Masseau

ARKANSAS DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES
DIVISION OF DEVELOPMENTAL DISABILITIES SERVICES
DDS DIRECTOR'S OFFICE POLICY MANUAL

Policy Type	Subject of Policy	Policy No.
Service	Behavior Management	3011-D

1. Purpose. This policy is intended to provide guidelines for managing challenging behaviors of individuals residing in DDS operated programs (Human Development Centers).

2. Scope. This policy applies to all DDS operated programs (Human Development Centers) and their employees/volunteers. All such programs will include a review of this policy as part of the employee orientation process.

3. Definition of Terms

Behavior management, as covered by this policy, serves as a guide to ensure that an individual's actions that are aggressive, disruptive and/or present a danger to the individual or to others are managed with the least restrictive method. Behavior management is not a substitute for other forms of active treatment and is incorporated into program plans, based on individual needs.

Qualified Mental Retardation Professional (QMRP) or QMRP designee is used in this policy as a person designated to monitor, supervise, and make decisions regarding specific behavioral situations. QMRP/designee will be assigned by the administrator of the DDS program in which he/she works. Criteria for selection will involve prior training, experience, and demonstrated ability in the area of behavioral management. The QMRP/designee must be in a position that is on a level involving supervisory or decision-making responsibilities. The QMRP designee is authorized to perform any of the duties of the QMRP as outlined by regulations or policy.

Interdisciplinary Team (IDT) is defined as a group of persons (professionals, paraprofessionals and non-professionals) who develop an individual's program plan and whose participation is required in order to identify the needs of the individual and to devise ways to meet those needs. The IDT includes the individual and may also include those persons who have worked or will work most closely with the individual, those persons who provide needed assessments or services, and the individual's family, guardian, or advocate. In general, the IDT includes persons professionally qualified in such fields as health care, education, psychology, and social work.

Licensed nurse is defined as a registered nurse or licensed practical nurse. The agency may use a physician, in lieu of a licensed nurse, but this is not required.

Replacement: This policy replaces DDS Commissioner's Policy 3011-D, dated January 28, 1981, March 13, 1981, and DDS Director's Policy dated October 1, 1991; December 1, 1993; and January 30, 1998.

Reviewed: Arkansas Legislative Council Rules and Regulations Subcommittee _____, 2003

Policy Type	Subject of Policy	Policy No.
Service	Behavior Management	3011-D

4. Policy

NOTE: It is the philosophy of the agency to utilize all positive approaches to behavior management prior to and in conjunction with more restrictive programmatic techniques. Positive approaches may include, but are not limited to: positive reinforcement, gentle teaching, redirection, graduated guidance, and modeling of appropriate behaviors. Measures to address positive behavior should be incorporated into formal program efforts to the extent feasible.

Efforts at positive programming prove to be successful with the majority of maladaptive behaviors. All Human Development Centers will maintain policies and procedures for positive programming. The use of behavioral programming other than positive is designed for the individuals who repetitively engage in dangerously aggressive behavior and for whom other interventions have not been effective. All behavior programs developed in accordance with this policy will be designed to reduce or eliminate the target behavior(s) within a specified time frame, will be supported by documentation that positive, less restrictive methods have been systematically attempted and failed, will be monitored regularly by the individual's QMRP and Interdisciplinary Team (IDT), and will be revised if proved to be ineffective. The potential harmful effects of each procedure will be weighed carefully against the harmful effects of the targeted behavior and the IDT will determine if the harmful effects of the behavior outweigh the potentially harmful effects of the procedure.

Category I:

Category I procedures are those which may be used without prior approval of the Human Rights Committee or psychology staff. To ensure consistency, they should be addressed by the IDT. Frequent use (as determined by IDT) of these procedures with an individual indicates the need for consideration of the development of a behavior plan by the individual's IDT.

The individual must be supervised during these procedures. With the exception of verbal intervention, any use of Category I procedures, whether part of a formal behavior program or not, requires documentation on a Behavior Incident Report, Data Sheet, or other locally used behavior documentation system.

A. Verbal Intervention: Verbal intervention is utilized to stop an inappropriate behavior in progress and involves telling the individual "no" or "stop", identifying the behavior, and redirecting to an appropriate activity. The command is given in a firm but normal tone of voice. Threats, screaming, yelling or issuing repetitive or multiple sets of commands are not considered verbal correction and are inappropriate.

B. Separation From Activity Up to 30 Minutes: The individual is prevented from engaging in a reinforcing activity in which he/she has displayed inappropriate behavior. Separation is maintained within the same room or outdoor area where the activity is conducted. This is considered a Category I procedure if compliance by the individual can be accomplished through verbal prompting/physical prompting without requiring personal restraint (holding).

C. Separation From Setting Up to 30 Minutes: The individual is removed from the area where the reinforcing activity is taking place. Separation must occur under observation either outdoors or in a living or training area (bathrooms, storage rooms and closets do not constitute living/training area). This is considered a Category I procedure if compliance by the individual can be accomplished through verbal prompting/physical prompting without requiring personal restraint (holding).

Note: Separation to Allow Calming (STAC) – Also available is the positive procedure of STAC whereby the person is encouraged to move to an area away from the person or situation that upset them. At the same time, they are assisted in directing their attention to talking about the problem, listening to music, talking about family, relaxing quietly, going for a walk, etc. The activity should be chosen by the person in need of calming. When sufficiently calm, staff will assist the person in resuming normal activities.

D. Assignment of Additional Chores: The individual is assigned additional chores as a consequence for inappropriate behavior. Additional chores may be assigned only if such chores are already a part of the Individual Program Plan (IPP) and are not designed to replace work assignments of housekeeping personnel.

E. Restitution: The individual is cued to restore any property damaged, stolen or defaced. If appropriate to the individual's level of functioning, he/she may be cued to offer a verbal apology to the offended person. If appropriate to the individual's ability to comprehend, monetary reimbursement for the value of the damaged or stolen property may be required if this is a part of the IPP. In lieu of full value, a symbolic portion of the value may be required. Monetary reimbursement requires Human Rights Committee approval and Guardian consent.

Note: The individual is not degraded nor put on display while restoring damage. The individual is given the same equipment and protection to complete the restitution as would normally be given to a person not responsible for the damage.

F. Withholding Privileges: The individual loses a particular privilege following the occurrence of an inappropriate behavior. Privileges include such things as special planned community activities. However, trips off grounds are special and should only be curtailed if problem behavior is anticipated during that trip. Examples of situations where problem behaviors may be anticipated include a problem behavior having already occurred and the person is not fully calm, or, a problem behavior has not yet occurred, but there are indications that a problem behavior is likely. The curtailing of trips off grounds should be done after consultation with psychology staff, or with supervisory staff if psychology staff is not available. Privileges do not include basic living activities, such as meals, habilitation activities, or basic rights afforded all individuals.

G. Personal Property Removal (less than one hour): Removal of an individual's personal item that is being used in an inappropriate or unsafe manner or location. For example, if an individual disturbs others in a common TV room by playing his radio too loudly and will not reduce the volume when instructed, the radio may be removed from that individual for a time not to exceed one hour. The item will be held in a secure area and will be returned to the individual's room or to the individual directly, as appropriate (See Section 6, Page 8 of 9).

Category II:

Category II procedures may only be used as part of a formal behavior program designed by the individual's IDT, written by a licensed psychological professional, and approved by a licensed psychologist, physician, Human Rights Committee, and the facility administrator. Behavior program approval will include receipt of a signed consent from the individual and/or guardian.

A. Response Cost: The individual loses reinforcers previously earned in a behavior management system, (i.e., Token Economy Program)

B. Overcorrection - includes the following procedures:
   1) Restitutional Overcorrection: Requires the individual to restore the environment to a state that is better than it was before the occurrence of the inappropriate behavior.

   2) Positive Practice Overcorrection: Requires the individual to engage in an intensive practice period in which the alternative appropriate behavior is practiced.

C. Contingent Personal Property Removal (up to 24 hours maximum): Immediate removal of an individual's personal belongings contingent on the occurrence of a targeted behavior. Confiscated property will be held in a secure area and will be returned to the individual's room or individual directly, as appropriate. This procedure is considered Category II if the individual voluntarily (without duress or coercion) surrenders the property upon request.

Category III:

Category III procedures may only be used as part of a formal behavior program designed by the individual's IDT, written by a licensed psychological professional, and approved by a licensed psychologist, physician, other professionals, as indicated by the nature of the program, Human Rights Committee, and the facility administrator. Behavior program approval will include receipt of a signed consent from the individual and/or guardian. The individual's record documents the IDT's conclusion that the potential harmful effects of each restrictive procedure (restraint, etc.) are clearly outweighed by the harmful effects of the targeted behavior.

Policy Type	Subject of Policy	Policy No.
Service	Behavior Management	3011-D

A. Separation Time Out (Activity or Setting): Placement of an individual in a quiet area away from reinforcing activities or persons as a result of an inappropriate behavior occurring. The individual will be visually monitored during the time out. Further conditions include either:

1) Separation lasting for over 30 minutes to one (1) hour maximum.

2) Separation (any length of time) requiring physical intervention/personal restraint to ensure compliance.

B. Contingent Personal Property Removal (up to 24 hours maximum): Immediate removal of an individual's personal belongings contingent on the occurrence of a targeted behavior. Confiscated property will be held in a secure area and will be returned to the individual's room or to the individual directly, as appropriate. This procedure is considered Category III if the individual does not voluntarily surrender the property upon request, and it must be physically removed.

C. Sensory Deprivation: Involves the temporary impeding of one of the individual's senses for a period of time, contingent upon the occurrence of the target behavior. Most often, this procedure includes only the use of a blindfold or cloth placed over the individual's eyes when it has been shown to facilitate calming. The individual must be visually supervised during the use of this procedure, which may be used in combination with other Category III procedures, as designated in the individual program. It could also include lessening auditory input by covering the individual's ears, or covering a body part (usually the hands) to limit tactile stimulation, hand in mouth, or biting.

D. Restraint: When utilizing restraint as a programmatic option, a hierarchy of lesser restrictive procedures will be attempted prior to restraint, except in limited cases where this is clearly clinically contraindicated. IDT consideration will be given to parent/guardian notification of the use of restraint and address it in the behavior program.

1) Personal Restraint: In order to prevent personal injury or serious property damage, the individual or a portion of an individual's body is immobilized by another person or persons in order to prevent personal injury or serious property damage. Approved methods of intervention must be in the individual's behavior program. This is planned personal restraint, contingent upon occurrence of a target behavior. When available, a licensed nurse should monitor the personal restraint and/or check the individual's physical condition as soon as possible following restraint.

Excluded as personal restraint are: physical assistance, prompting of graduated physical guidance to assist individuals during such procedures as toothbrushing and feeding, or to control random head or arm movements during such procedures as haircutting, or the use of physical assistance in escorting, redirecting, or in manual guidance techniques are not considered personal restraint and do not require documentation as personal restraint. Also excluded as programmed personal restraint is the use of personal restraint in an emergency situation (Section 6, Page 8 of 9) or during a necessary medical or dental procedure.

In the event of personal restraint, the QMRP/designee of the area must be notified as soon as possible. Programmed personal restraint will occur until the individual is calm and will not exceed fifteen (15) minutes. The IDT will define what constitutes calm behavior for this individual when used in a behavior program.

2) Mechanical Restraint: In order to prevent personal injury or serious property damage, the individual or a portion of the individual's body is immobilized until calm by an approved device or devices which may also prevent normal functioning, as described in section C, above. Restraints must be checked for safety and integrity prior to use. The device's use will not exceed 15 minutes without an extension of time approved and documented by the QMRP/designee, preferably, after face-to-face attention. Unless otherwise determined by the IDT, QMRP/designee extensions will be obtained every 15 minutes until the individual is calm. The IDT should define what constitutes calm behavior for this individual when used in a behavior program. Unless determined clinically contraindicated by the QMRP/designee, should the time in restraint reach 55 minutes, the individual must be released for five minutes for motion, liquid intake, or toileting.

Should time in restraint reach 1 hour and 50 minutes, the individual must be released for at least 10 minutes–for motion, liquid intake, or toileting. If this 10-minute release is judged to be a danger to the individual and/others, additional staff should be called to ensure safety for all concerned. In addition, the individual will be checked, face to face, at least every 15 minutes for safety, well being, and integrity of the restraint. Constant observation is required.

Note: On-site monitoring by the QMRP/designee is recommended. When available, a licensed nurse should monitor the mechanical restraint. If unavailable to monitor, a licensed nurse shall check the individual's physical condition as soon as possible following restraint, but in no case later than thirty minutes after the initiation of the restraint.

Excluded as programmed mechanical restraint is the use of restraints in an emergency situation (Section 6, Page 8 of 9), during a necessary medical or dental procedure, or to promote healing following a medical procedure or injury. Devices such as a helmet which are not prescribed for the purpose of restricting an individual's movement and/or normal functioning, but rather for their safety and protection are not considered a mechanical restraint.

Service	Behavior Management	3011-D

Note: For medical management, please refer to local site Policy on drugs to manage behavior (Behavior Management/Psychiatric Interventions).

5. Conditions for Use of Behavior Programs.

A. A formal behavior program will be developed by the IDT, written by a licensed psychological professional, and approved by a psychologist. It will include the following elements:

1) Description of the behavior to be modified;
2) Functional Analysis;
3) Thorough description of each step of the program to include duration and intensity of specific procedures, the methods of monitoring and analyzing the process, and special precautions that will be taken;
4) Description of any alternatives to the specific procedures;

B. The Individual Program Plan or behavior program will include:
1) Description of all procedures already attempted;
2) Side effects and risks, if any, of the intervention, in comparison with those of allowing the maladaptive behavior to continue; and
3) Behavioral objectives.

C. Behavior Management Procedures should be used in order of least restrictive, unless clinically contraindicated. Exceptions to this order must be fully documented and substantiated as to why more restrictive procedures are advisable before less restrictive ones.

D. All persons administering Category II and III procedures must have been trained in the administration of those specific procedures and have personally experienced those particular procedures, unless medically contraindicated for that person.

E. The Human Rights Committee will review all Category II and III programs at least every 6 months.

F. IDT consideration will be given to seeking consultation from outside expertise when IDT staff resources have been exhausted, as evidenced by the use of Category III procedures for over one (1) year without significant progress. If an outside consultant has been used without success, the agency should continue to access this or other outside expertise until an effective strategy is realized.

An outside consultant is defined as a professional of any discipline and who is not a member of the IDT. For instance, the outside consultant may be a member of the HDC staff not on the identified IDT, the agency staff, or a professional not affiliated with the agency.

6. Emergency Procedures. Nothing in this policy prohibits the use of emergency restraint (mechanical or personal), confiscation of any item used in a threatening manner, or removal from the environment for the purpose of protecting the individual and others around him/her. This includes the use of restraint procedures in the course of an established program, when the individual becomes a danger to him/herself or others, prior to staff being able to implement a lesser restrictive hierarchy. However, it is emphasized that emergency procedures may not be used at frequent intervals, becoming a routine method of intervention. If emergency procedures are utilized three times in a six-month period, the IDT will meet to conduct a functional analysis and develop an appropriate plan of action. The emergency use of restraint must conform to ICF/MR regulations and must be reported immediately to the facility administrator or designee.

7. Prohibitions: These activities are expressly prohibited.

   A. Corporal punishment - refers to the application of painful stimuli to the body as a penalty for certain behavior, and includes, but is not limited to, hitting, pinching, the use of electrical shock or other infliction of pain, whether or not applied as part of a systematic behavior intervention program.

   B. Individuals who receive services from the agency disciplining other individuals unless involved in an organized and approved self-governing program. Individuals will not participate in the actual administration of discipline.

   C. Seclusion of an individual alone in a room or other area from which entry/exit is prevented. This does not include placement in a time-out area for brief, programmed time segments, as part of a behavior program that meets all applicable standards.

   D. Unless specifically requested by family/guardian, any procedure that denies visitation or communication with family members.

   E. Any procedure that denies sleep, shelter, bedding, food, drink, or use of bathroom facilities.

   F. Inappropriate vocalizations, maltreatment, neglect, or forced exercise.

8. Informed Consent. The individual served and/or guardian, as appropriate, will be provided a copy of the behavior program which utilizes Category II and III procedures. Informed consent will be obtained PRIOR to the implementation of the program, with the following procedures:

Policy Type	Subject of Policy	Policy No.
Service	Behavior Management	3011-D

A. Persons 18 years of age or older who have no legally appointed guardian may give informed consent for their behavior program. If there is a question about the individual's ability to give informed consent and no guardian can be located, appropriate legal action must be pursued to have someone appointed who can give consent.

B. Consent by the legal guardian(s) is required if guardianship has been established.

C. The legally adequate consent will:
1) Specify, in terms that are easily understood, the restrictive or intrusive procedure(s) involved;
2) Inform the person(s) giving consent of any potentially harmful effects of the procedure(s);
3) Be time-limited, not to exceed one year; and
4) State that consent may be withdrawn at any time.

9. Uncategorized Procedures. In the event a proposed procedure does not readily fit in one of the prescribed categories, it may be utilized on an emergency basis, if necessary, at the discretion of the administrator or designee until the appropriate category is determined.

NOTE: Behavior Management Policy 3011-D does not preclude the use of other restrictive/intrusive procedures that would prevent serious bodily harm and/or destruction of property or death. These procedures can only be considered when lesser restrictive procedures have been proven ineffective or their implementation are determined to be clinically contraindicated. Approvals required are the same as those for Category III procedures. Additional approvals may be required as deemed necessary by the facility administrator.

DHS PRETRIAL BRIEF

COMES NOW Respondent, Arkansas Department of Human Services, by and through its counsel, Rich Rosen, and submits the following facts, points, and legal authorities which support its denial of liability herein and the denial of the claim submitted by Claimant, Christine McAuliffe, as Special Administrator of the Estate of David Cains:

"These are people that we deeply care about. This is not just a job."

Deposition Summary, p. 8

Prologue

Although dozens of depositions were taken by Claimant and several by DHS, the factual and legal issues presented are not complicated. As more fully explained below, the threshold issue before the Commission is whether, under Arkansas law, the Booneville Human Development Center (hereinafter "Booneville" or "BHDC") was negligent and, if so, whether that negligence caused the death of Mr. Cains. On this issue, Claimant has the burden of proof. The burden of proof is always on the party asserting negligence, as negligence is never presumed. Taylor v. Texas Gas Transmission, 2012 Ark. App. 625, *7 citing Mangrum v. Pigue, 359 Ark. 373 (2004).

In Arkansas, the essential elements of a negligence claim are (1) the existence of a duty on the part of the defendant to conform to a specific standard of conduct; (2) breach of that duty by the defendant; (3) injury to the plaintiff actually and proximately caused by the defendant's breach; and (4) resulting damages to the plaintiff. Peregrine Trading, LLC v. Rowe, 2018 Ark. App. 176, 17 (emphasis added).

It has long been held that "[f]oreseeability is an essential ingredient of negligence" Dollins v. Hartford Accident & Indemnity Co., 252 Ark. 13, 18 (1972) (empahasis added). "Conduct becomes negligent only as it gives rise to appreciable risk of injury to others, and there is no negligence in not guarding against a danger which there is no reason to anticipate." Ethyl Corp. v. Johnson, 345 Ark. 476, 481 (2001). "In other words, "negligence cannot be predicated on a failure to anticipate the unforeseen." Id. citing Keck v. American Employment Agency, Inc., 279 Ark. 294, 299 (1983).

Due to the several volumes of relevant facts stated established through deposition, and in order for the Commission for more fully understand DHS's evidence and arguments, it is crucial for the Commission to review the DHS Deposition Summaries of the individuals identified below. These DHS Summaries include many quotes from the witness testimony in lieu of paraphrasing key testimony and, where necessary for a clear understanding of both the substance and context of the witness testimony, the DHS Summaries included the actual dialogue of the testimony and "notes for context" so the Commission can see what was actually said by the witness and, where appropriate, a footnote for context.

Dr. Kastner's opinions, with the detailed medical and factual bases therefore, are contained in Dr. Kastner's Reports of January 5, 2023 and January 6, 2023, introduced in his deposition as Kastner deposition Ex. 2A and 2B. The two Reports are now DHS Exhibits 2A and 2B and are quite extensive in nature. Dr. Kastner's extensive Curriculum Vitae is DHS Exhibit 1.

Factual Summary

Claimant, Christine McAuliffe, as Special Administrator of the Estate of David Cains, seeks damages against the Arkansas Department of Human Services ("DHS") for the death of David Cains on June 13, 2020. At the time of his death, Mr. Cains had been a resident of the Booneville Human Development Center ("BHDC") for approximately 13 years. Mr. Cains had been [redacted] See McAuliffe depo. p. 13, lines 12-19.

Mr. Cains tragically died during an aggressive behavioral episode where, from a seated position in a lobby chair location where he sat in order to calm down, he abruptly jumped up, tore paper off the wall, and charged Mr. Mattson, with such force and impact that, during the ensuing struggle, the two toppled over onto the floor. The behavior episode occurred in the lobby of the Commons Building just outside the doors to the lunchroom at lunchtime. Due to the hour, the building was filled with BHDC residents and staff. [1]

[1] In his written statement made during the BHDC internal investigation, Mr. Mattson described in the initiation of Mr. Cains' behavior towards him as "he then jumped up after me." See Mattson statement - DHS Ex. 13 (emphasis added). At his deposition two years later, Mr. Mattson

Mr. Cains' aggressive behavior continued on the floor, unabated, requiring staff to employ an emergency physical hold for Mr. Cains' safety and the safety of staff. Emergency holds are a form of physical restraint expressly authorized for safety in 42 C.F.R. §483.450, the CMS State Operations Manual (known as Appendix J) [DHS Ex. 3], and DDS Policy 3011-D [DHS Ex. 4].

Unfortunately, Mr. Cains' behavioral episode continued while on the floor and he did not calm. [redacted] characterized Mr. Cains' act of jumping after him as "charging" him. See e.g. Mattson depo. pp. 100. 101. It has also been characterized as "lunging" at him.

This is significant because it is anticipated that Claimant's narrative of the facts will ignore that part of the written statement or even argue that Mr. Mattson's interchangeable descriptions of "jumping up after him," "charging him" or "lunging at him" are somehow inconsistent or changed.

For example, Dr. LeBel, Claimant's restraint prevention expert, ignored Mr. Mattson's written statement in her rendition of the facts as if he didn't mention it all at in his statement. See Lebel depo. p. 37; summary, p. 3. Although her opinion relied extensively on Mr. Mattson's written OLTC statement, she overlooked this key point. It is unclear whether this omission was inadvettent or intentional.

Also, Claimant herself claimed in her testimony that Mr. Mattson's story had changed. See McAuliffe depo. pp. 85-86. Such was not the case.

[redacted] Dr. Brown-Forestiere, Claimant's own medical expert, testified: "Without any intervention, someone who suffocates will likely die within five minutes." Brown-Foresterie depo, pp. 20-21. She then acknowledged "It did take the paramedics 13 minutes to get there." The BHDC is in rural Logan County. [redacted] (DHS Ex. 12). [redacted]

Dr. Brown-Forestiere agreed that Mr. Cains was restrained while on his left side, and that she would want somebody who is vomiting to be placed on their side, and not on their back. Brown-Forestiere, depo pp. 56-57. Although Dr. Brown-Forestiere initially expressed concern that Mr. Cains was placed on his back too quickly thereby causing him to choke, she later resolved her initial concerns and testified: "My opinion is that he choked from vomiting when he was on his left side." Brown-Forestiere, depo. p. 61.

Although Dr. Brown-Forestiere is a relatively new physician, having just completed her residency, according to her C.V., in June, 2021, she opined that that the struggle with Tyler Mattson caused Mr. Cains to vomit, [redacted] Dr. Brown-Forestiere depo. p. 14.

However, when asked about the intensity of the struggle, Dr. Brown-Forestiere admitted:

> I - - I would assume that it was an intense struggle. But, no, of course, I have not way of knowing exactly how intense it was." Brown-Forestiere depo. 69.[2]

[redacted]

[2] Dr. Brown-Forestiere's testimony is purely speculative and does not rise to the standard of a reasonable degree of medical certainty. In Arkansas, the burden of proof is always on the party asserting negligence, as negligence is never presumed. Taylor v. Texas Gas Transmission, 2012 Ark. App. 625, *7 citing Mangrum v. Pigue, 359 Ark. 373 (2004). Although a party may establish negligence by direct or circumstantial evidence, he cannot rely upon inferences based on conjecture or speculation. Id. (emphasis added).

[redacted]

Moreover, Dr. Kastner, a physician board certified in four specialties, including Developmental and Behavioral Pediatrics and Neurodevelopmental Disabilities, with over 40 years experience clinically treating individuals with intellectual disabilities and developmental disabilities, who has been award millions of dollars in research grants, has 70 peered reviewed publications, who was a full professor of medicine at Albert Einstein College of Medicine in New York City, whose public service included appointment as the New York State Commissioner overseeing the New York state department that provided services to 121,000 developmentally disabled and the intellectually disabled individuals (see C.V. – DHS Ex. 1), opined, among other things:

- To a reasonable degree of medical certainty, the cause of Mr. Cains' vomiting was not [redacted] See Dr. Kastner Report dated January 5, 2023 - DHS Ex. 2A, pp. 9, 14

[3] The Arkansas Supreme Court has "made it clear in Arkansas that the failure to guard against an occurrence that is not reasonable to anticipate is not negligence. Browning v. Browning, 319 Ark. 205, 209 (1995) citing Benson v. Shuler Drilling Co., 316 Ark. 101 (1994). (emphasis added). Consequently, applying Arkansas law to Dr. Hamid's testimony, as the treating physician, it is not foreseeable that David Cains would choke to death on vomit [redacted]

- To a reasonable degree of medical certainty, the cause of Mr. Cains' vomiting was not due to the restraint. See Dr. Kastner Report dated January 5, 2023 - DHS Ex. 2A, pp. 9, 15
- To a reasonable degree of medical certainty, the cause of Mr. Cains' vomiting was [redacted] See Dr. Kastner Report dated January 5, 2023 - DHS Ex. 2A, pp. 9, 20.

Consistent with both Dr. Hamid's opinion and Dr. Kastner's opinions that the cause of the vomiting was [redacted] (DHS Exhibits 2A, 2B), Amanda Schmitt testified that she had previously removed Mr. Cains from his scheduled activities a few times because she felt he was too overwhelmed to go to class that day or to his work area or to go to Commons to eat, and placed him back at the dorm. Schmitt depo. p. 8. Mr. Mattson also testified his deposition, that he Mattson noticed Mr. Cains becoming agitated in the lunchroom, removed him, and took him to the bathroom, after which, Mr. Cains asked to sit in a lobby chair to calm himself before the behavioral episode began. See Mattson depo. pp. 99, 100. Dr. Kastner noted in his deposition that Mr. Cains was [redacted] to reduce Mr. Cains's vomiting:

[redacted]

Kastner depo. p.54.

Even Claimant, Ms. McAuliffe, testified Mr. Cains' stomach would get upset when he got anxious and, at times, vomit, but not often"

Q: Did you ever notice that he would vomit at times?
A: When he was upset, or just in general?
Q; Anytime?

> A: Yeah. I mean, his whole life he dealt – you know he had stomach issues. Like if he ate certain things, his stomach would get upset, and when he got anxious. His stomach would get upset.
> Q: So, he would vomit often"
> A: I wouldn't say that he vomited often, no.

McAuliffe depo. pp. 29-30.

Dr. Kastner also opined, to a reasonable degree of medical certainty that Mr. Cains, a 6'2", approximately 250 pound obese man, [redacted], and who resided in a facility based institution, had a life expectancy of six more years. See Kastner January 5, 2023 Report, pp. 10, 51. Significantly, Claimant's offered no contrary medical expert testimony or opinion.

What is the Booneville Human Development Center ("BHDC")?

The Booneville Human Development ("BHDC") is an intermediate care facility for adults with intellectual disabilities. Berry depo. p.8. BHDC trains individuals in:

- Independent living skills
- Pre-vocational skills, and
- Behavioral management.

Ms. Berry explained the BHDC was originally the Arkansas Tuberculosis Sanitorium opened in 1909. In 1973, it switched to a Human Development Center, then called The Children's Colony. Berry depo. p. 9. It is facility-based care for adults with developmental disabilities. Id. There are five Human Development Centers in Arkansas. Id.

BHDC's main campus is 1,000 acres with dormitory-style cottages where the residents live. BHDC has both new and old buildings. BHDC is also in the process of building additional buildings. BHDC also has its own water treatment plant and sewer plant.

The State of Arkansas has invested money into BHDC and is committed to BHDC, as evidenced by the new construction on campus. Berry depo. pp. 16-17. BHDC is located in Logan County and employs approximately 250 people. Berry depo., pp. 16-17. Ms. Berry described the newly constructed buildings and those currently under construction. See Berry depo., pp. 18-19; see DHS Ex. 6A-6E (photos of new buildings – Berry depo. Ex. 2A, 2B).

Aside from HDC facility-based services, the State of Arkansas offers the IID population other service options, as well. In addition to admission to Human Development Centers, Individuals may elect to:

- Reside in their home and receive community-based waiver services;
- Reside in small, privately owned, ICF-IIDs who provided their services;
- Reside in and receive services in group homes; and
- Reside in nursing facilities.

See Berry depo. p. 9. These community-based service options were available in 2020 and in the years before 2020. Ms. Robinson, in her deposition, confirmed that community-based services were available for David Cains and stated "I explored them" but that she choose the BHDC because it was a good placement. See Robinson depo. p. 69, lines 16-25.

As Ms. Berry explained, admission to the BHDC is voluntary. A resident's continued stay at the BHDC is also voluntary. There are no involuntary commitments at BHDC. All individuals who reside at BHDC are there because someone – family or legal guardian – wants them to be there. Berry depo. p. 10.

When an individual applies for HDC facility-based services, a DDS review team meets in order to determine if the criteria is met for the individual's placement in an HDC. Berry depo pp. 10-12, If the criteria is met, each HDC will then look to determine if that particular individual would fit in their center. Id. In other words, the HDCs review the individual's needs and determine which HDC the individual is properly suitable for. Ms. Berry explained that different HDCs cater to a different type of developmentally delayed individual. Id.

Individuals placed at BHDC must be ambulatory and are, typically, "dually diagnosed" individuals who have both a mental illness and intellectual disability. Berry depo. 12. The BHDC is licensed through State's Office of Long Term Care ("OLTC") and is CARF accredited. Berry depo. pp.12-13. CARF is a national organization that accredits facilities if the facility meets the CARF standards. Id. In June 2020, BHDC was a CARF accredited facility. CARF accreditation requires a facility to inspection. Id.

Ms. McAuliffe testified that prior to his death, she felt, overall, that Mr, Cains did well at BHDC. See McAuliffe depo. p. 125. She confirmed he was friends with lots of BHDC staff and she felt like the staff loved him too. See McAuliffe depo. p. 125 See McAuliffe depo. p. 125. Describing BHDC, Claimant testified "I was happy that he seemed to excel there." See McAuliffe depo. p. 126.

BHDC Population Characteristics – Majority Dually Diagnosed

Unlike the other HDCs, the BHDC "population is majority dually diagnosed" which means they have both an intellectual disability and a mental illness such as schizophrenia, bi-polar, depression, anxiety, ADHD, and behavior problems. Berry depo. pp. 49-50. The BHDC admits dually diagnosed persons with "the most severe behavior outbursts." Id. BHDC has a higher population of individuals with behavior problems than the other HDCs and many of BHDC clients come from the Arkansas State Hospital (commonly referred to as ASH), jail, and other inpatient facilities. They are funneled to BHDC.[4] Id.

[4] As BHDC has a higher population of residents with dual diagnoses of intellectual disability and mental illness, who are ambulatory with behavioral problems, it has higher instances of restraint use than other Arkansas HDCs. Consequently, any comparison of restraint use between BHDC and other HDCs would be like comparing apples to oranges. BHDC simply has a higher percentage of dually diagnosed individuals with behavioral problems than other HDCs.

The BHDC also accepts transfers from other Arkansas HDCs when "they can't behaviorally manage them at their particular center." Berry depo. p. 51. The "dually diagnosed" population at BHDC is currently 96 percent. In June, 2020, it was "probably between 90 and 94" percent. That is the way was at BHDC in 2014 through 2020. Id. Ms. Berry explained our population is different." As BHDC has a higher population of behavioral residents than other Arkansas HDCs. Berry depo. 52, line 13.

Resident Vocational Programs at BHDC

As stated earlier, the BHDC provides individuals with, among other things, vocational skills. Berry depo., p. 8. In fact, the vocational training was one of the many programs that Mr. Robinson, Mr. Cain's mother, considered when deciding to place Mr. Cains at BHDC. See Robinson depo, pp. 45-46.

In 2020, BHDC had two vocational programs for residents – recycling and rugs making. Berry depo., p. 21. David Cains work in recycling program. Berry depo. p. 24-25. Residents working in the recycling program separate recyclable materials, tear books, and use the shredders. BHDC picks up recyclable materials from businesses – paper, boxes, books – brings them to the center for the residents to unload materials, separate, shred, and put into the bailor. Berry depo. p. 22. The program gives residents purpose to their day and a skill set. Id. Residents in the rug program make rugs out of sock lops, which they sort, dye, and weave into rugs. Berry depo. p. 23.

`As part of the vocational program at BHDC, residents are taught "This is how much you have worked; this is how much you are going to get paid." Berry depo. p. 24-25. Residents then have a payday and can buy what they want at:

- The BHDC Canteen;
- vending machines; or
- go into town to a local business.

It teaches clients how to us money and clients go into Booneville and Ft. Smith to interact with the community, go to restaurants and movies with their pay. Berry depo. p. 26, 28.

Oddly, the 2015 DRA Report attached to the claim included a photo of a storage area of the Hamp Williams Building which DRA depicted as "trash and debris." The Hamp Williams building is the vocational training building and the bags actually contained the sock loops to make rugs. Berry depo. pp. 28-29.

BHDC is Regulated by the State Office of Long Term Care

The State's Office of Long Term Care is the state regulatory body for facilities licensed as an Intermediate Care Facility for Individuals with Intellectual Disabilities. BHDC's OLTC license was last renewed July 1, 2022. It was also licensed by OLTC in June, 2020. BHDC is required to comply with CMS guidelines which are federal requirements. CMS is the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid. See Berry depo. p. 14.

As part of the federal ICF/IID regulations, OLTC must inspect all Arkansas IFC/IIDs at least once per year and at other times. OLTC inspected BHDC in June 2020 after David Cains died and found no regulatory deficiencies. See Berry depo. p. 15; Elliott depo. pp. 16-17. Ms. Elliott, the federally trained and certified CMS surveyor, testified she surveyed BHDC for two complaints as a result of Mr. Cains' death and found the complaints to be "unsubstantiated."

Q: And what was the outcome of that determination?
A: That there were no deficient practices.

Elliott depo. pp. 16-17. See also DHS Exhibits 5A, 5B, 5C – the CMS Form 2567 survey results issued and the Survey Investigation Reports of OLTC. (DHS Ex. 3). A deficiency is where the facility is found to have done something incorrect. OLTC, applying federal standards, issued no deficiencies to the BHDC as a result of Mr. Cains' death and determined the two complaints it received resulting from his death as "unsubstantiated."

Applicable Federal and State Restraint Standards

Because the BHDC is licensed as an Intermediate Care Facility for Individuals with Intellectual Disabilities, commonly referred to as an ICF/IID, it is governed by federal regulations and the CMS" State Operations Manual – Appendix J" which is the federally promulgated guidance from the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services, a federal regulatory agency governing all Medicare and Medicaid facilities nationwide. Appendix J specifically applies to Intermediate Care Facilities for Individuals with Intellectual Disabilities. The applicable provisions of Appendix J pertaining to use of restraints in ICF/IIDs, such as BHDC, are contained in DHS Exhibit. 3. The DDS Policy 3011-D governing resident "Behavior Management" is DHS Ex. 4.

As more fully explained below, both federal regulations - 42 C.F.R. §483.450 - and CMS Appendix J expressly authorize ICF/IIDs, such as BHDC, to employ physical restraints.

The CMS "State Operations Manual, Appendix J - Guidance to Surveyors: Intermediate Care Facilities for Individuals with Intellectual Disabilities," DHS Ex.3, was introduced at several depositions, including at the deposition of Dian Elliott. These are the provisions which the BHDC must follow and upon which OLTC surveyors determine facility compliance. The restraint provisions of Appendix J are under the section titled: "(d) Standard: Physical Restraints." Appendix J includes both the applicable federal regulation and the corresponding CMS guidance.

The applicable restraint provisions are in the federal regulations and CMS Appendix J are as follows:

1. Federal Code of Regulations:

- 42 U.S.C §483.450(d) Physical restraints.

(1) The facility may employ physical restraint only -

(i) As an integral part of an individual program plan that is intended to lead to less restrictive means of managing and eliminating the behavior for which the restraint is applied;

(ii) As an emergency measure, but only if absolutely necessary to protect the client or others from injury; or

(iii) As a health-related protection prescribed by a physician, but only if absolutely necessary during the conduct of a specific medical or surgical procedure, or only if absolutely necessary for client protection during the time that a medical condition exists.

* * *

(4) A client placed in restraint must be checked at least every 30 minutes by staff trained in the use of restraints, released from the restraint as quickly as possible, and a record of these checks and usage must be kept.

(emphasis added for convenience of identification)

2. CMS State Operations Manual for Intermediate Care Facilities for Individuals With Intellectual Disabilities

- The CMS State Operations Manual – Appendix J:
  - Guidance §483.450(d)(1)(ii): W296
    - "Physical restraint may be used as an emergency intervention only in situations where the client is exhibiting behaviors which:
      1) the client has not exhibited before;
      2) were not identified in the functional analysis; or
      3) are harming other people or themselves." [5]

[5] The Arkansas Supreme Court has long held that the disjunctive "or" means, is a disjunctive particle which, in its ordinary sense, the word "or" marks an alternative, generally corresponding to "either," as "either this or that". Bakalekos v. Furlow, 2011 Ark. 505, *12. It is a connective particle that marks an alternative. Id. Thus, the presence of any one of the three behaviors is calls for the employment of emergency restraints

- Guidance §483.450(d)(4): W302
  - "As quickly as possible means as soon as the client is no longer a danger to self or others. Documentation should support that the client was released from restraint as soon as they became calm."

- Guidance §483.450(d)(1)(iv)(B): W280
  - " 'Physical restraint' is defined as any manual hold or mechanical restraint … which restricts the free movement of, normal functioning of, or normal access to a portion or portions of a client's body."

In addition to the federal provisions governing restraint use in an ICF/IID, such as the BHDC, Arkansas DDS has a behavior management policy, known as Policy 3011-D, which includes the provisions on the use of emergency restraints. Policy 3011-D, which is a DDS behavior management policy, addresses the use of there (3) separate "categories" of restraints in Section 4 of Policy 3011-D. These are "category" restraints and the rules governing "category" restraints depend on which category applies -- Category I, Category II, or Category III. Category restraints use addressed are in Section 4 of Policy 3011-D. DDS Policy 3011-D is DHS Ex. 4.

Not to be confused with the "category" restraints in Section 4 of Policy 3011-D are the "Emergency Procedures" in Section 6 of Policy 3011-D (emphasis in original). Section 6 "Emergency" restraints are different from Section 4 "Category" restraints. Even Mr. Cains' 2019 IPP, DHS Ex. 10, distinguishes between the use of "category" restraints and "emergency restraints."

Per DHS Ex. 10, pp. 9-10 (Bates Stamped p. 1469-1471), Mr. Cains 2019 IPP, at the bottom of the page in the "Note, provides:

> Note: The primary treatment for David's psychiatric condition is medication. In the event that symptoms [physical aggression] persist at a rate that interferes with programing, staff may employ Category I procedures (DDS 3011-D), TACT, procedures, or other Center emergency procedures if necessary, to protect from injury to client or others. [6]

Relationship History with Family

Per the deposition of Claimant, Mr. Cain's sister, Mr. Cains went to live with other families in 1991 when he was 14 years old and, eventually, at the BHDC. See McAuliffe depo. p. 18. She testified that neither she nor her mother, Mr. Robinson, actually lived with David Cain after 1991. See McAuliffe depo, p. 18, 21. He would only come home for periodic visits after 1991. Claimant confirmed that Mr. Cains was sent away when he was 14 years old. See McAuliffe depo.

Ms. McAuliffe later moved to Vermont and visited Mr. Cains when she return to Arkansas which, according to Mrs. Robinson, was only "once or twice a year." Robinson depo. p. 78.

Ms. McAuliffe [redacted]

Ms. McAulliffe testified that David Cains was a tall and big man – 6'2" and weighed 250 pounds. McAuliffe depo. p. 110. She testified "I've been on the receiving end of his punch." Id.

Claimant Has the Burden of Proving Negligence – Including Foreseeability and Proximate Cause

The threshold issue before the Commission is whether, under Arkansas law, BHDC was negligent and, if so, whether that negligence caused the death of Mr. Cains. On this issue, Claimant has the burden of proof. The burden of proof is always on the party asserting negligence, as negligence is never presumed. Taylor v. Texas Gas Transmission, 2012 Ark. App. 625, *7 citing Mangrum v. Pigue, 359 Ark. 373 (2004).

[6] See footnote 5 for Arkansas law on the meaning of the disjunctive "or." Just above the "note" the 2019 IPP identifies David Cains primary symptoms as "Noncompliance" and "Physical Aggression." See 2019 IPP, p. 9 (Bates stamp p. 1469).

In order to establish a prima facie case of negligence, a claimant must show that they sustained damages, that the defendant was negligent, and that such negligence was a proximate cause of their damages. Id. Although a party may establish negligence by direct or circumstantial evidence, he cannot rely upon inferences based on conjecture or speculation. Id. (emphasis added).

In Arkansas, the essential elements of a negligence claim are (1) the existence of a duty on the part of the defendant to conform to a specific standard of conduct; (2) breach of that duty by the defendant; (3) injury to the plaintiff actually and proximately caused by the defendant's breach; and (4) resulting damages to the plaintiff. Peregrine Trading, LLC v. Rowe, 2018 Ark. App. 176, 17 (emphasis added).

It has long been held that "[f]oreseeability is an essential ingredient of negligence" Dollins v. Hartford Accident & Indemnity Co., 252 Ark. 13, 18 (1972) (empahasis added). "Conduct becomes negligent only as it gives rise to appreciable risk of injury to others, and there is no negligence in not guarding against a danger which there is no reason to anticipate." Ethyl Corp. v. Johnson, 345 Ark. 476, 481 (2001). "In other words, "negligence cannot be predicated on a failure to anticipate the unforeseen." Id. citing Keck v. American Employment Agency, Inc., 279 Ark. 294, 299 (1983). If risks of harm cannot be foreseen by a reasonably prudent and intelligent man, the risk is not unreasonable, hence there is no negligence, consequently, no liability." North Little Rock Transp. Co. v. Finkbeiner, 243 Ark. 596, 602 (1967). Moreover "Arkansas law has long since recognized that there is no duty to guard against merely possible, as opposed to likely or probable harm." Ethyl Corp. V. Johnson, 345 Ark. 476, 482 (2001).

"In short, to demonstrate foreseeability, the harm must be 'within the range of probability as viewed by the ordinary man,' and must, therefore, be more than 'merely possible.'" Ethyl Corp. v. Johnson, 345 Ark. 476, 482 (2001) citing Larcson Machine, Inc. v. Wallace, 268 Ark. 192, 208 (1980). "It is a matter of ordinary observation that frequently there is some danger attendant upon the most common and ordinary transactions, but the care required is only to provide against such dangers as ought to be foreseen in the light of the attendant circumstances, and the ideal "prudent person" will therefore not neglect what he can foresee as probable nor divert his attention to the anticipation of events barely possible, but will order his conduct by the measure of what appears likely in the ordinary course of events." Ethyl Corp. V. Johnson, 345 Ark. 476, 482 (2001) citing St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Ward, 197 Ark. 520 (1939) (italics original)

In Arkansas, "[t]he duty owed is not without bounds; rather, it is limited to the risk of harm that is reasonably foreseeable." Ethyl Corp. V. Johnson, 345 Ark. 476, 482 (2001) The concept of risk is thus an aspect of foreseeability. The Court explained:

> Courts are likely to use the term "foreseeable" to mean that harm was not only foreseeable but also too likely to occur to justify risking it without added precautions…. Along the same lines, when courts say that harm is unforeseeable, they may mean that although harm was actually foreseeable on the facts of the case, a reasonable person would not have taken action to prevent it because the risk of harm was low, and harm was so improbable that a reasonable person would not have taken safety precautions. [Footnote omitted.]

Ethyl Corp. V. Johnson, 345 Ark. 476, 482-483 (2001)

Significantly, the Arkansas Supreme Court has "made it clear in Arkansas that the failure to guard against an occurrence that is not reasonable to anticipate is not negligence. Browning

v. Browning, 319 Ark. 205, 209 (1995) citing Benson v. Shuler Drilling Co., 316 Ark. 101 (1994). (emphasis added).

Based on the established facts of this case and applying the applicable law stated above, it was not foreseeable that David Cains would vomit, choke and die during his behavioral episode. Moreover, neither the restraint, struggle, [redacted] was the proximate cause of Mr. Cains' death.

Tragically, Mr. Cains became agitated in the lunchroom and was the removed to the bathroom and to the lobby to calm down. Then, from a seated position, Mr. Cains suddenly jumped after and charged Mr. Matteson with sufficient momentum and force as to cause them both to topple to the floor. As Mr. Matteson described it, he was standing about 6-7 feet away when David Cains charged him, he "was running after me" and grabbed me." Mattson depo. p. 101. He then testified:

> Q: And then what – what did you do?
> A: I tried to hold him and we kind of just fell.
> Q: How did you try to hold him? Stand up and show us, please.
> Like, I was – like, I just kind of grabbed him by the shoulders the best as I could , you know, with him – momentum –
> Q: Yeah.
> A: -- and we just kind of stumbled over, you know.
> * * *
> A: Like we tripped. Like – like, we just kind of fumbled around. Because it was, like, all in one big momentum, you know

Mattson depo. 102-103. He further explained "He [Mr. Cains] fell and I kind of went with him, as far as I can recall." Mattson depo. 105.

Unfortunately, Mr. Cains behavior continued while on the floor and emergency restraints for safety were employed as Mr. Cains had not yet calmed down. As Dr. Brown-Forestiere characterized it, there was a struggle. Brown-Forestiere depo. p. 14. Dr. Brown-Forestier testified that Mr. Cains, while restrained on his left side, vomited and choked. Brown-Forestiere depo. p. 56, 61-62. Although she believed that the ensuing struggle with Mr. Mattson caused Mr. Cains to choke (Brown-Forestiere depo. p. 14), when pressed to explain further, she was unable to medically (or factually) support her opinion.. Dr. Brown-Forestiere admitted her opinion that Mr. Cains vomited due to the struggle was only her assumption that the struggle was so intense it made Mr. Cains vomit. Dr. Brown-Forestiere testified: "I - - I would assume that it was an intense struggle. But, no, of course, I have not way of knowing exactly how intense it was." She further stated:

Brown-Forestiere depo. p. 72.

Although Dr. LeBel also testified as to her opinion of the cause of the vomiting. Dr. LeBel is has the title of "doctor" only because she has a Ph.D in psychology; not because she is a medical doctor or a physician of any type. She testified she had no medical training to determine the cause of death:

Q: Tell me, do you have any medical training to determine the cause of death?
A: No.
Q: Have you previously been allowed to testify by any court of law to opine on an individual's cause of death?
A: No.
Q: Have you previously been allowed by any court to opine on factors, whether directly or indirectly, contributing to a cause of death?
A: No.

Lebel depo. p. 84. [7] Despite her admission, she claimed:

> Q: So, are you saying to a reasonable degree of medical certainty, in your medical opinion, that the restraint caused Mr. Cains to vomit and choke? Is that what you're saying?
> A: Yes.

Based on her own testimony noted above, Dr. LeBel concedes she is not medically trained to determine a cause of death and has never been qualified by any court to do so. She is not even a physician. Consequently, her "medical" opinion as to the cause of Mr. Cains' vomiting is mere speculation and conjecture.

Dr. Kastner, who is a board certified physician, stated in his opinion, that Dr. LeBel's achievement of a Ph.D. would not qualify her to offer an opinion about causality, medical care, medical practice, or anything related to the practice of medicine. Kastner depo. p. 48

Clearly established in Mr. Cains' 2019 IPP pp. 9-10 (DHS Ex. 10), by the deposition testimony of Jennifer Berry, and reflected in Dr. Kastner's Reports and deposition testimony, Mr. Cains had aggressive behaviors, that periodically required the employment of emergency restraints

---

[7] Significantly, Dr. LeBel does not even claim to be an expert in restrain use. Instead, she states her expertise is in restraint prevention.

> Q: But the question is do you profess, or do you claim to be an expert in restraint policy?
> A: I don't know what the qualifications would be for being an expert in restraint policy. She stated she has expertise in the reduction and prevention of restraints.

Lebel depo. p. 87

for safety by BHDC staff. Dozens of examples of Mr. Cains; aggression and destructive behaviors were introduced in the 2019 and 2020 behavior reports discussed by Jennifer Berry in her deposition testimony. See DHS Exhibits 11A, 11B, 11C. These reports include, among other behaviors, hitting his mother (Mrs. Robinson) and calling her vulgar names (DHS Ex. 11A), repeatedly throwing fire extinguishers at staff, throwing glass, breaking glass, hitting staff, destroying property, and ripping a thermostat off the wall, to name a few. See DHS Ex. 11B, 11C for the dozens of incidents in just 2019 and 2020 alone.

Dr. Kastner opined, to a reasonable degree of medical certainty, that the cause of Mr. Cains' vomiting was [redacted]. See Dr. Kastner Report dated January 5, 2023 - DHS Ex. 2A, pp. 9, 20. Dr. Kastner explained that Mr. Cains had previously been restrained over a hundred times and had not previously choked on his vomit and died. He further noted that Mr. Cains was [redacted] Kastner depo. pp. 54-55. He testified there is no evidence that David Cains ever vomited [redacted]. Kastner depo. p. 50-52. He explained there was no evidence of any complaints from Mr. Cains [redacted]. Kastner depo. p. 52. [redacted]

This is consistent with both Claimant's deposition testimony, noted herein, that Mr. Cains, on occasion, would [redacted]

[redacted]

McAuliffe depo. page 29, line 21 to page 30, line 3.

Based on this testimony, it was not foreseeable that Mr. Canis would vomit during an emergency restraint for safety, choke, and die. Moreover, Claimant's evidence on the cause of the vomiting, [redacted] the struggle, or the restraint, is premised on assumption and speculation by Dr. Brown-Forestiere and the unqualified opinion of a clinical psychologist who openly admits she has no medical training to determine the cause of death or any of the factors, directly or indirectly, causing death. Moreover, Dr. Brown-Forestiere testified " I was not able to rule out whether he had an upset stomach or not." Brown-Foresteier depo. p. 74.

> Q: In your review of the records, was there any reports of David Cains having a history of vomiting?
> A: Yes, there were. In particular, [redacted] Kastner Depo. p 52 lines 17-21

For these reasons alone, and those articulated by Dr. Kasnter in his deposition testimony and his Reports (DHS Ex. 2A and 2B) and Dr. Hamid's testimony, Claimant has failed to prove the elements of negligence by the BHDC. It simply was not foreseeable that Mr. Cains would vomit and choke during an authorized restraint for safety.

BHDC staff conduct restraining Mr. Cains did not give rise to an appreciable risk of choking on vomit as, per the evidence, he has been restained dozens or more times for his aggression without choking or dying. As stated earlier, in Arkansas, "[c]onduct becomes negligent only as it gives rise to appreciable risk of injury to others, and there is no negligence in not guarding against a danger which there is no reason to anticipate." Ethyl Corp. v. Johnson, 345 Ark. 476, 481 (2001). "In other words, "negligence cannot be predicated on a failure to anticipate the unforeseen." Id. citing Keck v. American Employment Agency, Inc., 279 Ark. 294, 299 (1983). If risks of harm cannot be foreseen by a reasonably prudent and intelligent man, the risk is not unreasonable, hence there is no negligence, consequently, no liability." North Little Rock Transp. Co. v. Finkbeiner, 243 Ark. 596, 602 (1967). "Arkansas law has long since recognized that there is no duty to guard against merely possible, as opposed to likely or probable harm." Ethyl Corp. V. Johnson, 345 Ark. 476, 482 (2001).

"A plaintiff cannot rely on inference based on conjecture to establish a claim of negligence and the mere fact that an accident occurred is not evidence of negligence*." Sammons v. Seeco*, 2012 Ark. App. 650, *5, citing Nichols v. Int'l Paper Co., 278 Ark. 226 (1983) (emphasis added). In Sammons, the Court articulated further stating "In other words, negligence is not imposed in the absence of proof" and "conjecture and speculation, however plausible, cannot be permitted to supply the place of proof. Id. The Court made it clear that, in Arkansas, "the fact that an accident occurred with nothing more is not evidence of negligence. Id.

It is certainly unfortunate that Mr. Cains choked on vomit during an emergency restraint where that all attempts to clear his airway were unsuccessful. Mr. Cains choking was not a foreseeable event and, per both Dr. Hamid and Dr. Kastner, was not the [redacted]. As Dr. Kastner opined (DHS Ex. 2A, 2B), Mr. Cains vomited due to [redacted], which is consistent with the testimony of Claimant that Mr. Cains vomited when he became anxious, but not often.

Moreover, the standard of whether to employ emergency restraints is determined not by what Dr. LeBel would do or what Dr. Brown-Forestier would do in her emergency room but, instead, by what an ordinary man would do under the circumstances faced by Tyler Matteson. As cited above, in Arkansas in order "to demonstrate foreseeability, the harm must be 'within the range of probability as viewed by the ordinary man. Ethyl Corp. v. Johnson, 345 Ark. 476, 482 (2001). Mr. Matteson did what he thought needed to be done when faced with an emergency situation and the struggle described by Dr. Brown-Forestiere. Two investigations – the BHDC internal investigation and the OLTC survey – cleared Mr. Mattson (and BHDC) of any deficiencies as a result of the incident. As Mr. Mattson explained ""[w]e were using what I thought was our best judgment." Mattson depo. pp. 116-117.

Consequently, under Arkansas, the tragic events on June 13, 2020 were not foreseeable and were not the proximate cause of Mr. Cains' death. As a result, BHDC was not negligent.

Confidentiality of Pending Maltreatment Investigations

At various times throughout the litigation, Claimant complained that BHDC did not inform the family of any pending maltreatment investigation conducted as a result of Mr. Cains' death for approximately a week or more. Mrs. Robinson testified that she received a letter from BHDC that enclosed a "Final Synopsis" of the incident from which she first "learned that there was a maltreatment [investigation] of some sort." Robinson depo. pp. 82-84. She stated that prior to receiving this letter she had not been informed there was a maltreatment investigation conducted by the facility. Robinson depo. p. 85. She testified she received this letter on, by mail, on June 22, 2020 or June 23, 2020, a few days after Mr. Cains' funeral. See Robinson depo. p. 85.

In Arkansas, pending maltreatment investigations are "confidential." Ark. Code Ann. §12-12-1718. Even Mrs. Robinson acknowledged that an investigation is an inquiry which would take time to determine:

> Q: So, investigations take a little bit of time, don't they?
> A: Normally, yes.
> Q: So, it wouldn't be unusual, in your mind, would it, for something, an event to happen, whatever it is, and the investigation to be conducted once it happened would several days, or even sometimes longer?
> A: It could take a while, yes.
> Q: Okay. So that wouldn't be unusual?
> A: No.
> Robinson depo. 93-94.

Although the family complains that the maltreatment results were received after Mr. Cains' funeral and, thus, they were unable to order an autopsy, Arkansas law provides otherwise. In Arkansas, a mother, guardian, or next of kin who assume custody of the body may consent to an autopsy. Ark. Code Ann. §20-17-302. Thus, the family always had the authority to consent to an autopsy of Mr. Cains.

Moreover, the lack of an autopsy was not the proximate cause of Mr. Cains' death and has no relevance to this action. Even Dr. Brown-Forestiere, Claimant's own medical expert, testified that Mr. Cains died of [redacted]. See Brown-Forestiere depo. p. 12. It is unclear what other information an autopsy would need to provide.

Claimant also complained that the use of the restraint during Mr. Cains' behavioral episode was not communicated to EMT Scow. EMT Scow testified that in his experience, they aren't always given the most accurate information. Scow depo. p. 36. He explained that "[r]adio reports aren't always reliable whether it's from a skilled professional at a nursing home or this facility or someone's cousin who found grandma." Id. Mr. Scow testified if it's a hectic environment, he takes what information he can get and he tries to get the clearest picture. Id.

Although EMT Scow was initially unsure with who he spoke at the scene, he later verified he spoke with the nurses. See Scow depo. p. 40. The nurses, however, arrived after Mr. Cains choked and stopped breathing. In their BHDC emergency response, the nurses were not aware of the behavior episode or emergency restraint needed. Nurse Deborah Noah testified the call for assistance came in stating a resident was not breathing and did not state what happened. (Noah depo. 15-16). Nurse Amanda Schmitt, who was with Nurse Noah when the call came in, testified she immediately responded when told a resident was choking and not breathing (Schmitt depo. pp. 38, 40). Whichever nurse Mr. Scow spoke with during the emergency could only relate what she knew and what she observed.

Significantly, EMT Scow testified that whatever happened to Mr. Cains before he went into asystole doesn't change the outcome for Mr. Scow. Scow depo. pp. 42-43. Instead, he explained:

> A: And the knowledge just helps me to pass that on or paint a picture when I go to the hospital. And for my narrative.
> But, otherwise, like if he was restrained, that all has an issue with what led up to the problem and I'm dealing with what's after the problem. The problem after, so it just paints a picture.

Scow depo. pp. 42-43. As succinctly put by EMT Scow above, that information would not have made a difference to him even if he had spoken to staff with that information instead of the nurses.

Again, the fact that EMT Scow spoke with the nurses who were unaware of the prior restraint and not with the aides involved in the behavioral episode, was not the cause of Mr.Cains' death and, thus, not a relevant fact. Knowing that information was, per EMT Scow, not something that would have changed what he would have done.

Significantly, even counsel for claimant acknowledged this point is irrelevant to the case, stating, during the deposition of Dr. Hamid:

> Mr. Gillespie: I'll represent to you that the paramedic who responded to the scene claims that he was given faulty information, specifically says that I think a female nurse told him that David had choked on his food while eating his food and omitted the part about the ground restraint. Frankly, I don't really care about that part. It's not important to my case.

Hamid depo. p. 32.

BHDC Met And Exceeded All Direct Care Staffing Requirements

It is anticipated that Claimant may argue to the Commission that the BHDC was somehow "short staffed" because several aides testified, in response to Counsel's leading questions, that they were "short staffed." Such, however, was not the case. BHDC met and exceeded all federal staffing level regulations for ICF/IDD in June, 2020.

As explained by Jennifer Berry, BHDC staffing levels are regulated by the ICF/IID regulations found in the CMS State Operations Manual, Appendix J, in Section W187, which was Exhibit 10 to her deposition. See Berry depo. pp. 90-91.

Ms. Berry the identified DHS Exhibits 9A and 9B (identified at her deposition as Ex. 11 and 12) which, she explained reflect the actual staffing levels both in Davidson House (where Mr. Cains resided) and facility-wide for the period of June 1, 2020 through June 13, 2020. She further testified:

> Q: And so, at any time in June of 2020 did the Boonville Human Development Center fall below the staffing levels required by the State of Arkansas

A: We did not.

* * *

Q: And so, at that point in time, in that location did DHS --- or any location, did Booneville Human Development Center fall below the state required minimum staffing levels?

A: We did not.

See Berry depo. p.92-93.

As explained, DHS Exhibits 9A and 9B are broken down by shift because the regulations direct different staffing levels for different shifts. On June 13, 2020, the required ratios for the midnight to 8:00 a.m. shift was one staff per 16 residents. The daily census that day was 123 residents and BHDC had 25 direct care staff present for the overnight shift. That ratio exceeded the staffing levels required. Berry depo. p. 94.

Significantly, during the 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on June 13, 2020, BHDC had 29 direct care staff for 123 residents. The requirement was one staff per eight residents and, for the shift on which Mr. Cains died, BHDC had a staff to client ratio of approximately one direct care staff for every 4.2 residents, which far exceeds the staffing levels required that day.

Q: So, you were over the limit?
A: We were.
Q: So you did not have any --- you did not fall short – you were not short staffed that day?
A: We were not.

Berry depo. p. 95. Ms. Berry further explained that for June 1-13, 2020, facility-wide, BHDC did not fall below the minimum staffing levels for any shift during that time period. Id.

The difference between DHS Ex 9A and 9B, is that Exhibit 9B is specific to Davison House whereas Exhibit 9A is facility-wide levels.[8] Berry depo. 97. Davison House is where David Cains lived.

> Q: So, what were the staffing levels – what was the census of that house that day on June 13th, 2020?
> A: The census was – we only—well, for the 12:00 to 8:00 [a.m.] shift for Davidson House Blue, if we are looking at that specifically, that was the area that David lived in, was we had ten clients in that area, we had two staff, so we were more than covered under the ratio from one [staff] to 16 [residents].
> Q: So, just so I understand, you say one to 16. So, that's one staff per 16 individuals?
> A; Correct.
> Q: And you had ten [residents]"
> A: We had ten [residents], and we had two staff per 10.
> Q: So, the, you had well more than –
> A: Yes. We were one to five actually.

Berry depo pp. 97-98.

Consequently, any claim or argument that Claimant may be now assert suggesting that short-staffed is factually untrue and is contrary to the evidence.

The Purported Disability Rights Arkansas "Investigation"

Finally, it is anticipated that Claimant may introduce the deposition testimony of Kris Stewart, who is employed by an "advocacy" organization called Disability Rights Arkansas ("DRA"). Ms. Stewart, who testified she holds no licenses or certifications issued by any federal agency or State of Arkansas board, commission, or agency, and who admitted she only reportable to her own employer, testified she "investigated" the BHDC after Mr. Cains' death. Stewart depo.

[8] Ms. Berry identified DHS Exhibit 12 which are the staffing levels for Davidson House from June 1, 2020 - June 13, 2020. Although the top of the document states 2022, that is a typo. She stated these are the staffing levels for 2020. Ms. Berry prepared this document.

p. 6, 10. However, she admitted she never even went to BHDC to investigate. Stewart depo. p. 18. She also admitted she was unsure whether the state ICF/IID regulatory agency [OLTC] even investigated. Stewart depo. p. 18. She was wrong; they did. See DHS Exhibits 5A, 5B, 5C – The OLTC survey Form 2567 and Survey Investigation Report.[9]

Ms. Stewart admitted she never went to medical school and has no training in determining cause of death. Stewart depo. p. 85. Apparently, Ms. Stewart's lack of training did not prevent her from expressing an opinion of cause of death, which she determined, was the "likely" cause of death. Stewart depo. pp. 84-85. She defined likely to mean "probably" but conceded her opinion was not made to a reasonable degree of medical certainty, as she is not a medical doctor. Stewart depo. p. 84-85. She admitted her "report" did not even reference Mr. Cains' IPP and her investigation involved her "hunches." Stewart depo. pp. 94, 98. Significantly, she testified that she previously worked in HDC is other states which also used restraints for safety. Stewart depo. p. 101. Ms. Stewart agreed that sometimes restraints are necessary in ICF/IIDs. Stewart depo p. 103.

Ms. Stewart's lack of qualifications, lack of training, and lack of state or federal certification to conduct an investigation, coupled with her admission that she is only answerable to her employer negates any validity of the report and places it firmly in the category of speculation and conjecture attributed to any other lay person purporting to investigate and opine on a cause of death, particularly when based, in whole or in part, on "hunches."

[9] The OLTC survey investigation was conducted by Dian Elliott who, unlike Ms. Stewart, was federally certified ICF/IID investigator with years of experience. Ms. Stewart later changed her testimony and conceded there actually was an OLTC report but that she "found it lacking." Stewart depo. p. 21.

CONCLUSION

For the reasons stated above and those summarized in the DHS deposition summaries, neither the Boonville Human Development Center nor its care team staff were negligent in its actions toward Mr. Cains on June 13, 2020. Although the outcome was tragic, it was unavoidable because neither the BHDC care team, the medical team nor the Logan County EMS were able to clear Mr. Cains' airway in time to save his life. It took the Logan County EMS 13 minutes to arrive after placement of the 9-1-1 call, then another 9 minutes to even partially clear Mr. Cains' airway. Although Claimant's initial narrative believed there was an 8 minute delay in calling 9-1-1, the actual facts proved that narrative to be incorrect and, by all accounts, was based on time estimates made during an emergency situation in a lobby with no clocks. The facts established that the BHDC nurse team arrived 2 minutes after it was noticed that Mr. Cains had choked, stopped breathing, and was unresponsive, and the 9-1-l call was made immediately upon the nurses' arrival on the scene.

As EMS recorded the call at 11:37 a.m., two minutes prior to that recorded time would place the actual time that Mr. Cains stopped beathing and the call to the BHDC nurse team at 11:35 a.m. give or take one minute. Emergency efforts - [redacted] – were immediately by the direct care team and continued by the nurse team and then, by the EMT.

As opined by Dr. Brown-Forestiere, Claimant's own medical expert "Without any intervention, someone who suffocates will likely die within five minutes." Dr. Brown-Forestiere acknowledged that "It did take the paramedics 13 minutes to get there."

Although Dr. LeBel, Claimant's "restraint prevention expert," who holds a Ph.D. in psychology and is not a medical doctor, confirmed that it is the Code of Federal Regulations and the CMS State Operations Manual – Appendix J that sets the standard of care for restraint use in ICF/IIDs, such as the BHDC. Federal regulations expressly authorize emergency restraints as a modality for use in ICF/IIDs in situations where the client is exhibiting behaviors which, among other things, are harming other people or themselves.

Dr. LeBel's references and insinuations about United Nations and World Health Organization standards for restraint use are inapplicable in the United States, a fact which she later admitted in her deposition. Although Dr. Lebel claimed to be the Massachusetts interagency lead on restraint prevention, she admitted that even in Massachusetts, her home state, state-run Human Development Centers use restraints in its facilities. Lebel depo. pp. 119-120.

Standing in contrast to the factually speculative opinions of Dr. Brown-Forestiere and the opinions of Janice LeBel, Ph.D. on "restraint prevention," which are not even followed in her home state of Massachusetts, is Dr. Kastner who provided this Commission with extensive medically justified and factually supported opinions on the restraint used, the applicable federal and state standards of care for restraint use, the cause of Mr. Cains' vomiting, and Mr. Cains' life expectancy. See Dr. Kastner opinions, made to a reasonable degree of medical certainty – DHS Exhibits 2A, 2B, as well as his extensive C.V. (DHS Ex. 1)

Consequently, the Claimant's complaint asserting that that the Arkansas Department of Human Services and the Booneville Human Development Center were negligent, should be denied and dismissed, and the State be discharged from all liability thereon.

Respectfully Submitted,
Arkansas Department of Human Services

Professional Background:

I began work in the field of Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities (IDD) in 1976 when I was employed as a direct service professional (DSP) by the Massachusetts Association for the Blind. I graduated from Colgate University in 1977 and from the University of Connecticut School of Medicine in 1981. I completed my residency in Pediatrics in 1984 at the Jacobi Hospital. I completed my training in the care of children and adults with developmental disabilities and handicapping conditions at the Rose F. Kennedy Center of the Albert Einstein College of Medicine in 1986. In addition, in 1997 I received a Master of Science in population health from the University of Wisconsin.

I am triple-boarded in Pediatrics, Developmental Behavioral Pediatrics and Neurodevelopmental Disabilities. I also hold Board Certification from the American Board of Medical Management. Until 2019, I held an appointment at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine where I was Professor of Pediatrics and Professor of Psychiatry. I also held the Ruth L. Gottesman Chair in Developmental Medicine. My primary responsibilities involved my role as Co-Director of the Rose F. Kennedy Center at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine where he was the Principal Investigator on four federally-funded training programs and half a dozen state and local contracts.

In 2019 I left academia to serve as the Commissioner NYS Office for Persons With Developmental Disabilities where I lead an organization with a budget of $10B and 19,000 employees serving 140,000 individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities (I/DD). I led the NYS response to COVID-19 in support of persons with I/DD.

I am a leading authority on the health care concerns of people with I/DD. For more than 25 years I served as the President of Developmental Disabilities Health Alliance, Inc.

(DDHA), at one time the largest provider of health care services to persons with I/DD in New Jersey. DDHA is nationally recognized for its health care programs for persons with I/DD having received an award a CMS Health Care Innovations Challenge Award. We served approximately 4,000 people with IDD at 9 locations across New Jersey and New York City.

I have been a member of many professional groups in the field of developmental disabilities including the National Board of Directors of the American Association on Mental Retardation (AAMR), the New Jersey State Interagency Coordinating Council (SICC), and the NJ Department of Human Services Medicaid Managed Care Task Force. I have been a recipient of more than a dozen awards and honors including the Health Care Professional of the Year Award by the New Jersey Association for Retarded Citizens (now The Arc) and the Elizabeth M. Boggs Citizenship Award from the United Cerebral Palsy Associations of New Jersey.

I have presented at over 200 conferences and training workshops and authored more than 100 publications in the field, of which approximately 70 were peer-reviewed. I have served as a consultant to the US Department of Justice, The Province of Ontario, and dozens of States in regard to various matters related to IDD including the operation of more than 50 ICF IDDs. I have consulted in general and medical malpractice matters. I have consulted to private corporations and foundations.

I have been admitted as an expert witness in approximately 10 Federal District Courts. I have been qualified as an expert witness in dozens of cases and testified in regard to all matters related to the IDD field including: the clinical management of health, behavioral and psychiatric conditions; organizational management and compliance; cause of death, life expectancy, and economic damages: standards of care including federal, state and professional standards; and other topics.

I have been retained by the State of Arkansas Department of Human Services to serve as an expert witness in the above-referenced matter. I will testify about the applicable standards of care, the medical management of Mr. Cains, the behavioral management of Mr. Cains, the timelines and other facts related to his demise, the cause of death, life expectancy, damages and whatever other topics are relevant to the matter. I will base my opinions upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty.

Standard for Opinions:

Throughout this report I will use the standard, "based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty," to express my opinions. This report does not contain every opinion which I may offer during testimony. I reserve the right to amend this report and my opinions based upon any information that I subsequently acquire or any other issue.

Background and History

[redacted]

According to the Social History:

[redacted]

Further,

[redacted]

[redacted]

Mr. Cains' guardian, his mother Charlene Robinson, had been very pleased with the care provided at BHDC. Ms. Robinson was offered the option of community services and continued to want HDC placement for David. She was opposed to Community Placement.

[redacted]

[redacted]

[redacted]. He was extremely difficult to manage from a behavioral perspective. Between 4/6/2007 and 5/29/2020, Mr. Cains engaged in 187 aggressive incidents, usually in the form of aggressive behavior towards staff. Staff were well aware of this risk and generally took precautions to protect themselves, Mr. Cains and other individuals. Staff responded to these 187 incidents with personal or mechanical restraints in 120 instances. This included Mr. Cains being restrained on a Papoose Board on 77 occasions or being placed in personal holds on 43 occasions. In 67 instances staff were able to use procedures other than restraint including counseling, redirection, graduated guidance or other techniques. There was one episode of vomiting associated with use of personal holds on 5/11/2012. However, medical staff determined that neither this event nor the order to remain upright after meals became a contraindication against the use of restraints, including their use after meals.

[redacted]

On June 13, 2020, Mr. Cains experience some type of [redacted] and was taken to the rest room. Upon exiting the rest room Mr. Cains became agitated and aggressive. After pulling papers off of the wall, he turned his attention to his staff, Tyler Mattson. He charged Mr. Mattson, attacking him with his hands.

Q. And then you said he --- he came after you?
A. Yes. He charged me.
Q. Charged you.
A. Yes
Q. Okay. Does --- describe that for me as best you
A. He just went to grab me. I mean
Q. How far away from him were you?
A. Maybe from here to that pole. Maybe a little bit shorter.
Q. This pole?
A. Yeah, about there. Maybe to the chair.
Q. My chair?
A. Between there.
Q. Okay.
A. Yeah.
Q. So about 6, 7 feet?
A. Maybe.
Q. Okay. And when you say "charge, " was he running at you?
A. Lunging, running. Yeah, just --- he went after me. He didn't really have room to necessarily run.
(Mattson Deposition, Pages 101-103)

Mr. Cains' large mass and speed combined to led both Mr. Cains and Mr. Mattson to fall to the floor.

Q. How did he fall? What caused him --
A. We
Q. to fall?
A. We just kind of tripped up on each other. It was all one big motion, like I had said.
Q. Okay. And why did you not attempt to do the blocking technique where you block and kind of get out of his way?
A. I wouldn't have had room. I was against a ledge.
Q. You were against a ledge?
A. Yes.
Q. Why would a ledge prevent you from being able to do like this?
A. Because I would have fell over be- if he had put enough momentum into me.

O. Okay. So you guys fall- over.
(Mattson Deposition, Pages 105)

At that time, Mr. Mattson, consistent with BDSC policy, employed personal holds to address "dangerous behavior" in an "emergency situation." A short-time later he was assisted by two staff. Mr. Cains was lying on his side while staff held his wrists and legs to prevent injury to themselves, Mr. Cains or other individuals.

The exact timelines of what occurred are not known since there was no clock in the location where Mr. Cains fell. According to Disability Rights Arkansas, "All times are estimates as there are not any clocks visible in the area..." (DRA October 2020 Page 2)

Findings and Expert Opinions

The following is a list of the opinions offered in this report. As noted, the opinions in this report are not considered exhaustive and I reserve the right to amend this report and my opinions based upon any information that I subsequently acquire.

1. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, Mr. Cains died [redacted] (Page 11)

2. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, Mr. Cains is entirely responsible for the fact that [redacted]. (Page 11)

3. [redacted] (Page 14)

4. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, the cause of Mr. Cains' vomiting on June 13, 2020 at approximately 11:30AM was not the use of restraints in [redacted] because there is no reasonable theory to support the claim that the use of restraints could lead to vomiting in general. (Page 15)

5. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, the cause of Mr. Cains' vomiting on June 13, 2020 at approximately 11:30AM was not the use of restraints in [redacted] because there is insufficient empirical evidence to support the claim that the use of restraints, [redacted] led to Mr. Cains vomiting on June 13, 2020. (Page 18)

6. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, the cause of Mr. Cains' vomiting on June 13, 2020 at approximately 11:30AM was [redacted]. (Page 20)

7a. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, Mr. Mattson and other BHDC staff met and/or exceeded the standard of care for a Residential Care Technician (RCT) staff when they applied personal holds to Mr. Cains. (Page 22)

7b. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, Mr. Mattson and other BHDC staff complied with all applicable BHDC policies and procedures when engaged in applying personal holds to Mr. Cains. (Page 22)

8. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, inconsistencies in the recording of the timing of the events was so frequent that all time notations, with the exception of when EMS was notified and the team dispatched, should be considered approximate. (Page 28)

9. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, BHDC staff met the standard of care for providing emergency medical services to Mr. Cains. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, there were no unreasonable delays in calling 911. (Page 33)

10. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, BHDC medical staff could not have effected [redacted]. (Page 35)

11. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, Mr. Cains would have died even if BHDC contacted EMS at the moment when Mr. Cains was noted to have stopped breathing. Any alleged delay in contacting EMS, even a delay associated with staff performing their assessment, was inconsequential. (Page 36)

12a. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, at all times, the BHDC operated within the standard of care for a publicly-funded ICF IDD. (Page 39)

12b Further, based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, at all times, the staff of BHDC provided care consistent with the standard of care for their training and scope of practice. (Page 39)

13. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, Mr. Cains was positioned appropriately – [redacted]. (Page 45)

14. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, Mr. Cains death was not accompanied by severe pain. (Page 50)

15. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, Mr. Cains had a life expectancy of only 6 more years. (Page 51)

Findings and Expert Opinions

1. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, Mr. Cains died [redacted].

2. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, Mr. Cains is entirely responsible for the fact that [redacted].

Mr. Cains was [redacted].

As the events were described by Mr. Mattson, it was Mr. Cain who initiated the process which led to both Mr. Mattson and Mr. Cains to fall onto the floor. Mr. Cains lunged and charged at Mr. Mattson. Given Mr. Cains' size, this assault caused Mr. Mattson to fall backward and Mr. Cains to land on top of or adjacent to him.

Mr. Mattson, the only eyewitness, describes the events as follows:

> O. Okay. What's he doing as he's sitting there?
> A. Just sitting. He was just sitting look- staring out.
> O. All right. And then what happens?
> A. He grabs a paper and goes after me.
> O. Where does he grab paper from?
> A. There was a flyer on the wall.
> O. Does he stand up to grab it?
> A. He grabbed it and then went after me. He was sitting down and then went after me to attack me.
> O. What --- what kind of paper was it? Just---
> A. It was just it was just a printout paper, just a flyer.
> O. What did he do with it after grabs it?
> A. He was throwing it and then went after me. He threw it down and then went after me.
> O. He threw it down and then went after you. Did he say anything?
> A. No. He just screamed "bitch."
> O. He screamed "bitch"?
> A. Yes. That I recall.
> O. Anything else that you recall him saying?
> A. No.
> O. And then you said he --- he came after you?

A. Yes. He charged me.
O. Charged you.
A. Yes
O. Okay. Does --- describe that for me as best you
A. He just went to grab me. I mean
O. How far away from him were you?
A. Maybe from here to that pole. Maybe a little bit shorter.
O. This pole?
A. Yeah, about there. Maybe to the chair.
O. My chair?
A. Between there.
O. Okay.
A. Yeah.
O. So about 6, 7 feet?
A. Maybe.
O. Okay. And when you say "charge, " was he running at you?
A. Lunging, running. Yeah, just --- he went after me. He didn't really have room to necessarily run.
O. Can you --- do you mind standing up and showing me?
A. I -- as best as I can. Like, he just --- it was like just a classic --- like, he went to grab at me.
O. Okay. Went to grab at you?
A. Yes.
O. So not swing at you but grab at you?
A. Grab at me.
But, like he had --- like --- like I said, that distressed face.
O. Okay.
A. Like he was agitated and --- yeah.
O. All right. And --- okay. And then what --- what did you do?
A. I tried to hold him and we kind of just fell.
O. How did you try to hold him? Stand up and show us, please.
A. Like, I was --- like, I just kind of grabbed him by the shoulders the best as I could, you know, with him -- momentum --
O. Yeah.
A. and we just kind of stumbled over, you know.
O. Okay. So he's coming at you arms raised like this?
A. It --- yeah.
O. Like this?

A. Outwards, yeah.
And I just kind of grabbed, like, here and here. I didn't, like, grab by the wrist. You know, but, like we kind of just awkwardly fell.
O. Did he get a --- did he get a grip around you?
A. No, he didn't get a grip around me.
O. Okay. Sorry.
A. No, that's all right.
O. This won't take long.
So he's coming at you. Show me and slowly so --- so I can really see it: What --- what do --- show me what you do as he's coming at he's lunging at you.
What do you do? What do your hands do? Where do they go?
A. I'm just like --- biceps, like, arms.
O. Okay. So you would have your --- your right hand on his left bicep and your left hand on his right bicep?
A. Yeah.
O. Pretty much?
A. Pretty much, yeah.
O. Okay. And --- and do you stay there locked like ---
A. No.
Like we tripped. Like --- like, we lust kind of fumbled around. Because it was, like, all in one biq momentum, you know.
O. Uh-huh. And you fall to the ground, and he hits his face on the ground?
A. No, he didn't hit his face on the ground.
It wasn't a fast f all. It was a controlled fall as much as I could control it. (Mattson Deposition Pages 100-103)

Mr. Mattson's description indicates that he attempted appropriate blocking technique (engaging the inside of the arms at the biceps) but was unable to prevent the fall as he was moving backwards. Mr. Cains landed with his front side towards the ground, indicating that it was Mr. Cains' momentum which carried them to the ground.

In reviewing his Written Statement, Mr. Mattson offered the same description:
O. And it says I -- and it says that you "Applied personals by grabbing his arms. He ended up falling over. I did not land on him. "
So that's a little different than what you're describing now. What you're kind of describing now is that he lunged at you, and you grabbed him by the biceps; and then the force caused you guys to tumble over.

That's what you're describing now, but that's different. than what you wrote here. So how -- I mean, how can you .?
A. He fell and I just kind of went with him, as far as I can recall.
O. How did he fall? What caused him --
A. We
O. to fall?
A. We just kind of tripped up on each other. It was all one big motion, like I had said.
O. Okay. And why did you not attempt to do the blocking technique where you block and kind of get out of his way?
A. I wouldn't have had room. I was against a ledge.
O. You were against a ledge?
A. Yes.
O. Why would a ledge prevent you from being able to do like this?
A. Because I would have fell over be- if he had put enough momentum into me. (Mattson Deposition, Pages 104-105)

Mr. Cains was fully responsible for aggressively moving toward Mr. Mattson and causing them both to land on the ground, an outcome which was [redacted] There is no evidence that Mr. Mattson initiated any action which would have led to a fall to the ground. The responsibility for violating the [redacted].

3. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, the cause of Mr. Cains' vomiting on June 13 at approximately 11:30AM was [redacted]

According to Dr. Brown-Forestiere, Mr. Cains was only "a little more at risk than normal." Therefore, Dr. Brown-Forestiere's testimony suggests that the primary reason for Mr. Cains vomiting on June 13, 2020 was the use of restraints.

4. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, the cause of Mr. Cains' vomiting on June 13, 2020 at approximately 11:30AM was not the use of restraints in [redacted] because there is no reasonable theory to support the claim that the use of restraints could lead to vomiting in general.

Dr. Brown-Forestiere offered a theory to support her allegation that restraint use caused Mr. Cains to vomit when he was restrained on June 13, 2020. As Dr. Brown-Forestiere explained it, with Mr. Cains in the prone position, pressure on the chest and abdomen would force stomach contents into the esophagus in the form of vomiting. This pressure would occur as a result of muscular contraction associated with a fight or flight reaction and from external pressure applied to the abdomen/chest. As she described it:

> Okay.
> And, Dr. Brown, are you also able to say within a reasonable degree of medical certainty what caused Mr. Cains to vomit?
> A Yeah. I -- I think that I can. So there's a lot of physics to this. I'll try -- I'll do my best to make it in easy to understand terms.
> So, when someone is struggling in this scenario that's been described by all the participants, someone who is struggling has what's called a fight or flight response, meaning they're -- have adrenaline surges and they are fight -- essentially fighting for their life.
> Their muscles constrict to fend off what they feel is an attack. They -- so their muscles constrict, their breathing increases, (interference) set of physiological (interference) leads to increased (interference) pressure which is the pressure in your chest.
> And it also constricts the abdomen which increases the intra-abdominal pressure. Both of these are cavities in the body where the stomach is.
> The inferior or superior aspect on top of the stomach is the diaphragm in the chest above that, and just below it, the abdomen. And increased pressure on both of these does place increased pressure on the stomach and from the sides.
> Obviously, there's a definitive end to the body and how far it can stretch. And also his left side being on the floor is another definitive mechanical block as to where it can expand.
> So, if you think of the stomach as a cube, it's having pressure from all different angles for -- because of the struggle and the position and the increased pressures. And it caused him to vomit.

[redacted]

So the struggle with being restrained on the floor definitely led to him fighting that. And there's pressure coming from multiple different reasons, regions, and it caused vomiting.

Q Okay. So if I'm hearing you correctly, Dr. Brown, and in my very nonmedical layman's terms, intense struggle that produces a fight or flight reflex and adrenaline can, is itself, increases the likelihood of triggering vomiting; is that correct?

A In this scenario, it would, yes, due to gravity.

Q And being on his left side increased the likelihood that the pressure, intrathoracic pressure and gravity, would --

A Yeah.

Q -- trigger vomiting?

A Yeah. Unfortunately, the stomach -- and the stomach's on the left. So it means everything in the body and all the pressures above him were pressing down onto the stomach; which was butting up against the ground, essentially.

Q Okay.

And the fact that he had -- if I'm hearing you correctly [redacted]

(Brown-Forestiere Deposition Pages 12-15)

Dr. Brown's theory relies upon several claims for which supporting facts do not exist.

First, Dr. Brown-Forestiere claimed that Mr. Cains experienced a "fight or flight reaction" because he believed that he was "essentially fighting for (their) life" when he was placed in restraints.

> Q And so what -- how do you know or do you -- did you form an opinion on the intensity of this, quote/unquote, struggle, unquote?
> A I mean, form an opinion, I don't know if it's a direct opinion or just a typical instinctual reaction. Your body instinctually fights as hard as it possibly can to survive when it feels that it may be dying. Regardless of your mental state, your body fights, so --
> Q Are you --
> A -- I would assume that it would be a very intense struggle, given your death being the alternative.
> (Brown-Forestiere Deposition Page 66)

However, there is no reason to suggest that Mr. Cains would have thought that he would die as a result of being restrained. Mr. Cains had been restrained approximately 120 times during a 13-year period and had learned that if he was able to calm himself, he would be released from restraints. Indeed, in every one of the 120 instances when restraints were previously used, he was removed from restraints without harm. Mr. Cains had no reason to fear that anything different would occur on June 13, 2020.

Second, Dr. Brown-Forestiere later admitted that she did not know when during the course of a restraint, Mr. Cains would have experienced such a fight or flight reaction or whether he would have experienced such a reaction at all:

> Well, I mean, so when the -- when the restraint started, there was a behavioral episode. Was he fighting for his life then?
> A What he thought was a fight for his life and when it came down to that, I can't say.
> (Brown-Forestiere Deposition Page 75-76)

The "fight or flight" reaction, if it occurred at all, could have occurred after the restraint were removed.

Third, Dr. Brown-Forestiere alleged that:

> "pressures above him were pressing down onto the stomach; which was butting up against the ground, essentially."

However, staff statements indicate that they exerted no pressure on the abdomen or chest during the period of restraint prior to the onset of vomiting. They restrained his arms and legs. They did not employ holds that put pressure on the body. Dr. Brown-Forestiere later admitted to this fact during her testimony:

> Q And so they were just -- if they were holding his arms and his feet, what -- is it your opinion that somebody was on top of him?
> A I -- no. I didn't say that either.
> Q So he wasn't pinned to the floor --
> A I believe that --
> Q -- (inaudible)?
> A -- Tyler had his hand on his waist holding him on the ground. He said he was holding him there but did not place his weight on him.
> (Brown-Forestiere Deposition Page 77)

5. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, the cause of Mr. Cains' vomiting on June 13, 2020 at approximately 11:30AM was not the use of restraints in [redacted]

In explaining her theory, Dr. Brown-Forestiere opined that the struggle associated with being placed in restraints "often induces vomiting."

> Q Okay.
> A The only thing I can rule in is that a struggle often induces vomiting.
> Q Okay. You don't know how intense the struggle here was?
> A If you're fighting for your life, I think it's without question that it's going to be --
> Q Well --
> A -- an intense fight.
> (Brown-Forestiere Deposition, Page 75)

Her use of the word "often" implies causality - when one thing occurs, a second "often" follows. However, the evidence does not support her opinion that being placed in restraints "often" induces vomiting.

I reviewed the 515-page document titled, "Cains David Behavior Reports for PA VA 04062007-05292020." The document includes notes describing 193 sperate instances over 13 years, between 4/6/2007 and 5/29/2020, when Mr. Cains presented with challenging behavior. The materials document 187 aggressive incidents, usually in the form of aggressive behavior towards staff.

Clearly, Mr. Cains was extremely difficult to manage from a behavioral perspective. Staff were well aware of this risk and generally took precautions to protect themselves, Mr. Cains and other individuals. Staff responded to these 187 incidents with personal or mechanical restraints in 120 instances. This included Mr. Cains being restrained on a Papoose Board on 77 occasions or being placed in personal holds on 43 occasions. In 67 instances staff were able to use procedures other than restraint including counseling, redirection, graduated guidance or other techniques. There was one episode of vomiting associated with use of personal holds on 5/11/2012.

The occurrence of one instance of vomiting during 120 episodes of mechanical restraint is insufficient to demonstrate causality between restraint use and vomiting. Even if the incident of 6/13/2020 was included, 2 episodes of vomiting occurring in 121 incidents of restraint use is far fewer than the number that would be needed to demonstrate causality. As Dr. Brown-Forestiere implies, proof of causality suggests the expectation of vomiting occurring "often" when restraints are used.

Vomiting did not occur in 119 of the 121 incidents of restraint use. In other words, if restraints caused Mr. Cains to vomit, why is it that 98% of restraint use was not accompanied by vomiting? The answer to that question is that restraints did not cause Mr. Cains to vomit.

Further, if Dr. Brown-Forestiere's theory were correct, forms of restraint associated with high body pressures should be associated with higher rates of vomiting. The pressures applied to the chest and abdomen during the use of a full-body restraint, such as a Papoose Board, are much greater than those that are generated by personal holds. Based upon Dr. Brown-Forestiere's theory, the use of a Papoose Board should be associated with rates of vomiting that are higher than the rates of vomiting observed when using low pressure restraints such as personal holds.

The attached picture is a Papoose Board currently in use by Arkansas DHS. You will see that the individual is placed on the Board and that he/she is then wrapped with three bands of fabric which cover the lower extremities, the torso, and the head. There are 15 separate Velcro straps which are used to attach the bands of fabric together, creating a snug fit and pressure across the entire body.

Dr. Brown-Forestiere's theory predicts that vomiting should be more common when using a Papoose Board in comparison to low-pressure physical holds of the extremities.

However, the evidence does not support her theory. At no time, during 77 instances in which the Papoose Board was used, did Mr. Cains vomit. In spite of the fact that the intraabdominal pressures generated during use of the Papoose Board are much higher than those generated during the use of personal holds on the extremities, there was never an instance of vomiting associated with the use of a Papoose Board. This lack of empirical evidence disproves her theory that possible increases in chest/abdominal pressure associated with physical restraint were associated with Mr. Cains' vomiting.

6. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, the cause of Mr. Cains' vomiting on June 13, 2020 at approximately 11:30AM was [redacted].

[redacted]

Second, just prior to the behavioral outburst on June 13, 2020, Mr. Cains wanted to use the restroom. [redacted]. There is one prior episode when Mr. Cains was noted to have soiled himself just prior to a behavioral outburst. (8/22/2012.) There are no other episodes of restraint associated with the occurrence of a bowel movement during the restraint. It is quite possible that Mr. Cains had a [redacted] during previous episodes of restraint. Indeed, Dr. Brown Forestiere could not rule out the possibility of a gastrointestinal illness.

[redacted]

Finally, Dr. Brown-Forestiere could not rule out an unknown cause of Mr. Cains vomiting.

> If somebody has a higher risk of something, that doesn't mean that -- if I have a higher risk of vomiting, it doesn't mean that I actually vomited [redacted], does it? I can vomit for other --

A I don't --
Q Okay. I can vomit for other reasons; correct?
A Absolutely.
(Brown Forestiere Deposition Page 74)

7a. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, Mr. Mattson and other BHDC staff met and/or exceeded the standard of care for a Residential Care Technician (RCT) staff when they applied personal holds to Mr. Cains.

7b. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, Mr. Mattson and other BHDC staff complied with all applicable BHDC policies and procedures when engaged in applying personal holds to Mr. Cains.

Staff exercised reasonable judgment in keeping Mr. Cains on the floor because he exhibited behaviors which, according to definitions contained within BHDC policies, were maladaptive.

BHDC Policy defines Maladaptive Behaviors as follows:

> "Maladaptive behaviors include, but are not limited to, behaviors that result in, or have the potential to result in, injury to self or others, of the destruction of property." DDS Policy 3011-D

It is important to note that that the definition contained within DDS Policy 3011 does not distinguish between behaviors that result in injury or behaviors that have the potential for causing injury. Both types of behavior are considered maladaptive behaviors and subject to staff intervention. BHDC policy permits the use of personal holds in either situation.

> Personal Restraint: In order to prevent personal injury or serious property damage, the individual or a portion of an individual's body is immobilized by another person or persons in order to prevent personal injury or serious property damage. (DDS Policy 3011)

Mr. Mattson noted (above) that he was attacked by Mr. Cains and that this led them both to fall to the ground. Ryann Campos wrote in her statement that Mr. Cains spat at Mr. Mattson:

Mr. Cains harmed staff and attempted to further harm them but was prevented from doing so by staff use of personal holds. DDS policy allows the use of restraints in such emergency situations. According to DDS Policy 3011:

> Emergency Procedures. Nothing in this policy prohibits the use of emergency restraint (mechanical or personal), confiscation of any item used in a threatening manner, or removal from the environment for the purpose of protecting the individual and others around him/her. (DDS Policy 3011-D)

Staff testified repeatedly that they used personal holds only for the purpose of protecting themselves and Mr. Cains and that the holds would have been removed once Mr. Cains calmed down. Again, this is consistent with BHDC policy and their training.

> The goal of restraint use is to keep the client and/or others safe until control of the client's behavior can be returned safely to the client (i.e., when the client has calmed). Clients shall be released from physical restraint immediately upon calming. "Calm" for a client is defined by the Interdisciplinary Team ("IDT"). The typical definition of calm is below, but the IDT may identify client-specific indicators in the client's IPP and/or Safety Plan:
> i. The client's behavior indicates that the dangerous behavior has ceased; > ii. The client is quiet and responding to staff in their normal tone of voice or other way of communicating; and > iii. The client demonstrates cooperation by accepting direction from staff (BHDC Policy I-D-4 Documentation and Response to Maladaptive Behaviors.)

It would be absurd to expect an RTC, as has been suggested (Mattson Deposition, Page 117), that Mr. Cains be released from a personal hold, allow staff or Mr. Cains to be injured, and, then reapply a personal hold. Staff need to be able to use professional judgment when providing services which incorporates regard to their own personal safety. Injured staff cannot provide care.

Mr. Mattson. Ms. Jones and Ms. Campos all testified that they felt they were acting within the scope of their training and practice in applying personal holds in order to protect Mr. Cains and themselves.

> Ms. Campos stated:
> A All I remember was he was trying to kick. And I was trying to help him from hurting himself or others.
> (Campos Deposition Page 61)
> And:
> Q You don't know if, after you got there, there was an attempt made to de-escalate the situation without --
> A I mean, we were --

Q -- without grabbing him?
A All I seen when I got there was him kicking, him on his side and still trying to kick.
I mean -- and I tried to refrain anybody get hurt or him hurting himself. And I know I keep repeating myself and repeating myself. But I don't know -- I -- I can't talk for them. And I don't know how else to word it.
(Campos Deposition, Page 80)

Ms. Jones stated:

Okay. But yet you -- you, for at least a minute, participated in a restraint with him on the ground?
A Yes. If we had been able to get him up off the ground we would've.
Q Well, I haven't heard that you tried.
Nowhere in any of this, nowhere in anything you've said, has it been suggested that any of you attempted just to get him back on his feet at any point before he started choking.
A He hadn't calmed down at any point until he started choking.
Q Okay. And you made the determination then that the threat of him spitting or the threat of him slapping behind himself at Tyler was a greater risk than his doctor's orders to not put him on the ground after meals because he might literally aspirate and die just like he did? That was the decision y'all made?
A We didn't make that decision. It --
Q But you did. You did make that decision. And he's dead.
A We made the decision to try to keep from harming himself or someone else. No one asked for what happened. No one wanted that --
Q He didn't harm himself. He didn't harm himself. You three harmed him.
A Had he gotten up -- we did not harm him. We -- we did not harm him.
Q All right.

As noted in Mr. Mattson's direct testimony, once on the ground, staff demonstrated appropriate judgment in continuing to try to get Mr. Cains to calm down while providing "personal holds."

Q. How is that violent?
A. He was trying to resist and fight me.
Q. Why didn't you just get up and give him some space, since he's already on the ground?
A. Because he was still very agitated.
Q. Well, so. Let him calm down. Why didn't you do that ?
A. That's not how it works immediately.
Q. How does it work?
A. He would still be agitated afterwards, very agitated.
Q. So you thought it was best to turn him on his side and pin him on the ground?
A. I was wanting him to calm down. I was trying to get him to calm down.
Q. And in order to get
A. And I was talking f was talking to him.
Q. And, in order to get what you wanted, you turned him over, held him down?
A. I—I guess.
Q. Well, you guess. You were there.
Did you --- is that what happened or isn't it?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. And is he talking to you at that point?
A. No. He was just still insulting me, calling me names and screaming.
Q. Okay.
A. That was another semblance that I knew he was still agitated.
Q. Yep, still- agitated. Still needed to be controlled. I understand.
About how long --- and where are your hands on him?
A. On, like, his upper body. Not, like, on his head but, like, controlling his arms. Like, not on his wrists but just --- generally his arms, upper area.
Q. Okay. And you didn't have one hand on his --- on his --- kind of his waist, one on his shoulder area?
A. No.
I just had, like, his arms controlled. Because that's --- he was infamous for, like, kind of winging back and swinging at you.
Q. Well, you said he's never hit you before. He's never made contact with you before.

So how can you tell me he's infamous for that?
A. Because I have seen him do it. I have --- and just from hearsay.

(Mattson Deposition Pages 109-111)

As is evident in the tone of this exchange, Mr. Mattson may have been intimidated by Plaintiff's Counsel. This had an impact on his ability to offer consistent testimony about the facts of the matter. For example, in the testimony above, Mr. Mattson responded to a leading question which could be used to infer that he restrained Mr. Cains for the purpose of holding Mr. Cains to the ground:

O. So you thought it was best to turn him on his side and pin him on the ground?
A. I was wanting him to calm down. I was trying to get him to calm down.
O. And in order to get
A. And I was talking I was talking to him.
O. And, in order to get what you wanted, you turned him over, held him down?
A. I—I guess.
O. Well, you guess. You were there.
Did you --- is that what happened or isn't it?
A. Yes.
B. (Mattson Deposition Pages 109-111)

However, after an objection by Respondent's Counsel, Mr. Mattson was able to collect himself and clarify his earlier testimony. Mr. Mattson did not "pin" Mr. Cains to the ground as was implied during his questioning. Rather Mr. Mattson was restraining one arm from striking staff – consistent with BHDC policy and the training and scope of practice for an RCT.

O. Okay.
A. I wasn't really necessarily restraining. I was more holding. But -- there was --- like, I was actively restraining the right arm because he was like ---
O. Okay.
A. --- that's whenever he was, like, most flailing.
O. Okay. And I know you weren't holding his head. That's not what. I'm -- what I'm suggesting. I just want to make sure I understand where your hands were.
A. Right.
O. How long did this go on before Mandy Jones arrived on the scene?

A. That f can remember a couple of minutes. It wasn't shortly after because her area ---
Q. Okay. (Mattson Deposition Pages 112-113)

In spite of this testimony, leading questions, incorporating the allegation that Mr. Cains was "pinned" to the floor, continued to be used.

Q. Well, I mean, you know [redacted]. They get aggressive sometimes. I tell you what I don't do. I don't pin them to the ground until --
MR. COLLINS: Are you testifying now?
Q. -- until they say what I want to them to say. Okay. So how long are you three pinning him to the ground now that Ryann's arrived before he starts changing colors and defecating on himself and throwing up and dying?
A. As best I remember, maybe a minute or two. But it Wasn't very it wasn't a long time.

(Mattson Deposition Pages 116)

(8) Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, inconsistencies in the recording of the timing of the events was so frequent that all time notations, with the exception of when EMS was notified and the team dispatched, should be considered approximate.

The estimated timeframes contained within the EMS Report are internally inconsistent and unreliable. Witnesses appeared to pick and choose whatever "facts" were contained within the EMS Report to support their opinions. However, because of the internal consistencies, the EMS Report cannot reliably be used to create a timeline at all.

[redacted]

[redacted]

Mr. Scow relied upon staff for the information he included in the report. However, he did not obtain a first-person statement about witnessing the "collapse." The only one to have witnessed the "collapse" was Tyler Mattson and, according to Mr. Scow's deposition, he did not speak to Mr. Mattson. Mr. Scow stated in his deposition that he spoke only to female staff in attendance at Mr. Cains resuscitation.

> Do you remember that it -- can you say whether – > was it men, women? Do you have any memory of that?
> A I remember, besides myself and my partner, there was > three women. And I remember that there was one man that > was sent to be kind of the gofer to run and get things > and do things as we needed them.
> Q But the only people you spoke to were these three > women?
> A Yep. Or my partner.

In spite of the lack of first-hand evidence, during his testimony, Mr. Scow alleged that there was an 8-minute delay between the occurrence of the respiratory obstruction and calling 911. He reached this conclusion solely based on his understanding that the patient experienced a respiratory arrest at approximately 11:30 and that EMS was called at 11:38.

> Q Your report indicates that eight minutes of time > lapsed between when the patient stopped breathing and > when 9-1-1 was called; correct?
> A Correct.
> Q And how -- okay. And that's correct?
> A Correct.
> Q Okay. And could you briefly tell us, you know, how > you came to that conclusion?
> A So the estimated CPR and time of collapse was a -- > so it was a witness collapse.
> I do remember turning that in here at some point.
> Someone said they witnessed the patient collapse and the CPR was started immediately after he collapsed and 9-1-1 was called.

Q Okay.
A And -- so we have a -- I think that's on page -- witness time of collapse, I think that's Page Four. It could be.
Q Take your time.
A Yes. So page -- actually, Page Three. The second box, specialty patient, CPR.
Under the time of call, you see the rest witness by layperson.
Q Okay. And you were specifically told that that was 11:30?
A Yes.
Q You wouldn't have just guessed at a time? You would have --
A No, sir. No, sir.

(Scow Deposition Page 10-11)

Dr. Brown-Forestiere also alleged that there was an 8-minute delay between the respiratory obstruction and calling 911. Following a very leading question from Mr. Gillespie, Dr. Brown-Forestiere agrees – 8 minutes.

And you reviewed records and testimony that state that there was a gap of eight minutes between when Mr. Cains began suffocating and when 9-1-1 was called; correct?
A Correct. (Deposition Brown-Forestiere, Page 20)

And again

A So I did take a look. And, based on the facts from all the different documents that there was an eight minute duration before 9-1-1 is called, I can give you the facts on a resuscitation. (Deposition Brown-Forestiere, Page 21)

Later in her testimony, Dr, Brown-Forestiere indicates that she is not sure whether the 8 minute period refers to the time between Mr. Cains falling to the floor and 911 being called or the time between the onset of choking and the call to 911.

Q Is that what you would conclude?
A I conclude the same thing I've concluded 12 times. It's my understanding it was eight minutes from the --
Q But I --
A -- initial onset of the situation to when the phone call was made.

Q Okay.
A And how they concluded that timeline is not up to me. I just read it.
Q Okay. And, when you say from the beginning of the, of the incident, you talking from the time that he choked or from the time that the incident started?
A You would have to ask the people involved. I was not there.
Q Okay. So fair enough. Fair enough. You don't know?
A I -- I was given the information, same as you, that it took eight minutes.

(Brown-Forestiere Deposition Page 96)

However, the timeframes present in the EMS Report contradict the testimony of both Mr. Scow and Dr. Brown-Forestiere. [redacted] Both Mr. Scow and Dr. Brown-Forestiere are incorrect. From their testimony, I cannot determine why they both make the same error. It is a remarkable coincidence that two witnesses, independent of esach other, make the same obvious mistake.

This may be explained by Dr. Brown-Forestiere when she suggests that she did not reach an independent conclusion that there was an 8-minute delay. She acknowledged that this opinion was provided to her:

Q Okay. So fair enough. Fair enough. You don't know?
A I -- I was given the information, same as you, that it took eight minutes.
(Brown-Forestiere Deposition Page 96)

The source of this "information" is not disclosed.

[redacted]

[redacted]

However, there are additional internal inconsistencies.

[redacted]

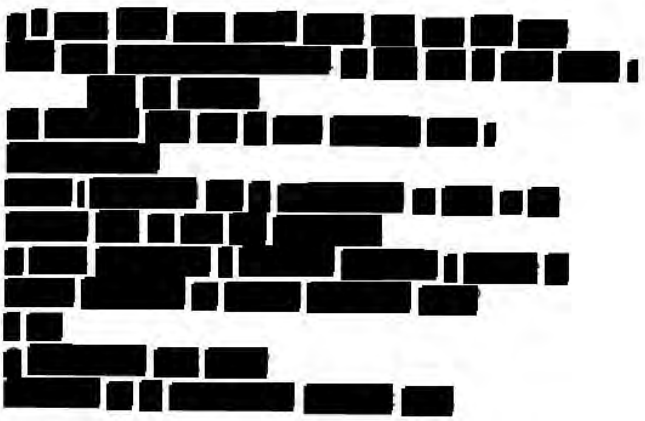
[redacted]

The lack of accurate timekeeping in the EMS Report is obvious. Staff acknowledge in their depositions that they are making guesses as to when the event may have begun and how much time was required for each step in the response. DRA noted that there were no clocks in the area and as a result, they recommended that all time notations should be considered estimates. The 2020DRA Report stated that:

> All times are estimates as there are not any clocks visible in the area..." (DRA October 2020 Page 2)

The best explanation for these inconsistencies is that the report is erroneous. Mr. Scow acknowledged that errors can occur when he is taking the history and simultaneously rendering care:

> On scene, when we're doing patient care, if it's a hectic environment, you take what information you can get and you try to get as clear as -- clearest picture of what you can get when you're asking questions and interviewing while you're doing your work at the same time, so -- yeah.
> It's -- it's not always the most accurate but – (Scow Deposition Page 36)



9. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, BHDC staff met the standard of care for providing emergency medical services to Mr. Cains. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, there were no unreasonable delays in calling 911

BHDC staff testified that [redacted]

And again:

Medical staff were called. Ms. Jones believed that it took one to two minutes for medical staff to arrive and assess Mr. Cains.

> But you told me you don't really know how long it took them to get there because you're not even sure exactly when you would have told Ryann to call them; right?

A I was guessing about how long it was when I said one to two minutes. (Jones Deposition Page 100)

Ms. Jones agreed that the call to medical for assistance was made at approximately 11:33.

According to the documents I was provided, the nurse -- medical says it received the call at 11:33.
Do you have any reason to think that that's wrong?
A It's probably pretty close.
Q Okay.
A I don't remember the exact time. But I'd – (Jones Deposition, Page 85)

However, there is no assurance that the clock in the nurses office at BHDC was actually correct.

In total, it appears that whatever the clocks said, the BHDC staff worked to support Mr. Cains for only 2 to 4 minutes before calling 911.

Two to four minutes may seem like an inordinately long period of time for the medical team to conduct an assessment. However. Mr. Scow has testified that it took him, a licensed EMT with advanced training and equipment, up to two minutes to conduct his assessment after arriving on the scene and before laying hands on Mr. Cains. Scow did not "put a finger on the patient" for one to two minutes after his arrival.

Q I don't need the exact time. I mean, I trust that it was what you're saying --
A I just want to make sure. Yeah. So I got it written down here. I'm just double checking. Yeah. So it looks like, from my time of call, was roughly 13 minutes to scene. And then looks like a minute or two to at patient. And roughly 20 minutes on scene and eight minutes from destination from leaving the departure to destination. (Scow Deposition Page 47)

And

Q Okay. So the time from the call until the time you put a finger on the patient was 15 minutes?
A Looks like it. Yeah. (Scow Deposition, Page 48)

[redacted]

This timeline created from staff testimony indicates that there was no inordinate delay in BHDC staff providing emergency care to Mr. Cains and in seeking additional assistance. Events which occurred during this time included the RCTs recognizing that [redacted]

10. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, BHDC medical staff could not [redacted]. This conclusion is supported by three separate pieces of evidence. [redacted]

[redacted]

Use of these devices exceeds the standard of care available at BDHC at the time.

11. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, Mr. Cains would have died even if BHDC contacted EMS at the moment when Mr. Cains was noted to have stopped breathing. Any alleged delay in contacting EMS, even a delay associated with staff performing their assessment, was inconsequential.

The incident is alleged to have occurred at approximately 11:30. According to the EMS Report, [redacted]

[redacted]

According to Dr. Brown-Forestiere, a delay of this length would certainly have resulted in brain injury or death:

> Without any intervention, someone who suffocates > will likely die within five minutes. If there is a resuscitation, meaning the CPR that was immediately started for him, that leads into a resuscitation time. Our research, and it's plentiful in emergency medicine, shows that a resuscitation past 20 minutes drastically drops the possibility of a meaningful outcome, meaning not only that we can revive the body but also the brain.

Later, Dr. Brown-Forestiere appeared to disagree with her own conclusions. She stated that indeed an 8 minute delay "could" have had an impact because a paramedic "could" have applied advanced techniques.

> So, yes, it is very unfortunate. Those eight minutes, honestly, in my opinion, I think that it could have had a very large impact.

However, Dr. Brown-Forestiere did not assert that an 8-minute delay did have any impact in this specific case. She also did not comment on the fact that after [redacted] She also did not conduct an analysis of the timelines noted above.

In addition, Mr. Scow stated that he could not be certain that any delay on the part of BHDC staff affected the outcome:

> Q Is it possible that, had 9-1-1 been called immediately, is it possible at least that you could have -- that the outcome here could have been different?
> A I can't give any specific like certainty.
> (Scow Deposition Pages 14- 15)

Mr. Scow's opinion was likely measured against the fact that [redacted]

Brown-Forestiere Deposition Page 22)

It is likely that Mr. Scow recognized the futility of his efforts during his attempt to [redacted]

As a result, there is no evidence that any delay in calling 911 could have had an impact on the outcome. Even if, as is alleged, there were unreasonable delays in calling 911, these delays, plus EMS transit time it required 20 minutes. [redacted]

Given that "someone who suffocates will likely die within five minutes," and that the distance between BHDC and the local EMS unit requires at least 8 minutes of time to transit, the distance and associated delay in accessing emergency medical care likely puts the benefit of EMT services beyond the reach of anyone at BHDC who suffocates.

12a. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, at all times, the BHDC operated within the standard of care for a publicly-funded ICF IDD.

12b. Further, based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, at all times, the staff of BHDC provided care consistent with the standard of care for their training and scope of practice.

An assessment of the care rendered by the BHDC and its staff to Mr. Cains turns on the question of whether each provided care consistent with the "standard of care." The care provided by BHDC overall and its staff in this particular matter does meet the standard of care.

The matter of whether or not BHDC meets the standard of care is easily resolved. Since the facility is regulated by the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS), one need only look at whether or not the facility is certified. Indeed, BHDC is certified by CMS, indicating that the facility meets all applicable Conditions of Participation. This exercise may seem overly simplistic, however, it is generally accepted. LeBel notes that "Regulations are minimum standards." (See LeBel J. Regulatory change: a pathway to eliminating seclusion and restraint or "regulatory scotoma"? Psychiatr Serv. 2008 Feb; 59(2):194-6. PMID: .) While States may do more than meet minimum standards, there is no requirement for them to do so. In regard to this matter, the fact that BHDC meets minimal standards is sufficient to dispel any concern that the care practices embodied in the training, rules, regulations, policies, procedures or other facility-wide instruments is not sufficient.

For example, the State Operations Manual (SOM) Appendix J 42 CFR 483.450 Client and Facility Practices (W266) contains five Key Standards (W268; W278: W285: W295; W310) and 35 additional standards corresponding to the Key Standards, which delineate the expectations for the provision of behavioral services within an ICF IDD. Contrary to what some may claims, these are the only "standards" which are applicable to the BHDC.

In regard to the use of personal holds to address dangerous behavior in an emergency situation, the SOM Appendix J states that restraints may be used:

> As an emergency measure, but only if absolutely necessary to protect client or others from injury (W296 (Rev. 135, Issued: 02-27-15, Effective: 04-27-15, Implementation: 04-27-15) §483.450(d)(1)(ii))

Given that BHDC is certified, the certifying body, CMS in this instance, represents that BHDC meets all applicable Conditions of Participation and their Key Standards.

In regard to the care provided by BHDC staff, the standard of care is based upon the question, "What care could the staff be reasonably expected to deliver based upon their training and experience," or "What would a reasonably qualified RCT do when confronted by the same situation?"

As has been previously noted, BHDC staff provided care in a manner that was consistent with all BHDC policies and procedures. In addition, staff provided care that was consistent with their training and scope of practice. Given the tools and resources at their disposal, they did the best they could.

> A. Oh, yeah, absolutely. I would do my best to try to just deescalate as best I can. Like, I did not want to put hands on anyone
> (Mattson Deposition Page 46)

And:

> A. So I didn't want to it to escalate further and other clients get involved, so I would try my best to kind of remove them and maybe then walk away. Like, move take them to their room –
> (Mattson Deposition Page 48)

And:

> We didn't put him on his stomach; we didn't put him face like, we didn't roll him face down or anything. We were using what I thought was our best judgment.
> (Mattson Deposition Page 117)

And:

> That's what we thought would be the best. course of action at the time.
> (Mattson Deposition Page 118)

And:

> At it was my best judgment at the time. It was a traumatic moment that I was --
> (Mattson Deposition Page 118)

And:

> And, like, [redacted]

[redacted]
(Mattson Deposition Page 118)

And:

Q. Okay. So, ds you sit here today, is it is it · your testimony that what -- what you and Mandy and Ryann did complies with this policy?
A. As best as we could in the situation.
(Mattson Deposition Page 122)

And:

A. Like I said, he was flailing; he was whipping around. I was doing the best I could for my only person.
(Mattson Deposition Page 132)

And

A. [redacted]
(Mattson Deposition Page 136)

Thought is the precursor to action. In order to evaluate what staff did during the medical/behavioral emergency, Plaintiff's would need to have a basic understanding of what staff were thinking at the time. However, Plaintiff's expert dismisses this as irrelevant and does not seem concerned:

Q So if he was on his left side and vomited and then they turned him on his back and did abdominal thrusts, would you conclude that they believed or had reason to believe that he was choking?
A I can't comment on what they thought. I'm sorry.

(Deposition of Brown-Forestiere, Page 61)

If Dr. Brown-Forestiere cannot comment on what staff were thinking – what they had been taught and how they employed their knowledge - she cannot assess whether or not BHDC staff met the standard of care.

Dr. Brown-Foresteire acknowledged that she had no interest in the behavioral management of Mr. Cains:

> So, no, actually, my medical opinion has absolutely nothing to do with his personal -- whether he had personal aggression or not.
> My interest in the forums of his medical records and IPP was much more so to his physical, any physical conditions, in regards to if he had any diet specifics that made -- would have made him more of a choking risk and -- which he didn't, and if he had any special considerations and conditions in regards to eating; [redacted]
> Outside of that, my opinion is purely medical and scientifically driven and does not take into account whether he was a violent person or not. It has no bearing on whether he died from suffocation from choking.
> (Deposition of Brown-Forestiere, Page 52)

Dr. Brown-Forestiere also acknowledged that she was not familiar with Mr. Cains' specific plan of care:

> Are you familiar with the training on restraints and what authority there is to restrain David Cains in the Human Development Center?
> A In the Human Development Center, I do not believe I read specifics on --
> Q Okay.
> A -- their particular protocols.
> I recall them talking about it, but I don't see -- I did not see a specific protocol.
> (Deposition of Brown-Forestiere, Pages 52-53)

Dr. Brown-Forestiere also acknowledged that she was not familiar with any rules or regulations governing the operation of ICF IDDs or the Plan of Care, called the Individual Program Plan (IPP.)

Q Okay. All right. Well, are you -- so but you're not aware of what -- are you aware of what the laws are or the policies or rules regarding restraints in Human Development Centers in 2020?
A I am not.
Q Okay. Fair enough. So your opinion has nothing to do with whatever was authorized in the IPP or allowed in Arkansas in HDCs at that time?
A Correct. It is not.

In the matter of Mr. Cains' death and the applicable standard of care, Dr. Brown-Forestiere substituted the standard of care for the physician expert for that of the BHDC staff and suggests that BHDC staff should be able to meet this higher standard. This is an impossible expectation. No one other than an expert in the provision of emergency care in a hospital setting could possibly meet such a standard.

In terms of training and the specifics of this situation, multiple different areas are of importance. Initially, I would say the most important is that we are experts in resuscitation, meaning, people in their most emergent and critical settings, that is where we are experts to take care of these patients. So we see people in all different settings.
But, in this scenario, [redacted] is something that we do on a daily basis. And we're highly trained and we're definitely the experts for that. We're called in all over the hospitals for our expertise on that.
In addition, in regards to restraints, we have extensive training in how to use chemical and physical restraints safely; as we, you know, occasionally need to use those in the emergency department.
And we also have extensive training in how to deal with situations that come from physical restraints not being done properly and when we need to take care of someone for that.

(Brown-Forestiere Deposition Pages 5-6)

And again:

Okay.
A I do know, that in our training, the first thing to do is verbal de-escalation so that you can avoid restraints. And it does not appear that that happened.
Q It didn't appear to you that they tried to de-escalate it?
A I heard that he was given a chance to go to the bathroom and sit down.
Q And was the sit down a calming mechanism?
A I don't know.
Q As a matter of fact, the reason he sat down was to calm down, was it not?
A That might have been what it was directly --
Q So, in other words, there was a de-escalation or a calming before this outburst?
A Not what I would call the traditional, but potentially the way they thought of it, maybe.
Q Okay.
A It's not my training in de-escalation for -- to use those particular methods.

(Brown-Forestiere Deposition Pages 78-79)

It is readily transparent, Dr. Brown-Forestiere substituted her standard of care (people in emergency room and critical care settings) for that of the direct support professionals working at BHDC.

This problem with is approach, applying the physician standard of care to a professional who has received lesser or different training for application in a different setting, is illustrated by the following anecdote in which Dr. Brown-Forestiere describes her decision to become a physician:

I was a PA. I had just completed my training had just completed my training, which at a very high level surgical field, was four weeks of training on the job. I had just completed that and was on my own as first call at a Level 1 Trauma Center caring for adult and pediatric patients and I had my very first patient was a two year old who sustained extensive injuries and was left by myself, walking into a room. I looked at this child and the tubes going in and out of her I couldn't even name. I was presented with a scan I could not interpret. I was terrified and time mattered. This child's life was in my hands and I needed to make a quick decision I didn't know how to make. It was late at night. I had to call my physician. I remember him just being angry that I didn't know the answer and that I couldn't handle it myself. And I just remember in that moment thinking, 'I'm never doing this again. I don't have the information of the training to do the job I'm being asked to do. This is dangerous. And it matters. And this child's life is in my hands and I'm not walking into another situation without a chance to know what I need to know to make these decisions.' So that was the, actually that night. Only four weeks out of school that I decided that I was going back to be a physician."

Accessed at

It is clear that Dr. Brown-Forestiere, working as a newly graduated Physician's Assistant at the time, was presented with a case that exceeded her level of training and experience. She acknowledged that she did not have the tools to do what was asked of her and that only a physician had the level of training needed to do what was necessary. She even described the situation as "dangerous." However, did she violate the standard of care for a PA? Based upon the evidence present in the anecdote, I don't believe so. A PA cannot meet the standard of care for a physician. In regard to the management of Mr. Cains challenging behavior, an RCT cannot meet the standard of care for a physician.

Based upon her acknowledged lack of understanding about ICF IDD rules and regulations, her lack of familiarity with basic treatment planning and IPP processes, her indifference to the behavioral training received by staff at BHDC, her inability to appreciate what BHDC staff were thinking at the time they were engaged to provide care to Mr. Cains, and her substitution of the medical standard of care for the direct support professional standard of care, Dr. Brown-Forestiere is completely unqualified to offer an opinion about the quality of care provided at BHDC or by BHDC staff.

13. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, Mr. Cains was positioned appropriately – on his side when he was vomiting and, later, on his back when he needed [redacted].

Dr. Brown-Forestiere testified that Mr. Cains was on his left side while being restrained. She also testified that this was the proper position for someone who was vomiting.

Q You had said earlier on, as I recall, that it was -- that you would want somebody to be -- who is vomiting to be placed on their side and not on their back --
A Correct.
Q -- is that correct? Okay.

> And we all agree that David Cains, on that day, was placed, was on his side when he started vomiting.
> A Correct.

Dr. Brown-Forestiere also testified that Mr. Cains [redacted]

(Brown-Forestiere Deposition Page 30)

And:

> Q Okay. And what accounts -- so based upon your understanding of the facts, [redacted]

(Brown-Forestiere Deposition Page 58)

And:

> My opinion is that he choked from vomiting when he was on his left side.
> (Brown-Forestiere Deposition Page 61)

Dr. Brown-Forestiere admitted that the choking occurred when Mr. Cains was in the proper position, on his left side, and that once he had stopped breathing, he was rolled onto his back. The behavior of staff was completely consistent with basic CPR training.

Dr. Brown-Forestiere contradicts herself and is factually mistaken when she suggested that Mr. Cains was rolled on his back before he began choking.

> Having them on their right or left side, mostly right side, is the chosen, but a side so that the -- anything that could possibly vomit, like I said, it's more likely to vomit in a restraint situation, that gravity could help you by pouring it out of the mouth instead of settling to the back.
> So unfortunate but, yes, laying on his back was -- definitely contributed quite a bit.

Is it fair to say, that once he started vomiting while on his left side in the restraint, that placing him, quickly placing him onto his back, was essentially the worst thing that they could have done?
A Yes, unfortunately.

(Brown-Forestiere Deposition Page 16)

And:

There's actually -- when I referred to the restraint and special training, we are trained very much so to not have someone on their back when restrained. Having them on their right or left side, mostly right side, is the chosen, but a side so that the -- anything that could possibly vomit, like I said, it's more likely to vomit in a restraint situation, that gravity could help you by pouring it out of the mouth instead of settling to the back.
So unfortunate but, yes, laying on his back was -- definitely contributed quite a bit.
Q Is it fair to say, that once he started vomiting while on his left side in the restraint, that placing him, quickly placing him onto his back, was essentially the worst thing that they could have done?
A Yes, unfortunately.
The very first thing that is taught is to turn them onto their side if there's any sign of vomiting.
Q Okay.
A That is absolutely the just very unfortunate wrong thing.

(Brown-Forestiere Deposition Page 16)

Later in her testimony, Dr. Brown-Forestiere contradicts herself claiming that individuals in respiratory distress should never be laid on their backs.

Q But that -- so you're saying -- it's your testimony here today, as a medical expert in the emergency room resuscitation, that abdominal thrusts in the stomach to pop out an obstruction in the esophagus, in the airways, is not an appropriate procedure?
A It is not the appropriate procedure.
It is the idea that they had to try it, from what I can see. But, unfortunately, that is not the teaching.
The teaching is quite clear that laying someone on their back occludes their airway and it is never the teaching to lay them on their back –

(Brown-Forestiere Deposition Pages 62-63)

Dr. Brown-Forestiere is in error when she stated that Mr. Cains should not have been placed on his back after his breathing had stopped. Mr. Cains had to be laid on his back [redacted]. Dr. Brown-Forestiere later agrees noting that it is always appropriate to lay someone who is not breathing on their back [redacted].

[redacted]

Q Okay. And you don't -- and that was appropriate, in your opinion; right?
A Yes.
Q And that was an attempt to save David Cains' life, was it not?
A Yes, it was. As far as I can tell.

Brown-Forestiere Deposition Pages 82-83)

Mr. Scow concurred, [redacted].

[redacted]

(Scow Deposition Pages 46-47)

And again:

[redacted]

(Scow Deposition Page 28)

The evidence indicates that BHDC staff complied with the standard of care in providing emergency behavioral services to address dangerous behavior and provide appropriate emergency medical care, consistent with their level of training and scope of practice, to Mr. Cains during the event.

14. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, Mr. Cains death was not accompanied by severe pain.

The definition of pain has long challenged clinicians. In 2020, the International Association for the Study of Pain (IASP) approved a definition of pain that not only coupled the sensory and emotional dimensions of the experience, but also recognized the association between tissue injury and pain:

> "An unpleasant sensory and emotional experience associated with, or resembling that associated with, actual or potential tissue damage."
> Raja SN, Carr DB, Cohen m, et. al "The revised International Association for the Study of Pain definition of pain: concepts, challenges, and compromises. Pain DOI:

In order to feel pain, this definition requires that there be actual or potential tissue damage.

There is no professional agreement in regard to the amount or degree of pain associated with specific causes of death. Pain associated with a cause of death is proportionate to the degree of tissue damage, not the mechanism of death. However, Dr. Brown-Forestiere opined that:

> ...when someone chokes and their airway is > closed off, obviously, they can no longer receive oxygen > or expel CO2.
> This quickly induces kind of what we would call a > terror fight or flight response, similar to a drowning > victim. They start fighting with everything they can.
> Unfortunately, as the airway is blocked, CO2 which > is -- turns into a toxic substance, which is an acid, > builds up in their body, their muscles fighting against > and are unable to expel the lactic acid they build up.
> So, essentially, you're not only suffocating, but > it's a feeling of burning. Your lungs begin burning, > your whole body, because of the acid build up.
> And the struggle -- and eventually you become > unconscious and -- and your body continues to struggle > until it no longer can.
> Q Is it a painful death?
> A It's probably the -- one of the most painful deaths > there could be. That and I assume burning to death.
> But strangulation or suffocation and burning are the

-- are known as the two most awful ways to die.
(Brown-Forestiere Deposition Pages 18-19)

The basis for her opinion, that "strangulation or suffocation and burning are known as the two most awful ways to die" is pure speculation.

Dr. Brown-Forestiere is also incorrect in her description of the impact of anoxia on lactic acidosis and anaerobic metabolism. Mr. Cains lost consciousness after a brief period – a matter of seconds. This occurs well before the onset of anaerobic metabolism leading to the build-up of lactic acid in the muscles. Further, people who are resuscitated do not recall a feeling of being burned or burning prior to losing consciousness.

The consensus statement states that the experience of pain requires actual or potential tissue damage. Traumatic injuries cause severe tissue damage and include falls, motor vehicle accidents, gunshot wounds, stabbings, burns, and other mechanisms associated with severe tissue injury. These could all be associated with severe pain under specific circumstances. Diseases such as cancer or sickle cell crisis can cause severe tissue injury. Illnesses of this type could also be associated with severe pain. However, suffocation and drowning are associated with much lower amounts of tissue injury and, therefore, would be associated with lower levels of pain. Of course, each event is unique and the circumstances would vary from individual to individual death.

In the matter of Mr. Cains, it was reported by staff that [redacted]. There was very little tissue damage. The entire episode – from the onset of choking to the loss of consciousness – was over in a matter of seconds. It most certainly was not a pleasant way to die - what manner of death could be described as pleasant. However, based upon my reasonable medical judgment, and predicated upon my understanding of the definition of death and the pathophysiology of this choking episode, I do not believe that Mr. Cains suffered a painful death.

15. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, Mr. Cains had a life expectancy of only 6 more years.

Prepared by

Theodore Kastner MD, MS

January 6, 2023

Purpose: Dr. LeBel was engaged by Plaintiffs to offer expert opinions on (1) behavioral services offered at BHC in general and to Mr. Cains specifically and (2) the system of health care services at the BHDC. Based upon her review of materials, Dr. LeBel offered two opinions in a letter to Joshua D. Gillispie dated December 28, 2022 (hereafter called the Report.) A review was undertaken to understand the specific opinions which were offered and the basis for these opinions. My opinions are summarized at the beginning of this report and justified through the discussion which subsequently occurs.

Standard for Opinions:

Throughout this report I will use the standard, "based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty," to express my opinions. This report does not contain every opinion which I may offer during testimony. I reserve the right to amend this report and my opinions based upon any information that I subsequently acquire or any other issue.

Opinions:

The following is a list of the opinions offered in this report. As noted, the opinions in this report are not considered exhaustive and I reserve the right to amend this report and my opinions based upon any information that I subsequently acquire.

1. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, CMS rules and regulations, ARDDS policies and procedures, and BHDC policies and procedures represent the standard of care for the delivery of behavioral services at BHDC.

2. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, other documents cited by LeBel, including materials generated by the United Nations, the World Health Organization, SAMSHA and other sources, do not represent the standard of care for the delivery of behavioral services at BHDC.

3. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, the suggestions, recommendations or opinions contained within cited references and other materials, to the degree that they diverge from CMS rules and regulations, AR DDS policies and procedures, and BHDC policies and procedures, do not represent the standard of care for the delivery of behavioral services at BHDC at BHDC

4. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, I agree with Dr. LeBel that the CMS regulations are "centrist."

5. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, Dr. LeBel does not recognize the authority of CMS, AR DDS and BHDC documents as representing the standard of care. Dr. LeBel has characterized the current CMS regulations as a "retreat from the standard-setting high ground." Dr. LeBel suggests that BHDC be required to deliver "low/no restraint services for people with developmental disabilities."

6. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, Dr. LeBel regularly attributed statements to CMS which are not contained within CMS regulations in an effort to misrepresent the standard of care.

   For example, Dr. LeBel claimed that:

   > "the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS 483.12; CMS 483.420) mandate that patients/residents of facilities have the right to be free from abuse and neglect..." (Report, Page 4, Bold in original)

   However, there is no such right articulated by CMS in the citation.

   In addition, Dr. LeBel also claimed that:

   > "Physical restraint is a potentially lethal procedure of last resort which is used in an emergency circumstance in the event of imminent danger when alternatives have been attempted and/or ruled out (42 C.F.R. § 483.450)." (Report, Page 4)

   However, there is no such right articulated by CMS in the citation.

7. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, Dr. LeBel considers herself a "legal advocate" and stated that "states and facilities must not rely on national standard-setting entities to lead change toward preventing and even eliminating seclusion and restraint." This opinion led Dr. LeBel to state that BHDC should be "compelled" "to action to change their use of restraint with persons-served creating a safer environment of care for staff and patients alike."

8. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, Mr. Cains, who weighed approximately 244 pounds at the time of the event, "charged at" or "lunged" at his staff, Mr. Mattson, and thereby initiated the process which led to physical contact between the two.

9. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, Mr. Mattson employed appropriate blocking techniques in an effort to protect himself, Mr. Cains and avoid escalation.

10. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, Mr. Cains's assault upon Mr. Mattson led Mr. Mattson and Mr. Cains to fall to the floor.

11. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, while on the floor, Mr. Cains continued to demonstrate aggressive behavior towards Mr. Mattson and, subsequently, to other staff.

12. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, while on the floor, Mr. Mattson and other staff applied personal holds for the purpose of protecting Mr. Cains, staff and other individuals.

13. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, while on the floor, staff made no effort to hold or "pin" Mr. Cains to the floor. The application of personal holds was solely for the purpose of protecting Mr. Cains, staff and other individuals from Mr. Cains's aggressive behavior.

14. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, at all times, staff exercised their professional judgment in order to meet the standard of care including the use of less restrictive procedures, "time and space," and other appropriate means.

15. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, BHDC personnel are not required to demonstrate "imminent danger" before the use of restraint.

16. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, BHDC staff did not apply "lethal restraints."

17. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, Mr. Cains did not demonstrate a "withdrawal reflex."

18. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, [redacted] did not contribute to Mr. Cains vomiting.

19. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, Mr. Cains being restrained while on the ground did not contribute to Mr. Cains vomiting.

20. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, [redacted] did not complicate or represent a contraindication to the use of restraints with Mr. Cains.

21. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, there were no medical contraindications to the use of restrictive behavioral procedures. Dr. Hamid provided medical clearance to BHDC staff to employ restrictive procedures, when indicated, without condition or limitation.

22. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, [redacted]

23. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, there is no need to place Mr. Cains on a "Do Not Restrain List."

24. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, the emergency response system at BHDC is effective and appropriate to meet the needs of residents who require emergency treatment.

25. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, the emergency response system at BHDC does not represent an obstacle to emergency response and life-saving intervention.

26. Based upon a reasonable degree of medical certainty, activation of the county-level emergency response system by staff at BHDC and by passing the current requirement to first contact BHDC medical staff, would have had no impact on the quality of care provided to Mr. Cains or the outcome resulting from the care he received.

Expert Report: Findings and Expert Opinions in regard to the Report of Janice LeBel

Opinions Offered by Dr. LeBel:
Dr. LeBel offers the following opinions at the beginning of her Report (Page 2):

> 1) The physical restraint used on DC proximal to his death fell below the standard of care established by recognized standard setting entities. In addition, the physical restraint used on DC fell below the standard of care established by BHDC.
> 2) The BHDC emergency response policy, whereby direct care staff were prohibited from calling 911, fell below the standard of care and created a dangerous situation for DC and other clients and resulted in a delay in emergency service response and intervention.

In the body of the Report, the two Opinions are highlighted in bold. I have copied out each Opinion and note that the Opinions within the body of the Report are subtly but substantively different that the Opinions listed at the top of the report.

> Opinion One: The physical restraint used on DC proximal to his death fell below the standard of care, including BHDC's standard of care. (Page 2)

> Opinion Two: The respondent facility's emergency response policy fell below the standard of care. (Page 11)

The difference in the Opinions, appearing literally on the same page of the Report (Opinion One Page 2), complicates the review of the Opinions.

In my analysis of the Report, I have copied each of the Opinions contained within the body of the Report and followed them with a Response. In addition, there are six arguments made by Dr. LeBel in support of Opinion 1. The arguments are highlighted in bold/italic and followed by a Response.

Opinion One: The physical restraint used on DC proximal to his death fell below the standard of care, including BHDC's standard of care (Page 2-3).
Dr. LeBel stated that:

The standard of care required the Respondent to comply with federal CMS/ICF Regulations found at 42 C.F.R. § 483.00 et seq.; Arkansas DDS policies and procedures; and BHDC's own policies and procedures. These policies establish that: a) only the least restrictive approved form of physical restraint can be used, b) for only the least amount of time necessary, c) only to prevent imminent and serious harm in emergency situations, d) only as a last resort after nonviolent techniques have been exhausted, e) the form of physical restraint used must be an authorized method clearly stated in the client's IPP, f) the form of physical restraint must be clearly identified in the facility's policies, and g) the authorized form of physical restraint must be taught to staff. The Respondent failed to meet the standard of care in this case.

Specifically, the Respondent failed in the following ways:

- The physical restraint was not necessary or justified and violated DC's right to be free from abuse and restraint;
- The physical restraint was not implemented in response to a life-threatening emergency or behavior that presented a risk of serious injury/harm;
- The physical restraint was not the least restrictive option;
- The physical restraint did not follow a reasonable effort at nonviolent de-escalation;
- The physical restraint was in violation of the [redacted];
- The physical restraint method used by staff was not an approved, authorized or instructed technique recognized by BHDC or documented in DC's IPP.

Response

(1) On page 2 of her Report, Dr. Lebel states that the "standard of care" requires that BHDC comply with the following documents:

Federal CMS/ICF Regulations found at 42 C.F.R. § 483.00 et seq.;
Arkansas DDS policies and procedures; and BHDC policies and procedures

While she implied in the first iteration of Opinion One (Page 2), that BHDC should comply with "recognized standard-setting entities," that requirement was no longer applied to the second iteration of Opinion One (Page 2). The reason for her excluding these references in her discussion is unclear and should be explored. Are the "standards" established by the UN and WHO applicable to the US? Do they supersede the "standards" published by CMS? Do CMS "standards" meet the standards set by WHO and UN? If not, are the CMS standards valid?

(2) The reference to 42 C.F.R. § 483.00 as a standard of care for ICF IDDs is overly broad. Federal CMS ICF IDD regulations are found within 42 C.F.R. § 483.00 but limited to Part I. Other portions of CMS 42 C.F.R. § 483.00 reference other facility types including Psychiatric Residential Treatment Facilities and other skilled nursing facilities which have no bearing in this discussion. The regulatory citations should generally be limited to those contained in Part I. The fact that Dr. LeBel chose to do otherwise created confusion when attempting to identify the source documents which she alleged represented the "standard of care."

(3) Dr. LeBel also states that compliance with "standards" must be reflected in the following manner:

> These policies establish that: a) only the least restrictive approved form of physical restraint can be used, b) for only the least amount of time necessary, c) only to prevent imminent and serious harm in emergency situations, d) only as a last resort after nonviolent techniques have been exhausted, e) the form of physical restraint used must be an authorized method clearly stated in the client's IPP, f) the form of physical restraint must be clearly identified in the facility's policies, and g) the authorized form of physical restraint must be taught to staff.

I have reviewed the CMS documents cited by Dr. LeBel and cannot identify all of these specific requirements. Specifically, I conducted a cross-reference of the 7 components (a through g) which she states must be met in order for BHDC to meet federal and State standards. However, I could not find evidence to support her claim that all 7 conditions must be met in order to determine that a facility such as BHDC meets CMS "standards." Indeed, State Operations Manual Appendix J - Guidance to Surveyors: Intermediate Care Facilities for Individuals with Intellectual Disabilities makes no such reference to these 7 specific requirements. As a result, they appear to derive from Dr. LeBel's ideological bias against the use of restraints and her interest in applying her ideological beliefs to BHDC rather than to actual Federal standards.

In order to verify that Dr. Lebel's opinion has a sufficient legal and regulatory basis, Dr. Lebel should be asked to walk through each item (a through g) and reference the specific Federal. AR DHS or BHDC standard which makes the component a requirement for meeting the "standard of care."

Dr. LeBel made allegations that the BHDC did not meet the standard of care in 6 specific respects. Dr, LeBel alleged that:

> Specifically, the Respondent failed in the following ways:
> • The physical restraint was not necessary or justified and violated DC's right to be free from abuse and restraint;
> • The physical restraint was not implemented in response to a life-threatening emergency or behavior that presented a risk of serious injury/harm;
> • The physical restraint was not the least restrictive option;
> • The physical restraint did not follow a reasonable effort at nonviolent de-escalation;
> • The physical restraint was in violation of the [redacted];
>
> • The physical restraint method used by staff was not an approved, authorized or instructed technique recognized by BHDC or documented in DC's IPP.
> (LeBel Report, Page 2)

In the early portions of her Report (Pages 1 and 2) Dr. LeBel offered little specific evidence to support these 6 claims. To the extent that these general concerns are offered with specific supporting evidence, they are addressed in the subsequent narrative. However, for the sake of completeness, a general rebuttal is provided here.

• The physical restraint was not necessary or justified and violated DC's right to be free from abuse and restraint;

> Response: The use of personal holds was justified as staff sought to prevent Mr. Cains from harming himself, staff or others. As noted below, Mr. Cains had no unqualified "right to be free from abuse and restraint." Standards of care allow for restraint use so long as it meets the conditions set forth within CMS regulations. As is evident in the following discussion, BHDC complied with all applicable Federal regulations governing the use of restraints in this specific instance.

• The physical restraint was not implemented in response to a life-threatening emergency or behavior that presented a risk of serious injury/harm;

Response: In making this claim, Dr. LeBel does not appear to be referencing a specific Federal regulation. CMS regulations permit the use of restraint in response to behaviors which have the potential to cause harm to an individual, to staff or to others.

> As an emergency measure, but only if absolutely necessary to protect the client or others from injury. 42 C.F.R. § 483.450(d)(1)(i)

Mr. Cains's behavior (spitting) was harmful to the staff. In addition, his aggressive behavior towards Mr. Mattson certainly had the potential to cause additional harm. Mr. Cains weighed approximately 244 pounds at the time of his death and attacked Mr. Mattson, "charging" at him. Allowing Mr. Cains to charge unimpeded to Mr. Mattson or any other individual would have been reckless and inconsistent with both the standard of care and staff training.

CMS does not require that the potential harm rise to the level of "life threatening." In addition, CMS does not require that the level of harm be deemed "serious."

- The physical restraint was not the least restrictive option;

Response: The personal holds used in this instance were part of a hierarchy of responses which included less restrictive measures. Prior to the use of personal holds, Mr. Cains was offered the less restrictive opportunity to relocate to a different area and to take his time to gain control over his feeling. However, less restrictive procedures were ineffective, After Mr. Cains attacked Mr. Mattson, physical restraint was necessary to protect Mr. Cains, his staff and others from harm.

- The physical restraint did not follow a reasonable effort at nonviolent de-escalation;

Response: BHDC staff attempted to implement least restrictive behavioral interventions along a hierarchy consistent with their training and experience. This included the non-violent "time and space" to allow Mr. Cains to gain control over his behavior. Unfortunately, despite the use of less restrictive alternatives, Mr. Cains's behavior escalated and staff were compelled to use personal holds in order to protect themselves, Mr. Cains and others.

- The physical restraint was in violation of the [redacted]

Response: Dr. LeBel lacks any qualifications which would allow her to testify in this regard. That being said, as a matter of general health, [redacted]

• The physical restraint method used by staff was not an approved, authorized or instructed technique recognized by BHDC or documented in DC's IPP.

Response: Staff employed "personal restraint," an emergency procedure limiting movement by the holding of a hand or limb," which is identified in "Boonville HDC Policy I-D-4 Documentation and Response to Maladaptive Behaviors" as an Approved Restraint Procedure, Technique or Device. Staff also receive instruction in the use of "personal holds."

The content of the behavioral services curriculum (NCI) does not represent BHDC policy. In addition, the content of the curriculum is not exhaustive of every application of the Approved Restraint Procedure, Technique or Device. Staff are trained in the application of personal holds in the standing and seated positions. They are not trained in the application of personal holds while an individual is on the ground. However, that fact does not represent a prohibition against the use of restraints when an individual is on the ground. In addition, staff are instructed in the principles of behavior management including the need to provide restraint in the least restrictive manner. Based upon their training and experience, staff may use their professional judgment to determine that the application of personal holds while an individual is on the ground is less restrictive than transitioning an individual to a more restrictive mechanical restraint such as a papoose board.

The use of restraints is reviewed and approved for each individual through an interdisciplinary process and reflected in the IPP. Consent to the use of restraints is always obtained. In regard to Mr. Cains, a member of his family was aware of the clinical need for restraints, participated in the interdisciplinary process, and gave consent for restraint use.

Right to be Abuse and From Restraint (Pages 3-4)

On Page 4, Dr. LeBel articulates her interpretation of the "standard of care." To that end, she states:

> "The Respondent's use of restraint in this case was a violation of patient/resident rights and a violation of the facility's obligation to uphold the patient's right to be free from abuse and restraint use. Physical restraint is defined by the federal government (Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services [CMS]) as: Any manual method, physical or mechanical device, material, or equipment that immobilizes or reduces the ability of a patient to move his or her arms, legs, body, or head freely 42 C.F.R. § 482.13 and C.F.R. § 483.420. Physical restraint is a potentially lethal procedure of last resort which is used in an emergency circumstance in the event of imminent danger when alternatives have been attempted and/or ruled out (42 C.F.R. § 483.450)." (Page 4)
> Patients/residents in health care settings have a right to be free from restraint. To affirm this position and prevent the risk of serious harm associated with restraint use, standard setting organizations such as the United Nations(UN) (2006), World Health Organization (WHO) (2019), and the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS 483.12; CMS 483.420) mandate that patients/residents of facilities have the right to be free from abuse and neglect including but not limited to ...any physical or chemical restraint ... (emphasis added) imposed for purposes of discipline or convenience. When physical restraints are used, the facility is obligated to use the least restrictive alternative for the least amount of time and ensure that staff have and demonstrate needed competencies to effectively and appropriately interact with clients; monitor and take immediate action to address circumstances where possible abuse, neglect or mistreatment has occurred and prevent reoccurrence of abuse (CMS 483.12; Halverson et al., 2023; Huckshorn et al., 2021; AR DDS 3011-D; UN, 2006; & WHO, 2019)."

Response:

There are several errors in Dr. LeBel's interpretation of CMS regulations and the standard of care:

(1) The only standard which applies to BHDC are those standards established by CMS for the operation of ICF IDDs, in addition to AR DDS and BHDC policies and procedures which derive from these requirements. Dr, LeBel has previously acknowledged that CMS regulations represent the standard of care. As Dr. Lebel has noted, "Regulations are minimum standards." (See LeBel J. Regulatory change: a pathway to eliminating seclusion and restraint or "regulatory scotoma"? Psychiatr Serv. 2008 Feb; 59(2):194-6. PMID: 18245163.)

(2) Although Dr. Lebel suggests that Halverson et al., 2023 and Huckshorn et al., 2021 are standards of care, they are not. Even if they were, their publication date, after the death of Mr. Cains, disqualifies them from being relevant to the events under discussion.

(3) Although Dr. LeBel states that the WHO is a "standard-setting organization," in regard to the standard of care for the implementation of behavioral services at BHDC, it is not.

(4) Although Dr. Lebel implies that WHO, 2019 is a standard, it is not. WHO, 2019 is a "course guide" to a curriculum developed by a third-party for general use. The WHO makes no warranty as to its specific applicability in any setting. Un the section, General disclaimers, WHO notes:

> All reasonable precautions have been taken by WHO to verify the information contained in this publication. However, the published material is being distributed without warranty of any kind, either expressed or implied. The responsibility for the interpretation and use of the material lies with the reader. In no event shall WHO be liable for damages arising from its use. WHO, 2019)

(5) Although Dr. LeBel states that the UN is a "standard-setting organization," in regard to the standard of care for the implementation of behavioral services at BHDC, it is not.

(6) Although Dr. Lebel implies that UN, 2006 is a standard, it is not. UN, 2006 is a document intended to drive social change recognizing that people with disabilities have the same rights as others, including the right to provide consent to treatment either themselves, or appropriately designated proxies – rights which are already reflected in the CMS ICF IDD regulations. As UN, 2006 notes:

> The Convention follows decades of work by the United Nations to change attitudes and approaches to persons with disabilities. It takes to a new height the movement from viewing persons with disabilities as "objects" of charity, medical treatment and social protection towards viewing persons with disabilities as "subjects" with rights, who are capable of claiming those rights and making decisions for their lives based on their free and informed consent as well as being active members of society.
> The Convention is intended as a human rights instrument with an explicit, social development dimension. It adopts a broad categorization of persons with disabilities and reaffirms that all persons with all types of disabilities must enjoy all human rights and fundamental freedoms. It clarifies and qualifies how all categories of rights apply to persons with disabilities and identifies areas where adaptations have to be made for persons with disabilities to effectively exercise their rights and areas where their rights have been violated, and where protection of rights must be reinforced.

(7) Dr. LeBel states that:

> Physical restraint is a potentially lethal procedure of last resort which is used in an emergency circumstance in the event of imminent danger when alternatives have been attempted and/or ruled out (42 C.F.R. § 483.450).

I reviewed 42 C.F.R. § 483.450 and cannot find this language. The full text of the standard, as it relates to physical restraint use is as follows:

> (1) The facility may employ physical restraint only -
>
> (i) As an integral part of an individual program plan that is intended to lead to less restrictive means of managing and eliminating the behavior for which the restraint is applied;
>
> (ii) As an emergency measure, but only if absolutely necessary to protect the client or others from injury; or
> (iii) As a health-related protection prescribed by a physician, but only if absolutely necessary during the conduct of a specific medical or surgical procedure, or only if absolutely necessary for client protection during the time that a medical condition exists.
> (2) Authorizations to use or extend restraints as an emergency must be:
>
> (i) In effect no longer than 12 consecutive hours; and
>
> (ii) Obtained as soon as the client is restrained or stable.
> (3) The facility must not issue orders for restraint on a standing or as needed basis.
> (4) A client placed in restraint must be checked at least every 30 minutes by staff trained in the use of restraints, released from the restraint as quickly as possible, and a record of these checks and usage must be kept.

> (5) Restraints must be designed and used so as not to cause physical injury to the client and so as to cause the least possible discomfort.
> (6) Opportunity for motion and exercise must be provided for a period of not less than 10 minutes during each two hour period in which restraint is employed, and a record of such activity must be kept.
> (7) Barred enclosures must not be more than three feet in height and must not have tops.

Specifically, CMS does not characterize restraint as a "potentially lethal procedure of last resort." In addition, CMS does not limit restraint use to "in the event of imminent danger." Restraint use is permitted "to protect the client or others from injury." Such a determination can only be made by staff at the time the restraint is needed and based upon the specific circumstances present.

Dr. LeBel's opinion about the conditions under which restraint use may occur align with her personal beliefs. However, there is no evidence that CMS is in agreement with Dr. LeBel's personal opinions about restraint use. As a result, Dr. LeBel's interpretation of the standard of care and CMS regulations should not be relied upon when contemplating the standard of care for behavioral restraints at settings like BHDC.

(8) Dr. LeBel states "Patients/residents in health care settings have a right to be free from restraint." This is not true. There is no instance do CMS regulations offer an unqualified right to be free from restraint. Restraint is an approved medical/behavioral procedure which is designed to protect staff, the individual, and others from harm. To suggest that such a right exists would be to imply that facilities, such as BHDC, be prohibited from taking action to prevent harm to staff, individuals and others, especially in emergency situations. This would be contrary to CMS regulations as it could create an unsafe environment. CMS determined that there is a role for restraint use in settings such as BHDC and this opinion is reflected in CMS regulations.

(9) That being said, residents of facilities such as BHDC must be protected from unwarranted and inappropriate use of restraint. For example, as noted in §483.12(a)(2)

> The facility must:
> Ensure that the resident is free from physical or chemical restraints imposed for purposes of discipline or convenience and that are not required to treat the resident's medical symptoms. When the use of restraints is indicated, the facility must use the least restrictive alternative for the least amount of time and document ongoing re-evaluation of the need for restraints.

The resident has the right to be free from abuse, neglect, misappropriation of resident property, and exploitation as defined in this subpart. This includes but is not limited to freedom from corporal punishment, involuntary seclusion and any physical or chemical restraint not required to treat the resident's medical symptoms.

Contrary to Dr. LeBel's opinion, CMS, through the use of surveyors and its survey instrument (State Operations Manual Appendix J - Guidance to Surveyors: Intermediate Care Facilities for Individuals with Intellectual Disabilities Rev. 178, 04-13-18), has determined that Arkansas DDS and BHDC comply with all aspects of §483.12 and §483.420.

Threshold for Restraint use was not Met (Page 4)

Dr. LeBel argues that the standard of care includes an "imminent danger" threshold which must be met before the application of restraints:

"In health care settings, physical restraint is an emergency procedure of last resort and should only be used in the event of imminent danger to the patient/resident or others."

As noted earlier, no such "imminent danger" standard exists in CMS regulations.
In addition, Dr. LeBel generated a list of the behaviors demonstrated by Mr. Cains while in the dining area and the lobby near the restrooms. Her Report states the following:

BHDC staff documented and described DC's behavior as:

1. "yelling" (Jones, deposition testimony, p. 67); "screaming" (Jones OLTC Witness statement, labeled exhibit 4, p. 1)
2. "slightly agitated ...became aggressive in common area" (IRIS report)
3. "irritated...screaming and cussing...ripped paper off the wall... jumped up ... spitting and attempting to hit..." (Mattson, OLTC Witness statement, labeled exhibit 9, p. 1-2)

She goes on to state that this behavior was "not lethal or life threatening, nor does it pose a risk of serious injury." (Report, Page 5) LeBel concluded that since these behaviors were not lethal or life threating nor posed a risk of serious injury, they did "not require the use of force or a hands-on containment procedure." (Report, Page 5).

Dr. LeBel reiterates her "imminent danger" standard, which has already been demonstrated to fall outside the CMS standard of care. She states that:

> "The antecedent actions described in the various documents do not meet the BHDC threshold of imminent danger requiring the implementation of physical restraint."

Knowing that the "Imminent danger" standard falls outside of the CMS standard of care, Dr. LeBel cites Halverson et al., 2023; Huckshorn et al., 2021; Huckshorn & LeBel, 2015; Ridley & Leitch, 2019) as "restraint standards of practice."

Response:

(1) The publications cited by LeBel are not "restraint standards of practice." LeBel has noted that federal regulations are standards. (See LeBel J. Regulatory change: a pathway to eliminating seclusion and restraint or "regulatory scotoma"? Psychiatr Serv. 2008 Feb; 59(2):194-6. PMID: 18245163.) The federal regulations supersede any proposed standard of care which LeBel attempts to install in this instance.

(2) LeBel created an ad hoc standard, the "imminent danger standard," as a condition for the use of restraint:

> "The antecedent actions described in the various documents do not meet the BHDC threshold of imminent danger requiring the implementation of physical restraint." (Report, Page 5)

This substitution of her desired "standard" for the generally accepted "standard" is inappropriate and inconsistent with CMS regulations §483.12 and reflects her continued desire to use the consultation to eliminate restraint use at BHDC.

(3) The standards which LeBel identified for the use of restraint are at odds with BHDC Policy. "BHDC Policy 1-D-4 Documentation and Response to Maladaptive Behaviors" allows for the use of restraints when maladaptive behaviors occur. The document defines maladaptive behavior, noting:

> "Maladaptive behaviors include, but are not limited to, behaviors that result in, or have the potential to result in, injury to self or others, or the destruction of property."

In no instance does CMS or BHDC policy limit the application of restraints to only situations where there is imminent danger. CMS allows that restraint be utilized when behaviors arise which could "potentially" result in injury or harm.

(4) The Policy also requires that a hierarchy of behavioral interventions be used, with least restrictive procedures preceding more restrictive restraints:

> Personal restraint of a client is used when the behavior is such that verbal control has been lost and other less restrictive measures have failed to control the behavior.

(5) Dr. LeBel provided an incomplete listing of the behavioral strategies used by Mr. Matson to address Mr. Cains's maladaptive behavior. Specifically, Mr. Matson spoke softly to Mr. Cains, then took Mr. Cains to the bathroom, then, at Mr. Cains's request, relocated Mr. Cain to a quiet location. Finally, Mr. Mattson used defensive blocking techniques to address Mr. Cains' aggressive behavior – all prior to the use of restraints. Mr. Matson clearly employed the hierarchy of behavioral interventions, beginning with less restrictive procedures, consistent with his training and CMS regulations. As noted by Mr. Mattson in his witness statement:

> I was at lunch with David. He had finished eating his sandwich and cucumber and put his tray up. He sat down and seemed fine. Shortly after he asked if he could go to the restroom. I followed him inside the bathroom because he seemed irritated beforehand. While in there I heard no abnormal sounds such as vomiting due to his history of intentional vomiting when he is upset. We went out and he asked if he could sit in the lobby to calm down. I said that's fine. Shortly after, he began screaming and cussing and ripped paper off of the wall to throw. He then jumped up after me and attempting to hit me. I applied personals by grabbing his arms and he ended up falling over. I did not land on him. He continued fighting and I rolled him on his left side as to not put any pressure on his stomach because he had just ate. At that time he was still fighting and Mandy joined to assist me, grabbing his hands, all while I was squatted over him, not putting any weight on him during any of this, holding his shoulder and sides. He was still continuously fighting and Ryann Campos showed up and held his legs down. Still fighting, We had him in personals for approx. 1 min and [redacted]

(6) Further, Dr. LeBel provided an incomplete listing of maladaptive behaviors which Mr. Cains demonstrated prior to the use of restraints. Most noteworthy, she failed to accurately report that Mr. Cains "charged" at Mr. Mattson. The event is described more fully in the Deposition of Mr. Matson. In his deposition, he noted

O. And then you said he --- he came after you?
A. Yes. He charged me.
O. Charged you.
A. Yes
(Mattson Deposition, Pages 101-103)..

Consistent with his training, Mr. Matson employed blocking techniques, including placing his hands on the inside of Mr. Cains' extended arms in an effort to prevent himself from being harmed by Mr. Cains. Unfortunately, Mr. Cains, a very large man with a weight of 244 pounds, caused both himself and Mr. Matson to fall to the ground. Having employed less restrictive behavioral strategies and subsequently being the subject of Mr. Cains's physical assault, Mr. Matson appropriately used personal holds – the least restrictive intervention that would protect himself, Mr. Cains and others from Mr. Cains's escalating behaviors.

Finally, Dr. LeBel implies that Mr. Mattson inappropriately took Mr. Cains to the ground. Mr. Mattson contradicts this opinion in his deposition. Mr. Cains' large mass and speed combined to lead both Mr. Cains and Mr. Mattson to fall to the floor.

O. How did he fall? What caused him --
A. We
O. to fall?
A. We just kind of tripped up on each other. It was all one big motion, like I had said.
O. Okay. And why did you not attempt to do the blocking technique where you block and kind of get out of his way?

A. I wouldn't have had room. I was against a ledge.
O. You were against a ledge?
A. Yes.
O. Why would a ledge prevent you from being able to do like this?
A. Because I would have fell over be- if he had put enough momentum into me.
O. Okay. So you guys fall- over.
(Mattson Deposition, Pages 1)

(7) Dr. LeBel turns the events completely on their head when she alleges that it was Mr. Matson who initiated contact with Mr. Cains:

> "In addition, it does not appear that DC initiated physical contact with staff or physically harmed anyone (emphasis added). Per Mattson's OLTC Witness Statement (labeled exhibit 9, p. 2), he (Mattson) initiated physical contact with DC ("I applied personal by grabbing his arms"). Mattson grabbed DC's arms. Mattson activated an autonomic, defensive physical response from DC referred to as the "Withdrawal Reflex" (Clarke & Harris, 2004). Mattson initiated the physical interaction with DC; he did so without first utilizing required supported stance and blocking techniques or any other form of nonviolent de-escalation required to be exhausted prior to physical restraint. (Pages 5-6)

Dr. LeBel did not consider the evidence in Mr. Mattson's deposition which more fully describes the event. According to the description of events offered by Mr. Mattson during his deposition, it was Mr. Cain who charged Mr. Mattson, initiating the process which led to both Mr. Mattson and Mr. Cains to fall onto the floor. Mr. Cains lunged and charged at Mr. Mattson. Given Mr. Cains' weight of 244 pounds, this assault caused Mr. Mattson to fall backward or on his side and Mr. Cains to land on top of or adjacent to him.

Mr. Mattson, the only eyewitness, describes the events as follows:

O. Okay. What's he doing as he's sitting there?
A. Just sitting. He was just sitting look- staring out.
O. All right. And then what happens?
A. He grabs a paper and goes after me.

O. Where does he grab paper from?
A. There was a flyer on the wall.
O. Does he stand up to grab it?
A. He grabbed it and then went after me. He was sitting down and then went after me to attack me.
O. What --- what kind of paper was it? Just---
A. It was just it was just a printout paper, just a flyer.
O. What did he do with it after grabs it?
A. He was throwing it and then went after me. He threw it down and then went after me.
O. He threw it down and then went after you. Did he say anything?
A. No. He just screamed "bitch."
O. He screamed "bitch"?
A. Yes. That I recall.
O. Anything else that you recall him saying?
A. No.
O. And then you said he --- he came after you?
A. Yes. He charged me.
O. Charged you.
A. Yes
O. Okay. Does --- describe that for me as best you
A. He just went to qrab me. I mean
O. How far away from him were you?
A. Maybe from here to that pole. Maybe a little bit shorter.
O. This pole?
A. Yeah, about there. Maybe to the chair.
O. My chair?
A. Between there.
O. Okay.
A. Yeah.
O. So about 6, 7 feet?
A. Maybe.
O. Okay. And when you say "charge, " was he running at you?
A. Lunging, running. Yeah, just --- he went after me.

He didn't really have room to necessarily run.
O. Can you --- do you mind standing up and showing me?
A. I -- as best as I can. Like, he just --- it was like just a classic --- like, he went to grab at me.
O. Okay. Went to grab at you?
A. Yes.
O. So not swing at you but grab at you?
A. Grab at me.
But, like he had --- like --- like I said, that distressed face.
O. Okay.
A. Like he was agitated and --- yeah.
O. All right. And --- okay. And then what --- what did you do?
A. I tried to hold him and we kind of just fell.
O. How did you try to hold him? Stand up and show us, please.
A. Like, I was --- like, I just kind of grabbed him by the shoulders the best as I could, you know, with him -- momentum --
O. Yeah.
A. and we just kind of stumbled over, you know.
O. Okay. So he's coming at you arms raised like this?
A. It --- yeah.
O. Like this?
A. Outwards, yeah.
And I just kind of grabbed, like, here and here. I didn't, like, grab by the wrist. You know, but, like we kind of just awkwardly fell.
O. Did he get a --- did he get a grip around you?
A. No, he didn't get a grip around me.
O. Okay. Sorry.
A. No, that's all right.
O. This won't take long.
So he's coming at you. Show me and slowly so --- so I can really see it: What --- what do --- show me what you do as he's coming at he's lunging at you.
What do you do? What do your hands do? Where do they go?

A. I'm just like --- biceps, like, arms.
O. Okay. So you would have your --- your right hand on his left bicep and your left hand on his right bicep?
A. Yeah.
O. Pretty much?
A. Pretty much, yeah.
O. Okay. And --- and do you stay there locked like ---
A. No.
Like we tripped. Like --- like, we lust kind of fumbled around. Because it was, like, all in one big momentum, you know.
O. Uh-huh. And you fall to the ground, and he hits his face on the ground?
A. No, he didn't hit his face on the ground.
It wasn't a fast f all. It was a controlled fall as much as I could control it. (Mattson Deposition Pages 100-103)

It is inconceivable that Dr. Lebel would allege that Mr. Mattson initiated the physical interaction when it was Mr. Cains who attacked him. Mr. Mattson's description indicates that he attempted appropriate blocking technique (engaging the inside of the arms at the biceps) but was unable to stop the attack. It was Mr. Cains' momentum which carried them to the ground.

Having employed defensive blocking techniques which included grabbing the inside of Mr. Cains's arms in an effort to avoid being attacked, Mr. Mattson and Mr. Cains fell to the floor. They "awkwardly fell" or "tripped." There was no effort on Mr. Mattson's part to place Mr. Cains on the ground. The fall to the ground occurred as a result of Mr. Cains' unprovoked attack.

(8) Finally, Dr. LeBel offers the highly unlikely theory that Mattson "grabbed DC's arms," and that:

> "Mattson activated an autonomic, defensive physical response from DC referred to as the 'Withdrawal Reflex' (Clarke & Harris, 2004)."

Dr. LeBel's theory that Mr. Cains demonstrated a "withdrawal reflex" as a result of Mr. Mattson's use of blocking techniques is inconsistent with our knowledge of neurology, neuroanatomy, and neurophysiology.

Clarke & Harris is a review of the spinal cord responses to noxious stimuli, with a particular focus on the response to painful stimuli following spinal cord injury. The intent of the authors was to assist researchers in improving the quality of studies aiming to understand the body's response to painful stimuli. The authors state:

> The article was published as a guide to researchers designing studies to investigate the body's response to noctious stimuli.

Dr. LeBel is incorrect when she describes the "withdrawal reflex" as "an autonomic, defensive physical response." The "withdrawal reflex" is neither an autonomic response nor defensive in nature.

The autonomic nervous system is a component of the peripheral nervous system that regulates involuntary physiologic processes including heart rate, blood pressure, respiration, digestion, and sexual arousal. It contains three anatomically distinct divisions: sympathetic, parasympathetic, and enteric. The autonomic nervous system is not involved in withdrawal reflexes. Withdrawal reflexes are generated through afferent and efferent fibers in the spinal cord.

In addition, the reflex is not defensive. Defense suggests a determination by the cortex to discriminate between those stimuli which are aggressive vs those which are not. In regard to spinal reflexes, the cortex is not involved.

The authors note that the utility of "withdrawal reflexes" is most often observed in the clinical assessment of individuals with brain or spinal cord injury:

> ...although these data indicate that differentiation of withdrawal reflexes is most readily seen from stimuli applied to the plantar surface of the foot.

Dr. LeBel's opinion appears to be purely speculative. Dr. LeBel does not offer any opinion as to how such an "autonomic, defensive response" would have been manifest in Mr. Cains's behavior. What would a "withdrawal reflex" have looked like? Would any observed "withdrawal reflex" have been sudden or slow? Would he have withdrawn his arms from his attempt to grab Mr. Matson? Would such a reflex have stopped Mr. Cains's forward motion? Would he have fallen backwards?

Further, the issue of the role of "higher centres" is important in understanding human motor behavior. In Dr. Lebel's view, simply blocking the biceps would be sufficient to cause Mr. Cains to stop his "charge" and retreat. To a degree of medical certainty, it is not likely that a "withdrawal reflex" occurred as a result of Mr. Mattson grabbing an arm or employing a blocking technique. The reasons that Mr. Cains charged at Mr. Mattson, although unknown, more than likely involved cognitive centers located above the spinal cord and would have been overcome by simply pressing on his biceps.

No Reasonable Effort at Least Restrictive Intervention and Non-violent De-escalation Intervention (Page 6)

Dr. LeBel stated that:

> "The documentation provided does not identify any reasonable effort to de-escalate DC's distress. The most basic de-escalation strategies (time and physical space) were not apparent in the direct care staff OLTC witness statements (Campos & Jones). Mattson appears to be the only staff member with DC at the time the problem started. Mattson's written OLTC witness statement (p. 1-2) regarding the sequence of actions is disjointed. Mattson describes DC as: 'sitting, then screaming and cussing, then ripping paper off the wall to throw'. It is unclear how ripping paper off a wall occurs in a seated position. Mattson says DC then "jumped up ... spitting and attempting to hit me." If DC was holding paper and attempting to throw it, one of DC's arms was likely elevated and rotated. It is not clear how quickly DC could rise to a standing position and attempt to hit Mattson. DC's physical actions were likely to have been slow, given his physical limitations. Mattson offers no detail about any verbal attempts he made to aid in calming DC, redirecting him, asking him to stop, offering DC any form of support, or utilizing the "supported stance" training.

Response:

(1) Mr. Mattson's written Witness Statement may appear somewhat disjointed. It was taken within a short time of the incident and, no doubt, Mr. Mattson was upset by Mr. Cains's death.

(2) In spite of this shortcoming, the Witness Statement indicates that Mr. Mattson did make reasonable efforts to employ the least restrictive intervention and non-violent de-escalation Intervention. Mr. Mattson wrote:

> We went out and he asked if he could sit in the lobby to calm down. I said that's fine.

(3) Dr. LeBel relies exclusively on the Witness Statement of Campos & Jones to conclude that "the most basic de-escalation strategies (time and physical space) were not apparent in the direct care staff OLTC witness statements." However, neither of these witnesses were present at any time before Mr. Cains charged Mr. Mattson resulting in the two men falling to the floor. Neither witness was in a position to comment on this issue at all.

However, if Dr. LeBel had relied upon Mr. Mattson's Witness Statement, she would have been compelled to reach the opposite conclusion: Mr. Mattson did make reasonable efforts to employ the least restrictive intervention and non-violent de-escalation Intervention.

(4) Dr. LeBel materially misrepresents the actual conduct of BHDC staff. As noted previously, a more detailed description of the staff response to the event is contained within Mr. Mattson's deposition, a document which Dr. LeBel has cited at various points in her Report but ignores in this discussion. Mr. Mattson's deposition indicates that the incident began in the dining area and was addressed with both "time and physical space" – Mr. Cains was permitted to use the bathroom, relocate to the lobby and given as much time as he needed to compose himself. However, the use of "time and physical space" was unsuccessful in helping Mr. Cains to control himself.

Use of Restraint Violated BHDC Attending Physician's Order

Dr. LeBel stated that:

> Staff could have and should have taken DC's medical risks into consideration (Evans, 58) and used another approach to help DC manage his distress. Moreover, Dr. Hamid did not approve of the use of floor/ground restraint for DC (77) nor was any restraint method identified in the IPP (483.450(d)(1)(i); Evans, 29, 35). Given the medical risk of restraint use with DC, BHDC could have put DC on their Do Not Restrain List but did not.

Response:

(1) Direct care staff, including Mr. Mattson, neither could have nor should have taken DC's medical risks into consideration and used another approach to help Mr. Cains manage his distress. A determination as to "another approach" would have required direct care personnel to make a medical determination – something which exceeded their training, experience or scope of practice. Only a health care provider could reasonably be excepted "to take DC's medical risks into consideration" and "devise another approach."

(2) Dr. LeBel does not appear to understand the role played by health care professionals in the delivery of behavioral services. As a matter of general practice, Dr. Hamid does not "approve" the use of any specific restraint. In executing the document, his review is performed solely for the purpose of proving medical clearance indicating that restraints can or cannot be safely used. In completing the Form "Medical Clearance for Restraint Use" he makes a determination that specific types of restraints can be safely used with or without conditions. Dr. LeBel has no qualifications which would support her ability to offer an opinion in this area.

(3) In regard to the care provided to Mr. Cains, Dr. Hamid did review the relevant documents and identified which restraint techniques could be safely used. His report states:

> "I have reviewed the medical history, the physical health issues and the social history for trauma caused by physical or sexual abuse, neglect, or exposure to violence for Mr. Cains and have determined that the following restraint techniques or devices can be used safely:
>
> Personal restraint, an emergency procedure limiting movement by the holding of a hand or limb;
> Chemical intervention ordered by the Physician;
> Protective Helmet;
> Papoose Board, a Mechanical Device limiting movement and range of motion;
> Wrist Restraint, a Mechanical Restraint device limiting movement and range of motion."

(4) Dr. Hamid did not identify any medical basis to restrict the use of restraints. In particular, he did not identify any medical contraindications to restraint use or any modification of restraint procedures which might be necessary to address any medical condition including the presence or GERD. Dr. Hamid identified no restrictions on restraint use related to mealtime or a requirement that the head remain elevated for any period of time. Staff were compliant with Dr. Hamid's assessment and treatment recommendations as he articulated them in the Form "Medical Clearance for Restraint Use."

(5) Further, there was no limitation as to whether or not restraints should or should not be applied in sitting or prone positions. Given his knowledge that, for example, use of a Papoose Board, can only be performed in a prone position, his report incorporates his opinion that these restraints can be used safely when either standing, sitting or lying in the ground.

(6) Dr, Hamid confirms this opinion in his deposition when he noted no evidence to support an association between restraint use and vomiting/aspiration:

> Q But to be clear, you do not think that a physical restraint of this sort -- are you saying you don't think the physical restraint had any causal effect on him vomiting and going into cardiac arrest?
> A I was not there, so I don't know how much strength Was used, but in real world, again, physical, if somebody is restrained and he chokes to death, you know, does not happen. So I don't think so physical restraint -- there's no way for me to tell because I'm not there at that particular point in time and how much strength was used. No.
> Q I don't think I quite understand something you just said.
> MR. GILLISPIE: Hey, Kristi, could you read back his passage just there for me?
> (WHEREUPON, the court reporter read back the previous answer.)
> BY MR. GILLISPIE:
> Q If you could, finish your thought for me about in the real world. In the real world, what? I don't quite understand what you meant there.
> A I mean, I have not come across any case studies that the patient who was physically restrained ended up choking to death because of that physical restraint. I have not seen any case reports. It has not come in my practice, you know, even working at BHDC here and other facilities.
> (Hamid Deposition, Pages 37-38)

(7) Dr. Lebel claims that "Given the medical risk of restraint use with DC, BHDC could have put DC on their Do Not Restrain List but did not." However, as noted above, Dr. Hamid is a medical practitioner and did not believe that such a risk existed. Dr. LeBel, lacking any medical training, experience or licensure, has no standing upon which to contradict Dr. Hamid's opinion.

Use of Restraint Violated Policy Standards

Dr. LeBel alleged that:

> The use of restraint was not consistent with BHDC policies (BATES: 4342). According to the deposition testimony of S. Evans, Residential Services Director, restraint is to be used, "Only as an emergency measure but only if absolutely necessary to protect client or others from injury*" (p.30*); per ICF/CMS regulation 483.450(d)(5) and Evans (2022, p.32), "restraints must be designed and used so as not to cause physical injury to the client" (emphasis added) and implementation of behavior management policy and practices is done when an individual's actions are aggressive, disruptive, and/or present a danger to the individual or others, are managed with the least restrictive method (emphasis added)." In this case, less restrictive interventions were not documented and the client (DC) was not protected. The client (DC) was fatally injured as a result of unwarranted restraint. No injury to staff was documented and no threat of serious injury was documented. Furthermore, the unwarranted restraint used was not described, addressed or documented in the facility's policies or in DC's IPP, as required by federal regulation (483.450(b)(1)(IV)); it was, in fact, unauthorized. This use of restraint was not justified per BHDC policy.

Response: Dr. LeBel is incorrect on several points.
First, Dr. LeBel notes that "restraint is to be used, 'Only as an emergency measure but only if absolutely necessary to protect client or others from injury.'" Staff did not violate this directive. Based upon their training and experience, staff made a clinical judgment based upon the existing conditions. The need to protect themselves, Mr. Cains and others was met at the time that restraint was utilized.

Second, as noted above, Dr. LeBel has made a medical determination that the use of restraints caused harm. She is not qualified to offer such an opinion.
Third, a causal relationship between the use of restraint and vomiting, in this specific instance, has not been proven. The evidence indicates only that Mr. Cains vomited while restraints were applied. This association does not mean that a causal relationship exists. Dr. LeBel is not qualified to reach a conclusion about medical causality.

Third, Mr. Cains indicated that it was his intent to harm Mr. Mattson when Mr. Cains spat at Mr. Mattson and attempted to strike Mr. Mattson. These behaviors represented a potential for harm and were justifiably addressed by physical restraint. Mr. Mattson and other staff were fully compliant with BHDC policies when they used physical restraints in this emergency situation and attempted to prevent Mr. Cains from engaging in these behaviors.

Fourth, the deposition of Mr. Mattson indicates that he took specific steps to de-escalate the behavior and employ less restrictive procedures including blocking Mr. Cains attempt to physically harm.

Fifth, as noted above, Mr. Cains was not "fatally injured as a result of unwarranted restraint." Dr. LeBel failed to establish any causality in regard to the relationship between restraint use and vomiting.

Sixth. Dr. LeBel does not recognize that CMS allows the use of restraints for two general purposes. CMS states:

> The facility may employ physical restraint only -
>
> (i) As an integral part of an individual program plan that is intended to lead to less restrictive means of managing and eliminating the behavior for which the restraint is applied;
> (ii) As an emergency measure, but only if absolutely necessary to protect the client or others from injury; ((483.450(d)(1)(i-ii))

The conduct of staff in regard to this specific incident was in response to an emergency, In such an emergency, staff are not required to meet the conditions of (483.450(d)(1)(i). Emergency use of restraints is addressed in (483.450(d)(2)(i)

> Authorizations to use or extend restraints as an emergency must be:
> (i) In effect no longer than 12 consecutive hours; and
> (ii) Obtained as soon as the client is restrained or stable

In such emergency situations, the documentation occurs after the restraint procedure, rather than preceding it.

It is important to note that CMS has determined, through its survey procedure, that BHDC is compliant with all required aspects of behavioral service. Dr. LeBel's unilateral determination that BHDC is in violation of CMS standards is contradicted by CMS itself.

Use of Restraint Violated BHDC Staff Training and Practice Standards

Dr. LeBel alleged that:

> DC died as a result of being physically restrained by staff on the floor/ground. According to the deposition of BHDC Staff Development Coordinator and Non-Violent Crisis

Intervention Restraint Trainer (Hise, 2022):• (p. 21, 18-20): "The only reason that they would use the transition to the ground is putting a resident in mechanical restraint." • (p. 22, 8-9): "I do not teach staff to hold a resident on the ground." • (p. 22,19-21): "The training that we teach in NCI is a standing personal hold and a seated personal hold. There is no on-the-ground personal hold." • (p. 24, 20+): "... use verbal strategies to de-escalate and redirection also teach blocking, stepping back..."• (p. 25): "In the supported stance, if a resident was coming at you, you would put your hands up and deflect and step away." • (p. 28, 6) "No, sir; do not restrain by yourself, use a supported stance to prevent falling over, if restraint on the ground, then prepare for mechanical restraint."• (p. 34*) So Booneville Human Development Center does not authorize the use or train staff in the use of restraining clients on the ground except when doing so for the specific purpose of transitioning to a mechanical restraint; correct? Hise's Answer: "Correct."*
BHDC Staff Development Coordinator and Restraint Trainer Mark Hise affirms that the fatal restraint used on DC was not authorized, that the facility did not adhere to relevant restraint-related policies, and BHDC direct care staff did not follow the training they were provided.

There are several steps the Respondent should have taken to prevent this situation including but not limited to:

1) Adhering to international, federal, state, and facility standards identified above,
2) Adhering to AR DDS policy 311-D,
3) Adhering to BDHC relevant policies,
4) Using only BHDC approved and taught restraint methods,
5) Adhering to DC's Attending Physician's Orders and ensuring DC remained upright for one hour after meals,
6) Not laying hands on and grabbing DC's arms,
7) Attempting non-violent de-escalation techniques, both before initiating the restraint and after DC was taken to the ground, when staff could have simply given DC space as opposed to forcefully holding him on the ground,
8) Per Hise (2022), following BHDC restraint training and NCI protocol and using supportive stance blocking and/or a pivoting technique, particularly if there was a location/position concern,
9) Adopting an organized approach to preventing the use of restraint such as the Six Core Strategies© or Ukeru which was developed with a DD population,
10) Allocating resources to train, retrain, and support/maintain staff competence in restraint prevention and establishing a culture of non-violence,
11) Teaching staff to not restrain any patient with a comorbidity that compromises digestion, respiration, cardiac functioning, etc.,

12) Obtaining external consultation to more effectively respond to DC's distress without hands-on procedures, e.g., considered safety circles, Ukeru approach (blocking pads and ensuring soft items in the environment), etc.,
13) Ensuring patients with [redacted] including DC, are put on the Do Not Restrain List,
14) Ensuring physician's orders are known and followed by staff,
15) [redacted]
16) Emphasizing restraint prevention and implementing effective alternatives to restraint use such as sensory-based approaches and other methods for staff to support clients in distress without hands-on procedures,
17) Ensuring greater medical oversight of the use of restraint including nursing presence for initiating, monitoring, and determination of earliest possible release,
18) Explicitly prohibiting ground restraint unless medically contraindicated,
19) Developing an organizational action plan of restraint prevention/reduction with a committee representing leadership, staff and families/persons-served.

In short, the Respondent should know the standard of care is rising. In an era of evidenced-based practice, accountability to the persons-served and others is owed. Exemplar programs and organizations serving a similar population have done significant work in creating low/no restraint services for people with developmental disabilities. This information should have compelled the organization to action to change their use of restraint with persons-served creating a safer environment of care for staff and patients alike.

Response:

This section of Dr. LeBel's report, perhaps the most important in the entire document, must be placed in the context of Dr. LeBel's ideological beliefs in order to be fully understood.

In January 2007, CMS's Final Rule governing patients' rights went into effect. The revisions to CMS standards were viewed as a setback in the opinion of some professionals, including Dr. LeBel, who have advocated for the elimination of seclusion and restraint in federally-funded facilities. In 2008, Dr. LeBel published a manuscript denouncing the regulatory change abd calling for an alternative approach to standard setting – one which would rely upon local quality improvement practices (LeBel. 2008):

> However, a new challenge to the national effort has emerged. In January 2007 CMS's Final Rule governing patients' rights went into effect (7). The Final Rule appears to move to a centrist position, dilute previous protections, focus on "safe" seclusion and restraint practices despite identifying their risks, and ultimately retreat from the standard-setting high ground claimed during the seven years the Interim Final Rule was in place. (LeBel 2008, Page 195)

In spite of her acknowledgement that the new regulations were more "centrist," Dr. LeBel called out mainstream advocacy and professional groups for their support of the revisions:

> It appears that CMS ultimately yielded to some of the most influential stakeholders who were among the 4,200 Interim Final Rule commenters, including the American Medical Association, the American Psychiatric Association, the American Hospital Association, and the National Association of Psychiatric Health Systems. These provider groups ... lobbied against the Interim Final Rule. (LeBel 2008, Page 195)

Dr. LeBel and her colleagues, most notably Kevin Ann Huckshorn who was cited as a contributor to the 2008 critique, were undaunted. Dr. LeBel proposed that advocates for the elimination of seclusion and restraint focus their efforts on States and specific facilities. She noted that these jurisdictions could implement policies and procedures which exceeded the "minimal standards" contained in the new CMS regulations:

> Ultimately, advancing seclusion and restraint standards is in the hands of facility and agency administrators. (LeBel 2008, Page 195)

However, Dr. LeBel went further, calling for a more activist role on the part of professionals seeking to in achieve the changes to clinical practice which she advocates. She stated that standard-setting entities, most likely including States, facilities, legislators and the Courts, should challenge this regulatory retreat:

> The failure to recognize these advances and incorporate this knowledge into the new standards not only threatens practice gains but also has spurred legal advocates to analyze the impact of this change, examine federal statutory language, and consider challenging this regulatory retreat (Huckshorn K, personal communication, March 19, 2007). In a quality improvement model, states and facilities must not rely on national standard-setting entities to lead change toward preventing and even eliminating seclusion and restraint. (Page 196)

It is worth noting that while Dr. LeBel incorporates 13 references in support of her opinions, her beliefs are not widely supported and the references provide only the thinnest of justifications for her opinions. In many respects, she is merely referencing her own thinking. For example, Kevin Ann Huckshorn, noted as a contributor to LeBel (2008), is the lead author of 3 of the references in the Cains Report. (Dr. LeBel's CV indicates that she served as a member of Dr.

Huckshorn's Doctoral Dissertation Committee or Doctoral Dissertation Discussant. In addition, Dr. LeBel is a co-author of all three of the citations.) Four references are to depositions collected in this matter. Documents prepared by the United Nations (UN) and World Health organization (WHO) and a British charity are also included. The list of references also includes one basic science article (Clark and Harris, 2004). Finally, there is one reference to CMS and that applies only to psychiatric hospitals.

It is self-evident that Dr, LeBel's opinions fall outside of the mainstream of thinking on the current standard of care for facilities such as BHDC. Dr. LeBel's dissatisfaction with the "centrist" opinion of CMS indicates that her opinions cannot be considered to be representative of the majority opinion of her peers regarding the standard of care for the use of seclusion and restraint. Further, given her non-centrist position on these issues, it is reasonable to question whether she can describe the standard of care for the use of seclusion or restraint at all. Having broadly rejected the appropriateness of seclusion and restraint in general, how could she define their appropriate use in the specific instance of Mr. Cains? Therefore, she does not appear to be qualified to offer an opinion that would reasonably reflect the current standard of care in the field.

In addition, Dr. LeBel likely sees her consultation as an opportunity to practice the same "legal advocacy" that she called for in 2008. As she noted,

> In a quality improvement model, states and facilities must not rely on national standard-setting entities to lead change toward preventing and even eliminating seclusion and restraint. (LeBel 2008, Page 196)

This language ties closely to the specific critique offered of care at BHDC:

> In an era of evidenced-based practice, accountability to the persons-served and others is owed. (LeBel Report, Page 10.)

Quality improvement is an approach to practice which involves constant revisions to practice parameters. As noted by CMS:

> Quality is defined by the National Academy of Medicine as the degree to which health services for individuals and populations increase the likelihood of desired health outcomes and are consistent with current professional knowledge.
> Quality improvement is the framework used to systematically improve care. Quality improvement seeks to standardize processes and structure to reduce variation, achieve predictable results, and improve outcomes for patients, healthcare systems, and organizations. (accessed on 1/5/2023 at https://www.cms.gov/Medicare/Quality-Initiatives-Patient-Assessment-Instruments/MMS/Quality-Measure-and-Quality-Improvement-

#:~:text=Quality%20improvement%20is%20the%20framework,%2C%20healthcare%20systems%2C%20and%20organizations.)

Quality improvement is a dynamic process which can result in changes to care practices, However, quality improvement outcomes do not represent the standard of care. The results of quality improvement are highly variable depending upon the area of study, the target population, local resources and other factors and conditions, proposed interventions, and the types of data collected and their analysis. To suggest, as does Dr. LeBel, that quality improvement approaches supersede the existing standard of care is inappropriate.

However, this philosophy explains Dr. LeBel's opinions in the Cains matter. Having implied that quality improvement represents the standard of care, Dr. LeBel gives herself the latitude to specify what "improvements" "should" be made at BHDC in order to meet this new standard. This approach results in her making recommendations for 19 specific changes to practice at BHDC. In Dr. LeBel's thinking, BHDC cannot meet the "standard of care": without implementation of these requirements. She sees herself, and her role in the Cains matter, in heroic terms:

> Without forthright, consistent leadership to elevate practice standards, the possibility of seclusion and restraint "regulatory scotoma" looms large— (Lebel 2008, Page 196)

Dr. LeBel's use of this consultation as an opportunity to "elevate practice standards" rather than function in a more "centrist" role as an arbiter of the current standard of care is readily transparent. She states:

> Exemplar programs and organizations serving a similar population have done significant work in creating low/no restraint services for people with developmental disabilities. This information should have compelled the organization to action to change their use of restraint with persons-served creating a safer environment of care for staff and patients alike. (LeBel Report, Pages 10-11)

At this point, Dr. LeBel is no longer discussing the standard of care. She is advocating for the elimination of restraints at BHDC – a position which is inconsistent with the standard of care. In regard to specific claims made by Dr. LeBel in this section, Dr. LeBel claims that:

> "DC died as a result of being physically restrained by staff on the floor/ground."

However, reaching such a conclusion would require Dr. LeBel to make a medical judgment, something which she is not qualified to do. Dr. LeBel assumes that since Mr. Cains vomited while he was being restraint, the restraints caused him to vomit. The simultaneous occurrence of two events does not determine causality. No evidence has been presented to establish causality. Indeed, BHDC staff dny any knowledge that such an association may exist. As noted by Mr. Hise:

> Q Uh-huh. Okay.
> A I personally never heard of a death due to a restraint incident and choking together.
> Q I'm sorry. Say that again.
> A In my career, I haven't experienced a choking death with a resident during a restraint procedure. (Hise Deposition, Page 41)

This perspective was shared by Dr. Hamid:

> Q If you could, finish your thought for me about in the real world. In the real world, what? I don't quite understand what you meant there.
> A I mean, I have not come across any case studies that the patient who was physically restrained ended up choking to death because of that physical restraint. I have not seen any case reports. It has not come in my practice, you know, even working at BHDC here and other facilities.
> (Hamid Deposition, Page 38)

In addition, Dr, LeBel stated that:

> BHDC Staff Development Coordinator and Restraint Trainer Mark Hise affirms that the fatal restraint used on DC was not authorized, that the facility did not adhere to relevant restraint-related policies, and BHDC direct care staff did not follow the training they were provided.

This was not the case. Mr. Hise repeatedly stated that he was unaware of the specific circumstances around the restraint and death of Mr. Cains and could not render an opinion about the quality of care that was rendered.

> So if a staff member, if a direct care staff member, were to hold a client on the ground because that client is having a behavior episode and that staff member were to hold that client on the ground, restrain that client while they're on the ground for several minutes, hoping the client will calm down, would that be an improper restraint?
> A I really don't have enough information to speculate on that. That's -- you know, I don't know the details of the situation. (Hise Deposition, Page 21)

And:

> But, assuming he's telling the truth about being close to that ledge, couldn't he still have sidestepped away? Couldn't he have sidestepped away to avoid the client and the ledge?
> A It's kind of hard to say, I mean, unless you're in that situation yourself. I mean, I can't -- I don't want to say that he did the wrong thing or did the right thing. I can't really say. (Hise Deposition, Page 54)

Dr. Lebel mistakenly implies that the NCI curriculum used to train staff on behavioral management techniques represents actual BHDC policy. It does not. The curriculum cited by Dr. LeBel is used for educational not regulatory purposes. Although they were not specifically asked, staff could have reasonably believed that the application of personal holds on the ground was less restrictive than the application of personal holds followed by the use of a mechanical restraint (Papoose Board).

As is evident from the results of regular CMS surveys, BHDC demonstrates a high level of compliance with CMS policy. In contrast, there is no expectation that staff will master and consistently apply every element of the NCI curriculum. After all, staff are deemed to be proficient in behavioral techniques if they achieve a test score of 70%.

> Q And my understanding is, in order to pass, each person has to get 70 percent or better, at least 70 percent of the answers correct; is that right?
> A Correct.
> Q And that's both for the restraint portion of the test but then also just the overall score of their test as well?
> A Correct. (Hise Deposition, Page 15)

Effectively, the NCI curriculum represents a practice parameter in which substantial deviation from the curriculum is anticipated. (See Eddy D. A Manual for Assessing Health Practices and Designing Practice Policies: The Explicit Approach. American College of Physicians. 1992)
As a result, Mr. Hise would expect a high degree of variation in the application of skills acquired as a result of the training he provides.

In regard to certification, the Crisis Prevention Institute (CPI) only certifies Trainers. CPI does not certify users or others who receive training in NCI. As noted by CPI:

> Nonviolent Crisis Intervention® Trainings previously concluded with a post-test and evaluation which measured that growth and learning goals were met.
> Now CPI Nonviolent Crisis Intervention® 2nd Edition Training concludes > with a classroom test to measure staff growth and determine if learning goals are met. The culmination of the program is also an opportunity for staff to take steps towards developing an action plan to implement the strategies learned in the program into everyday practice. (CPI Nonviolent Crisis Intervention® 2nd Edition Training Instructor Guidance Resource.)

Finally, Dr. LeBel includes a list of 19 specific actions which she states that BHDC "should have taken to prevent this situation." However, most of these recommendations are not contained within the standard of care embodied in CMS, AR DDS and BHDC regulations. Dr. LeBel justifies her recommendation that these 19 additional requirements are incorporated within the standard of care by stating:

> In short, the Respondent should know the standard of care is rising. In an era of evidenced-based practice, accountability to the persons-served and others is owed. Exemplar programs and organizations serving a similar population have done significant work in creating low/no restraint services for people with developmental disabilities. This information should have compelled the organization to action to change their use of restraint with persons-served creating a safer environment of care for staff and patients alike. (LeBel Report, Pages 10-11)

As noted previously, this paragraph represents Dr. LeBel's philosophy about restraint use. Her statement does not reflect the standard of care. However, Dr. LeBel's statement clearly demonstrates the underlying bias she holds against the role of CMS in setting the standard of care. In recommending that 19 additional requirements be met in order for BHDC to meet the standard of care, Dr. LeBel denies the validity of the role of CMS in setting standards of care. She suggests that the standard of care is "rising" but offers no definition of what she means or why this should.d be the case. To suggest that BHDC is required by the standard of care to be "an exemplar program or organization" and deliver "low/no restraint services for people with developmental disabilities" is simply an exercise in advocacy, mirroring what she has articulated in her publications – that having moved to a "centrist" position, CMS should not be relied upon to define the standard of care. She has called for "legal advocates" should focus their efforts on effecting change at the State and facility level. In regard to the matter of evaluating whether or not BJHDC met the standard of care in rendering care to Mr. Cains, these opinions, and the burden of additional requirements needed to meet the standard of care, are simply not relevant.

Opinion Two: The respondent facility's emergency response policy fell below the standard of care.

Dr. LeBel stated that:

The Respondent facility's policy, which prevented non-medical staff from calling 911, created an unnecessary obstacle to emergency response and life-saving intervention. The artificial layer of on-site communication created a dangerous circumstance for DC and all residents and likely contributed to DC's death. This approach to emergency intervention no longer occurs in other DDS state systems, such as Massachusetts, New Jersey, and Washington. Massachusetts DDS policies have required staff working in DDS settings to report events that they have reason to believe are harmful, including calling 911, since 1999 (#1999-4). New Jersey DDS enacted Danielle's Law in 2003 requiring staff working in services for people with intellectual/developmental or traumatic brain injury to call 911 when there is a life-threatening emergency to prevent delayed medical response Division of Developmental Disabilities | Danielle's Law (nj.gov). Washington state encourages staff and caretakers serving people with developmental disabilities to dial 911 and reach out online in the event of emergency circumstances (Report Concerns Involving Vulnerable Adults | DSHS (wa.gov)).

Recognizing the importance of unimpeded 911 access, broad federal legislation (Kari's Law) enacted in 2020 establishes that employers have a duty of care and a legal responsibility to help protect anyone using their phone system. When an emergency call takes place from within an organizations' network and the caller cannot connect to 9-1-1, or if dispatchers cannot pinpoint the caller's location, the employer can be liable in the event of an unfavorable outcome due to a delayed response. New legislation has also introduced penalties for any business or organization that does not comply.

Response:

(1) As previously noted, Dr. LeBel has no standing as a medical expert and has no basis for offering an opinion as to the standard of care for the delivery of medical services, including emergency medical services, at a facility such as BHDC.

(2) As previously noted, Dr. LeBel has stated that CMS regulations are the standard of care for the delivery of health care services at ICF IDDs including BHDC. CMS conducts surveys of BHDC and has determined that the system of emergency response services at BHDC is reasonable and consistent with the standard of care for settings like BHDC which exist in rural, medically-understaffed areas. Dr. LeBel's opinion is inconsistent with that of CMS.

(3) As previously noted, Dr. LeBel has stated that CMS regulations are the standard of care for the delivery of health care services at ICF IDDs including BHDC. She has also noted that jurisdictions are permitted to provide additional services which may exceed the standard of care but that there is no Federal requirement for them to do so. Dr. LeBel has publicly expressed her frustration that CMS does not do more to restrict the use of restraints at publicly funded facilities. These opinions have no merit. The State of Arkansas is not obligated to implement the service system modifications described as currently in place in Massachusetts, New Jersey, or Washington nor is the State of Arkansas compelled to respond to Kari's Law or some other, irrelevant corporate mandate.

(4) Finally, Dr. LeBel claims that "the artificial layer of on-site communication created a dangerous circumstance for DC and all residents and likely contributed to DC's death." Based upon the available evidence (summarized in my general report), I most strongly disagree. In using its own staff, BHDC was able to provide emergency care to Mr. Cains within one to two minutes of the call for assistance. In contrast, it took 13 minutes after the 911 call for emergency medical services to arrive on campus and begin to provide care to Mr. Cains. Further, it took an additional 9 minutes for emergency medical personnel to achieve a partial reopening of the airway. There is no reason to believe that the outcome would have been any different if the partial opening of the airway occurred at 22 minutes rather than 24 minutes after the onset of the event.

The IDT must not conclude that a money management program is inappropriate based solely upon the level of intellectual or physical disability of the client.

The CFA must be reviewed at least annually per 42 C.F.R.483.440(f)(2). As a part of this annual review, a client's ability to participate in money management will also be reviewed. The annual review should always include an update to the CFA and take into consideration any changes in the client's circumstances since the last IPP. The need for a formal money management program must be addressed in every client's IPP by the IDT on an annual basis.

The determination of the appropriateness of a formal money management program is made by the IDT and must be based upon a CFA. The IDT discussions resulting in that determination must be established through documentation in the client's IPP.

(Rev. 135, Issued: 02-27-15, Effective: 04-27-15, Implementation: 04-27-15)

§483.420(a)(5) Ensure that clients are not subjected to physical, verbal, sexual or psychological abuse or punishment;

Guidance §483.420(a)(5)

Identification of patterns or isolated instances of physical, verbal, sexual or psychological abuse or punishment without prompt identification and corrective action by the facility would result in a non-compliance determination for this Standard and Condition level non-compliance.

The facility must develop and implement systems that protect clients from all forms of abuse, neglect, or mistreatment, including client to client abuse, neglect, or mistreatment.

a. The facility is expected to ensure that staff possess and demonstrate needed competencies to effectively and appropriately interact with clients.

b. The facility must monitor to assure that systems are effectively implemented and the facility takes immediate actions to address circumstances where abuse, neglect, or mistreatment have occurred and prevent reoccurrence.

c. The facility must be organized in such a manner as to proactively assure clients are free from any threat to their physical and psychological health and safety.

d. The facility must act to prevent physical, verbal, sexual or psychological abuse.

If the facility fails to implement appropriate corrective action, the potential of additional threats to the clients remain at the facility.

"Threat", for the purposes of this guideline, is considered any condition/situation which could cause or result in severe, temporary or permanent injury or harm to the mental or physical condition of clients, or in their death.

"Abuse", for the purposes of this guideline, is the willful infliction of injury, unreasonable confinement, intimidation or punishment with the resulting physical harm, pain or personal anguish.

Physical abuse refers to any action intended to cause physical harm or pain, trauma or bodily harm (e.g., hitting, slapping, punching, kicking, pinching, etc.). It includes the use of corporal punishment as well as the use of any restrictive, intrusive procedure to control inappropriate behavior for purposes of punishment.

Verbal abuse refers to any use of insulting, demeaning, disrespectful, oral, written or gestured language directed towards and in the presence of the client. Psychological abuse includes, but is not limited to, humiliation, harassment, and threats of punishment or deprivation, sexual coercion and intimidation (e.g. living in fear in one's own home). Since many clients residing in ICF/IIDs are unable to communicate feelings of fear, humiliation, etc. associated with abusive episodes, the assumption is made that any actions that would usually be viewed as psychologically or verbally abusive by a member of the general public, would also be viewed as abusive by the client residing in the ICF/IID, regardless of that client's perceived ability to comprehend the nature of the incident.

Sexual abuse includes any incident where a client is coerced or manipulated to participate in any form of sexual activity for which the client did not give affirmative permission (or gave affirmative permission without the attendant understanding required to give permission) or sexual assault against a client who is unable to defend him/herself.

The facility must implement, through policies, oversight and training, safeguards to ensure that clients are not subjected to abuse by anyone including, but not limited to, facility staff, consultants or volunteers, staff of other agencies serving the client, family members or legal guardians, friends, other clients, or the general public.

The facility must take whatever action is necessary to protect the clients residing there. For example, if a facility is forced by court order or arbitration rulings to retain or reinstate an employee found to be abusive, the facility must take measures to protect the clients of the facility (such as assigning the employee to an area where there is no contact with clients).

W128

(Rev. 135, Issued: 02-27-15, Effective: 04-27-15, Implementation: 04-27-15)

§483.420(a)(6) Ensure that clients are free from unnecessary drugs and physical restraints and are provided active treatment to reduce dependency on drugs and physical restraints;

Guidance §483.420(a)(6)

The facility must implement an aggressive active treatment program, which includes appropriate replacement behaviors, to address the reduction/elimination of physical restraints and drugs to manage behaviors.

For purposes of this Guideline drugs to manage behavior are "unnecessary" if there is evidence the drugs are being used:

- In excessive dose (duplicate therapy);
- For excessive duration;
- Not monitored adequately;
- Without adequate indications for its use;
- With adverse consequences which indicate the dose should be reduced or discontinued; or
- Any combination of the reasons listed above.

The long term use of a drug/physical restraint to manage behavior combined with one or more of the following may indicate unnecessary use:

- The client's developmental and/or behavioral needs are not being met and the appropriateness of less restrictive approaches to manage inappropriate behaviors should be questioned;
- Staff behavior may be prompting behaviors in clients which result in the chronic use of physical restraints and drugs to control behavior;
- Staff may have inadequate training and/or experience to provide active treatment and employ preventive measures;

Restraints applied for behaviors when less restrictive measures have not been tried or have been tried and found to be just as effective.

- use of least restrictive interventions;

- use of positive behavior intervention programming; and §483.430(e)(3) Staff must be able to demonstrate the skills and techniques necessary to administer interventions to manage the inappropriate behavior of clients.

Guidance §483.430(e)(3)

Staff correctly and consistently implement the interventions specified in the behavior plans of clients with whom they are working.

§483.440(f)(3)(i) Review, approve, and monitor individual programs designed to manage inappropriate behavior and other programs that, in the opinion of the committee, involve risks to client protection and rights;

Guidance §483.440(f)(3)(i)

Any program that utilizes restrictive or intrusive techniques must be reviewed and approved by the specially constituted committee prior to implementation. This includes, but is not limited to:

- restraints;
- drugs to manage behavior;
- restrictions on community access;
- contingent denial of any right; or
- restrictions of materials or locations in the home.

The committee should ensure that consequences within a written behavior management program do not violate the client's rights.

There is no requirement for the committee to evaluate whether the proposed program is consistent with current practices in the field. Documentation should verify that the specially constituted committee considered factors, such as whether less intrusive methods have been attempted, whether the severity of behavior outweighs the risks of the proposed program and whether replacement behaviors are included within the plan.

Any revision to a behavior plan that increases the level of intrusiveness must be re-reviewed by the specially constituted committee. The committee need not reapprove a program when revisions are made in accordance with the approved plan. For example, if the physician changes the dosage of a medication in accordance with the drug treatment component of the active treatment plan to which the legally authorized person has given consent and which has already been approved by the committee, then there is no need for the committee or the legally authorized person to reapprove the plan. Generally, this would also apply if the medication was changed to another within the same therapeutic class or family.

§483.450(b)(1)(i) Specify all facility approved interventions to manage inappropriate client behavior;

Guidance §483.450(b)(1)(i)

All interventions for the management of inappropriate client behaviors which are approved for use in the facility are clearly stated and described in its policy. Examples of positive interventions include, but are not limited to, verbal praise reward systems, and prompting. Examples of negative interventions include, but are not limited to, removal of a privilege, implementation of restraint, and/or the use of exclusionary time out.

W277

(Rev. 135, Issued: 02-27-15, Effective: 04-27-15, Implementation: 04-27-15)

§483.450(b)(1)(ii) Designate these interventions on a hierarchy to be implemented, ranging from most positive or least intrusive, to least positive or most intrusive;

Guidance §483.450(b)(1)(ii)

Policies and procedures must include a clear progression as to how staff implement interventions to manage inappropriate client behavior.

Facility policy and procedures must define the entire hierarchy of possible interventions from the most positive, functionally appropriate approaches to most intrusive approaches authorized. The facility determines at what level in the hierarchy the IPP will begin for each client based on their individual assessment. The plan must still begin at the least intrusive technique shown effective for that client. Individual plans should specify the specific techniques that have been determined through assessment to be least restrictive for each client.

The facility policy for unexpected behavioral incidents must provide direction for the staff in the utilization of the hierarchy. For clients not on a behavior plan, staff must apply the appropriate level of intervention per the established hierarchy, including emergency measures to prevent harm to self or others.

W278

(Rev. 135, Issued: 02-27-15, Effective: 04-27-15, Implementation: 04-27-15)

§483.450(b)(1)(iii) Insure prior to the use of more restrictive techniques, that the client's record documents that programs incorporating the use of less intrusive or more positive techniques have been tried systematically and demonstrated to be ineffective; and

Guidance §483.450(b)(1)(iii)

Policies must be implemented to ensure that all restrictive procedures begin at the lowest level of the hierarchy unless there is documented evidence that less intrusive interventions have been tried and have been found to be ineffective.

The facility is not required to justify discontinuing the use of a more restrictive technique before initiating a less restrictive technique, since the intent of the regulation is to use the most positive, least intrusive technique possible.

In emergency situations where an unanticipated behavior requires immediate protection of the client or others, the technique chosen is the least restrictive appropriate technique possible.

§483.450(b)(1)(iv) Address the following:

W279

(Rev. 135, Issued: 02-27-15, Effective: 04-27-15, Implementation: 04-27-15)

§483.450(b)(1)(iv)(A) The use of time-out rooms;

Guidance §483.450(b)(1)(iv)(A)

"Time-out room" is defined as a separate room that is used to remove a client from stimulation that may be triggering and reinforcing maladaptive behavior. The facility must have written policies and procedures for the use of time out rooms which address all the requirements of 483.450 (c) (1-4) standard: time out room.

W280

(Rev. 135, Issued: 02-27-15, Effective: 04-27-15, Implementation: 04-27-15)

§483.450(b)(1)(iv)(B) The use of physical restraints;

Guidance §483.450(b)(1)(iv)(B)

"Physical restraint" is defined as any manual hold or mechanical device that the client cannot remove easily, and which restricts the free movement of, normal functioning of, or normal access to a portion or portions of a client's body. Examples of mechanical devices may include arm splints and mittens.

Policies and Procedures must address:

- the types of physical restraint that are allowed in the facility;
- the persons who apply such restraints;
- the parameters for duration of application;
- the methods that assure the health and safety of clients while in restraints; and
- the specific training required for staff allowed to apply such restraints.

§483.450(c)(3) Clients placed in time-out rooms must be protected from hazardous conditions including, but not limited to, presence of sharp corners and objects, uncovered light fixtures, unprotected electrical outlets.

Guidance §483.450(c)(3)

Because placement in the time out room is typically secondary to extreme behaviors, it is acceptable that there be no furniture in this room.

A door that opens inward can potentially be held closed, either intentionally or inadvertently, by the client in the room, thereby denying staff immediate access to the room.

Guidance §483.450(c)(4)

The documentation in the client's record accurately reflects planned (e.g. part of the IPP) usage and presents a picture of events prior to, during, and following the use of time-out. The IPP should include direction as to how often data must be collected during each use of time out for each individual client.

§483.450(d)(1)(i) As an integral part of an individual program plan that is intended to lead to less restrictive means of managing and eliminating the behavior for which the restraint is applied;

Guidance §483.450(d)(1)(i)

The use of physical restraint is specified within the IPP. The plan must address:

1) The specific type of client behavior to be managed by this plan;
2) The less restrictive behavioral approaches which were previously used, but were unsuccessful;
3) The hierarchy of measures that must be utilized prior to the application of physical restraint;
4) The type of physical restraint;
5) The type of client behavior that would indicate that the patient is calm and can be released from the restraint; and
6) The replacement behavior being taught to the client to reduce the need for future restraints.

§483.450(d)(1)(ii) As an emergency measure, but only if absolutely necessary to protect client or others from injury; or

Guidance §483.450(d)(1)(ii)

Physical restraint may be used as an emergency intervention only in situations where the client is exhibiting behaviors which:

1) the client has not exhibited before;

2) were not identified in the functional analysis of behavior; or

3) are harming other people or themselves.

When there are repeated episodes of the use of physical restraint as an emergency safety measure, these episodes should be assessed for their predictability by the IDT, and revisions to the IPP considered addressing the behaviors through a formal behavior plan in order to reduce/eliminate the use of physical restraint.

W297

(Rev. 135, Issued: 02-27-15, Effective: 04-27-15, Implementation: 04-27-15)

§483.450(d)(1)(iii) As a health-related protection prescribed by a physician, but only if absolutely necessary during the conduct of a specific medical or surgical procedure, or only if absolutely necessary for client protection during the time that a medical condition exists.

Guidance §483.450(d)(1)(iii)

Physical restraint during medical procedures must be utilized only when absolutely necessary and be used as a last resort in order for the facility or practitioners to deliver needed medical care to the client. The restraint must be released as soon as the medical procedure is completed unless it is necessary to continue restraint for a longer period of time to continue to deliver care or to prevent the client from displacing tubes or dressings. These restraints may only be used as long as the physician indicates them to be necessary.

For instances where physical restraint are used by the facility or a practitioner during a medical procedure, the client record and interviews should verify that less restrictive measures were attempted before using physical restraint and verify whether any injuries occurred during the use of the physical restraint. Written orders by medical personnel for the application of a physical restraint should include the reason that the restraint is necessary, the type of restraint to be used and the length of time the restraint will be applied.

A restraint device used to prevent a client engaging in self-injurious behavior is not considered a restraint for medical condition.

§483.450(d)(2) Authorizations to use or extend restraints as an emergency measure must be:

Guidance §483.450(d)(2)

Facility policies should list who in the facility is allowed to authorize the emergency use of restraints or to extend the use of an emergency restraint, and the training that is required for those persons who may authorize. Documentation in the client record in those instances should confirm that the facility follows that policy.

W298

(Rev. 135, Issued: 02-27-15, Effective: 04-27-15, Implementation: 04-27-15)

§483.450(d)(2)(i) In effect no longer than 12 consecutive hours; and

Guidance §483.450(d)(2)(i)

This regulation does not mean that restraints may be authorized to be applied for up to a 12 hour period. The client must be released from the physical restraint as soon as the client is no longer a risk to self or others. Once the behavior has ceased, the emergency has ended, and the client has been released, another authorization would be required for any new emergency situation.

The 12 consecutive hour period is the absolute maximum period of time that emergency physical restraint may be utilized for a client during an individual behavioral incident. It is reasonable to expect that the facility will reassess the emergency situation for any client who remains in physical restraint for longer than one hour and reassess the situation at least every 30 minutes thereafter up to 12 hours when the physical restraint must be removed.

W299

(Rev. 135, Issued: 02-27-15, Effective: 04-27-15, Implementation: 04-27-15)

§483.450(d)(2)(ii) Obtained as soon as the client is restrained or stable.

Guidance §483.450(d)(2)(ii)

There may be instances where the maladaptive behaviors of a client or clients escalate into a serious and immediate event that must be de-escalated quickly in order to prevent harm to clients, staff, other clients, or by standers when incidents occur in the community. In these instances, the staff should contact the appropriate person to obtain authorization for the use of physical restraint as soon as the situation is stable. Retrospective documentation of the incident should confirm the need for authorization after application.

§483.450(d)(3) The facility must not issue orders for restraint on a standing or as needed basis.

Guidance §483.450(d)(3)

§483.450(d)(4) A client placed in restraint must be checked at least every 30 minutes by staff trained in the use of restraints,

Guidance §483.450(d)(4)

The frequency of monitoring will vary according to the type and design of the device and the psychological and physical well-being of the client. The facility should be checking the client often enough to adequately assess the physical status of the client (e.g., circulation, respiration and vital signs) of the client and the need to continued restraint. The more restrictive the intervention, the greater the risk to the client and the more often the client must be assessed. Frequent assessment will assure that the client will be released as soon as possible, however, in no instance may the staff go longer than 30 minutes without checking the client.

§483.450(d)(6) for a period of not less than 10 minutes during each two hour period in which restraint is employed,

Guidance §483.450(d)(6)

This requirement does not apply to cases of medical restraints that are specifically ordered for the immobilization of bones and joints during the physical healing process involved with fractures, sprains, etc. (e.g. a broken bone immobilized by a cast or splint). See 331 483.460(c) regarding surveillance of skin integrity during the use of medical restraints.

However, if a mechanical physical restraint is applied to an extremity to prevent a client from removing post-operative sutures, the restraint must be released every two (2) hours for a period of not less than ten (10) minutes in order to maintain adequate circulation.

Mechanical restraints placed on the client during sleeping hours must be medically based and specifically ordered by a physician. There should be evidence in the client's record why the mechanical physical restraint is necessary during sleeping hours. While it is not necessary to wake the client every two (2) hours to release the restraint and provide opportunity for exercise, the staff must check the restraint frequently during the night to ensure that the restraint is still properly applied and the client appears comfortable.

A bed or play equipment with bars that prevent the client from leaving the bed or voluntarily climbing out of the bed are barred enclosures. The use of such enclosures must be a part of the written IPP and behavioral assessments must clearly state why such an enclosure is necessary, the risks of using the enclosure versus not using it and what less restrictive measures have been tried prior to the implementation of the barred enclosures.

ARKANSAS DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES
DIVISION OF DEVELOPMENTAL DISABILITIES SERVICES
DDS DIRECTOR'S OFFICE POLICY MANUAL

Policy Type	Subject of Policy	Policy No.
Service	Behavior Management	3011-D

1. Purpose. This policy is intended to provide guidelines for managing challenging behaviors of individuals residing in DDS operated programs (Human Development Centers).

2. Scope. This policy applies to all DDS operated programs (Human Development Centers) and their employees/volunteers. All such programs will include a review of this policy as part of the employee orientation process.

3. Definition of Terms

Behavior management, as covered by this policy, serves as a guide to ensure that an individual's actions that are aggressive, disruptive and/or present a danger to the individual or to others are managed with the least restrictive method. Behavior management is not a substitute for other forms of active treatment and is incorporated into program plans, based on individual needs.

Qualified Mental Retardation Professional (QMRP) or QMRP designee is used in this policy as a person designated to monitor, supervise, and make decisions regarding specific behavioral situations. QMRP/designee will be assigned by the administrator of the DDS program in which he/she works. Criteria for selection will involve prior training, experience, and demonstrated ability in the area of behavioral management. The QMRP/designee must be in a position that is on a level involving supervisory or decision-making responsibilities. The QMRP designee is authorized to perform any of the duties of the QMRP as outlined by regulations or policy.

Interdisciplinary Team (IDT) is defined as a group of persons (professionals, paraprofessionals and non-professionals) who develop an individual's program plan and whose participation is required in order to identify the needs of the individual and to devise ways to meet those needs. The IDT includes the individual and may also include those persons who have worked or will work most closely with the individual, those persons who provide needed assessments or services, and the individual's family, guardian, or advocate. In general, the IDT includes persons professionally qualified in such fields as health care, education, psychology, and social work.

Licensed nurse is defined as a registered nurse or licensed practical nurse. The agency may use a physician, in lieu of a licensed nurse, but this is not required.

Replacement: This policy replaces DDS Commissioner's Policy 3011-D, dated January 28, 1981, March 13, 1981, and DDS Director's Policy dated October 1, 1991; December 1, 1993; and January 30, 1998.

Reviewed: Arkansas Legislative Council Rules and Regulations Subcommittee _____, 2003

Policy Type	Subject of Policy	Policy No.
Service	Behavior Management	3011-D

4. Policy

NOTE: It is the philosophy of the agency to utilize all positive approaches to behavior management prior to and in conjunction with more restrictive programmatic techniques. Positive approaches may include, but are not limited to: positive reinforcement, gentle teaching, redirection, graduated guidance, and modeling of appropriate behaviors. Measures to address positive behavior should be incorporated into formal program efforts to the extent feasible.

Efforts at positive programming prove to be successful with the majority of maladaptive behaviors. All Human Development Centers will maintain policies and procedures for positive programming. The use of behavioral programming other than positive is designed for the individuals who repetitively engage in dangerously aggressive behavior and for whom other interventions have not been effective. All behavior programs developed in accordance with this policy will be designed to reduce or eliminate the target behavior(s) within a specified time frame, will be supported by documentation that positive, less restrictive methods have been systematically attempted and failed, will be monitored regularly by the individual's QMRP and Interdisciplinary Team (IDT), and will be revised if proved to be ineffective. The potential harmful effects of each procedure will be weighed carefully against the harmful effects of the targeted behavior and the IDT will determine if the harmful effects of the behavior outweigh the potentially harmful effects of the procedure.

Category I:

Category I procedures are those which may be used without prior approval of the Human Rights Committee or psychology staff. To ensure consistency, they should be addressed by the IDT. Frequent use (as determined by IDT) of these procedures with an individual indicates the need for consideration of the development of a behavior plan by the individual's IDT.

The individual must be supervised during these procedures. With the exception of verbal intervention, any use of Category I procedures, whether part of a formal behavior program or not, requires documentation on a Behavior Incident Report, Data Sheet, or other locally used behavior documentation system.

A. Verbal Intervention: Verbal intervention is utilized to stop an inappropriate behavior in progress and involves telling the individual "no" or "stop", identifying the behavior, and redirecting to an appropriate activity. The command is given in a firm but normal tone of voice. Threats, screaming, yelling or issuing repetitive or multiple sets of commands are not considered verbal correction and are inappropriate.

B. Separation From Activity Up to 30 Minutes: The individual is prevented from engaging in a reinforcing activity in which he/she has displayed inappropriate behavior. Separation is maintained within the same room or outdoor area where the activity is conducted. This is considered a Category I procedure if compliance by the individual can be accomplished through verbal prompting/physical prompting without requiring personal restraint (holding).

C. Separation From Setting Up to 30 Minutes: The individual is removed from the area where the reinforcing activity is taking place. Separation must occur under observation either outdoors or in a living or training area (bathrooms, storage rooms and closets do not constitute living/training area). This is considered a Category I procedure if compliance by the individual can be accomplished through verbal prompting/physical prompting without requiring personal restraint (holding).

Note: Separation to Allow Calming (STAC) – Also available is the positive procedure of STAC whereby the person is encouraged to move to an area away from the person or situation that upset them. At the same time, they are assisted in directing their attention to talking about the problem, listening to music, talking about family, relaxing quietly, going for a walk, etc. The activity should be chosen by the person in need of calming. When sufficiently calm, staff will assist the person in resuming normal activities.

D. Assignment of Additional Chores: The individual is assigned additional chores as a consequence for inappropriate behavior. Additional chores may be assigned only if such chores are already a part of the Individual Program Plan (IPP) and are not designed to replace work assignments of housekeeping personnel.

E. Restitution: The individual is cued to restore any property damaged, stolen or defaced. If appropriate to the individual's level of functioning, he/she may be cued to offer a verbal apology to the offended person. If appropriate to the individual's ability to comprehend, monetary reimbursement for the value of the damaged or stolen property may be required if this is a part of the IPP. In lieu of full value, a symbolic portion of the value may be required. Monetary reimbursement requires Human Rights Committee approval and Guardian consent.

Note: The individual is not degraded nor put on display while restoring damage. The individual is given the same equipment and protection to complete the restitution as would normally be given to a person not responsible for the damage.

F. Withholding Privileges: The individual loses a particular privilege following the occurrence of an inappropriate behavior. Privileges include such things as special planned community activities. However, trips off grounds are special and should only be curtailed if problem behavior is anticipated during that trip. Examples of situations where problem behaviors may be anticipated include a problem behavior having already occurred and the person is not fully calm, or, a problem behavior has not yet occurred, but there are indications that a problem behavior is likely. The curtailing of trips off grounds should be done after consultation with psychology staff, or with supervisory staff if psychology staff is not available. Privileges do not include basic living activities, such as meals, habilitation activities, or basic rights afforded all individuals.

G. Personal Property Removal (less than one hour): Removal of an individual's personal item that is being used in an inappropriate or unsafe manner or location. For example, if an individual disturbs others in a common TV room by playing his radio too loudly and will not reduce the volume when instructed, the radio may be removed from that individual for a time not to exceed one hour. The item will be held in a secure area and will be returned to the individual's room or to the individual directly, as appropriate (See Section 6, Page 8 of 9).

Category II:

Category II procedures may only be used as part of a formal behavior program designed by the individual's IDT, written by a licensed psychological professional, and approved by a licensed psychologist, physician, Human Rights Committee, and the facility administrator. Behavior program approval will include receipt of a signed consent from the individual and/or guardian.

A. Response Cost: The individual loses reinforcers previously earned in a behavior management system, (i.e., Token Economy Program)

B. Overcorrection - includes the following procedures:
   1) Restitutional Overcorrection: Requires the individual to restore the environment to a state that is better than it was before the occurrence of the inappropriate behavior.

   2) Positive Practice Overcorrection: Requires the individual to engage in an intensive practice period in which the alternative appropriate behavior is practiced.

C. Contingent Personal Property Removal (up to 24 hours maximum): Immediate removal of an individual's personal belongings contingent on the occurrence of a targeted behavior. Confiscated property will be held in a secure area and will be returned to the individual's room or individual directly, as appropriate. This procedure is considered Category II if the individual voluntarily (without duress or coercion) surrenders the property upon request.

Category III:

Category III procedures may only be used as part of a formal behavior program designed by the individual's IDT, written by a licensed psychological professional, and approved by a licensed psychologist, physician, other professionals, as indicated by the nature of the program, Human Rights Committee, and the facility administrator. Behavior program approval will include receipt of a signed consent from the individual and/or guardian. The individual's record documents the IDT's conclusion that the potential harmful effects of each restrictive procedure (restraint, etc.) are clearly outweighed by the harmful effects of the targeted behavior.

Policy Type	Subject of Policy	Policy No.
Service	Behavior Management	3011-D

A. Separation Time Out (Activity or Setting): Placement of an individual in a quiet area away from reinforcing activities or persons as a result of an inappropriate behavior occurring. The individual will be visually monitored during the time out. Further conditions include either:

1) Separation lasting for over 30 minutes to one (1) hour maximum.

2) Separation (any length of time) requiring physical intervention/personal restraint to ensure compliance.

B. Contingent Personal Property Removal (up to 24 hours maximum): Immediate removal of an individual's personal belongings contingent on the occurrence of a targeted behavior. Confiscated property will be held in a secure area and will be returned to the individual's room or to the individual directly, as appropriate. This procedure is considered Category III if the individual does not voluntarily surrender the property upon request, and it must be physically removed.

C. Sensory Deprivation: Involves the temporary impeding of one of the individual's senses for a period of time, contingent upon the occurrence of the target behavior. Most often, this procedure includes only the use of a blindfold or cloth placed over the individual's eyes when it has been shown to facilitate calming. The individual must be visually supervised during the use of this procedure, which may be used in combination with other Category III procedures, as designated in the individual program. It could also include lessening auditory input by covering the individual's ears, or covering a body part (usually the hands) to limit tactile stimulation, hand in mouth, or biting.

D. Restraint: When utilizing restraint as a programmatic option, a hierarchy of lesser restrictive procedures will be attempted prior to restraint, except in limited cases where this is clearly clinically contraindicated. IDT consideration will be given to parent/guardian notification of the use of restraint and address it in the behavior program.

1) Personal Restraint: In order to prevent personal injury or serious property damage, the individual or a portion of an individual's body is immobilized by another person or persons in order to prevent personal injury or serious property damage. Approved methods of intervention must be in the individual's behavior program. This is planned personal restraint, contingent upon occurrence of a target behavior. When available, a licensed nurse should monitor the personal restraint and/or check the individual's physical condition as soon as possible following restraint.

Excluded as personal restraint are: physical assistance, prompting of graduated physical guidance to assist individuals during such procedures as toothbrushing and feeding, or to control random head or arm movements during such procedures as haircutting, or the use of physical assistance in escorting, redirecting, or in manual guidance techniques are not considered personal restraint and do not require documentation as personal restraint. Also excluded as programmed personal restraint is the use of personal restraint in an emergency situation (Section 6, Page 8 of 9*) or during a necessary medical or dental procedure.

In the event of personal restraint, the QMRP/designee of the area must be notified as soon as possible. Programmed personal restraint will occur until the individual is calm and will not exceed fifteen (15) minutes. The IDT will define what constitutes calm behavior for this individual when used in a behavior program.

2) Mechanical Restraint: In order to prevent personal injury or serious property damage, the individual or a portion of the individual's body is immobilized until calm by an approved device or devices which may also prevent normal functioning, as described in section C, above. Restraints must be checked for safety and integrity prior to use. The device's use will not exceed 15 minutes without an extension of time approved and documented by the QMRP/designee, preferably, after face-to-face attention. Unless otherwise determined by the IDT, QMRP/designee extensions will be obtained every 15 minutes until the individual is calm. The IDT should define what constitutes calm behavior for this individual when used in a behavior program. Unless determined clinically contraindicated by the QMRP/designee, should the time in restraint reach 55 minutes, the individual must be released for five minutes for motion, liquid intake, or toileting.

Should time in restraint reach 1 hour and 50 minutes, the individual must be released for at least 10 minutes–for motion, liquid intake, or toileting. If this 10-minute release is judged to be a danger to the individual and/others, additional staff should be called to ensure safety for all concerned. In addition, the individual will be checked, face to face, at least every 15 minutes for safety, well being, and integrity of the restraint. Constant observation is required.

Note: On-site monitoring by the QMRP/designee is recommended. When available, a licensed nurse should monitor the mechanical restraint. If unavailable to monitor, a licensed nurse shall check the individual's physical condition as soon as possible following restraint, but in no case later than thirty minutes after the initiation of the restraint.

Excluded as programmed mechanical restraint is the use of restraints in an emergency situation (Section 6, Page 8 of 9), during a necessary medical or dental procedure, or to promote healing following a medical procedure or injury. Devices such as a helmet which are not prescribed for the purpose of restricting an individual's movement and/or normal functioning, but rather for their safety and protection are not considered a mechanical restraint.

Note: For medical management, please refer to local site Policy on drugs to manage behavior (Behavior Management/Psychiatric Interventions).

5. Conditions for Use of Behavior Programs.

A. A formal behavior program will be developed by the IDT, written by a licensed psychological professional, and approved by a psychologist. It will include the following elements:

1) Description of the behavior to be modified;
2) Functional Analysis;
3) Thorough description of each step of the program to include duration and intensity of specific procedures, the methods of monitoring and analyzing the process, and special precautions that will be taken;
4) Description of any alternatives to the specific procedures;

B. The Individual Program Plan or behavior program will include:
1) Description of all procedures already attempted;
2) Side effects and risks, if any, of the intervention, in comparison with those of allowing the maladaptive behavior to continue; and
3) Behavioral objectives.

C. Behavior Management Procedures should be used in order of least restrictive, unless clinically contraindicated. Exceptions to this order must be fully documented and substantiated as to why more restrictive procedures are advisable before less restrictive ones.

D. All persons administering Category II and III procedures must have been trained in the administration of those specific procedures and have personally experienced those particular procedures, unless medically contraindicated for that person.

E. The Human Rights Committee will review all Category II and III programs at least every 6 months.

F. IDT consideration will be given to seeking consultation from outside expertise when IDT staff resources have been exhausted, as evidenced by the use of Category III procedures for over one (1) year without significant progress. If an outside consultant has been used without success, the agency should continue to access this or other outside expertise until an effective strategy is realized.

An outside consultant is defined as a professional of any discipline and who is not a member of the IDT. For instance, the outside consultant may be a member of the HDC staff not on the identified IDT, the agency staff, or a professional not affiliated with the agency.

6. Emergency Procedures. Nothing in this policy prohibits the use of emergency restraint (mechanical or personal), confiscation of any item used in a threatening manner, or removal from the environment for the purpose of protecting the individual and others around him/her. This includes the use of restraint procedures in the course of an established program, when the individual becomes a danger to him/herself or others, prior to staff being able to implement a lesser restrictive hierarchy. However, it is emphasized that emergency procedures may not be used at frequent intervals, becoming a routine method of intervention. If emergency procedures are utilized three times in a six-month period, the IDT will meet to conduct a functional analysis and develop an appropriate plan of action. The emergency use of restraint must conform to ICF/MR regulations and must be reported immediately to the facility administrator or designee.

7. Prohibitions: These activities are expressly prohibited.

   A. Corporal punishment - refers to the application of painful stimuli to the body as a penalty for certain behavior, and includes, but is not limited to, hitting, pinching, the use of electrical shock or other infliction of pain, whether or not applied as part of a systematic behavior intervention program.

   B. Individuals who receive services from the agency disciplining other individuals unless involved in an organized and approved self-governing program. Individuals will not participate in the actual administration of discipline.

   C. Seclusion of an individual alone in a room or other area from which entry/exit is prevented. This does not include placement in a time-out area for brief, programmed time segments, as part of a behavior program that meets all applicable standards.

   D. Unless specifically requested by family/guardian, any procedure that denies visitation or communication with family members.

   E. Any procedure that denies sleep, shelter, bedding, food, drink, or use of bathroom facilities.

   F. Inappropriate vocalizations, maltreatment, neglect, or forced exercise.

8. Informed Consent. The individual served and/or guardian, as appropriate, will be provided a copy of the behavior program which utilizes Category II and III procedures. Informed consent will be obtained PRIOR to the implementation of the program, with the following procedures:

Policy Type	Subject of Policy	Policy No.
Service	Behavior Management	3011-D

A. Persons 18 years of age or older who have no legally appointed guardian may give informed consent for their behavior program. If there is a question about the individual's ability to give informed consent and no guardian can be located, appropriate legal action must be pursued to have someone appointed who can give consent.

B. Consent by the legal guardian(s) is required if guardianship has been established.

C. The legally adequate consent will:
1) Specify, in terms that are easily understood, the restrictive or intrusive procedure(s) involved;
2) Inform the person(s) giving consent of any potentially harmful effects of the procedure(s);
3) Be time-limited, not to exceed one year; and
4) State that consent may be withdrawn at any time.

9. Uncategorized Procedures. In the event a proposed procedure does not readily fit in one of the prescribed categories, it may be utilized on an emergency basis, if necessary, at the discretion of the administrator or designee until the appropriate category is determined.

NOTE: Behavior Management Policy 3011-D does not preclude the use of other restrictive/intrusive procedures that would prevent serious bodily harm and/or destruction of property or death. These procedures can only be considered when lesser restrictive procedures have been proven ineffective or their implementation are determined to be clinically contraindicated. Approvals required are the same as those for Category III procedures. Additional approvals may be required as deemed necessary by the facility administrator.

BEHAVIOR REPORT NARRATIVE SUMMARY

RECEIVED DEC 19 2019 SUPERVISORS ROOM SAN DIEGO, CA 92037

INSTRUCTIONS: Describe what happened. DO NOT INCLUDE personal opinions or comments. Legible Signature, Title, Date.

David was sitting on the bench outside of the classroom and was crying. When asked what was wrong he kept repeating "I'm in trouble, I'm in trouble." His teacher Paula Angel informed me that David had behaviors with throwing objects etc. ~~It took~~ It was almost time for Lunch, so I asked David if he was ready to get something to eat, he nodded yes. Once we got outside the Hampton building, David pushed over the outside table (Crying the whole time). I counseled with David and David said he had a headache. I encouraged him to come with me to see the Nurse and she may be able to get him something for his headache, David (still crying) complyed. He asked me if there's work tomorrow and I said "Yes", but it's almost the weekend". When we were halfway across the dining room, David picked up a Christmas ornament and threw it across the room, almost hitting another client. I held David in personal restraints ~~and~~ 2 minutes until he calmed. Again I encouraged him to come see the Nurse

David came with me. While waiting in line he asked me "Work tomorrow?" and I answered "yes, but it's close to the weekend. David then took off into the Rec. Room and staff followed. After calming him he seen the Nurse and we went to eat Lunch. David's blood-sugar was low and he needed to eat as soon as possible. Once we got to the food line, David picked up the Christmas decorations and tried to throw them, I intervened and David tried to bite himself. At this point I held David in personal's (about 5 min) to keep him from self injury and harming others. LaRonda Vickers came in and after David calmed, we escorted him to Mobile to return to his living area to eat and calm down before returning to schedule. BEHAVIOR REPORT NARRATIVE SUMMARY

INSTRUCTIONS: Describe what happened. DO NOT INCLUDE personal opinions or comments. Legible Signature, Title, Date.

D.C cried for around fifteen minutes. He got up from his workstation and walked up to me and began spitting on me several times. He took off his hat and hit me several times with it. I tried to restrain him and he began slapping me. A nurse was called and she checked his blood sugar. It was normal. He then sat alone (supervised) in hallway crying off and on until lunch time. At that time I handed him over to the staff he eats lunch with.

Within five minutes of training David picked up an object to throw at me I asked him to stop and he did but began crying uncontrollably for about 30 minutes. He kept repeating that he wants to move upstairs at Davison House and that he misses his mom. Medical came and assessed his behavior ~~and he got a couple of shots to calm him down~~ Physical OCT was administered to him down. About twenty five minutes later he picked up another object to throw at me I asked him to stop. He was sent back to his living area.

D.C. had just come into the Store Building after he had finished his lunch around 1145 A.m. and was sitting down in a chair behind a table and after about five minutes he jumped up and flipped the table and screamed i hate you son of a bitch for no reason that i know of. I told D.C. he needed to calm down and that everything would be alright and that he didn't even have to work today if he didn't feel like it. D.C. started crying and said am i in trouble and i said no you not in trouble i just want you to calm down. D.C. went to work at 1230 on his own without being told. He still seemed to be a little agitated.

DC was waiting in line for lunch when he became agitated and bit himself on his hand. Staff (EH) was in line with DC and talking with DC and another client (RJ) before DC bit himself. Staff asked ~~DC~~ Self DC if he would rather eat back at the dorm where it was Quieter. DC said "NO I want to stay here." Staff said "ok but let's not bite ourselves. If it's to loud it's OK to go back. I'm ok with that. DC said No I want to stay. DC calmed down and continued to get his lunch. Staff didn't see any marks at that time but will check again later when returning to living area.

DC
DS came on to Mobile Calm and Sat down. Mobile started to take off and DS (DC) stood up and hit Staff (MF that was sitting in the seat across from him. I asked him to stop and sit down he hit me again and Sat down and started to bite himself on the outter wrist. I had to use personal restraits on him till mobile stopped and then I escorted him to the back seat (MF) due to him acting out the Client Sitting next him was ready to go off himself. DS then proceeded to bang on the window and started to bite himself again. I then asked him to stop but he cont. with the behavior. I then had to hold him in personals again and he then bit me on the finger. Then we got to his living area to drop him off and the Blue staff said he needed to go to his work area. Mobile took us to the stone and DS cont. with his behavior hitting the windows and attacking staff. Staff from stone came out and assisted to get him off mobile. When DC had calmed down Staff took him to Medical and they took care of his bite mark and Kelly Herra Nurse made out a marks card.

Time to go back to work from break. David started working with no problems. A few moments later he hit staff with his hat. Asked David to stop. He started crying and asking if he was in trouble. I explained to him that he was not in trouble. He then went over and started hitting the window. Asked him to stop without success. Held him in personals for approx 1 minute. He sat down + cont. to cry but had no more physical or verbal aggression.

Staff prompted DC to come get his meds and then went to get another client. When staff started back down the hallway DC was walking towards another client (CC) with the fire extinguisher Raised above his head. Staff intervened and DC turned and threw the fire extinguisher at staff. At this time DC was placed in Personal Restraint to ensure the safety of everyone in the area. While in restraint DC continued to scream and spit at staff. After approx. 3 minutes (1642-1645) DC calmed and complied with all requests. He took his medicine, but was still upset. Staff counseled and was able to calm DC. Staff checked DC for marks and none were noted at the time. No further incidents occurred.

DC came back from schedule anxious. Went to his room and refused to get out of bed to take his afternoon medications. Staff allowed process & cool down time, and tried again. DC became more agitated yelling, spitting, throwing objects, cussing, attempting to hit staff. DC was placed in personal restraints for 45 seconds until calm and compliant to take his meds. After DC got his med he went into his room, got ready for a bath and then began slamming the tub room door, biting self and attempting to hit staff. Staff placed DC in personal restraints again for about 2 minutes. Once DC was calm enough to be released, he was released. DC got into the tub, crying and still upset. QIDP Justin Tobb authorized personals. Medical checked blood sugar it was 94. No marks found at this time.

Prior to being seated for supper, client DC became agitated and tried biting himself. Staff intervened and used graduated guidance to redirect D.C to his room. Staff counciled with DC about his behavior and he appologized, but was still agitated. After a few minutes, client DC came out of his room to the dining area and had sat at his seat when he picked up his glass of tea and threw it at staff and began to scream and shout. Staff intervened and used graduated guidance to redirect D.C from the dining area to his room. D.C was still shouting and screaming and went to bite himself. Staff than held D.C in P.R for 30 seconds. DC was still attempting to bite himself and scratch staff. D.C eventually calmed down and was released from P.R @ 1731. Staff counciled with D.C and allowed processing time. DC appologized to staff. He opted to stay in his room till everyone else was finished eating. DC eventually come out of his room and ate his supper and was calm. No physical marks where found on D.C

When David C. came to the Store Building he was crying and telling he wanted to go back to his living area so we had him sit in a chair and put his head on the table and rest. Some more clients came in to break room and he got up and said he wasn't going to work and then tried to hit another client. I had to grab him to keep him for hitting anyone and held him in personal restraint for about ~~3 or~~ 4 minutes. I asked him if he was calm and he said he wanted to go back to his living area but he remained sitting and I let him calm for awhile and he calmed and was good when it was time to go to work we asked him to get up and started tearing books which he did and worked good till quitting time.

@1645 while waiting to be seated for supper D.C. became agitated & grabbed the fire extinguisher and threw it down on the ground & started to bite himself, spit & curse at staff. Immediately staff intervened & used graduated guidance to remove D.C. from the enviroment into his bedroom so he could calm down. D.C. continued to bite & try to hit staff. Staff then put D.C. in personal restraints for approximently 5 minutes @ 1650 to prevent further injury to himself & others. No marks were found on DC. After allowing time to calm client D.C. began to apologize to staff. D.C. was succesfully redirected back to his seat for supper. D.C. than became agitated again & tried to hit staff & spit at staff. Staff had to put D.C. in PR @1700 for approximately 5 minutes to prevent further injury to himself & staff. Staff then prompted D.C. to take deep breathes & to think about his actions. After allowing processing time D.C. had apologized to staff but still appeared to be agitated. D.C. was successfully redirected back to his chair. A few moments later D.C picked up his cup & attempted to ~~throw~~ throw it at staff. D.C. started to bite & spit staff again put D.C. in PR @ 1708 for approx. 3 minutes. Staff ~~prop~~ Prompted D.C. to take deep breaths to calm & think about his actions, after allowing processing time D.C. complied & began apologizing to staff. D.C. was successfully redirected back to his seat for supper. P.S. notified. No marks cord needed. Rachel Dunsford RCT 3-15-19

DC's blood sugar was checked by nurse. It was 95. Shortly after having blood suger checked and getting noon meds, DC got in line for lunch and attempted to rip off the papers on the door to commons. He could not, because they were taped to the inside of the door. He then turned to another individual who was standing behind him and then attempted to hit the individual (SW). Staff intervened. Labeled, redirected and seperated DC from the setting. Staff then notified PS and medical staff of attempted PA and DC repeatedly saying "I don't feel good" while crying. No marks on DC as he did not ever make any contact. DC remains agitated.

DC was riding mobile to dental clinic when he started to grab for staff, and attempted to hit staff (EH). DC also begin to spit and cuss at staff. DC then tried to bite himself. STaff grabbed for DC to prevent him from harming himself. DC again begin to spit and hit staff. STaff (EH) held DC in personals for Two minutes. Staff explained to DC that if something was bothering him to just let us know. It was better to talk then to hit or spit at people. Staff asked DC if he was ready to talk. DC said yes and he was Sorry. DC Calmed at that point. when Staff and DC got to dental Clinic staff checked DC for Marks. DC had a Small mark on his hand where he had bitten himself. Marks Cand was filled out. DC was Calm. PS notified for Personal retraints.

After allowing DC time to dress himself after shaver. Staff went to client room and had prompted DC to put the cushion on and to start laundry. DC started Spitting. Screaming "Fuck You" "Bitch" and yelling other things staff could not understand. Staff allowed DC process time. Staff then asked DC to stop and DC began Spitting, biting self, and got up to attack staff. DC was then held in personal restraints until he calmed. (3 min) PS notified, medical notified. QIDP Tim Aldridge authorized personal restraints. When DC calmed he was released. DC then got his laundry and took it to the laundry room. No marks found @ this time.

The teacher assistant assigneed to my room stated that D.C. was leaving the room upset, so I went to see what was going on and met him in the hall upset and crying. I tried to talk to him but he was crying hard and I Couldnt understand him. He then tried to hug me and I stepped away and said how about a fist bump. He got even more upset and took off down to the stairwell and ripped the thermostat off of the wall. D.C. was held in personal restraints for around three minutes. We talked to D.C. trying to calm him and tried to release him but he then started hitting staff and spitting at staff. D.C. was placed in emergency mechanical restraint. Medical & P.S. notified

Gus Calvo authorized the personal & mechanical restraint

DC was in his room getting ready for his Shower when he became agitated and Slammed his door. Staff went to check on DC and ask what was wrong. DC started to Cuss and took a picture off his wall and threw it towards Staff. The Picture Shattered. Staff got DC to Calm down and step away from the Broken glass. Staff (SW) Cleaned it up. DC was Still Calm at this point. Staff left DC in his room to Calm down a little more. Staff went to check on DC and he was Crying. Staff again asked DC what was wrong. DC said he wasn't feeling good. Staff Talked with DC a little more and was able to Calm him. DC was Calm. Medical was notified, Blood Sugar was Checked, 101, and the Nurse gave him his Medicine.

DC arrived at work set down finished drinking his soda, got up to throw it away walked back to chair picked it up and threw it at staff. Tried going to window with his fist up, but staff prevented him from getting to window. Staff held him in personals for approx 3min. Staff counseled, used graduated guidance to another room. Allowed processing time, time out to calm, and seperated him from activity for 30 min. After this he complied with staffs request to come set back down at work area until mobile came to pick him up. Checked for marks before leaving none found at this time.

BEHAVIOR REPORT NARRATIVE SUMMARY

INSTRUCTIONS: Describe what happened. DO NOT INCLUDE personal opinions or comments. Legible Signature, Title, Date.

David came to Hemp showing physical aggression, verbal aggression and non compliance. Staff counseled with David but he refused to calm down. Staff called the nurse and David received 10 mgs of Haldol and 1 mg. of Ativan, David did calm down some, but he was still showing bad behaviors. Staff sent David back to his living area.

David was throwing rocks at mobile. David was taking his hat off and hitting staff with his hat. David picked up the broom as to hit staff with broom.

DC was in his room, he had his trash can and threw it down the hall way, Staff intervened and ask what was wrong, DC did not say and began screaming at staff. Staff asked if he wanted to take a nap, he refused and continual screaming, Staff continued to counsel asking if he wanted to sit in his chair and relax, he did and staff went on down the hall, shortly after DC began screaming again Staff went back down to his room where he was standing and had a shampoo bottle, he then threw it at staff, and reached for a deodorant stick which he threw in his bathroom he then lunged at staff, Staff placed DC in personal for approx. 5 minutes, he continued to fight after a few minutes he calmed down and apologized, Staff then contacted medical to check his blood sugar levels, his levels were 81. There were no more issues, DC apologized and behavior ended, In

BEHAVIOR REPORT NARRATIVE SUMMARY

INSTRUCTIONS: Describe what happened. DO NOT INCLUDE personal opinions or comments.
Include Date, Time, Place

DC was getting on mobile to go to Schoolside when he started to spit and shout at the mobile Driver. He then attempted to hit the driver with his hat. Staff (CH) grabbed DC's hat to prevent him from doing so and DC then began to spit and cuss at Staff and begin to hit the window and then take a swing at Staff. Staff Guided DC to Sit down and put DC in P.R. for three mins to Calm down. DC was Still Cussing at Staff and attempting to Swing at Staff for a minute before Calming down. Staff asked DC if he was Calm and ready to talk about it. DC Said he was. Once mobile got to Exercise to drop DC off he became upset again. Exercise Staff got DC to Calm enough to head into class. DC was calm at this time. No marks where found at this time. PS notified for Restraint.

David came to class. He appeared fine. He then jumped up and went in the hallway. Sat on the bench for a while then got up and turned over the trash can full of pop cans. Client calmed down enough to re-enter the class. He was given his ordered snack and juice. he then threw the juice at staff. Medical was notified and evaluated for intervention. 1mg Ativan administered @ 10:12. After the medical intervention he went back out in the hall slamming the door and cursing at staff. After ample time for the conditions to improve he was taken back to living area.

DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES (BOONEVILLE HUMAN DEVELOPMENT CENTER) — RESPONDENT

DHS SUMMARY OF JENNIFER BERRY DEPOSITION
(Taken December 6, 2022)

Direct Examination by DHS

Page 6:

Ms. Berry is the Assistant Superintendent at Booneville Human Development Center. Ms. Berry has been the Co-Administrator of the facility since March, 2020. Ms. Berry has been a licensed as a nursing home administrator in Arkansas since February, 2020. There is a state test and national test for licensure, which Ms. Berry passed.

Page 8:

Ms. Berry started working for DHS in January, 1999 and started at Booneville Human Development Center in January of 2008. Booneville Human Development Center is an intermediate care facility for adults with intellectual disabilities. BHDC trains individuals in

- Independent living skills
- Pre-vocational skills, and
- Behavioral management.
- Individuals reside at Booneville Human Development Center.

Page 9:

There are five Human Development Centers in Arkansas, all under DHS, Division of Disabilities Services. BHDC was originally the Arkansas Tuberculosis Sanitorium opened in 1909. In 1973, it switched to a Human Development Center, then called The Children's Colony. It is facility-based care for adults with developmental disabilities.

Page 9:

In Arkansas, there are also other options besides Human Development Centers. Individuals may:

- Reside in their home;
- Receive community waiver services;
- Reside in small ICF-IIDs that are privately owned;
- Live in group homes; and
- Live in nursing facilities.

Page 10:

HDC's are just one option available. Community-based service options were available in 2020 and in the years before 2020. Admission to BHDC is voluntary. Continued staying at BHDC is voluntary. There are no involuntary commitments at BHDC. Individuals reside at BHDC because someone – family or guardian – wants them to be there.

Page 11-12:

When an individual applies for HDC services a review team meets to determine if criteria is met for HDC placement. If criteria is met, each HDC will look to determine if that particular individual would fit in their center. BHDC requires individuals be ambulatory and services individuals who have a mental illness and intellectual disability. She explained different HDCs cater to a different type of developmentally delayed individual. [1]

Page 12:

BHDC is licensed through the Office of Long Term Care ("OLTC") and is CARF accredited. CARF is a national organization that accredits facilities if the facility meets the CARF standards. In June 2020, BHDC was accredited by CARF.

Page 13:

BHDC has been continuously accredited by CARF since 2014. CARF comes to the facility to inspect.

Page 14

BHDC is regulated by OLTC, the state regulatory body, as an Intermediate Care Facility for Individuals with Intellectual Disabilities. BHDC's OLTC license was last renewed July 1, 2022. It was licensed by OLTC in June of 2020. BHDC is required to follow CMS guidelines which are federal requirements. CMS is the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services.

---

[1] Note for context: As Ms. Berry will explain later, BHDC has a large population of ambulatory dually diagnosed individuals who have both mental illness and intellectual disabilities (IID) with behavioral problems.

Page 15:

As part of the regulations, OLTC must inspect the facility at least once per year. OLTC inspected BHDC in June 2020 after David Cains died and found no regulatory deficiencies. A deficiency is where the facility is found to have done something incorrect. OLTC did not find BHDC did anything incorrect when they came out as a result of David Cains' death.

Page 16-17:

BHDC's main campus is 1,000 acres. Residents live in dormitory style residences. BHDC has both new and old buildings. BHDC is also in the process of building additional buildings. BHDC also has its own water treatment plant and sewer plant. It is located in Logan County and employs approximately 250 people.

Page 17:

State of Arkansas has invested money into BHDC and is committed to BHDC. There is new construction.[2]

Page 18-19:

Ms. Berry identified and described Exhibit 2A as a photo of one of the new living residences and Exhibit 2B as a photo of another new building.

Page 20-21:

Ms. Berry identified and described Exhibit 2C as a photo of the inside of one of training areas in the Stone Building. It is a work area for residents involved in the recycling program. Residents separate recyclable materials, tear books, and use the shredders. It is part of their vocational program. Ms. Berry stated she took the photograph (Ex. 2C) recently but explained the building was "essentially the same" in June of 2020. She testified BHDC also has a "rug program" where the residents make rugs.

Page 22:

BHDC picks up recyclable materials from businesses – paper, boxes, books – brings them to the center. The residents unload materials and separate them. The materials are then shredded and [2] Note for context: The DRA "reports" referenced in the compliant dwell on the old buildings and suggested BHDC be closed and the funds spent on community services only. The State of Arkansas, however, invested funds into new buildings in order to provide both facility-based options and community-based options to the IID population.

BHDC has a bailer. This is part of the resident's vocational program. The program gives residents purpose to their day and a skill set.

Page 23:

Clients also make rugs out of sock loops. They sort the loops, clean them, dye them, and weave them into rugs. Clients get paid for their work.

Page 24-25:

In 2020, David Cains was in the recycling program and was paid for his work. Ms. Berry explained that some clients have a basic understanding of money, and they are taught.

"This is how much you have worked; this is how much you are going to get paid." They have a payday and clients can buy what they want at:

- The BHDC canteen;
- vending machines; or
- go into town to a local business.

It teaches clients how to us money. Clients go into Booneville and Ft. Smith and interact with the community. BHDC took clients to restaurants, pre-covid, and to movies that the residents paid for.

Page 27:

Ms. Berry identified and described Ex. 2D as a photo as a resident work area which, although recently taken, looked substantially the same in June, 2020. She also identified and described Ex. 2E as another photo of a vocational training area building - Hamp Williams Building.

Page 28:

Ms. Berry stated the building is still used but only on the first floor. She explained the Disability Rights Arkansas (DRA) Report of 2015 discussed the Hamp Williams building.

Page 29:

In the 2015 DRA report, DRA depicted a photograph of "trash and debris" in this building. Ms. Berry explained what was classified as "trash and debris" by DRA was "actual rug material to make rugs, the sock loops." She explained that while DRA stated the photo depicted "trash and debris" it really was work material for the vocation. It was on the third floor of the building which was not occupied and was used for storage.

Page 30-31:

The building was used in 2014 and 2015 [the DRA report was in 2015] for vocational training and storage. She did not know why DRA would label resident work materials as "trash and debris."

Page 32:

An RCT is a residential care technician, which is an aide. RCT perform the direct care of clients.

Page 33:

They go thru a three-week phase training – two weeks in classroom, one week on the job training. She explained that RCTs go through a three week training – two weeks in classroom and one week on-the-job training and have sporadic training throughout the year. All certified in CPR. There is a medical team on campus. BHDC has medical director, nurse manager, assistant nurse manager RNs and LPNs. It has 15 nurses on campus during 8:00 – 4:00 business hours.

Page 34:

The Medical Center building is The Judge Hill building. The dining hall is in the Commons Building, which has two levels.

Commons Building Photographs

Page 35:

Ms. Berry identified two documents marked as Exhibits 3A and 3B. Exhibit 3A is a layout of the top floor of Commons Building where clients eat lunch. Exhibit B is a layout on the bottom floor.

Page 37:

Ms. Berry described the entry to the building is via a foyer; to the right are stairs to the dining room; to the left are the stairs to the first floor. There is a bathroom at the end of the hallway [upstairs]. The [lobby] bathroom is marked in yellow on Exhibit 3A.

Page 38-39:

In June 2020, there were chairs in lobby area. She marked an "X" on Exhibit 3A where chairs were. She identified and escribed Exhibit 4A as a photograph she took photo several months ago With exception of yellow sign in the photograph, she stated it looks essentially the same as in June 2020. The "half wall" is on the left coming up the stairs; the dining room is on the right. She explained the bathroom is straight down hallway – the two doors on the right past water fountain.

Page 40:

Ms. Berry described Ex. 4B as a photo of the area that goes into the dining room. On the other side of the half wall [looking down] is the foyer when you enter through the main doors. It's a half wall. You can stand [on the second floor] and look down into the foyer.

Exhibit 4B is a photo of the other side of steps.

Ms. Berry identified and described Ex. 4C as a photo of the top of the stairs when you come to the front [of the lobby]. She stated you can see the half wall. Ms. Berri identified Ex. 4D as a photo of the main level of the Commons Building. It was recently taken but is basically the same as it was in June, 2020 except for the layout of the chairs. And the TV monitor was not there then. The Canteen store is where residents can buy snacks with the money earned. In June, 2020, there were similar chairs in the lobby.[3]

Page 44:

Ms. Berry identified and described Exhibit 4E as a photo of the stairs going up to the main floor of the Commons. The bathrooms are on the right-hand side. The men's room is the 1st door.[4]

Page 44:

Ms. Berry identified and described Ex. 4F as the common area [lobby] of the main floor.

Page 46-47:

Ms. Berry identified and described Ex. 4G as a photo of bathrooms at end of hallway on main floor. The open door in the photo is the men's room.

Page 47-48:

Ms. Berry identified and described Exhibit 4H which shows the half wall in the lobby of the top floor of the Commons Building. The layout has not been changed since June, 2020.[5]

Page 48-49:

Ms. Berry identified and described Exhibit 4I as a photo of the Commons Building foyer looking up the stairs and the half wall by the dining room. Aside from cone, the area is the same in photo as in June 2020. The doors at top go into dining room.

Distance from Nurses Station to Commons Building

---

[3] Note for context: This is the area where Mr. Cains was seated just before his behavioral episode.

[4] Note for context: This is the bathroom used by Mr. Cains just prior to the behavioral episode.

[5] Note for context: This half wall is the "ledge" which Mr. Mattson identified in his deposition where he stated he could not just use a blocking technique because "I wouldn't have had room. I was against a ledge. See Mattson depo. p. 105; Mattson summary, p. 14.

Ms. Berry testified that the distance from the Judge Hill Building nurses' station to Commons Building is 932 feet. She had the maintenance department measure the distance.

BHDC Population – Majority Dually Diagnosed

Page 49-50:

Ms. Berry testified that the BHDC "population is majority dually diagnosed" which means they have both an intellectual disability and a mental illness such as schizophrenia, bi-polar, depression, anxiety, ADHD, and behavior problems. The BHDC admits dually diagnosed persons with "the most severe behavior outbursts." BHDC has a higher population of individuals with behavior problems [than the other HDCs]. A lot of BHDC clients came from ASH [Arkansas State Hospital], jail, and other inpatient facilities. They are funneled to BHDC.[6]

Page 51:

She testified BHDC also accepts transfers from other Arkansas HDCs because "they can't behaviorally manage them at their particular center." The dually diagnosed population at BHDC is currently 96 percent. In June, 2020, it was "probably between 90 and 94" percent. That is the way was at BHDC in 2014 through 2020.

Page 52, Line 13:

Ms. Berry testified "our population is different." As BHDC has a higher population of behavioral residents than other Arkansas HDCs.

Individual Program Plan (IPP)

Page 53:

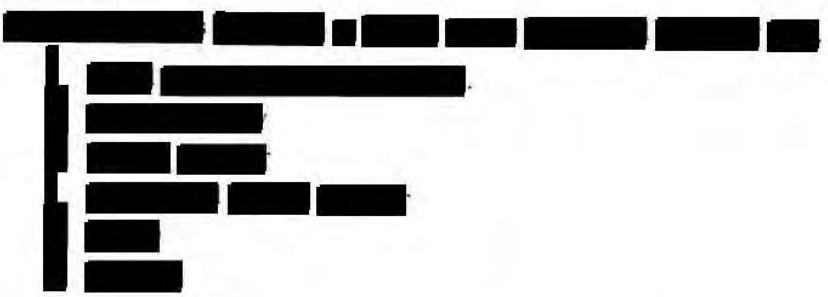
Ms. Berry stated she is familiar with Individual Program Plans also called "IPPs." An IPP is the program for the year which addresses every need a client has in that year from medical to psychological, pre-vocational, independent living and lists social history. It is developed by the program coordinator.

---

[6] Note for context: As BHDC has a higher population of residents with dual diagnoses of intellectual disability and mental illness, who are ambulatory with behavioral problems, it has higher instances of restraint use than other Arkansas HDCs who do not have as many dually diagnosed ambulatory residents with behavior problems.

Page 55:

Ms. Berry identified Mr. Cains IPP, dated July 18, 2019, as DHS Exhibit 5. This was Mr. Cains last IPP and was the one in effect when he died. She stated the next IPP would have been reviewed on July 17, 2020. They are completed every 365 days.



Page 56:

It is created by an "interdisciplinary team" whose core members included, among others, the Mr. Cains' guardian, Charlene Robinson., who signed the IPP.

Page 57:

Ms. Berry testified that the IPP was also signed by "Chrissie Cains." [7] They directly participated in the development of the IPP. On page 3 of the IPP [Ex. 5, Bates # 1457] it identifies all those who participated in the review.

Page 58-59:

She explained the IPP also identified that David Cains has history of behavior of physical aggression, noncompliance, destroying of personal belongings, which included TVs, radios, DVD player, and, among other things, breaking windows. She explained that the IPP, Bates p. 1465, implemented "planned restrictions" for health and safety which included having his TV secured in a plexiglass box mounted to wall and a shatter proof mirror in his bedroom.

Page 60-61:

Ms. Berry testified when the term "physical aggression" is used in Mr. Cains' IPP, which it defines to mean "striking, hitting, kicking other people or objects with the intent to cause injury or damage." It is under the heading, on Bates p. 1469, of "Primary symptoms to be monitored." The IPP states that Mr. Cains has a "demonstrated history of physical aggression." [8]

She explained that on Bates page 1469 of the IPP, Mr. Cains' [redacted] and directs that in the event of his aggression or symptoms which interfere with anything, staff can "employ the category one procedures, which is part of DDS' 3011-D policy" "[a]nd other center emergency procedures if necessary to protect client or others."

Page 62-63:

Ms. Berry identified DHS Exhibit 6 which is the DDS Policy 3011-D which was in effect in June, 2020. Policy 3011-D states "This policy is intended to provide guidelines managing challenging behaviors of individuals residing in DDS operated programs."

Page 63, Lines 15-24:

In response to a question, Ms. Berry read a portion of Policy 3011-D which states:

- "Nothing in this policy prohibits the use of emergency restraint (mechanical or personal) ... for the purpose of protecting the individual and others around him/her."
- 'This includes the use of restraint procedures in the course of an established program when the individual becomes a danger to him/herself or others, prior to staff being able to implement a lesser restrictive hierarchy."
- The emergency use of restraint must conform to ICF/MR [now IID] regulations."

Page 64:

Ms. Berry testified that "personal" in 3011-D means an emergency personal hold.

Page 67:

The IPP identified Mr. Cains' symptoms as noncompliance and physical aggression.

Page 68:

The treatment team on page 10 of the IPP, Bates p. 1471, stated "The team agreed that David's Behavior Treatment Program is appropriate and recommended no revisions." Mrs.

[8] Note for context. Mr. Cains 2019 IPP defines "physical aggression" as "the attempted or actual striking, hitting, or kicking other people or objects with the intent to cause injury or damage." See IPP, p. 9.

Robinson, David Cains' legal guardian and mother, was on the treatment team and agreed to the treatment terms.

David Cains' Behavior Reports:

Page 69-71:

Ms. Berry identified Exhibit 8A as a 12/26/19 behavior report, Bates pp. 541-542, documenting Mr. Cains' maladaptive behaviors. The report states that Mrs. Robinson was visiting with Mr. Cains at BHDC when staff heard a loud commotion in the kitchen and Mr. Cains had "hit his mom and flipped the kitchen table." David Cains shouted and called her a "F" ing bitch. Mrs. Robinson then left the facility. .

Page 72:

Ms. Berry identified Exhibit 8B, p. 551, as a 12/18/19 behavior report where Mr. Cains pushed over an outside table, picked up a Christmas ornament, threw across the room almost hitting another resident. He was put into a personal hold for two minutes.

Ms. Berry described the following behavior incidents/ reports:

Page 74:

- 12/18/19 Mr. Cains spit and hit staff - Bates p. 554;
- 12/02/19 Mr. Cains threw an object at staff – Bates p. 564-565;

Staffing Levels at BHDC in June 2020

Page 90-91:

Ms. Berry explained that BHDC is regulated by state and has certain staffing requirements. She identified Exhibit 10 as the ICF regulations. These ICF regulations mandate the minimum staffing levels for direct care staff at the facility. Section W187 of Exhibit 10, is where the regulations are for direct care staff. ICF means Intermediate Care Facility.[10]

Page 92:

> Q: And so, at any time in June of 2020 did the Boonville Human Development Center fall below the staffing levels required by the State of Arkansas
> A: We did not.

---

[9] Note for context: Dr. Hamid, Mr. Cains physician, testified that Mr. Cains had such precautions only because he had a [redacted] See Hamid depo. p. pp. 15-17; Hamid depo. summary, pp. 2-3.

[10] Note for context: BHDC is an intermediate care facility for individuals with intellectual disabilities.

Ms. Berry stated that the incident involving David Cains happened in the Commons Building not in the dorm. And there were at least 3 direct care aides nearby, with others in the dining room.

Page 93:

There was plenty of direct care staff nearby.

> Q: And so, at that point in time, in that location did DHS --- or any location, did Booneville Human Development Center fall below the state required minimum staffing levels?
> A: We did not.

Ms. Berry the identified DHS Exhibit 11 and stated the document shows the staffing ratios for residential areas for the period of June 1, 2020 through June 13, 2020.

Page 94:

Ms. Berry explained there are different requirements for different shifts. On June 13, 2020, the required ratios for the midnight to 8:00 a.m. shift was one staff per 16 residents. The daily census that day was 123 residents and BHDC had 25 direct care staff present.

Page 95:

Ms. Berry said the 8:00 to 4:00 shift and the 4:00 to 12:00 shift require the most staff. On June 13, 2020, on the 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., BHDC had 29 direct care staff. The requirement is one staff for eight residents.

> Q: So, you were over the limit?
> A: We were.
> Q: So you did not have any --- you did not fall short – you were not short staffed that day?
> A: We were not. [11]

We did this for the whole 13 days of June of 2020. Facility-wide, BHDC did not fall below the minimum staffing levels for any shift during that time period.

Page 96:

[11] Note for context: Mr. Cains' behavior episode and the emergency response in the lobby occurred during this shift.

Ms. Berry identified DHS Exhibit 12 which are the staffing levels for Davidson House from June 1, 2020 - June 13, 2020. The top says 2022 but that is a typo. These are the staffing levels for 2020. Ms. Berry prepared this document.

Page 97:

Ms. Berry said the difference between Exhibit Number 12 and Exhibit 11 is that Exhibit 12 is specific to Davison House whereas Exhibit 11 is facility-wide levels. Davison House is where David Cains lived. The different categories are the different living areas within the Davidson House building.

> Q: So, what were the staffing levels – what was the census of that house that day on June 13th, 2020?
> A: The census was – we only—well, for the 12:00 to 8:00 shift for Davidson House Blue, if we are looking at that specifically, that was the area that David lived in, was we had ten clients in that area, we had two staff, so we were more than covered under the ratio from one [staff] to 16 [residents].
> Q: So, just so I understand, you say one to 16. So, that's one staff per 16 individuals?
> A; Correct.
> Q: And you had ten [residents]"
> A: We had ten [residents], and we had two staff per 10.
> Q: So, the, you had well more than –
> A: Yes. We were one to five actually.

She explained that it also breaks it down for the other shifts. Blue is on - - blue and green are on the first floor, and then orange and yellow are on the second floor. BHDC met the minimum staffing levels even for the other areas.

Page 98-99

She stated from June 1, 2020 through June 13, 2020, in Davidson House, BHDC met or exceeded all minimum staffing levels.

State Office of Long Term Care Survey Inspection of BHDC – June 2020

Page 99:

Ms. Berry identified DHS Exhibit 13 as the CMS 2567 form from the State Office of Long Term Care for the survey [inspection] of BHDC, dated 06/30/2020. She recognized the 2567 form.

Ms. Berry explained that it has various complaints. One of them was about David Cains. When the surveyors came to visit the facility on June 30, 2020, as part of their investigation. She stated she recognized this 2567 from being from that investigation. The complaints investigated were found to be "unsubstantiated" by state regulators. Unsubstantiated means the regulators found no fault at the facility. Booneville was found not to be deficient. [12] She confirmed that OLTC actually came out to the facility to investigate the complaints.

Ms. Berry stated she is familiar with the Disability Rights Arkansas report on Mr. Cains conducted by Kris Stewart. Ms. Stewart did not come to the facility to inspect it. [13]

BHDC Experience with Logan County EMS Response Times

Page 103:

Ms. Berry has been at the Booneville Human Development Center for 15 years. She is familiar with the response times of the Logan County EMS system. She testified there have been incidents where a call to 9-1-1 had to be implemented.

Page 104:

---

[12] Note for context: The OLTC surveyor who conducted the investigation was Dian Elliott. Ms. Elliott explained the survey was conducted on behalf of the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services applying applicable federal ICF/IID regulations and the CMS State Operations Manual – Appendix J. See Elliott depo., p.7-8. Ms. Elliot testified two of the three complaints identified on the Form 2567 involved David Cains death. She testified the complaints of failed facility practices were "unsubstantiated" which means there were deficiencies found and the facility was in compliance with the federal regulations investigated. See Elliott depo. p. 12.

[13] Note for context: Kris Stewart of Disability Rights Arkansas issued a "report" which reflects the opinions of her employer about facility-based services. DRA is an non-profit advocacy group. It is neither a state nor federal regulator of ICF/IIDs. The report, selective in its facts, is NOT based on any violation of ICF/IID regulation or any CMS guidance. Interestingly, though the report opines on a possible direct or indirect cause of death, Ms. Stewart testified she is not physician and does not have medical training to determine cause of death.

Ms. Berry stated the few ambulances in the county cover the entire county of Logan County. If it's on the other side of the county, it may take a while for them to get to us. BHDC had an incident where it took 45 minutes for the ambulance to arrive after being called and a second emergency where it took an hour for EMS to arrive. She explained that we have been told when we called the 9-1-1 that they had to get an ambulance from another county because the Logan County units were out.

Q: But you have a medical team of nurses; correct?
A; We do.
Q: And so, are they able to respond to many of these [emergency] instances?
A: They are.
Q: And about how long does it take to for them to respond?
A: A couple of minutes. BHDC has a medical team of nurses. It takes the BHDC medical team just a couple of minutes to arrive.

Nonviolent Crisis Intervention Course – "NCI" "CPI"

Page 105:

Ms. Berry stated NCI stands for Nonviolent Crisis Intervention. It's a de-escalation program where our staff are taught how to de-escalate behaviors. And then, it also entails doing certain personal holds to kind of de-escalate a situation.

Q: And so, is that [NCI] the only protocols or policy that Booneville Human Development Center implemented for behavior modification or management for residents in June of 2020?
A: No.

Page 106-107:

Ms. Berry stated BHDC uses mechanical restraint; a papoose board. It's a board that lays on the ground that is cushioned, and there are straps that go around their legs. It's to ensure the health and safety of individuals.

Q: So, are restraints used for therapeutic purposes?
A: No.
Q: Are they used for disciplinary purposes?
A: No.

CPI is Crisis Prevention Institute. That's the organization that developed NCI. NCI is a program. CPI has other programs that teach more, they have an advanced NCI. In 2020, Booneville Human Development Center didn't buy those protocols. A personal hold is where an employee has their hands on the individual to calm them.

Page 108:

Ms. Berry testified personal holds are to prevent residents from harming themselves and others. It is also referred to as an alternate hold or a restraint. The purpose is the health and safety of the individual and the individuals around them. [14]

Early chemical intervention is where it is identified by the medical staff that this person would benefit from having [redacted] as their behaviors start to increase. It is administered only before the behavior gets violent. If we get them an early chemical intervention, then that client's behaviors will not escalate.

Page 109:

Ms. Berry said there is the maltreatment investigation and sometimes they have admin reviews. An admin review is where there is a situation that is presented to us, and we look further into it to determine if we need to expand upon it and make it a full-fledged investigation. Ms. Berry said [redacted]

Page 110:

Ms. Berry said the difference between a review and an investigation is if it is reportable or not. Only certain things are reportable.

Page 110-111:

Ms. Berry stated the behavior incidents that were from 2019 and 2020 were just certain ones.

Page 111:

---

[14] Note for context: Although Claimant's restraint prevention expert, Dr. LeBel, testified that she is the interagency lead on restraint prevention for the state of Massachusetts Department of Health (Lebel depo. pp. 5-6), and widely lectures on the "six core strategies" curriculum which she developed addressing restraint prevention (and from which she receives compensation for her lectures), Dr. Lebel conceded, on cross-examination, that the state-run HDCs in her home state of Massachusetts utilize restraints on IID residents. See LeBel depo. p. 119-120.

Ms. Berry stated there are a lot more behavior incidents.

Cross Examination by Claimant

Page 115:

She agreed that Mr. Cains and the other residents of the BHDC are there voluntarily. They or their loved ones choose for them to be there. They can removed them at any time.

Page 116:

Ms. Berry stated the facility has to comply with federal ICF regulations. She agreed the facility has to follow the DDS policies.

Page 117:

Exhibit 13 is the OLTC report that was generated as a result of Mr. Cains' death. Ms. Berry stated those were the findings.

Page 118:

Ms. Berry said Ms. Evans did the maltreatment investigation and then she generated what is called a maltreatment Investigative Report. They are sent to OLTC. OLTC is not a part of DDS. OLTC reviews the investigation and then conduct their own investigation. This is when they came on campus.[15]

Page 119:

Ms. Berry stated OLTC conducted this investigation just within weeks of the death.

Page 121-122:

Ms. Berry stated an OLTC came out to the campus and did the groundwork at the facility. Diane was her name. The surveyor was at BHDC on June 30, 2020.

Page 123:

Ms. Berry stated the surveyor did not complete her investigation on the same day.

Page 129:

---

[15] Note for context: The OLTC survey is a type of OLTC investigation and is independent from the BHDC internal maltreatment investigation submitted to OLTC. As stated, OLTC performs its own investigation in order to determine if the facility was in compliance with applicable federal ICF/IID regulations and the CMS State Operations Manual – Appendix J. As reflected on the Form 2567, the complaint investigations were determined to be "unsubstantiated" and BHDC was found to be in compliance with the applicable federal regulations investigated.

Ms. Berry stated she has personal knowledge of Mr. Cains' behavioral incidents. She said they had daily meetings at BHDC and reviewed all the Behavior Reports and incidents that took place at the BHDC. They were done daily.

Page 130:

Ms. Berry stated she was present for the meetings, or the Superintendent was present.

Page 131:

Ms. Berry agreed that personal restraints or personal holds can only be used at Booneville in emergency situations. Emergency use of restraints must also conform to ICF and Policy 3011-D regulation and be for health and safety.

Page 132:

Ms. Berry explained anyone can call 9-1-1. There is a policy that said that they needed to call 1422 first, but that they can call 911.[16]

Page 133-134:

Ms. Berry was asked by Counsel for Claimant to read portions of Policy IV-B-1. She read: "A call to the Medical Department should be made. This should be the first call so that Medical staff can respond immediately to the situation. A call to Medical at 1422 should be made and the following information should be given… Number three, Medical will assess the situation and call an ambulance if appropriate. The document was introduced as Claimant's Ex. 1.

Page 134:

Ms. Berry stated they don't prohibit people from calling 9-1-1. We preferred that they call 1422 so our medical staff would assess the situation because EMS takes a while to get to our facility.[17]

---

[16] Note for context: A call to 1422 is a call to the nurses' station for assistance.

[17] Note for context: Although the direct care team called the nurses first, the BHDC nurses arrived and rendered emergency assistance within two minutes and the call to 9-1-1 was made upon their arrival in the lobby. Unfortunately, it took EMS 13 minutes after the 9-1-1 call to arrive and then another nine (9) minutes to partially clear Mr. Cains' airway = 22 minutes.

Dr. Brown-Forestiere, Claimant's medical expert, testified death ensues within about 5 minutes. Even if 9-1-1 was called first (two minutes earlier), the outcome would have been the same as [redacted]

Page 136:

Ms. Berry stated they had a policy in place for them to call 1422. But nothing that says - - that forbid them from calling 911. Ms. Berry guessed they were following what they believed the policy said.

Page 140:

Ms. Berry stated Mark Hise does the CPR certification for Booneville. It is through the American Heart Association. Ms. Berry stated she did not mark out page 2 on page 1525 of Exhibit Five, which is the 2019 IPP. She does not know who did.

Page 140-141:

* At this point there is an objection and an lengthy discussion which is in the transcript but not included in this summary.

Mr. Rosen: I'm going to let her answer the question, but I'm going to make the objection that that's your view of something.

Page 144:

Ms. Berry stated "[t]his is part of the Annual Pharmacy Report. So, that's why there is only one page, because this first page shows all the medications." She testified "the Annual Pharmacy Report only reviews the medications."[18]

Page 145:

> Ms. Berry: It is just for the medication (indicating).
> Mr. Gillispie: I see that.

Ms. Berry stated [redacted]

Page 146-147 :

[18] Note for context: Whatever page of a document to which counsel for the claimant was referring, as explained, was as not part of the medication record and, per Ms. Berry, was therefore not included in the 2019 IPP Pharmacy Report Section.

Ms. Berry stated go to [Bates p.] 1497 and it says [redacted]

Ms. Berry was then shown a document by Counsel for Claimant – Claimant's Exhibit Two, Bates marked 1327. Counsel asked:

[redacted]

Page 150:

Ms. Berry then stated, in response to a question as to why the second page of the Physician's Order is not in the IPP we have been talking about?" sated because the order is in the IPP. It is under the Annual Medical Review, Staffing Reports," starting on p. 1501.[20]

Page 151:

Ms. Berry said it is page 1501. She agreed it was under number six, [redacted]

[19] Note for context: As explained in the transcript, the document, Claimant's Exhibit 2, was NOT part of the 2019 IPP as counsel insinuated. It was not even printed until June 15, 2020, two days after Mr. Cains died. Of note, it is unsigned by the doctor.

[20] Note for context: For clarification, Counsel for Claimant is now referring to a different document than the one printed June 15, 2020.

Redirect Examination by DHS

Page 152:

Ms. Berry said on 1497 is says, [redacted]

Page 153:

The behavior reports are in David Cains' master file maintained at BHDC. Those reports were pulled from the file maintained.

Page 155:

Ms. Berry stated the reports on in the master file records. They are kept in the regular course of providing services for Mr. Cains in the business of the HDC. They were recorded at or near the time of the incidents indicated. Those are the records she pulled out of the file. Those are his records.

OLTC Investigations

Page 156:

Referring to the Form 2567 [DHS Ex. 13] Ms. Berry stated that is the Office of Long Term Care survey. At the top of the form, it is called "Department of Health and Human Services, Centers for Medicaid and Medicare Services." That is the federal government. This is a federal government form - Form CMS 2567. This is filled out by the surveyors who are checking to see that we are following all the rules and regulations set forth. The survey is to look at the facility practices.

Page 156-157:

It is to see whether the facility practices conform with the CMS standards.

Page 157-158:

Ms. Berry stated the survey is different from a the OLTC maltreatment investigation. She explained that the HDC submits its maltreatment investigation report to OLTC and OLTC has their own investigators. That investigation is different for the survey investigation.

Q: So, one is a maltreatment investigation, one is a deficiency or standards investigation.
A: Correct.
Q: What is this Exhibit 13.
A: Deficiencies.

Ms. Berry explained the OLTC maltreatment investigation is when the HDC submits the report to the Office of Long Term Care, and they have their own investigators that reach out to obtain different information. It is different from the surveyors. There are two different investigations by Long Term Care. One determines if the person actually needs to be put on the Maltreatment Registry or not; the other is whether the facility was deficient. The maltreatment investigation. is about the individuals involved. [21]

BEFORE THE ARKANSAS STATE CLAIMS COMMISION

CHRISTINE MCAULIFFE, as Special Administrator of the Estate of DAVID CAINS — CLAIMANT

VS. CLAIM NO. 220374

THE ARKANSAS DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES (BOONEVILLE HUMAN DEVELOPMENT CENTER) — RESPONDENT

DHS' Summary of the Direct Examination Deposition Testimony of Theodore Kastner, M.D., M.S.
(Taken on January 19, 2023)

Direct Examination by DHS

Medical Credentials

Page 7:

Dr. Kastner has a Bachelor of Arts from Colgate University, a Doctor of Medicine from the University of Connecticut and a master's degree from the University of Wisconsin. He received his Doctor of Medicine in 1981. His master's degree is in population health in general. It was content from both the medical school and the business school, so the MPH side would be population health, the MDA side would be management.

Page 8:

The degree was awarded by the school of medicine at the University of Wisconsin. Dr. Kastner completed an internship and residency in pediatrics at the Bronx Municipal Hospital Center, between 1981 and 1984. He completed a fellowship in the care of children and adults with developmental disabilities and related conditions at the Rose F. Kennedy Center of the Albert Einstein College of Medicine, between 1984 and 1986. The last two years are additional years of specialty training in developmental medicine. He has been licensed in New Jersey, Arkansas and New York; currently licensed in New York only.

Page 9:

Dr. Kastner has been licensed as a physician continuously since the initial date of his licensure. He is board certified in four areas of specialty:

- Pediatrics
- Developmental and Behavioral Pediatrics
- Neurodevelopmental Disabilities
- Medical Management.

The board certification signifies that an individual has completed a course of work and subsequently passed an examination thereby certifying that they have met a certain standard in terms of their ability to practice as a specialist in that field.

Page 10- 11:

Dr. Kastner said the examination is a national board examination. Board certification is done by national boards in that subject area. Dr. Kastner is a board-certified pediatrician. He is also board certified in developmental behavior pediatrics, which is a field of study related to the general development of children and the general management of behavioral disorders.

Page 11:

Dr. Kastner also has a board certification from a national board in neurodevelopmental disabilities. That is a board that is related primarily to the evaluation and diagnosis and treatment of conditions that arise from the development and functioning of the brain and spinal cord, includes genetic, a variety of other topics. It is more neurology psychiatry based. It relates to disabilities more broadly rather than simply cognitive. It includes individuals with intellectual disabilities.

Page 12:

Dr. Kastner's fourth area is medical management. The general administrative and management activities related to the practice of medicine. The curriculum has aspects of public health, epidemiology, statistics, finance and budgeting, marketing, strategic planning, data analytics and semantics.

Page 13:

Dr. Kastner initially began working in the field with people with intellectual and developmental disabilities in 1976. It was his summer job between his junior and senior year in college. He has been on the faculty of at least three (3) medical schools. Columbia University, the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey, and the Alert Einstein College of Medicine. Recently, he was a full professor in both the departments of pediatrics and psychiatry at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine.

Page 14:

Dr. Kastner explained there is an academic ladder which begins with an appointment as an instructor. He said Dr. LeBel, for example, is an instructor in a medical school, and that would be the very entry level. There is the assistant level, then there is the associate level, and then there is the unqualified professor level.

Page 15-16:

Generally, a medical school wants to see accomplishments in three broad areas that would include service, teaching and research to be appointed at a professor level.

Dr. Kastner has published more than 100 manuscripts, of which 70 were peer reviewed. Peer review is really the critical element in looking at an individual's qualifications for academic appointment. In a peer review, the reviewers don't simply offer an opinion; they make a determination as to whether or not the journal should accept and publish a manuscript.

Page 17:

The Ruth L. Gottesman chair in developmental medicine is a medical school endowed chair created by funding from benefactors. Those chairs are highly prestigious and coveted. While at Albert Einstein School of Medicine. Dr. Kastner held an endowed chair, meaning that the benefactor in this case, Ruth Gottesman, had donated funding specifically to support the individual that held the chair. It is quite an honor.

Commissioner of New York State Office For People With Developmental Disabilities

Page 18:

In 2019, Dr. Kastner became the Commissioner of the New York State Office for people with developmental disabilities. The office is a part of State government. It is effectively an independent department within the State of New York and operates at the cabinet level. The scope of his work in that area was to operate a $10 billion system that supported 121,000 people with intellectual and developmental disabilities with a staff of 19,000. The office he headed delivered services, operated about a thousand group homes, several hundred-day programs, and 40 or 50 clinics, in addition to funding 400 or 500 service providers that delivered services across the State of New York.

Page 19:

Dr. Kastner's job was to oversee the operation of that department. He stated "effectively I was the CEO." It would be equivalent to a Secretary [level appointment in Arkansas]. Dr. Kastner was the head of a $10 billion state agency that provided services to the developmentally disabled and the intellectually disabled.

Additional Credentials

Dr. Kastner testified his publications, his peer reviewed publications. and his other publications included areas of research and medicine that addressed or opined on the care and treatment of individuals with intellectual disabilities and persons with developmental disabilities. Almost his entire publication record is focused on people with developmental disabilities.

Dr. Kastner explained he also wrote abstracts which are usually presented at a scientific meeting. It like an introduction or an overview of a project.

Page 22-23:

Dr. Kastner has also been a guest speaker or lecturer and has presented at many conferences which are listed on his C.V. He stated his list of grants received for his work are on his C.V. Dr. Kastner's C.V. was introduced as DHS Exhibit 1. Counsel for Claimant stated he had "[n]o objection."

Primary Care Provider for People with Intellectual & Developmental Disabilities

Page 24:

Dr. Kastner explained that the Developmental Disabilities Help Alliance, Inc., was effectively Dr. Kastner's medical practice. It was an organization he created in 1996, which eventually operated nine primary care locations across New Jersey and New York state. It had a staff of approximately 70 and provided healthcare, mental health and neurology services to about 4,000 people with intellectual and developmental disabilities.

Page 25-26:

In 2019, he was a primary care provider for people with developmental disabilities and a specialty care provider that provided both mental health and neurological services to people with developmental disabilities.

Based upon his medical training, degrees and certifications, his running the State office, being a direct care provider during college, and as a clinician, he is quite familiar with the intellectual disability and developmental disability population

Dr. Kastner has qualified as an expert in the field of developmental disabilities and intellectual disabilities in federal courts. He was recognized as an expert in an Arkansas federal court.

Page 27:

Dr. Kastner explained that the ICF/IDD is a unique care setting in which individuals receive a range of habilitative services, which is different from rehabilitative services.[1]

Page 28:

Habilitation is to be contrasted with rehabilitation. Habitation is the practice of helping individuals gain and acquire new skills versus rehabilitation, which is to help individuals relearn previously gained skills.

Page 29:

Dr. Kastner is familiar with the Booneville Human Development Center. It is an ICF/IID. He has been to the Booneville Human Development Center.

Page 30:

In the DD field, "dual diagnosis" refers to people who have a developmental or intellectual disability, and a co-occurring mental illness. He is generally familiar with the restraint used at Booneville Human Development Center in 2020. He is quite familiar with the facility in terms of having reviewed the policies and procedures and practices. He is familiar with the [CMS] State Operations Manual with regard to ICF/IID.

[1] Note for context: Intermediate Care Facilities for Individuals with Intellectual Disabilities (ICF/IIDs) are also referred to ICF/IDDs. They are one and the same.

Page 30-31:

Dr. Kastner explained that the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services [CMS] is the primary regulator for the Medicaid and Medicare programs, especially for the ICF/IDD program. They promulgate rules and regulations for the operation of an ICF/IDD, and they also created a manual to assist surveyors in assessing whether or not the state complies with those rules and regulations. The CMS manual is referred to as Appendix "J" of the [CMS] State Operations Manual. Appendix "J" focuses solely on the ICF/IDD program.

Page 32:

Appendix "J" covers, among other things, the CMS guidelines and regulations on restraint use in ICF/IIDs.

Page 33:

Appendix "J" is the test that you have to pass in order for a facility to retain its certification to operate as an ICF/IDD. Specific questions are asked by the surveyor when onsite in order to determine whether or not the facility is in compliance with the rules and regulations. A survey is an inspection for compliance with the rules and regulations promulgated by CMS for the operation of an ICF/IDD found within the CFR [Code of Federal Regulations] – it is called Appendix "J". When a surveyor comes to the facility to inspect or regulate an ICF/IID, such as a human development center, they are going to look to see if the facility complied with the regulations in the State Operations Manual, specifically Section "J".

Page 34:

- Appendix "J" is the interpretive guidelines used by surveyors to ascertain whether or not a facility complies with relevant rules and regulations promulgated by CMS.
- If no deficiencies were found, that signifies that overall, the facility is in compliance with relevant rules and regulations promulgated by CMS and can maintain its certification and funding by the federal government.

Page 34-35:

Dr. Kastner considers himself a expert due to his clinical care for persons with intellectual disabilities and developmental disabilities, teaching medicine [full professor], four board certifications including specialty board certification in developmental behavioral pediatrics and neurodevelopmental disabilities. Courts have treated him as an expert in those fields.

Dr. Kastner reviewed documents and records including various reports pertaining to David Cains, his individual program plans, which are called IPPs.

Page 36:

Dr. Kastner has done two reports on this case. The reports were bifurcated because he received the material regarding Dr. LeBel after completing his initial review. The initial report was dated January 5, 2023, and is marked as DHS Exhibit 2A. The January 6, 2023, report is marked DHS as Exhibit 2B. [2]

Page 37:

> Mr. Rosen: Okay. We are going to introduce those reports as DHS Exhibit 2A and 2B. Is there any objection?

[2] Note for context: As noted in the transcripts on page 30, the reason Dr. Kastner's reports were bifurcated is that Claimant did not provide DHS with Dr. LeBel's report until late December. Dr. Lebel's report, itself, is dated December 28, 2022. Although Counsel for Claimant was unwilling to stipulate to the approximate date Dr. Lebel's report was provided to DHS without reviewing the email, he did state: "But I don't disagree that that's generally accurate."

Mr. Green: No Objection.

Dr. Kastner stated there is a specific typographical error which appeared on page five of his January 6, 2023 report, which is the second (of the two reports). It is opinion 20 on page five of Exhibit 2B which is the January 6th, 2023 report:

[redacted]

DHS Exhibits 2A, 2B, were prepared by Dr. Kastner. He prepared them based upon his knowledge, experience that he has described earlier, and reviewing the documents that are identified in each report. The exhibits contain his expert medical opinions to a reasonable degree of medical certainty. They opine on (1) David Cains' cause of death; (2) [redacted]; and (3) the role, if any, that the restraint used, the personal hold, led to David Cains' vomiting; (4) David Cains' life expectancy in the facility; and (5) whether the standard of care for restraint use in ICF/IID, such as Booneville Human [3] Note for context: The typographical error was that the "not" in the January 6, 2023 report, page 5, opinion #20, was inadvertently dropped in the report attached to the deposition as DHS Exhibit 2B. Dr. Kastner's testimony corrected the error on the record. DHS Trial Ex. 2B is the corrected report.

Development Center, is determined by CMS rules and regulations [Appendix J] and Booneville policies and not as Dr. LeBel has articulated, the United Nations and World Health Organization.

> Q: Well, let me ask you this, Doctor. What is the standard of care for restraint use in human development centers in the State of Arkansas, who determines that standard of care?
> A: The standard of care is determined by the Centers for Medicaid and Medicare – Medicare and Medicaid Services and subsequent state and facility based documents.
> Q: Okay. And so when we talk about the Centers for – CMS documents, we are talking about the State Operations Manual, Appendix J, right?
> A: We are talking about the CFR and Appendix J being used as an interpretive guide for surveyors to measure compliance with the CFR, the federal regulations.

In preparation for his deposition, Dr. Kastner read the deposition of Doctor LeBel. He is aware that Doctor LeBel is not a medical doctor.[4]

[4] Note for context: Dr. LeBel states she has a Ph.D. in psychology and is not a medical doctor. See LeBel depo. pp 75-76. Dr. LeBel states she is a "restraint reduction expert," not a restraint expert. LeBel depo. p. 77, 118. Although a licensed psychologist, Dr. LeBel last practiced clinical psychology in about 1990. LeBel depo. p. 79-80.

> A: [Dr. LeBel] is in the broad sense of the term, a doctor given that she has a Doctorate degree. But she is not a medical doctor, nor a physician. And therefore, would not be qualified to offer an opinion that fell under the scope of medical practice.
> Q: And that would include cause of death, would it not?
> A: Yes. It would.[5]

Page 48:

Dr. Kastner said in his opinion, Dr. LeBel's achievement of a Ph.D. would not qualify her to offer an opinion about causality, medical care, medical practice, or anything related to the practice of medicine.

Dr. Kastner explained that [redacted].[6]

[5] Note for context: Consistent with Dr. Kastner's opinion, Dr Lebel, in her deposition, p. 84, testified, as follows:

> Q: Tell me, do you have any medical training to determine the cause of death?
> A: No.
> Q: Have you previously been allowed to testify by any court of law to opine on an individual's cause of death?
> A: No.

[7] Note for context: This is consistent with the testimony of LPN Amanda Schmitt and Tyler Mattson. LPN Schmitt testified she previously had to remove Mr. Cains from his scheduled activities because she felt he was too overwhelmed to go to class, to his work area, or to go to Commons to eat. See Schmitt depo. pp. 7-8. Recall also that Mr. Cains behavioral episode began when, as described by Mr. Mattson, he appeared agitated in the lunchroom and was removed by taking him the bathroom and then having him sit in the lobby to calm down. See Mattson depo. pp. 92-93.

In the 2019 IPP, Mr. Cains was identified as an individual who had a long history of maladaptive behavior. A behavior and treatment plan was developed which focused on noncompliance and physical aggression. The medical clearance form reviewed which determined whether or not an individual can safely receive the behavioral services that are recommended for the individual in the IPP. It's simply an attestation by the physician that there is no health concern that contraindicates the use of any of the approved behavioral treatment that might be offered.

Dr. Kastner said Dr Hamid performed an evaluation specifically looking at whether there were any contraindications to the use of behavioral treatments or modalities that might be employed on behalf of Mr. Cains. Dr. Hamid found no contraindication to any of the five different behavioral techniques [restraints] that might be employed, including personal restraint. Dr. Kastner said Doctor Hamid determined that those five restraint techniques or devices could be safely used without qualification.
