Fact Sheet

Arkansas e-Link is leading an initiative to help make broadband services available to all Arkansans. This broadband expansion will help provide greater accessibility to telemedicine and distance & continuing education programs, especially to those in rural areas. Ultimately, increased access to broadband services helps communities grow and allows the state of Arkansas to remain competitive in the global economy.

About the Project

The University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences (UAMS) was awarded $102 million by the National Telecommunications Information Administration (NTIA) within the Department of Commerce to support a statewide $128-million broadband infrastructure that will serve community anchor institutions (CAIs) across Arkansas. As recipient of this award, Arkansas e-Link will expand, integrate, and enhance the capabilities of two major existing networks: the Arkansas Telehealth Network as overseen by Arkansas Telehealth Oversight & Management (ATOM) and the Arkansas Research and Education Optical Network (ARE-ON). Every county in Arkansas will benefit from this partnership of healthcare, higher education, public safety, and research organizations united in their needs for improved bandwidth and broadband-enabled equipment to better serve their communities.

Arkansas e-Link will utilize increased bandwidth and new equipment to support the platform for new and enhanced community services at 450+ statewide locations. As a product of this grant-funded initiative, the state's healthcare consumers, providers and researchers will have increased accessibility to real-time clinical consultations with remote specialists, virtual research collaboration and distance & continuing education. The state's publicly supported community college students will be able to enroll in distance education courses in collaboration with the state's four-year universities, use fiber-grade Internet connections at computers on public college or university campuses, take or teach online courses and join in research or studies with other students and teachers across the state. Arkansas e-Link unifies a diverse group of community institutions to significantly improve the state's broadband-enabled services to communities throughout Arkansas.
